"STEERSMAN" and "Acolus," two Scottish cycling scribes are responsible for a new cycling periodical which was born to-day (March 7th); I forget its name. I wish the gentlemen well, and hope that they may not drop much money on the venture. I may be wrong, but I have often regarded a wheel paper as a first-class thing to put money into, but a real hard thing to get it out of again, unless some enthusiast with money and scant wit should come along in time to save the editor of the "cycling weekly" from the asylum or the poorhouse. There is nothing personal in the above paragraph, so gentlemen with sensitive toes need not blame me if I have inadvertently trodden on them.

The roads are infernally awful around Edinburgh at present, and the cyclists are (like hen's teeth) few and far between. Ordinary bicycles are fast going out here, and it is now a toss up between a Cripper and a safety, with the odds in favor of the safety.

As there is absolutely no news in this Scotch capital, I think I could do worse than end this epistle right here.

"It was with mingled feelings" of relief and joy, that I saw that the Bulletin had become absorbed by the BICYCLING WORLD. Now that the twain have become one flesh, it is to be hoped that the combined efforts of Fourdrinier and Dean, with the aid of a loyal staff of correspondents, may not be without fruit. America has had an "abdomen full" of the little mushroom periodicals that, like Jonah's gourd, spring up with scant notice to prey upon the cycle trade. Gentlemen, don't. If you are going to give us a paper, do so, but let there be a little more news sandwiched in between the "puffs" than has been your custom. And such items as the following are daily growing in disrepute: "Kennedy-Child denies that he is about to become a benedict." "Harry Corey was the first man to climb Corey Hill, which immediately took his name and has kept it ever since." "John Wells wants to race Hal Greenwood up a mountain either for glory, or gate receipts." "W. A. Rowe is a scorch from Recordville." "Colonel Pope is no relation of the man that had a jubilee lately, and got a lot of nasty, uncomfortable cloth slippers." "Richard Howell is no relation of Howells, of Harper's Magazine fame. His name was given to him in recognition of the fact that howls are the only form of newspaper wail in which he gives voice to his personal grievances." "The Owl does not always sleep all day." "The rumor that the bicyclienne, Louise Armaindo, was again going to nauseate cycling America by her disgraceful performances is not without foundation."

THESE are the kind of items that have surfeited us and make us weary.

BUT there is an end to all things, and I must needs make one here. I made one before in this letter but wandered off again. There is such a thing as being as versatile as a kaleidoscope, but you must agree that such an abnormal development of the bump of versatility is seldom desirable. If I am a little on the kaleidoscope order you must excuse me on the ground that I am "built that way," and remember, "poeta nascitur non fit."

CLEVELAND.

"COMMODORE."

The local wheelmen are alive and stirring, though the riding season has not really opened. Notwithstanding the wretched condition of the roads, however, and the unpropitious weather there are a few enthusiastic riders who keep their wheels in daily use, and runs of from ten to twenty-five miles in the country are of common occurrence. Captain Chubb, of the Ramblers and the Star Wheel Club, and one or two others will start in the regular season with six hundred odd miles to their credit. There will be no racing track here this year, the Cleveland Athletic Park Association having found their venture very unprofitable. But road riding has taken a boom.

THE "Rover" style of safeties, or "jiggers," as they are popularly called here, are growing in favor in this section. Messrs. Collister and Huntington, two of the most prominent riders in Ohio, have adopted them, and their example has been followed by many lesser lights.

AN effort has been made to induce the Cleveland Base Ball Association to build a third of a mile track on their grounds, but they are not inclined to take hold of the matter this year, as their expenses in strengthening the team have been very heavy. It is more than likely, however, that we will have a new track next year on the base ball grounds, which are within a mile and a half of the centre of the city, and very convenient of access.

A NEW and promising club has just been organized, which will probably absorb one or both the old organizations within the next twelve months. It is known as the Forest City Ramblers, and was formally inducted into the bicycling fraternity on March 17, with a charter list of thirty-onemembers. It is their intention to lay out routes all over Northern Ohio, put up sign boards wherever they are needed, and collect information for an elaborate road book to be published during the coming winter. Its projectors are all earnest and indefatigable riders, and as there are a thousand wheelmen in the city, the prospects of the new club are excellent. The uniform will consist of gray pants, coat, shirt and cap and black stockings. By a unanimous vote of the charter members it was decided to make the Ramblers a League club, so the L. A. W. will have an influential addition to its ranks.

ANOTHER club gone to pieces! This time it is the Monmouth Wheelmen, of Red Bank. This was at one time a very strong, popular and pushing organization, and had a membership of about sixty-five. The members seemed to have been gradually losing their interest, however, for some time past, and it was finally thought advisable to disband. A new club will be formed in a short time, and none but "workers" will be taken as members.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

THE spring games of the Orange Athletic Club will be held 9 April.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to have Mountain avenue, from Belleville avenue to Montrose, macadamized.

QUITE a number of wheelmen intend to visit Baltimore in June, and in all probability many of them will go a-wheel.

THE South Orangites have decided to give their roads an overhauling. Hereafter an overseer of roads will be a fixture.

THE New Jersey Liberty Bill was signed by the Governor last week, and now our boys in South Jersey can "go for" the "road hogs."

THE bill authorizing the bonding of Bellville for $50,000, the entire amount to be used on road repairs, has passed the Senate, and only needs the signature of Governor Green to become a law.

"WHY is a store that doesn't advertise like Enoch Arden? Because it 'sees no sale from day to day.'" This old chestnut is respectfully submitted to those men who "can't afford to advertise."

CHAUNCEY L. S. WALKER, 63 years of age; residence, Newark, N. J.; mount, 42-inch pony Star; began riding, winter of '86-'7; rides nearly every day in half-decent weather; good for 50 to 75 miles a day at almost any time. How will this answer for the "ancient list" of No. 5550? Next!!

IT has been agreed between the former owner and the purchasers of building plots on the property formerly leased by the New Jersey Cycling and Athletic Association, that the Roseville track shall not be disturbed this season. It may be obtained on reasonable terms for tournaments or athletic games. Some of our local base-ball clubs will use the diamond during the season.

"WHY doesn't the 'Alphabetical Association' secure the Roseville track for some Saturday afternoon—say the second Saturday in May—and run a tournament?" This query was put by a prominent cyclist a few days ago, and it strikes me that the hint contained therein could be taken with advantage. There is an abundance of racing material in the clubs and some good sport could be furnished. And with the clubs located as they are—viz: in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Harlem, Westfield, and Passaic—it should be a comparatively easy matter to draw a crowd.

A SPLENDID chance for missionary work, on the part of a road improvement association, can be found in Jersey City. That city, with a population of about 160,000, has the most notoriously bad roads in this State. Just drop the amateur rule entirely; do away with anything like a racing board, and go in, heart and hand, for better roads, and in two years' time I predict that the membership of the L. A. W. will be nearer 20,000 than 10,000. Appoint a live committee in each State; instruct them to look up all the bad roads; let them study in what way they can best be improved, and the probable cost for same. Then let them join in with the horse-owners and together "ding-dong" at the proper authorities until they carry their point.

NEW ORLEANS.

"BL."

SNOW has no terrors for the Southern wheelmen. Two Sundays ago, while all Boston was buried 'neath a huge snow-drift, we New Orleans wheelmen, attired in our usual airy riding clothes, were skimming happily over the roads, the same as if there were no such thing as winter. On that particular Sunday, while all Boston was indoors hugging the grate, we boys were down the Gently roads at Schadwell's, rambling through fields of lettuce, cabbages, beets and artichokes—all nearly ready for the market; stopping, perhaps, to pluck a plump, juicy plum from off a well-loaded tree, or, perchance, a spray of sweet-smelling orange blossoms from this or that one of the two hundred trees which ornament the Schadwell field. Our sympathies go out to our brothers of the frozen North in the hour of their discontent; we're sorry for you, but then, such is the irony of fate.

WRITING of snow, orange blossoms, Sunny South, and the like, has put it into my head that if the League could contrive to have a mid-winter meeting somewhere in the South, it might prove a pleasant and taking feature with a goodly proportion of the membership. Say, for instance, if one was held in this city during Carnival week of next year, could not a special train for League members be made up, reduced rates, and better accommodation be obtained? The local wheelmen would, no doubt, do their share, and if each visitor were to bring his, or her, wheel, no doubt a combination of our Carnival pageants, orange blossoms, shell roads, entertainments, etc., would go towards making a pleasant epoch in the lives of the many Leaguers fortunate enough to be able to leave a wintry climate for a warming under the Southern sky, and if the League has any meeting on hand for that season of the year, this hasty and disjointed scribble may furnish some one with an idea capable of much elaboration. Next year our Carnival festivities are to be on a much grander scale than ever before. They will extend over a whole week instead of two days, as heretofore, and it is safe to say that whether there is a League excursion or not, no one will regret their visit, or censure me for thus early mentioning the subject.

A REGULAR quarterly meeting of the State Division is fixed for Monday, April 9th, 7-30 P. M., at the rooms of the New Orleans Bicycle Club. There will be no individual notices sent out this time, an official notice through the WORLD AND BULLETIN being considered sufficient; consequently it behooves the local contingent to make a note of the date, time and place, and to carry it in mind. There should be no repetition of the January adjournment for lack of a quorum.

MALCOMB S. GRAHAM, of the Louisiana Cycling Club, has formally announced his readiness to meet the N. O. B. C. crack, C. B. Guillotte, whenever the latter puts his deft in proper form, and now if Guillotte is really anxious and sincere in his belief that he can again allow the Louisiana boy a 5-minutes handicap, and beat him in 5 miles, he has the opportunity accorded him. There'll be some lively running if the two do come together; it is safe to bank on that.

A GIGANTIC out-door festival is to occur during next month (April), being arranged by some of the city's most prominent ladies for the benefit of a local cause, and the wheelmen have been asked to lend their aid to the extent of indulging in a tilting (or ring) tourney. The fact is but little known as yet, but so soon as the arrangements are perfected, ye gallant cyclist will get him a wooden stick, yeapt a lance, hang up some rings, and by diligent practice endeavor, ere the eventful day comes round, to be certain of a sure eye, a steady hand, and speed enough to get through on time. May there be a big field of starters, and may every last one of 'em win lots of glory and experience—as they surely will!

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

THE first meeting of the delegates to the Associated Cycling Clubs of Philadelphia was held last Tuesday evening, at the club house of the Philadelphia Bicycle Club. The representation was as follows: Philadelphia, W. R. Tucker and Edward Burt; Germantown, T. H. Wright and Frank Harris; Pennsylvania, W. D. Supplee and John A. Wells; Century, Thos. Hare and P. S. Collins; Tioga, Geo. D. Gideon and A. Howell; South End, S. Jackson, Jr., and J. L. Edwards. These gentlemen constitute the Board of Delegates. The objects of the association are: First—To encourage friendly relations between the wheeling clubs of Philadelphia, and to facilitate united action in matters affecting their interests. Second—To defend the rights of wheelmen, and to promote cycling interests in general, and local cycling interests in particular. A constitution and by-laws were adopted, and the following gentlemen elected to serve until January 31st, 1889: President, W. R. Tucker; Vice President, W. D. Supplee; Secretary-Treasurer, J. R. L. Edwards. After considerable discussion it was decided not to have a general run to the L. A. W. meet at Baltimore next June. The association adjourned to meet at the Germantown club house in May.

SPEAKING of Kolb reminds me that he and John C. Dotter, late of the late Ariel Wheel Club of Reading, will probably be seen in a novelty on the Lancaster pike this season. The latter has brought the Rucker tandem attachment, on which he and Will used to cavort, along with him, and Kolb proposes getting an open-head machine for the rear wheel. Briefly, as your better-posted readers are aware, the concern consists of two large wheels of the ordinary bicycle (from which the backbones and trailers have been removed) connected by an elliptical weldless steel tube, which has a universal motion knuckle-joint just forward of the rear wheel. It goes without saying that two experienced men can make it warm for any would-be scorcher, and the machine is a perfect demon on hills, both up and down. In fact, coasting must be tabooed, the speed is so terrific if the hill is of any length. I wonder that this type has not become more popular, especially for touring. There is perfect immunity from headers, and the luggage-carrying capacity is very great. Of course, like the Siamese twins, they must always "go together," and the thing requires a careful man on the rear wheel.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Pennsylvania Club will be called to take action in reference to the proposed improvement and extension of their new club house this spring. They are very much cramped for wheel room, and must arrange for future additions to the roll.

OVER five thousand people crowded the Elite Rink last night to witness the closing scenes in the six days', four-hours-per-day, race between Louise Armaindo and Noremac and Vint, the pedestrians. The combined scores of these two were counted against Miss Armaindo's, and they started in at a lively gait to increase the lead of six laps for the five nights. Knapp began pacing Miss Armaindo at ten o'clock, and as long as he was on the track she gained on the pedestrians; but it was too lively a pace to hold, and at 11.30, when the race ended, the pedestrians had won by a combined score of 328 miles, 22 laps, against 326 miles, 18 laps, for Armaindo.

ON the last evening of the professional races, week before last, Whittaker rode two exhibition laps from a flying start, by request. According to three stop watches he rode these at the remarkable rate of 2.23 3-4 for the mile, one of the laps being ridden in about twelve seconds.

THE loss of Mr. Isaac Thompson, of the Pennsylvania Club, who died from blood poisoning, resulting from a splinter of wood being driven into his foot, will be keenly felt by all his fellow-members. His name was one of the oldest on the club roll.

DETROIT.

"TRUE TANGENT."

DETROIT being a lively cycling centre, one would naturally think you ought to have had a regular correspondent here long ago, however, it is never too late to mend. The proposed new constitution for the League has excited considerable interest in this locality, and is generally received with favor. There will probably be quite a good representation from Michigan at the convention in Baltimore. Among those intending to go may be mentioned, Chief Consul J. H. Johnson, B. J. Holcomby and C. H. Smith, of Detroit, and J. E. Beal of Ann Arbor.

THE rivalry between the racing teams of the State promises to be more earnest this year than ever before, and Detroit confidently expects to have a team fully able to successfully meet all comers.

THE question of a successor to Chief Consul Johnson is already being discussed, and as Mr. Johnson positively declines a re-election, several names have been mentioned for the office. Although there is a strong desire on the part of some to have the office located in Detroit, yet many are of the opinion that Mr. J. E. Beal of Ann Arbor is the man who should have the position. Mr. Beal has faithfully served the Division in the capacity of Secretary-Treasurer for nearly three years, is a thorough gentleman, well posted, has time and means at his disposal, and commands the respect and confidence of all who know him. The only thing that can be urged against Mr. Beal's candidacy is the fact that he does not reside in Detroit. He has surely earned the promotion, and will be able, I think, to be of more service to the Division than any other man that can be elected.

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

CHIEF CONSUL BREWSTER got back from New York, and is brim-full of news regarding the Board of Officers' meeting. He had a nice trip, and spoke encouragingly of the coming season as being the most prosperous the League and cycling has yet seen. The settlement of the Wells' difficulty is favorably spoken of on all sides, and League members are happy that this bone of contention is settled for good, as they do not think that Mr. Wells will make the unwise break to run for representative again.

THE next entertainment of the Missouri Bi. Club takes place Thursday, April 5, and will be a "Fool Party." This will be the final entertainment of the season. The arrangements are as yet kept dark, but will be very complete, and all that attend will have an enjoyable time.

ONE of the hardest League workers in the states is Ed. L. Mockler, the gentlemanly Secretary of the Cycle Club, and representative of the 5th district. Ed. is always on the look out for new members, and through his individual exertions, secured a large part of the present members of his club.

THE proprietor of the Western Hotel, the League Hotel, at Ballwin, has had a League Hotel sign painted and hung in a prominent position in front of his hostelry. This is the first sign of the kind in Missouri, and is a very significant sign of the times—more will be sure to follow. No more will the cry be heard, "Not an official sign in the State."

THE Cycle Club will have to vacate its present quarters at the end of the present month, as the proprietors of the Natatorium require their rooms, and the upstairs hall as well, for the convenience of bathing. They held a meeting Monday, March 19, and a committee was appointed to secure quarters, and the club will either build or rent such a house as its present large membership demands.

CONSUL PARSONS, of Edina, Mo., has made arrangements with the Independent, their local paper, to publish improved road articles and is paying for it out of his own pocket at a special low rate. This is exceedingly liberal on Mr. P.'s part, and he deserves the thanks of the whole League for his efforts. He writes, that the paper would have inserted the articles free if they were contained in plates. This is a pointer for League officers: Have some standard road articles electrotyped as early as possible.

THE riding season opened up here in earnest Sunday, March 18. The day was beautiful, and with a temperature of about 62 degrees, made riding very comfortable. The Cycle Club had a run called to Ballwin, twenty-one miles away, to which nineteen of their members responded. For the initial run of the season the Ballwin run is decidedly tough, and some of the tender feet were rather tired after getting there. The Missouri Club had no regular run announced, as Captain Lewis thought the roads would not be in a rideable condition on account of the recent heavy rains. The Manchester road was simple perfection, however, and three of the Missouri's men joined the run. The following took part in it: Messrs. Wylie, Bates, Clark, Lee, Husck, Jordan, Carlin, Klipstein, Hildebrand, Mockler, Holm, Sanders, Wagner, Greenwood, Tivy, Mason, Lindell, Bob Gordon and Oellein. On the way back to the city the party stopped at Son of a Gun Hill, and saw Greenwood climb it twice. Others tried it, but all failed. If Hal does not make Wells weary, then we are much mistaken.

THE Board of Officers of the Missouri Division held a meeting Tuesday, March 21, at the Missouri's club house. After discussing various plans to increase the League membership it was decided to print a circular setting forth fully the objects of the League, and its claims for patronage. This will be distributed among the unattached, and some good is expected to result therefrom. At this meeting C. C. Brewster read a circular which was addressed to all the Chief Consuls, relative to their bringing before the Division Board the financial status of the League. As the National body will not receive any funds until June, 1889, and the Executive Committee having decided to pay off all the League's debts at once with the balance now on hand, it will be seen that the League would be without its working capital, and to cover this the division decided to issue a call for voluntary subscriptions. It is to be hoped that members will at once respond liberally. If each member contributes 50 cents ample funds will be secured; the League will be on its feet, and with money in its treasury will not have to plead poverty to every call for aid.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

SINCE the ratification of the consolidation of the Brooklyn and Ilderan Clubs the combination have done little beside talk "house," and if the views of the club architect are carried out IT will be second to none in the world. The site will be near their present quarters, on either Hanson place or South Portland avenue, and the estimated cost is near twenty-five thousand dollars. The combined membership is very large, and should approach one hundred and fifty by the opening of the riding season.

THE blizzard is a chestnut by this time, but I should like to call attention to the fact that it caught Czar Corbin down beyond Jamaica and kept him there two days as a sort of retaliatory dispensation for having refused any concession to wheelmen on his road, again showing the allwise justice of Providence, and that the very forces of nature are on the side of the true and the beautiful.

APPROPOS of this matter of transportation on Long Island, I should like to call the attention of those in power to what I said last week concerning legal redress. It seems to me that there could hardly be a more fit occasion for the exercise of our combined resources. There exists here a crying evil, having under its influence a large proportion of the League membership in this State; we have shown what can be done in the way of legislation; are we to submit quietly to being imposed upon, with no hope of a change, merely because of a peculiar personal bias existing in the mind of one man?

IT doesn't look as though the opening record to Babylon would be made this week. I know of several who intended to try it on Sunday, March 12, but were prevented by various reasons, although the roads would have permitted it at that time. Babylon wasn't heard from between the Sunday night of the storm and Thursday, being completely snowed in, or rather, out.

IT may be that the proposed century run to Philadelphia will have to be resolved into an ordinary every-day two-days' run, because of the existence of a strong doubt of the ability of so large a crowd to do the distance, but until a more complete expression of opinion is heard the original design will be adhered to. Any word of action taken should be sent to Mr. L. A. Clarke, 25 Broad street, New York City. That gentleman desires me to say that those clubs heard from already, are enthusiastic for a run of some kind, in a body. All clubs in the vicinity of New York, up the Hudson, in Connecticut or elsewhere, who desire to tour from New York to Philadelphia on the way to the League meet at Baltimore, leaving New York on Saturday, June 16th, to send word as early as possible.

Bi. News prints the following from a correspondent, and does not even blink: "I can go the same hill on a rear-driving, and putting feet on rests and folding my arms, let the machine go its own path in two miles, which on a favorable day it will do in four minutes." Even we in America have the greatest respect for the Monumental gall of this gentle folder of arms.

Not So Simple But Fact.

Marion, Ind., Feb. 22d, 1888.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

"LONDON W." has taken to canoeing. Don't think from this that he has given up cycling, for he has not. But hereafter he will divide the joys to be gotten out of this life between canoeing and cycling. He has kindly invited us to share the aquatic joys. We have accepted, and we are now preparing ourselves in a neighboring natatorium for the ordeal we expect to pass through.

We hear that Woodside has changed his mount. Instead of the Rudge he will hereafter propel a New Rapid.

A word to the wise: The bicycle thief has "broken out" again. Look out for him and put him where he belongs.

LYNN comes to the front and scouts the idea that Crocker can get away with Rowe at any distance, be it long or short.

We understand Jack Rogers was in the Hub the early part of this week. We feel slighted—he did not favor us as usual.

EDITOR CORSON of the Star Advocate warns us to be prepared for a surprise. All right, Corson, we are braced. Let her go!!

THE Sunday Item of Philadelphia quotes the League Official Gazette. We would like to know where that paper is published.

The professional championship of Australia is held by Webard, who lately beat Clarke two out of three races for £25 a side and the championship.

It seems that Engleheart, in his great race with Rowe on Easter Monday, will ride an ordinary machine and not a Safety, as originally supposed.

It is quite possible that the "genial" A. K.-Child may blossom out in the bicycle business again. We understand "negotiations" are pending somewhere.

Puck suggests the following, and we know that Puck will be glad that we indorse the sentiment. It says: "Consolation race—women—moral, go and take a header."

THEY cannot get Safety bicycles down in Rhode Island fast enough, and this in face of the fact that we were told a year or two ago that the Safety craze was a passing "fad."

IN this issue we present a cut of the ladies' bicycle, and a description of same. This form of frame is a novelty in this country, though in England it has been in use some time.

WE should not be a bit frustrated if we were to hear that Pack Prince and A. CaeMurdy were to run a race for $2,527.235.29 a side. There is nothing like big money and square racing.

A GERMAN paper with an unpronounceable name has discovered that the "Roadsculler" is a machine for riding on land as well as water. We have to go to Germany to learn lots of things.

THERE is no time like the present. We address this remark to all riders who have second-hand machines for sale. We would respectfully suggest as a medium the columns of this paper.

"SENATOR" MORGAN is trying to revive the defunct and decayed Professional Union. We doubt whether the "Senator" will make much headway as his field for securing membership is very limited.

THE dispute as to who is the best hill climber is likely to widen into a challenge from the Missouri Club to the Pennsylvania Club for a road race between teams from these two representative clubs.

THE British family of Cyclist's Journals has lately had an addition, and they call it The Scottish Cyclist. We welcome the new arrival, and hope that it will soon be as fat and thriving as its elder brethren.

MR. PAGE does not admire Mr. Prial's notion that bicycles should be carried on the horse cars of New York City. We don't say the following to curry favor with Mr. Page, but we think Page is right—for once!

WE came pretty nearly having a six-days' indoor tournament in Boston this month, but the unfortunate experience of the professionals in Philadelphia discouraged the management from making the experiment.

RICHARD HOWELL calls Woodside a "self-styled champion," and offers to ride him a mile race and give him a "reasonable" start. What Mr. Howell would call "reasonable" is an open question. It might arouse discussion.

THE racing costume, as affected by certain racing men in Australia, is frowned upon by the modest antipodes as being "indecent." We have passed through the same qualms here, but utility seemed to get the best of outraged feelings.

PAGE, of the Spectator, has grown a foot because in the Overman Catalogue his paper has been put in alongside the World, and other amateur efforts. We are not proud, Page. We can stand it, but don't presume too much, you know.

"TWINKLER," of Detroit, writes us a few notes as follows: Lovely weather here and good roads, which are duly appreciated by our wheelmen.—Capt. Jacobsen of the Detroit Club has returned from New Orleans.—Palmer Avenue will be paved with Asphalt. Next?

AT last the cycling organizations are turning their attention to a useful and legitimate end. Road Improvement Associations are springing up in all parts of this country and England. This is as it should be, and every cyclist should give his moral, as well as financial aid to all kindred movements.

WE want to go to Mexico, as we learn that they never have wind, rain, or snow, and that the roads are smooth and level, and hard as a board. Just think of reading such an item as this sitting in the shadow of a 16-foot snow bank, and in a climate as frigid, cold, and crushing as the sarcasms of Mr. Page. We mean Mr. Page of St. Louis.

THE business and professional men of Louisville, Ken., are seriously looking as to the availability of the cycle, as a machine, for the despatch of their business. They say if the city fathers will only give them good streets, there are many of these professional men who would avail themselves of this improved method of locomotion.

THE L. A. W. Division of Rhode Island has voted a $50 subscription to aid the National body. A paper for individual subscription was also opened. The Division will discountenance road racing, and it also passed resolutions condemning fast and reckless riding past horses and pedestrians, and other careless and discourteous conduct on the road.

THE cyclists turned the tables on the cow-boys at the 6-days' tournament in London, which came to a conclusion last Saturday. The score stood at the close of the racing, 891 miles for the cow-boys, and 892 miles for the cyclists. Beardsley was taken violently ill just before the finish, but by mutual consent a man named Lane, hailing from Nebraska, replaced the plucky Beardsley. Whether it was drugs or too much riding that knocked Beardsley out, report sayeth not. We would suggest a return match so that two out of three could be credited to the horsemen or to the wheelmen.

LADIES' BICYCLES.

"BUT what shall we do for the indispensable sex? For them there are tricycles, which are in all respects practicable on the road, only subject to the objection of increased size and weight, and also of a higher cast, which may be somewhat reduced hereafter by a larger demand, although the third wheel must always make the machine inferior to the bicycle. If any daring person inquires why ladies cannot ride the bicycle, he must address the inquiry not to Nature, which has interposed no objection, but to the same irrational conventionalism which has decreed to the female equestrian an ungraceful, inconvenient side saddle and a trailing robe that make her helpless while in her seat, and endanger her life as soon as unseated. True, she rides, but in spite of these obstacles—by dint of her wit and innate gracefulness; so she walks—on narrow soles and French heels. Give her—or rather, let her dare to take—for the occasion, not that terrible Bloomer, but some modification of sensible gymnasium or short dress, and she will quickly adapt it to satisfy all requirements of delicacy and grace, and will thus be able to mount this swift steed now awaiting her—a steed which fits well enough the Nature woman, but cannot make itself to fit skirt-civilization. The male biped will not willingly leave her behind on his multipedal steed, nor will she consent to be left."

This extract from an article of mine in Lippincott's Magazine for November, 1879—it really was in 1779, but out of regard for conventionalism, and in the certainty that your technical proof-reader would not allow the correct date to pass him, I have written it a century late, it being at least as long ago as 1779, measured on the cycling cycle—recurs to me just now. At that time, I had never trodden the pedal and knew considerably less of the subject than I have learned since; yet I may claim to have been a scer as to Femina and the two-wheeler, although I must confess I erred in looking to change in dress and not in machine, which has managed in part to "unmake itself to fit civilization." The Mme. Armaindo business is on record, without making a real exception; yet among my memories its a tale by a perfectly undoubted observer, who once saw a young girl slip out of a sumptuous suburban Boston villa and mount and ride away on the adulterated big bicycle, dressed in propria que maribus, and clearly enjoying her stolen and dreadfully naughty sweets.

The first step towards emancipation of woman from her exclusion from cycling was the discovery that she not only could but must use a saddle, and the throwing away of the stupid "seat" in all its forms. With the decree that "the loop frame must go," at first seemed to come a new obstacle, in the central tube. The first maker to depress this tube below and out of the way of skirts was Singer, if my recollection is right, and for a year or two past there has been no lack of tandems which our skirted dears could manage. From any tricycle of "Cripper" type, and from any tandem with a depressed perch, there was only one step lacking to a bicycle which did not need to be ridden astride. The present small-wheeled type of bicycle, allowing the connecting frame to be shaped almost ad lib., offered the opportunity, but there is no originality in the Washington machine (if I understand that), for ladies' bicycles of this type are more than a year old in England. [True.—Ed.]

As to ease of driving and managing, this must clearly have the advantage over the best tricycles, but I still have doubt as to the comparative neatness, although I note, with pleasure, the testimony from Washington as to the grace and apparent ease shown by the ladies who have already tried it. A tired, panting, perspiring, disheveled, and muddled woman, per cycling, is an object hardly more comfortable to see than to be, to speak plainly; and, to me, nothing seems more inappropriate and reprehensible than any racing or "century" or "record" work by women. To ride cycles well and really successfully, women must ride with both real and apparent ease, and without bedraggling with dirt and grease. How far they have been able to do this is the cycling point on which I am least informed, and hence I do not mean to imply that they cannot and do not comply with the utmost demands in this respect. But the demands are plain, and it is only within a year or two back that machines have been offered to women which began to dispense with the old abominable weight. To offer a woman, at best handicapped with a form of clothing whose impediments a man (bothered if the skirt of his winter overcoat wraps in the wind about his knees) does not realize, a clumsy wheelbarrow of a tricycle, weighing 100, 95, 90, 85, 80, or even 75 pounds, while the male rider, clad in trimest suit, goes off gayly on his bike, thinking himself half killed if it weighs over 40 pounds, is not only an outrage per se, but is offering a woman a stone to eat while men have soft biscuit. Woman simply cannot ride such crocks as have been offered to them. I trust better conditions are now at hand for them.

JULIUS WILCOX.

HOW TO PURCHASE A SECOND-HAND MACHINE.

We think a few hints on this most important subject, will be most timely for it is just about now, that the market for second-hand machines is very active. "Oscar," a writer in the Bicycling News, gives some excellent points, and we gladly boil down his ideas for the benefit of our readers: "No machine that has not ball bearings to both wheels should be purchased in this time of progress. A cone bearing back wheel is always troublesome. Though the cones be the best, they in their tightest have generally a little play, and over rough roads are a source of misery to the rider and his companions by the infernal rattling which proceeds from that horrid back wheel. Ball bearings are the only remedy, and the absolute comfort of the rider depends on having a ball back wheel."

The next point is the running of the machine. To test this the left foot should be placed under back wheel, the head caught hold of, and thus the front wheel raised off the ground and gently turned. The wheel ought to run smoothly without noise, and should a loud ominous clicking or grinding be heard, it may be known that the forks are not properly fitted to the bearings, and cause friction. If the wheel runs stiffly, enquiry should be made as to its cause, for it is only natural that the seller will have the machine in the best possible condition. However, the running being satisfactory, the rim of the front wheel should be carefully watched as it turns. If the wheel deviate from its course, and wobble from side to side, it is out of true. I should advise all novices to leave such a machine alone, or else make strict enquiry into the cause, as it is often the case that the wheel has been buckled and simply tinkered up to sell. A wheel will always rise and fall as it turns, and no notice should be taken of this.

The next point is what is termed play. The mode of testing this is to hold machine by the head, take rim in hand, and shake wheel from side to side. If there be any rattle, then that is play. Seldom or ever is play present with ball bearings, but should that be the case, request can be made that the bearings be tightened up, and if the rattling continues, it may be settled there is something radically wrong—the ball worn or perhaps one gone. The back wheel should be tried in same manner as to trueness and play.

One of the greatest points of a machine which is generally overlooked, even by cyclists of some standing, is the trueness of the back wheel with the front. To test this the machine can be turned upside down—that is, the head and saddle rested on the ground—the backbone brought straight with rim of front wheel, and the back wheel in this position must be exactly in line with front, and if at an angle, which is very often the case, the bicycle is hardly worth purchasing. The head should also be closely examined, the screw loosened, the backbone taken out, and the centres (that is, the cones or points) well looked to, and notice taken of any wear, etc. All bolts should be tested, spokes consecutively tried, and looseness taken note of, as the rigidity of the machine greatly depends on their tension. Pedals are not generally considered in the stability of a machine. They are of three different kinds—ball, cone, and plain. Balls are, of course, the best, but it is seldom they are given with a cheap second-hand mount. Cone and plain are about equal as to their durability, but the latter to my thinking, are the easiest running, not being subject to locking as with cone.

THE LADIES' DART BICYCLE.

SMITH NATIONAL CYCLE CO., WASHINGTON, D. C.

A GREAT deal of interest and curiosity has been evinced by our readers of both sexes as to "what kind of a machine the ladies' bicycle is." We take pleasure in presenting this week a cut of the machine and a description thereof.

A glance at the above will show how the lines of the machine closely follow those of many of the Cripper style of tricycle, allowing for a natural and proper disposition of the skirts. The wheels are 30 and 24 inches. Instead of mounting from behind as ordinarily, the machine is mounted as follows: Mounting is accomplished while the machine is standing still and from either side. The pedal on which the "mounting foot" is to be placed is brought forward so that the crank is about parallel with the ground. By stepping over the reach with one foot on the ground and one foot on the pedal, which is forward of the axle, the rider is in position to mount. The handles are then grasped and the rider lifts himself by the foot on the pedal into the saddle; this movement also starts the machine ahead. A little practice soon gives anyone the hang of it. Dismounting is accomplished by stepping off forward from pedal nearest the ground, and when the lowest extremity is reached, is within four inches of the ground. Weight, all on, 38 pounds; price, with balls to head, pedals, wheels, and crank journals, $135.00. We also present below a cut of the Dart tandem bicycle.

The lady rides in front, and it is not necessary that she should know anything about balancing a bicycle, as the steering and balancing is all done by the man on the rear seat. The introduction of these two machines makes it possible for a lady to enjoy the pleasures of riding the narrow gauge type, and we have no doubt but that they will have a future. The machines will be on the market in about four weeks, and their advent will be duly announced in the advertising pages of this paper. The price of the tandem, balls all round is $200. The weight of the tandem is 70 pounds, all on.

"NICELE," of Cleveland, Ohio, writes us as follows: An item for the "Chestnut" column. The oldest member of the Star Wheel Club of Cleveland is not quite as aged as he will be after a while, but he is in his 43d year, and is entitled to enter the chestnut ranks. He has been an active rider but 3 1-2 years. In 1885 he made an estimated distance of 2400 miles, including one century run. During 1886, by cyclometer measurement, he covered 3401 miles, making 18 runs of over 50 miles. Last year, by cyclometer measurement, he rode 4749 miles, making 18 runs of over 50 miles, including one of 102 7-8. He tied for first place in a number of club runs! [If this keeps on, we shall begin to think that the "youngsters" will have no show at the long-distance records.—Ed.]

No. 4361, writing from Memphis, Tenn., says: "Speaking of aged riders, let me present my champion. I know of a rider who is forty-six years of age, and I'll wager a ticket to the League Meet that he can do a hundred miles on the road every day in the week, and attend church Sunday night by way of pastime. He has several times made his century with the youngsters, and he was not the first to cry "quit" on those occasions. Perhaps some of the boys who attended the Ohio Meet in '86 will remember this same old man. No. 5550 suggests a race at the League Meet. Not a bad idea by any means. Just get up the race, and I'll warrant that Tennessee will have a man not far from the front." [We scarcely think that a man of 46 should be classed as an "old" man.—Ed.]

We made a mistake last week in printing the number of the Kingston Knitting Co. as 17 Kingston street. Our readers will please take notice; the correct number is No. 27 Kingston street, and address their communications accordingly. This company make a very excellent line of tights for athletes, which are very popular among sporting people. It will be worth your while to send for their catalogue.

TOURMASTER.—W. S. Bomberger, Hagerstown, Md.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION.—A. B. Barkman, Chairman, No. 608 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Inquiries from members regarding roads, routes, cycles, sundries or general information, will receive prompt attention when accompanied by name, address, and league number, legibly written, together with STAMP FOR RETURN POSTAGE.

FOREIGN MARSHAL, Joseph Pennell, care of S. S. Morgan, Old Broad St., London, England, can be applied to for information regarding roads and routes abroad by intending tourists. Always enclose stamp.

THE following on road racing is from the pen of the Secretary of the C. T. C. It is written in advocacy of the movement on the part of the N. C. U. to suppress this feature of our sport: "That road racing, if permitted, promises to end in the permanent curtailment of the liberties of the rational cyclist no thoughtful reader will deny for a moment, and it, therefore, behooves every delegate of the Union who values the liberties of the majority above the selfish claims of a small and irresponsible section of quasi-"scorchers," to be in his place, or, at any rate, to register his vote in favor of relegating these gentlemen to the cinder path, where, in the best interests of cycling, it is to be hoped they will remain."

THE Rhode Island Division is the first to respond to the call for a popular subscription by voting $50 from its treasury and starting a subscription paper for additional funds. This Division has very nearly reached the total of membership it had last year, and bids fair to make a good showing the coming year.

CHIEF CONSUL MEALY, of Maryland, is out with a recruiting circular, and hopes to have every wheelman in the State a member of the League when the organization knocks at its front door next June.

THE Massachusetts and Rhode Island Road Book is being sent out. It follows the general style of the New York book, though it has fewer pages. The routes are carefully noted, and many through routes are taken from other books. The book will be of great value to tourists, and it marks another good thing done by the L. A. W.

WITH this month closes the first quarter of the League year, and now, for three months, applicants should remit $1.75 for initiation fees and dues.

WE are receiving not a few applications for membership from those who allowed their membership to lapse. Those who are indignant with us for refusing their renewals at this late date, we respectfully refer to the rules. If they can move the rules, which dictate our action, they will find the Secretary very pliant. The man who pays the penalty for his laches with easy grace is a being whom we have a great admiration for at this time.

LEAGUE clubs may be represented by proxy at the Baltimore Constitutional Convention. Representatives from these clubs may cast up to fifty votes. Thus will the influence of League clubs be felt in the reorganization scheme.

FROM MR. SHRIVER.

Editor L. A. W. Bulletin:—Criticism is always easier than construction, and it would seem especially ungracious to criticize the work of the Re-organization Committee, which has been so carefully and well done. Yet I cannot pass without a word of protest the provision which would perpetuate in our proposed new constitution the pernicious system of filtering both power and responsibility through several hands, by means of electing one set of men, who are to elect another set of men, who are finally to choose the Executive officers. This sort of things has always either broken down in practice or has produced evil if really enforced. Instead of having the members elect a Division Board, who shall elect a National Assembly, who shall elect a President, etc., I for one can see no reason why there should not be a direct election of all these officers on the same original ballot.

One other alteration I would suggest. That we have sufficient independence to ignore arbitrary State lines, and form our Divisions in accordance with community of interests. Certainly it would be better if we should make, in our microcosm, the arrangement which would really be of advantage in the practical subdivision; and so far as wheelmen are concerned, establish a State of Manhattan. How far the same rule would apply in other sections is something to be determined by local interests; but there can be no reason why wheelmen living all their life under the same circumstances, but happening to have their residences on opposite sides of the Hudson River, should belong to separate divisions. On the other hand there is every reason why New York City and Brooklyn, Westchester, Richmond, Kings and Queens Counties in New York State, and Hudson, Essex and Union Counties in New Jersey, should be under the same Chief Consul and local Board, and so hold the same union in their cycling life as they already have in their commercial life. Under such an arrangement, Suffolk County, forming the eastern end of Long Island, would naturally be annexed to Connecticut, and all New York State above Peekskill would form a division by itself. E. J. SHRIVER.

IOWA DIVISION.

The spring meeting of the Board of Officers of the Iowa Division L. A. W. will be held at Cedar Falls on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 20th and 21st, 1888. On account of the postponement of the fall meet last year, it has been decided to make this a general meet of all members of the Division. An attractive programme will be arranged for the entertainment of all who attend by the wide awake wheelmen of Cedar Falls, and it is desired to make this the largest gathering of wheelmen ever held in the State. I sincerely trust that all League members, also unattached riders, will make their arrangements to attend.

FRATERNALLY,
ROBERT L. THOMPSON, C. C. Iowa Div.
Muscatine, Iowa, March 24th, 1888.

CALIFORNIA DIVISION.

The annual business meeting of the California Division, L. A. W., was held in Mystic Hall, Red Men's Building, 320 Post street, San Francisco, on Friday evening, Feb. 24th, 1888, Chief Consul Welch presiding. There were present 25 members in person and 12 by proxy. Minutes of last annual meeting and of the Santa Cruz meeting were read and approved. The Chief Consul then asked to be excused from reading his annual report at length, and gave a brief sketch of its principal points instead, promising to have it printed in full for distribution. The Secretary-Treasurer then read his report:

To the Officers and Members of the California Division, L. A. W.: Gentlemen—Herewith I submit the report of the Finance Committee, as follows:

and from persons who have moved to the State since 1st March, 1887, and whose addresses have not yet been furnished me by the Secretary-Editor, 13.

On the 7th inst. a circular to local Consuls was sent out from the office of the Chief Consul urging them to see to the forwarding of renewals from their respective localities. The reports received from some of these officials, together with the large renewal list of the Bay City Wheelmen, which is not included in the figures given above, as well as other renewals known to have been sent from this city, give us reason to hope that when the lists close on 1st March next, we will stand credited with no smaller membership than that with which we closed the year 1887.

The renewal season, it must be borne in mind, occurs at a most unfavorable time of the year, when there is the least activity among cyclists, and when they are most infrequently brought into communication with each other. This condition is general everywhere, and has been recognized, as you are aware, in the scheme of re-organization, which contemplates changing the expiration of the League year and the renewal season to the summer months.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
N. A. ROBINSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

Chairman Ireland presented the Racing Board, reciting the business transacted at the various meetings during the year, the championships established, and the result of those contested, with the records passed upon and allowed.

Mr. Houseworth of the Committee on Rights and Privileges was happy to report that his committee had been called upon to resist no encroachments or the privileges of cyclists, and that its work for the year had been confined to canvassing the vote of election of 1887.

The completed road book was presented as the report of the Touring Board.

New business being next order, Mr. C. C. Moore, on behalf of the Oak Leaf Wheelmen, invited the Division to meet at Stockton on 14th July next.

On motion the invitation was accepted.

The Chief Consul was appointed to appoint a Committee consisting of one representative from each cycling club in the State to co-operate with the Oak Leaf Wheelmen in arranging for the annual meet.

On motion adjourned to meet at Stockton on July 4, 1888.

N. A. ROBINSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

LOUISIANA MEMBERS, ATTENTION!

The regular quarterly meeting of this Division will be held Monday, April 10th, 7:30 P. M. at the rooms of the New Orleans Bicycle Club, No. 178 Baronne street. As several matters will be brought up, on which is desired a full and representative vote and opinion, the punctual attendance of each and every member is respectfully urged.

RICHIE G. BETTS,
Secretary-Treasurer Louisiana Division.
New Orleans, March 21, 1888.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

We offer them to the trade and clubs as SOMETHING NEW, and invite all to examine them.

Knee Tights, Full Tights, Trunks and Leotards.

We understand, first of all, these garments must be elastic, so they will not bind or impede the free use of the limbs, and to stand the strain brought upon them. This can only be accomplished in Ribbed Goods. For this reason we make all of our best goods with a FINE RIB, ELASTIC AND STRONG, and from worsted made by the best manufacturers in the country, of fine combed wool of a long, elastic staple, which gives it Elasticity and Strength.

We make all of the above goods in three different qualities.

Ladies' Jersey-Fitting Tricycle Pants. A New Thing

GET THE BEST!

The Standard Cyclometer.

Greatly Improved for 1888.

Simplest and Best Instrument ever Invented.

The Reasons Why:

It has stood the test for accuracy.

It has proved itself the strongest and best made cyclometer on the market.

It has been in use several years, and its merits are well established among wheelmen.

Can be read from the saddle, and used with or without the hub lantern.

A positive and continuous action, making it reliable in every respect.

REGISTERS 2500 MILES.

We have given the manufacture of the Cyclometer careful investigation and study, with a resolute determination to remedy all defects, and at last we pace upon the market an instrument that seems absolutely perfect in all its workings. We furnish a certificate of accuracy with all instruments. In ordering give size and make of wheel, also size of axle, and length of axle between the hub shoulders inside. Price, with balance weight and lantern attachment, $10.00.

DIFFICULT REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

Great DURABILITY, reasonable LIGHTNESS, exact INTERCHANGEABILITY OF PARTS, and BEAUTY OF OUTLINE are, in our opinion, first among the requisites of any bicycle, of whatever grade; accordingly, for all parts of this, we have taken precisely the same qualities and tempers of steel that we use in the corresponding parts of the Expert; and there is no metal but steel in either machine.

We are ready to put it in competition, in appearance and under actual service, with many machines of higher price for which much more is claimed.

OF COURSE NOT.

The riding public ask why the makers of Victor Cycles don't advertise a list of second-hand bicycles. It is generally the case that when a maker has a hard time getting rid of his stuff he will trade the said stuff for old wheels, and we suggest that when makers are found largely in this business it is a strong evidence that the wheel they make is not "appreciated."

The makers of the Victors are happy to say that riders do appreciate their wheel, and hence that they are enabled to dispose of the wheels for coin. The reason we do not trade for other maker's wheels is because

ABOUT INCOMES.

A great many young men (and old ones, too, for that matter) in possession of only moderate incomes, find it inconvenient, and sometimes impossible, to draw upon their incomes to the extent of a hundred or two, yet they would like to own a bicycle or tricycle, and in fact actually need the exercise that cycling gives. I make a specialty of supplying the Cycling Wants of persons with moderate incomes, by selling Columbia Cycles, as well as the Rudge or Second-hand Wheels on small weekly or monthly payments. Send me for particulars in detail. Cash customers are also welcome. Wheels rented.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 6 APRIL, 1888.

WE do not believe that there is a more widely-known cyclist in the world than Mr. Thomas Stevens, and one in whose movements and appearance there is a more wide and natural curiosity. We therefore are pleased to present to our readers this week an excellent likeness of this greatest of all cycling tourists. In connection with this plate we print an incident in the tour of Mr. Stevens' across the plains, graphically told in verse by the "Poet Scout," Captain Jack Crawford.

THE generosity of the divisions in voting sums to aid in paying the debts of the League must be a very satisfactory answer to the Board of Officers who made the request. Massachusetts responds with a donation of $300.00, and Rhode Island with one of $50.00. Other divisions are to be heard from, but most of them have taken steps to do something for the cause. We have expressed ourselves on this subject, and the principal governing same, but we are always ready to go with the tide, when we cannot stem it. As an earnest of this we have sent our "mite" up to the Secretary-Editor, and our only regret is that we cannot afford to make the remittance larger.

CAN it be possible that the obsolete fashion of nickel plate as a finish for bicycles is going to be revived? There are a great many riders who advocate this finish. As far as we are concerned we go for enamel every time, for the reason that the nickeling process must be exceedingly well done, or rust will come to the surface, especially where the machines are exposed to sea air. We know that there is a prejudice against nickeling, because it has been looked upon as a sort of a badge indicating a novice. We are not in sympathy with this reason, though it may be true, but if we found nickeling to be the most desirable finish, they might plaster badges of "novice" all over us and it would make no difference in our choice. A similar objection to the safety being such a ridiculous looking machine has kept many from riding it. A good thing that is practical and approaches the best results should not be discarded because it is an indication of greenness, or because the machine is not so graceful as the ordinary. We are glad, however, to notice that these trivial objections are fast giving way to common sense and reason.

ELSEWHERE we print a letter from W. McCandlish, co-editor of Wheeling, touching on the controversy now stirring cycling press circles abroad. We are sorry that anything should have appeared in these columns reflecting on the bona fides of any of the pressmen referred to in Mr. McCandlish's letter. We know all of them personally or by reputation, and attach no weight to any assertion accusing them of being parties to a scheme to give a fraudulent title to Kauffman or anyone else. As to their being bribed by a champagne supper, the suggestion is absurd. As to the rules of the competition, so far as we can judge they seem fair. There can be no reason why the Star and bone-shaker should not be used with the ordinary bicycle. We do not care to express any opinion as to the value of Mr. Kauffman's title, nor do we think any one who is not willing to compete under the rules published in Wheeling is justified in finding much fault if Kauffman arrogates to himself a title that will look well on the bill boards.

RACING AT PHILADELPHIA.

VERY successful was the cycling tournament held at the Elite Rink on Wednesday evening, March 28. Upwards of a thousand people were present, and a large attendance of the fair friends of the riders enlivened the scene. The races were all run off with commendable promptness, and although there were several falls, no one was damaged to any extent. Mr. Halstead of the Harlem Wheelmen, at present in the city on business, carried off the honors, and showed us what practice on a twelve-lap track can do. The programme was as follows:

One-mile match race, prize, silver flask—E. I. Halstead, Harlem Wheelmen, first, 2:58 1-5; M. J. Bailey, Century Wheelmen, second by a short length or two. This was a very exciting race, and the time is remarkably good for an 11 1-2 lap track.

One-mile match race, prize, silver flask—S. H. Crawford, first, 3:03 4-5; J. A. Green, second.

One-mile club race, Camden Wheelmen: prize, silver cup—H. J. Weaver, first, 3:07; Potter, second; Strong, third. The latter Star did not prevent a couple of tumbles, throwing him out of the race.

One-mile club race, South End Wheelmen: prize, silver cup—J. A. Green, first, in 3:11 1-5, beating F. E. Becktold by a short length.

One-mile club race, Century Wheelmen: prize, silver cup—F. H. Garrigues, first, 3:13; R. L. Shaffer, second.

Three-lap one-legged race, prize, silver pitcher—E. I. Halstead, first, 0:52 2-5, distancing J. A. Green on a Star.

Eddie McDowell rode a mile against time, but his performance showed only 3:03 3-5.

One-mile club race, Penna. Bi. Club—won by L. A. Hill over J. A. Wells, in 3:20. Dallett, who was entered for this race, failed to appear, and Mr. Wells kindly entered as a matter of interest. It was whispered that he would have distanced Mr. Hill had the grade been, say one in three or four, instead of level.

One-mile club race, Tioga Club: prize, silver cup—Van Deusen, first, in 3:22 3-5, beating his brother.

One-mile club race, handicap, Vesper Wheelmen: prize, silver cup—Geo. J. Bowman, first, 3:24 1-5; F. Coningsby, second.

One-mile novice, prize, card stand—E. G. Kolb had a walk-over in 3:20, Green and Draper having collided on the lower turn, throwing both heavily against the railing, which was wrecked. They fortunately escaped without serious injury.

One-mile match race, between winners of races 1 and 2; prize, smoking set—Halstead and Crawford ran this off, and the latter gave the Harlem man a lively tussle. Halstead beat in 3:03 4-5, with Crawford a close second.

One-mile match race, prize, gold medal—F. M. Johnson, first, 3:33 4-5; C. R. Massey, second. This was a race for blood, and the winner was chaired around the track by the Pennsylvania boys, despite his kicking protests.

Two-mile open, prize, silver nut bowl—E. I. Halstead, first, 6:10; I. Van Deusen, second; M. J. Bailey, third.

One-mile, 3:20 class; prize, napkin set—Wm. Flennard, first, 3:22 3-5; Murray Kilmer fell. This was the third Star rider who went to grass during the races.

One-mile, 3:10 class; prize, fruit dish—S. H. Crawford, first, 3:07 3-5; J. J. Bradley, second.

"ARIEL."

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

I RECEIVED a leap year proposal the other day from London, and being busy, I turned same over to the "Matrimonial Agent" of the team," W. W. Woodside, who made an elaborate reply, stating he was prepared to match an unknown (possibly it may be the "Owl") against the proposer, and that he would be pleased to meet her in London to sign articles.

THE advent of W. A. Rowe has started the "voice of the prophets," who always (?) know "who ought to win, yer know," and the speculations before April 14th would no doubt fill a Clipper annual. The papers continue to print columns about the newcomer, and his "picture" is becoming well known. The Manchester Empire devoted a column to him recently, and declared with the London Field that, "according to his past performances," he is undoubtedly the fastest man who ever crossed a bicycle. When Rowe arrived at Newcastle-on-Tyne he was met by a large crowd, who evinced curiosity to see the famous American. When he was shown the 12-lap board track with 3-foot ends he was slightly astonished, and innocently remarked, "I can break no records on that." Rowe will know a lot when he returns home. This trip will do him good. With Woodside, he is industriously training at Bridlington Quay for two weeks, and is already in splendid form, his fall on the boards at Newcastle the last night, doing him no harm whatever. On the 14th of April Rowe will step on the mark with Howell, in possibly the best form of his racing career, and if he cannot win, it won't be the fault of non-preparation. Excursion trains will run from all around the midlands, and cyclists from many distant parts of the country will attend to see the "battle of giants." I don't underrate Howell's abilities, and it is a queer indication of the form of Rowe and Temple that the supporters of the new flyer, W. Wood of North Shields, would not make a match with Temple, but readily accepted a 20-mile match with Rowe, the American team staking a hundred pounds to Wood's supporters' seventy-five, the race to come off April 21st. So you see the English betting market considers Temple the hardest nut to crack, and there is not much wonder at it. One thing is certain—they are off, or we are out. I think the former is the certainty.

I RECEIVED a long letter, postmarked Sydney, N. S. W., the other day, and for a moment could not think who my Antipodean correspondent could be, although the handwriting seemed familiar—(wish mine was as good; what say you, Mr. Editor and compo's?). Well, here's another piece of evidence of BICYCLING WORLD's circulation and power for good. The letter commenced: "Dear Senator. You will possibly be surprised to hear from me" (and in truth I was; my teeth chattered, when I thought of the supposed dead). "I saw your letter in BICYCLING WORLD, which was extensively copied in this country," continued Fred S. Rollinson, "and I thank you heartily in presenting my case to American readers in the way you did. I had fully made up my mind that my romantic story should remain untold, but it seems you unearthed it, with your usual penchant for information. I am now very happy and married, my wife being one of the most accomplished and best of women possible, and we are thankful for our present happiness." I am sure the many friends and acquaintances of Fred S. Rollinson will learn with pleasure that he is doing well, and has "one of the best of women," for a life companion. Really, I feel personally thankful for the share BICYCLING WORLD has taken in Fred's interest. The letter concluded by earnestly asking me to pay his father a visit, who is in a good social and commercial position in Sussex, assuring me of a hearty welcome, and stating that he may visit England in 1889, and be accompanied by a team of Australian amateur champion cyclists.

My comments on D. J. Canary (quite opposite to those of Rollinson) have also taken effect like the vaccine which the cruel doctor afflicted me with, when, both as a child and a big child. D. J. woke up during our visit to Newcastle, and came out with a set of rules, and a challenge to Kauffman to contest for fifty pounds and the "earth's championship." Kauffman's breath was fairly taken away by the sudden onslaught, as it was entirely unexpected, and Kauffman was getting his little championship medal ready which he was going to present to Kauffman as the "world's wonder." D. J. said, "come on, I'll knock your claims," but "Kauffman" wanted to include a "Star" bicycle, boneshaker (safeties and tricycles, I believe also), so Dan had to claim the title, which certainly belongs to him as far as his three won battles in America are concerned, and Temple, Hurst, Martinetti (and no doubt Maltby), have supported Canary's rules, which exclude the Star, so the contest will not come off under Kauffman's rules. The funny part of the business is, nearly all the "representative" cycle journalists of this great country "decided" that "the Star shall be considered an ordinary." The following week, however, a difference of opinion was noticeable, and grave doubts were expressed as to a Star being an ordinary bicycle. Mr. Atkinson of the Sporting Life told me plainly he did not sign the rules with the understanding that the Star was an ordinary, and did not certainly consider it so. I am pleased also to state that Canary has taken my comments as to certain little failings (which is human after all), and I was glad to learn from D. J., in presence of his pretty wife and baby, that his last engagement was the most profitable, for he had commenced to think of a "rainy day."

PERCY LOW, associate editor of Wheeling, tells me he may visit America the coming summer. I don't know if F. P.'s law suit has anything to do with this, I think not. That Scotch (good old Scotch!) libel suit of mine may prevent my holding any property in porridge land, otherwise I don't anticipate trouble. A Scotch professional says I called him names and ruin'd (save the mark) his prospects. He wants a thousand pounds, he will get less. Well if Mr. Low comes to America, I can heartily recommend him as a "rare old sport," he will shine anywhere.

I RECEIVED a call this week from M. F. Nandy, London editor of Le Veloce Sport, Bordeaux. It was in regard to the American team's appearance in Bordeaux and South of France generally, in May and June. The editor of Le Veloce Sport and the Bordeaux Club, which numbers nearly 500, assures us a hearty welcome to France.

THE meeting of Rowe and Howell at Leicester to-day, at which they signed articles, was a rather pleasant one. Howell was boxing in his dressing room, and stopped on Rowe's making his appearance. Howell remembered him through his visit to Springfield. The two rivals shook hands, and Howell remarked he hoped he would like England, and that no matter who would be the victor in their championship races, they would entertain the same respect for each other. Altogether the meeting was a dramatic one, about a dozen on when "Blucher met Wellington."

CHICAGO.

"THE MULE."

THE club house question seems to be agitating the minds of nearly all our riders. The Chicagos, as already related, have just gone into first-rate quarters in the centre of the city, and preparations are being made by at least two other clubs to cut a dash in the near future. The Owls, probably the most successful club Chicago has had so far, move into a new house next week, and will hold a smoker to celebrate the event on the 15th. Of course, to hear some of the enthusiasts talk there never was such a club house before. The Lincolns, not content with anything ordinary except to build a house, and to that end, have organized the Illinois Cycling Company, with capital stock sufficient to cover all expenses. The building will be on the North side, where the greater number of the club members reside. The club is composed of about one hundred and fifty members, many of whom are well-to-do and can afford to support a handsome headquarters. The Illinois boys have been talking of looking up something more substantial than their present quarters, but have done nothing in the matter so far.

CHARLEY PHILBRICK will race again, and has bet $20 that he will beat 2.40. Of course he'll lose.

WHILE playing polo on a Star at the Casino, last Monday, Tom Roe hurt his right leg so severely that he has been confined to the house ever since.

SURBRIDGE has secured the services of Birdie Munger as salesman. I hear that the latter intends making a few road records for the boys to try to beat this summer.

J. O. BLAKE, for many years vice-president and manager of the John Wilkinson Co., has left that concern, and is now superintendent of Spalding's retail department.

R. D. Garden has obtained the sanction of the commissioners to hold his annual road race. A meeting of a dozen representative riders was held recently, and all the plans made for what should prove a great race. It will be run on May 30, from the Leland Hotel to Pullman, and it is already certain that the $1,200 worth of prizes will be easily obtained.

THE Cycling Association, composed of representatives from local clubs, has at last been established, each of the five clubs being represented. The association expects by concerted action to accomplish much which could hardly be done by any one club, and will, I hear, promote an annual race meeting.

L. M. RICHARDSON has written W. J. Morgan, to ascertain the latter's opinion about a six-day race here next fall. Mr. Richardson has confidence enough in the scheme to invest considerable money in it, and, should Morgan think well of it, will open negotiations with the secretary of the exposition building.

THE Garden City Athletic Club has secured an excellent piece of ground on the West side of the city, and will offer liberal prizes for cycling events at its race meetings. Van Sicklen, Rae and other well known riders are members of this club, which has seven hundred members as the result of three months' work.

KANSAS CITY.

"MENTOR."

A. A. McCURDY, who will be remembered as figuring in a disreputable "fake" race in Minneapolis recently, was in the city last Saturday (24), ostensibly for the purpose of securing a place to race J. S. Prince, of Omaha, for $15,000 aside! Whew! What a race that would be! It is not likely that they will race here. In the meantime wheelmen here will look out for the result of the Rowe-Howell $100 races to the utter exclusion of Prince-McCurdy $15,000 hippodromes.

HIRAM HALE, of Junction City, Kansas, will be again on the path this year.

KANSAS, "the home of the blizzard," sends greeting to Boston, of "beautiful Italian climate fame."

L. S. C. LADISH took a run down to St. Louis last week to see the boys. He says that cycling there will boom this year.

J. C. HIGDON was married in St. Louis last Monday, and Higdon's friends wish him congratulations. The "chestnut" tandem is now in order.

IT is said that Frank S. Ray has quit wheeling. Mr. Ray was a member of the Missouri Touring Committee, and also a correspondent for wheel papers.

A NUMBER of wheelmen here whose League uniforms have taken on a brick red color, have had them dyed a beautiful black, which makes them nearly new.

J. A. DE TAR and T. E. Galvin returned Monday from a two months' pleasure trip on the Pacific Coast. They had a great time, and were favorably impressed with country, climate and people. Their were accompanied by their wheels, and did considerable riding over the country surrounding San Diego.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

LAST Sunday, in Boston, was one of the most charming days for wheeling that we have seen for a long time. The air was clear, crisp, and yet warm enough, and the roads in the immediate vicinity of the city were in superb condition. We saw hundreds of riders while we were out walking. We had to walk, because we had no machine. We must say we envied our fellow cyclists.

IT is our purpose next week to give a description of the Facile Safety of the rear-driving type.

WHEELMEN, and especially those of the South, should bear in mind the dates of the great meet and races at Atlanta, Ga., as being April 16 and 17.

THE annual "International Tournament," which has been such a prominent feature in English cycledom for the past two years, will be omitted this year.

OUR friend Kennedy-Child, ever restless, ever on the move, has winged his flight toward the setting sun. It is very probable that Chicago will be his next abiding place.

NOTWITHSTANDING Wheeling's attempt to kick over the Cyclist's Life Boat Sustentation Fund, subscriptions still continue to come in and they already have some $250 pledged and paid.

WE received a call from Mr. Will Pitman of New York, Saturday, and we regret exceedingly to learn of the reason of his visit to this city. His mother died last Saturday and Mr. Pitman arrived here just before she breathed her last. The remains were taken to Bangor, Maine, for interment. We know all will sympathize with Mr. Pitman in his sad bereavement.

THE interest in the cyclist-cow-boy contest in London do not seem to have abated one bit, as Agricultural Hall on every evening of the six days competition was filled to its utmost capacity.

NOW that the N. C. U. have decided to have nothing to do with road racing, a movement has been made headed by the North Road Cycling Club to form a road records committee. At present the scheme is in embryo.

OUR readers will be glad to notice the first letter from the La Feu brothers, in St. Thomas, W. I. Their letter will be read with great interest, and as the earnest of what is to follow when they reach the banks of the Amazon.

H. B. M. QUEEN VICTORIA has donated a $525 cup for competition by the amateur oarsmen of Great Britain. We would respectfully suggest Her Majesty the sport of cycling as worthy of royal patronage in the shape of a $1,000 cup.

THEY do say that the new "universal language," Volapuk, has but one swear word. What must the poor cyclist of the future do when the festive cur tangles itself up in the spokes of his wheel, and the erratic hoodlum shies brickbats at him?

THE Albany, (N. Y.) Athletic Association propose to give a Bicycle Tournament during the coming fall, and they have already opened negotiations with "Senator" Morgan to the end that he and his merry men may appear on that occasion.

WE suppose that all the members of the Massachusetts L. A. W. Division have all received copies of the Road Book. Ours has come to hand and is a most acceptable addition to our library, and a monument to the enterprise and care of Messrs. Hayes & Grimes.

A GOOD many of our readers will couple the name of Mrs. Allen with that of one of the leading lady cyclists of England. She was the peer of Mrs. Smith, and one of the most enthusiastic of wheelwomen. We regret to chronicle her death, which occurred on the 9th of March.

THE newspaper war between "Senator" Morgan and Dick Howell has broken out anew. We suppose that there has got to be just so much of this beligerency in cold type to be gone through with anyway. It is a good way to advertise, and the "Senator" and Dick know how to work it.

JEFFERSON COUNTY, ALA., has appropriated $200,000. to be spent on new roads. We wish we could give a column every week of just such items as this. It bodes well for the wheelman's future, and it indicates intelligence and a state of civilization which we would like to see more generally manifested.

THE London Star says that Rowe is living, walking, and very fast riding "temperance lecture," as he has never touched beer, spirits, or tobacco in any form. This to an English mind is almost incomprehensible. All good Americans will wish this "temperance lecture" may prove a winning and taking one.

MR. C. S. HOWARD, assistant city editor of the Boston Globe, and a well known cycling scribe and L. A. W. representative, sails for the Azores in the bark "Sarah" tomorrow, Saturday. Mr. Howard goes away to enjoy a well-earned rest and vacation. He will be tendered a dinner at the Boston Club house before he leaves.

WHY is it that the British paper; never quote an American without working in the word "reckon?" We suppose it is for the same reason that "well posted" (?) American writers, in quoting Englishmen, raise hob with the letter H. It is a ridiculous habit, and shows their ignorance, or an attempt to be wearisomely funny.

THE criticisms made by the English papers on W. A. Rowe are very complimentary. Report pronounces him a magnificently developed specimen of humanity, and as to his manners and speech, they say these are in "direct contrast to those of some of the other English professionals." We suppose this is also intended as a compliment. (?)

THE Appeals Committee of the N. C. U. refuse to entertain Mr. Hale's request for re-instatement. There seems to be general regret expressed in the English papers that Mr. Hale should have laid himself open to suspension, though there is no doubt that the punishment is according to the rule. This takes from the amateur ranks one of the fastest English riders. In fact, this year it looks as though all the old amateur racing men were to disappear from the path, and a new crop would have to be raised to take their place.

The Harvard Bicycle Club have decided to have a hare-and-hounds chase April 20th, for which Codman, '90, and Brown, '91, are the hares; and on April 27th a 15-mile handicap road race. A committee, consisting of R. H. Davis, J. A. Bailey and Kenneth Brown, were appointed to make all arrangements. The race will probably be run over the Harvard Bicycle Club course, beginning near Central square and ending near the railroad at Mt. Auburn. Last fall almost all the contestants were stopped some of the numerous railroads which the course crosses, but there does not seem to be any better course near enough to Cambridge. There was also some talk about holding a track race meeting in May. This will probably be acted on at the next meeting. Four men have already decided to train on the track as soon as it opens, and two or three more may do so when the time comes.

At the meeting of the Massachusetts L. A. W. Division, last Saturday, at Young's Hotel, Boston, the division voted the sum of $300 towards paying the debts of the parent body. The division also decided to hold its annual meeting at Cottage City, in August next. The matter of changing by-laws to conform to proposed rules of the League was laid on the table. The Committee on the Improvement of Highways reported that the only feasible plan was that a change in the law be made, to provide for the appointment of a State official to lay roads between county seats, to be maintained by the State; report accepted. The Committee on Sign Boards reported favorable and courteous answers from towns, to the circular it had issued calling the attention to the State laws in this matter. A communication from Secretary-Editor Bassett on the price to be charged members was placed on file. It was decided that a spring meeting be held, with Seward, Kendall and Emery to arrange the details. Fifty dollars per annum was voted to the Secretary-Treasurer for his personal expenses in connection with his office.

TRUCKWELL, writing from Los Angeles, Cal., says: "The entertainment given by the Los Angeles wheelmen, March 9th, consisting of tableaux, drill riding, slow races, trick riding, sack riding, obstacle races, was quite a big success. By the way, in this part of the Pacific Slope, we are unable to see why there should be so much kicking against the League suits, unless it is that the kickers are so unshapely that not even a plaster paris mould would fit them, or, I mean to say, suit them. Chief Consul R. M. Welch has appointed J. Phil Percival local consul for this place. We hold our annual races this year on May 30th, at Agricultural Park. The programme will consist of: One-mile heat race, bicycle, best three in five heats (club); one-mile novice race, bicycle (open); one-half mile heat race, best two in three (for club cup and championship); one-hundred yards slow race (club); one-fourth mile Tandem tricycle race (club); one-hundred yards dash foot race (open); one-half mile dash, bicycle, for boys under eighteen years; one-mile dash, bicycle (open); one-mile handicap (club), medal, by G. A. Von Brandis, handicapper; fancy riding by the Midget (Ledru B. Kinney), three-mile State championship (L. A. W.); one-mile consolation.

THE "SENATOR" ATTENDS THE N. C. U. "POW-WOW."

I was present on Thursday night at the meeting of the National Cyclists Union, it being "my first offence." A real live lord (Viscount Bury) was in the chair, and a real smart chairman he was, too, as some of the squeaky and hoarse-voiced "orators" found out. The Fenchurch-street large room was crowded, and one could smell the battle from afar on entering the room. George Lacy Hillier quietly whispered I could find a seat upstairs. So up I climbed, and looked down upon the assembly below, many faces being known to me. I was silently contemplating the "fine and large" mustache of George Lacy, and comparing it to that of the chairman, when "My lord and gentlemen" rang out in stentorian tones from right under the gallery in which I had perched myself, so skeddadling around the opposite side I saw the speaker, who was saying: "I implore you not to tinker with the subject; do one thing or the other." The speaker was the fearless editor of 152 Fleet street, W. McCandlish of Wheeling, to wit.

The meeting was a special one, and the subject, "Shall the N. C. U. condemn road racing?"—(this, mind you, after they recently passed a resolution to the contrary a few weeks since). The clubs and press had, however, kicked against the mandate so much that the "tinkers," as McCandlish aptly puts it, resolved to call another meeting to debate a question they had already decided. Geo. Lacy Hillier, contrary, I'm sure, to his feelings, denounced road racing as an injury, which it undoubtedly is, to cycling in general, and in a speech, which was more or less full of Disraelian phrases, and more or less eloquent, assured the meeting that young men who race on the road not only outrage public feeling, but injure themselves in racing, very often in an entirely unprepared state, while the path is a model for the purpose. "If you put your foot down on it now," quoth George, "the day will come when we will do it, and in this room, too." It is evident that Mr. Hillier has not lived in the land of cyclones and earthquakes, where a room is liable to shift at any moment, or he would not have made such a rash prophetic assertion. Papa Nairn was eloquent, and Henry Sturmer jumped up and down like one of those little fellows on a stick—which I don't for a moment liken Henry to, except from a "jumpers" standpoint. The meeting eventually passed a "resolution," by an overwhelming majority, that the N. C. U. discourage road racing, and calls on clubs to help them to suppress. Yet, gentlemen, and my lord chairman, you might as well try to dam Niagara and put a belly-band around the moon, as to try and stop road racing. It is like measles, which is bound to come out, and men will scorch, if they can scorch, and the resolution (which I truly believe is right) will not stop road racing, and will weaken the already lax hold of the N. C. U. on its constituents. A road race is illegal, we all know, and, what is more, is injudicious to the cause, and I hope this one act of the vacillating English body will bear fruit, even if it be a poor crop. Road racing, especially advertised open events, is nothing more or less than cheap advertising for some paper or manufacturer. But how about a public which is not over-favorable to the sport? They look upon it as an encroachment of their rights, and, after all, if men must race, why not use our tracks, which want patronage badly?

THE LE FEURS AT ST. THOMAS.

(Special.)

HERE we are at last, and here we intend to remain for a short time, as we have changed our plans somewhat. Instead of going direct to Para, via the "Murray Castle," which brought us (in very slow time) from Liverpool, we decided to stay at this beautiful little spot for perhaps two weeks, during which time a thorough "looking over" of the island will be our business.

And before going into details of our trip, etc., let us jointly express our grateful thanks to "Gentleman John," your correspondent in England, for his courtesy in travelling from his Scottish headquarters to Liverpool, expressly to meet us. We spent a very enjoyable evening together and it was with regret that we parted. If we had "Gentleman John" along with us, he would be able to give our readers a much more interesting account of our trip than we can hope to.

We sailed, or rather steamed, from Liverpool on February 25, and when we had reached the open sea, it was hard work to keep comfortable while on deck. We were bundled up in all sorts of wraps, but even then we felt the effects of the cold as much as we would had we been in our Canadian home. We had a very heavy blow during the first two days out. The ship proved to be sea-worthy and staunch however, although as far as making anything like respectable time was concerned she was wanting. Very different was the monster Cunarder on which we reached Liverpool after a passage of little more than seven days from New York. We had quite a pleasant party on board, some bound for St. Thomas, or adjacent islands, others for Para or Rio Janeiro, two for Colon (Aspinwall), and one, a French naturalist, said his destination "was the world, or any part of it which would furnish the best 'specimens.'" I suggested that he go to Boston where he would find the office of the World, and information, perhaps, as to but he didn't seem to catch on. We had among the passengers also, a maiden lady of very uncertain age, who had evidently made up her mind to make no more ocean voyages alone if she could help it, and who set to work to captivate the naturalist. Had she heard his remark about "not wanting to go back to the days of Noah for his 'specimens,'" she would have given up in disgust. As it was, she would follow him about from morning to night, and compel the poor sufferer to talk "specimens," while she was looking love, in four languages.

It can readily be understood that we were not long troubled with the cold weather. Liverpool being situated on latitude 53 degrees 24 seconds, and longitude 3 degrees West, and our objective point being situated on latitude 21 degrees 40 seconds North, and longitude 65 degrees West, our course soon took us out of the cold belt, and in a comparatively short time after leaving behind us the shores of the "empire on which the sun never sets," we began to feel the effects of the Gulf stream and trade winds, and the manner in which we discarded, one after the other, our thick articles of clothing, and replaced them with lighter ones, was a caution. Our course was almost W. S. W., and although we sailed over the usual route taken by the Southern traders, we saw no sight of sail or steamer on the trip. At dinner one day we were informed by the captain that he expected to reach the island the same night, but "man proposes and God disposes," as about 3 P. M. we were overhauled by a young hurricane, which carried us about a hundred miles or so off our course. No other damage was done beyond the delay, and the following day we passed by "Sugar Loaf" and "Black Rock," and could say that this stage of our journey was as good as ended. We soon rounded the point of the island, and came off which the vessel hove-to, waiting for a pilot to come on board. It seemed rather useless to take on a pilot at all, the most of us thought, but "law is law" so the "guides" must be patronized. It is rather amusing to watch a West Indian pilot board a vessel, touch his cap to the captain, ask "want to go to the coal wharf, Cap'n?" and, scarcely waiting for an answer, walk up on the bridge and assume command. And they are in command from the time they receive their instructions until the anchor takes hold of the bottom. The one who guided us into the land-locked harbor was as black as ebony, but with a face on which there seemed to be a perpetual grin. He evidently knew his business, and was no way backward in saying to the captain: "If dat lubber don' know how to han'le de wheel, put on 'nother man what does, right 'way. Dis is no time ter be foolin'." And the captain did put another man at the wheel in quick time.

F. P. EDMANS & CO.,

When about to enter the harbor, the vessel was hailed by an intelligent looking mulatto, dressed in a spotless white linen suit and with a white naval cap on his head. The genteel looking chap was standing in the stern of a trim-looking eight-oared barge, on which were displayed the Danish ensign, and the flag of the captain of the port. The oarsmen looked as neat as pins in their white shirts and trousers, the shirts having blue collars and cuffs. They wore blue "jack tar" hats. To his first hail the captain returned rather a surly reply, but became more civil when the official ordered him to heave-to till he came aboard. The companion ladder was out and as he nimbly stepped on the deck he smiled pleasantly as he told the captain "business is business, and we allow no vessels to enter here until satisfied that there is no danger of their carrying in any sickness." When satisfied that we came from no infected port, he took his departure and we went on our way rejoicing. All hands admired the way in which the oarsmen handled their ash sticks: their stroke was equal to that of the crack crew of the man-o'-war. We soon came to anchor opposite the city, if such it can be called, and were immediately besieged by a flotilla of "bum boats," the ebony-colored occupants of which were selling everything imaginable in the way of

as well as cigarros, cheroots and—yes—even whiskey, or rather, Jamaica rum. The latter neither Jean nor myself have any use for, in any shape, but we began at once the task of sampling the various fruits, etc. And who would not eat oranges at six cents a dozen; bananas at five cents ditto? Pineapples, such as would cost in New York fifteen to twenty-five cents, could be purchased here at five cents each.

To find out what fruit really is like, Mr. Editor, you should sample the specimens found in the American markets (I lived in New York nearly two years and know whereof I speak) and then take a trip to one of these West Indian Islands and sink your molars into the oranges, plantains, bananas, pineapples, etc., they have here, and—yum! yum!—you will think you never saw or tasted fruit before. The cigarro, or tobacco cigarette, which ever you choose to call it, takes precedence over the cheroot (or cigar) in this part of the world. It is about seven inches in length, and a little thicker than an ordinary lead pencil. Put up in bunches of twenty-five each, they sell for twenty-five cents per hundred. The tobacco used is of excellent quality and they really make good smoking. Of the cheroots I cannot speak so highly, as those we have tried we have found altogether too rank for our taste. Cheroots can be had at from seventy cents to eighteen dollars per hundred.

Before leaving the "Murray Castle," and while chatting with our naturalist friend, we were startled by a shrill scream, which we at once recognized as coming from the lungs of the love-smitten maiden lady before mentioned. Making a dash for where she was standing near the rail, we tried to ascertain the cause of the scream. She was too frustrated, however, to do more than moan and wring her hands, praying for us to save her. She finally became quiet enough to say that she knew we were; she had seen a great monster alongside of the ship, with a mouth—oh! such a mouth. "If 'twas as big as yours," said Jean, in an aside, "it would first shake down the buildings with its roar, and then swallow the island."

"WE WERE ALL GOING TO BE DEVoured."

After looking over the side for a time, to keep her quiet, we saw—what do you suppose?—why, a shark, only an innocent (?), harmless (?), little (!) shark, not more than seven feet long. The guileless creature came to the surface, rolled over on its side, and, when it opened its jaws and we had a good sight of its ferocious looking teeth, as it grasped a piece of pork which one of the boys threw overboard—well, we laughed at the lady's frightened countenance, but I tell you on the strict quiet, that I felt cold chills creeping up and down my spinal column for hours afterward. As for Jean, I've seen the boy hang fast to the horns of a wounded buck, which had made a charge at him, while he told me to "keep cool and send a bullet where it will talk," and he never trembled, but the look at those ugly, devilish-looking teeth took the grit all out of him, and he turned away as white as a sheet.

The harbor here is completely lined, they tell us, with these "monsters of the deep," and it is surprising that so few lives are lost. Any time between sunrise and sunset you will see from one to a dozen small boats near some vessel which is anchored. The boats are occupied for the most part by urchins from eight to fourteen years of age; the only article of clothing they wear is a breech cloth. The majority of them carry knives with blade 8 to 10 inches long. Toss a coin overboard, and over the side of the boat, head first, hands joined together and extended above the head, will go one of these urchins. To a person unacquainted with the sports of this part of the world, the act appears suicidal, but watch; and just as you have made up your mind that the diver has fallen in the power of those pitiless looking teeth you will see a woolly pate come out of the water, and the owner of the pate climbs quickly into his boat. Standing up, he takes the coin from his mouth, tossed to his companion, stretches his mouth from ear to ear in a grin, and is ready to risk his life in another dive for coin.

Very little of the produce one sees for sale here is raised on St. Thomas. The soil is comparatively barren, taken as a whole, and the inhabitants have to depend to a certain extent on neighboring islands for the necessities are mostly brought from England and France, the imports from the United States being light as compared with the other two countries. The Island does not receive anywhere near the attention it deserves at the hands of historians or geographers, who usually refer to it as "quite a coaling station; having a mixed population which varies at different seasons." When I say that within forty-eight hours from the time the "Murray Castle" dropped anchor, five others steamers entered the harbor for coal, it will be seen that it is "quite a coaling station." The island is a dependency of Denmark, and in the old-fashioned de-lapidated looking fort are stationed three officers and about twenty men, whose duty it is to see that the laws and rules of that country are enforced. The force is changed every two or three years, though some of the men have twelve years, preferring the tropics to their Northern homes.

St. Thomas, W. I., March 12, 1888.

BRONCHO vs. BICYCLE.

(A STORY TOLD BY A NEW MEXICO COWBOY.)

By Capt. Jack Crawford, the "Post-Scout."

The first we saw o' the high-toned tramp War' over thar at our Pecos camp: He war' comin' down the Santa Fe trail Astride of a wheel, with a crooked tail, A skinnin' along, with a merry song, An' ringin' a little warnin' gong. He looked so outlandish, strange an' queer That all of us grinned from ear to ear, An' every boy on the round-up swore He had never seed sich a hoss afore.

Wal', up he rode, with a sunshine smile, A smokin' a cigarette, an' I'll Be kicked in the neck if I ever seen 'Sich a saddle as that on his queer machine Why, it made us laugh, fur it wasn't half Big enough fur the back of a suckin' calf. He tuk our fun in a keerness way, A venturin' only once to say Thar' wasn't a broncho about the place Could down that wheel in a ten-mile race.

I'd a lightnin' broncho out in the herd That could split the air like a flyin' bird, An' I hinted 'round in an off-hand way That, pervidin' the enterprise 'd pay, I thought as I might jest happen to light On a hoss that 'd leve 'im out o' sight. In less 'n a second we seed him yank A roll o' greenbacks out o' his flank, An' he said, if we wanted a bet, to name The limit, an' he would tackle the game.

Just a week afore we had all been down
On a jamboree to the nearest town,
An' the whisky joints, an' the faro games,
An' shakin' our hoofs w' the dance-house dames,
Made a wholesale bust; an', pard, I'll be cussed
If a man in the outfit had any dust;
An' so I explained, but the youth replied
That he'd lay the money-matter aside.
An' to show that his back didn't grow no moss,
He'd bet his machine agin my hoss.

I tuk him up, an' the bet war' closed,
An' me a chucklin', fur I supposed
I war' playin' in dead sure winnin' luck,
In the softest snap I had ever struck,
An' the boys chipped in, with a knowin' grin,
Fur they thought the fool had no chance to win.
An' so we agreed fur to run that day
To the Navajo Crossin', ten miles away.
As han'some a track as you ever seed
Fur testin' a hoss's purtiest speed.

Apache Johnson an' Texas Ned
Saddled up their horses an' rode ahead
To station themselves ten miles away,
To act as judges, an' see fair play.
While Mexican Bart an' Big Jim Hart
Stayed back fur to give us an even start.
I got aboard o' my broncho bird,
An' we came to the scratch an' got the word,
An' I laughed till my mouth spread from ear to ear
To see that tenderfoot drop to the rear.

The first three miles slipped away first-rate,
Then broncho began fur to lose his gait,
But I wa'n't oneasy, an' didn't mind,
With tenderfoot more'n a mile behind.
So I jogged along, with a cowboy song,
Till all of a sudden I heard that gong
A ringin' a warnin' in my ear.
Ting! Ting! Ting! too infernal near,
An' lookin' back ards I seed the chump
Of a tenderfoot gainin' every jump.

I hit ol' broncho a cut w' the quirt,
An' once more got 'im to scratchin' dirt;
But his wind seemed weak, an' I tell you, boss,
I seed that he wasn't no ten-mile hoss.
Still the plucky brute tuk another shoot,
An' pulled away from the wheel galoot;
But the animal couldn't hold his gait,
An' somehow the idee entered my pate,
That if tenderfoot's legs didn't lose their grip,
He'd own that hoss at the end o' the trip.

Closer and closer come tenderfoot,
An' harder the whip to the hoss I put;
But the Eastern cuss, with a smile on his face,
Ran up to my side with his easy pace;
Rode up to my side, an' durn his hide,
Remarked 'twas a pleasant day fur a ride,
Then axed, unconcerned, if I had a match,
An' on his breeches give it a scratch,
Lit a cigarette, said he wished me good day,
An' as fresh as a daisy scooted away.

Ahead he went, that infernal gong
A ringin' "good-bye," as he flew along;
An' the smoke from his cigarette come back,
Like a vapory snicker along the track.
On an' on he sped, gittin' further ahead,
His feet keepin' up that onceasable tread,
Till he faded away in the distance, an' when I seed the condemned Eastern rooster again,
He war' thar' with the boys at the end o' the race,
That same keerkless, unconcerned smile on his face.

Now, pard, w'en a cowboy gits beat he don't sw'ar,
Nor kick, if the beatin' are done on the squar';
So I tuk that Easterner right by the hand,
An' tol' him, that broncho awaited his brand.
Then I axed 'im his name, an' whar from he came,
An' how long he'd practiced the wheel-rollin' game.
Tom Stevens he said war' his name, an' he come
From a town they call Bosting, in ol' Yankedom;
Then he jest paralyzed us by sayin' he'd whirled
That very identical wheel 'round the world.

Wal', pard, thar's the story o' how that smart chap
Done me up, w'en I thought I had sich a soft snap:
Done me up on a race with remarkable ease,
An' lowered my pride a good many degrees.
Did I give 'im the hoss? W'y, of course I did, boss,
An' I'll tell you it wan't no diminutive loss.
He writ me a letter from back in the East,
An' said he'd presented the neat little beast
To a feller named Pope, who stan's at the head
O' the ranch whar' the cussed wheel horses ar' bred.
Boston, March, 1888.

A CHALLENGE EROM KLUGE TO CRIST.

W. E. Crist, Esq., Washington, D. C.:

Dear Sir—I hereby challenge you to a series of three races, the winner of two to take the prize, which shall be a trophy subscribed for by each of us. Any distance from one to twenty miles—one, five and ten being suggested. Track and date to be settled between us, as soon as you will favor me with a meeting, or by mail if challenge is accepted. Trusting that you will not refuse a race at earliest date possible.

I am yours fraternally, CHAS. E. KLUGE.

BRAKES ON SAFETIES.

Editor Bicycling World: In reply to No. 3001, would refer him to an article in U. T. C. Gazette for February, '88,—same being a classified statement of a score or more of experienced riders on the various qualities, good and bad, of the various styles of "rear-driving safeties." With nearly all of these riders, spoon brakes on front wheel are considered insufficient and unsatisfactory. The editor summing up, recommends application of brake as follows: "First by a strap on the drum affixed to the driving axle; second by ditto allixed to hub of driving wheel; third by a spoon in front of hind wheel tyre pointing downward and located within three inches of ground." L. A. W. 5110.

BRAKES ON SAFETIES.

Editor Bicycling World:—In answer to "L. A. W. 3001," permit me to say that the brake is placed on the front wheel of rear-driving safeties because it is simpler and easier. All other reasons prove the rear wheel to be the proper place to apply the brake. If placed as low as the crank axle, it will not throw mud or dust, whereas the front wheel brake will drop mud on one's feet when coasting, or throw off a cloud of dust in dry weather. Applying a front brake at speed will cause the rider to take a header, if the application stop the wheel, and the speed be sufficient to revolve rider and wheel around the forward point of contact with the ground. In stopping, the momentum causes most of the weight to be carried by the front wheel, and therefore the front brake is often effective enough to be dangerous. With a rear brake there can be no such results, for if the stop be too sudden the rear wheel lifts and all strain is relieved. The sudden stopping caused by the front brake throws a tremendous strain on the front forks and the connecting frame, which is almost entirely avoided in the rear brake.

Further, let me say, if you want to be happy, avoid band brakes. They must of necessity be heavier than spoon brakes, because they have to exert a power many times greater. They are usually more complicated and harder to keep clean, and, last and largest, there is no peace of mind when you have one, for unless blissfully ignorant, you are ever wondering if that brake is not rubbing somewhere. Unless very carefully fitted, it will rub somewhere, and under the best of fitting, a bit of mud or gravel may get under it, and make the remainder of the road all up hill. Or the repairer may accidentally destroy its proper curve; or it may not be tempered alike throughout its length, and therefore lose its curve. Under any circumstances it will find some way to make its owner wish it out of existence. If any one doubts this let them examine band brakes on machines that are in use. Respectfully, CHAS. E. DURYEA, Washington, D. C.

THE KAUFFMAN TRICK CHAMPIONSHIP.

Editor Bicycling World:—In the weekly letter which, with your good permission, W. J. Morgan devotes to the advertisement of the American team, I have noticed with regret a most unjustifiable attack upon the honor of the English press. My regret only refers to the fact of the BICYCLING WORLD printing the words, as we have a sincere and strong feeling of friendship for the WORLD and its editors. Morgan's opinions are of value to those who choose to appraise them.

It is insinuated in the paragraph to which I take exception that such men as C. W. Nairn, F. Percy Low and your servant for Wheeling, Harry I. Swindley for the Cyclist, T. H. S. Walker for Der Radfahrer, and R. I. Meerey for the Irish Cyclist, were "got at" by means of a champagne supper to cheat the trick riders of the world, and to give the championship to Nick Kauffman without his winning it. Now sirs! and you, London W.! more particularly, you know us. Is it likely? No! I will not insult American gentlemen and journalists by assuming for an instant that you believe that the men who have stood by American good faith for many years, would do this mean and dirty thing. I will not go into detail. The story is strictly false. Morgan and his team have pretty nearly worn us out over here, and I presume Morgan knows it, or he would not have ventured to break off with the whole cycling press, bar Bicycling News, in this manner. In a spirit of international good feeling and sport, we constituted ourselves the ladder by which your "Senator" climbed to success in England. This is the kick for the downfall of said ladder, which is now of no further use.

Nick Kauffman has been declared champion by the united press, as the only man who would ride all comers on all classes of machines, and his challenge not being accepted by any of the so-called champions, no other decision could be made.

Yours truly, W. M. McCANDLISH,
London, March 12, 1888.

LEAGUE MEET COMMITTEES AND HOTEL ARRANGEMENTS.

For the benefit of those contemplating attending the L. A. W. meet to be held at Baltimore on June 18th, 19th and 20th, I would say that all arrangements are being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible by the various committees, and every indication points toward a most successful and attractive meeting. Already inquiries are being made by League members from all over the country, as to hotel accommodations, transportation, etc., and for the information of all interested, I give below the names and addresses of the chairmen of the different committees in charge, with a brief outline of the duties of each committee, and all communications addressed to any of these chairmen, seeking information concerning the meet, will receive prompt attention.

GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Chairman, A. E. Mealy, 1521 Eutaw place; Secretary, R. M. Lockwood, 1731 McCulloch street. This committee is made up of the chairmen of the different sub-committees, and have full control of the entire arrangements for the meet.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Chairmen, W. H. Beatty, No. 92 Dugan's wharf; Secretary, C. H. Eisenbrandt, 424 E. Baltimore street; Treasurer, Jno. S. Bridges, corner Baltimore and Light streets.

RECEPTION.

Chairman, Geo. S. Hagerty, care of Keen & Hagerty, Baltimore. All communication on securing advance hotel accommodations and storage of wheels must be addressed to this committee. All persons writing to have rooms at the hotels secured in advance, will please name their choice of hotels, and what price accommodations they desire. The committee will in such case use their best efforts to carry out the instructions to the letter, but in case the hotel named should be already full, they will use their judgment in securing the next best, in which case they will expect the support of the party whom they are trying to serve.

TRANSPORTATION (Local).

Chairman, Jos. Chism, 10 E. Lombard street. All information as to how to reach Baltimore during the meet will be furnished by this committee, or by the NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE.

Chairman and Western representative, B. B. Ayres, 152 S. Hoyne avenue, Chicago, Ill.; Eastern representative, Geo. R. Bidwell, 323 West 58th street, New York.

ENTERTAINMENT.

Chairman, Albert Mott, 1513 Barclay street, Baltimore.

PARADE.

Chairman, E. P. Hayden, care of Drivers & Mechanics, National Bank, Baltimore.

RACES.

Chairman, Sam'l T. Clark, 2 and 4 Hinnover street, Baltimore. Will furnish any information in the way of racing events.

TOURS AND RUNS.

Chairman, F. W. Pope, 7 South street, Baltimore.

PROGRAMME (Official).

Chairman, Milton S. Wood, care of A. Hoen & Co., Baltimore.

PRESS.

Chairman, C. R. Eisenbrandt, 424 E. Baltimore street. For any information not embraced in the above committees, address the Chairman of the General Committee.

HOTEL ARRANGEMENTS.

The Carrollton Hotel (American) can accommodate 400 guests; terms, $2.50 to $4.00 per day; to L. A. W. members during the meet, $2.00 to $3.00 per day, according to location of rooms.

The "Hotel Reimert" (European) can accommodate 100 guests; terms, single rooms, $1.50 to $3.00; double rooms, $2.50 to $4.00 per day; a reduction of 50 cents per day will be allowed L. A. W. members. Suites of apartments, containing parlor, bed, bath and toilet rooms, from $6.00 to $10.00 per day; a reduction of $1.00 per day to L. A. W. members.

The Eutaw House (American), accommodations for 250 guests. Terms, $2.50 to $3.50 per day; to L. A. W. members during the meet, $2.00 to $3.00 per day, according to location of rooms.

Guy's Hotel (European), accommodation for 200 guests. Terms, single rooms, $1.50 per day; double rooms, $2.50 per day; with a probable reduction to L. A. W. members.

Other hotel arrangements will be complete in a few days. A. E. MEALY.

We wonder what kind of racing tracks they must have in Australia, if they have any at all, and do they utilize any convenient ploughed field for the purpose of racing. This query has been brought about by reading the following, which we take from Sporting Life: "The 25-mile bicycle race, for 50l., between J. Libeau, of New Zealand, and S. Clark, champion cyclist of Scotland, was contested on the Carrington Ground on February 4. Clark led off, but after a couple of laps had been recorded, Libeau overtook him, and then both men seemed to settle down to their work. During the first lap of the fifteenth mile Clark fell twice, and Libeau added nearly two laps to his credit. These he maintained until he was in the last mile, when in rounding the curve at the western end of the course his bicycle struck a stone and he came to grief, but remounting, won by about half a lap in 1 hour 49 min."

"THE SWIFT."

(Coventry Machinists' Co., 239 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.)

The 1888 pattern Swift has many improvements and advantages over the 1887 pattern. The top rail of the frame has been neatly curved in the neighborhood of the saddle, which allows the seat to be placed farther back so that the rider obtains more power over his pedals and consequently rides easier. The seat pillar is secured to the frame by means of a split socket, which does away with the pin at the side, which some riders found a little too prominent. An improved method of securing the mud guards to the frame, both back and front, is now used, which successfully overcomes the disagreeable rattle peculiar to mud guards generally. The adjustment to take up the slack of his chain is so simply constructed that it can be done without soiling the hands, and each machine is fitted with an adjustable but firm chain-guard.

The adjustable and detachable cranks are now made seven inches long instead of six inches, giving a longer throw if required. The centre-steering is now used instead of the socket, which was more difficult to adjust and too sensitive. The Swift is fitted with a neatly curved, hollow handle bar, with barrel-shaped handles, affording a firmer and more natural grip. The adjustment is now altered, being fitted into a split socket, which makes it much simpler, and the machine much lighter than last year. The improved spoon brake on the front wheel has been substituted for the lever brake on the back. This spoon is now made with the joint under the top of the fork. It is three and one-half inches long, the whole surface of which is made to grip the wheel, bringing the machine to a standstill instantly.

The machine is fitted with a specially devised spring lamp bracket, which, together with the usual spring on a lamp, successfully overcomes this difficulty. The new Swift has hollow forks both back and front, which makes the machine much stronger and lighter.

All parts of this machine are put to a severe test and examined before they are "assembled." After the machine is "assembled" it is stripped for the painter, and when finished it has to undergo another examination before it is shipped. This insures a strong and reliable machine, which is proved by the universal praise that we hear from the riders of Coventry Machinists' Co. machines.

The New Mail is having a very large call, and William Read & Sons report all they can do to fill orders.

GEO. HENDEE was in Chicago Thursday, visiting Mr. Stokes, the Springfield Roadster agent. He speaks very encouragingly of the prospects of this machine, but it has made little headway here, never having been thoroughly tested by our riders.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

FAST DAY is with us this week, and the riding season is once more open to us. This New England holiday is always looked upon as the gateway through which we approach the season, and that day always sees the riders out if the weather is auspicious. We are talking about New England and we do not forget that there are some favored communities where Nature always presents an inviting front to wheelmen, and where the season has neither end nor beginning.

MASSACHUSETTS comes proudly forward with a donation of $300 to the League. She is distributing a road book that is costing her a very large sum of money but she is loyal to the League, and extends a helping hand in time of need. Generosity that calls for a sacrifice is doubly blessed.

NEW JERSEY wheelmen are talking of sending a lady representative to the Board of Officers. Since the ladies have no particular point to urge, nor advantage to gain by such a representation we do not see the necessity for it. As a matter of sentiment it may strike some as a desirable move, but it will force undue publicity upon the lady, which is oftentimes embarrassing, and no good purpose will be served withal.

WE have done much in our day to persuade ladies to ride the wheel. We shall do all in our power henceforth to bring to their notice the benefits and pleasures of cycling, but we do not feel that, because a lady rides, she should take an active interest

We have before alluded to Mr. Underwood's Road Book of Boston, and we again call the attention of the cycling public of the country, and especially that of Boston, to the fact that this Road Book is now on the market, as will be seen by referring to our advertising pages. It is one of the most complete and comprehensive that has ever been issued, and we bespeak for Mr. Underwood's venture a large sale. It can be had by writing to Mr. Underwood, himself, or sending to this office.

It is worth a trip to William Read & Sons, 107 Washington street, to see their splendid display of New Mails this week in their large window. In the background is a handsome display of parts, all steel forging. This firm are expecting a large invoice of Ivels this week. They should be seen by those who anticipate buying safeties.

The Springfield Bicycle Co. have gotten out a very attractive colored hanger. Mr. Worden of this Company has just returned from a very successful four weeks' trip through New England. He reports business booming.

A VERY neat little arrangement, called a toe-clip, has been introduced in England. It is a simple piece of steel, curved to fit the end of the toe, and it can be attached and taken off any pedal. Those who have taken "the tip" say that it is immense. The patent is controlled by the New Rapid "people."

in club affairs, and engage in the legislative work of the League.

A CORRESPONDENT in Clarksville, Tenn., writes to protest against that provision in the reorganization scheme, which obliges a State to have one hundred members before it can organize a division. He is not altogether satisfied with the new idea of grouping the smaller States into Territorial divisions, and maintains that a State with fifty members can do more and better work by itself than as a part of a Territorial division. Our correspondent urges that the Chief Consul of a Territorial division would have a very large territory to rule over and could work to no advantage. Meetings would be attended only by members in his own State, and all legislation would have a local coloring. Speaking for Tennessee, he claims that she has many plans for the coming season, and hopes to be able to make a good showing in League work, but if she must have a hundred members to become a division she will be buried in a Territorial division and lose all incentive to active endeavor.

WE have had several letters of similar tenor to the above. There is undoubtedly a feeling among the smaller divisions that the League is taking too long a stride in the change of the number requisite to the formation of a division from twenty-five to one hundred. One writer urges that "the change is a good thing for the big divisions, it is death to the smaller ones. They, the big fellows, can stand alone well enough now, but they are going to have more power, while we little fellows that struggle hard to get fifty or sixty members have got to take upon our shoulders the little fellows of five or ten and carry them along. New York has a big income; she is going to keep it and have more. Our State has a little income; she has got to divide it with the little fellows." All these arguments have weight. Let them be brought up at Baltimore and be duly considered.

NICKEL PLATING for cycles does not altogether meet the demand for a covering at once grateful to the eye and protective to the metal. Wheelmen will be interested in the development of a platinum-plating process, which promises to cover all the failings too often vexatiously proved in nickel-plating. Platinum is the most imperishable of all ordinary metals, and utilized as plating it defies rust, never tarnishes, and never becomes discolored. An English company has lately been formed for the purpose of working the process, and thus far the most flattering results have been obtained.

CYCLE manufacturers are becoming very much interested in the new process of welding by electricity, which has been invented by Prof. Elihu Thomson, and representatives of the Pope Mfg. Co., the H. B. Smith Mfg. Co., and other manufacturers have been down to Lynn to see the practical working of the invention. The invention is one of the most important that has been made in the mechanic arts for many years. By this process metals may be welded almost instantaneously and a juncture is formed as strong or stronger than any point in the units. Moreover, any two metals, no matter how dissimilar, may be as firmly united as two pieces of common wrought iron. The machine used for the purpose consists of a huge induction coil, through which are passed alternating currents of high potential force, and they are transformed into alternating currents of low potential force. In the low potential circuit is obtained a current of one volt, or a fraction over, equal to 10,000 to 30,000 amperes. To each end of the transformer is attached a horizontal conductor of solid copper several inches in diameter, and about a foot in length. At the end of each conductor simple clamps, working with thumbscrews, are attached. Into each of these clamps one of the pieces of metal is screwed, with the ends of the latter almost, but not quite, in contact. The current is turned on and easily regulated by a rheostat handle, working with a crank and screw. The operation of fusing the two pieces of metal, or different metals, together is the work of but a few seconds. A very strong current is required, but only for a limited time, and a very great amount of power is not necessarily needed to produce the desired result. The actual volume of the current, while it lasts, however, must be considerable. The temperature reached is an important feature, but cannot be determined by any definite rules. Experience, governed by a careful study of the incandescence of the metals, is the principal factor to success. By the color of the welding point, just as an ordinary blacksmith judges of the proper temperature of his two pieces of metal, must the important moment when the pieces to be welded reach just the right heat be determined. The temperature rises so quickly that it is concentrated directly upon the weld, and is not diffused over the bulk of the metal. It is applied first to the centre of the bar, working thence outward, and the process is, therefore, directly the reverse of the ordinary method. Cast-iron, which could never before be welded, and also copper and lead pipe are united strongly by this process. The company welds its electric wires, and no joint is visible. Visitors to the factory are shown many curious and interesting products. A highly polished rod is shown made up of all alternate sections of brass, copper, german silver and iron. Several cast-steel chisels, gouges, etc., which had been broken, were so skillfully welded that no one could tell, after the "dressing up" process, they were not new tools. It is safe to say that no class of workers in metal will be more interested in this invention than are the cycle makers. They require welding of the very best attainable kind, not only as regards strength, but in the matter of looks. It would seem that they have much to look forward to in the development of Professor Thomson's ideas.

MASSACHUSETTS CONSULS.

All Consuls of this Division are reappointed until Sept. 1, 1888.
H. W. HAYES, Chief Consul.

RESIGNATION.

H. W. Hayes, Chief Consul Mass. Div. L. A. W.:
Dear Sir—Having taken up a residence in this city, I herewith tender my resignation as a representative to the League of American Wheelmen for Massachusetts. In so doing permit me to express my appreciation of the confidence shown in me by my constituents during the past few years. I shall be glad to see my friends in my new quarters in the office of "The Press," 28 North William street, New York city.
Very fraternally yours,
W. L. HARRIS.
New York, March 30, 1888.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.
Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

LEAGUE CLUB RENEWALS.

CERTIFICATES have been filed in this office certifying that the following clubs will continue on the list of League clubs for and during the year 1888—

Los Angeles Wheelmen, Los Angeles, Cal.
Quaker City Wheelmen, Salem, Ohio.
Old Dominion Wheelmen, Richmond, Va.
Racine Bicycle Club, Racine, Wis.

NEW CLUB.

Greenville Wheelmen, Greenville, Miss.

All memberships in the League of American Wheelmen expired Jan. 1; and as all members must renew, so must all clubs. Before a club is entered on the list of 1888, the following certificate must be filed by the Secretary: "This certifies that the Blank Club will remain a League club for and during the year 1888. Blank, Blank, Sec."

LEAGUE CLUBS.

The following suggestions regarding League clubs are respectfully offered:—

By-laws, Art. V, Sect. 9.—Any cycle club in the United States that shall have in its by-laws a provision requiring every active member to join the League of American Wheelmen, shall become a League club, and entitled to all the privileges accorded League clubs under these by-laws. The number of votes that any League club shall be entitled to cast through its delegates at the annual meeting, or at any constitutional convention, shall be one vote for every member of said club, in good standing, upon the rolls of the League.

The following is a common form of by-law: This club shall be a League club, under the rules of the League of American Wheelmen, and each member shall become also a member of the League. The initiation fees and dues of the L. A. W. shall be paid out of the club treasury, and each member of the club shall pay his share of these dues to the treasurer. New members, not already connected with the League, shall be proposed for membership by the secretary.

After qualifying as a League club, the secretary must file at this office a certificate giving the name of the club, date of organization, date of qualifying, name, and address of secretary, list of officers, and give address to which the club copy of BULLETIN shall be sent.

The secretary will enter the club upon his books, giving it a number, and will publish application in the BULLETIN.

DIFFICULT REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

Expert Testimony.

The Expert is put out for its seventh year with its world-wide reputation for staunchness, durability, ease of running, and beauty of lines and finish, holding easily the first among all medium weight machines, and with the noteworthy distinction of being the only bicycle which has ever passed this stage of its existence with constantly increasing favor and sales.

There is probably no machine manufactured that can call out so much favorable testimony.

It has been ridden across the continent three times—by Capt. Hugh J. High, Geo. B. Thayer and F. E. Van Merebeck. It was the machine ridden by Thomas Stevens around the world. When this intrepid wheelman arrived at Erzeroum, Asia Minor, the Boston Herald reported that he said: "I haven't had occasion so far to as much as tighten the spokes in the Expert. Everything about it is in perfect order." On the completion of his journey he wrote: "Notwithstanding all that it had gone through, the Expert that carried me round the world is in very good condition. I used none of the extra parts forwarded to Constantinople, but a few rubber tires, and spokes, broken out by the Afghans."

Respectfully submitted,

Prof. Williams, of Brown University, after his return from a bicycle tour of England and France on the Expert Columbia, said: "Having examined carefully the wheels of England and France, I do not think that a better roadster is made in the world than the Expert Columbia."

The report of the Ohio tour in the Fort Wayne Journal says "That the Expert Columbia, as usual, went through the trip famously; every one coming home in perfect condition. They were found to be the favorite wheels in every town visited."

A. J. Wilson (Faed), of England, after having ridden and carefully examined Thomas Stevens' Expert, said it was fully up to the quality of any that he had ever ridden.

It might be remarked here that the Expert, which is claimed to be a medium weight roadster, is as light as many of the "so-called" light roadsters.

A full illustrated description of this machine is found in the new Columbia Catalogue, which is sent free by mail upon application.

More About Incomes.

I stated last week that persons with moderate incomes, who could not afford the outlay required to purchase a Bicycle or Tricycle for cash, might take advantage of my "EASY TERMS" plan, and, by making small weekly or monthly payments, soon become the "full paid up" owner of a wheel. I might also suggest that a neat little sum might be saved by purchasing a Good Second Hand Wheel. I have a few Bicycles in stock that are exceptional bargains (sizes 50, 52, 54 and 56), and several TRICYCLES and TANDEM, all leading makes. Detailed description will be furnished by mail, and the wheels guaranteed as represented.

BOSTON, 13 APRIL, 1888.

THE "winter of our discontent" seems at last to realize that its departure is much desired.

THE Herald's complimentary remarks about our co-editor has set him up most amazingly, and he threatens to strike if his salary is not increased to an inconceivable extent.

ALTHOUGH racing has been most effectually stamped down by injudicious and over legislation, it can, we think, by a little tender nursing, be brought around to a healthy state again. We believe that frequent and unpretentious meetings will do more to foster path racing than an occasional large tournament. At all events we must look to a new crop, or get what fun we can from professionals.

THE roads were full of cyclists on Fast Day in the vicinity of Boston. The early part of the day was superb, but a heavy rain in the afternoon dampened the skins and the ardor of a good many riders before they got home. A good many sore joints, muscles, and abraded cuticle made evident to many of the riders that a winter's inaction had left them feeling pretty soft.

IT is said that the English "pros." are much surprised at Rowe's complete abstinence from tobacco and alcoholic stimulents. We doubt, though, if their habits are changed, notwithstanding that Rowe thinks his success is due to his habits. Some will feel inclined to say, with Lacy Hillier, "what would he have been if he had indulged in a mug of stout with his dinner?" We know not, but we do hope his "hot tea" will keep him in front of Howell.

THIS week's issue will have to go as one of the largest ever published by a cycling paper in this country. There has only been one larger, and that was our issue, containing forty-six pages, of May 14, 1886. The "next best" was our issue of April 2d, 1888, containing thirty-two pages. This issue of the WORLD AND BULLETIN contains thirty-eight pages. In connection with this issue, we desire to call attention to the enterprise of the Coventry Machinists Co., in printing their catalogue in our advertising pages. This is an indication of what kind of a swath the Coventry people intend to cut this year. If infusion of life, energy, and the presentation of excellent goods can jointly produce business, then all we can say is that the "Club cycles" will show up in sales among the "leaders" of the trade at the end of the season.

ONLY on special occasions do we speak in this department of our advertisers, but we do think the fact that a firm dealing in road repairing machinery using our columns as a means of reaching a class of customers to whom they expect to sell their specialties, is worthy of comment. We deem it a significant sign, and one that contains a cheerful sermon. It indicates with all its collateral important features, the fact that the road-building machinery manufacturers recognize in wheelmen an influence which must prove of vast mutual benefit. We do not feel we are stepping beyond the bounds of propriety in commending the enterprise of Messrs. J. W. Davis & Co. to the notice of all League members to the end that Road Commissioners and others may have their attention called to Messrs. Davis' advertisement. We cannot do too much to aid in every way the accomplishment of what now, alas, is a desideratum only.

NEVER since cycling became an institution in this country has there been such universal interest shown in the matter of road improvements by the cyclers of the United States. From every quarter we hear of more or less activity among the riders to further and promote schemes and laws looking towards the building and maintenance of better highways. It is an encouraging feature, and one that should embolden the wheelmen to more aggressive action. The numbers of riders are now so large that they are no longer an element in our politics to be utterly ignored by those who look to us for our suffrages. We hope that every member of the League and every rider of a bicycle will never lose sight of the fact that his vote counts one, and that his influence may count for several more, so that when the question of road or street building or repairs comes up for their consideration and suffrage they will use their vote and utmost influence to the end that the best men and means will be employed to bring about a better condition of roads. The ball has been set a-rolling, on every hand are signs of awakening interest on this most important question. Let every road improvement organization persist in accomplishing the aims and ends it has in view; let every bicyclist look on it as an imperative duty to support such organizations both by moral and substantial aid; let every rider of the wheel make this one idea, "Roads Improvement," his hobby, and if we never miss an opportunity to cast a vote, speak a word, or spend a dollar for The Cause, the result must be "success," and the cycle and its votaries, as practical civilizers, will hold a place in history, which those who made it will be proud, and those who come after and continue the good work will be grateful.

PHILADELPHIA CENTURY—NOTICE OF MEETING.

A MEETING of delegates of the clubs interested in the proposed great Century run to Philadelphia, on June 16th, will be held at the office of Mr. L. A. Clarke, 25 Broad street, New York City, on Friday afternoon, April 27th, 1888, at 4 P. M. sharp. Definite action has been taken by six clubs, and in two instances the run has been already called. Details are yet to be arranged, but in general the plan is as follows, viz: Rendezvous at Newark and Orange on evening of Friday, June 15th; leave Orange at 4 A. M. next morning; easy riding to Trenton, where have dinner; in afternoon to Philadelphia, on Plain Side, and through Fairmount Park; in evening out on the celebrated Lancaster Pike, with the Philadelphia Wheel Clubs, and those others who will have gone on by train, far enough to finish the Century. It is not designed to be a road race, but a practical exemplification of the usefulness of the wheel, and, weather permitting, should be the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted. My imagination soars toward 200 participants.

"WING-FOOT."

CHAPTERS have been written upon "GENTLEMAN JOHN" "American informality," and there is, I think, room for much more manuscript of a purely laudatory nature upon the subject. When one contrasts the free and easy American mode of hospitality with which any sojourner in their country is treated by the best circles (provided, of course, that he or she has the instincts of a gentleman or lady), with the stiff, formal, unchristian-like demeanor of the large majority of the "cheap and nasty" two-legged fossils who have made Peebles their home within the last few years, the Americans (looking at the matter without prejudice and in an unjaundiced manner) have rather the best of the comparison. Robert Burns, the Scottish bard (it looks very much like tautology to append "the Scottish bard" to Burns' name) has a few lines which describe to a nicety the narrow-minded colonists to which I refer. He says:

"There's nothing here but Hieland pride,
Hieland pride and hunger;
And if the Lord has sent me here,
'Twas surely in his anger."

Even if a stranger condescends to attend their church, they glare at him with an I-am-holier-than-thou glare, and stare at him with a what-manner-of-man-art-thou stare, and act very much as a Highland steer does when he sees a bicyclist for the first time. The term which is applied to anyone who has not been brought up in the little self-sufficient hamlet of Peebles, is an "incomer," and they have an even more disrespectful word, a "Stourer-foot." The meaning of the name "incomer," as applied to strangers, is of course very evident, but that of "Stourer-foot" is not at once plain to one not conversant with the Scottish dialect. "Stourer" means dusty, and the name implies that a stranger is a person upon whose pedal extremities still clings the dust or "stour" of other cities. See? Then a person who has been brought up (or, as a pronounced Southerner or Westerner might say, has been "raised") in the obsolete hamlet of Peebles, is a "gutter-blood." A "blood" of the gutter—of the street—of the town. In fact I wonder if the average Peebles adult-mind is capable of grasping the idea that the name "gutter-blood" is a very doubtful eulogistic epithet. In fact since I have been here, I have seen much daily evidence which has forced me to believe that the drowsy air of Peebles is more conducive to the healthy growth of matter than of mind, of pounds avordupois and turnips, than of well bred men and women. The male adult is imbued with the tradition that "man's chief end" is to drink all he can (which he generally does), to eat and sleep all he can, and to utterly ignore the "golden rule," in which the treatment of a fellow man is so vigorously dealt with.

A MAN who rides four miles on a Sabbath day upon a cycle, to hear a half-witted and, generally, under-paid Scotch minister preach of the narrow road which we are told leads to a place where happiness is said to abound, is looked upon as a sinner already damned, already fast and irrevocably entangled in the meshes of Beelzebub, the heavy weight champion of Hades. He is pointed out in church and whispered about during the service, when they should have been listening to the hair-raising twaddle in which the minister tells them that he has positive knowledge that they are already the holders of everlasting passes to the fire which has no end. I think that even the firmest believers in the "fire-eternal" have grown callous under the treatment of the Peebles divine, and look upon eternal pyrotechnic treatment after death as undesirable but unavoidable. The idea of attending the house of the Lord in knee breeks, and leaving a velocipede among the grave stones outside, is looked upon as a crime, for which there can be no adequate atonement. But as the class to which I refer are both "ill born and ill bred," and perfectly harmless, I shall dismiss them from my thoughts, as unworthy of more than this very mild descriptive reproof. I have always been a mild-mannered man, and dislike strong language very much, as evidenced by my newspaper writings. It is with unassumed and most genuine fervency, that, unlike Sparticus, I cry, "Thank the gods that I am (not) a barbarian," and not a native of Peebles. For this last, especially, may Heaven be praised.

If I were going into business on this side, I do not know of a more likely investment than a factory in Peebles to manufacture a condensed "milk of human kindness, put up in one-pound tins. I am sure it is needed here sadly, and the expense of commercial travelling could of course be dispensed with, as the factory would have difficulty (unless it was upon a mammoth scale) in supplying the people in the vicinity of Peebles. Perhaps I have dwelt "somewhat rather much at length" upon the Peebles crustacean, but I could not do less than "damn them with faint praise." They need it, if ever a God-forgotten people did.

I GOT a sweet-scented little note from Percy Low, of Wheeling, in which he tells me that I have been "missed" from Fleet street, and people were divided in opinion as to whether I had got arrested under an alias (how would "Gentleman John" do?) at the late Sullivan-Mitchell (alleged) fight, or had taken a steamer for the Brazilian ports to join the Le Four brothers. Poor fellows. I am afraid the Le Four brothers would have had more fun in England than among the wilds of Brazil. Of course they are both reckless sort of chaps, and care but little for expense, and as little for notoriety, as evidenced by the quiet "manner of their going and setting out," both from America and from Liverpool. Had it not been for the efforts of "Ratchet," of New Jersey, the Le Four brothers might never have been engaged as special correspondents of the BICYCLING WORLD, and their doings might have remained in comparative obscurity to a large portion of the world. As it is, their trip promises to out-Stevens, to out-Ricalton, to out-Stanley and to out-Outing anything that has been heard of. I am just dying to hear of their safe arrival at St. Thomas, as is, I am sure, every careful reader of the BICYCLING WORLD, the unrivalled leader of American cycling journalism.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

THE Mayor of Orange, in his annual message, makes a number of valuable suggestion in regard to streets. He says: "The Street Commissioner reports having expended $4,274.52 in labor on streets, of which $2,377.38 was spent in rounding up on dirt roads. I am convinced that the putting of much work on dirt streets is a mistake, as the rounding up, as it is called, must be repeated annually, and the expense thus incurred would go far towards the payment of a permanent pavement. At this season of the year many of the prominent thoroughfares are almost impassable, and their improvement has been delayed by a combination of circumstances—the unwillingness of property owners, and the necessity of placing a large part of the cost on the city at large. I refer to Lincoln avenue, Lumber street, Essex avenue and Scotland street. Jefferson street has been opened, but no move has been made to grade. If it were wise to open and pay heavy damages for land taken, measures should be adopted to open up the property for street purposes and grade it. One, at least, of the streets alluded to, should be macadamized during the coming season, and proper provision made for the cost."

ORANGE has appropriated about $15,000 for road and street improvements.

A MACADAMIZED road between Irvington and South Orange avenue is being talked up.

THE Elizabeth Wheelmen will soon have a team on the road practicing for the semi-annual road race. Ditto, the Union County Wheelmen.

THAT Newark to Paterson, or Newark to Norristown and return, road race is again being talked up. Likewise a race from Jersey City to Philadelphia, and return.

WHEELMEN who are interested in road racing are advised to fight shy of North Plainfield. Dr. J. H. Cooley Chairman, of the L. A. W. Racing Board, has been elected Mayor of that place. Dr. Cooley is not in favor of road racing.

THE Orange Wanderers held a meeting on 24 March, and thirteen new members were elected. It was decided to withdraw the resignation from the "Alphabetical Association," and W. A. Belcher and C. W. Freeman were elected delegates to that organization.

THE Jersey City Journal says: "Dr. Johnson, the President of the Hudson County Wheelmen, was the first person to ride a bicycle in Jersey City. He began riding in 1880." The monthly meeting of this club was held 5 April, and the usual routine business transacted. The Hudson County team for the inter-club road race will soon be found on the Irvington-Milburn course, getting themselves into shape.

SOME of our cyclers seem to be determined to bring the wheel in to disrepute if possible by riding on the sidewalks of Broad, and other streets, as well as Central, Belleville and Lincoln avenues. It required some work to secure the passage of the bill giving to cycles the same rights as are accorded to other vehicles in New Jersey, and it seems unjust that any wheelman should, by insisting upon riding on sidewalks, violate the provisions of the bill. It is no more than fair, however, to say that the majority of those who use the sidewalks are boys or half-grown men.

HERE'S another chance for some missionary work; and another reason for abolishing the amateur rule, doing away with the Racing Board, and appointing committees on road improvement: "Never before were the roads of Randolph township in such a condition as now. The road overseers in most cases refuse to open or do any work because they can get no assurance from the Township Committee when they can get their pay, and they say they do not propose to hire men and pay them, and then wait for their money till after next year's taxes come in. Other townships have been opening their roads and paying their bills, and are doing this necessary work without any trouble at all. Our present committee, untroubled by any debts at all, seems wholly unable to devise means to meet the needs of the people."—Essex County Exchange.

AND apropos the road race, it seems to me as though the Brooklyn B. Club, now that they count the Ilderans in, should be able to put an almost invincible team on the road, provided, of course, that the road racers of the latter have joined the former club. It will be remembered that the last race was won by the Kings County Wheelmen's team, scoring 73 points. The second man to finish was Bradley, Ilderans, 23 points; fifth, Mead, B. B. C., 20; sixth, Waters, B. B. C., 19; tenth, Todd, B. B. C., 15; thirteenth, Schoefer, Ilderans, 12; fourteenth, Williams, B. B. C., 11. The first four men named had an aggregate of 77 points, while taking two Ilderans and two Brooklyn's, their aggregate would have still been a winning one—74 points. It looks as though the Kings County and Hudson County men would have a big job on their hands on Decoration Day.

CONNECTICUT-INGS.

THE SOLITARY CLUB.

THAT proposed joint tour from New York to the City of Brotherly Love will be pleasant and profitable in proportion to the pace taken, for in the latter part of the month of roses a continued scorch would not be up to our club's standard of average comfort. Make it a two days' ride and our Secretary could easily be "induced to accept an invitation to join!"—Believe that is the popular modern way to put it.

FINALLY we can see bare ground again, and begin to feel encouraged that soon the wheels can revolve, and cycling joys be ours. Some of our safety riders have been riding for some time, but the wintry March has set us back a month, nearly. It has brought our winter record of missed days' riding up to the unprecedented one of over thirty.

GIVE this lazy scribe a reasonably low and safe, easy-driven wheel, on which six to nine miles an hour on the road can be done, and he will be contented.

OUR fellow voyager across the deep blue last summer, Captain Hurlbutt, has been indisposed recently, but we hope before wheeling weather comes the Cap'n will be out again, and help reorganize the old club that disbanded here a year ago. Assistant Postmaster Jessup is working for the new club, and a meeting to see what can be done is called for this week Thursday evening.

ONE of our Star riders is reported as intending to tour in Europe this season, but has sold his wheel and "will not go as a cyclist," save the mark!

NEW men are already coming on and taking up the second-hands, that so much relieves the owners of them, who want something newer, lighter, lower, safer, or easier, and by a strange fatality these points are seldom combined in new machines.

WE are glad to see interest waking in the matter of easier-going cycles for the "most distracting half of humanity," and that they can ride on a nearer even footing with the sterner party of the second part. It occurs to us that the lady's machine must be so low that with the dirt-carrying chain and the very low frame work, they must be uncleanly to ride. Take one driven without chain, and with a better dress guard than wire netting, and the pleasure of the dainty rider must be much enhanced. We know from experience that the now regular chain safety is as famous for slinging mud as is a politician, and that the task of cleaning the chain to save wear was—well it was seldom done! Why cannot "Brer. Wilcox" draw us a sketch of what he thinks would be a good thing in the shape of a lady's safety cycle, as he has studied the "safety and easy-driving problem," and he "could if he would."

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

NO more important move has been made for a long while in the Quaker City than the bill introduced into Councils on April 5th, by Mr. Anderson, to re-pave Broad street with asphaltum, from Passunk avenue to Columbia avenue. This would give us what is sorely needed, a rideable street through the centre of the city, and as it would adjoin the asphalted surface of Diamond street, we would have a superb outlet to the park, a riding avenue surpassed by no place in the country. Mr. Anderson deserves the thanks of all wheelmen, and more than this, he deserves their hearty co-operation. This suggestion respectfully referred to the associated cycling clubs. What a boom such a thoroughfare will give cycling! The proof of the practical utility there is in the wheel would double the number of riders in a year's time. My bicycle would save me about thirty dollars a season in car fares alone, and isn't that an argument to clinch the nail with?

MR. E. I. HALSTEAD, of the Harlem Wheelmen, is now a Pennsylvania Club member, having been elected to membership last Thursday evening. At that meeting thirteen new members were taken in, making the club roll about 175. The dark gray uniform with the silver Keystone will be one of the prominent features at the Baltimore meet.

ANOTHER death must be recorded; that of Mr. Harry H. Levette, of the Century Wheelmen, which resulted from incautious handling of powerful electric appliances at the works of the Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co., Lynn, Mass. He was still an active member of the club, although for some time residing at Lynn. Suitable resolutions were passed.

A RECKLESS driver ran over the velocipede belonging to a little boy, near Belmont Hill in the park last week, and was chased and caught by Messrs. Shaffer and Allen of the Centurions, who caused his arrest by the first guard met. A few cases of this sort and the reckless element who run into and over everything in the shape of cycles, will learn that punishment is swift and sure in every case.

QUOTING from the Lynn Item, the Wheel and Cycling Trade Review (full name, if you please, Mr. Editor; Mr. Prial seriously objects to having his journal's name curtailed) says J. H. Shurman of Lynn will stop at Philadelphia on his Western trip, and inspect "Eagle Hill." Surely this overgrown village has not absorbed the Orange district too.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

THE following shows the value of influence in the politics in Queens Co., and also the condition of things against which the warfare for good roads must be waged. The Jerico pike and the North Hempstead pike are the two arteries of travel on Long Island, connecting the metropolis and the towns in the interior, the latter, the one in question, being macadamized from Little Neck to "Harry Hill's" on Flushing meadows, where it divides. The shorter route from this point is direct Jackson avenue, so called, but the longer is a better road known as Thompson avenue, the latter getting the most traffic, at the best both being poor. For a number of years efforts have been made to get an appropriation for the improvement of the former, but have always, until last year, failed, because the keeper of a certain road-house on Thompson Ave., objected, on the ground that it would take his trade away, and threatened to "cut the ticket." And yet the old case-hardened agriculturalists keep on year after year, voting the "ring" ticket, and making their own already degraded condition lower and lower.

"LONG ISLAND roads are of a sandy complexion." We are thinking of trying "Recamier Cream" hereafter, instead of macadam, "to remove imperfections."

THE Mercury Wheel Club holds the opening record to Babylon again, as it has for the two previous years, two members having gone through on Sunday last, reporting the roads to be in the finest kind of condition.

A GOOD many wheelmen will no doubt take advantage of the prevailing beautiful weather this week to witness the attempted removal of the Brighton Beach Hotel, which has been cut into sections and is to be moved 500 feet, upon railway flat-cars. This is a most extraordinary undertaking, and special trains are to be run to Coney Island to allow people the opportunity of seeing a large summer hotel moved 500 feet in fewer seconds.

The annual dinner of the Kings County Wheelmen will be eaten at Dillards on April 14th. Covers will be laid for one hundred and fifty, and the Mayor and other city dignitaries and celebrities have been invited. The K. C. W.s have won the handsome silver cup, representing the pool championship of those two close but friendly rivals, the L. I. W.s and the K. C. W.s.

The North Hempstead turnpike, out as far as the end of the macadam, is in first-class shape. Brer. Lincoln, of the Mercurys, and myself went as far as Little Neck and return on Easter Sunday, and enjoyed the novelty of alternately riding in dust, and between snow banks three feet in depth. The roads between Jamaica and Flushing were not open up to Sunday.

At the athletic games of Co. A, 23d Regiment, Saturday evening, April 7th, Messrs. J. F. Borland and J. W. Schaefer, of the Brooklyn Bi. Club, took first and second places, respectively, in the two-mile handicap bicycle race, and Mr. Ed Hornbostel took first place in the one-mile handicap run. The Brooklyns turned out as large and enthusiastic as ever, and made their share of the noise. The annual election of this club took place Tuesday evening of this week, but the result has not yet come to hand. The "goat" fever has broken out very badly in all the Brooklyn clubs, and circus posters have gone up in price since A. B. B. began selling them.

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

PERCY STONE recently started to rent a brand new Salvo tandem, and consequently tandem riding is quite the thing now. Klipstein and Miss Kate Medart have had one or two runs on it lately, and in each case covered between fifteen and twenty miles.

As Miss Medart has never ridden before this is a very good showing, and her reputation is all the more enhanced by "Klip" declaring positively that he only did his share of the work.

The renting of wheels is assuming large proportions here. Last Sunday the St. Louis Wheel Co. rented no less than thirty of them, and could have placed fifty if they had had them on hand.

The final entertainment of the winter season was given at the Missouri Bi. Club's house Thursday. As usual the attendance was large, and all enjoyed themselves immensely. The managers have concluded to have these entertainments at intervals during the summer. The next one will be a Lantern Slide entertainment, at which the club's photographers will show fine views of pictures taken while on some of the runs, the whole to conclude with the usual hop.

The Cycle Club held their annual meeting for the election of officers Monday, April 2, at their club rooms. The following were elected for the ensuing year: President, Geo. H. Lucas, re-elected; Vice President, Eug. Jaccard; Treasurer, Walter Tyler; Assistant Treasurer, H. W. Greenwood; Secretary, E. L. Mockler, re-elected; Captain, E. N. Sanders. At this meeting three active and two associate members were admitted to membership. The committee appointed to look up new quarters have not as yet succeeded in finding a suitable house, but no doubt will be able to do so before the lease of their present quarters expires.

STREET re-construction is going on at a lively rate here, but I am sorry to state that very little of it is asphaltum or Telford pavement. Grand avenue will be improved from Laclede avenue to Tower Grove park at a cost of over $40,000. This will make this park easily accessible from all parts of the city. Tower Grove park has the finest roads in the State, and it reflects very creditably on the good sense and judgment of Mr. Hy. Shaw, who, when he presented the park site to the city, stipulated that a fund of no less than $25,000 would have to be annually expended in keeping the roads and the park itself up to the required standard.

ACTING upon the suggestion contained in my last letter, President Brewster appointed Messrs. Douglas, Boker, and Chauvenet a committee to confer with the municipal authorities relative to leaving parts of certain streets unsprinkled before certain hours at morning and evening. The committee went to work at once, and on Thursday interviewed President Flad, of the Board of Public Improvements, in regard to it, who received them very graciously, and upon hearing their request, promised to bring the matter before the Board next Tuesday, when he requested them to be present, and do all in his power to extend the courtesies. It is to be hoped that the request will be granted, as many of the resident riders will give up riding if they could not use their wheel in going to and from business.

The first run of the season of the Missouri Bi. Club took place Sunday, April 1, to Ballwin. It being Easter Sunday the attendance was rather light. In spite of this, seventeen Missouri men faced the wind, and reached Ballwin in time to enjoy one of mine host Busch's dinners. The Manchester road being freshly macadamized, a diversion was made to the Clayton road, and it followed to North and South road, where the Manchester road was again taken. The features of the run were Percy Stone's climbing of Sun-of-Gun on a Victor safety, and Hildebrand's like feat on a Columbia Light Roadster, and Bob Sharpe's strong attack on hen fruit. Messrs. Sharpe and Weil took their first long run with the club, and pluckily rode the entire distance. Both of these gentlemen have been regular attendants at Prof. Barron's gymnasium classes during the winter, and their riding showed the good resulting therefrom.

An applicant for a position on our police force had over eleven inches expansion, and will probably be refused. Next!

"ARIEL" labors under a mistake. I didn't offer to back Banker against Wilhelm; I am not around giving money away.

I MADE a mistake last week, the child-poet will ride a "Star" this year. You may now prepare for "An Ode to Sirius," or some equally ethereal subject.

HILAND AVENUE is in bad shape, and not likely to be repaired this summer. This will be hard on some butterflies who secure their mileage by riding from Penn avenue to the reservoir and return.

THE Commercial Gazette gives publicity to A. C.'s run to De Haven, and says it is their annual run. Inasmuch as they go to De Haven on nearly all their club runs, the use of the word "annual" is slightly ambiguous.

MESSRS. EDITORS, would like you to settle a dispute. Rowe, versus sprinter, distance 100 yards; which wins? It is claimed by the majority that the sprinter would beat Rowe, as he would lose so much on the start. The whole question narrows down to, can Rowe beat ten seconds? Can you tell us? [Rowe can beat ten seconds with a flying start, but it would be a question if he could do as well within two or three seconds from a standing start.—Ed.]

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THREE cheers and a tiger for Senator Laughlin, who has taken up a project which has been laying idle for over a year, and—but hold on! Let me state the cause of my crowing. The fact is, our worthy Senator has introduced a bill in the Senate at Albany, which provides for the location of a boulevard, 100 to 200 feet wide, to extend from this city to Niagara Falls. It names several prominent men from Buffalo, Tonawanda and Niagara Falls as commissioners to locate the boulevard. They will meet at the City Hall, Buffalo, June 15th, and organize; they are also instructed to report on or before Sept. 1st, 1888. A commission of three will then be appointed to appraise lands taken by the boulevard. If the bill passes all right, work will undoubtedly be commenced before the year is out. As I predicted before this, a cycling boom is in store for Buffalo. The Commercial states: "The bicyclists of this city have signified their intention of assessing each member of the L. A. W. in this State one dollar for the completion of the boulevard." Now aren't they a little too previous? Whether the plan will work remains to be seen. I hardly think it will, for this reason: There are some League members (and a very large "some") who will think twice before they give a dollar towards something from which they derive no benefit. I admit there are members whose liberality will not be questioned; I will wager they are in the minority. I would suggest, if I may be so bold, that subscriptions be solicited in the different cities of New York State, and I believe in that way more money would be realized than by the other plan. I don't see how the assessing of each L. A. W. member is possible; there is nothing in the constitution that provides for a thing of that sort. [Right you are.—Ed.]

THE Ramblers are considering the advisability of renting more commodious quarters. The members expect to act in the capacity of "mine host" during the tournament this summer, and think the RECORDS which we know to be false.—RECORDS after they are taken from us by another wheel.—RECORDS which are not unanimously accepted by the cycling press as genuine.

ONE OF THE THINGS WE DO NOT DO.

Retire from racing after every obtainable road, long distance and track record is beyond our reach.

A FEW THINGS WE DO.

An honorable manufacturing business.—Guarantee our wares to be exactly as represented.—Make a wheel which is capable of, and does hold all world's road and long distance records.

Do not forget that we make a large sized specialty of sundries and manufacture nearly everything in the way of accessories needed by the bicycle rider. We are always glad to discount on these goods to any authorized agent or repairer, whether he handles our line of bicycles or not. Our latest acquisition is the Excelsior Cyclometer, which is known by everybody to be absolutely reliable. We have a lot of these cyclometers in sizes, 50, 52 and 54 inch, of the old pattern, which we are offering, to close out, at the ridiculously low price of $5.00 each. They are just the same in matter of mechanism as the new style Excelsior, the only difference being that they cannot be read from the saddle. Those who desire to take advantage of this bargain had better order early, as they are going fast.

PARDON me, Mr. Editor, if I again insert a pun in my squib; it is not of my making. I happened over to Bowen's place the other evening, and noticing the Victor catalogues were issued in red and white covers, I remarked the fact to Bowen, and he replied: "Yes, I suppose they meant to have one, red outside and white within, and the other, white outside to be read (red) within." The office cat, which had been sleeping peacefully under the stove, let forth an unearthly screech and squirmed about in horrible agony on the floor. Three bicycles took a tumble.

HERE is something interesting to cyclers in general and "Duquesne" in particular. I wandered over to the domain in which the "King-pin of tournament managers" (I needn't mention his name; everybody knows him) holds forth, and probing that worthy sire, elicited the following information: He informs me that his plans are almost completed, and in answer to my inquiry as to which club, if any, will have charge of it, "the Ramblers," he replied, "and just as soon as my plans are perfected, I will make a formal proposition to them." He stated further, that he had a talk with C. J. Hamlin, the Driving Park magnate, and there are chances that he (Hamlin) will lay out a cycling track at his own expense, providing the tournament is held during the Fair and opening of the Exposition Building, which will occur some time during September. Ducker says the tournament will last four or five days. My half hour's conversation with him gave me enough enthusiasm to run a tournament all by myself. I hope to have more definite information in my next.

DETROIT.

"TWINKLER."

A HOME-TRAINER contest by members of the Detroit Bicycle Club took place at the club parlors on March 25. The affair was the more enjoyable as it was entirely informal. Nearly all the members took part, and the audible comments upon the riding of some, were more productive of mirth than of fast time. The best time made was by Lieutenant Lane, who made a quarter in twenty seconds. The Detroit Club has delightful parlors. Give us another contest.

PRESIDENT KIRKPATRICK has accepted the invitation of the Star Bi. Club of Detroit, and will be its guest at the division meet this summer. The meet will be held at Grand Rapids, probably in July.

ALREADY candidates for Chief Consul and Representatives are being discussed. There is a strong sentiment in favor of Mr. J. E. Beal of Ann Arbor, for Chief Consul. Mr. B. well deserves anything within the gift of the Division, or of the League for that matter. He is well known, popular, and an indefatigable worker. It is understood, however, that he will not accept office for next season on account of contemplated absence from the State, so we must look elsewhere. Now what's the matter with Mr. Clarence Lightner, President of the Detroit Club? Mr. L. is a man of much ability, and is "a hustler from Hustlerville."

AND COMMENT.

J. FRED MIDGLEY will be actively on the road this year. He is under the care of Mr. Charles P. Daniels, one of the best trainers in the country. Midgley's mount will be the same as last year, the Springfield Roadster. He will not only ride on the road, but he proposes to take part in all the track events this side of Chicago. We also understand that Mr. Worden, who is now in the employ of the Springfield Bicycle Co., will place himself under the directions of Mr. Daniels, and also train for the coming season.

WILMINGTON, Del., is to have a bicycle track. It will also be used for pedestrian races.

'Tis said that Long Branch, N. J., will add to its many attractions, that of a bicycle track, the laying out and building of same to cost some $25,000.

SPRINGFIELD claims to have been the birthplace of cycling, so far as this country is concerned. We would respectfully ask, where does Boston come in?

CAPTAIN JACK CRAWFORD, the "Poet Scout," author of the very clever character poem which appeared in our last issue, is now staying at the Adams House in this city.

THE English War Department have designed a uniform to be worn by the cycling contingent. It consists of a dark green military tunic and cap, faced with red, dark green knee breeches and stockings.

A TWENTY-MILE road race, between the New Bedford Cycle Club and the Taunton Bicycle Club, will be run on Memorial Day, for a trophy of $50 value, subscribed by the New Bedford citizens.

A FRENCH nobleman is the latest one to dabble in the application of steam to a triecyle. He makes the usual claim that it is perfectly practicable, very light, and will maintain a speed of twenty-five miles an hour on good roads.

ROWE will not appear among the starters for the world's open one-mile championship to be run at Wolverhampton, England, April 23. Woodside, and possibly Temple, will represent the American contingent. Howell is named to start.

A BREATHLESS universe is awaiting the result of that $30,000 match between Prince and McCurdy. There may be some "breathless" backers if there is any chance of repeating that Minneapolis affair in which Mr. McCurdy so prominently figured.

IN the final heat of the five-mile international race between Battensby and Rowe last month, at Agricultural Hall, London, Rowe beat the Englishman by "a few inches." So close was the finish that some discontent was shown by the spectators, as many thought that Battensby had it.

THE subject of our cartoon this week is Mr. C. K. Alley, one of the very best known riders in New York State. He has always been prominent in League matters, and has held the important position of Vice-president of the National organization. His New York friends will be especially pleased with this plate.

WE went out to Corey hill the other day. We found it there just the same as last year, and it had a sort of come-if-you-dare look on its high forehead which was not very encouraging to the prospects of Messrs. Shurman's, Wells' and Greenwood's chances of climbing the same on a bicycle twelve times without stopping.

THEY have got a one-legged man in Lynn, Mass., who can ride a bicycle, perform on the trapeze, or gyrate on the festive roller skate. This individual glories in the name of Prof. Erni. This has an Italian sound, but we would bet dollars to doughnuts that he hails from the vicinity of Cork, and that his name begins with Pat.

WILLIAM J. CORCORAN, the well-known trainer, will stay in this country and look after the ped, George Littlewood, in his six-day race to come off in New York. After this event, which will take place in May, Corcoran will assist Dr. Dole in his college athletics. Mr. Dole will back Crocker to ride three races with Rowe at Lynn for $500 a side, on the return of these two men from England.

L. A. W. No. 551 writes: "In regard to aged riders, I would remark that I am 45 years of age, and have ridden a bicycle for two years. For three years previous I have suffered from kidney complaint, but thanks to the intelligent use of my wheel I am now as tough as steel and as limber as an eel. I shall be in Baltimore, and I hope to meet many of the older 'Knights,' and I hope to be able to demonstrate that I am as good and better than some of our younger brethren."

At a meeting of the Long Island Wheelmen held April 4, the Hon. A. C. Chapin, Mayor of Brooklyn, was elected to honorary membership. It will be remembered that His Honor the Mayor recently appointed Mr. Chas. H. Luscomb, Captain of the club, a Park Commissioner. The club gave a ladies' reception on Saturday evening, the 7th inst., at which Mayor Chapin was present. An interesting programme of music, recitations, and dancing was given. Among the performers were Mrs. Nellie Yale Nelson, leading lady of the Gilbert Dramatic Society, and Miss Vogt, pianist.

"QUONG WING," hailing from Denver, Col., writes: "The eyes of the Denver men were opened very wide by some correspondence in your issue of March 23, and we all wonder why the existing road records stand, with such men loose in the country as the seven who went on the San Francisco Bi. Club's moonlight run, and covered the first twenty-six miles in one hour and twenty minutes, this, too, with one mile of scarcely rideable road, which must necessarily have thrown them behind five or six minutes. We figure their riding better, or equal to the world's records, ridden in daylight. Perhaps their 'special Club Liar' broke loose, or the riders were timed by a Waterbury oil can?"

MR. W. C. COFFIN of Pittsburgh writes the following: "In a late issue of the Bt. WORLD I see that 'Duquesne' attributed my giving up the Victor Safety to the fact (?) that I could not keep my pedals from doubling into cow horns, or words to that effect. The fact, however, is that the pedals never gave me any more trouble than my full-fledged crank, but, through recklessness in jumping every gutter and other obstacle that I thought at all surmountable (without regard to the welfare of my wheel), I broke the saddle twice and any number of spokes, and then gave it up because of my own abuse of it. Give the wheel the same treatment that you do your Light Roadsters, and I will put up my pile that it will outlast them."

THE Longwood Minstrels of Boston is composed of some of the most accomplished amateur performers in the country. Indeed, it can be truthfully said that the entertainment given by this troupe, composed as it is of some of the best-known society men of "The Hub," rivals those given by some of the foremost professional troupes. It goes, therefore, without saying that the volunteer entertainment given by several members of the "Longwoods" at the Boston club house, last Saturday, was one of the most delightful ever enjoyed by that club. The Boston clubmen cannot say enough in praise of the really excellent impromptu "show," and they are profuse in their thanks to the members of the Longwood Club, who so kindly volunteered to appear on that evening.

THE Scranton (Pa.) Bicycle Club have taken steps to become an incorporated body and also to purchase property on Washington Ave., 40x160, on which they propose to build a club house. They are a "cordial lot" out in Scranton, as the following from Secretary Jno. F. Roe will testify: "Fellow-wheelmen coming in our midst this summer will find us unable to extend the hospitalities of club rooms as of yore, but instead we extend the hospitalities of the whole city. Any wheelman by inquiring of the Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. or any hotel clerk will be directed to a member of the club who can entertain him in the saddle, and will take pleasure in doing so."

L. A. W. No. 7276 writes from New Bedford, Mass., as follows: "I note in your columns a clipping from the Bi. News, in which a man speaks of coasting a hill with folded arms at a two-minute gait, and which you seem to disbelieve. If it is the time you doubt, I have nothing to say; but, if it is a question of coasting 'hands off,' I would like to say that it is not anything extraordinary, as I have coasted half a mile with my hands in my lap, and I am the reverse of expert in riding. A friend of mine, who has been on my machine a half dozen times of a few minutes each, always folds his arms when he coasts, but, as he is very expert and can ride almost any kind of machine at sight, it is to be expected. My mount is a Rudge Bicycleette."

THE N. C. U. have made the startling discovery that the "Surprise Dart Safety Tricycle" is not a tricycle at all. This decision of the N. C. U. has completely upset all our notions of what a tricycle ought to be. We turn to the rules of the N. C. U., and we find they say a tricycle is "any machine three or more wheeled, two or more tracked." Then we turn to the cut of the Surprise, and we see a three-wheeled machine making three tracks!! The ruling of the N. C. U. is a positive proof that that organization can make black into white. With such power as this, the N. C. U. ought to be able to purify the rankest, most corruptible beat in the professional or amateur ranks into an amateur, guileless and pure. We know of a few specimens that we would like to see purified by this infallible and all powerful body which can decide beyond cavil, a tricycle to be a mowing machine, or bicycle to be a locomotive.

THE NEW SCIENCE OF WILL POWER AS APPLIED TO CYCLING.

THE article in the Boston Sunday Globe a few weeks ago on Christian Science or Mind Cure has led me to think what an excellent science this would prove to the cyclist if it can be successfully worked. I learn from this article that all things in their present state are the outcome of the Mind or Life of the human being. I am told that hunger, broken limbs, sickness, cyclones, and earthquakes are all creations of a diseased and perverted Mind; that such things do not exist, but are merely the emanations of a distempered imagination. These statements are rather staggering to one who has always believed that broken bones were a disagreeable reality, and that earthquakes and cyclones were affairs out of the controlling jurisdiction of man and his Mind. To the believer in the new and remarkable "ism," we poor mortals who have not yet been able to set a dislocated bone by merely "will power," are wallowing in the lowest depths of ignorance and darkness. I propose to wake up to the delightful possibilities this new theory presents, and tell you and your readers how I have experimented and intend to experiment, and show how I, with the Power of Mind well in hand, will neutralize all the discomforts I have heretofore thought I had encountered while riding a cycle. With this Power the header will lose all its terrors. What if I do knock out half a dozen teeth, and swallow them for that matter? What if my machine does become a wreck and my nose be denuded of skin? Bosh! it is all imagination, a trick of an ill-trained mind. No such catastrophe has occurred; my Mind says so, and I believe it, though I must confess to a funny sensation on the end of my nose, a queer feeling in my insides where the teeth have lodged, and a sense of bareness pervading my gums. As to the damaged bicycle, my Mind, with a very little effort, straightens out the buckled wheel, the bent pedal and puts back in place the broken spoke. This is, we know, hard on the repairers, but what is the use of having a Mind unless I use it? When I have gotten this Mind of mine well in hand I expect to have great sport with those who have a Mind and do not know how to use it. How I shall laugh to myself as I see these poor benighted individuals toiling along against an imaginary head wind wrongly supposed, and wickedly reported by the weather bureau to have had a velocity of fifty miles an hour. My Mind will have decided that there is no head wind, or if there is it must be a fair one. How I shall chuckle when I see these same heathen struggling up a rough stony grade perspiring, groaning and swearing in an old-fashioned, mistaken manner. I shall have Willed that the grade or the bad surface do not exist except in the perverted imagination of my comrades. I shall will a surface as smooth as asphalt and as level as calm water. I tell you, Mr. Editor, I have allowed this old Mind of mine to have altogether too easy a time. It has got to work for a living now, and by the time the snow leaves the ground I and my educated Mind will surprise the boys. Oh, by the way, knowing that the snow and vile condition of the streets were "all in my eye," according to the new theory, I Willed that the streets be dry and smooth and then started out to ride. I must confess sub rosa that the old Mind did not work, as I was apparently aware that the ground was very wet, and that I appeared to cause much merriment on behalf of some passers-by. This, however, was of course imagination. If I was not a convert I should say my nose is very sore, but it isn't, that I am prepared to aver, even if I don't like to have anything touch it. I shall be obliged to give you full account of how I progress in getting my Mind tractable and docile. I am going to try it on my landlady and see if I cannot convince her that I am not six weeks in arrears. If I cannot do this I am afraid my Mind will have to take my stomach into partnership.

TO WILLIAM A. ROWE.

THE nation's eyes are on you, Billy Rowe;
And we've millions bet upon you, As you go;
Don't you let Dick Howell beat you, Or there'll be none here to "treat" you,
For we'll be a bankrupt country, Billy Rowe.

Let Richard do the head-work, Billy Rowe;
Just you freeze on to the ped-work, Every show;
Cut the pace out fine and large, And sail by that loitering barge,
And show him you can travel, Billy Rowe.

Do him up so jolly brown, Billy Rowe;
That 'twill flatten London-town, Don't you know;
Break the records by the mile, In your good old Springfield style,
And come home like Julius Caesar, Billy Rowe;

The fire-works are waiting, Billy Rowe;
And the prospects are elating, You should know;
For a grand jubilation, In your honor, by the nation,
And "with cards" to All Creation, Billy Rowe.

You shall live on milk and honey, Billy Rowe;
With the "Surplus" for pin-money, —All free blow;
You shall revel like a lord, And the nation pay your board,
If you'll ONLY DO UP HOWELL, Billy Rowe!

EUROPEAN TOUR.

To my many cycling friends, and other readers of the Bi. World who may be interested, I would say that I am now making arrangements for a European cycle tour for a party of twenty-five, to take place during the summer of 1889. The route will be across Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, down the Rhine to Antwerp, where steamer will be taken for England. The party will leave America the latter part of May, 1889, and be gone about three months. At both London and Paris (World's Fair in latter city) halts for a week or more will be made. I should be pleased to correspond with those wheelmen who take interest in the contemplated trip.

Your truly, F. A. ELWELL, 152 Pearl St., Portland, Maine.

WE OFFER A MEDAL.

THE "aged riders" are waking up, and records of rides are being received right along. The latest is from Indiana, and is as follows: "Last June I. C. Doan, of Richmond, Ind., aged fifty years, rode a light roadster to Indianapolis (seventy miles) in the forenoon. At the end of the first fifty miles he made a ten-mile spurt in three-quarters of an hour. The same afternoon he rode out to Crawfordsville, forty miles further. Next day rode sixteen miles, visiting the Crawfordsville road race, returned to Indianapolis by rail in the evening, and jogged back to Richmond next day on his wheel, and was neither stiff nor sore. Entire riding distance, 196 miles. Put him among ye ancients." In connection with the above we have it on good authority that Mr. McCune, President of the Springfield Bicycle Co., thinks nothing of his sixty miles a day at a ten-mile clip. By all means let us have a veterans' race at Baltimore, Md., next June. In order to bring about the event, we hereby offer a gold medal to be competed for at Baltimore during the June meet of the L. A. W. on the following conditions:

Age of rider must be forty-five years or over; distance to be covered, two miles; any form or type of road machines, only, to be used. Entrance free, but entries, with age and machine to be used, must be received at this office by May 20th next.

THE HILL CLIMBING CONTEST.

WE learn from the Athlete that arrangements between Greenwood and Wells have at last been completed, and we are told that: "The first contest will take place on Kimmswick Hill, St. Louis, on Saturday, June 30th, or on the following Monday in case of rain. The second contest will be held on Eagle Rock, July 28th, and if a third race is necessary it will take place on Corey Hill the first week in August. The rules will be the same as those usually governing hill-climbing contests, the man climbing the hill in the quickest time to be declared the winner. In case either contestant is thrown out by an accident to his machine, he will be allowed to repair the damage and make another trial. The winner of two out of three races will be declared champion of America. The loser will pay the railroad and hotel expenses of the winner, and also the entire cost of the $50 championship medal." We are of course personally sorry that the contest on Corey is made provisional; but we hope that each man will prove successful on his "native hill," so that Corey will be the scene of the deciding battle. In the meantime we should like to hear from Mr. Wells as to the proposed match between himself and Mr. Shurman of Lynn? We are advised that Mr. Shurman thinks "12 times up and down Corey" within his capacity. We hope this fact won't discourage Mr. Wells.

A NEW FIRM IN THE BICYCLE MANUFACTURING BUSINESS.

THE Warwick Cycle Mfg. Co with factory and headquarters at Springfield, Mass., is a new firm in the country, but the name of Warwick as connected with some of the most valuable improvements in construction, is by no means a new or an unknown combination to most of our readers. The President of the American Company, Mr. George T. Warwick, is the son of Mr. Thomas Warwick, of Birmingham, England, the patentee of the celebrated Warwick rims and backbones. This English firm, is probably, one of the most extensive and successful makers of bicycle material in that country. For some time past Mr. George T. Warwick has been in this country looking the ground over, and the results of his investigations have brought about the establishment of a firm to manufacture cycles in the United States. As yet the new concern have not made any public announcement as to their products, but in a general way we learn that rubber cushions are to be used in the construction in a way to minimize the jar as much as possible.

The backbones and the rims will of course, be of the celebrated Warwick patents; the bearings will be ball with vertical adjustment. There will be several new features included in the new machine, among which will be an improved way of detaching handle-bar, putting in spokes, the details all of which will have attention in full when the company are ready to announce. The officers of the company are: President, George T. Warwick; Vice-president, D. L. Swan; Treasurer, George K. Tapley; Secretary, Fred. R. Swan. The machinery for manufacturing is being constructed, and the company hope to be running by May 1. They manufacture a full line of bicycles and also tricycles. They will also make spider-web wheels for carriages. These wheels will of course be stronger than the bicycle wheels and there will also be a rubber cushion at the end of each spoke.

THAT FATAL ACCIDENT.

THE death of Mr. Edward A. Paul last Monday week, has caused a great sensation among wheelmen in Washington. As we went to press one day earlier last week, the news and particulars failed to reach us in time for publication. The facts are briefly: At about 5.30 Saturday week, Mr. Paul started out on his bicycle to ride to Whitney Close; on his return and nearly opposite his house, No. 2410 14th street, a colored man riding a horse at a furious pace, ran Mr. Paul down, throwing him to the ground and fracturing his spinal column. Mr. Paul retained his consciousness almost to the last, although below his shoulders he was completely paralyzed. At the time of the accident Mr. Paul was on the proper side of the road, and there was plenty of room for any vehicle to pass. Eye-witnesses say that Chase was urging his horse; on the other hand Chase avers that the horse became unmanageable, and that he could not control its speed or direct its course. Chase was arrested and released on bail, but on the death of Prof. Paul he was rearrested to await the coroner's verdict. Professor Paul was the Principal of the High School. Action was taken by the Alumni of the High School, and his funeral was largely attended by school officials, also by a large number of cyclists. Prof. Paul was a young man, being in his 33d year; he was born in Haverhill, Mass. The "Capital Club" called a meeting and took steps to raise funds to carry on and prosecute the case. Much indignation is felt by all at Chase for his reckless riding, and the awful results thereof. We requested information by wire as to coroner's verdict, but up to the time of going to press we have received no word.

LATER.—Since the above was written and put in type, we have received advices, that the Coroner's Jury has returned a verdict that Edward A. Paul came to his death through a collision caused by the careless and reckless riding of James M. Chase. Chase will be held for action of Grand Jury.

RACING IN PHILADELPHIA.

YOUNG McDOWELL, the Philadelphia professional, was tendered a benefit Saturday evening, at the Elite Rink, by the South End Wheelmen. The races: One-mile, Pennsylvania Club,—Halsted first, in 2.57 3-5. Fuller dropped out. One-mile, South End Wheelmen—Betchold had a walk over. Time, 3.12 4-5. Bailey had also a walk over in the one mile, Century Wheelmen. Time, 3.04 2-5. One-mile, Camden Wheelmen—Weaver first, 3.09 2-5. Potter second. One-mile novice—H. M. Green, first, 3.16 3-5. Draper a close second, 3.17. One-mile open—Halsted first, 3.03 2-5. Potter second, 3.06 4-5. One-mile inter-club between Bailey, of the Century Club, and Halsted, of the Pennsylvania, won by the latter in 3.04. There was also some fine fancy riding by J. M. Stout, the deaf mute rider of New York, solos by Prof. Kennedy, and some remarkable shooting by Medis the Rifle Queen. The officers were: Judges, W. D. Roberts, C. A. Snyder; timers, Frank Kohler, W. D. Supplee; clerk of course, J. A. Green; starter, G. N. Strong; referee, J. A. Wells.

"We were glad during the past week to make the acquaintance of J. Purvis-Bruce, the Scotch-American correspondent of the Bicycling World, who up to now has been only known to us by his writing under a nom de plume ('Gentleman John'), which raised our wrath each time we came across it. Mr. Bruce is a most amusing companion, and we can understand now, the many complimentary things that have been said about him at various times by our American and English exchanges, and we hope to see a good deal more of him before he leaves these shores. There is something about his face, surmounted by its curly head of hair, and light tweed-covered figure, which seem to make him on the best of terms with everyone, and now he has discarded his nom de plume, we shall have the very greatest pleasure in meeting him, if not in every-day life, in the pages of the leading American cycling paper." The above we take from Bicycling News. We must ask our good friends of the News to pardon us, but the wording of the above would indicate that Mr. Purvis-Bruce has taken to wearing a "light tweed-covered figure" above his face! We have tried to figure the thing out, but we become perplexed and bewildered trying to imagine the genial Scotch-American "upside down and every way." Now we expect to get a lesson on punctuation from Mr. Harmsworth, but the off-hand reading of the above paragraph struck us on our funny side, and we hope there will be no reprisals inflicted on us and ours for our temerity in thus jokingly alluding to above kindly notice of Mr. P.-B.

"BOYCOTT CORBIN."

Editor Bicycling World and Bulletin: Dear Sir—Right heartily do I endorse "Wing-Foot" in his article against Corbin and his pet monopoly, the Long Island R. R., and bitterly do I regret my numerous shekels that have gone to enrich it. Now as there is no law, or power in the League to give us redress, nor, as I opine, any great superfluity of cash in the treasury to conduct such a fight, why cannot we boycott Mr. Long Island Corbin by building a cinder path from Brooklyn to Jamaica, where good riding commences, by popular subscription, as wheelmen have done in other parts of the country?

I am sure that this can be done for a much less sum than what we spend for transportation in one season, and I for one will do my level best to promote the scheme financially and otherwise.

Won't you kindly give this space in the World and Bulletin, so that some one or more well known wheelmen who will give weight to the undertaking, will take it up in a manner to place it before our brotherhood? I would gladly start the ball rolling myself, but am at loss how to proceed, and indeed, this is the first time I have raised my voice in the interest of our fraternity, much as I may have been tempted to do so before.

Brooklyn, April 4th, 1888.

[We shall always be glad to hear from you.—ED.]

THE ROADS QUESTION.

Editor Bicycling World:—I must say I certainly agree with Brother Ratchet, of New Jersey. Certainly we must all admit our poor roads keep back the bicycling fraternity from numbering thousands, aye, tens of thousands, more than they do at present. The long-headed wheelmen do not expect to see the millennium for bicyclists come, after a few determined but short efforts on their part to secure advantages and rights essential to the rapid increase of wheeling and wheeling-interests in the United States. The old adage, "what is everybody's work is nobody's work," holds true here, as elsewhere. A "live committee," not in each State, but in every Territory containing so many wheelmen, would, I am sure, at least serve as a nucleus, from which in ten years, possibly in five or even less time, a wide-spread and determined movement in the interest of good roads would sweep over the country, leaving in its train good roads, provisions for keeping them good, and a multitude of bicyclists arising in every town and village. From my own observation, I have arrived at the conclusion that the prejudice and indifference of legislators and farmers which has in the past kept our roads in such a deplorable state arises chiefly through ignorance. In every division the Chief Consul could select from a large class of able writers a few of the most enthusiastic, who could be relied upon to keep the local papers supplied with articles clipped from wheeling periodicals, dwelling chiefly on the benefits to be derived from good roads by farmers, who must use this means to obtain a market for their goods, and in fact by all owners of horses. In every State Legislature men can be found able and willing to propose a bill for the improvement of roads. All that is needed is pressure brought constantly to bear upon our noble (?) politicians. And that pressure can be laid on best, in my judgment, when particular bicyclists feel an especial responsibility in the matter. If we would change the character of the broad river we must begin at the fountain head. If we can succeed in localities, if we can educate people generally to realize the benefits accruing to them through improved roads, it is not an impossibility we may see in the future, even so seemingly radical a plan as that proposed a few issues back, namely to devote the surplus in the United States Treasury to the bettering of our roads, prove a glorious reality. Let us keep this matter constantly before us, and who has ideas, let him express them in the World. L. A. W. 7504.

THE actual capacity at one time of the enameling furnaces of the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. is one hundred complete bicycles.

WE are pleased to learn from the Holmes Co., that the demand for their excellent line of goods especially adapted to the cyclists' use, is very large this year. Riders should place their orders soon, and not wait until the season is really opened.

If you desire to ride safe and attain speed, climb hills with ease, ride rough roads with but little vibration, buy the 1888 pattern Springfield Roadster. $75.00. ***

It is stated that, out of the many hundreds of Columbia Light Roadsters that were fitted with the tubular rear fork during 1887, not one has been known to break or twist. This is one of the specialties for 1888.

THE Rudge machines gave such satisfaction last year that, beyond a few minor details, it has been difficult to improve them, and their sterling worth will be well appreciated by the riders who desire a high class English mount.

MR. VICTOR R. PYLE, of Wilmington, Del., reports that he holds the Third St. hill records for that city on a Springfield Roadster.

C. J. BROWN, of Florence, Mass., has taken a travelling position for the Springfield Bicycle Co., in place of Geo. M. Hendee who has gone to Chicago to assist C. F. Stokes in representation of the Springfield Roadster in that city. Mr. Hendee reports prospects and business good.

OUR Philadelphia correspondent reports on trade from his standpoint as follows: "Messrs. Tryon & Co. sold twenty-one Victor safeties last week, and five light roadsters. That's how cycling is booming this season, and the safety in particular. Mr. H. B. Hart also reports an increased demand, and prospects were never so good for a lively trade. I had a letter from Mr. C. R. Overman last week dated from Fort Wayne, Indiana, in which he tells me that they alone have booked over four times as many orders as last year."

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS buys the 1888 pattern Springfield Roadster, with ball-bearings all round; two rows of balls on each side of front wheels, two rows on each clutch-shaft, and one on each side of front wheel; two rows on each clutch-shaft, and one on each side on rear wheel, with our overlapped side-fork fastening, which makes a very rigid and firm anti-fraction bearing. ***

It is deemed by the makers that the American Light Champion is the lightest of the light roadsters, a 54-inch '88 pattern, with all on, weighing but 37 1-2 pounds.

THE Rover, made by Starley & Sutton, is one of the strongest all-round machines made. Messrs. Starley & Sutton have always insisted that the "five-side" frame was the only proper one to use in this type of machine. That they are nearly correct is proven from experience of other makers. We expect to see a good many of Starley & Sutton's machines in the United States this year.

THE New Mail pattern for 1888 has been tried on the road this season, and a well-know rider was heard to remark that "it was the easiest-running machine he ever bestrode." This must be an exceedingly gratifying verdict for Messrs. Read & Sons, as they have aimed conscientiously to make the bearings of the New Mail as fine as human ingenuity can devise.

THE Rudge Crescent Tandem for 1888 shows many improvements in details, and the splendid advantages of this machine were warmly appreciated by its many riders last year.

THE Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. have recently added a retail department to their factory. A handsome store has been provided on the main floor, and a full line of the American cycles, in every variety and finish, silently solicits the patronage of any visiting customer, though a competent salesman is in charge.

MR. ROSS, of W. B. Everett & Co., has just returned from a short but exceedingly successful trip Westward. Mr W. A. Doane, late of Stoddard, Lovering & Co., has accepted a position in Denver, Col., with W. L. Van Horne, and will push the Apollo in that vicinity.

THE inquiries made through the mail and personally to William Read & Sons by riders for information in regard to the Ivel Safety have been very numerous, since it became known that that firm were to handle this celebrated machine for this country. American riders should congratulate themselves that these wheels can be bought in the United States. If it is true that imitation is the highest kind of flattery, then Dan Albone ought to be happy, as the Ivel's lines have been carefully copied by more than one prominent maker. See our advertising columns for the announcement of this machine.

MR. R. OVERMAN has just returned to town, after an exceedingly successful trip out West. In fact, Mr. Overman says that business has never been so good with his firm as it is this year.

OUR St. Louis correspondent writes: "Mr. J. B. McCune, of the Springfield Bicycle Mfg. Co., paid the city a visit on April 3 and 4. He brought on a 46-inch Springfield Roadster with him, and requested Hal Greenwood to give it a trial. Hal at once complied, and in company with Mr. McCune rode out to Son of a Gun Hill, to test its qualities. Although Hal had been on this machine but once before, he had no trouble in climbing Son of a Gun with ease. After this performance he tackled the "Undertaker," a much steeper grade, and succeeded in climbing it two rail lengths beyond Arthur Young's mark. This is indeed a wonderful performance, and in a way establishes the reputation of the wheel, as being a hill climber, par excellence.

WE understand that the Kingston Knitting Company, are receiving many compliments from buyers of bicycle and Athletic goods for their elegant styles and excellent fitting garments, and their very reasonable prices.

THE English papers assert that Rowe will ride a new Rapid in his forthcoming races.

H. SQUIRES, of 178 Broadway, New York, and Strong & Green, of Philadelphia, will handle the Club Cycles for the coming year. The Coventry Machinists' Co. have just received an invoice of light 36-inch Marlboro's.

THE new check-nut and duplex screw which is fitted to the heads of the Columbia Light Roadster and Expert will convince any rider who advocate ball heads that, so far as keeping the head tight, these two improvements render that part of the machine as perfect as possible.

WE would remind Grand Rapids Star that this paper does not recognize anonymous communications. On receipt of name we shall be pleased to have our anonymous friend's letter put in type.

MR. ALICK HILL, of the Coventry Machinists' Co., has started on his business trip through this country. He has already made it evident that the Club bicycles will play a very prominent part in the total sales of machines made in the United States during the season of 1888.

THE FACILE SWALLOW.

Julius Wilcox, Importer, 33 Murray Street, New York.

The front-driving Geared Facile is identical with the familiar ungeared in shape and proportions (40 and 42 being the usual sizes), and in appearance is not distinguishable from that at a glance, as the only visible differences are in the small gear-wheels added and the slightly longer levers. Both the front and the rear-driving patterns were delayed in 1887, by some changes required in the patent geared axle, which has cost $5,000 to perfect, said to be one of the most beautiful pieces of mechanism ever put into a bicycle. In a general way, the rear-driver may be called a Facile reversed, the rider facing the back wheel and pushing that first. The driving axle is double, consisting of a hollow one connecting the hubs, and having as a fixture with it and the left hub the larger of the two-toothed wheels, outside the fork; within this hollow axle is placed the usual solid one, having the cranks on its ends. The inner axle runs freely and independently within the hollow one, and connection for the driving is made by the smaller toothed wheel, borne on the end of left crank, which transmits power to the larger toothed wheel. The left lever pulls down on this small pinion; the right lever in turn lifts it up, transmitting power through the solid axle and left crank, both levers driving alike. The effect is that, while the cranks and solid axle make one turn, the hollow axle and the wheel make one and a half.

The frame of the Swallow is wholly unlike any other machine. It consists of two Y's with their tops meeting above the wheel, and joined there by a Δ tube, which serves as a backbone and also (being concave on its under side) as a mud-guard for the wheel. The single arms of the Y's form extensions for the levers, which are a little lengthened to offset the gear, the crank remaining the usual Facile length, three inches. A short curved tube carries the front of the saddle, and on its forward end the steering neck. The brake is a "plunge," the spoon having extra length to offset its working on a smaller wheel. The handles have a backward inclination. Handle-bar and brake-lever adjust together in height, and for convenience of stowing or packing are easily swung round parallel with the wheels, or removed altogether. Step (not shown in cut) is on extension. Lamp will be borne by a spring carrier on front fork. Foot-rests are not shown, but will probably be attached just back of the head, where they will have the peculiarity of not being interfered with by the turning of the wheel. Saddle is a special one, borne on three springs, supported on the three upright tubes, and adjustable in height. Steering-wheel is 28 inches; the driver varies from 36 to 42; the standard size—38, geared to 57—will fit nearly all persons.

Entire frame, including handle-bar, levers and connecting rods, is weldless steel tubing. Spokes are usually direct, and rims solid; but tangent spokes with hollow rims may be used. Head is the matchless "Abingdon," bearings are the Facile double-ball, cross bearing being adjustable ball; the axle runs on five rows, and the machine contains in all 20 balls, the largest number ever put into a cycle. Finish, polished enamel with nickel trimmings.

The front fork has great rake, but the centres are in line with the point of contact with the ground; steering is all that could be desired, and the machine can be ridden without hands.

In material, construction and finish this machine is as fine as can be produced, and it may be added that riders whose ideas of the Facile are based on the machines of a couple of years ago are not aware of the progressiveness and improvement in them since. Increased skill is shown in them in many points; for instance, not only in the "Abingdon" ball neck, but in the insertion of the ends of the tubes into the solid lugs, instead of vice versa, the result being to not only improve the brazing, but to protect the tube ends from burning in the process. This particular "tip" was found on the Humber machines at this year's show by the representative of one of the cycling papers, and was by him innocently credited to "the wonderful mechanical genius of Mr. Humber," whereas it was seen in last year's show on the newer Facile patterns, and has been used by them ever since.

The following points of superiority over the chain machines are claimed for the geared Faciles by the makers, and are enumerated by the importer as follows:

1. Position of rider, the Facile action being fully vertical, on rising as well as descending pedal.
2. Shorter stroke: with a 6-inch crank and average gearing, the foot on the chain machine goes 37 3/4 inches to drive the wheel 170, whilst on the geared Faciles it goes only 24 inches and drives the wheel 188 1-2.
3. Much easier as well as slower and shorter stroke.
4. Tread the narrowest ever attained, which in part accounts for the easy running.
5. Greater speed, with riders equally matched.
6. Better on hills, notwithstanding the gear averages six inches higher.
7. Less vibration, the wheels not being so extremely small.
8. Pedals do not go so near the ground, hence less liable to strike stones.
9. Lighter in weight, not because more slightly built, but because having fewer parts.
10. Bearings entirely escape the special and severe strain which those of the chain-wheel and driving-wheel must bear from the pull of the chain.
11. The gear wheels have less friction than the chain, and are much less exposed to trouble from mud and grit.
12. The gear wheels need less lubricating, and this is done more easily.
13. The gear wheels are easily cleaned.
14. The gear is noiseless, which a chain is not, and the Facile has no rattle from guards.
15. The Facile gear excels the chain in durability.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

MUCH has been said in the press concerning the Kentucky bill, prohibiting cycling, and it has been stated that the League was doing nothing in the matter. It is not with the blare of trumpet and the beat of drum that the League does its work, and in this case, as well as many another, a deal of quiet work is going on. The Rights and Privileges Committee took up the Kentucky case a long time since, and immediately communicated with the Chief Consul of Kentucky, giving instructions as to advised methods of procedure. The Chief Consul and the Committee are now in communication with the authorities, and vigorous methods will be pursued as soon as the necessity for action appears.

SINCE the above was written we have this from the Chief Consul of Kentucky: "The bill introduced in the Legislature prohibiting cycling on the Kenton County roads was refused to be acted upon by the committee to whom it was referred. Another victory!"

PRESS of business forces Chairman Cooley, of the Racing Board, to retire, after months of valuable service to the League. His election to be Mayor of North Plainfield may have something to do with the step he has taken. Mr. Caesar once remarked that he had rather be the first man in his native village than to be the second man in Rome, and Chairman Cooley may have the same idea. He will be succeeded by Gerry Jones, of Binghamton, who has been a member of the Board for several years, and who is well fitted for the position.

THE wheelmen of Washington are much exercised over the death of Mr. Paul, the principal of the high school, who was run down on his cycle by a pair of horses. A meeting was held at the quarters of the Capital Bicycle Club to take action to secure a thorough investigation. There was general condemnation of the recklessness of drivers in the streets of Washington, and a committee was appointed to collect testimony and employ legal assistance in the prosecution of the driver who ran down Mr. Paul. The lady riders sent resolutions of sympathy with the movement. Quite a sum of money has been raised to prosecute the case.

PENNSYLVANIA wheelmen who have been asked to serve as local Consuls, and those who have been requested to make arrangements with hotels, looking to their appointment as League hotels, are requested to fill out the blank postal cards sent them, or to communicate with the Chief Consul at once, in order to expedite the issue of the road book, which is to contain a full list of Consuls and hotels.

MARYLAND APPOINTMENTS.

"The Cabin John Bridge Hotel" is hereby appointed League Hotel, at Cabin John Bridge, Md. Regular rates $3.50 per day; rates to L. A. W. members, only on presentation of membership tickets, $2.75 per day, or 75c. each for breakfast, dinner and supper, and 50c. for lodging.

Local Consul—Mr. G. Herbert Beckley is hereby appointed Local Consul for Reisterstown, Md.

To Consuls of Maryland Division.—All Consuls of this Division are hereby reappointed to September 1st, 1888.

A. E. MEALY, Chief Consul.

APPOINTMENT RACING BOARD.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, owing to pressure of professional duties, having resigned as member and chairman of Racing Board, I take pleasure in appointing as his successor as chairman Mr. Gerry Jones, Binghamton, N. Y., who is already a member of the Racing Board and thoroughly familiar with its workings.

T. J. KIRKPATRICK, President.

Nominations for Chief Consuls Wanted.

The Chief Consuls for the States of Colorado and Wyoming having failed to renew their membership in the L. A. W., I now declare their offices vacant. I would be pleased to receive nominations for the offices from the members in these States. Please make them at once.

T. J. KIRKPATRICK, President.

IOWA APPOINTMENT.

H. B. Cropper, Esq., has been appointed as representative for this Division, to fill vacancy caused by the non-renewal of D. G. Kirschbaum.

ROBT. L. THOMPSON, C. C. Iowa Div.

To the Maryland Division, L. A. W.

As it is very important that our membership should be largely increased within the next few months, I would especially request that each and every member of this Division put forth his every effort to secure new members. If you know any wheelmen who are not L. A. W. members, or know of any such parties, kindly send me their names and addresses at once; then call upon them in person. In the meantime I will have sent them some printed matter that may assist you materially in securing their applications. Let every member of this Division enter into this work, with the determination that he will do his share toward bringing our State to the prominent place she should occupy. You have the material to work on, and all it wants is a little effort on the part of our present members. So come forward every member, and do your share, and thereby increase your own personal benefits. Every new member of the Division secures more advantages for each and every member.

Fraternally yours,
A. E. MEALY, Chief Consul.

1521 Eutaw Place, Baltimore.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

Duplex Whistle. Price, 50 Cents.

Tone loud and clear, with none of the harsh, grating sound usual to whistles designed for this purpose. Riders who have used the old Duplex Whistle have found it to be very inconvenient on account of the great amount of force required to produce the sound necessary to be heard at a distance. This is entirely overcome in these new whistles, as the very slightest effort is all that is required to blow them. Address all orders to

HART CYCLE CO.,
No. 811 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

THE CYCLIST, the leading paper of England, is a well-filled newspaper, containing the earliest, the best and fullest reports of all wheel matters. No other paper covers the ground as the Cyclist does, and it is not only the largest in size, but has by far the largest circulation of any wheel paper. Edited by Henry Sturmev and C. W. Nairn. $2.50 per year, including postage.

TRICYCLISTS' INDISPENSABLE ANNUAL AND HAND-BOOK. By Henry Sturmev. Describes every machine made, with detailed analysis of all the various parts, principles or novelties in present use, etc. Profusely illustrated. Edition for 1884, revised and enlarged, 50 cents, by mail. There will be no edition of this book for 1885.

BICYCLING NEWS—the Cyclers' Illustrated Paper—Every week by mail for a year, $2.50. Contains sketches of the latest inventions and of well-known European and English routes. Also special correspondence from the United States and all countries; useful information and accounts of tours. The oldest and most interesting cyclists' paper in the world.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents.

TWO PILGRIMS' PROGRESS. "From Fair Florence to the Eternal City of Rome—Delivered under the Similitude of a Ride, wherein is Discovered the manner of their setting out, their dangerous journey and safe arrival at the Desired City." By Joseph and Elizabeth Pennell. A delightful book of travels on a tandem, and containing nearly 200 pages of letter press by Mrs. Pennell, and numerous illustrations from the pencil of Jo Pennell. The book is elegantly bound, and is an ornament to any table or library. Price, $1.60, post paid.

A. C. SPALDING & BROS.

Of Interest to Cyclers.

Well, here we are!!
And we've come to stay, too.

We propose to have SOMETHING of interest to say to you each week; something FRESH and READABLE.

To commence with, it will not be amiss to call your attention to our REPAIR SHOP and unexceptional facilities for repairing wheels. If you wish anything done in a thoroughly workmanlike manner we can accommodate you.

We not only claim to do repairs as they should be done, but we also claim to have the best line of wheels in the world.

The VICTOR-BICYCLE, TRICYCLE and SAFETY

VICTOR CYCLES are not NEW.
Victor Cycles are not CHEAP.

For six years they have compelled the esteem of the best riders in the land.

Though thousands make up the family of Victor riders, it is yet an exclusive family, composed only of those who appreciate the fact that it is genuine economy to buy the best.

As the horseman is judged by his beast, so is the cyclist by his wheel.

"The apparel oft proclaims the man;" and to-day, he who rides a Victor is looked upon as a wheelman of judgment. His choice is sufficient proof that he appreciates merit.

WHETHER

Mounting the hill,
Coasting the grade, or Spinning the long miles, the

VICTOR IS NOWHERE LESS THAN VICTOR.

Its reputation has caused it to be freely copied; and it is well known that high grade cycles, in common with other lines of fine goods, are made to suffer by the cheap imitations which are offered by makers whose chief aim is to market an inferior article by trading upon the reputation of those of known merit.

If you are wise you will Keep up with the Procession.

Your eyes will tell you that all over the land the old riders—those who have learned to know a bicycle when they see one, and who will not ride if they cannot have "the best thing"—are riding

VICTORS.

Ask any Victor rider
How his machine RUNS,
How it coasts,
How it climbs hills, and see what he says.

ARE
BUILT

Cycling in America having passed its pioneer period, the question now is not, "Shall we ride wheels?" but "What wheels shall we ride?" This question has been decided to the complete satisfaction of a large proportion of the Wheelmen of this country by their experience with the VICTORS, a line of wheels of the highest grade, presenting more thoroughly good features than any others.

Davis Patent Road Machine.

This machine is in successful operation for making new roads, and scraping all roads to a level, laying out gutters, and rounding up the middle in handsome shape. The machine is built of Ash timber and heavy iron work. The pole is 16 feet long, and so hung in the two-wheel carriage that it can be raised and lowered at will by means of the lever, as shown. The scraper is secured to the pole by means of a heavy steel spud, which allows angling to right or left by means of the circle iron, and the draft is always direct from whiffletrees to scraper through draft-rod under pole.

THE COVENTRY MACHINISTS' CO., LTD.

INTRODUCTION.

After twenty years of successful cycle making, we think the present a suitable opportunity for giving a short resumé of the work of the COVENTRY MACHINISTS' COMPANY, which is the oldest, as it is one of the largest, of the firms devoted to the production of cycles in the world.

Originally started by a few local capitalists in 1859, to provide employment for inhabitants of Coventry thrown out of work by the decay of the ribbon trade, for which the "City of Three Spires" had previously been famous, the earlier years of the Company were devoted to the manufacture of sewing machines.

In 1867, however, the bicycle first made its appearance in France; and the managers of the Company at once saw that there was a future, however long that future might have to be waited for, for any firm which took up the bicycle in a large way and with a liberal spirit. What this energetic forethought of the early managers of the Company has resulted in, as regards not only Coventry, from a trade point of view, but for the whole country, is now a matter of history.

After a few years of "boneshaker" making, a march forward was made by the introduction of the spider wheel and the rubber tyre; and in the "GENTLEMAN'S" Bicycle, the Company—in 1873—had one of the best machines up to date. This was followed by the "SPECIAL CLUB," a bicycle in which it was sought, and successfully, to reduce vibration to a minimum. This machine revolutionized the whole bicycle trade, and in spite of all imitations, the "Special Club" still retains its position as the finest roadster made. Since then two descriptions of "Safety" bicycle have been successfully sent out from the Cheylesmore workshops.

BICYCLES AND TRICYCLES

MANUFACTURED BY THE

COVENTRY MACHINISTS' CO.,

LIMITED,

COVENTRY, ENGLAND.

U. S. BRANCH,

239 COLUMBUS AVE., BOSTON, MASS.

GEO. W. STEVENS, MANAGER.

In the interim came the early days of the tricycle, when, with lever action and a Bath chair handle to steer by, the "Speedwell" Tricycle was made by the Company, and held its own when tricycling was young. The rotary action speedily followed, and then came the "Cheylesmore," the most successful rear-steering tricycle which was ever put on the market.

Though quite content with the "Cheylesmore," from a financial point of view, the Company, having made up their mind to be in the first rank always, and to march with the times, brought out the front-steering "Imperial Club," and, to suit those who preferred the two large wheels in front, likewise made the "Sandringham Club." The fame of these two machines was as a "household word;" but still, fashion, or fancy, required something new, and the front-steerer, guided by means of a handle-bar, after a short experience on the "Ranelagh Club," merged into that tricycle which is now known most favorably everywhere as the "Marlboro' Club."

Improved, as it will be, and with a specially light pattern weighing about fifty pounds, the Company have every faith that the fame of the "Marlboro' Club" Tricycle will be even greater than it has been in the past.

In 1881 business had so developed that it was deemed desirable, in London, to abandon the agency principle, and to open a special London office, which was consequently done at 16 Holborn Viaduct. In two years this establishment had to be doubled by taking in the next-door premises, and now the Company have at once the largest and finest depot, both for window display and repairing workshops, in the British Metropolis. Branch depots of the Company also exist at 9 Victoria Buildings, Manchester; at 239 Columbus Avenue, Boston; and at 4 Avenue de l'Opera, and 34 Rue Quatre, Septembre, Paris.

The Company have also great gratification in referring to a special grant of Royal favor in the appointment of them as manufacturers to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales—a privilege accorded to no other firm or company in the trade.

The foregoing short retrospect will, we think, enable us, without fear of a charge of egotism, to say to the public of 1888 that, since the first bicycle was turned out in 1867, up to the present time, when 600 men are busy turning out both bicycles, safeties, and tricycles in the greatly extended works at Cheylesmore, Coventry, entry, it has been, and is, the Company's first thought to give the cycling public exactly what they want of the best possible material and finish.

For 1888 we have improved the "King of Clubs" Ordinary Roadster Bicycle, now fitted with a 24in. back wheel and Brook's International saddle and spring.

The "Swift" Safeties, while retaining all the points which made them so popular during the past season, have been altered in several details. A new and lighter-pattern frame is made, which is eminently suitable for countries where the roads are good. The No. 2 is an equally good machine of another type. The "Junior's Swift" we have been induced to make owing to the flattering reception of the "Junior's Club" Tricycle during the time it has been on the market.

The "Marlboro' Club" is improved for the coming year in various details, the driving wheels being made smaller, and four bearings fitted, if preferred, in place of the two extended bearings which were so eminently satisfactory last season. Our patent spring forks are fitted at option of purchaser. A new pattern of this machine is introduced this year, in the shape of the "Marlboro' Light Roadster, designed to meet the requirements of those who, riding on good roads, wish to travel at a rapid rate. That the "Marlboro' Club" is undoubtedly the fastest tricycle ever made will be proved by a glance at the records on page 16.

The "Marlboro' Tandems need no remarks—being so well known they speak for themselves. A new machine is made this year (non-convertible), which, we are confident, will give every satisfaction to purchasers.

We are somewhat ashamed to make our annual apology for delay in delivering machines. The large provision made, we thought, would be ample to meet any demand that might arise, but the increase of business was so great that it proved entirely insufficient. The large extensions and additions made this winter will, we trust, be sufficient to enable us to supply machines during the coming season in a more reasonable time.

OUR SPECIALTIES

PATENTED IMPROVEMENTS.

AND

In order to show at a glance the principal features that go to make up a high-class Bicycle or Tricycle, we beg to enumerate some of our most important Patents and Specialties:—

1. THE DOUBLE OR HOLLOW FELLOE (Bicycle and Tricycle).
2. THE RUBBER SUSPENSION SPRING (Bicycle).
3. SPECIALLY-CONSTRUCTED DUST PROOF & ADJUSTABLE BALL BEARINGS (Bicycle and Tricycle).
4. LOCK-NUTTED SPOKES ("Special Club" Bicycle).
5. DETACHABLE CRANKS (Bicycle).
6. THE "CHEYLESMORE" AUTOMATIC CLUTCH GEAR (Tricycle).
7. THE IMPROVED PATENT SWING LEVER BRAKE (Tricycle).
8. BALL PEDALS (Bicycle and Tricycle).
9. ELLIPTICAL OR OVAL BACKBONE (Bicycle).
10. FLUTED HOLLOW FORKS (Bicycle).
11. IMPROVED LONG CENTRES (Bicycle).
12. NEW SLIDING ARRANGEMENT FOR ADJUSTING SADDLE HORIZONTALLY.
13. NEW PATENT SPIRAL SPRING (Tricycles).
14. AUTOMATIC STEERING FOR "MARLBORO' CLUB," &c., &c.
15. NEW PATENT SPRING FORK FOR REMOVING VIBRATION FROM STEERING WHEELS OF FRONT-STEERING TRICYCLES AND SAFETY BICYCLES.
16. FOLDING HANDLE-BAR FOR TANDEM AND LADIES' TRICYCLES.
17. NEW PATENT BALL BEARING HEAD.

THE "CLUB" PATENT HOLLOW FELLOE as used in the construction of the "King of Clubs" Bicycle, the Marlboro' Light Roadster, and all our racing machines, is made by rolling seamless steel tubing into a crescent form, thus avoiding the inherent weakness of other forms of hollow felloe made in two parts, or folded over. We have used this felloe now for eight years with perfectly satisfactory results.

OUR NEW DIRECT TANGENT SPOKES, used in the "King of Clubs" Bicycle, are headed in the rim and screwed at a true tangent into the hub, without bend or twist of any kind, doing away with the liability to break, which is a great fault with tangent spokes laced through, or simply headed in the hub and screwed in the rim. Competent judges who saw the few samples we had last year, pronounced it the finest tangent wheel made.

THE PATENT ADJUSTABLE "CLUB" BALL BEARINGS used in all our machines, are made entirely by us, with new and improved machinery constructed for the purpose. Four years ago we laid down an expensive plant for the sole purpose of making the balls for these bearings. They are made from the finest quality of steel, and will run for years without an appreciable amount of wear, unlike the cheap rolled balls in common use.

THE "CLUB" BALL PEDALS are too well known to need much description, but should our customers prefer any other make, they will be substituted.

THE FINEST COLD DRAWN STEEL TUBING is used in all our machines, and we guarantee every part to be constructed of the very best material procurable. The nickel plating and enamelling is done by specially designed and improved processes, and the care and skill bestowed upon our machines has reaped its reward in making the workmanship and finish of the "Club" Cycles synonymous with the highest excellence attainable.

The above are a few of the points embodied in the machines described in the following pages. We have purposely refrained from filling the specifications of the machines with unnecessary details, but should our friends desire information on any point not sufficiently explicit, the same shall be cheerfully given them.

"F. W. ALLARD BREAKS RECORD."

"On Saturday, 22nd October, at Coventry, F. W. Allard, on a Coventry Machinists' tricycle, went for the tricycle record from 20 miles to 50, and succeeded in doing some 6m. 16s. better than A. L. Bower's time. Twenty miles were covered in 1h. 3m. 6s. Allard being a suspend, Bower's record, of course, will stand in the record books of the Union."

PRESS NOTICES, ETC.

“On the lines of the ‘Marlboro’ but with the improvements of direct (free) steering and the new tangent spokes (described fully in the ‘Club’ bicycles.) The whole framework is exceedingly light, and all necessary parts are easily adjustable, and, as may be supposed, there is no useless weight. On several occasions it has appeared successfully on the path, so that it is not an untried steed. Recently, on the 19th Oct., 1886, at Lynn, Mass., United States, in a twenty four hours’ race, Miss Louisa Armando, the lady cycle champion, and W. J. Morgan, rode 250 miles in 24 hours, and, a few days later, at the same place, made five miles in 15m. 47½s., and twenty miles in 66m. 12½s. In England it has also been most successful, but we will only cite one instance. At the Kildare Sports, Lillie Bridge, London, 11th Sept., 1886, Messrs. Allard and Bower won a one mile handicap from scratch in 2m. 57s., the fastest tandem time ever ridden on the ground. There is always a value in such performances, as they show what can be done on the machine. Standard size—36in. driving, geared up to 64in., with 28in. pilot.”—Huzar, May 7th, 1887.

“The Coventry Machinists’ Co. seems to be piling up records for their machines lately, as will have been noticed by referring to this week’s issue, and several late issues giving English records.”—Bicycling World, November 11th, 1887.

“The Tricycling Championship of Austria has been won by A. Slid, on a ‘Marlboro’ Club.”—Bicycling World, August 5th, 1887.

ENGLISH TRICYCLE RECORDS.

“E. Kiderlen, on Tuesday, the 12th inst., rode a mile on a ‘Humber Gripper,’ on the Long Eaton track, in 2m. 38½s., the quarter mile occupying 40½s., the half-mile in 1m. 59½s. On the night after (Wednesday), F. W. Allard made promateur tricycle records as follows: Quarter mile, 40½s.; half-mile, 1m. 20s. Mr. Allard rode the ‘Marlboro’ Club’ tricycle.”—Bicycling World, August 5th.

“At Coventry, July 13th, F. W. Allard lowered the quarter-mile and half-mile tricycle records, in spite of a rough track and strong wind; he finished his quarter-mile in 40½s., inside record. Allard rode, as usual, a ‘Marlboro’ Club,’ and Oxborow acted as pacemaker.”—Bicycling World, August 5th.

“Oving” has despatched Mr. Osbert Howarth to the Azores, where he will ride down the crater of the mammoth volcano on his ‘Marlboro’ Club’ tricycle—at least so says Bicycling News.”—Irish Cyclist, 24th August, 1887.

“TOURING IN NORWAY.—Messrs. H. J. Leake and S. Golden of the Speedwell and Coventry District Cyclists, have just completed a lengthy cycling tour in Norway, visiting amongst other places, Christiansand, Christiania, Drammen, Hømlødal, Tuvolden, Hønefoss, Kadsfjord, Øines, Tomtevollan, Sveen, Frydenlund, Fagervås, Keien, Grindheim, Skogstad, Nysuene, Maristuen, Husum, Borgund, Blandfatti, Saerdalsoren, thence down the Sogne, Fjord to Segndal, Radholm, Vik and Vandheim to Bergen. Making Bergen their headquarters, trips were made to Vossevangen, Hardanger, and Stavan-ger. They speak very highly of the Norwegian roads, the surface in many places being far better than our English roads. Altogether they had a most pleasant trip, and any one wanting an enjoyable holiday, cannot do better than visit the rocky North. The machine ridden was a ‘Marlboro’ Club’ tandem, by the Coventry Machinists’ Company, which behaved itself admirably, nothing in any way going wrong, although the machine, with its sixty-pound luggage, was put to several very severe tests. A tandem they consider is the best machine for Norwegian touring, the roads being terribly narrow and winding.”—Bicycling News, 10th August, 1887.

“The Coventry Machinists’ Co. have, as usual, swept the board in Germany, the Tricycle Championship of Germany and International Race both being won on a ‘Marlboro’ racer. The National and International Tandem Races were secured by riders of the ‘Marlboro’ tandem, and the ‘Swift’ Safeties won all the safety events.”—Cyclist, August 31st, 1887.

“On Saturday, Allard and Oxborow established a new tandem record for the mile on one of the Coventry Machinists’ Co.’s ‘Marlboro’ Club’ Tandems. The previous best was 2m. 38½s., made by Kiderlen (Dutch champion) and Dr. Turner at Long Eaton in July last. Allard and Oxborow did the mile in 2m. 37½s., a reduction of 1½s. Afterwards the same riders made a tandem record of 35½s. for the flying quarter of a mile, being only ½s. behind the best record for the same distance.”—Daily Telegraph, August 29th, 1887.

“Messrs. Brown and White, on a ‘Marlboro’ Club’ Tandem, have lowered the 100 miles road record to 7h. 6m. 50s., beating the previous best by 23m. 10s.”—The Cyclist, September 28th, 1887.

“259 miles now stands as tandem record for 24 hours, and is credited to Messrs. Goulding and Brown and the ‘Marlboro’ Club.”—The Cyclist, September 28th, 1887.

“Last Saturday the North London T.C. held their annual ‘Ten Miles’ Race for the Club Championship over a somewhat trying course from Chigwell to Ongar in Essex. The men finished as follows: C. W. Brown (1); W. C. Goulding (2); H. T. Whorlow (3); C. Jeans (4); L. C. Brookes (5); J. Greenwood (6). The winner’s time was 39m. 30s. Goulding close up. Brown rode a ‘Marlboro’ Club’ racer, Goulding and Whorlow ‘Wasp’ roadsters, and Jeans and Brookes ‘Quadrants.’”

“The same standard for driving-wheels, 40in., is retained, but the height of the pilot has been increased to 24in., and the ‘Marlboro’ spring has been added as a connecting medium and vibration-breaking link between the fork-ends and fork-axe; it takes the form of a double curled spring. “It is most comfortable on rough roads, and, the foot-rests being on the curved forks, the full benefit of the spring can be enjoyed.”—Huzar, May, 7th, 1887.

PARTICULARS OF THE TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' ROAD RACE.

“On Tuesday last Messrs. C. W. Brown and W. C. Goulding (North London T. C. and North Roads C. C.) made a successful attempt to beat the 24 hours’ tandem record held by Messrs. Marriott and Bird, which has stood since 1884; distance, 231 miles.”

“Several attempts have been made on this record, but in all cases the machines have been unable to stand the prolonged strain. Messrs. Goulding and Brown have been unable to practice, and had never been on a tandem together before. However, mounted on a gem of a ‘Marlboro’ Club,’ they felt very confident of success. Their own account is as follows:—

“We left Hitchin, 34th milestone, at midnight, timed off by Mr. Whorlow, and with Mr. Austin as pacemaker all went well to Eaton Socon, where we posted a card to the Records Committee. Just beyond here we let the tandem go down a slight hill, which left our pacemaker behind. However, we kept steadily on to Buckden, where our lamp went out, and the night being exceedingly dark, we were compelled to dismount and re-light it. Just before reaching Alconbury we nearly ran over a cow which was asleep in the middle of the road. Our lamp now gave signs of burning out, and through a mistake in the wick we had to re-light it eleven times before we reached Wisbech, losing about six miles by doing so.”

“We posted another card at Peterborough, and completed our 50 miles at 3.50 a.m. The road from here was very bad, with ruts and stones, and we were not sorry to reach Wisbech, 69 miles, at 5.30. Here Mr. J. White was in readiness with breakfast, and we left with him at 5.55. At Sutton Bridge we got our book signed by the tollman, and reached Lynn, 90 miles, at 7.30. At Narborough our pace was too much for Mr. White, who was unwell, and we went on alone to Swaffham and East Dereham, where we stopped five minutes. Then on to the Gate House, Norwich, 132½ miles, where Mr. Endersby was waiting with chops and tomatoes. We arrived at 11.12 a.m., and were congratulating ourselves in having the wind behind on the return journey, as it had been blowing hard against us since 3 a.m., but on leaving at 11.50 we found it slightly against us, and in a mile or two it blew harder than ever. Five miles from here Mr. Endersby’s safety went wrong, so we were left alone again, which rather took the heart out of us. However, stuck to it against the wind back to Wisbech, where we expected another pacemaker, but were disappointed. We arrived at 5.50 p.m., and left at 6.5. Our lamp would not burn, so we had to go ten miles an hour instead of twelve back to Peterborough, 227 miles, where Mr. White again met us, and then on to Norman’s Cross, 223 miles. We stopped five minutes, and left at 9 p.m. At Alconbury we tied the record, and kept on to Buckden, where we stopped for the last time. At Biggleswade we met the timekeeper, Mr. Whorlow, and he called at 11.40; so with Messrs. G. P. Mills and D. L. Marks on a tandem racing, we sorted down to another five miles. We finished at the 40th milestone at midnight, Whorlow calling time. We had covered 259 miles, and our machine was as rigid as at the start. We have to tender our thanks to those riders who assisted us during the ride. “It is worthy of notice that on Saturday at the same machine was ridden in the North Road C.C. 100 miles race by Messrs. C. W. Brown and G. R. White, who easily defeated the other tandems, doing the distance in 7h. 6m. 50s., which goes into the book as record.”

APPRECIATED? RATHER!
Trigwell Ball Head.

No doubt about this. New Testimonials coming in every day about it, and orders from all parts of the country for the New Mail for its Splendid Specialty, the Trigwell Ball Head. This is a New Mail Year and a Trigwell Ball Head Year.

Have you seen it, or received a Catalogue?

And now we offer also

THE IVEL.

THE MOST NOTED SAFETY.

Winner of the World's Safety Record!

Used by Mills, Furnivall, Langredge, Liles, etc.

While many new Safeties are being brought out and experimented with, we have taken the Agency for what has been proved a Success, and the Best, by fast Road Records, and now we offer the World Renowned "Ivel" Safety.

The first lot will be ready for delivery at our warerooms April 15th, and we invite wheelmen to book their orders early, as already many have done so, being cognizant of the Splendid Qualities of this machine. We anticipate first lots will be quickly taken up. Don't place your order for a safety till you see them! The SAFETY OF 1888.

From the Wheel.

IVELS!

WILL BE IMPORTED BY WM. READ & SONS.

We are pleased to learn that Messrs. Wm. Read & Sons will import the famous Ivel wheels. In looking over the list of English rear-driving safeties, none can be found which could become more popular than the Ivel safety.

At the Stanley Show a number of improved Ivels were shown, which received the most favorable comment from the cognoscenti.

Those desiring a Safety should inspect these at our warerooms, or get a descriptive Circular.

THE IVEL SAFETY.

The Ivels are well known, and have earned a high reputation upon the road and path. In the Ivel safety, the principle of making the steering-wheel a trifle bigger than the driving-wheel was first adopted, this, without doubt, having a great effect in making the machine run easily, and all who have tried the Ivel, have a good word for its remarkably easy steering, a desideratum of no small importance in this class of machine. This sterling cycle holds many records on the road, which, as the maker very truly says, proves the machine to be at once safe and comfortable. Mr. George P. Mills has ridden 295 miles in twenty-four hours upon it, whilst he has also covered fifty miles in the wonderful time of 2h. 47m. 36s., both performances being accomplished upon the ordinary highway.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 20 APRIL, 1888.

WHAT is the use of legislating against road racing when we read that "New Bedford citizens have subscribed $50 for a trophy for a twenty-five-mile road race?" We pause for a reply.

WE wish to speak a good word for Gerry Jones, the new Chairman of the Racing Board. He impresses us as an intelligent and capable young man, and one who, if he so inclines, can so conduct the affairs of his Board, that amateur racing will be stimulated into a healthy activity.

THE little bill prohibiting the use of cycles on the highways, presented by Representative Coleman from Kenton County, Ky., never got any further than the committee. We congratulate the members of "the committee" on the wisdom thus displayed, but nevertheless do we urge on the cyclists of Kenton County to remember Mr. Coleman, and when he "bobs up serenely" for reelection to use stickers ad lib. A "Liberty Bill" would be a good thing for Kentuckians to consider at this juncture.

WE desire to congratulate our New York contemporary, the Wheel and Cycling Trade Review, on the active campaign it is carrying on in the interests of Road Improvements. We are with it heart and soul on this most vital question. Mr. Isaac B. Potter, of 38 Park Row, New York, has issued a stirring circular to New York Wheelmen, soliciting their aid and co-operation in making the New York State Association a success. Mr. Geo. R. Bidwell, Chief Consul, always at the front in any movement which has the welfare of wheelmen at heart, supplements Mr. Potter's appeal by one to L. A. W. members. We sincerely trust that the result will exceed the expectations of the most sanguine. We are with you, gentlemen. Let every State have its Roads Improvement Association, and don't let the work cease, in the organization thereof, "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together."

WE fancy that some club Secretaries are wondering why we do not publish the results of the spring elections. We desire to give the reason why. Since the change we have received each week enough of this character of copy to fill over a page of the World. At this particular juncture we have concluded that the club Secretaries would bear with us if we leave out these lists of names to make room for matter that we imagine will prove more readable and generally interesting. We have thought from week to week that we would insert these results, but the appalling accumulation of these club elections has frightened us out of the idea. We like to please all, but we know we cannot do that; the most we can hope to do, is to meet the wishes of the large majority of our readers, and in "cutting out" club elections during the active season of cycling, we hope to reach the object in view. We, however, wish to thank the club Secretaries for their thoughtfulness in sending their lists.

"TO be or not to be," that is the question that at present agitates the minds of the American and English public as to whether Howell will prove himself the fastest man in the world. The first of the series, the five-mile race, has been won by Howell. We do not pretend to be Rowe's manager or his adviser, but we cannot refrain from criticising his tactics in riding the first race. It seems to us at long range, that Rowe's best chance would have been to ride a fast race from the word go. Howell does not like that kind of race, and we doubt if Rowe had forced the pace if Howell could have out-spurred the American on the tape. Every one knows that the Englishman is one of the fastest sprinters on the path, and we doubt if there is a man living (unless it be Temple) who can out-sprint him when he is fresh. We hope Rowe and his managers will profit by the experience of the first race, and that the one mile and ten miles will be ridden at record speed; for we believe that if Rowe allows the race to be decided on the "last quarter," he will be out-ridden every time.

GOOD FOR PHILADELPHIA!!

The following circular letter has been sent to the members of the Committee on Highways of the Philadelphia City Councils by the local bicyclers:

"At a meeting of the A. C. C., of Philadelphia, held on the 12th inst., a resolution was adopted favoring the passage of the ordinance now before City Councils for repaving Broad street, between Passyunk and Columbia avenues, with asphaltum, and the undersigned officers of the association were instructed to respectfully request a hearing before your committee when the ordinance in question is considered.

"This association represents the membership of the leading cycling clubs of the city organized for the purpose of securing united action in matters affecting their interests."

The letter is signed by W. R. Tucker, President, and J. R. Lincoln, Secretary.

"MANSLAUGHTER!!"

We are in receipt of advices from Washington as follows: "The grand jury to-day found an indictment against Joseph M. Chase for manslaughter, in causing the death of E. A. Paul, on the 2d of April, by having at that date forcibly ridden a horse against him, throwing him down and giving to said Paul a mortal-fracture wound on the spinal column."

The Sewing-Machine and Cycle News, London, of 31st March, gave a half page to quoting in full the appreciative review of "Ten Thousand Miles on a Bicycle," which appeared in the previous Saturday's Field, saying it was glad to find so important a paper, "the leading organ of sport in England," dealing so fairly with Karl Kron, "whose work is without doubt the most gigantic publication that has ever been placed upon the wheel-world book market." The publisher informs us that the pamphlet of 150 pages, which is to be mailed to all applicants as a free advertisement of this gigantic book, has been delayed because of the bankruptcy of the Springfield Printing Company, employed to manufacture it. But the distribution of the 5,000 copies will begin as soon as the binding can be completed, and all postal-card requests sent to "K. K.," at Washington square, N. Y., will be filed for attention in the order of their arrival.

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

THE racing season, which commences on Saturday next, will, it is thought, be the most important of any yet seen in England. From a professional standpoint it goes without saying that more races for stake money and prizes will be run than ever before, and the talent will be the strongest and most representative ever brought together in the world. The rivalry is intense, and it will be "England vs. America" with a vengeance, as the success of the American contingent have made them many well wishers (?), who would like to see Rowe and Temple knocked out in short order. I should like to see Rowe give the big Leicester man a whacking. Remember what I said in my letters last summer, Howell will take a lot of beating, but we hope and trust, not for one hundred pounds sterling sake, but for the credit of America that Rowe will place his wheel a good ten yards ahead at the finish.

SUCH names as Howell, Rowe, Temple, Allard, Lee (Fred and John), English (Tom and Bob), Engleheart, Woodside, Dubois, Wood, Batsenshy, Young, Lumsden, Robb, Illston (if he decides to run), Oxborrow, and others, are a field of professionals that has had no equal since the sport began, and the amateur racing is correspondingly low tide at present. With Illston, Furnivall, and many of the best men "out of it," the press and public have now veered round to the professional prospect, and I hope the "pros." will take advantage of the stampede "and put in all they know," and thus establish professionalism on a sound basis as leading in cycle racing.

I WAS passing St. Bartholemew's Hospital in London the other day, and having received a letter from the "King of Amateurs" that morning, I turned my feet toward the gloomy portals, and after reading some Bible inscriptions over the door, I made my way to the student quarter, and ran up against Brewerton, the Surrey Cycle Club flyer, who was coming out. "Hello, Senator, who are you after now?" was his greeting. "I'm looking for Percy Furnivall, is he in?" "Yes, in the library," and away dashed Brewerton, reappearing with the "K. O. A." The Springfield favorite looks handsomer, and is much improved in physique, than when seen on the track in America, the same good-natured, jolly, gentlemanly fellow of yore. "I had only a few minutes to spare this week," says Furnivall, "so I dropped in Agricultural Hall, but could not find you. Am up for an 'exam.' on Wednesday, hence my neglect of not paying you all a visit; and you know we must spurt a bit before an 'exam.' takes place," was Furnivall's greeting. This celebrated English amateur thinks extremely well of America and Americans. An adjournment to "Spier and Pond's" and a "refresher" was in order, and in course of a little talk, I put the question, "How did you come to allow F. J. Osmond to lower your supposed invincible spurring powers?" "Well, it was like this: Before the race started Mr. Hillier came to me and said, 'we know you can beat our man, and therefore your job is to beat Illston.' The consequence was, for once in my life I allowed other people's opinion to outweigh my own. I watched and beat Illston, and was caught napping by Osmond. I never took Osmond into consideration, but you bear in mind, he will in the future bear watching, as I think he is a good one. I don't know if George Lacy was giving me 'taffy,' as you Americans say, but one thing is certain, the ruse worked well." "Will you be seen on the track again?" "No, never again; that is my determination. My people wish me to stick to my profession, and give up racing altogether." "I have read the interview a reporter of Wheeling had with you some two years ago on 'windage' in cycle racing, and the influence it had against fast times; have your ideas changed on the theory, or do you now hold the same view on the question?" "Yes, I do, and think resistance of the elements is everything when fast time is under consideration. I think your man, Rowe, or Temple, or any first-class man, could do two minutes for a mile if there was an entire absence of wind against, and good pacing." "Yes, I have noticed in the large building, second-class men can do much faster time than outdoors, which demonstrates the correctness of your theory." With a few commonplace remarks on racing, training and the form of different men, I left this intelligent English athlete, and wandered down through Holborn and Fleet streets, thinking deep thoughts as to if I should ever be able to do 2.10, without training, if the element was "wid" me.

THE most marvelous sign of the times is, the editor of a London paper, who stuck bravely to the correctness of Rowe's wonderful records, is about the only man in England to-day that "believes firmly" that Engleheart will beat Rowe in their ten-mile race at Birmingham on Easter Sunday. I had to laugh the other day in Agricultural Hall; walking through this building, I came across this editor, who was in conversation with Rowe, Kauffman, Allen and others. Rowe got off this to the editor: "I'm afraid you allow your partiality to outweigh your judgment, as you are the only man who has said you think Engleheart can beat me. If you place Engleheart ahead of Howell you are woefully mistaken." In his next issue, the editor says: "Rowe, like all Americans 'we' have met, is full of confidence." I should think so.

"GENTLEMAN JOHN" thinks seriously of changing his nom de plume. Some people joke him about it, and I would not be surprised to see Angel, Ripley, Sandwichean, or some other cognomen in future grace the "copy" of my distinguished confrere. Bicycling News is particularly severe on the genial J. P., and he threatens reprisals. Talking of Bicycling News, I thought the other day, considering you, Mr. Editor, and your co-editor had used pots of ink and reams of paper in endeavoring to make friend Hillier believe the Springfield records "were all right" I would take the "living testimony" round to 1 Crown Court, Threadneedle street, and was soon in the office of G. L. H., stock broker, who received us as he does all Americans, in a friendly spirit. Having other engagements on hand I left Mr. Rowe in Mr. Hillier's care, and have no doubt that much racing and records was the theme, as the Bicycling News editor knows more about racing and the sport generally, than most people have forgotten.

TEMPLE'S foot continues obstinate, and his Easter engagements have been all cancelled by the doctor's orders, but we hope to see the Chicago lad astride his new 53 1-2-inch Humber in a few weeks.

THE American team open the Inter-national Continental Amateur Championship meeting in Berlin, on June 10, 11 and 12, and the five following weeks appear in the first of the 40 German cycle tracks, all of which, the editor of the Berlin Der Radfahrer tells me, are in first-class condition. The exact dates of the team's appearance in France are not decided as yet. It may be possible the team will be in two sections after June; two on the Continent, and two in England to match the cash prize meetings. Rowe has run every race (some twelve) since his arrival in England, and even on boards, has not asked any man to favor him, although Wheeling hints so much this week. I will give Wheeling a page advertisement of the fact if they or anybody else can prove such a thing.

NEW ORLEANS.

but for his spell, would have succeeded. He isn't out of the swim yet, however.

PRESIDENT RENAUD, of the Cycling Club, has presented a handsome medal to be contested for during the summer in a series of handicap races, the member making the best average in the series to become permanent possessor of the prize, which is to be known as the "President's medal." The selection of routes, arranging of dates, etc., has been entrusted to a committee of three, who have just made public the following "schedule": May 13th—Two and one-half miles, Napoleon avenue to Carrollton; June 10th—Ten and one-half miles, Carrollton to Schadwells; July 15th—Eleven miles, Lee Circle to West End, via Carrollton; Aug. 12th—Five miles, Horticultural Hall drive; Sept. 8th—Eight miles, Shrewsbury route. This will furnish all sorts of riding, from shell road and asphalt, to sand and its accompaniment, and the best man is pretty apt to come out on top.

FROM the above programme it will be seen that the roads will be used pretty extensively in this series, and a word or two on the chestnutty road racing problem may not come amiss. I have a high regard for the opinions of such men as Secretary Bassett and "Senator" Morgan, but has it ever occurred to these gentlemen that it is an utter impossibility for every city and two-horse town (one-horse shabangs can't generally boast such a "new-fangled thing" as a bicycle) in the country to possess a cycle track, and as racing seems a "necessary evil" that may and will exist in almost every cycling neighborhood, what is to be done to curb it, where the means for a track are lacking? It strikes me that all this hullaboo about road racing is entirely too premature. When the authorities protest, then it is time to call a halt. They haven't done so yet, and unless the cycling press is specially desirous of having a quietus put on a harmless sport, it should not attempt to force the issue. The conditions of every neighborhood are not alike. I remember well when, some sixteen or eighteen months back, I was interested in a road race, and tremblingly applied to our city officials for a "permit" for the event. I can even now almost fancy I hear the careless "oh! you'll not need one; so long as you don't make too much noise, it's all right," in reply. So we saved our quarter, ran our race, and not a soul said "boo," though fully a hundred people and half a dozen vehicles were crowded around the finish. New Orleans is a big city, too, but I daresay that this is but a fair sample of how much the press, police and people elsewhere interest themselves in road races.

DURING the month of March, C. M. Fairchild, of the L. C. C., rolled up the noteworthy total of 1018 miles, riding every day; longest ride 103 miles, shortest, 7 1-2. C. M. is a regular mileage crank (hear him disclaim! It's in his eye, however), and contrary to your pet idea, Mr. Editor, he is neither a new rider or a novice, being of the crop of 1879.

It seems impossible to hold a division meeting lately. The one which was billed for the 9th inst, again attracted but a mere handful, and nothing was done for want of a quorum. League offices are usually such empty and thankless jobs that this sort of "monkey business" makes one really tired and discouraged. It would seem that past, present and prospective officials at least should know and realize this and lend their presence. Yet they don't. Of course excuses are plentiful, and I hear one from an "exalted-never-read-my-paper sort," complaining that he didn't get a postal. Neither did anyone else. I've been looking up records, and I find that this bright, particular division "big wig," during the last six or eight months, has done as much League work as this O, has secured as many members as this O, and ridden his wheel as many times as this O. By all means, let us erect a monument to this class. They're plentiful.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

is up hill, and such hills! The first one to be mounted, Cox's Hill, starts about one-eighth of a mile from the Presbyterian church corner, and is at least (I think) a mile and a half in length. A "write-up" of that section of New Jersey from the pen of some rider who knows "the lay of the land," would make interesting reading for your columns. Mullin Hill, about eight hundred yards west of Cox's Hill, while not so long, is much steeper for a quarter of a mile or so than the latter.

THE chances are that the town of Montclair will be illuminated by electricity within a month or so.

THE five-mile club handicap race of the Orange Wanderers will be decided on the Roseville track, Thursday, June 7, at 5 P. M.

JUST credit one more point to Orange, Mr. Editor, as Hillside avenue is to be graded, curbed and macadamized in short order.

THE residents of Palisade avenue, Jersey City, are starting a big kick over the condition of that thoroughfare. Let the cyclists of the city join in the kick, and something may be done toward improvement.

I MUST have been "away off" when I placed Randolph township in Essex County in my last. I thought I credited the item Morris County Exchange. I should have done so, at any rate, as Randolph is in that county, near Mount Freedom.

A LITTLE bird has whispered in my ear, saying that we may expect one or more race meets under the auspices of the Orange Wanderers, on the Roseville track, during the coming season. I hope it whispered truly, as, when the Wanderers have the say, there is always fun on the track.

THE authorities of Livingston are discussing the need of better roads. Some of the more enlightened of the villagers are fighting hard for macadam. A number of the "old-timers," however, seem to think "ploughed roadways" are "good enough." Some of them, to their credit (?) be it said, have no objection to having the roads "harrowed" as well as "ploughed." Another good chance for missionary work.

ALL right, "7504," have a "live committee in every Territory containing so many wheelmen," as you say, but let us have the committees appointed at once, as we need better roads now. This is the time of the year to enlist the aid of horse owners, and as such committees have got to come sooner or later, why not appoint them right away. As for keeping the local papers supplied with matter relating to road improvements, just count me in.

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

STILL they come; booms, I mean. There are prospects of an athletic association being formed, for the purpose of encouraging the interest in cycling, base ball, lawn tennis, and other out-door sports. A meeting was held the other evening, and the project was discussed with much enthusiasm. A committee was appointed to look for suitable grounds, and a syndicate will be formed, which will purchase the land and make the necessary improvements pending the formation and incorporation of the association. A mile cinder path for cycling, to be laid out, will in itself be a boon to our wheelmen. Mr. Ducker was spoken to on the subject, and was very much pleased. Should the grounds be in shape by next fall, the tournament may be held there.

THE following sign adorns the front of a mechanic's establishment: "Silent steeds of steel artistically illuminated, lubricated, and embellished for the infinitesimal compensation or remuneration of two shillings per operation."

THE Ramblers, at their regular monthly meeting, elected Louis Bruce Vice President, in place of F. A. Barnes, resigned. Several new names will be added to the club's list, at the next meeting. Henry E. Ducker is among the number. Captain Hanenstein announced a club run to Lewiston for Decoration Day.

AT the regular meeting of the Buffalo club, seven new members were elected, making a total of 118, the limit is 150. A committee was appointed to decide upon a club uniform; there are so many unattached wheelmen in this city who are members of the L. A. W. and accordingly wear the League uniform, that the club thought it best to have a distinctive uniform of their own. Captain Hotchkiss announced a club run to Erie, Pa. (century run), for Decoration Day; they go by train and return on wheel. The last club social took place Friday, April 13th.

CHICAGO.

"THE MULE."

THE Aeolus Club men, although not heard a great deal of outside of their own division of the city, are as lively a lot of boys as any. They have elected the following officers for the coming months: H. C. Barr, President; W. C. Smith, Vice President; N. Schuyler, Recording Secretary; F. Weissberger, Corresponding Secretary; H. Freeman, Treasurer; T. Bray, Captain. The retiring President has been presented with an L. A. W. badge. Captain Bray has been appointed by the club to serve on the Committee of Arrangements for Garden's second annual road handicap.

SURBRIDGE has lost Munger, who has joined the forces of House & Roe, and will remain there until Dec. 1st, and perhaps longer.

THE Illinois Club card of fixtures is out, and runs are scheduled all the way from twelve to ninety miles. The club has shown good sense in steering clear of such tremendously long journeys as have been sometimes attempted by others, believing in allowing such members as believe in century runs to enjoy them at their own discretion.

THE Committee of Arrangements for the Decoration Day road handicap is composed of Ed Oliver, Lincoln; H. D. Post, Owls; W. A. Davis, Illinois; Thos. Bray, Aeolus, a Chicago Bicycle Club Representative; and R. D. Garden. They are confident of receiving at least seventy entries. Gormully and Jeffery, with characteristic generosity will head the prize list with something handsome. With the entrance fees a special prize will be purchased for the man making the best time.

THE fraudulent McCurdy-Prince match has fallen through, and the former is in a ticklish position. He has been riding a Star, loaned him by Tom Roe, and has mortgaged it to an Omaha man for $60.00. The mortgagee, supposing McCurdy would remain in town for the race with Prince, allowed him to retain possession of the machine, whereupon Mac decamped, and was last heard of in Kansas City. If the offender is caught Roe promises to go to Omaha and prosecute him.

PITTSBURG and VICINITY.

"DUQUESNE."

Mr. C. W. COFFIN should confine himself to what I said, and not rush into print without cause. If he will refer to my squib on the safety, he will find that I did not say his "pedals were cow-horn shape," neither will he find "words to that effect." I said they were bent. And I say again that they were bent many a time where a crank would not have been. This follows from the construction of the machine, and Mr. Coffin is well aware of the fact. Mr. Coffin has bent his pedal on a good level road, under circumstances which would not have affected an ordinary. If there are any misstatements in this I am willing to correct them, and furthermore, I would advise Mr. Coffin to wait for just cause before criticising. But to contend that any safety will not have more bent pedal pins than an ordinary is puerile, unless you ride on a fine road all the time, that has no obstructions over six inches high.

BROWNSVILLE has "the fever" now, and the men are talking of a quarter-mile track.

Now is the time to make your arrangements to attend the New Castle meet on July 4, next. If you wait until the last minute something will turn up to prevent your attendance.

MESSRS. PLACE and Murray are investigating the merits of the tandem bicycle, and before many weeks are passed they expect to own one. Murray says that if he has the rear seat he can wear Place out on the hills. Probably he could!!

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

My friend, the Solitary Connector, will be welcome in the "great century run," as will all the rest of the club. I only hope the New Havens will come in a body. If they do, perhaps the New Jersey boys and I will be able to get square with them for that Beauford Point dinner, last July. Does the "stout gem'm'n," who rode the tandem, remember my first attempt at riding double? "Solitary" is assured that the pace is not designed to be over eight miles per hour, and that racing is not to be allowed.

The Mercury Wheel Club holds its first club run to Huntington to-morrow and Sunday.

The Long Island Wheelmen beat the New York B. Club bowling team 29 pins in their match of Friday last. On the 27th they bowl against the K. C. W.s, and 28th they have a "stag" and theatre party with the K. C. W. at the Park.

The Long Island Wheelmen had the biggest kind of a time on Saturday evening at their regular weekly orgie. Messrs. Steinwetz of the Casino, Kingman, Bretel, Prof. Dubois, the Ilderan Banjo Quartette, and other attractions (solids and liquids) took up the time until 12 P. M.

At the annual election of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club Tuesday evening, the 10th inst., the following gentlemen were elected to their respective offices, viz.: Messrs. Howard Greenman, President; W. E. Fuller, Vice President; G. F. Corby, Secretary; H. Raymond, Treasurer; Howard Spelman, Captain. Messrs. Barkman and Borland, the latter on his safety, succeeded in getting down to Babylon on Sunday, and had a fearfully rough time of it. A couple of K. C. W. men also got through.

AND COMMENT.

ALL the Lynn, Mass., cycling celebrities have been interviewed as to their views on the defeat of Rowe by Howell. They all seem confident as to the final result, and their comments are various, and some of them amusing. One of the interviewed on being asked his opinions, said, he thought "it was a bottomless pit sort of a note."!!

THE American team will appear in Berlin, June 10, 11 and 12.

E. MOHRIG, of San Francisco, will be in Boston about next week Tuesday.

Is Howell invincible? It certainly looks that way as our advices tell of the defeat of Rowe in the first of the series.

THE subject of our colored cartoon this week is Mr. H. D. Corey. His many friends will be pleased to have such an excellent likeness of the well-known "Harry."

THE Cambridge (Mass.) Club held their final ladies' night last week Thursday evening. The entertainment consisted of a varied musical performance and recitations.

PLATINUM plating may take the place of nickel. Experiments have been made by an English firm, and as it is far better able to resist action of dampness than nickel, it is likely to become popular.

THE Roads Improvement boom is not confined to these shores. Ireland has formed an association, and we sincerely trust that the movement will not receive the disapproval of the English Government.

THE Kings County Wheelmen, (N. Y.), held their annual dinner at Dillard's last Saturday. The usual Spring race meeting of the club will be held sometime in June.

THE Montreal Bicycle Club held their annual meeting Thursday, April 12th. The club is prosperous, and as vigorous and enthusiastic as ever it was in its younger days.

WE regret exceedingly to hear that W. McCandlish is a victim to the supposed infantile disease of scarlet fever. We hope next advices will report Mr. McCandlish better.

Now that the N. C. U. of England have sat on road racing, the celebrated road riding club, the "North Road C. C." called a meeting April 11th, to formally organize a Road Records Committee.

AFTER the Baltimore meet, Washington cyclists cordially invite L. A. W. members to visit their city. A good time is promised. Bear this in mind when you make your plans for the Baltimore trip.

"EDEN PARK," Cincinnati, has up to the past few weeks been indeed a Paradise Lost to the wheelmen of Porkopolis. The stern angel at the gate has, however, been removed and the Cincinnati cyclists are once more allowed the sweet privilege of riding in "Eden."

THE tables are turned, and all over the country we hear of "liberty bills," similar to those of New York and New Jersey, being introduced into the Legislature. Wheelmen are getting to be a power, and they are consequently getting aggressive. Pennsylvania is now in line with a proposed "liberty bill."

THE Newcastle, (Pa.), Club will hold an all-day race meeting on July 4th. In the opinion of such riders as Hollingsworth, Wilhelm, Berlo, Swartz and many others, their track is equal to any in the country. Applications have been made for several national and State championships. Handsome and valuable prizes will be offered.

R. F. CROMELIN, of Harrisburgh, Pa., was in Washington last week, and "scraped" an acquaintance with Belva Lockwood, late the woman suffrage candidate for President. They were both riding bicycles on Fourteenth street, when Belva dashed along so close to Mr. Cromelin as to tear off his overshoe. Nothing was said on either side.

THE Lynn Item seems to think that "The creditors of the Lynn Cycle Club Track Association did not better themselves by not accepting one of the offers made them. The association made them two propositions. One was one-third cash down, one-third at the end of one year and the balance at the end of two years. The other was 50 per cent. cash. The creditors only secured a dividend of 44 per cent. through the Court of Insolvency."

ON the evening of April 9 the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Bicycle Club celebrated its fourth anniversary by eating a dinner. The Wayne Hotel was the scene of the celebration, and a right good celebration it was. Half a dozen guests were present, and speeches were made that were all good and none bad or indifferent. We notice the toast of "the Road Hog" was assigned to Mr. P. C. Darrow, of the Gazette, and we do not doubt but that P. C. made sausages of the "bicyclers' bane."

THE English Chancellor of Exchequer according to the Cyclist, "does not consider it advisable to impose a tax upon bicycles and tricycles, because he thinks no greater service could be rendered to a vast number of our young men than the freedom they now enjoy in being able to explore the country on their machines. And the Chancellor of the Exchequer is right, for to oppose even the smallest obstacle in the way of such an athletic exercise would be nothing short of a national calamity."

HENRY E. DUCKER writes: "I have at last awakened cycling enthusiasm in Buffalo, and as one of the results the Courier, one of the leading daily papers here, devotes a column daily to wheeling, and I send you a specimen of what it has to say. You have probably heard of the great International fair to be held here, and for which Buffalo people have raised $500,000. Well they want the tournament badly, and if I make good arrangements with them it will last four days, and I estimate an attendance of at least 100,000 people. This will give the wheel such a boom as it has never had

❖ A FEW THINGS WE DO NOT ADVERTISE. ❖

RECORDS which we know to be false.—RECORDS after they are taken from us by another wheel.—RECORDS which are not unanimously accepted by the cycling press as genuine.

ONE OF THE THINGS WE DO NOT DO.

Retire from racing after every obtainable road, long distance and track record is beyond our reach.

A FEW THINGS WE DO.

An honorable manufacturing business.—Guarantee our wares to be exactly as represented.—Make a wheel which is capable of, and does hold all world's road and long distance records.

Do not forget that we make a large sized specialty of sundries and manufacture nearly everything in the way of accessories needed by the bicycle rider. We are always glad to discount on these goods to any authorized agent or repairer, whether he handles our line of bicycles or not. Our latest acquisition is the Excelsior Cyclometer, which is known by everybody to be absolutely reliable. We have a lot of these cyclometers in sizes, 50, 52 and 54 inch, of the old pattern, which we are offering, to close out, at the ridiculously low price of $5.00 each. They are just the same in matter of mechanism as the new style Excelsior, the only difference being that they cannot be read from the saddle. Those who desire to take advantage of this bargain had better order early, as they are going fast.

in the world as yet, and if my health only holds out the coming season we will astonish the world. Now what I want to see is the Eastern croakers (that say a large tournament could never be held in a large city) come to Buffalo this fall, we will send them all home with the idea that Boston and New York will have a tournament in 1889."

Our much respected confrere, "London W.," does not approve of "aged men" struggling for supremacy on the path or road, and he seems to think our offer of a medal to be run for at the Baltimore meet a wicked device that may result in harm, through the over exertion of our "aged" friends. That there is an interest evinced is shown by the many letters and postals we get recording performances by "aged" men. The latest is from No. 5691, and he claims a record of 100 miles on the road in 7h. 56m. A thirteen-mile gait for about 8 hours is good going for the best of us. Next, if you please.

Mr. F. P. PRIAL and Mr. Newman, of the Wheel, were in Boston this week, and gave us a call.

MR. HOWARD P. MERRILL, who last fall left for Los Angeles, Cal., has lately returned to his old position on the Springfield Union. He writes: "I have been in exile, so far as bicycling is concerned, but now I am back I propose to keep up with the procession." We are glad to welcome Mr. Merrill back.

BALTIMORE MEET NOTES.

A. E. MEALEY, Chief Consul, has addressed a letter to the Merchants and Manufacturers Association asking the co-operation and support of that body towards making the wheelmen's visit a success. The association has informally assured the Chief Consul of its support, and no doubt the members will subscribe towards making up the sum needed.

The route of march has been decided on, and is as follows: The line will form on Boundary avenue east of Charles street and will move down Charles street on east side to the south side of Monument, to Cathedral; countermarch on north side of Monument to the west side of Charles, to Madison, to Madison avenue, to Robert street, to the west side of Eutaw place, to Lanvale street, to the east side of Eutaw place, to Eutaw place extended, to Druid lake, where the men will be dismissed after the usual league photograph has been taken.

The business meeting will be held at 9 A. M., June 18th, and the Academy of Music has been fixed on as the place of meeting.

A party of 350 New Yorkers under the leadership of Chief Consul Bidwell, will go to the meet on a "special."

President Kirkpatrick, who will act as Chief Marshall, has appointed the following aides: E. P. Hayden, Baltimore; W. S. Bomberger, Hagerstown; W. S. Bull, Buffalo, N. Y.; Harry D. Corey, Boston, Mass.; W. R. Tucker, Philadelphia; S. T. Clark, Baltimore. Two or three others will complete the list.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE annual tour of 1888 will be from Philadelphia to Baltimore. Leaving Penna club house, Girard avenue, the morning of June 11, and arriving in Baltimore the evening of June 17, the eve of the Baltimore meet. The route and details will be published later.

THE POUGHKEEPSIE BICYCLE CLUB ENTERTAINMENT.

LAST week the Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Bicycle Club gave a most enjoyable entertainment at the Casino Rink. Some six hundred people passed the doors, a large proportion of which were ladies. President Bullard headed the squad of wheelmen in their grand entree, and after that A. Edmans and E. Ellenwood, both of Troy, gave a very good exhibition of trick riding. The "drill squad" then repeated their evolutions in the dark with lanterns swung to their handle bars. It was evident that this feature of the entertainment met with vast favor at the hands of the younger part of the audience of both sexes. A tug-of-war came next, Poughkeepsie vs. Newburgh. The west shore men had to give up four feet of their rope, and so Poughkeepsie scored a victory. Then came the feature of the evening, a game of polo between Poughkeepsie and Newburgh teams. Neither team knew anything about polo and hence much fun. "Fouls" were the rule, and some of the scrimmages were extremely laugh-provoking. Again was Poughkeepsie's team declared the winners by a score of 3 to 0. At the conclusion of the fun at the rink all adjourned to the club house at a late hour, all declaring that the Poughkeepsie men were hospitality personified.

LIFE AND CYCLING IN NEW MEXICO.

A PERSONAL letter from ex-Captain Whitney of the Boston Club, dated from his sheep ranch near Albuquerque, N. M., was received by us the other day, and we are sure Mr. Whitney will pardon us if we give to our readers a few short extracts therefrom:

"I write this letter from our outer ranch, on which is built a one-story adobe house, 13x20. Our headquarters are twelve miles distant, and the house thereon is the finest ranch house in the Territory. We have a force of ten Mexicans and two white men. The Mexicans are a nasty crowd, and are very treacherous. I do not go around without my self-cocking seven shooter, as it may be wanted badly at any moment. The country round here is nicely adapted for cycling, a fine climate and good roads, the latter of which compare favorably with those of Eastern Massachusetts. I am going to send for my safety, and will utilize it to great advantage. Since I have been here, only three or four days have been unfit for riding, and barring the rainy season, which occurs in June and July, we can have ten months of almost continuous riding. I must say I miss Steward Nottingham's good dinners, and I have to be content with pork, beans and tortillas, not a very luxurious diet, but I must acknowledge it is 'fillin'.' I hope to be in the Hub after 'shearing time.' We have now 4000 'old lambs' (i. e.), one, two and three years old, and if we have luck we shall show an annual increase of about 1500." Captain Whitney winds up by desiring to be remembered to all friends, whether they be North, South, East or West.

THE GREAT CENTURY—NEW YORK—PHILADELPHIA.

THE New York—Philadelphia Century is booming. The meeting of delegates from the clubs interested for the purpose of arranging details, will be held in room 10, 25 Broad street, New York City, on the afternoon of Friday, 27th inst. Any club in the vicinity of New York, which through inadvertence, has not received special invitations, is cordially invited to send a representative. Out of seventeen clubs invited, all have taken action with the exception of the Brooklyn B. Club. The estimate of riders from these 16 clubs alone goes above one hundred. I wish to reiterate that the run is not to be a road race, but a comfortable day's ride, with a good dinner and a rest at Trenton.

The Philadelphia Clubs are becoming interested in this end of the procession, and promise a great turnout. I have today asked Mr. Tucker of the Associated Cycling Clubs to arrange for the evening run out on the Pike. My thanks are due Mr. H. B. Hart, for assistance.

For "Plain Side," in the notice of meeting in last week's WORLD, read, Penn Side. Also rendezvous for "rendervooas."

Mr. Richter, of Newark, makes the good suggestion that, two or three days before the 16th of June, exploring parties be sent out over the roads to be traversed, between all large towns, simultaneously; each party reporting the state of the roads between its town, and that of the parts next ahead.

Would it not be well for the Orange or Elizabeth Clubs to start the project of a ladies' tour, starting on Friday, June 15th, stopping over night at Trenton, and being overtaken near Philadelphia by the Century party?

THE EASTER MANEUVERS OF THE ENGLISH TROOPS.

WE cannot give the space necessary for an exhaustive account of these interesting maneuvers, and how the cyclists took active part in same, but we cut the summary from the three English cycling papers which will convey an intelligent idea of what was accomplished. Wheeling says: "It may be taken that under no possible circumstances, short of deep snow, could the earlier work of the cyclists have been harder. It is certain that they overcame all difficulties and learnt many lessons. It is certain that, taking the march from Guilford to Ashford, (75 miles) no body of troops, however mounted, could have covered the distance in the time, taking cavalry to stick to their own horses. The value of Cyclists scouts is undoubted; as is their ability for rapid movements, aided, when necessary, by rail, but always ready to proceed to any place to which there is a road; to blow up a bridge, or obtain information, or other work not requiring fighting in large numbers. It is only by continually trying their power that their best points will be discovered. As to opposing cavalry at close quarters they cannot, and against infantry they will always be the smaller number."

Then Bicycling News remarks that: "Nearly the whole of the force (100 men) were mounted upon safeties, upon which the rifles were carried in clips, but the three Hartlepool men, the one East Anglian representative, the Post Office men, and two West Surrey were mounted on ordinaries. Upon these machines the rifle carried up the backbone, the butt resting in a bucket over the

THE EASTER MANEUVERS OF THE ENGLISH TROOPS.

We cannot give the space necessary for an exhaustive account of these interesting maneuvers, and how the cyclers took active part in same, but we cut the summary from the three English cycling papers which will convey an intelligent idea of what was accomplished. Whedding says: "It may be taken that under no possible circumstances, short of deep snow, could the earlier work of the cyclists have been harder. It is certain that they overcame all difficulties and learnt many lessons. It is certain that, taking the march from Guilford to Ashford, (75 miles) no body of troops, however mounted, could have covered the distance in the time, taking cavalry to stick to their own horses. Then Bicycling News remarks that: "Nearly the whole of the force (100 men) were mounted upon safeties, upon which the rifles were carried in clips, but the three Hartlepool men, the one East Anglian representative, the Post Office men, and two West Surreys were mounted on ordinaries. Upon these machines the rifle was carried up the backbone, the butt resting in a bucket over the back-wheel. The tricycle riders had a bad time of it, and in Surrey, Hants and Wilts, the ruts were so deep and so stiff that it was some times very difficult to keep safeties right end uppermost. L. Corp. Radermacher, of the Victorias, fainted from exhaustion on Friday, and Lieut. Lownes was so done up between Stockbridge and Salisbury that he went to sleep in the rain by the roadside. Great regret must be felt that the Maxim gun carriage gave out, as well as for the failure of the Flying Sapper, but as these were purely experimental machines nobody is to blame. The failure of the Sapper at least points to the fact that in the construction of military machines of this class, brazing must give way to bolting, and the machine must be made as easily repairable as possible, even at the sacrifice of a little lightness. Should cycling develop into another arm of the service, the honor of forcing its capabilities upon the authorities will remain with Lieut. Colonel Savile and the men who so willingly seconded him both this year and last."

The Cyclist says: "The march past of the new corps of cyclists who were honored by leading the columns, took place after being inspected by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, who examined both officers and men as to the distance they had ridden, and was astonished that so many had succeeded in covering such distances as from Salisbury to Dover in the time allowed them. The march past was admirable. The force consisted of 100, and was divided into five companies—the first was composed of engineers; second, 26th Middlesex, just raised; third, 4th Manchester with detachments from Durham and Liverpool; fourth and fifth from the Scots, 24th Middlesex, and London Rifles and West London."

W. WOOD BEATS R. HOWELL.

It was a veritable surprise party that assembled at North Shields on Easter Saturday and saw the "champion of champions" vanquished. It was a surprise for Howell and his friends, and it was a surprise for the supporters of Wood. The distance run was fifteen miles, and one of the most remarkable features was that Howell never once led the Shields man during the race. The time, 51.27, was not remarkable except for its slowness. The greatest excitement prevailed at the finish.

HOWELL GETS BACK AT W. WOOD.

On Easter Monday at Leicester, Howell met W. Wood in a ten-mile race, and in view of the defeat of the former over the latter the week before, great interest was manifested. Wood led into the straight, but Howell's blood was up, and he rode as he never rode before, beating the Shields man by about four feet, time, 33.22 1-2; thus having his revenge.

WOODSIDE BEATS ALLARD.

F. W. ALLARD made his formal entry into the professional ranks on Easter Monday by riding a ten-mile race with Woodside. The track was a bit soft, a rain prevailed during the race and a strong, cold wind blew, making affairs for riders and spectators anything but agreeable. Entering the last lap, Woodside cut loose and crossed the tape ten yards ahead of his competitor. Time, 35.28.

THE ROWE-ENGLEHEART MATCH NOT RUN.

OWING to a bad accident to Engleheart on the morning of the day on which the ten-mile match was to be run, April 2d, the match between Rowe and Engleheart had to be postponed. So that the spectators should not be disappointed, arrangements were made with F. W. Allard to ride the distance with Rowe. Considering the fact that Allard had just ridden a hard race with Woodside everyone admired his pluck, and the way he gave the big American all he wanted, to win. We take from the Cyclist an account of the race: "Rowe bestrode a 55-inch 'Columbia' racer, weighing just over 21 pounds, built by the Pope Mfg. Co., which mount he will ride in all his races in the Old Country, whilst Allard used the well-known wheel of the Coventry Machinists' Co.'s make. The pair were dispatched to a good start by Mr. G. R. Smith, Jr., and the following is a brief description of the race: Allard went away with the lead, Rowe going on in front after three laps had been traversed, and after leading for five laps Allard went on, resigning again to Rowe on the fourteenth lap. In the twenty-first lap Allard led, whilst three laps later the men passed the mark level. Seven laps from home Rowe assumed the command, and was never again headed. Despite the plucky endeavor of the Coventry man to get up on terms, the American held his own, and won an exciting race by a little more than a yard in 36m. 30s."

HOWELL WINS THE FIRST RACE OF THE SERIES.

ADVICES received report a loafing race for the five-mile race between Rowe and Howell, resulting in a victory for the Englishman in 15.37 1-5. We take the particulars of the race from the Boston Globe. "Today's distance was five miles. Rowe was in excellent condition, and, contrasted with Howell's overdrawn look, ought to have been the favorite, but the Englishmen preferred to trust a man whom they knew from experience is a first rate rider, and seven to four was freely laid on Howell. At the start Howell took a slight lead at a moderate pace, Rowe hanging on to the back wheel of his opponent. This continued to the end of the first mile, which was completed in 3 min. 11 1-5 sec. The pace was somewhat worse, but the positions were unaltered, during the second mile, the time at the end of which was 6 min. 24 1-5 sec. The crowd urged the men to improve the pace, but neither heeded the advice, and the third mile was finished 9 min. 39 sec., and the fourth in 12 min. 49 3-4 sec. from the start. Then both warmed to their work, excited by the shouts of the multitude. In the last lap, half way round, Rowe made a fine spurt and forged quite six yards ahead and for a moment looked liked winning, but Howell replied with one of the splendid rushes for which he is famous, quickly passed his man, and won by five yards amid the greatest enthusiasm; time, 15min. 37 1-5 sec. The mile race will be run at Wolverhampton, April 28, and the 10 miles at Coventry, May 12th."

AN EXCITING MATCH RACE AT NEW ORLEANS.

SINCE my last the Graham-Guilotte match, of which mention was then made, has taken its place among the things that have been. The banter was given and accepted, the match arranged and run off, all within three weeks. It took place Sunday, the 5th inst., on the shell-drive encircling Horticultural Hall, in Andover Park. It was without any great hope of even making up the heavy odds, but more to "keep his word" than anything else, that Guilotte allowed Graham the four-minute start in five and a half miles, but when the latter had reeled off his first two laps in 3 17, and was well around on his third before Guilotte had even started, it became plain to everyone how stern and hopeless was the chase. Guilotte, however, started at a rattling clip, making his first lap in 1.27; second, 1.30, after which he commenced to drop back, and after the fifth lap did no better than 1.42. Graham kept up a hot pace for two miles, when he, too, commenced to fail, settling into a four-minute gait, but when Guilotte caught him on his sixth round, it seemed to infuse new life into the boy, for he brightened up and clung to his speedier competitor's rear wheel until the finish, hanging on in fine style, finishing his 5 1-2 miles in 20.12 1-2, while Guilotte had still two laps to cover. The latter, however, never completed them. After his third mile an overloaded stomach commenced to make itself felt, and though he was in evident distress, and rode in poor form, he refused assistance, and hung on as long as he did out of pure bull-dog grit, backed by a powerful physique. Towards the end Guilotte's appearance "kinder" scared the boys; his eyes were rolling wildly, his skin seemed drawn to a severe tension, and was fairly crimson in color; he was frothing at the mouth, and kept pressing his hand to his side, and rode so out of his usual splendid style that everyone felt easier when he quit. He was game to the last, however, and doggedly refused to dismount his wheel until he could do so alone. His time for the ten laps was 16.10, as against Graham's 16.50, for the same distance—both inside the local record. Each lap is a trifle short of a half mile, about 200 feet. The timing was done by Messrs. H. W. Fairfax, A. M. Hill, and R. G. Betts. Graham surprised everyone by his speed and staying powers, and, when he clung to Guilotte's little wheel for round after round, his friends fairly "bubbled o'er." He has hitherto been rated only "passably fair," but now his neck is broken for any more big handi-caps, and an eye will be kept on him in future events. "Br."

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

We hear "tidings of comfort and joy" from the Coventry Machinists' Co., to the effect that the activity and enterprise shown by that firm this season is bearing fruit.

The Pope Mfg. Co. has had in use for about a month a Long-Distance Telephone over a copper wire, extending from their Boston office to their Hartford factory, a distance of 125 miles. During the recent great storm, when the telegraph wires were all down, the Pope Co. was able to talk with its factory, with the exception of a few hours. The telephone is used for transmitting orders, enabling the company to notify the factory of an order within a few minutes of its receipt. This modern convenience results in the saving frequently of twenty-four hours in the filling of an order.

If you desire to ride safe and attain speed, climb hills with ease, ride rough roads with but little vibration, buy the 1888 pattern Springfield Roadster. $75.00. ***

The Cycle Supply Co., of No. 3 Berkeley St., is a new-comer, comparatively, but we think our readers will acknowledge that they are rushers. We would advise all to keep an eye each week (this week especially) on our advertising columns, and see what the Cycle Supply Co. has to say to the cycling world.

The most "toney" card that it has been our pleasure to see is that which the Gormully & Jefferey Mfg. Co. have issued, with the heading "Our Greeting to you Gentlemen." It is beautifully engraved with the well-known cut on the cover of the Indian, the dead horse and the bicycle, an allegory that all can read. While speaking of this firm we want to say a word about the Boston headquarters, 243 Columbus Avenue. Mr. J. S. Murray is the New England agent for the "American Cycles," and we must congratulate both parties on the move into a location where no doubt the Gormully & Jefferey goods will receive their share of the attention from the riding public. The store is an elegant one, and is fitted up in the most complete manner. There are dressing rooms for both ladies and gentlemen, and Mr. Murray has a snug private office. It is the intention of Mr. Murray to cater to the "hiring public." He will keep on hand a first-class lot of two and three wheelers for the use of both sexes, and it is to be hoped his enterprise will be amply rewarded. He still keeps the old stand at No. 100 Sudbury, for a repair shop and a riding school. Give him a call at his new headquarters and see his full line of "Americans," and also his second-hand machines.

"G. MINTURN WORDEN, of the John P. Lovell Arms Company of Boston, gave an exhibition to-day of the advantages of the Springfield roadster bicycle of which E. R. Darling, 129 Main street, Woonsocket, is the agent. He rode off very difficult curb-stones, ascended and descended steep hills and got wonderful speed out of it on the level. He proved that on this machine a "header" is impossible. Mr. Worden severely strained his knee a week ago alighting from a train, so nearly all the work was done with one leg. A great crowd witnessed the exhibitions."—Woonsocket Paper.

The Overman Wheel Co. write: "We are doing at our factory what we have never known to be done in a Cycle factory before, that is, running night and day. We have two separate gangs of men, a day gang and a night gang. The demand for wheels is so great that this is necessary in order to keep up with orders. Our engine never cools off. We expect to continue this through the season, and are making large additions to our present factory, which is already quite extensive. Our machinery is all new, and the latest pattern."

"As busy an establishment as any house of any class of business in the city just now is Whitten & Co.'s cycle agency, (Providence, R. I.) The extraordinary boom hereabouts last season will be more than duplicated this year. League members should, every one of them, take it upon themselves to see that the boom is not confined to spreading the popularity of riding, but is turned to increasing the League's membership and strength." Glad to hear it, and we hope the readers of this paper will bear in mind that Whitten & Co., are patentees of one of the best whistles on the market, see their advertisement.

THE CLARK CYCLE CO.,

Pearre Building, - - - BALTIMORE, MD.

Davis Patent Road Machine.

This machine is in successful operation for making new roads, and scraping all roads to a level, laying out gutters, and rounding up the middle in handsome shape. The machine is built of Ash timber and heavy iron work. The pole is 16 feet long, and so hung in the two-wheel carriage that it can be raised and lowered at will by means of the lever, as shown. The scraper is secured to the pole by means of a heavy steel spud, which allows angling to right or left by means of the circle iron, and the draft is always direct from whiffletrees to scraper through draft-rod under pole.

J. W. DAVIS & CO., 134 Water St., NEW YORK.

NEW YORK is going to work in earnest on the roads question. An association is being formed to push a bill in the legislature and this will include horsemen, farmers and wheelmen. When the roads are to be improved, horses and bicycles have a common interest, and the devotees of each are drawn towards each other. Good work can be done if the two pull in one boat.

MARYLAND and Rhode Island have reason to be proud of their records. They have met and passed the maximum of last year and yet they have just begun to work. Success seldom comes without effort. The late lamented Fanny Dombey refused to make an effort, at the earnest solicitation of Mrs. Chick, and Dombey became a widower and little Paul was motherless. In like manner clubs go out and divisions decay, when an effort would make them flourish like the much lead about emerald-hued bay

HART CYCLE CO.,
No. 811 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

SAFETY INDISPENSABLE. By Henry Sturmy. A complete analysis of the Safety Bicycle, and illustrations of each kind. By mail, 30 cents. For 1885.

THE INDISPENSABLE BICYCLIST'S HANDBOOK. Illustrations of 350 different varieties of Bicycles. 400 illustrations. Price 50c., postpaid.

THE CYCLIST, the leading paper of England, is a well-filled newspaper, containing the best and fullest reports of all wheel matters. No other paper covers the ground as the Cyclist does, and it is not only the largest in size, but has by far the largest circulation of any wheel paper. Edited by Henry Sturmy and C. W. Nairn. $2.50 per year, including postage.

TRAINING FOR AMATEUR ATHLETES, WITH SPECIAL REGARD TO BICYCLISTS. By Dr. H. L. Cortis. The author of this work being at once a responsible medical man and a rider of world-wide renown, it has an authority which no other book on training possesses. As its hints and directions are in every way practical, it can be strongly indorsed as giving all the information that a book can give on this important subject. Second edition. 50 cents.

TRICICLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents.

TWO PILGRIMS' PROGRESS, "From Fair Florence to the Eternal City of Rome—Delivered under the Similitude of a Ride, wherein is Disccovered the manner of their getting out, their dangerous journey and safe arrival at the Desired City." By Joseph and Elizabeth Pennell. A delightful book of travels on a tandem, and containing nearly 200 pages of letter press by Mrs. Pennell, and numerous illustrations from the pencil of Jo Pennell. The book is elegantly bound, and is an ornament to any table or library. Price, $1.60, post paid.

OVERMAN WHEEL COMPANY, MAKERS, - - BOSTON.

YOU MAY NOT HAVE KNOWN.

We are the clothiers to the Wheelmen.

We got the contract from the National Association for making the regulation uniform.

Its impartial judgment passed on the matter, and designated ours as the best.

That carries with it the other fact—We make the right sort of uniform for the least money.

Yet, when you know all the facts it isn't to be wondered at.

We are used to making the best uniform clothing for the foremost railroad companies and military and band organizations. Why not yours?

No department of our business is growing faster than that of making uniforms. We know how. We employ special skill. That's the only way to do it well.

How else do you suppose we have done that other feat of the clothing trade, to wit: Built up the largest retail clothing business for everyday and dress clothing? In no other way than by making the very best clothing. And, then, selling it for as little as possible.

We're used to doing it. Send in your orders. You'll get your suit promptly.

ABOUT INCOMES.

Another suggestion to persons, with moderate incomes, who desire to indulge in cycling. If you cannot buy, RENT. Renting wheels is looked upon by many with disfavor, as cycles used for renting purposes are usually in such a condition as to make riding them unenjoyable. This season I shall use for rental purposes new Columbia Light Roadster Bicycles and Columbia Tricycles and Tandems, also the Veloce Columbia. The road wheels will be kept in perfect condition. Send for one of my small books, giving terms, etc. I might also mention again that I am selling Columbia Cycles, have all sizes and styles of finish, and can fill orders promptly. GET THE BEST!

The Standard Cyclometer.

Greatly Improved for 1888.

Simplest and Best Instrument ever Invented.

The Reasons Why:

It has stood the test for accuracy. It has proved itself the strongest and best made cyclometer on the market.

It has been in use several years, and its merits are well established among wheelmen.

Can be read from the saddle, and used with or without the hub lantern.

A positive and continuous action, making it reliable in every respect.

REGISTERS 2500 MILES.

We have given the manufacture of the Cyclometer careful investigation and study, with a resolute determination to remedy all defects, and at last we place upon the market an instrument that seems absolutely perfect in all its workings. We furnish a certificate of accuracy with all instruments. In ordering give size and make of wheel, also size of axle, and length of axle between the hub shoulders inside. Price, with balance weight and lantern attachment, $10.00.

In the Spring the Young Man's Fancy

Lightly turns to thoughts of what he is to ride for the coming wheel season. He straightway gathers himself together and goes out among them, and after casting his eye over the field and making mental notes of the various "points" of the various makes, he buys his little VICTOR, and goes home contented in mind, believing he has the best thing.

AND HE IS ETERNALLY CORRECT.

To the Editor Bicycling World:

There's an advertisement in the last issue of your journal that says Wanamaker & Brown make the best regulation uniforms for Bicyclers.

Who are Wanamaker & Brown?

Inquire in Philadelphia.
Inquire in Chicago.
Inquire in St. Louis.
Inquire in Pittsburg.
Inquire in Louisville.
Inquire in Washington.
Inquire of some of our 600 agents.

We do the largest retail clothing business in the country. We have only one plank in our platform: Reliable Clothing at the Least Prices.

How else could we have got the largest business? The fact speaks for the shrewdness of the American people and our fairness.

Isn't Uniform Clothing a little harder to make?

It couldn't be harder to make bicycling uniforms than railroad uniforms, military uniforms, band uniforms. Ask the largest and best companies in the country how Wanamaker & Brown do their work? Not a branch of our business is doubling itself faster than that of uniform making.

Besides, the National Association says we make the Best Bicycling Uniform. They gave the contract for goodness and doing it for less money.

Send your orders along.

INCOMES INVESTED

In good Second Hand wheels always return a fair equivalent, but shun the old and worn out cycles that are advertised and sold at low prices. A good second-hand bicycle or tricycle has a market value, and when offered below the market something is wrong. I have a few of the good ones in stock that I am offering at fair prices, not way down, but guarantee a good value for the money. All in perfect order and as represented. Send for second-hand list, and then ask for a detailed description of any wheel that you may select.

Those who desire new bicycles will not, I hope, infer from the above that I am only a second-hand dealer. I have a full line of new Columbia Cycles, all styles of finish and all sizes. Call and see my stock.

TRIGWELL BALL BEARING HEAD,

Is having a Great Demand!! A Superb Wheel in Every Detail. Every Part Steel Forging, and the Trigwell Ball Head Wheelmen WILL HAVE! Wheelmen recognize in getting a new mount the consistency of getting the BEST, and is not the Best the Most Improved?

There is even no criticism now on Trigwell's Ball Head. It is fully conceded a Clear Advance in cycling. No bother in oiling; no bother with Adjusting; a great assistance in Hill Climbing and delight in steering. Is not our Perfection Strong Backbone an improvement? Not one broken last year, and the worst falls come from weak and broken backbones.

Is not our RIM stronger than any others NOT ONE BUCKLED RIM last year!!!

The NEW MAIL is the Only Wheel having these improvements, and we think it is pretty generally conceded to be the Handsomest Wheel in the market.

SEE ONE! TRY ONE! Insist on your dealer actually showing you one before deciding. If not satisfactory you Need Not Take It; or write us and we will send one.

BOSTON, 4 MAY, 1888.

THE New York Press is a paper that we are glad to see taking up the question of Road Improvement, as proposed and backed by the New York Division of the L. A. W. This is not to be wondered at, however, when we find that the names of Charles Richards Dodge and W. I. Harris are connected with the paper as co-editors. We congratulate the cause on securing such a valuable ally as the Press to further the good work. We have no doubt that Mr. Dodge will never lose an opportunity to educate the ruralist up to the belief that a good road is an economy of horse flesh, wagons and temper, that they cannot afford to overlook.

THIS alas too true, and "we acknowledge the corn," that we pinned our faith to the wrong man in backing Rowe against Howell. We were honest in our oft-expressed opinion that Rowe would prove the better man. Certainly had we been offered ten to one hundred that, bar accidents, Howell would lead Rowe twenty yards at the finish of a one-mile race, we should have been tempted to gamble. We have nothing more to say on the subject, except to name Richard Howell as the undoubted champion bicyclist of the world. He has established his claim beyond a doubt. He has met the fastest men of Europe and America, and he has defeated every one of them fairly and squarely. Rowe has also been beaten by W. Wood, a man who is undoubtedly one of the fastest riders in the world, but by no means Howell's equal. In connection with the first race it will be of interest to quote from a private letter of one of the best English racing authorities. He says: "Richard led from the start for four and three-fourths miles, a thing he's not done for months. Do you know why? To keep the pace slow. If Rowe had taken him four miles in twelve minutes he might have killed him in his present form (Howell's, I mean). In the fifteen-mile match with Wood, and in the one-mile championship, Howell was run off his legs and couldn't save his spurt to the finish, and if Rowe had hustled him he might have won. Howell "kidded to him," to use a slang phrase, threw off his cap in the fourth mile, and made all the "business" of a played-out pace-maker, thereby inducing Rowe to make his effort too soon, and the result was that in something under two hundred yards Howell caught up and led by six yards at the finish. Howell trains on every day, and will be a better man every week, so will Rowe; and half a dozen lickings will make him a better champion, by teaching him to use his mind as well as his legs, and not to let himself be jockeyed by a little trick, which any boy at half limit would have seen through." The subject of our cartoon this week is W. A. Rowe. We are sorry that we cannot add the coveted title of "champion of the world."

DECISION IN THE POPE-GORMULLY SUIT.

Editor Bicycling World: I am just in receipt of a despatch from Chicago, saying that in the five suits of the Pope Mfg. Co. vs. Gormully and others which were waiting decision "the court has decided every point in every suit in favor of the defendants, and appeals [to the Supreme Court of the United States] have been prayed and allowed." It will be some days before I have a full text of the decision, but when it comes you can have full benefit of it.

Yours,

CHARLES E. PRATT.

Boston, 30 April, 1888.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS RENDERED BY JUDGE BLODGETT.

Editor Bicycling World: The cases are, No. 824, Pope Mfg. Co. vs. R. Philip Gormully; No. 829, Pope Mfg. Co. vs. Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., R. Philip Gormully and Thos. B. Jeffery; No. 830, same vs. same; No. 880, same vs. same; No. 845, same vs. same; argued before Judges Gresham and Blodgett January last, occupying four days, were decided to-day, dismissing all bills against the defendant without reservation of any kind.

This litigation has been pending some time, and is of great interest to the parties interested. The main case was No. 824 the history of which is as follows: The Pope Mfg. Co. were the owners of certain letters, patents on the construction of bicycles and tricycles, and licensed certain people to manufacture under them, and amongst them they licensed the defendant.

The defendant contended that when he made this license, he understood that it was to terminate absolutely, as to all its conditions and agreements, on April 1, 1886. The complainants contended that although patents under which the defendant was licensed had expired, and the defendant thus relieved from paying royalty, he was estopped from disputing the validity of all the patents named in the contract, and was also estopped from manufacturing goods containing certain features for which the defendant was not licensed. The Court ruled otherwise, holding that the license absolutely ended in all its parts and conditions at the date named, and that no estoppel or agreements existed after that date. Case No. 829 was on the same subject of the contract but included the associates of Gormully; that notwithstanding the license was signed by alone by Mr. Gormully, they were also liable under it; the Court in this case rules as in the last, that as no estoppel existed after the first of April, 1886, there was no case against the other parties involved, and dismissed the bill accordingly. Cases 830, 880 and 845 were all suits for infringement of patents held by the complainants, asserting that the defendants infringed each and all their patents in the construction of their machines, and ask for an injunction. The Court discussed each claim in their patents, and decided that the defendants did not infringe any one of them, and the suits against the defendants were accordingly all dismissed. The decision of the Court as rendered, was lengthy, going minutely into every part of the subject-matter, and quoting references in support of the decision rendered. The Court refused, at the suggestion of complainants' counsel, to review any portion of the decision. Complainants' counsel prayed an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

The drop has fallen, and America's cycling pride is a lifeless corpse in British public opinion. How about your vaunted records? How about your—there I cannot dwell on the subject, it is too painful for thought, let alone putting into cold type. The "representative" cyclist of America, who holds world's records, went down, and went down disgracefully, too, before Howell, the British champion. "Why, Temple could give him a start," and "Woodside certainly made a better fight of it," and "trot out the rest of your champions," were the cheerful (?) comments which greeted my ears in walking to the office of the Belgrave Grounds on Saturday. What is two hundred pounds to an American team, even though it was hard-earned, to the disgrace of our country's champion, as the papers and public persist in declaring "the Americans should have put Temple and not Rowe against Howell?" Rowe, to the credit of Mr. Allen, his trainer, and more so to the three men who brought him over, was in splendid form, and no expense or care was spared in bringing Rowe to the mark in form fit to ride for his life. The English champion, demon that he is, on and off the wheel, rode with that remarkable pluck and judgment which characterizes all his races, and deserves every credit for his splendid performance, and no one more than myself gives him more credit, although it goes without saying we would have liked to have won. The extraordinary amount of "gush" and back-biting indulged in by a section of the American press, regarding the efforts of the original American team, was such as to make them believe that all Rowe had to do was to get up and say to Howell, "good-bye," and pick up his money; therefore, now the tide-flood gates of scepticism and sarcasm are let loose, I thank my stars that no "bluffing or blowing" was indulged in by the team prior to the contest. We knew our opponent and preferred to wait. What did your New York contemporary say a short time ago? Was it not to this effect, "that to compare Temple with Rowe would be like comparing a thoroughbred, stocky race-horse to a shetland pony?" Quite so. Rowe was like a child to the Englishman, when the latter closed for the final struggle, and to compare Rowe's effort to that of Temple's when pitted against Howell, would be an obvious injustice to Temple. The latter was only beaten a foot, a yard, and once a dead heat, but Rowe was beaten fully six yards, and who knows how much further, if it had been necessary.

HOWELL, contrary to his usual methods, made all the pace, which is much to his credit, although the time, 15.37 1-5, is not fast, but fast enough for Howell to win after doing exactly what he was not expected to do. The "great sympathizer and supporter" of American records of 152 Fleet St., London, joins the throng, and remarks this week: "Didn't we tell you so? Wood, we are sure, will beat Rowe next Saturday, and Howell, we are quite sure, will finish him at the mile at Wolverhampton." So you can weigh and appraise the value of such candor and friendship to America, and then in the future treat "sentiment," and not impartiality, accordingly. Rowe before the race declared he never felt better, but I believe he was a thoroughly frightened man before the start, although the team and his friends made every effort to keep his spirits in "a normal state," as the learned doctors say.

I go North to-morrow, to witness the twenty-mile match, Rowe vs. W. Wood, the celebrated North country man, who recently twice defeated Howell. According to public form, therefore, we stand a good chance to lose another hundred "quid," but I rather think Rowe, this time, will win, as he is not riding against the Sullivan of cycling, hence his pulse won't be in such a feverish condition. If he can't win he will probably return to America, as Temple is good enough to beat Wood, and will have another good try at Howell.

FRED WOOD, the noted "pro," who has been playing the part of David the good (i. e.), taking another man's spouse to himself, in Australia, arrived home yesterday, and Leicester, who believes in the old adage that "charity covereth a multitude of sins," exercised that charity in receiving their erring brother with open arms. I should have liked (no, I don't think I should) to have seen the meeting between the muscular Mrs. Wood, nee Miss Jones, and her "Freddie." I believe the said Mrs. Wood, nee Miss Jones, informed a Leicester friend that she would forgive the erring one, if he would promise to at all times allow her to accompany him in his travels abroad hereafter. The trouble is, with the Leicester professional, he verily believes himself to be a veritable Adonis, and the fact of that long nose doesn't in the least interfere with his belief. Dick Howell, in talking it over the other day, says he has a firm belief in the immeasurable depth of woman's forgiveness, and volunteered his belief that if Wood would only play the part of a man (i. e.), go home and fall on his wife's neck, and ask her forgiveness, he believed that, like the reward on the recovery of a valuable pup, "no questions would be asked."

Here's a go, we are all to be wax-worked in the celebrated Madame Tussaud's London establishment, and Temple's smile will be preserved to posterity. The ever-popular and enterprising young man, W. S. Golden, who controls the finance department of the Cyclist and Bicycling News, N. C. U. handicapper for the Midland counties, captain and editor of the Coventry District Cyclists Club, the fourth largest club in the United Kingdom, and what other innumerable offices the Lord knows, received a letter from the London firm the other day asking his help in procuring a dozen of the most noted cyclists in the world for a room of wax to be especially devoted to cyclists. Of course most Americans who have travelled know the immense wax-work establishment in Baker street, London, and the great amount of interest royalty and the nations at large take in it. Well, among the names who are to be rolled in a vat of wax are Messrs. Sturme, Golden, Howe, Woodside, Temple, Morgan, Hillier, Furnivall, Illston, Osmond, Bower and Howell. So when you come to London Mr. Editor just step into Madame Tussaud's & Sons and shake hands with the boys. They will always be "at home" to American friends and critics likewise. Temple's smile, I'm sure, will recompense you for your visit.

WHEEL circles have been agitated this week with the report that Buckingham (late boss with Hillman, Herbert & Cooper, Coventry, and J. H. Adams (late London manager with the Howe Machine Company of Glasgow, had bought out the Howe concern, and would in future make the "Buckingham" and "Adams" cycles. Mr. Adams hinted to me in London recently that a "startling announcement" would soon be made. I asked him if there would be a job vacant for me, he smilingly stated there was. I will only look after the finances. The new firm have one of the most complete plants at Glasgow that any manufacturer enjoys, and with Buckingham's mechanical ability and J. H.'s well-known push the new firm should do good things.

RALPH TEMPLE's foot, which has troubled the little Chicagoan for ten weeks, is now nearly well, and you can expect to hear of him doing well at Whitsuntide. Woodside is riding faster than ever, and looks handsomer than ever also. The new team turned up to see the Rowe-Howell match, and of course was disappointed. Reports are current Wheeling will again change hands, owing to a law suit. I hear McCandlish is open for an editorial chair. The suit, Alexander vs. Wheeling for libel has been postponed until midsummer, owing to scarlet fever, which has attacked Wheeling's staff. Rowe writes three times a week to America and cables often. Woodside's father's will has been proved and records $300,000 of property, half of that in United States Government bonds.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

distance from the Newark Bay.

THE Orange Wanderers were out in force on Saturday (28 April) for a run to Montclair and Roseland, leaving their club house at 4 P. M.

SATURDAY (5 May) the Orange Wanderers will run to Llewellyn Park, Eagle Rock and St. Cloud. The morning runs, starting at 5.15, and ladies' runs, starting at 9 A. M., commence on Wednesday (2 May) and continue through the season.

THE wretched condition of Palisade avenue, formerly one of the finest thoroughfares in Jersey City, is commented upon on all sides. Here is a good chance for the Hudson County Wheelmen and Jersey City Athletic Club to make their influence felt, by "going for" the authorities. The two organizations can muster a large number of voters whose claims should be forced to the attention of the politicians.

APROPPOS the road race, I have a very strong opinion that the score cards will start off something after this fashion: First, Kluge, 1.29 (or better); second, Stenken, 1.30 (ditto). If Harry J. Hall, Jr., and H. L. Bradley start (which I hope will be the case), I'll place Hall in third place, well-up, and put Bradley, Baggot, T. J. Hall, Wilson, Mead, Berry, Schoefer, and Knox in close order, although I think Baggot, Bradley and T. J. Hall would make the hardest race. But the race is not yet run!

THE Decoration Day road race is beginning to attract a great deal of attention already. The good people of Irvington and Milburn have been afraid that some other course would be chosen, but when assured that they have a chance to gaze upon the brawny racers on May 30, they felt happy. You can wager your last summer's straw helmet that the anti-road-racing advocates are a very small minority in this section of cyclodrom. If anyone doubts my assertion that every man, woman or child from the flag pole to Campbell's Dam is in sympathy with the "Alphabetical Association," I'll refer them to Editor Priol or "Jonah," who have "taken in" all the previous races.

SYRACUSE.

"SALINA."

THERE'S something the matter with the weather. Last Wednesday it was cold enough to snow, and the wheels were frozen up with everything else. But the weather prophet (haven't you heard of him? That's strange. His name is Calthrop; he's a Unitarian minister, and a scholar with a strong scientific bent, a believer in the great sun-spot weather theory, etc., and when he says it's going to rain, that's it, and we leave our wheels at home, and take our goloshes with us in our inside pocket) said it would be warmer next day, and it was, only more so. It was hot. We haven't had any spring here. Winter forgot the "beautiful—" (you thought I was going to say spring, didn't you?) months, and jumped right into summer; and so the wheels were out Thursday. Lots of new riders. All on the quiet, the old riders had made deals with "the boys," sold their old, worn-out mounts, and the streets are full of "tender-foot" wheelmen. Club members tackle the new ones as soon as they can stand alone.

SUNDAY was a beautiful day, and many of the boys who have not been able get out before tried the roads.

WE are working for 100 members. When that number have passed the "black-ball ordeal" then we'll talk of a club house; but our plans will do for a later item.

CLUB runs will be held Tuesday evenings of each week. Syracuse is surrounded by a number of small towns and summer resorts, which make pleasant turning points in an evening's ride.

WHEELMEN from Oneida and Canastota have been invited to join our Decoration Day run to Cortlandt, and from the returns we will probably have a company of twenty-five or thirty in line.

PROSPECTS are good for a quarter-mile track here, before the summer is over. The work is to be done by the Y. M. C. A. for its gymnasium, but the track will be open to club members on certain conditions.

As a necessary precaution, looking towards the life of the club, a long list of names has been secured, of members who promise to buy an elaborate supper for the club, should they be so thoughtless as to follow in our bugler's steps.

WE are growing. We'll have seventy-five members, if the boys all live and remain in "single blessedness," by the time the robins (you thought I was going to say "nest again," didn't you? Well, it will be all right to say) go South again.

HORACE G. PERRY, a former member of the club, now of Chicago, is proving himself a formidable athlete to some of the swell Chicago runners and jumpers. A short time ago he captured two prizes in the Union Athletic Club contest, and now he has taken two gold medals in running events at a public contest between the members of the three principal Chicago athletic clubs. Horace was a good man on the road here, and seldom had to take anybody's dust.

OUR bugler stood up at a wedding the other night. Our bugler's name is "Chuck" Truesdell. If there's another "Chuck" in this world or the next, I'd like to hold one and draw the other; they would make a pair that would rob the bank. Our bugler didn't say much about the wedding, but he bought sherry flips to brace him up, and smoked good cigars for a day or two prior to the ceremony. He stood up at the wedding, as I said, and when the minister (Rev. C. D. B. Mills, Secretary of the Bureau of Labor and Charities, and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children) asked, "Do you take her, Charlie, to be your lawfully wedded wife?" our bugler said "I do!" And she took him, and they are on their wedding trip now. When our bugler returns he will be requested to do the proper thing.

PITTSBURG and VICINITY.

"DUQUESNE."

THE prospects for a wheelmen's park are improving, but the work is yet in an embryo state. It is proposed to obtain a charter for a limited corporation, with a capital stock of $1000, divided into 100 shares of a par value of $10 each, all stockholders to have the freedom of the grounds, and those who do not purchase stock, can buy an "annual," which will give them the privilege of using the grounds without any responsibility whatever. The "annual" will probably sell for $5. Mr. Jno. Grove has been elected chairman, pro tem. Every rider in the two cities should at least take an "annual."

W. D. BANKER has climbed Hazlewood Avenue Hill, and from what I hear it must be a good pull. He made one dismount for a gas trench. Next!

THE Ivel safety has struck town, but it is too soon to express an opinion on it, further than to say it looks neat and pretty, and appears to be rigid.

I HEAR that W. J. Downer will change his place of residence to Brooklyn. He is a nice rider and pleasant companion, and would be a welcome addition to any club in that city.

WHILE passing Grove's stores on Fifth avenue, a few days ago I noticed one of his ponderous delivery wagons with some wheels inside, and a good picture of a man riding a wheel, painted on the side of the box seat, this looks like selling bicycles, and judging by the way he is receiving machines, he must be selling a great many.

CHICAGO.

"THE MULE."

CERTAIN members of the Lincoln club feel aggrieved, claiming that I have not, heretofore, paid as much attention to their club as is its due. Perhaps they are right. The club is the youngest in Chicago, yet has a membership far in advance of any other, in point of members. Whatever they do, they do thoroughly, and I am assured that this is to be their policy in all things. A week ago they had a smoker, and a grand affair it was. When I ventured to pass a remark on the way it was conducted, I was tickled to hear some one reply: "Why, my boy, they didn't know how to do this sort of thing until the Lincolns came into the field." The programme at the aforesaid smoker was long, varied and highly meritorious. Frank Lincoln, humorist, Eddie Manning formerly with Haverly, Prof. Schueidewirth, pianist, Emil Lamb, zither soloist, and Ned Oliver the irrepressible were all there to make things lively and they did it. Charley Leig, the Owl's histrionic artist smoked too strong a cigar and couldn't come to time. Secretary Spooner was a very busy man, and made the visitors feel at home instantly.

A POOL tournament is in progress at the Chicago club rooms.

THE Illinois club will shortly move into new rooms at the corner of Adams and Leavitt Street.

W. J. MORGAN has written a gentleman here that if a six-day race can be arranged for the last week in October, he will bring his present team, Dubois the Frenchman, and a first-class English rider. A race will probably be arranged at Battery One.

A RAFFLE for a Columbia Light Roadster, presented to the Owls by R. D. Garden, came off successfully, and the wheel was won by George Wilson. Cory was second. This club will open its new house with a reception some time early in May.

THE Referee, a five cent paper, devoted very largely to cycling, will be out May 7, and will appear weekly thereafter. I have reason to believe that it will receive extensive patronage, and as it is in the hands of people who are supposed to understand their business, and it will doubtless prosper.

THE Tribune, in referring to our annual road race, describes it as "Garden's animal road race." Entries have commenced to arrive, among those received being Leig of the Owls, Roe and Ingalls of the Chicagos, and Davis and Pierce of the Illinois. Five bicycles have already been given for prizes, by manufacturers, and Montgomery, Ward & Co. have donated a gold watch.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

BETWEEN East New York and Flushing the only known route lies through Jamaica, a distance of about fifteen miles, making the trip from Brooklyn a hard twenty-miles, round two sides of the triangle. Several times attempts have been made to find a road through the wilderness lying about the head of Flushing Bay, known as White Pot. I tried it once, but only succeeded in getting completely lost, and now another of the Mercurys has taken the matter up, with good hope of cutting the distance down to about twelve miles, in almost a straight line.

THE North Hempstead turnpike has been taken from the company, and will probably be better taken care of by the county than has been the rule of late years.

LLOYD'S Queens Athletic Club's track has been put in fine condition, with raised corners, etc. Mr. L. has offered a trophy for competition by club teams, and individual "best mile" prizes.

THE rates at the new hotel at Hempstead are: For full dinner, one dollar; for supper, lodging and breakfast, two dollars; by the day, two dollars and a half; lunches, ala carte. The hotel is really a fine building, and has twenty-three rooms, all well arranged and comfortable.

In contradiction of the claim of Messrs. Barkman and Borland concerning the opening record to Babylon this year, published in the Wheel, issue of April 20th, I would state that Messrs. L. A. Clarke and F. W. Lincoln, of the Mercury Wheel Club, rode to that place on Sunday, April 9th, from Flushing, a week ahead of the former gentlemen, and hold written proofs of the performance. Distance, 39 miles, via Jericho and Amityville.

THE Jericho pike, and in fact all the island roads, never were in better condition than last Sunday. It was intensely warm, however, and the temperature in-doors ranged about 85 degrees. I was out at the fort at Willett's Point, Sunday morning—one of the most beautiful spots about New York—and as soon as the grass gets fully started and the cherry trees, with which the road is lined, are in blossom, it will be a paradise for cyclists, which, it is a pity, more have not visited.

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THE Ramblers are jubilant, Ducker is enthusiastic, and everybody expectant regarding the big tournament. An another interview with Ducker convinced me of the fact, that he is, in every sense of the expression, "the king-pin of tournament managers"; his big cranium is just loaded with new and original ideas concerning cycling tournaments. He came here a comparative stranger and immediately began to boom his tournament. We 'uns weren't particularly stuck (pardon the vulgar expression) on it, and that makes his success all the more praiseworthy. It wasn't long before we caught the fever and then the big tournament was the talk of the town. One of the clubs was expected to take hold of it; but which one, nobody knew. The Ramblers, untiring in their efforts, and after many confabs and interviews, secured the prize and with it H. E. Ducker as a member of the club; from now on it will be the "Ramblers Big Tournament." It will be held on Sept. 4th, 6th and 8th during the International Fair. The week of Aug. 27th will be devoted to receiving the visiting wheelmen, and should the New York State meet be held here at that time, a big parade of wheelmen will take place the day before the opening. Fifty-five hundred dollars in prizes will be offered, "regular Springfield style," as Ducker puts it. There is no reason why this tournament should not be a success in every way.

"I took-my-first-ride-yesterday," fellows are numerous, and the accompaniment "O! how sore I am" is always sure to follow.

"Any club news?" was asked a Rambler the other day. "Yes, lots of it; Ducker has joined our club," was the answer. "Anything else?" "We are going to have the big tournament." "Anything else?" "Heaven's! man, isn't that enough?"

AMONG other things, the Courier says: "Among the vehicles quite a host is made up of bicycles. Since the asphalt has been laid on Main and Ellicott streets scores of clerks ride their machines to and from work. They not only save time, but money. A man that rides in the street car to and from home pays out a little more than thirty dollars a year. Two years of that, or at most three, would pay for a good bicycle, which would enable him to accomplish the distance quicker than by car, and would besides give him the exercise which he can't get wedged in between two fat people, or hanging to a strap in a horse-car. The only sad thing about the bicycle is that none has yet been invented on which a fat man looks graceful."

AND COMMENT.

HARRY COREY is back from the West. He says that the year is going to be one of the biggest that the trade ever knew. All dealers are pushed to their utmost to supply the unprecedented demand. He speaks of the kind personal reception given him at several places, and is particularly enthusiastic over the attentions shown him by "those thoroughbreds" in St. Louis.

THE Newcastle Club has secured the quarter-mile and one-mile Pennsylvania State Championship to be decided at their race meeting on July 4th.

THE Sterling quadricycle appeared at Chestnut Hill reservoir last Sunday, and of course the new machine was "tried" by almost every one present.

THE South End Wheelmen, of Philadelphia, will move into their new club house in a week or two, with a largely augmented membership on account thereof.

AN English paper says "The Rudge takes the world's championship." Is that so? We thought Howell rode the Rudge and not the Rudge that rode Howell.

THE New York City wheelmen are going wild over road cyclometer records. Several of the New York Bicycle Club men have already got some 500 to 600 miles to their credit.

THE Jamaica Plain Bicycle Club gave a complimentary supper last Monday evening to Mr. N. L. Grant. Mr. Grant starts May 3d with the Raymond excursion party for California.

THE house-warming of the Rhode Island Wheelmen took place on Wednesday evening, and was a complete success. An exhibition of wheels and sundries was a practical and interesting feature.

AN English gentleman writing on the late Howell-Rowe races says: "I think we shall make a champion of Rowe when he's had some English track experiences and some miscellaneous practice."

AN earnest appeal is being made to cyclists along the route of the proposed cinder path from New Haven to New York, to come to the front and support with their ducaats the scheme of building such a path.

RHODE ISLAND glories in the fact that they do not need any Liberty Bill to secure the rights of wheelmen. They claim that nowhere is the cyclist more free and untrammelled than in Rhode Island. On the other hand they deplore the fact that their high-ways are execrable.

In last week's issue of the paper we got very much mixed up in trying to name the organizers of the New York Club. We got the Ixons confounded with the New Yorks. The organizers of the New York Bicycle Club were: Kirk Munroe, Kingman Putnam, E. W. Adams, E. J. Schriver, Howard Conklin.

THE Jamaica Cycle Club, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., has called runs for the month of May as follows: Sunday, May 6th, social run to Waltham; Sunday, May 13th, to reservoir; Sunday, May 20th, to pumping station; Tuesday, May 22d, moonlight run to Dedham; Friday, May 25th, to Waltham.

THE Vermont Bicycle comes to us in a new form this week. It contains 16 pages of interesting general reading matter, three of which are devoted to cycling. The paper does the honor to take quite liberally from our pages and credits same. We wish the Bicycle in its new form may live long and prosper.

OUR FAMOUS AND PATENTED RAMS-HORN BAR.

ORIGINAL AS IS OUR ENTIRE BICYCLE.

PORT HURON, Mich., April 14, 1888.
I much prefer the Rams-horn to the Spade handles. The Spades admit of but one attitude for the hand.
S. A. WOOD.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
In regard to the relative merits of the Spade handles, and Rams-horn Bar, I would say: that for hill climbing there is no comparison, the latter being far superior to the former, but for ordinary level road riding, one is perhaps as good as the other, and both are far better than any other form.
J. E. SEARLES.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., April 18, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn bar for over a year, and think it the finest handle-bar out. For hill climbing, road riding and general hard work on a wheel, it beats them all.
R. M. PHANGEN.

PROVIDENCE, April 14, 1888.
In answer to your inquiry about Rams-horn and Spade bars, we think the former preferable and better liked this way.
E. G. BILLINGS.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle-bar for one season, and have tested it thoroughly in road riding and hill climbing. I consider it the easiest bar to use. It allows a person's arms to rest in their natural position by the side, and in continuous riding one can rest their body a great deal by allowing their weight to fall on the bar, which they cannot do on the Spade handle or Cow-horn Bar. As to hill climbing, it is very evident that the closer a person's arms are to the body, the more strength they have in them; consequently the Rams-horn handle has the advantage over the other makes in this respect. As to looks, it has been acknowledged by all with whom I have met to be the most graceful bar made.
C. M. JONES.

FLINT, Michigan, April 15, 1888.
They are more natural to reach than the Cow-horn bar and the Spade handle, and I also think that they are a very desirable handle-bar in coasting and hill climbing.
HARRY BRIDGMAN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle bar on my Light Champion since May 1887, and am highly pleased with it. I think that those who have given this bar a thorough trial will agree with me, when I say that it is one of the best bars on the market. Wishing you and the Rams-horn bar success.
H. J. PUTMAN.

BAY CITY, April 13, 1888.
You ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bars as compared with Spade handles. In reply I would say that while I have not used Spade handles very much yet I would prefer the Rams-horn handles as far as my experience goes. The mode of fastening the bar to the head which you use, gives a range of the whole circle in adjustments and permits of positions which the Spade does not allow. The Rams-horn bar, too, never hurts the fingers in stiff pulls at hill climbing by slipping down and pinching in the angle of the handle. For speed, too, the Rams-horn bars by their capacity for low, forward adjustment are better than the Spade. For a good lift up a hill give me the Rams-horn every time. Then in mounting, whether by the step in the rear, the pedal mount, the side vault or the vault from the rear, the Rams-horn bars are superior by a great deal to the spades. These are some of the considerations which incline me to favor the Rams-horn bars, especially since you have secured the handles on.
BURT ESTES HOWARD.

LYONS, KANSAS, April 12, 1888.
We think that the Rams-horn is far and away the best bar ever invented. It is stout and gives a greater leverage than any other style of bar. All of our customers who have tried this prefer it. Timid riders, many of them, object to it on the ground that in the case of an involuntary forward dismount, they are more apt to retain the rider in their felt embrace. We think that this is an error and that there is no more danger than with C. H. J. H. ERNEST.

WARREN, PA., April 12, 1888.
Concerning the Rams-horn handles, they are the finest handles ever seen in this town, or ever put on a wheel.
C. F. L. KINSEOR.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11, 1888.
In regard to our opinion of the Rams-horn bars, according to all of the riders, we think it a much better handle-bar than the spade. All the machines we sold so far this season, they have taken the Rams-horn bars in preference to the Spade, and all riders that are using them say that they are the best handle-bars they have ever used.
KRAFT & ADAMS.

DYON, Ohio, April 10, 1888.
Replying to your letter of April 9th regarding the Rams-horn handle bars, will state that we think they will become very popular after riders once get used to them. We find our customers are a little dubious at first, but after they have tried them, they invariably like them the best. Only one of our customers has ever gone back to the Cow-horn and plain handles after trying the Rams-horn.
A. W. GUMP & CO.

PEORIA, ILL., April 11, 1888.
We are enthusiastic indeed over the Rams-horn bar as you will see by the send off we give it on page 6 of our catalogue. It is certainly far ahead of the Spade in every respect.
GEO. W. ROUSE & SON.

I have sold over fifty machines with the Rams-horn bars, and I have yet to see one broken or badly bent, or a rider who is in any way dissatisfied with them.
J. H. ISHAM.

I have ridden with both the Rams-horn and Spade handles, and I have never found anything equal to the Rams-horn in strength and comfort.
B. F. SPIRE.

I have ridden the Champion one season with Rams-horn bars. They are the strongest and most durable bar I ever handled; would prefer them to all others.
T. M. LYMAN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
I wish to express my satisfaction with the Rams-horn handle bars. I find them much more comfortable and stronger than any other that I have ridden with.
D. FRANK.

Let me add my testimony in favor of the Rams-horn bars. I have ridden all kinds including Spades, and find that the Rams-horn fitted with your perfect fit handles, suits me perfectly.
E. A. WODE.

KENOSHA, April 18, 1888.
Yours noted. Would say am well pleased with Rams-horn handles and think they are daisies.
C. A. DICKHART.

CINCINNATI, April 18, 1888.
We find the Rams-horn bars almost a necessity on a bicycle now.
B. KITHLEDGE ARMS CO.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN, April 11, 1888.
In your letter of the 9th you ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bar. It is positively the best bar ever put on a bicycle, to my knowledge, and if you can make them to fit any wheel I can sell a dozen here at once.
C. H. SMITH.

CHICAGO, April 17, 1888.
Having used Spade handles on my machine for a season, I was thoroughly convinced they were never to be superseded by any superior, but being persuaded to make a trial of Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar, I was surprised to see the superiority of them over the Spade handles. Hereafter I shall use only the Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar for my machine.
S. T. KIMMEL.

FLINT, MICHIGAN, April 15, 1888.
About one year ago I ordered a 56-inch American Light Champion with Rams-horn bars. I have ridden this same machine 3109 miles, having used it in my Eastern tour. I now want to give you my opinions ever gotten out for a bicycle, viz: The Rams-horn bar. I have found it far superior to the Spade, although I thought, after using the latter nearly two seasons that they had no equal, and only tried your famous bar as an experiment, a happy one it was too. Its advantages over the Spade as I have found them, are, viz: Less liable to break when falling sideways. Easier to mount, by step, pedal, or vault, as they are within easy reach. Do not spread one's arms so far from the body as to tire the shoulders, when long in the saddle, convenient to get "legs over" when coasting, or taking a fall. Never chafe the hands at thumb joints. Better purchase and consequently greater power in hill-climbing. And many others that can only be appreciated by using them. During the time I used Spades it cost me $5.00 or $6.00 for repairs on them. I have not paid a cent for these. While I was touring many wheelmen tried my machine, and the universal expression was, "Ain't those bars slick?" "Best I ever saw" etc. As for myself I would not go back to the Spades under any consideration, providing I could get Rams-horn.
J. ELMER PRATT.

P. S.—Think your perfect fit handles are going to be a great success—like them very much.
J. P.

We will Fit this Justly Celebrated Bar to Any Well Known Make of Bicycle.

It is stated by our Irish contemporary that the most inveterate side-walk riders are ladies, and that recently a fair offender was arrested by a minion of the law, and fined $3 and costs, or fourteen days in jail. It seems that it was found necessary to "make an example" of one of the dear creatures, as they had been presuming altogether too much on the chivalry of the brass-button "blue birds;" it got to be a nuisance, hence the arrest.

The second annual joint exhibition of the Amateur Photographers' Associations, of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, will be held at the Art Club in Boston May 7 to 12. Tickets of admission can be had by applying to the Committee of Arrangements, Edward F. Wilder, Geo. E. Cabot, Francis Blake, C. W. Canfield, John G. Bullock.

On Sunday, as L. J. Greves and R. J. Middleton were riding a tandem on the Lancaster pike, one of their tires came off and brought them to a stand-still. Mr. E. W. Burt of the Philadelphia Club, who was riding behind was unable to avoid them, came a cropper, cutting his head and face badly, but fortunately not dangerously.

To-morrow, Saturday, May 7th, is the date set for the great race given by the St. Louis Wheel Club. The prizes are worth running for, as will be seen: First, an 1888 pattern Victor Light Roadster, value, $125; second, gold watch, value, $65; third, gold medal, value, $25; fourth, riding suit, value, $15. The second and third prizes are guaranteed by Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Co.

A CERTAIN individual hailing from Portland, Oregon, and signing himself A. Rube, writes that he has a girl and he has a bicycle; he loves his girl and he loves his bicycle. His girl does not like her "lover" to ride a bicycle as it is "not dignified." Now our swain is in a dilemma, and does not know which to give up? We pity Mr. Rube, and can only suggest that he buy the prospective Mrs. Rube a ladies' bicycle, whereby she too can enjoy the pleasures of cycling, and thus get rid of the ridiculous idea that cycle riding is "undignified."

"ONE of the young and enterprising wheelmen of Pine Bluff, Ark., recently attempted to ride across a rickety bridge on his bicycle. Nothing is calculated to give a man cooler judgment and compel him to keep his eye on the main chance better than to ride a wheel. This particular cyclist had not yet gotten control over his nerves, and when half-way across the bridge, by some freak of nature or force of circumstances—our reporter failed to get his 'notes' on this detail—he suddenly decided that he had better jump into the creek. This strange and novel decision was aided by his wire steed, and the catfish in that stream had a regular matinee performance for the next ten minutes."—Exchange.

THROUGH the courtesy of C. H. Luscomb we are in receipt of the 27th annual report of the Brooklyn Park Commissioners. It is an interesting document, and contains many beautiful plates of views in Prospect Park. Speaking of bicycling, the report thus lapses into the poetic: "Yonder on a wheel goes a tightly girt youth. When the shadows skirt the ground he seems to float along in the air. What keeps him up in the misty moonlight is a mystery. But lo, another, and another, and still another, all following their leader as the swans on the winter sky follow their trumpeting guide. Down and on they go over bridge and hill and meadow, till at last they fade out in the deep forest where only the glow-worm gleam of their many-colored lamps is caught at gay intervals, as they blink through the trees along the wood-skirted meadow. But enough, they are gone. Sometimes accidents happen to these wheelmen, but rarely. The sport is so well regulated that, as a general rule, horses are not scared by it, and danger is avoided."

L. A. W. No. 4134 writes: "I notice in the columns of your most excellent paper several articles about the old riders. I have just received a very interesting letter from an old companion in L. A. W., who is 54 years of age, and has but one arm, it having been shot off near the shoulder in a battle during the war in 1863. He began riding his American safety in 1885, and has ridden every rideable day since. He rode 3252 miles last year, and has ridden already 320 miles this year. His longest day's ride was 90 miles, from his home in Ada, Ohio, to Dayton. If nothing prevents it, he will wheel to the meet in Baltimore next June, going by the way of the National pike. I would also add that he makes all of his mounts and dismounts unassisted by any one, and that he is the youngest 54-year-old man I ever met. Cyclers along his proposed route would do well to meet him. W. H. Morrow is his name, and you may look for him to be near the front in the old men's race during the meet. For a verification of the above facts, any one can write any citizen of Ada and find out."

He did not look like a liar, in fact he had an open-confidence-inspiring countenance. He settled down, sighed, took out a corn-cob and proceeded to fill it with our best fine cut, and light same. Then he spoke:

"Do you want a first-class rawhide lie to put in your paper?"

We answered as calmly as our excited feelings would permit that we did not publish lies.

Then he sighed again, and began to toy with our gold watch and chain in an abstract, far-away, lost-his-mother-in-law kind of a manner.

"Sorry," quoth he. "I had a staller, a rip snorter, one that would have caused the cold type to curl up; but," he continued cheerfully, "do you fish?"

We replied that piscatorial enjoyments did sometimes enter into the sports we indulged in.

"See my neck?" he murmured, pointing to a dull, red streak just behind his ear.

We acquiesced, and awaited developments.

"Well," he said, "as you don't deal in lies, I want to tell you something that smacks of truth, and will cause your gorge to rise in sympathy. Pa and I were out fishing on Murder Creek last week, fishing for trout. I had hooked a fourteen-pounder and brought him to th. surface; just as I thought I had him he broke away. Instead of diving down out of sight, that darn trout just swum round on the top of the water, and he had murder in his eye if ever trout had it. He swam closer and closer, and at last, may I be jiggered, if the blamed thing did not jump clean out of the water right at me, hit me a chug behind the ear with his tail, and then flop back into the water. The blow knocked me senseless. When I came to, dad was hollering like a good fellow, for I'm blamed if that cussed trout hadn't fastened on to dad's coat tail, and was tugging for all he was worth to pull poor old pop overboard. I tell you we got ashore as quick as we could."

We faintly thanked the youth. He said "not at all."

We insisted we were much obliged to him that he had not lied to us, and then we took him gently and dropped him down the elevator well.

HOWELL IS THE BEST MAN.

THE following cablegram to the Boston Globe tells the sad story of Rowe's second defeat at the hands of Howell. We comment on this race in another part of the paper: "London, April 28.—The second of the three bicycle races to be contested by William A. Rowe of America and Richard Howell of England, for the championship of the world, was run to-day at the Molineux grounds, Wolverhampton. The distance was one mile. Howell won by 20 yards; time, 2.45. Howell also won the previous race, distance five miles, two weeks ago at Leicester. The ten-mile match, the last of the series, will take place at Coventry, Saturday, May 12."

A ROADS IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

A MOVEMENT is on foot in the State of New York which has for its ultimate object the general improvement of the highway system throughout the State. This is a commendable undertaking, which should enlist all citizens of the State who make use of highways, whether farmers, manufacturers (those doing heavy hauling), horsemen and carriage owners or wheelmen. Membership in the association is not limited to any class of citizens, nor are there membership dues, as the expenses of the association are to be met by voluntary subscriptions. Mr. Isaac B. Potter, Potter Building, Park Row, New York, is secretary of the association, and any one interested in its aims who wishes to join may do so at any time by simply sending his name and address to this gentleman.

A bill will shortly be introduced at Albany which will provide for the creation of a roads commission and present a plan for improving the condition of main thoroughfare of travel between county seats and important towns, and, in time, of the highways everywhere. It is an immense undertaking, but if the work is judiciously planned, begun in the right way and persistently pushed, it can but result in great good to the State. The scheme has been devised, not by politicians, but by those who use the highways, and next in importance to the passage of the proposed bill will be the appointment of a suitable board of commissioners to carry out its provisions. These must be thoroughly capable men, whose integrity and intelligence shall place them above the suspicion of political jobbery which sometimes characterizes such State appointments. There should be no Forest Commission methods in a work of such scope and importance. The farmers of the State should welcome and support such a movement, the ultimate results of which will prove of great benefit to them than to any other class, and it is hoped they will use their influence in its behalf.—The Press, New York.

BALLAD OF AUGUST TENTH, 87.

Regretfully Dedicated to the M* Bicycle Club, by One of the Mourners.

Up rose the gallant Captain; the morn was clear and fair.
He donned the dark gray uniform that all his club mates wear;
"I faith," he quoth, "the day is fine, no shower can there be, Methinks I'll hie me beachward, with the speedy 'M-B. C.'"

"And woe betide that hapless wight who strives to pass us by!
We've sworn to dust the horse-car tracks with any who'll try.
Ha, ha! Ho, ho!" (A mocking laugh, a scornful laugh, laughed he.)
"T'fegs I'd like to see the man can pass the M-B. C."

And saying thus, he sturdily his good steed climbed upon,
And rode he on the sidewalk, in defiance of the town.
He laughed to scorn policemen, and for by-laws naught cared he;
"T'would take a speedy lightning flash to catch the 'M. B. C.'"

The very children doffed their caps these haughty knights before,
Nor "Rats," nor "Whiskers" shouted they, nor any hoodlum lore.
They met a knight, who touched his helm—they passed him haughtily;
"Undignified, these road salutes," declares the M-B. C.

The Captain heads his merry men. A goodly sight they make;
They wheel along the shady streets, they skirt the silver lake;
They ride in twos—and silence, with crushing dignity;
And stare at every stranger who salutes the M-B. C.

But suddenly, with headlong speed, there comes up from behind
A man in black and silver garb, who passes like the wind!
Passed—passed—without salute—without humility!!
A stupor of astonishment falls on the M-B. C.

The Captain glared most regally, and eke his ire rose,
With all his knightly dignity insulted, I suppose;
"Now, by my halidome," he quoth, "yon varlet soon shall see
The atmosphere is arctic when he downs the M-B. C."!

A score of lordly crests drop low—a score, the lead dispute;
A score, and more, of gallant men are headlong in pursuit;
Spur on, spur on—Augustus drops; Alphonso shirks the pace,
The rest press on more hotly yet, the insult to efface!
Musgrave is down, and, one by one, they get satiety
And leave alone the Captain, to avenge the M-B. C.!

Bnd now, oh gallant Captain, just call to mind your vow!
Speed on, speed on, tho' strength fail fast—each breath an agony,
On you alone now hangs the fame of all the M-B. C.!

Flash! thro' Maplewood they speed, the people cry, "huzza!"
Flash! they fly down Salem street, and pass a fast horse car!
Flash! they beat a railroad train, and zip! they passed by me,
They rode alone, for, far behind string out the M-B. C.

Then grim determination settles on "the varlet's face"
The two are now approaching fast, the finish of the race.
A whirr, and then a vanish!—a flash—and vacancy!
Alone, the panting Captain of a vanquished M-B. C.

Oh sorrow, and oh, wailing; despair, defeat, dismay!
Oh wirra, for the M. Cs, and bad luck to the day
When the dark gray and the bullion met in "gory" rivalry
The "well-know black and silver" of another M. B. C.

NOTICE OF ORGANIZATION, ROUTE AND DISTANCE OF THE GREAT CENTURY RUN.

NEW YORK—PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 16, 1888.

THE meeting of delegates from the clubs interested in the great century run to Philadelphia, June 16, on the way to the Baltimore meet, was held at Room 10, 25 Broad street, on the afternoon of Friday last. Twelve representatives from nine of the seventeen clubs were present, and Captains Martin, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, and Clarke, of the Mercury Wheel Club, were elected temporary and then permanent Chairman and Secretary, respectively, of the general committee for the management of the run.

The route decided upon, and of which a summary is published below for the benefit of those not in possession of New York and New Jersey road books, starts from Newark instead of Orange, and lies through Elizabeth, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Trenton and Bristol, the choice of route from the latter place to Philadelphia to be left to the Trenton Club.

The run will be under the command of Captain Freeman, of the Orange Wanderers, from Newark to Plainfield; under Captain Martin, of Plainfield, from that city to Trenton; and under Captain Camp, of Trenton, from that city to Philadelphia. Your humble servant acting as a sort of aid and commissary general.

Such precedence in line will be given as courtesy suggests, each club preserving its individuality as much as possible, but consolidation is advised with neighboring clubs, where there are less than ten representatives.

Club Captains are earnestly requested to make a personal canvass of their clubs, and use their influence in furthering the success of the run. For the purposes of organization, out-of-town wheelmen, not in the "Original Seventeen," who intend joining the run, are requested to send notice to that effect, as soon as possible.

Route—Newark, start 4 A. M.; Elizabeth, 5 miles, macadam, A1 grade, A1 surface; Plainfield, 17 miles, changing, A2 grade, A2 surface, short wait; New Market, 21 miles, macadam and sidepath, A2 grade, A2 surface; Bound Brook, 26 miles, clay, A2 grade, A2 surface; Somerville, 30 miles, clay, A2 grade, A2 surface, rest and refreshment; Hopewell, 48 miles, clay, A2 grade, A2 surface; Trenton, 62 miles, clay and sandy, A2 grade, A3-4 surface, dinner and rest; Bristol, 72 miles, sandy and sidepath, A2 grade, A4-2 surface; Philadelphia, 92-4 miles, sandy and sidepath, A2 grade, A3 surface, supper if late; Lancaster Pike, 100 miles, with the Philadelphia Clubs, A2 grade, A1 surface, by moonlight.

A large party of Philadelphia wheelmen will probably start on Sunday morning, the Seventeenth of June, for Baltimore, with which the century "runners" are cordially invited to join. Route at present unknown.

Correspondence or suggestions concerning the run will be welcomed.

RIGHTS OF CYCLISTS ON THE ROAD.

"GEORGE W. LEIMBACH was fined $50 and costs last night by Justice Hevern upon the charge of malicious intent to destroy the property of Mr. C. Henry Eisenbrandt. Mr. Eisenbrandt, with several members of the Centaur Cycle Club, Baltimore, Md., were returning from an outing on their cycles, and while coming down Eastern Avenue Hill, Leimbach, it was alleged, tried to run down Mr. Eisenbrandt. By good judgment Mr. Eisenbrandt kept his seat, and for nearly two hundred yards had to speed to prevent being struck by a heavy wagon driven by Leimbach, who had four companions with him. Other members of the club called a policeman, who arrested Leimbach. Justice Hevern ruled that the law protected the cyclists and imposed the heavy fine. Mr. Eisenbrandt and his companions, by considerable persuasion, prevailed on the justice to reduce the fine to three dollars and costs, which was paid."—Sun.

IN REPLY TO DUQUESNE.

Editor Bicycling World: Please grant me sufficient space to "rush into print." (have I quoted "Duquesne" correctly? to thank that benign dignitary for his gratuitous advice.

If derogatory squibs on particular wheels were not indulged in, or if such as Duquesne would "wait for just cause before criticising," there would be fewer cause for "rushing."

When the writer, by request, gave a written statement of his experience with the Safety to a local agent that the latter might check the baleful influence of Duquesne's satire (the conveyed compliment is gratuitous—a "trade last," you know) he was not aware of the fact of its intended publication; but thank you, Mr. Agent for your favor for putting my name in print.

THE ROADS AND THE NATIONAL SURPLUS.

Editor Bicycling World: It has already been suggested in your columns that the national surplus be distributed among the States for use upon the public roads, but the subject will admit of a little more ventilation. Mr. Pierson in the World of March 23d suggested that the money be distributed among the States in proportion to the number of square miles of their domain. I think such a distribution would be manifestly unfair, for who will claim that the State of Nevada with its insignificant population and small number of roads should have a much larger share of money than New York with its 6,000,000 population and its thousands of miles of roads. It be better to distribute the money proportion to either the number of miles of road in each State or else in proportion to the number of inhabitants.

How to distribute the money is also a question admitting of some discussion, and while there are many ways in which it can be done, permit me to suggest the following: Assume that Congress has decided to distribute on the first of each month 75 per cent. of the surplus in the treasury among the States, to be used in improving the public roads. I say the surplus on the first of each month, because if only the present surplus is distributed the treasury would soon be overflowing again, but by relieving it monthly the present evils of a congested treasury would be permanently avoided and the money would be expended more slowly and judiciously.

The Secretary of the Treasury would then, on the first of each month, send a check to the treasurer of each State for the amount due such State. The State treasurer should then send his check to each of the county treasurers for the amount due to them. The money could be expended under the direction of a committee of the Board of Supervisors of the county, or by the county and township road superintendents, where such officers existed. By such a system of distribution the money would be spread uniformly over the entire country and would be promptly expended and put into circulation, and there is not a man, woman or child in the country who would not be either directly or indirectly benefited by the introduction of a better system of roads or the improvement of the present ones.

Wheelmen ought to agitate this matter because there is little probability that Congress will adopt any measure during this session that will materially reduce the public revenues.

Tariff reform and reduction of internal revenue are both impossible with the Senate in control of the Republicans and the House in control of the Democrats.

The Treasury is bound to overflow, and it is far better that the overflow should be expended for building good roads than that it should be wasted in extravagant pension measures, or the purchase, at an exorbitant premium, of bonds not yet due.

THE LE FEURS IN ST. THOMAS.

(Special.)

BATISTE LE FEUR.

JEAN LE FEUR.

In my last I referred to the fact of this being a regular coaling station. The "Murray Castle" received its supply of coal from a lighter, and it was a sight to an American pair of eyes, to see from twenty to thirty negro women—don't cast your eyes up in holy horror, gentle readers, the work is done by women, every time—handling bushel baskets of coal; walking up a narrow gangplank from the lighter to the steamer's deck. Straight as a pine are these same women, and as perfectly developed as your favorite 2.29 4-5 racer. Two gangplanks, about four feet apart, reach from lighter to steamer, and up one plank and down the other the dusky maidens keep moving steadily for two to three hours without a rest. As soon as a basket is filled it is picked up and tossed on to the head of one of the women, who, with no apparent effort, moves at a quick pace up one of the gangplanks, dumps the contents of the basket down the stoke-hole into the bunkers, and starts down the other plank for another load. The coal is "trimmed" by the ship's stokers.

For light-heartedness these coal jugglers stand at the head. They are continually singing, laughing or cracking jokes (not always such jokes as one would care to publish in a Sunday School journal, I'll acknowledge) at one another, or at some of the onlookers. But if you want to see Bedlam let loose, just tread on their corns, so to speak. One of the sailors chanced to offend one of the belles of the lighter, and, ye shades of Louis Riel! baskets were dropped in a jiffy and the whole crowd made a wild dash, and but for his taking refuge in the Captain's stateroom, I am firmly convinced that they would have used him for "shark bait." Five minutes afterward all signs of the storm had disappeared, and they were all working away in a pleasant humor.

Shortly after the task of coaling was begun, Jean and I bade adieu to our compagnons de voyage, paid a boatman an English shilling, and five minutes later had taken

OUR FIRST STEPS ON DANISH SOIL.

Our first move was in the direction of a hotel, of which there are several, good, bad and indifferent ones, on the island. We were soon quartered in comparatively pleasant rooms in the American House, our rooms affording us a look at the harbor and opposite side of the island.

After a bath we started out for a stroll, but were soon driven back by a heavy shower, which in this latitude springs on you without any warning. Seated at our windows—it was dark then—we watched the lightning play among the rigging of the vessels in the harbor. And such lightning! almost one continuous flash; and bringing out in bold relief every object on the rocky shore opposite. The thunder was simply terrific; one crash following another so closely as to blend together into one long deafening peal. The shower, however, was over in half an hour, and ten minutes thereafter the myriads of stars were shining in a perfectly cloudless sky.

Later we took a walk along the principal street—in fact the only one deserving the title—and found that after the eight o'clock lunch, nearly the whole population may be found out of doors, enjoying the delightful sea breezes. All nations are represented here. Here we meet a group of four, two sailors, a darky cook and a boy of about fifteen, all gloriously (?) drunk. Here again is a "Jack-tar" trying to persuade a shipmate to enter one of the gambling dens for which St. Thomas is noted. Across the street is a neat two-story dwelling, in front of which is a family party, father, mother, two sons and three daughters. They are laughing and chatting as though at peace with all the world. Within two blocks we saw half a dozen such pleasant scenes. The passer-by, whether a citizen or total stranger, is invariably greeted with a pleasant "good evening" when passing these groups.

Although, as I have stated, this is a Danish dependency, the language of Denmark is very little used, the majority speaking English, French or Spanish. The German tongue is used here and there, although the land of the Iron Prince had never secured as strong a grip on St. Thomas, as Hollanders are here in large numbers, but they have, almost without exception, adopted the English language.

One fact in regard to St. Thomas is worthy of note. As far as I am able to ascertain

THERE IS NOT A JEW ON THE ISLAND!

This assertion seems almost incredible, but I am assured by several responsible parties that it is strictly true. The majority of the money brokers are Hollanders. The business houses, usually two-story stone buildings, are, as far as variety of wares is concerned, equal to any country store in the States. Here is one near the main landing. Inside the wide doors, to the right, is a ready-made clothing department; next a full line of head and foot wear, flanked by a custom tailoring department; opposite are dry goods, and men and women's furnishing goods; here is a full assortment of hardware, house furnishing goods, harness, etc.; in the rear is a quiet corner where liquid refreshments and smokers are kept. Upstairs you can find pianos, organs and other musical instruments of American and European manufacture. If you are a sea-faring man you can, under the same roof, procure anything from "salt horse" to an anchor.

On the high mountains back of the town are several large castle-like buildings. Say but a word to one of the old white-haired darkies, and he will launch off with a long and oft-repeated tale of how this one on the right was inhabited by none other than the supposed-to-be mythical "Blue Beard." No wonder you feel faint, dear reader, but then, as news-gatherers, we are supposed to stand almost anything. Another was occupied by "Black Beard," and there on the brow of the hill opposite was where "Grey Beard" held forth. All of this we take in silence. The "oldest inhabitant" will show you that "Blue Beard" must have lived in the castle first mentioned, as the entire building, inside and out, is painted a light blue color, even to the circular tower, which rises to a height of 130 feet.

There is a very solid foundation, however, for the stories related in the remaining castle, the largest of the four. This castle is on the side of one of the highest hills, to the left of the town, and is a line with what was formerly an opening running from the upper end of the harbor to the open sea. A good many years ago the opening was filled up by an earthquake. It is a matter of history that for a number of years St. Thomas was the stronghold of the notorious freebooter, Morgan, "the Buccaneer of the Spanish Main." The castle referred to, was, it is positively stated, the home of that precious scoundrel. At one time Morgan had under his command nearly five thousand men. Morgan used to have men constantly on the lookout for vessels, and when one was sighted he would send a number of his vessels through the opening mentioned, and others, out by way of the present entrance to the harbor, to intercept the vessel sighted. If successful in capturing it, the victors would run it into the harbor, and after disposing of the cargo as well as those of the crew who could not be prevailed upon to join the villainous gang, the vessel would be scuttled. In proof of the assertion that Morgan had an immense following, it requires but a glance at the history of Puerto Cabello, in Venezuela, which was at one time considered to have within its walls

THE MOST VALUABLE COLLECTION OF PRECIOUS METALS and jewels of any city in South or Central America. This town was twice sacked by Morgan.

The first time he was accompanied by eleven hundred men, but so stubborn was the resistance offered by the people living in the town, that, although he succeeded in his designs, he had but five hundred men when he returned to his fleet. His second visit was paid about, I think, four years later, but, beside leaving nearly five hundred men on board to protect his fleet, he mustered 2200 men before the final onslaught was made on the ill-fated Spanish town. A determined effort was finally made by Great Britain to wipe out the horde, and it was not long before those who were not cut down or hanged by the naval tars were compelled to scatter to the four winds. It is a generally accepted belief that the band left a vast amount of wealth buried on the island, but, beyond a few Spanish doubloons now and then, no great "finds" have ever been made.

At the head of the harbor are a number of hulks of vessels, some of them very old but well preserved, which are asserted to have been there for over a hundred and fifty years.

In the summer of 1874, a square-rigged vessel "lay-to" off the entrance of the harbor. Near evening two boats, each containing eight men, were lowered and pulled up to the city. The men, who were not very communicative, said simply that the vessel was bound for Rio Janeiro. A boy who was prowling about, said afterward that he saw a number of picks and spades in the boats. The crews pulled away from the wharf about half-past ten that night, saying they were going aboard. The next day, at a spot about five hundred yards from the inside light-house, was found a hole, about seven feet by ten, and about eight to ten feet deep. The bottom in one place was hard and smooth, as though some flat object had been resting there for a long while. This level place was five feet six inches in length, and thirty-two inches wide; just about the size of an old-time chest, and to strengthen the belief that a chest had been there, there were four depressions, one six inches from either end, and two near the centre. These depressions looked as though caused by bands, being two inches wide and about half an inch deep. Whether the two boats' crews had made the excavations or not, or, having made it, what they secured, is more than any islander pretends to know.

AS WE LEAVE HERE TO-MORROW

(25), we started out yesterday to turn some American money into that which will the more readily pass in Brazil. Entering a broker's office we made known our wants, and, Great Victoria! the broker informed us in a very delicate manner that for sixty-five cents of Uncle Sam's cash he would give us one milreis of Brazil. That is fifty centimes (cents) or one thousand reis, the unit of Brazilian money being the rei, or one-twentieth of a cent. Thirty cents on the dollar (about) we thought to be a pretty high rate, "but," said the urbane broker, "don't you see that when you come back and make a counter-change you will be even?"

I said I "could not see it," but perhaps he could make it clear. "Certainly," he said, and this is the way he "made it clear." "You pay me sixty-five cents of American money, for which you receive fifty cents of Brazilian. On your return trip I pay you fifty cents of American money, for which I receive sixty-five cents of Brazilian. There you are, clearly, $1.15 of American money, $1.15 of Brazilian money!" And to judge from the manner in which he rubbed his hands and chuckled, one would think he had solved the great problem as to "which part of a wheel travels the faster." I thanked him of course for his lucid explanation, but had to acknowledge that there had been some defect in my education, as the way I figure I'll have just forty cents on the dollar, when I make what the broker calls a "counter-change."

If any of our wheeling friends design visiting the West Indian Islands, they should not miss a look at St. Thomas. But I'll give them a straight pointer, there is no wheeling on the island. For hill-climbing, pure and simple, it is all (or even a little more) that could be desired. But once on top of any hill on the island, dismiss all ideas of coasting from your minds, as "the harbor is deep and the bottom is lined with sharks." But even with a wheelman, with no show to wheel, the place is well worth a visit.

As I have before stated, we leave to-morrow for Para, where we expect to arrive about April 5th or 6th. Will jot down a few items in regard to the trip down and forward upon arrival, and will follow it up with what is to be seen in the city.
St. Thomas, W. I., March 24, 1888.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

In the great rush that is being made for safeties this year, it should not be forgotten by those who find difficulty in securing one of this type, that Starley & Sutton can furnish their celebrated Rovers. The original of this class of machines. See their advertisement.

We are in receipt of constant requests for a "set of those colored plates." We will furnish the complete set to anyone sending us twelve cents. The Pope Mfg. Co. have made arrangements with us whereby they will furnish to cycle dealers and club houses a framed set of these plates, the only requirements being that the party ordering pay transportation charges, and agree to display same in some conspicuous place.

THE Turf, Field and Farm has removed to No. 251 Broadway, corner Murray street, and opposite City Hall Park, New York. For many years the Turf, Field and Farm has occupied a pre-eminent position among the sporting journals of America. It is a standard authority on all legitimate sports, and is held in the estimation of American sportsmen, turfmen, athletes, oarsmen, etc., upon the same high plane that the London Field occupies in the esteem of all English lovers of sport. It is ably edited, independent and fearless, and its reports cover a wide range of manly pastimes.

ONE of the most artistic little advertising pamphlets that we have ever seen is the one lately issued by Sterling Elliott, of Newton, Mass. It contains fifteen comic sketches most beautifully drawn by "Boz." Mr. Elliott manufactures machinists' tools of the finest quality and design. Mr. Elliott is better known among wheelmen as the inventor of the Elliott cycles, "the wooden wheel machines." This firm are now completing preparations to place the three forms of machines, the tricycle, quadricycle and safety, on the market. These machines, when ready for use, weigh respectively, 66 pounds, 54 pounds, and 34 pounds. Announcements will be made, giving particulars, in due time. The Boston office of the "Sterling Cycle Co." (owners of the Elliott patents) is No. 12 Pearl St.

A WELL-KNOWN rider living in Philadelphia, and who is in no connected with the firm we are about to mention, writes us a long letter calling the attention of wheelmen to the Jaeger system of dressing. He says: "As a lover of cycling, I feel that I should not be doing my duty were I not to introduce to your notice a cycling suit, which I have inspected, and which should without a doubt come within the reach of all cyclists. This suit has been lately adopted by the leading cyclists in England and on the Continent, and has secured universal favor. It is made by the Jaeger & Company, whose warehouses are at 1104 Chesnut street, Philadelphia, Pa. I am anxious to impress upon all cycling clubs and associations, that it behooves them, both in the interests of individual members, and in that of their otherwise excellent cause, to adopt a cycling suit which will in every sense of the word be found exceedingly beneficial to all cyclists, and the Jaeger suits and system are par excellence the suit for the cyclist." [The principal house for the sale of the Jaeger goods in the United States and Territories, excepting parts of the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, is the Dr. Jaeger Sanitary Woolen System Co., at 827 and 829 Broadway, New York. Also see their advertisement in this issue.—Ed.]

MR. ELWELL corrects us regarding the Evans case. Our information came from Philadelphia, and was thought to be correct. We are glad to know that the aspect of the case is more pleasing than our previous information would lead one to think it was.

The Carnell Case.

Editor Bulletin: The Bulletin has contained many inaccurate statements concerning Philadelphia, and no one has taken the trouble to deny them. The issue of yesterday, however, contains one that is too far from the truth to allow to pass unnoticed. I refer to the item about Mr. Rowland Evans. In the first place Mr. Evans has not "compromised" his claim at all. Nor does "Carnell pay to Mr. Evans $75" or any other sum. Neither has "Mr. Evans agreed to withdraw his suit." In a word, there is no foundation at all for the statements made in the Bulletin. The facts are, in brief, as follows: When the case was called for trial Carnell was found to have run away. He was under bonds to appear. The bondsmen could not produce him, and in consideration of their paying $75 to cover the expenses incurred in both suits against Carnell, they have been released from their bond. The suit is still pending against Carnell, and it will not be well for him to return to Philadelphia as we are in a position to at once press the suit to a verdict. Mr. Evans is especially anxious that it is not thought he would compromise principle for cash, and the Bulletin has done all our efforts to put the matter in its true light. Under the circumstances it is only just that you should publish this correct statement of facts in your next issue.

Very truly,
INAC ELWELL,

Annual Tour.

The time and route of the 1888 annual tour will be: Monday, June 11. From Pennsylvania Club House, Girard avenue, Philadelphia, 20 miles to Paoli; Paoli 10 miles to Coatesville. Tuesday, June 12. Coatesville 14 miles to Inter-course; Inter-course 11 miles to Lancaster. Wednesday, June 13. Lancaster 11 miles to Columbia; Columbia 13 miles to York. Thursday, June 14. York 23 miles to Hunterstown; Hunterstown 5 miles to Gettysburg. Friday, June 15. Gettysburg 27 miles to Waynesboro'; Waynesboro' 11 miles to Hagerstown. Saturday, June 16. Hagerstown 11 miles to Antietam Battlefield; 6 miles to Boonsboro'; 15 miles to Frederick City. Sunday, June 17. Frederick 30 miles to Ellicott City; 15 miles to Baltimore. After leaving Frederick City the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is close approach, and low rates have been granted cyclists.

Parties can meet the tour from Harrisburg by rail to Lancaster; also from Harrisburg by turnpike via Carlisle; Chambersburg to Hagerstown 85 miles. From Cumberland, Md., 80 miles on tow-path of Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Williamsport; thence 6 miles to Hagerstown. This ride will prove easy and enjoyable.

The distances are arranged to make the tour easy, sociable and beneficial; also sufficient time to examine places of interest.

Rate to Baltimore.

The rate of fare to the L. A. W. meet in Baltimore on June 18, 19 and 20, from all points East of the Mississippi River, and from a line drawn from Chicago to Peoria, Ill., and thence to St. Louis, will be one and one-third, first-class fare for the round trip. The rate to be secured upon the certificate plan, as last year. But as there were many "breaks" at St. Louis during the last meet, that will not pass readily this year, I would give below the necessary instructions, as furnished by the Chairman of the National and Local Transportation committees, which if followed closely by those attending the meet, will avoid much trouble and confusion, and secure the reduced rates for all visitors to Baltimore.

First. Buy not earlier than June 15th a first-class ticket to Baltimore, (one way) for which pay the regular tariff fare. Upon request the ticket agent will issue you a certificate of such purchase, properly filled up and signed by said ticket agent.

Second. If you are west of the territory named above, or where a through ticket cannot be had, then purchase a ticket to the nearest prominent point within the territory or where a through ticket can be had, and there re-purchase a ticket through to Baltimore, and request a certificate as instructed above.

Third. Tickets for the return trip will be sold by the ticket agents in Baltimore at one-third the full fare, but only to those holding certificates, signed by the ticket agent at point where through ticket to Baltimore was purchased, and countersigned by Mr. Jos. T. Chism, Chairman Local Transportation Committee, to whom all attending the meet should report at League headquarters immediately upon arriving in Baltimore.

Fourth. It is absolutely necessary that a certificate be procured, as it shows that full fare has been paid for the trip to Baltimore, and that the holder thereof is entitled to the reduced fare returning. It will also determine the route via which the ticket for return should be sold, and without it no reduction will be made, as the rules of the different trunk line associations is that "No refund of fare will be made on any account whatever, because of failure of the parties to obtain certificates."

Fifth. Tickets for return trips will be furnished only on certificates procured not more than three days prior to the meet in Baltimore, and certificates will not be honored unless presented within three days after the meet, or not after June 23d.

Sixth. Ticket agents will be instructed by the different lines running out of Baltimore that reduction of fare will not be allowed unless the holders of certificates are properly identified, as above desired, by the Chairman of the Local Transportation Committee.

The certificates will not be transferable, and the signature of the purchaser affixed at the starting point compared with the signature given at time of purchase of the return ticket, will enable the ticket agent to detect any attempted transfer. You will observe from the instructions above that it will be absolutely necessary for each member of the League attending this year's meet to obtain a certificate from the agent where the ticket to Baltimore is purchased, otherwise it will be impossible to obtain reduced rates on the return, as the railroads are more particular on this point than ever heretofore, and unless these instructions are carried out to the letter, which will be very little trouble if proper attention is given them, you will be obliged to pay full fare both ways. APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the endorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names. Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The attention of Bicyclists and Wheelmen is called to the Complete Assortment of

GENTLEMEN'S UNDERGARMENTS for Early Spring and Summer Wear

All manufactured from the finest, natural-color, undyed, Wool Stockinet, in strict conformity to the DR. JAEGER SYSTEM.

MEN'S WHITE AND COLORED NEGLIGEE SHIRTS,

Manufactured from White and Natural Colored Stockinet, made to serve the purpose of both Undershirt and Outershirt, are unrivaled for convenience and comfort.

Our Striped Taffeta Shirts, manufactured exclusively for our sales, are made in wide and narrow stripes; are very beautiful, have been greatly admired, and pronounced entirely satisfactory in supplying the place of the linen and cotton shirt. They are made of finely woven woolen fabrics, the stripes being woven in, not printed, and, therefore, perfectly fast. For Lawn Tennis purposes they are unsurpassed.

We make a Specialty of Bicycle Jackets and Knee Breeches.

Included in our great variety of articles are being ventilated, and lined with fine, woolen material, are preferable to any other shoe. Weak feet are hardened by the unimpeded perspiration and evaporation; the joints are strengthened; and feet troubles, from undue pressure, are prevented and cured.

Men's Pajama Sleeping Suits, Cardigan Jackets, Hunting Jackets, Knitted Riding Trousers, Knitted Suits, Bath Robes.

OUR BOOTS AND SHOES

In STEAMER RUGS, CARRIAGE ROBES and TRAVELING SHAWLS, we offer a great variety of styles in superior quality and colorings.

We do the largest retail clothing business in the country. We have only one plank in our platform: Reliable Clothing at the Least Prices.

How else could we have got the largest business? The fact speaks for the shrewdness of the American people and our fairness.

Isn't Uniform Clothing a little harder to make?

It couldn't be harder to make bicycling uniforms than railroad uniforms, military uniforms, band uniforms. Ask the largest and best companies in the country how Wanamaker & Brown do their work? Not a branch of our business is doubling itself faster than that of uniform making.

Besides, the National Association says we make the Best Bicycling Uniform. They gave the contract for goodness and doing it for less money.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 11 MAY, 1888.

THE decisions lately arrived at by Judges Gresham and Blodgett in the case of Pope Mfg. Co. vs. Gormully & Jeffery is one of great importance. The decisions, as rendered, were in each count in favor of the Gormully & Jeffery Company. The Pope Company appealed to the highest court in the country, a final decision in which cannot be reached for some time to come. The result will be watched for with great interest by both dealers and riders. It certainly is a great victory for the Chicago firm.

NOW that Percy Stone has been reinstated by the L. A. W., we cannot see why Hendee and other men who have forsaken the professional path and taken to selling machines, cannot once more enjoy the partial privileges of an amateur. We say "partial" because Stone has only been partly allowed to return to the privileges of the "only pure." He can never race on the path, but as the L. A. W. does not recognize road racing he is free to tackle "the pures" in competition there. Mr. Stone is a philosopher, probably, and he feels that half a loaf is better than none, hence he is willing to take what he can get. For our part we should want the whole amateur loaf in this case or none at all.

IN commenting on the Howell-Rowe races Bi. News says: "We are sorry for Rowe, because the reaction will cause people to underrate his merits, but we cannot resist the temptation to point out how exactly right we have been in our prognostications. Here we have a man who has done grand time—let us say has ridden twenty-one miles in the hour, and who comes over here with a reputation second to none—and yet he is played with and out-generalled in the most complete and yet most primitive manner. We will venture a further prognostication, viz., that if Rowe only gets beaten often enough in the early part of the season, he will be heard of to much more advantage, and may even ride up to his reputation, as soon as the hot and dry days of early autumn are upon us. At present, we think Howell, Wood, Battensby, and John Lee, of the men who are in form, could easily get home in front of him. Physically, Rowe is a phenomenal man, and if his head was only half as clear as his legs he would be dangerous degree. Given the capacity, he won't take long to pick up that 'unknown quantity,' 'good judgment,' but its acquisition, like all other experiences, must be paid for." The same paper also editorially refers to the position taken by us in regard to the relative capacity of the two riders. We have nothing to urge in extenuation of Rowe's defeat. He was beaten squarely, and we admit it squarely. Like Davy Crockett's coon, we come down because we have to. We are, however, very sorry that Bi. News harps upon the subject of records made by Rowe, and continues to throw slurs of suspicion on same. The fact that Howell out-generalled Rowe is a decided point in favor of "head-work," and we believe that we are manly enough to admit it. This fact, however, has nothing to do with Rowe's records, all of which are bona fide, Bi. News to the contrary, notwithstanding.

NARROWLY ESCAPING DEATH.

FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.

THE Albany (N. Y.) wheelmen are righteously indignant over an outrage perpetrated on Alfred Schimpf, one of their members, in Washington Park on Wednesday evening. It seems that shortly after seven o'clock, while it was still light, Mr. Schimpf, who had been enjoying a spin about the park on his machine, started back along the driveway from the Hudson avenue entrance. At that moment a light buggy containing two unknown men came swiftly around the park road toward the entrance, and although warned by Schimpf, who had crowded his bicycle as far to the right as possible, the driver apparently made no effort to avert a collision, the result was that the horse dashed heavily against the wheelman throwing him from his machine, and driving the shafts into the lower portion of his body, shockingly lacerating the flesh. A brother bicyclist grasped the horse's head at this juncture, but the driver plied the whip vigorously and in a twinkling had disappeared down Hudson avenue. Mr. Schimpf was conveyed to a neighboring drug store, where his injuries were temporarily attended to, after which he was removed to his home. Yesterday he was reported resting comfortably, and unless inflammation sets in, his condition is not likely to assume a serious phase. The police were notified of the occurrence, but have as yet secured no clue to the reckless driver's identity. At a special meeting of the Albany Wheelmen last night a committee was appointed, with instructions to spare no expense in their efforts to ferret out the two men who so wantonly imperilled the life of one of their members. It was also ordered that a reward of $50 be offered for their apprehension. Competent counsel has also been retained to aid the wheelmen in prosecuting the offenders in the event of their arrest.—Albany Express.

FRED WOOD is back in England, and has been interviewed by the Cyclist man. He speaks highly of his treatment in the Colonies. He, however, touches lightly on the entanglement with the fair Australian; all he says of that is, "that the published reports of the affair were very much exaggerated, and that the whole business was 'got up' for him, as from first entering the city the greatest antipathy was displayed towards him on all sides. Having to defend what he (Wood) honestly declared was a most unjustifiable charge at the police court, placed him in very straightened circumstances, which it was difficult for him to overcome." It seems from the following item cut from the same source, that amateurism in New Zealand does not depend on not riding against professionals, as Wood says: "At the Pioneer Club meeting I rode against the best amateurs, and won the one, five and ten mile races, which entitled me to a stake of £50. A big reception was accorded me, and in addition to the money prize the club presented me with a silver salver. A little later I took part in some handicaps for the Christchurch Club, who presented me with a silver card tray." Mr. Wood expresses a burning desire to have a go at W. Wood, Howell and Rowe, and in fact every one who think they can down him.

THIS AND THAT.

"JACK."

OF late so much good-natured criticism has been spent by my friends of the cycling press in regard to my nom de plume of "Gentleman John," that I have decided to abandon the name forever, in favor of the shorter name above. It is with regrets that I give up the name, but there are so many wise men of the East who are not acquainted with the origin of the name that I bow down with great humility to the shrine of public opinion, and shall be known to the American and English cycling press as "Jack." With such critics as "Comus Kelly" (an occasional correspondent of Bicycling News) and Geo. Lacy Hillier, whose name adorns the editorial page of the same sheet, with such critics (I repeat) jumping with both feet on my chest about once in seven days, in the form of a derisive paragraph about the faint sense of humor which prompts a man to choose such a name, it is small wonder that I have abandoned a name which was given me when I was about three years of age, by a parent who doubtless had some particular reason for nicknaming me. As everyone knows, nicknames are things that cling very closely to a person, and the most unaccountable names are oftentimes the ones which cling the closest. Were the name a self-chosen one it would be a very different thing, but in hunting round for a nom de plume, I, naturally enough, chose a nickname, the origin of which is so pleasant to my memory. People must forgive little follies. I don't think there are many who do not like the sound of a name (however ridiculous it may sound to a stranger) which was given by a fond mother who lives only in sacred memory. We all have our little weaknesses. To those cycling scribes whose sense of propriety has been so terribly outraged by my thoughtless use of the name, I send respects. McCandlish, Low and Nairn of Wheeling, Prial of the Wheel, divers and sundry correspondent editors and grand moguls of Bicycling News, and others have always found food for a paragraph and a chance to show their skill (such as it was) in writing something which, though hardly offensive, made one, nevertheless, very warm behind the ears. For the kindly interest which these gentlemen have shown me I thank them. It seemed to give them pleasure, and some of their alleged humorosities had faint traces of wit, which was not without its effect. Their attentions have been received with the same heroic spirit of appreciation which characterizes a man whose nocturnal exercises have been disturbed by cats on a neighboring roof. I heard them howl, and sometimes laughed, but generally d—d them with fervency. So "Jack" makes his bows to you, and trusts that he will not weary you very much more than of yore.

SPEAKING of ladies' bicycles reminds me of a machine which Mr. Marriot, of Marriot & Cooper, has been persuading the ladies to try. From an unsolicited testimonial which he showed me the other day, it would appear that the machine was a grand success. The lady who wrote the testimonial seems to have had a good deal of experience in that direction, and says that for thorough going qualities, and especially night riding, she has never found an equal. Mr. Marriot is justly proud of the machine. It is very portable and strong, and has balls all round, with socket and a universal joint which admits of plenty of vertical and lateral play. It is a rear driver, and the lady takes her position in the centre. Wheeling commented very strongly upon its strong points in a late issue.

THOMAS W. ECK and his troupe of professional fliers are in the country. Like the convicts at Botany Bay, they say:

Fine patriots are we,
For, be it understood,
We left our country,
For our country's good.

I LOOK for Whittaker to do great things, and as for Crocker, why he's after Billy Rowe's scalp if I am not very much mistaken. You see Crocker is just a little bit envious of the way in which Rowe has been lionized, and if they have a race I am afraid that Crocker will make the Lynn boy move pretty fast. But you can bet your life that the eyes of the cycling world are very wide open, and if any records are got they must be made squarely.

From Thomas Eck I heard a very queer story about an amateur in Minneapolis who, he avers, put emery in one of the bicycles, which was to have been ridden in the historic W.-M. race; it was either Whittaker's or McCurdy's, I forget which. I know the young fellow very well, and should Mr. Eck's statement be correct, I am very sorry indeed. It certainly is a most unsportsmanlike thing to do. A man who would do that would set fire to a blind asylum in the night.

PRIAL's new paper reflects credit upon that young man. Prial did write a very nasty paragraph about me, but afterwards in a letter he said that he was sorry, so it's all right, and I wish Prial success.

I DON'T think that this season there will be so many cycle journals springing up all over the country annoying the poor trade.

I THINK that Joe Pennell's article on military cycling, in the Graphic, was about right. The cycle might be very useful in war, and at the Easter manoeuvres it was very clearly demonstrated that under very favorable conditions a cycle as a war accessory was of great utility. The safety, of course, is the only practical machine for the purpose, and for touring it would seem to be the machine par excellence. It has many advantages over the ordinary, and very few disadvantages. I rode some forty miles the other day after four o'clock in the afternoon, and twenty miles was in the greatest darkness and without a lamp. As I was following a well-known North Road scorch, also on a light (thirty-pound) safety at a good rate of speed, and over country which I had never seen in the daylight, I have come to the conclusion that the safety is the wheel. Once or twice I lost the road, so dark was it, and rode over obstructions which would have sent me flying had I been mounted on an ordinary. Then the pace with which one can take the hills is wonderful; almost any pace. But a good surface is what a safety needs. On sand it is beastly and is very bad in wind, but on good roads one can get a splendid pace out of the wheel. I rode scant ten miles "from the Angel to the Anchor," in forty-four minutes without any inconvenience, and then I hadn't taken it out of myself at all. That is good enough for me. Anything that goes at that pace over a hilly road is something more than a "fad." But say, boys, the ordinary is pretty hard to beat. It takes a lot of beating.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

THE fever of the Road Improvement is under full sway in our whole district. The recent opening of large districts by real estate speculators, beside the natural and rapid growth of the population of the suburban districts of the metropolis, consequent on cheapness of rents and the close proximity thereto, has introduced a leaven of new ideas and progressiveness that is bound to tell. The country road officers are becoming to be held more closely to their work, and roads that have not been touched in the memory of man have been resurfaced; and horsemen, seeing that our interests are identical, are becoming less reluctant to co-operate for the general good. The town of Flushing has now a bill before the Legislature to provide an annual appropriation for the improvement of the town streets.

THE Brooklyns will hold a twenty-mile road race on Saturday afternoon the 12 inst., over the Irvington-Millburn course, for the purpose of picking out members of the road racing team.

ALL the clubs interested in the great century are getting things into shape, and the chances are good for a large turnout. The Long Islands, the K. C. Ws., Brooklyns, Mercurys, and Huntingtons all promise large delegations, and the New Jersey clubs all promise well, as do the New York City clubs.

ON Saturday and Sunday last, while on a run down into New Jersey, our club covered all that part of the route of the great century lying between Newark and Sumerville, and Captain Camp, of Trenton, covered the rest of the route as far as Trenton. The stretch of the road between Elizabeth and Westfield was the only bad one in the whole route, and that was because of the heavy rain of the night before. From Westfield, down the railroad track, through Netherwood to Plainfield, from Plainfield to Sumerville, and from thence to Trenton, the road is in fine condition.

THE Jericho Pike is now in the finest condition that it has seen in years between Jamaica and Hinsdale and needs but a little rain to stay so for some time to come. The road from the ferry at College Point to Flushing is badly torn up for the purpose of laying a street railway, but great care is being taken not to spoil the roadway, and the riding will be as good as usual in a week or so. College Point is the only town on Long Island where the streets are macadamized, and were it not for the terribly tough character of the young roughs on the streets at nights would make a fine speeding ground.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

THE Elizabeth Wheelmen held their monthly meeting last week and elected several new members. The time for accepting members under suspension of the initiation fee has been extended to cover the June meeting. Arrangements for the road race were made, and rooms for the team have been secured at the Irvington Hotel. All members who wish to take part in the century run from New York to Philadelphia are requested to communicate with Captain Berry.

WHERE, oh! where will the Union County Wheelmen get a team for the road race? And echo answers, "where?"

THE Burlington Athletic Club is putting down a three-lap track at Burlington, which is expected to be a hummer.

I SEE that the four-lap track at Camden is a sure thing, and that the initial races thereon will be held on Decoration Day.

FIVE members of the Orange Wanderers made the run from Orange to Caldwell and back on the 25th of April in two hours and a quarter.

HARRY A. WOLCOTT, of the Orange Wanderers, has entered for the inter-collegiate bicycle race to be run on May 27th, on the grounds of the Manhattan Athletic Club, New York.

CHARLEY KLUGE will try his speed on Canadian soil on the 23d, when, at Woodstock, he will meet such cracks as Foster and Davies. But we are just laying our little pile that Kluge will "get there with both feet."

THIS week we are to have a visit from the great American hill climber, from "Philly." Mr. Wells is expected about Thursday, and before my next I hope to be able to say that he has beaten Chickering's time up Eagle Rock. He will test the hill while here.

THE Hudson County Wheelmen will put in the following team for the road race: C. E. Kluge, C. A. Stenken, E. P. Baggott, Fred Gubleman; all good men, and making a team which should be able to push the Kings County Wheelmen for all they are worth. The latter's team, I understand, will comprise Harry J. Hall, Jr., E. Valentine, Tommy Hall and Lee Wilson.

JOHN CURRAN, of the Hudson County Wheelmen, has purchased a new "Special," and I am informed that he says "he has big money which tells him he will ride rings around C. E. Kluge before the summer is half over." Now, my dear Mr. Curran, can't you go a little farther, and give us the diameter of the "rings." Or are you afraid they will turn out to be "chestnut rings?"

MR. HARRIS, of the Springfield Bicycle Company, will leave in a few days for a trip through Pennsylvania and Ohio, in the interests of that company. Mr. Harris tried Eagle Rock a few days ago and succeeded in climbing to the third telegraph pole. He says he will keep at it until he makes a full climb without a dismount. But he says "it is a stiff hill, there's no mistake about that."

IN my last I forgot to note that the return bowling match between the Atalanta Wheelmen, of Newark, and the Harlem Wheelmen, played in this city 26 April, was won by the latter by a score of 1091 to 1047. Eight men constituted each team. The members of the Pleasure Bowling Club, comprised of employees of the Prudential Insurance Company, have joined the Atalanta Wheelmen in a body.

THE first all-day run of the Wanderers on 16 May will be a pleasant one. They will leave the club house at 6.30 A. M. and wheel to Elizabethport, thence take the eight o'clock boat to Staten Island. They will then skirt the shore around by way of Tompkinsville and Stapleton, past Fort Wadsworth and down the Southerly shore to Princess Bay. The return will be made by the same general route.

HOWARD A. SMITH is still hobbling with the help of a cane, as the result of a pedal-slipping exploit on 27 April. He was en route to Orange with a friend, the mount being a tandem. Mr. Smith was unable to "catch on" to the motion, and finally the crank and axle "caught on" to his right foot, bruising the heel and the lower part of the ankle pretty severely. He is coming around in good shape, although the cane is yet a necessity.

E. R. COLLINS, of the Union County Wheelmen, who has recently been elected Justice of the Peace of Westfield, writes me that he will give wheelmen the L. A. W. discount on all business, and especially that of a matrimonial character. He has laid in a stock of finely engraved marriage certificates, and will tie the hymenial knot (warranted a first-class tie) for his wheeling friends in approved style. He will also present to each couple so tied, a fine family bible, with nine blank pages for family records, and will furnish the address of the party from whom additional blank leaves may be procured.

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

YOUR last issue does not give the correct version of the accident to Captain E. W. Burt of the Philadelphia Bicycle Club. Messrs. Greves and Middleton were spilled from their tandem, and Mr. Smith ran into the wreck, breaking a handle-bar, but Mr. Burt's header occurred from a different cause and at another time. He was speeding at the time and slipped pedal which caused his cropper. Although cut and bruised he was fortunately not seriously injured, and attended to business during the week.

EIGHTY members and invited guests sat down to the second annual reunion dinner of the Century Wheelmen on last Friday evening at the Colonnade Hotel. An elaborate menu and happily responded to toasts were the order of the evening.

SATURDAY of last week Jno. A. Wells climbed Ford Hill three times in succession, and then in company with Halsted (by the way, will your typos please get his name correctly. They usually spell it Halstead), he broke the tandem record on the Lancaster Pike, from the Bellevue, at Wayne, to the Pennsylvania club house, 13 miles in 52 minutes.

CASSATT'S HILL has hitherto been surmounted by but three men, but last Sunday Halsted, Leisen, Frank Kohler and C. A. Roberts pulled to the top. Every rider here has the hill climbing fever. Last Sunday McClathery, of the Centurions, rode up Conshocken Hill twice, duplicating McDaniels feat of two weeks since.

DURING the moonlight nights of last week several tandem parties have been made up, and one of these took a run to a private club house up the blue waters of the Schuylkill, where the gentlemen of the party cooked the viands and served the ladies to their entire satisfaction (whether their own or the ladies I could not learn, but they do say that Mr. Hart's coffee was equal to any chef's, while as for Mr. Osborne's planked shad and Mr. — let me see; did I promise to mention no names?). The trip was a most enjoyable one and voted a great success.

RINK parties are also very popular just now. A number of ladies and gentlemen engage the Rink for an evening and have lots of fun out of it, besides learning the management of bicycle and tricycle under Mr. Geo. Hart's able tutorship.

I OVERHEARD an enthusiastic young woman exclaim to a companion the other night: "Well! if I were a man the only reason I wouldn't ride a bicycle would be because I couldn't learn to balance it. No, not even to ride a tandem with my best girl!" But then, you see, she looked at it from a feminine point of view.

RACE meets and rumors of race meets all about us. The Camden Wheelmen propose having one on Decoration Day, one of the features of which will be a twelve-hour race. Philadelphia riders will aid in making it a success. Then the Y. M. C. A. will open their new grounds in West Philadelphia with an athletic entertainment on May 12th, and the wheel is down on the programme. Ditto the annual field meeting of the Athletic Club of the Schuylkill Navy, to be held May 23d.

THERE is some talk of a cycling track being projected at Reading, to be opened Decoration Day with a tournament, but inquiry fails to elicit any definite information on the subject.

I ENCOUNTERED the familiar face of Mr. E. M. Aaron in a restaurant the other day, and had quite a lengthy chat with him. He is taking to wheeling again, having ordered a new Victor safety, which he says he must ride for the sake of example to the little folks. The friends of Mr. Aaron (and there are many, for, after all that has been said, the fact remains that he was a most popular and energetic worker, and one who has done lots of good for the League of American Wheelmen) will be pleased to learn that he was well in health, spirits and business, the latter in New York.

MR. C. R. OVERMAN also favored us with his company last week. He has the happy faculty of making warm friends wherever he goes, but he is so much on the jump that the aforesaid friends never have the pleasure of his society for any time. We took in Emma Abbott in "Martha" together, accompanied by Mr. J. C. Dotter.

THE Times, one of our leading papers, is now giving us a column of interesting cycling news every Sunday. Thus does the wheel influence spread. Only deliver us from the mis-statements of the average reporter. One of the papers here coolly stated last week that Mr. Chas. Paul could climb Ford hill without hands. Now this grade has been climbed but twice this season, and as it is considered one of the hills hereabouts, I rather fancy Mr. Paul knew nothing of this reporter's intentions.

CAPTAIN SUPPLEE, of the Pennsylvania Club, met with an accident on the 5th inst., which might have resulted seriously. While out on his new safety he had a collision with a horse near Ardmore, and was badly bruised.

CAPTAIN FLEMING will retain his office in the Century Wheelmen, the Lieutenants having agreed to relieve him of part of the duties. Mr. McClathery takes the second lieutenancy. The club is to be congratulated for Mr. Fleming's decision.

MR. ISAAC ELWELL has tendered his resignation as President of the Pennsylvania Club, after having occupied the position for upwards of three years. His retirement will be a great loss to the club. No one has yet been definitely named as his successor, although several have been spoken of.

WILL L. A. W. No. 306 kindly forward his photo. I am told that it is immense. Would also ask No. 3361 to mail his post office address.

KANSAS CITY.

"MENTOR."

SUNDAY (April 22) the second club run of the United Wheelmen, to Parkville, took place. This was the first time Parkville was ever visited by a party of wheelmen, and its advent was something of a novelty to its natives. Parkville is the locale of Park College, a Presbyterian school. The faculty is very strict, and it was learned that the visit of the wheelmen on Sunday was deemed a sacrilege. The school girls were kept so close that the boys did not have an opportunity to flirt with them. When the roads are in good condition the run to Parkville will be an exceedingly pleasant one, but till then a mention of the trip to a few of the participants of the run can be likened unto a red shirt to a bull. Parkville is just across the river, in Clay County, which has become famous as the home once of the noted bandits, the James boys. The county is very poorly populated, and the topography of the country is very irregular.

LOCAL CONSUL DE TAR has started a subscription paper for the purpose of raising a neat sum for helping the League get out of debt. All members in the city can contribute, and Mr. De Tar will see that the money is forwarded.

CHARLIE B. ELLIS was very quietly married Sunday (April 22), in fact it was not known till a week later. It is presumed it is not too late to tender congratulations. Baltimoreans will remember Charlie, as he was a former resident of the Monumental City.

It is not generally known, but Eislinger's Garden caters to wheelmen, and cyclists who are fond of good native wine, cold lunches, etc., will be cordially welcomed. The Garden is located just North of Westport, and has become quite popular with a number of wheelmen.

WHEELMEN are exceedingly jubilant over the fact that street paving is to be pushed here with renewed activity this summer. The paving of the Southwest boulevard to the State line will make it a rendezvous for wheelmen. Kansas City will soon become one of the best paved cities in the United States.

THE rains of last week prohibited club runs Sunday (29), and wheelmen went round in a sort of a dazed way, seemingly oblivious of their surroundings. It was cold enough for fires, and club members huddled around the heaters, played billiards, spun yarns, and indulged in other amusements to pass away the time.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

"TERNON."

CYCLING in Minneapolis is having an agreeable boom. All the dealers (four in number) report sales exceeding last year's business at this time. E. J. Hale and Colie Bell (the "twins") are doing a moderate amount of road work, enough so that they will be in good form to take in a race if one turns up. J. Purvis-Bruce is expected back here about 12 July to race Colie Bell the proposed 25-mile road race. When Bell is asked about it, he looks at his wheel with a loving look, as much as to say, "we'll be there, won't we, old fel'?"

H. P. LEACHAM and Colie Bell are going to make an extensive trip East some time during the summer.

THE Mercury Bicycle Club called a general run for all the unattached cyclists in town on Tuesday evening, but as only a few turned up it was given up. It was understood that the run was called in order to find out whether the club was "dead" or not, and if so they thought somewhat of joining the Minneapolis Club in a body, if they do, we will have as strong a club as any west of Chicago.

THERE is a bicycle agent in town, who has the agency of two or three lines of wheels, that must be afraid to have riders look at his wheels the second or third time. One of our prominent cyclists went in to this agent's store one day, to inquire about sundries he had ordered, and naturally he looked the wheels over to see if anything new had come in, when one of the proprietors came up and requested him not to handle them any more, as he had "seen them often enough."

THE Minneapolis Bicycle Club has awakened up from its winter's solitude of social games, and instead of meeting around the "round" table, they generally go out in pairs, fours, or as the case may be, and take a ride around town on the paved streets, or in the country. They have almost all the best riders in the State in the club, and are a jolly set of fellows. A week ago Sunday a dozen riders went down to St. Paul in a rain storm. It didn't dampen their spirits at all, in fact they seemed to be all the jollier. They put up at the Windsor House, the League hotel, and had a splendid dinner. Some of the frivolous boys made "eyes" at the pretty waiter girls, but were properly rebuked by our staid and sedate Secretary and Treasurer.

AND COMMENT.

On the last plate that we issued, that of W. A. Rowe, we had printed after his name, "Champion of the World." This is a clear case of counting your chicks, etc. The plate was printed three weeks ago, but we are prepared to be sat on hard by our facetious fellow scribes; especially do we expect to get a blast from our friend, "Dynamite" Page, of St. Louis.

A LADIES' run will be among the pleasant features of the League meet.

THE amount collected in Baltimore for expenses of L. A. W. meet is so far about $2600.

A TANDEM race will be among the events to be run at Baltimore next month; also a race for rear-driving safeties.

ARRANGEMENTS are already being made at hotels in Baltimore by large delegations from New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

REMEMBER the dates, May 29 and 30, as being the annual meet and races of the Iowa Division at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Good programme of races.

In order to distinguish the Eck team from that of Manager Morgan, the Cyclist calls the former the "Yankee team," and the latter the "American team."

WHAT'S the difference between riding against old Father Time and Dick Howell? This is a bit hard for us to answer; will W. A. Rowe please send in the correct solution to the conundrum?

PHILADELPHIA, Camden (Pa.) and Wilmington (Del.) wheelmen are invited by Kirk Brown, of Philadelphia, to compete in a hill-climbing contest some time before June 18. Mr. Brown will give a gold medal to the winner.

CYCLISTS of photographic proclivities (and there are many of them) should notice the advertisement of the Boston Camera Co. The "Hawk eye" is a camera they make a specialty of, and is particularly adapted to the cyclist's use.

We shall have to revive that term "promateurs" to fit such cases as our good friend Percy Stone. We would suggest a special uniform for these "alf and alf" fellows, 'alf black and 'alf white, emblematic of their semi-purified condition.

HERE'S another of the same sort. If W. A. Rowe can ride a mile in 2.29, how does it happen that Howell beats him by 20 yards, in 2.45? Will Be. News kindly give attention and answer the above? We know it will please them to be able to solve it.

THE Ridgfield Athletic Club, of Albany, N. Y., will give a spring meeting June 2. Among the events is an open-to-all-amateurs two-mile bicycle race. Entrance fee 50 cents, to close May 28. Address, W. C. Miller, 3 South Hawk Street, Albany, N. Y.

MESSRS. GORMULLY & JEFFERY call attention in our advertising columns to their late successes in the courts in their suit with the Pope Mfg. Co. A reference to this advertisement shows a natural

NOTICE.

79 FRANKLIN ST., BOSTON, }
February 15, 1887. }

Gentlemen—We are advised that the machines known as "American Champion" Bicycles infringe certain letters-patent of ours, and as they are both made and sold without license from us, we have commenced suits against the makers.

We beg to notify you that the sale or use of said Bicycles by any other party is ALSO infringement, and that we shall take such legal proceedings as we may be advised by our counsel to take for the protection of our rights and the suppression of infringements, wherever such infringements occur.

Yours truly,

THE POPE MFG. CO.

This circular was issued for the purpose of intimidating riders from buying our machines, and agents from selling them.

We now beg to inform riders and dealers that there is NO DANGER, as Judges Gresham and Blodgett, of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois on April 30, 1888, decreed that NONE of the goods manufactured by us infringed ANY of their patents. We might further say that all our machines are manufactured under our own letters-patent, which have not yet been proved invalid.

Now that the horizon is clear so far as we are concerned, we shall be happy to furnish our entire line at short notice, as we are working over time and can do so. Our handsomely illustrated 64-page catalogue mailed on application.

Respectfully submitted, feeling of jubilation, and as they express it, so far as they are concerned the horizon is clear.

The Columbia (Pa.) Wheelmen are going to have a road race May 30. The route is from Columbia to Mountville and return. There is a good deal of friendly rivalry among the members of this club, and they take this method of having a road race to work off some of the surplus enthusiasm.

The Long Island Wheelmen and the Kings County Wheelmen of Brooklyn, N. Y., bowled a match April 27. The Long Island Wheelmen won by a score of 1511 to 1295. Mr. Starr of the L. I. made the best individual score of 193. A return match will be bowled during this month sometime.

The last copy of the American Athlete to hand and not a single editorial on the coming Wells-Greenwood hill-climbing contest!! We sincerely hope that paternal joys and cares have not made Mr. Wells forgetful. The Athlete without its Hill Climbing editorial is indeed Hamlet without the melancholly Dane.

The new club house of the Buffalo Bicycle Club was "informally" opened last week. The interior was thoroughly viewed, and nothing but praise and admiration was heard at the completeness of the furnishings and arrangement. A few of the members gave an exhibition of gymnastics in the gymnasium.

MISS MAGGIE B. PHILLIPS died at her home in Indianapolis, Ind., April 30, after a lingering illness of thirty-two days. Miss Phillips was the only lady member of the Indiana division of the L. A. W., and a very beautiful and accomplished young lady of eighteen. Her loss is very keenly felt by her many intimate friends.

WILLIAM J. CORCORAN denies the statement made in some of the Boston dailies that Mr. Dole was desirous of backing him (Corcoran) to ride W. A. Rowe. He says: "I do not want to be placed in a false light in the racing world, I am a trainer of racing wheelmen, and not a 'track artist' myself. I have no ambitions looking towards a championship on the path."

The quarter-mile track of the East Hartford Wheel Club has been widened and repaired this spring, and is now one of the finest bicycle tracks in the country. It varies from 19 to 27 feet in width on the homestretch, and is 15 or 16 feet wide on the turns and the backstretch. This club proposes to hold its third annual racing tournament early in June; $300 in prizes will be awarded.

The managers of the Buffalo Tournament Fair Association are about to issue semi-monthly a sixteen-page paper, and illustrated in the most artistic way. The name of this paper will be the Illustrated Journal, and it will be permanently devoted to the interests of the exhibition, and to the industrial, commercial and agricultural interests of the United States and Canada.

FROM New Haven we have a complaint that that city is not represented in our correspondence column. "We are a live lot of cyclists here, though you do not hear from us often. Our club numbers seventy-five members, and we think we have nearly 1000 riders in the city. We are going to have a parade on 30 May, and a five-mile handicap road race on the same day. Look for us at Baltimore." We are glad to hear from New Haven, and hope that No. 9992 will "complain" some more.

THE Howe Company in Scotland flies two flags over its factory, one the British ensign and the other the stars and stripes. This phenomenon is explained by Bicycling News, which states that the reason the stars and stripes flap in the British breezes is because Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine made in the factory, was an American, and further, this particular flag is historical, for it is the identical flag that covered the coffin of the martyred Lincoln whilst the body lay in state.

W. E. CRIST writes us as follows: "I will be mounted this season on a 54 1-2-inch Humber bicycle, and Mr. Barber a 52 of the same make. We are at present training at Long Eaton track. Whittaker, Crocker and Knapp have not decided yet what wheels they will ride. Rowe does not seem to be riding very well; I hardly think he is in condition yet, as it is quite cold here and very hard work to train, being almost impossible to get up a good sweat."

We protest that this thing has gone far enough, and when we will forth the above protest, we give the following paragraph, taken from the Lynn Item, as the cause: "Somebody has suggested that 'sly Wizzie' take his old partner, Armaindo, and cross the briny for the purpose of pulling both American teams through." Yes, we protest emphatically!! Are the English insatiable, do they want everything? By and by we shall not have a professional left in the country, and then what should we do? Let us have Armaindo, do not take away "Wizzie;" life would not be worth living. We hope the United States authorities will take steps to prevent these two treasures from leaving our shores. We cannot let them go.

The returned wanderers, Messrs John Newman and John Williams ("The two Johns"), of the Buffalo, N. Y. Club, were entertained by the club at Niagara last week Friday. "The Mahogany Tree," with its pleasing combination of flowers, candelabra and spotless linen, was surrounded by 36 members of the club, the president and guests of honor at the head. The admirably-served courses, the laughter and wit flashing so free, more than confirmed the expectation of those who had arranged so enjoyable an affair.

THAT the WORLD goes everywhere witness the following letter from a gentleman in Caro, Mich. Even the fishes read it: "The other day while fishing in the Cass river a piece of paper floated on my line. On looking at it I found it one half leaf of your paper. Enclosed find ten cents for your April numbers; I never saw the paper before, and I want to get a boy's bicycle and I think I may find it in your advts." We would suggest to our Caro friend that he write to almost any of our advertisers, and they can quote him prices, etc., on boys' machines.

MR. RICHARD Brodhead, respected citizen of Washington, D. C., was recently arrested by an officer on the charge of riding a bicycle after sunset without a lighted lamp. Mr. Brodhead explained to the officers that his lamp had exploded a few moments before. The officer would take no explanations, but arrested him, and drove him in a patrol wagon to police headquarters. The judge on hearing the facts said that officers should exercise a little common sense. When a citizen as respectable as Mr. Brodhead shows beyond a doubt that the alleged violation is clearly an accident, his explanation should be accepted by the officer, and the citizen should not be put to annoyance and trouble. If the officer concludes to make the arrest, he should at least do as is done in liquor cases—notify the defendant to appear. The case was dismissed.

CRIST'S REPLY TO KLUGE.

Mr. Chas. E. Kluge, Jersey City, N. J.:

Dear Sir.—I hereby have the pleasure and honor of accepting your challenge of April 6th, on the conditions mentioned in your letter to the Bicycling World and The Wheel, in which your challenge appeared, the races to be run after my return to America this fall under the L. A. W. rules. A challenge to any other kind of a race being uncalled for, as we will surely meet in some races at some of the fall meets to be given in the States. Trusting this will be satisfactory to you.

I am fraternally yours,

WM. E. CRIST.

Gentlemen—After considerable delay, the four 1888 Light Champions arrived all O. K. (four beauties). The customers are delighted. The two 50-inch machines were severely tested yesterday over thirty-three miles of the roughest roads imaginable; they were simply fearful. One continuous bump from the time we left our paved streets until we arrived on the paved streets of Springfield, our destination point. However, not a spoke, screw or nut became loose during the entire journey. Yours truly,

ROBB DEFEATS WOODSIDE.

[By cable to Sunday Herald.]

LONDON, May 5, 1888. There was a lively gathering on the Leicester cycling grounds this afternoon, when Woodside, who is still described as the American champion, raced Robb, a local favorite, one mile. A good many American sports were present and freely backed Woodside. On the last lap Robb rushed ahead a few feet, but in coming down the rather nasty slope, Robb fell and Woodside crushed atop of him. Woodside's machine was completely wrecked. Robb finished the distance and was declared the winner.

ST. LOUIS WHEEL COMPANY ROAD RACE.

A. M. LEWIS WINS IT.

The road race from Manchester to Vandewater avenue, a distance of eighteen miles, given by the St. Louis Wheel Company came off Saturday, May 5th. The day was perfect, and fully 5000 people witnessed the race at the finish and other points.

The start was made at 4:45 P. M. with the men placed as follows: Scratch, Alex M. Lewis, E. A. Smith, E. N. Sanders; handicap, 30 seconds, W. D. Sheriff; 1m. 30 seconds, Geo. N. Tivey, Jno. Hodgen; 2m., Richard Hurck, Frank Mehlig, Hy Mayo; 3m. 30 s.

Hy Oellein; 4m., Jno. Koen, H. E. Eames. The officers of the race were: Starters, Geo. W. Baker, L. C. Stone; judges, timers, and handicappers: A. K. Steward, L. Gordon, Walter Wylie.

The scratch men picked up nearly all the handicapped ones on Solomon's hill, but could not shake them off until near Bartolds. The Manchester road was in fine condition, except small macadamized stretches which caused several bad headers. The scratch men rode pretty well bunched until Cheltenham was reached, where Smith took a header, and a few minutes afterwards Sanders was run into by his pacemaker, A. L. Jordan. Sanders was pretty badly shaken up by the fall, and from this on was practically out of the race. The race was won by Alex M. Lewis in 1h. 7m. 53s. which is very good time. E. A. Smith finished second in 1. 07. 26 seconds. Richard Hurck third in 1. 08. 44 seconds. Frank Mehlig fourth in 1. 09. 23 seconds, and then came E. N. Sanders in 1. 10. 01. Jno. Koen, George Tivey, H. E. Eames, finishing in the order named, and the balance came in straggling. Both the first and second men are members of the Missouri Club and were greeted with rousing cheers as they crossed the tape. Both Lewis and Smith broke the existing record to the pump. Dick Hurck's riding was a surprise to everybody. Much sympathy was expressed for Ed. Sanders, and he certainly would have finished near the front but for his accident. Sanders also bitterly complained of the way his club mates (Cycle club) took care of him. He did not get anything to drink for 10 miles, and all he got then was two small sips of tea. As a matter of course, there is now joy in the Missouri's camp, and Lewis and Smith will be banqueted next Saturday. Sanders is not satisfied that he was beaten and wants another race arranged between him and Lewis. Too much cannot be said in praise of the St. Louis Wheel Co for their great liberality in putting up the valuable prizes, and for making the affair the success it was. All the arrangements were perfect, but the police who were promised to keep the avenue clear, but failed to arrive. LINNEUS.

THAT GREAT RIDE OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CLUB.

Editor Bicycling World: The various accounts of trips out in this "wild West" to which your readers have been subjected, have been as amusing to some of us as they doubtless were to you.

The accounts certainly contain both extremes as to time. I alluded to that 26-mile spin of the San Francisco Bicycle Club in 1 hour 25 minutes, and the ride around the Bay of Mr. Bliss in about 16 hours, I think it was.

You are doubtless in the predicament of not knowing whether we are "tortoises," "flyers from away back," or else "liars." Of course we don't for a minute suppose you could think of Mr. Bliss in the latter terms, as his statement is undoubtedly true, but on questioning one of the "San Francisco" men he condescended to modify the time and said it might be 1 hour and 30 minutes. "Caesar's ghost," but I don't blame your bringing the time in question when you consider that Elwell, the fastest man on the coast to-day, took 1 hour and 38 minutes to ride a 25-mile race; the "San Francisco" didn't have in a team, I admit, but a year ago Larzelere, their flyer, couldn't beat Elwell. A year might make vast improvements (but let me weep for these poor misguided creatures.)

I consider myself a good average rider, and didn't credit the San Francisco's time. I went over the same course and it took me 2 hours 15 minutes. I admit I didn't go at a break-neck pace, but if I was a betting man or a professional I'd be willing to go a little pile that there are not seven men in the San Francisco Club that could have stuck to me those 56 miles. I had two companions, both good riders. We started from San Francisco and made San Jose at 12.30, after getting off the track and making an extra 6 miles.

We left San Jose at 1.30, and reached the city at 8, having completed the trip in 12 hours 25 minutes. This was a very easy pace, and the distance could be traversed in an hour faster ordinarily, as we had a gale from San Jose, 50 miles. We made about 100 miles. And how Mr. Bliss could put in more time I fail to see. An ordinary rider ought to go around the Bay in twelve hours, a scorcher in ten hours, but a San Francisco would probably do it in from six to seven. We haven't got such a thing as a "club liar" out here, the club members go it individually it seems, and evidently it's a "blooming success." Fraternally, "1874."

THE BICYCLE PATENT CASES.

The following communication has been received from the Pope Mfg. Co. with request for publication:

"A fuller and more correct report of the decision of the Circuit Court in Chicago, on Monday of this week, develops considerable interest not only for the bicycle trade, but also for all who own patents and have license contracts relating to them. The decision was in five suits in equity, begun a little over a year ago, in the Circuit Court for the Northern district of Illinois, by the Pope Manufacturing Co., manufacturers in the East of Columbia bicycles, against the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Co., manufacturers in Chicago of the Champion bicycles. These five suits were tried together and were practically two suits, one for the enforcement of a contract, and the other to restrain infringement of certain patents. The evidence filled two large octavo volumes of about 500 pages each, and included about 100 exhibits besides. The hearing of the cases occupied four days at the end of January last, and they were ably argued by Hon. L. L. Coburn of Chicago for the complainants, and Hon. B. F. Thurston of Providence for the defendants.

The contract suit was based on a written agreement of license between the Pope Mfg. Co. and R. P. Gormully, made in 1884. By this, and by two previous licenses made in 1883 by the same parties, Gormully was licensed under certain patents to make certain sizes, style, and construction of bicycles known in the trade as Ideal and Champion bicycles, upon the payment of certain royalties and the observances of certain stipulations. By the contract of 1884 it was expressly stipulated, as part of the consideration for granting the license, that the licensee admitted the validity of the patents licensed under, and of certain other patents used in higher grade machines, and admitted that certain specific devices therein referred to and described, contained the inventions of those patents, and were covered thereby, and that the licensee should not make those devices that were not included in the license at all in any machines during the term of the patents which covered them. Subsequently Mr. Gormully formed a partnership and afterwards a corporation, of which he and his partner remained managers and owners. They made only the licensed machines up to the spring of 1886, paying royalties and observing the conditions of the licenses. They then commenced to manufacture and sell what have since become known as Champion bicycles, including the devices which they had agreed they would not make, in addition to the other line of machines. There was and has been no controversy about the other line of machines, but only about the new machines containing the new devices, which the Pope Mfg. Co. invoked the aid of the Court in equity to restrain. The Court has now decided that the complainants construction of the contract was correct, but that the restraining clauses would work a hardship upon the defendants if they were enforced; and therefore dismissed the bill. Perhaps a certain tendency in the decisions of Western courts may be traced in this by comparing it with the fact that the same court had previously sustained similar contracts and enforced them by injunction in two cases at least, one being the case of the Pope Mfg. Co. against Jeffery, in which the final decree was entered in 1885, and the other the case of the Pope Mfg. Co. against St. Nicholas Toy Co., decided in 1886, and under which, besides injunction, sixteen thousand dollars damages were recovered.

The patents involved in the patent suit decided last Monday were seven in number: the Peters and the Wallace patents, relating to adjustable anti-friction or ball bearings, used in most high grade bicycles, and the Shire, Veeder and Kirkpatrick patents, used in the 'hammock' saddles now so generally on such machines, being the principal ones. These patents are among the leading ones in bicycle construction, and all the makers, importers and dealers in these machines have recognized the validity and scope of these patents, and are doing business by license under them, the particular forms in which they are made varying somewhat, of course. Only two of these patents had been litigated before. The court has now decided that the Shire, Wallace and Kirkpatrick patents are void for want of novelty as to the particular claims under which the defendants are sued, and that the defendants do not infringe the other patents.

Thus the decision was a most sweeping one in favor of the defendants on every one of the many points of contract, estoppel, infringement and validity. As might be expected the complainants' counsel at once prayed for an appeal on every point in each of the cases to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the appeals have been allowed. This does not, therefore mark the end of the bicycle litigation which has become so vigorous; for not only will the decision of the Supreme Court be waited for but the Pope Mfg. Co. have two other suits pending, in which the bearing and saddle patents are involved; and of course the courts may not take the same view of them in other circuits. This is the first defeat the Pope Mfg. Co. has had, and as it has acquired a reputation for success in maintaining its patent rights almost as much as it has for the success of its Columbia Bicycles, it is not likely to let the matter rest without further and still more vigorous litigation. As several recent instances have shown, the Oleginous Seed case amongst others, that patentees defeated in the Circuit Courts frequently find their redress and some times hundreds of thousands of dollars damages after appeal to the Supreme Court, it is not likely that the bicycle trade will be much disturbed by this decision until the final resource has been exhausted. The case under notice may, however, lead our Eastern parties controlling patents to be wary in making license contracts, especially in the West."

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

THE EAGLE BICYCLE.

We present to our readers a cut of one of the latest things in wheels. It is the production of Mr. L. B. Gaylor of Stamford, Conn. The machine will be put upon the market this summer by the Eagle Bicycle Mfg. Co. of Stamford. A study of cut will show it to be practically an ordinary crank machine reversed. The machine will be built by one of the best manufacturers in the country, and will be strictly first-class in every way. Ball bearings all round. The prices will be about $125 to $135, according to size, finish, etc. In a letter describing the machine, Mr. Gaylor says: "It is in fact a rear-driving safety with cranks acting direct on the axle of the rear wheel without chains, levers, or extra friction of any kind. It can be ridden very rapidly, and as far as we have been able to test it has excelled the ordinary in speed. We ride it with ease up and down banks and over curbs and gutters that would be impossible on the ordinary. In hill climbing it is fully equal to any crank machine, and in coasting there is no safety, no matter how low, that will ride down a steeper grade than the Eagle."

Mr. Gaylor further says that the pattern and details of machine are practically settled, though there may be some minor changes in handles and pedals. Any further particulars or information in regard to the Eagle will be cheerfully given on addressing Mr. L. B. Gaylor, Stamford, Conn.

A CALL ON THE BUTCHER CYCLOMETER CO.

We dropped in to see Mr. Butcher, of the Butcher Cyclometer Co., the other day; we at once proceeded to interview the gentlemen as to the state of the cyclometer trade. In reply to our query as to how business was, Mr. Butcher replied: "Excellent. We have started on a new track, that is the furnishing cyclometers for safeties. As we are the only house that can furnish these safety cyclometers, the demand on our resources is very great. Not only are our individual orders very large, but most all the manufacturers and large dealers are placing big orders with us to furnish this new form of cyclometer." We observed to Mr. Butcher that we should make a note of this fact and let our readers know it. "By the way," continued Mr. Butcher, "I want to quote to you the wording of my patent dated June 16, 1883. It reads as follows: '* * a cyclometer having a dial plate, with holes for figures showing through plate in combination with index hand.' I notice that the 'Excelsior,' gotten out originally by F. Jenkins, and now manufactured by Gormully & Jeffery, has these features on which I hold exclusive patents." Mr. Butcher then produced a letter written by a man who lives within 1500 miles of the city of Boston. This modest youth stated in the letter that he had used the Butcher cyclometers for three years, and that through some unstated cause he was unable to make the screws hold that held the cyclometer together, hence frequent droppings of said cyclometer, and one drop was so disastrous that a horse car ran over it, and of course the cyclometer got the worst of it. The diffident chap said that he returned the remains (we saw them) and he would be satisfied if the Butcher Co. would return him a new one, free of cost!!! (italics ours). Now we submit that the Butcher people should have sent a man specially to X— to keep those screws in tight. We suggested that the diffident youth be invited on to Boston free of expense, and told to help himself. We profoundly admire this gentleman's quiet and sublime assurance. We feel sure that he cannot see anything out of the way in his modest (?) request!!!

We left Mr. Butcher, feeling glad that the boom had not forgotten to strike this firm, and that the year's business, so far, was all that could be desired.

A new candidate for wheelmen's notice is the "National" bicycle manufactured by the St. Nicolas Manufacturing Company of Chicago, and just introduced in the market by this firm. It has direct spokes, ball-bearings all around, ball pedals, cow horn handle-bar, and sells for $105.

The Springfield Roadster is getting to be a familiar type upon the roads about Boston. It is being pushed energetically, both by those who sell it and those who ride it, especially the latter.

W. A. RHODES last week, on a 52-pound Springfield Roadster, made a quarter mile at the reservoir in 32 seconds. Rhodes will pedal the Springfield Roadster during the coming season. The Wheel gives it that Berlo got away with Rhodes at the reservoir last week. This is not so. Every time that Rhodes and Berlo started even on the quarter mark Rhodes dusted him. It was only when Rhodes had been riding the whole circle at speed, Berlo waiting for him at the quarter-mile mark, that Berlo was able to lead Billy home. Not a very fair test. Berlo cannot hold Rhodes on an even race for any distance.

We saw at W. B. Everett & Co.'s an excellent stand for those who own rear-driving safeties. It is specially made as a ready means of supporting rear-driving safeties, an important feature being also introduced in the arrangement for locking the machine to the stand. This is done by means of the clip, which is hinged, and falling over the rim of the wheel is locked, thus preventing the machine from being removed. We were delighted to hear from Mr. Wm. L. Ross, the United States manager for the Singer cycles, that the sales this year exceed anything ever before experienced by this firm. Up to April 30, 1888, the increase is 65 per cent. over sales up to same time last year, "and we are still on the increase," said Mr. Ross.

FOREIGN MARSHAL, Joseph Punnell, care of S. S. Morgan, Old Broad St., London, England, can be applied to for information regarding roads and routes abroad by intending tourists. Always enclose stamp.

WITHIN a few days League members will receive a circular from the uniform contractors, giving all the particulars regarding the uniform, directions for self-measurement, etc.

REPRESENTATIVE ROBERT HOLM of the Missouri Division has prepared a "recruiting" circular, which sets forth the advantages of League membership, and urges riders of the wheel to unite themselves with the organization. It will be sent to every non-League man in the State, and we do not doubt it will prove an effective agent.

CYCLERS who ride on sidewalks do not meet with favor in Newton, Mass., for the blue-coated official pounces upon them, and they are required to contribute of their wealth to the county treasury. None but butterfly riders would object to such roads as Newton gives us, and it is well that the law brushes the down from their wings. Not all the road hogs drive horses.

WILL the tricycle be abandoned by the masculine for the dwarf safety and the feminine alone ride the three-wheeler? Such a state of things was prognosticated to us the other day by a dealer, who furthermore said that his firm had never made a dollar on tricycles. It is not to be doubted that the dwarf safety is coming in with a rush, but it will be a long day before gentlemen give up altogether the machine that requires one to sit still and pedal without thinking of the balance.

THE Massachusetts Division is to have a spring meeting. The announcement brings to mind a former event of this kind. Date and place for the meeting were fixed upon, and as there was a dinner to be provided those who were to be of the party were requested to notify the committee. Seventy-five notifications were received, but the committee knew that many would impose upon them and attend without sending notice and so they ordered dinner for one hundred and fifty. The day arrived and three hundred and fifty men reported. Result, hunger and complaint. The committee was condemned for the laches of the members. Moral, when you to such a meet are going, spare not the postal.

THE Chief Consul of Kentucky writes as follows: "We wheelmen out here in 'Old Kentucky' are glad to enjoy the privilege of using the roads without having a liberty bill to protect us. I believe we can defeat all bills that are introduced to injure us, but at the same time I believe we would not stand the least chance of passing a liberty bill. In the defeat of these bills we always work secretly so as not to arouse the horsemen and get them up in arms against us. I like to see these bills introduced, as it stirs up all the wheelmen and makes them work together."

I WANT to say right here that I cannot see how any members of the League, who have attended the "meets," can say that they do not get their money's worth out of the League. If it did not give us a better standing while touring (and I know it does), a good road-book, a good weekly paper, a "jolly good fellowship," better rates at hotels, on cars and on steamboats, protection and better laws, I would not begrudge a dollar for the fun alone at a meet. A young fellow from Washington, touring through here, told me that almost every fellow he questioned through New York State asked him the first thing if he had a road-book, and that had he not been a member of the League he would not have been received by many of the clubs. —Correspondent Wheel.

Call for Constitutional Convention.

Notice is hereby given to all members of the League of American Wheelmen that the conditions mentioned in Art. V. of the constitution have been complied with; and that at the date and place of coming annual meeting, there will be held a constitutional convention for the consideration of the report of the Committee on Re-organization, which report was presented to the Board at its meeting in New York in March, and by that body referred to a constitutional convention for consideration. T. J. KIRKPATRICK, President.

Massachusetts Spring Meet.

To all Cycling Clubs in Massachusetts:
The Committee on Spring Meet desire to communicate with every cycling club in this State, and for this purpose request the officers and members of clubs to see that a postal is sent to the undersigned with the name and location of club and the addresses of president, secretary and captain.
Will you kindly comply at once with this request?
Address: WM. H. EMERY, M. D., 177 Tremont street, Boston.
Boston, May 3, 1888.

Guide Posts.

To the members of the Massachusetts Division, L. A. W.:
The Committee on Guide Posts desiring to obtain the greatest benefit possible for wheelmen from the recent enacted law, which reads as follows: "And shall erect and maintain such guide posts at such forks or intersections of such highways and other ways as lead to adjoining towns and cities," would request wheelmen noticing a non-compliance with this law to at once notify Dr. Wm. H. Emery, 177 Tremont street, Boston, stating where guide posts should be and what directions should be thereon. Your committee will then communicate with the town or city, and cause such guide post to be erected. Next to good roads, guide posts are most important to wheelmen, and if you comply with this request, another season will see us enjoying the full benefits of the law, and more than compensate you for notifying the committee.

Baltimore, May 1, 1888.

One Mile Championships.

In accordance with precedent I have this day awarded the following National Championships to the Maryland Division to be run at the National Meet. The one mile Bicycle and the one mile Tricycle.
Yours fraternally,
GEORGE JONES, Chairman Racing Board.

Illinois Appointment.

Dunlap Hotel, Jacksonville, Ill., is hereby appointed L. A. W. Hotel. Regular rates $2.50; to L. A. W. $2.00. N. H. VAN SICKLEN, C. C.

Championship Assignments.

The Racing Board have made the following assignments of Championship races:
The five mile Bicycle race to California Division.
The two mile Bicycle race to Long Island Wheelmen at Brooklyn.
The one-half mile Bicycle race to New Castle Bicycle Club at New Castle, Pa.
GEORGE JONES, Chairman Racing Board.

Racing Board Appointment.

A. E. Mealy, Baltimore, Md., Chief Consul for Maryland, is hereby appointed a member of the Racing Board, and will at once assume the duties of said office.
T. J. KIRKPATRICK, President.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.
Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.
Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

OUR FAMOUS AND PATENTED RAMS-HORN BAR.

ORIGINAL AS IS OUR ENTIRE BICYCLE.

Port Huron, Mich., April 14, 1888.
I much prefer the Rams-horn to the Spade handles. The Spades admit of but one attitude for the hand.
S. A. WOOD.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
In regard to the relative merits of the Spade handles, and Rams-horn Bar, I would say: that for hill climbing there is no comparison, the latter being far superior to the former, but for ordinary level road riding, one is perhaps as good as the other, and both are far better than any other form.
J. E. SEARLES.

HOENESVILLE, N. Y., April 18, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn bar for over a year, and think it the finest handle-bar out. For hill climbing, road riding and general hard work on a wheel, it beats them all.
R. M. PRANGEN.

PROVIDENCE, April 14, 1888.
In answer to your inquiry about Rams-horn and Spade Bars, we think the former preferable and better liked this way.
E. G. BILLINGS.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle-bar for one season, and have tested it thoroughly in road riding and hill climbing. I consider it the easiest bar made. It allows a person's arms to rest in their natural position by the side, and in continuous riding one can rest their body a great deal by allowing their weight to fall on the bar, which they cannot do on the Spade handle or Cow-horn Bar. As to hill climbing, it is very evident that the closer a person's arms are to the body, the more strength they have in them; consequently the Rams-horn handle has the advantage over the other makes in this respect. As to looks, it has been acknowledged by all with whom I have met to be the most graceful bar made.
C. M. JONES.

FLINT, Michigan, April 15, 1888.
They are more natural to reach than the Cow-horn bar and the Spade handle, and I also think that they are a very desirable handle-bar in coasting and hill climbing.
HARRY BRUGMAN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minnesota, April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle bar on my Light Champion since May 1887, and am highly pleased with it. I think that those who have given this bar a thorough trial will agree with me, when I say that it is one of the best bars on the market. Wishing you and the Rams-horn bar success.
H. J. PUTMAN.

RAY CITY, April 13, 1888.
You ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bars as compared with Spade handles. In reply I would say that while I have not used Spade handles very much yet I would prefer the Rams-horn handles as far as my experience goes. The mode of fastening the bar to the head which you use, gives a range of the whole circle in adjustments and permits of positions which the Spade does not allow. The Rams-horn bars, too, never hurt the fingers in stiff pulls at hill-climbing by slipping down and pinching in the angle of the handle. For speed, too, the Rams-horn bars by their capacity for low, forward adjustment are better than the Spade. For a good lift up a hill give me the Rams-horn every time. Then in mounting, whether by the step in the rear, the pedal mount, the side vault or the vault from the rear, the Rams-horn bars are superior by a great deal to the spades. These are some of the considerations which incline me to favor the Rams-horn bars, especially since you have served the handles on.
BURT ESTES HOWARD.

LYONS, KANSAS, April 12, 1888.
We think that the Rams-horn is far and away the best bar ever invented. It is stout and gives a greater leverage than any other style of bar. All of our customers who have tried this prefer it. Timid riders, many of them, object to it on the ground that in the case of an involuntary forward dismount, they are more apt to retain the rider in their fell embrace. We think that this is an error and that there is no more danger than with C. H. J. H. ERNEST.

WARREN, PA., April 12, 1888.
Concerning the Rams-horn handles, they are the finest handles ever seen in this town, or ever put on a wheel.
C. F. L. KINNEOR.

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 11, 1888.
In regard to our opinion of the Rams-horn bars, according to all of the riders, we think it a much better handle-bar than the spade. All the machines we sold so far this season, they have taken the Rams-horn bars in preference to the Spade, and all riders that are using them say that they are the best handle-bars they have ever used.
KRAFT & ADAMS.

DAYTON, OHIO, April 10, 1888.
Replying to your letter of April 9th regarding the Rams-horn handle bars, will state that we think they will become very popular after riders once get used to them. We find our customers are a little dubious at first, but after they have tried them, they invariably like them best. Only one of our customers has ever gone back to the Cow-horn and plain handles after trying the Rams-horn.
A. W. GUMP & CO.

PEORIA, ILL., April 11, 1888.
We are enthusiastic indeed over the Rams-horn bar as you will see by the send off we give it on page 6 of our catalogue. It is certainly far ahead of the Spade in every respect.
GEO. W. ROUSE & SON.

I have sold over fifty machines with the Rams-horn bars, and I have yet to see one broken or badly bent, or a rider who is in any way dissatisfied with them.
J. H. ISHAM.

I have ridden with both the Rams-horn and Spade handles, and I have never found anything equal to the Rams-horn in strength and comfort.
B. F. SPIRE.

I have ridden the Champion one season with Rams-horn bars. They are the strongest and most durable bar I ever handled; would prefer them to all others.
T. M. LYMAN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
I wish to express my satisfaction with the Rams-horn handle bars. I find them much more comfortable and stronger than any other that I have ridden with.
D. FRANK.

Let me add my testimony in favor of the Rams-horn bars. I have ridden all kinds including Spades, and find that the Rams-horn fitted with your perfect fit handles, suits me perfectly.
E. A. WODE.

KENOSHA, April 18, 1888.
Yours noted. Would say am well pleased with Rams-horn handles and think they are daisies.
C. A. DICKHANT.

CINCINNATI, April 18, 1888.
We find the Rams-horn bars almost a necessity on a bicycle now.
B. KITTREDGE ARMS CO.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN, April 11, 1888.
In your letter of the 9th you ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bar. It is positively the best bar ever put on a bicycle, to my knowledge, and if you can make them to fit any wheel I can sell a dozen here at once.
C. H. SMITH.

CHICAGO, April 17, 1888.
Having used Spade handles on my machine for a season, I was thoroughly convinced they were never to be superseded by any superior, but being persuaded to make a trial of Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar, I was surprised to see the superiority of them over the Spade handles. Hereafter I shall use only the Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar for my machine.
S. T. KIMBELL.

FLINT, MICHIGAN, April 15, 1888.
About one year ago I ordered a 50-inch American Light Champion with Rams-horn bars. I have ridden this same machine 3100 miles, having used it in my Eastern tour. I now want to give you my opinion of what I consider one of the greatest inventions ever gotten out for a Bicycle, viz: The Rams-horn bar. I have found it far superior to the Spade, although I thought, after using the latter nearly two seasons that they had no equal, and only tried your famous bar as an experiment, a happy one it was too. Its advantages over the Spade as I have found them, are, viz: Less liable to break when falling sideways. Easier to mount, by step, pedal, or vault, as they are within easy reach. Do not spread one's arms so far from the body as to tire the shoulders, when long in the saddle, convenient to get "legs over" when coasting, or taking a fall. Never chafe the hands at thumb joints. Better purchase and consequently greater power in hill-climbing. And many others that can only be appreciated by using them. During the time I used Spades it cost me $5.00 or $6.00 for repairs on them. I have not paid a cent for these. While I was touring many Wheelmen tried my machine, and the universal expression was, "Ain't those bars slick?" "Best I ever saw" etc. As for myself I would not go back to the Spades under any consideration, providing I could get Rams-horn.
J. ELMER PRATT.

P. S.—Think your perfect fit handles are going to be a great success—like them very much. J. P.

We will Fit this Justly Celebrated Bar to Any Well Known Make of Bicycle.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. “For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements.” 25 cents.

• • • It is the handsonest, the lightest; it is of the highest grade of steel; all the parts are drop-forged or cold rolled; there is not a casting about it; the steering-head is cylindrical, slightly tapered, and of new design; it has the strongest handle bar, attached in the simplest way; the felloes are all cold drawn seamless steel, recognized as the strongest and the most rigid; a positive locking device for steering-head set screw; tubular rear forks; and the improved Kirkpatrick saddle; it will carry any size and weight of rider over any kind of road, and do it for years, and then bring two-thirds of its price second hand. It is a genuine light roadster built for business.

ALL THE WAY

"From Manchester to the Pump!"

They had a Road Race out at St. Louis the other day, and the result in one respect, at least, was quite what should have been expected. That is, the first two men in—they both started from scratch, by the way—rode

Victor Bicycles

They are hard riders, those St. Louis boys, and this is what makes St. Louis such a "Victor town"—they must have the strongest machines because they ARE hard riders, they must have the best hill climbers, because that's where the hills live, they WILL have the lightest running machines because they are intelligent riders, and know things. Victors take the road races. Send for catalog, if you don't know all about them.

We do the largest retail clothing business in the country. We have only one plank in our platform: Reliable Clothing at the Least Prices.

How else could we have got the largest business? The fact speaks for the shrewdness of the American people and our fairness.

Isn't Uniform Clothing a little harder to make?

It couldn't be harder to make bicycling uniforms than railroad uniforms, military uniforms, band uniforms. Ask the largest and best companies in the country how Wanamaker & Brown do their work? Not a branch of our business is doubling itself faster than that of uniform making.

Besides, the National Association says we make the Best Bicycling Uniform. They gave the contract for goodness and doing it for less money.

THE W. C. B. JOCK STRAP.

This article is made especially for bicycle riders and gymnasts, and perfectly adapted for their use, being cool, light, elastic and very strong.

It prevents an ungraceful appearance when the wearer is dressed in tights, or in close-fitting pants.

It does not bind or cramp the person at any point, and can be worn all the time with comfort; in fact, the wearer does not feel it.

It can be washed when necessary without becoming stiff and harsh.

The net is made of pure silk, and is properly shaped to hold the parts in a comfortable position close to the body.

All the straps are elastic; no buckles are used; it may be worn next the skin.

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 18 MAY, 1888.

WE print elsewhere an appeal from Mr. A. G. Fisher, of New Haven, Conn., for aid to carry through the scheme of a cycle path from New Haven to New York, and we hope that the idea will take concrete form, that in the near future we may have the pleasure of chronicling its success. Mr. Fisher calls for aid from New York and Bridgeport. Will the riders of these two cities please respond?

OUR good friend of the Bicycling News is more than ever confident that Rowe and his claimed records are not as have been represented. We suppose there is no law preventing Bi. News from expressing an opinion. We have from time to time tried to show our British cousins how entirely wrong they were in the attitude they persist in maintaining that the officials and principals in those great achievements were either knaves or fools. All the talk in Christendom, we are afraid, will not change the position of the News on this question. Statements from what we consider reliable source seem to have no effect, News simply turns round and tells us in so many words that we lie, or that we are fools.
These are not charges that we relish. The fact that Rowe has been so easily disposed of by Howell is no argument that the Springfield records are bogus. It is very seldom that records are broken in a race, all these performances being done with only Father Time as a competitor. We must admit that Bi. News has treated all the visiting Americans with consideration and courtesy, but on the matter of these Springfield records the News is unreasonable and insulting.

JUST about four weeks from the date of this issue the Baltimore meet will be in full blast. We are pleased to notice that the indications point to a very large gathering. Certainly the Baltimore cyclists deserve to have the affair a success, they have given their time to it, and not only their time but they have put their hands down deep into their pockets, and furnished the wherewithal to pay for the entertainment of their visitors. From this time on, the readers should scan the news columns and the Official column of this paper, for the information of those contemplating a trip to Baltimore. It certainly should not be missed by any member who can make it convenient to go. We hope the Transportation Committee, and in fact all the committees will make it their business to give us all the facts and information at their command.
Next issue we shall devote much space to Baltimore, and what is to be seen there.

IOWA L. A. W. DIVISION MEET.

On the 29th and 30th of May the Iowa Division will hold their annual meet. Below we give the programme:

Tuesday, May 29. Morning—Arrivals; afternoon, Board meeting and special runs; evening, lantern parade; banquet.

Wednesday, May 30. 8.30 A. M., street parade; 9.30 A. M., run to Waterloo (7 miles) return for dinner; 2.00 P. M., races; evening, general good time, as may be suggested.

Races—Half mile race, best two in three—First prize, pair Victor pedals, given by the Overman Wheel Co., Boston; second prize, Lillibridge Saddle, given by the G. & J. Mfg. Co., Chicago. One mile race, best two in three—First prize, Lakin cyclometer, given by the Pope Mfg. Co., Boston; second prize, nickled Champion lamp, given by G. & J. Mfg. Co., Chicago. Two mile race, one heat—First prize, Excelsior cyclometer, given by G. & J. Mfg. Co., Chicago; second prize, enameled lamp. Half mile race for Cedar Falls Wheelmen—First prize, Butcher hub cyclometer, given by Springfield Roadster Co.; second prize, pair of spade handles. All entries must be in before 12 o'clock Wednesday. Hotel rates $1.50 per day, (regular rates $2.00.) at Commercial and Burr's Hotels.
One and one-third fare on all railroads in the state, subject to conditions as follows:

The passenger pays full fare on going to the meet, and secures a certificate at same time from the railroad agents. This certificate, on being signed by the proper official at the meet, becomes authority for sale of return ticket of same road at one-third fare.
When several lines are traversed by the cyclist, he must get a separate certificate from agent of each separate road.

CYCLERS, ATTENTION.

THE PROPOSED PATH FROM NEW HAVEN TO NEW YORK.

It gives us great pleasure to give space to the following letter and appeal from Mr. A. G. Fisher of New Haven, setting forth the proposed scheme of a cinder path from New Haven to New York City. He writes: "We have progressed as follows—we have started a subscription paper, and mean business; so, if the construction of such a path is a possibility, we shall have the path. I have been in correspondence with the builders of the only paths of this character in the country, Mr. Copeland of Binghamton, N. Y., and Mr. Ford of Holyoke, Mass. They both think the plan feasible, and though they both live in other states, they generously contribute toward the venture, an example I hope others will follow no matter what section of the country they may live in."

We propose to build the path three feet wide on the highway, and to be near the fence. We shall only build such a path where the road is not good. The average cost per mile for building will be about $50, with $25 additional per mile for cinder dressing. We earnestly appeal to all wheelmen, and especially those of Connecticut and New York City to put their names on our subscription paper.
All who desire to help along the good cause by substantial aid of money, and all who desire further information should address me as below. We want to hear from some good men at the New York City end, who will take hold of the scheme in that city and work it.
A good round sum ought to be raised there, as it would open up a country for seventy miles in a direction that is now practically closed to them. We also want help from Bridgeport, Conn. Will some wheelmen please volunteer to take hold there?

Yours truly,

A. G. FISHER,

27 Lyon street, New Haven, Conn.

[Will Mr. Fisher please keep us posted as to expected route, amounts of subscription, places where he needs help, etc., as we wish to do all we can to further this scheme.—Ed.]

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

THE musical and literary entertainment given by the Elizabeth Wheelmen, 10 May, was one of the most thoroughly enjoyable affairs ever engineered by the club. The "take" of the evening was J. S. Burdett, the famous humorist, whose rare phuncisms kept the audience in a continuous smiling humor. Mr. E. F. Potter opened the entertainment with a piano solo, and also furnished accompaniments for the singers. A soprano duet by Mrs. G. Carleton Brown and Mrs. H. C. Meeker, was beautifully sung. Mrs. Meeker also treated the audience to a fine rendition of one of Gounod's charming songs. Dr. Brown was to have played a flute obligato but was unable to do so on account of an accident to his instrument. Remaks were made by the Reverends O. A. Glazebrook and H. H. Oberly, both of whom are members of the club. After the exercises refreshments were served.

NEWARK will be well represented in the run of the combined clubs to the League meet.

THE cycling club of the Y. M. C. A. will run to Elizabeth Saturday (19th); Orange Valley, 21st; Caldwell, 24th; and Roseville, 26th.

A TWO-MILE bicycle race, handicap, will be one of the features of the games of the Staten Island Athletic Club at West New Brighton, 2 June.

ALL the teams for the road race are expected to be on the inter-club course this week, and in a few days some idea may be formed of the chances for a winning team.

DURING the past month $948.56 have been expended on the Orange roads for repairs. This leaves $6,824.84 still in the Street Committee's hands. Gas lamps will soon be put up through Freeman street, from Tompkins street to the Valley Road.

THE newly organized bowling team of the Hudson County Wheelmen won a decided victory in the first of a series of games with the team of the Harlem Wheelmen at Mott Haven, 9 May. The scores were, Hudson County Wheelmen, total 1385; Harlem Wheelmen, total 1475.

WEST ORANGE has appointed a Street Commissioner at a salary of $500 per year. The office will be filled by Mr. George Robinson, a gentleman who is not only posted on good roads and how to make them, but is also a firm believer in the fact that good roads are essential to the welfare of a town.

THE Orange Wanderers will not take part in the run of the combined clubs which starts from Newark for Baltimore, but will follow their own schedule, which calls for a start from their club house at 4 A. M., June 16, for a "century run" to Trenton, Philadelphia, Fairmount Park and out on the Lancaster pike.

THE team of four who will represent the Elizabeth Wheelmen in the road race, have not as yet been chosen, but will be selected from Caldwell, Bonnett, Gilbert, Pennell, Decker and Berry. Caldwell is doing excellent work, and his friends will not be surprised to see him finish way up among the leaders. Bonnett and Pennell are both riding faster this year than ever before, and the same is to be said of Gilbert.

ON Sunday (6th) a member of the Brooklyn Bi. Club, whose name I could not learn, received a bad throw on the "Mile Hill" on the upper end of the inter-club course. He was coasting, and his wheel striking a stone, he was thrown with terrible force on the Telford. He was taken to the South Orange Hotel, and after his injuries were attended to his friends started for home with him in a carriage. I have made every effort to find out the name of the unfortunate rider and the extent of his injuries, but have been unsuccessful. Can't "Wing-Foot" set our minds at ease.

THE Orange Chronicle says: "There is some danger that the cycling track at Roseville may be seriously injured. The Orange and Roseville athletic clubs are considering the advisability of covering it with cinders. Expert track makers give the opinion that cinders will not bind on the track unless it is entirely picked up and rolled, which would involve great expense. The cost of keeping the track in good shape would be only the wages of a care-taker, at say, $10 per week for the season of four months, a total of $175. The Orange Wanderers are trying to get enough assistance from outside sources to keep the track in shape. About forty of the active members of the Orange Athletic Club are wheelmen, while only a comparatively few are field sportsmen."

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THE New York State Improvement Association promises to become a most important organization, and its object should meet with the encouragement of everybody. Apropos of road improvement: A meeting of South Buffalo citizens was held an evening last week for the purpose of considering the advisability of improving the Abbotts' Corners plank road. This is one of the most important roads leading out of the city, and every means should be used in keeping it in a rideable condition.

THE Buffalos expect to have a large party to take the century run to Erie, Pa., Decoration Day.

THE Niagara Park bill is in great danger of being thrown over for lack of attention. This bill ought to interest the N. Y. S. I. Association, and cause them to lend a helping hand. Now then, all together!

THE Ramblers have had their moving day and are now quartered in their new rooms. A donation party is talked of, which may take place in the near future. The boys are ready to receive all donations; from a pin cushion to a club house and lot. Their first weekly club run was held last Wednesday and was largely attended.

ANOTHER bicycle club has made its appearance; they'll soon be as thick as flies in the summer time, which is all wrong. The two older clubs ought to be strengthened first, before any steps are taken to form another. There are about one thousand wheelmen in the city, enough for a half a dozen clubs, still, only one-quarter of them are club members. But, wait for the tournament, then see them fall in line.

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

THE stealing of bicycles has gotten to be a frequent occurrence here of late, and no wheel which is left out doors unlocked for any length of time is safe. The St. Louis Wheel Co. have had two wheels stolen within the past month. One of these wheels was rented to Mr. K. H. Wade, who left it in front of the Y. M. C. A. building, and when he came out it was gone. Until last Saturday no trace of it could be found, and it was then in the possession of a person who proved he had purchased it from an individual living on the South side. Percy Stone, Wade and others at once repaired to his residence and had him arrested, and the St. Louis Wheel Co. promise to make an example of him. The charge is grand larceny, and he will probably get the law's limits.

THE past month has been an unusually dry one in this locality, and the roads were very dry and rutty.

CONSUL IRWIN, of Louisiana, writes that wheeling is on a boom in his town, and that he expects to have a club formed there before the season closes.

JACK ROGERS, editor of the American Wheelman, has been seriously ill, having just come through a severe spell of malarial fever. This will account for the non-appearance of the Wheelman to date.

ARTHUR YOUNG, the once toughest of the toughs, is now rarely seen outside of the limits of Forest Park, where he employs most of his spare time in teaching some new converts the elements of bicycling. The only one of the old gang who keeps up his riding is Lindell Gordon.

By the time this reaches your readers, the Sunday School festival at the fair grounds will have taken place, and the bicycle races under the management of Messrs. Brewster and Stone will also have taken place. I hope this will prove the entering wedge for removing the embargo now enforced against wheelmen by the fair grounds management.

REPRESENTATIVE CAMERON, of St. Joe, has remitted Secretary-Treasurer Lewis a neat sum for the League fund. Consul Barney, of Joplin, sent in six hundred dollars as a contribution from the Joplin wheelmen. If any of the local wheelmen who wish to contribute have not got the time to deliver their contributions, will drop a postal to Chief Consul Brewster, the amount will be called for.

THE Cycle Club's lease expired May 1, and the club has not as yet found other quarters. The rooms on the Chestnut street side of the Natatorium will be utilized for other purposes, and they will surely have to vacate their present rooms in a short while. President Lucas stated that the committee had about settled on a house on Chestnut street near where the Ramblers had their quarters two years ago. This is about as good a location as it is possible to get, being within one block of the asphaltum on Pine street.

THE Missouri Division pamphlet has been distributed among all the unattached riders so far as known. Wheelmen who know of any riders eligible to membership who have not yet joined the League will confer a favor by sending their names and addresses to Robt. Holm, care of Anheuser-Busch B. A., so that a pamphlet can be mailed them. The pamphlets have also been placed at Simmon's, Meacham's and the St. Louis Wheel Co., and also at the Missouri and Cycle Clubs. If every present League member made it his business to secure one new member, our membership list would soon be where it ought to be.

TERRE HAUTE NOTES.

"HICKS."

EVERYTHING in the cycling line now at this burg centers on our coming race meet, which takes place on Decoration Day. The programme of twelve races which has been arranged will, it is expected, bring all the "Hoosier Hustlers" here, and a great time is expected. The Crawfordville scorchers will be here in force but will have to watch their laurels.

LAST Tuesday the Terre Haute Bicycle Club moved into its new quarters 317 1-2 Main street.

I IMAGINE I hear a howl rise up among Terre Haute wheelmen when the next WORLD-BULLETIN comes to hand. Every man will say, probably, "I wonder who is this chestnut who signs himself 'Hicks.'"

MR. J. J. JACKSON last week obtained a patent on his double-instantaneous-process-lightning-canine exterminator for dinkey men. Particulars can be had by dropping the genial Jacob a postal, giving your name and address on it.

A LITTLE bird (genus sparrow) told me this morning that our genial President and ex-Captain has been appointed Chief Consul for Hoosier-dom. Well, "Texas Jay," old man, I congratulate you, and hope you will make the position an honor to yourself, and a credit to the L. A. W.

ONE of the oddities or freaks I might say of this city in the cycle line is a big brawny son of Ethopia who rides an American Star. When he rides he always carries with him a pole about sixteen feet long to "keep off the daugs," as he states. He uses it much as a slack wire performer would, and he has the pole mount down to perfection. He is looked upon as a mascot, and one of the "coming men."

THE Terre Haute Bi. Club lays claim to the largest of hustlers in the country. First comes Ed Hulman, six feet 2 inches high, weighs 185 pounds. Edward has quite an enviable record as a stayer. Last year he entered fourteen races, and carried off first in every one of them. He is perhaps the fastest man in Indiana. Next in size comes Meissel, the 58 Victor man. He is a novice as yet, but great things are expected of him, as he has proven himself to be a cocker. Mike is six feet four inches high, and weighs 180 pounds. Last but not least comes "little Eddie" Smith. Edward is six feet five inches tall, and weighs 202 pounds. He has done nothing extraordinary as yet, but will bear some watching. Now show us your big men. Who can beat this team in size? Don't all speak at once.

PITTSBURG and VICINITY.

"DUQUESNE."

ALL wheelmen will regret to learn that Tony Newell's road-house on Forbes street has been turned over to a club, and the general public have to forego the pleasure of sampling "Tony's" good things.

THE East End Bulletin has started its wheel column again, and those who wish to get all the local news in a nut shell, should not fail to take it.

Go down in your pocket for the benefit of the new cycling and Athletic Association. Even if you do not race give for the good of the sport in general.

WOULD like to see some good men come out of the East and participate in the New Castle races. An elegant four-lap track and good prizes are scarce. Come out every one, and partake of New Castle's hospitality.

AT the present rate of progression the new bicycle track will not be completed before mid-summer. The trouble is that two or three men have all the work on their shoulders, and the rest stand round and look at them. Every one should give it a lift.

THE inane vaporings of a common place mediocrity do not reply to facts. L. A. W. 8261 now takes up the cudgel for Mr. Collin. The whole question is, did I make a misstatement when I said that he bent his pedal pins? In answer I would again say that he did, and it can be proved by men who were with him when it happened.

WOULD like to see Banker and Schwartz come together in a one-mile race. Each man thinks he can knock the other out in one round, and I'll back the pair to do more blowing than any two men of their size in the country. If the New Castle boys would get up a special race for the two, to be run off at their July 4 race meet, I think they would both enter; neither could very well back out, after talking so much.

THE East End Bulletin says: "'Duquesne,' in the BICYCLING WORLD last week, chronicles the fact of W. D. Banker riding Hazelwood hill with one dismount, as a remarkable feat. As will be seen by reference to last week's Bulletin, Wilbur Wright frequently climbs the hill in question, and does not consider it anything of a pull, either." In reply, would say that I did not "chronicle it as a remarkable feat," but merely gave publicity to Banker's claim, which was that he could ride the hill and that it was tough.

AWAY down in Sewickley they tell of a new rider who is a phenomenon. It is said that as he came down the big Sewickley creek hill a small colored boy caught the coiled saddle-spring and swung himself on to the step, whereupon the novice pulled out the throttle and carried the boy to the foot of sand hill (three miles) at such speed that he could not get off. It must truly have been a soul-barrowing scene to have watched the novice sweep majestically down Fair Oaks hill at such a gait, with the blanched face of the terrified Ethiopian peeping over his shoulder.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

THE management of the Queens Athletic Club offers one gold, one silver and one bronze medal for the best and second and third best records for one mile, made on their track, on any Saturday from May 2nd to June 16th, inclusive, between three o'clock and sunset; open to all amateurs; trials unlimited; L. A. W. rules.

Why don't the New York City Clubs send in some names for our great century run June 16th?

THE Kings County Wheelmen will hold a race meet on the 23d of June at the grounds of the B. A. A.

THE death is announced, on the 9th inst., of Mr. A. T. Powell, formerly First Lieutenant of the L. I. W.

A ONE-MILE bicycle race is down as one of the events at the coming athletic meeting of the Brooklyn Athletic Association, May 23d.

MR. E. H. CORSON, editor of the Star Advocate, was the first to send his name as a recruit, outside the original seventeen clubs, in the great century run.

THE Kings County Wheelmen's team for the interstate road race on Decoration Day will be, T. J. Hall, Jr., H. J. Hall, Jr., L. Wilson and W. C. Marion. Substitutes, Valentine and Morehead.

THE great amateur athletic meeting of the Rockaway Hunt Club takes place Saturday afternoon, the 12th, at their grounds at Cedarhurst, L. I. All the well-known amateurs about New York are entered as competitors, and although there are no bicycle races, there will, no doubt, be a large attendance of wheelmen, as the roads to the course are A1. Cedarhurst is reached by way of the Hempstead turnpike, turning South at Onderdonk's Corners, to the town of Laurence.

THE twenty-mile road race of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club was run off on the Irvington-Milburn course, on Saturday afternoon last. There were 5 starters—Schoefer, Waters, Borland, Todd and Spelman, and they finished in the order named. Schoefer finished with a good lead, with Waters and Borland close together. Time, 1h. 16 min. The prizes, in addition to giving the two leaders places on the club on Decoration Day, were a gold medal to the first and a silver medal to the second.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET"

THE musical and literary entertainment given by the Elizabeth Wheelmen, 10 May, was one of the most thoroughly enjoyable affairs ever engineered by the club. The "take" of the evening was J. S. Burdett, the famous humorist, whose rare phunnisms kept the audience in a continuous smiling humor. Mr. E. F. Potter opened the entertainment with a piano solo, and also furnished accompaniments for the singers. A soprano duet by Mrs. G. Carleton Brown and Mrs. H. C. Meeker, was beautifully sung. Mrs. Meeker also treated the audience to a fine rendition of one of Gounod's charming songs. Dr. Brown was to have played a flute obligato but was unable to do so on account of an accident to his instrument. Remaks were made by the Reverends O. A. Glazebrook and H. H. Oberly, both of whom are members of the club. After the exercises refreshments were served.

NEWARK will be well represented in the run of the combined clubs to the League meet.

THE cycling club of the Y. M. C. A. will run to Elizabeth Saturday (19th); Orange Valley, 21st; Caldwell, 24th; and Roseville, 26th.

A TWO-MILE bicycle race, handicap, will be one of the features of the games of the Staten Island Athletic Club at West New Brighton, 2 June.

ALL the teams for the road race are expected to be on the inter-club course this week, and in a few days some idea may be formed of the chances for a winning team.

DURING the past month $948.56 have been expended on the Orange roads for repairs. This leaves $6,824.84 still in the Street Committee's hands. Gas lamps will soon be put up through Freeman street, from Tompkins street to the Valley Road.

THE newly organized bowling team of the Hudson County Wheelmen won a decided victory in the first of a series of games with the team of the Harlem Wheelmen at Mott Haven, 9 May. The scores were, Hudson County Wheelmen, total 1385; Harlem Wheelmen, total 1475.

WEST ORANGE has appointed a Street Commissioner at a salary of $500 per year. The office will be filled by Mr. George Robinson, a gentleman who is not only posted on good roads and how to make them, but is also a firm believer in the fact that good roads are essential to the welfare of a town.

THE Orange Wanderers will not take part in the run of the combined clubs which starts from Newark for Baltimore, but will follow their own schedule, which calls for a start from their club house at 4 A. M., June 16, for a "century run" to Trenton, Philadelphia, Fairmount Park and out on the Lancaster pike.

THE team of four who will represent the Elizabeth Wheelmen in the road race, have not as yet been chosen, but will be selected from Caldwell, Bonnett, Gilbert, Pennell, Decker and Berry. Caldwell is doing excellent work, and his friends will not be surprised to see him finish way up among the leaders. Bonnett and Pennell are both riding faster this year than ever before, and the same is to be said of Gilbert.

ON Sunday (6th) a member of the Brooklyn Bi. Club, whose name I could not learn, received a bad throw on the "Mile Hill" on the upper end of the inter-club course. He was coasting, and his wheel striking a stone, he was thrown with terrible force on the Telford. He was taken to the South Orange Hotel, and after his injuries were attended to his friends started for home with him in a carriage. I have made every effort to find out the name of the unfortunate rider and the extent of his injuries, but have been unsuccessful. Can't "Wing-Foot" set our minds at ease.

THE Orange Chronicle says: "There is some danger that the cycling track at Roseville may be seriously injured. The Orange and Roseville athletic clubs are considering the advisability of covering it with cinders. Expert track makers give the opinion that cinders will not bind on the track unless it is entirely picked up and rolled, which would involve great expense. The cost of keeping the track in good shape would be only the wages of a care-taker, at say, $10 per week for the season of four months, a total of $175. The Orange Wanderers are trying to get enough assistance from outside sources to keep the track in shape. About forty of the active members of the Orange Athletic Club are wheelmen, while only a comparatively few are field sportsmen."

NEW ENGLAND.

THE Waltham (Mass.) cyclers are breaking through the crust and coming out to bask in the warm sunshine of a late spring. A. W. Hale, of that town, has challenged Victor Keuhne, of the same place, for a twenty-mile race for $50 a side. The Waltham Ramblers will hold some road races on Decoration Day; a 12 1-2-mile, a 5-mile, and a race once round the "McCurdy course." Anyone desiring to compete can communicate with M. H. Gilbert, H. Duddleton, Jr., or U. E. Sawyer, all of Waltham.

THE Cambridge (Mass.) Club have just completed a new wheel-room.

MERIDEN WHEEL CLUB are perfecting arrangements to hold a race meeting this season.

THE Cambridgeport Bicycle Club will attend the Massachusetts Division Meet in a body.

THE Hyde Park Ramblers are lonely; they would like to have that return shoot with the Warren Wheel Club.

THE roads between Middletown and Hartford, Conn., are in a very bad condition owing to the recent heavy rains.

THE Springfield Club celebrated its seventh anniversary last week Tuesday. Ducker has gone alas, but the club still lives.

LYNN says: "W. A. Rowe working in a shoe factory all winter, Dick Howell training on the path." That is "how it happened."

THE Northampton (Mass.) Wheel Club have extended an invitation to the Greenfield Club to visit them and dine with them at the "Norwood."

NEXT Sunday, the 20th, the Cambridgeport Club will hold their first century run of the season. Providence will be the turning objective point.

THE Cambridge Club desire to form a base ball nine, and will meet any other ambitious wheel club nine on the diamond in a friendly whacking match.

MR. and MRS. F. M. Linnell, of Roxbury, sail for England on the Umbria from New York on the 26th. They will make a tandem tour in England and on the continent.

THE Hyde Park Ramblers would like to play some bicycle club a game of base ball at the meet, Decoration Day, the Dorchester preferred. Address, P. O. Box 1045, Hyde Park, Mass.

THE Middletown (Conn.) wheel club held their second annual dinner at the McDonough House, Middletown, May 1st. Preceding the dinner, the annual meeting and election took place.

THE Jamaica Plain (Mass.) Cycle Club desire to foster an interest in club runs, and so it offers a medal to the member who attends the largest number of club runs during the coming season.

THE Providence party to visit Boston next week, will be the guests of Capt. Kendall of the Boston Club. Capt. Kendall will also be a guest of the Providence party—an exchange of courtesies!

THE Connecticut Division of the L. A. W. is probably not suffering from any misgivings as to the success of its road book venture. More than half the first edition was sold within three days after it was placed on the market, and a second edition was ordered within a week.

MEMORIAL DAY will be celebrated by the Cambridge Club in a tally-ho run to Blue Hill, Milton. Active on cycles, non-riders on the coach. A great many of the Cambridge Club men will, however, attend the Massachusetts Division meet at Riverside, L. A. W. Vice President Hayes being a member of that club.

WHEN the North Shore tourists were in Salem last fall, they spent an evening at the theatre and saw a play that was dramatized from Rider Haggard's "Dawn." The same play written and produced by a string company, will be produced at the Hollis Street Theatre, on Monday, May 28, and Manager Atkinson has invited the tourists to attend, a privilege which nearly all will avail themselves of.

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) wheelmen will visit this city next Monday. They will "rail it" to Hyde Park, there take wheel and do the suburbs of Dedham, Waltham and the Newtons. Dinner at the Clarendon on Tremont street; theatre party in the evening, and then home on the 11 P. M. train. Providence always does these kind of trips up brown.

THE Cambridgeport (Mass.) Club men cannot be called "butterflies," a little rain, more or less, does not deter them from starting on a club run if it has been called. After the tremendous rain of a week ago one would think that their Sunday run would have been abandoned. Not a bit of it, the few good and true started, and they aver that after the city limits were passed and country roads were reached the roads were fine, and we take their word for it.

WHAT a pleasant way to go to Baltimore by water! Yes, for New England members we cannot conceive of a nicer way to go; no dust, no heat, and no seasickness(???). Never mind if you are a bit off your feed for a day or so, it will do you good, and you can get even on lost meals when you arrive at Baltimore. All of the above is a sort of an introduction to the fact that the Merchants and Miners Transportation steamers will carry you to and from Baltimore at reduced rates. See their advertisement on page 57.

THE route for the New Haven (Conn.) Bicycle Club's five-mile road race on Memorial Day will be over the East Haven and Morris Cove roads, and will extend from the boundary post beyond the Four Corners to the East Haven church, thence by the cross road to the Forbes house, and up the Cove road to the Four Corners. The finish will be near the Woodward schoolhouse. Several entries have been made, the date of the closing of entries being May 19.

MR. GEORGE B. THAYER, of Hartford, Conn., the gentleman who wrote "Pedal and Path," a book giving his experience of how he crossed the Continent and back on a bicycle, will sail for Europe June 9th. Two members of the Connecticut Club will accompany him. They will do Great Britain and then cross the Channel and wheel it over France, Germany and Switzerland. We wish we could join that party. Mr. Thayer is just the sort of a man we should like to tour with.

LAST Saturday we had our plans all fixed for a good day's outing, and a nice, light semi-racing trike was impatiently waiting for us to "mount and away." Alas, Jupiter Pluvius put a stop to our sweet schemes. Ye shades! how it did rain. Our mind involuntarily turned to the probabilities of the want of an ark, and we began to wonder for how long a time we could swim. We are pleased to say a second deluge has been averted, and old Sol comes out smiling and warm to cheer our dampened ardor.

THE Hartford (Conn.) Wheel Club met last week and decided on the advisability of holding a tournament next fall. It is impossible now to say whether the tournament shall be for one or two days, as the dates of the Charter Oak Association's fall races are yet undetermined, and it is desired to follow these dates as closely as possible. From present indications, however, the dates may be September 12 and 13. Among the attractions will be the one-mile professional championship of America. If desired, the club may name three State championship races, viz., one mile, two miles and five miles. At least one of these events will occur, and possibly all.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

THE Irish Cyclist and Athlete seems to think we ought to be "sorry we spoke" and named W. A. Rowe as a winner over Howell. Why, forsooth should we be sorry? We backed him because we believed in him, and because we had a pride in our own man. We are sorry he is beaten but we are not "sorry we spoke." We think these series of races have proved that some men can ride like demons vs. time, but when they meet men of flesh, blood and pluck, whom they fear, the speed oozes right out of them. We are charitable enough to hope that Rowe will still regain his lost prestige when he regains his form.

As a whole, the British press is very fair with Rowe in treating on his recent defeats.

WE hope Rowe will show up to the front in his coming race with English on June 2d, at North Shields, England.

THE cycling map of Westchester Co., in the Connecticut Road Book will be of great practical value to New Yorkers, and also to New Englanders touring towards the Metropolis.

A WRITER informs us that the safety boom has struck Springfield, Ill., as fully 75 per cent. of the wheels sold are of the rear driving type.

IMPORTANT TO Every American Rider and Dealer.

NOTICE.

79 FRANKLIN ST., BOSTON, }
February 15, 1887. }

Gentlemen—We are advised that the machines known as "American Champion" Bicycles infringe certain letters-patent of ours, and as they are both made and sold without license from us, we have commenced suits against the makers.

We beg to notify you that the sale or use of said Bicycles by any other party is ALSO infringement, and that we shall take such legal proceedings as we may be advised by our counsel to take for the protection of our rights and the suppression of infringements, wherever such infringements occur.

Yours truly,

THE POPE MFG. CO.

This circular was issued for the purpose of intimidating riders from buying our machines, and agents from selling them.

We now beg to inform riders and dealers that there is NO DANGER, as Judges Gresham and Blodgett, of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois on April 30, 1888, decreed that NONE of the goods manufactured by us infringed ANY of their patents. We might further say that all our machines are manufactured under our own letters-patent, which have not yet been proved invalid.

Now that the horizon is clear so far as we are concerned, we shall be happy to furnish our entire line at short notice, as we are working over time and can do so. Our handsomely illustrated 64-page catalogue mailed on application.

Respectfully submitted,

THE Racing Board have awarded the half-mile National Championship to the Newcastle, (Pa.) club to be decided at their race meeting on July 4th.

HALSTED and Wells, of the Philadelphia (Pa.) Club, have invested in a racing tandem, on which they propose to show the way to the fast double men this season.

THE Veloce Club, of Bordeaux, France, will hold an exhibition of cycles and accessories, to last one week, from May 26 to June 4th. We believe this is the first thing of the kind ever attempted in France.

NEW YORKERS are much surprised at the defeat of Halsted by Schwartz, of Reading, Pa., at the meeting in Wilmington held last week Thursday. The time, 3.06 1-2, does not indicate that it was a "cut-loose" race.

PHILADELPHIANS are happy over the fact that a fine Telford pavement is to be built from their city to Media, Delaware County. Bids for the work have already been awarded, and the work will be pushed to the utmost.

OUR manufacturers may not have to go to England for their steel tubing hereafter, as we understand that a firm backed by New England capital has started a factory in Findley, O., to produce steel tubing under the Kellogg patents. The concern will have a capital of $4,000,000.

THE mileage of the New York Bicycle Club foots up 6668 since the 1st. of January to 1st. May. The total mileage for month of April is 4220 miles. M. M. Marshall stands at the head for April, with a record of 644 miles for that month. Edel Genovese has ridden 1000 since the 1st. January.

JOHN A. WELLS has been doing some good work on Ford's Hill. He having broken the record and climbed that eminence 6 times without a dismount. This feat ought to raise his climbing abilities in the eyes of Mr. Greenwood. Will Mr. Wells please give us the grade and length of Ford's Hill?

THE first bicycle road race ever held in Southern California took place Saturday, April 28. The route was from Pasadena to Monrovia and return, a distance of 18 miles. The race was won by C. H. Andrews on an Expert, in the fair time of 1h. 15min. Mr. A. L. Atkins officiated as one of the judges.

THE country between Portland, Ore., and San Francisco, Cal., a distance of some 700 miles, is about to be traversed on bicycles for the first time, by Messrs. W. W. Daniel and D. Cushman, of Tacoma. They go via Mount Shasta, through a section unsurpassed for beautiful and wild scenery.

THE Lancaster, Pa., Bicycle Club will hold the races Saturday, June 9th. The programme is a good one, and includes the 1-2 mile Pa. Div. L. A. W. championship. Entrees close June 6. Entry fee 50 cents, returnable to starters. Address, C. H. Obrieter, Sec., Lancaster, Pa. Wheelmen are cordially invited.

DICK HOWELL is put down by an exchange as being in his 25th year. Our reference book states he was born March 18, 1868. We think both are wrong. Certainly Howell is over 21 years of age, and we think he is over thirty. Our record book should probably read he was born March 18, 1858. Will some English paper please give us correct age?

J. FRED. MIDGELEY, of the Springfield Bicycle Co., met with a nasty accident at Wilmington the other day. A hammer used by the athletes in throwing, was picked up by a careless man, and in throwing it, it hit Midgeley on the shoulder, causing a most painful bruise, cracking the shoulder bone, and of course, spoiling his chances in the races that were to follow next day.

THE Scottish Cyclist gets back at us hard on the "Lines on W. A. Rowe," published in a late issue of the WORLD. We quote part of the reply:

"Since th' above few lines were written,
Billy Rowe,
By Dick you again have been smitten;
It's no go.

After all the brag and bluster,
If more pace you cannot muster,
Why we'll back our fillbuster,
'Lummie,' 'gainst Rowe."

It is well to explain that "Lummie" above alluded to is Lumsden, the Scotch professional champion.

THE interference case of Jeffery vs. Copeland, No. 12,250, was decided on the 5th inst. in favor of Copeland. This was one case in the series of the suits between the Pope Manufacturing Company and Gormully & Jeffery, where the latter tried to break down the former's Copeland patent on a double steering head adjustment for bicycles, and is of considerable importance as sustaining that patent."—Herald.

THE GORMULLY & JEFFERY MFG. CO, CHICAGO, ILL.

Gentlemen—After considerable delay, the four 1888 Light Champions arrived all O. K. (four beauties). The customers are delighted. The two 50-inch machines were severely tested yesterday over thirty-three miles of the roughest roads imaginable; they were simply fearful. One continuous bump from the time we left our paved streets until we arrived on the paved streets of Springfield, our destination point. However, not a spoke, screw or nut became loose during the entire journey. Yours truly,

"JACK" DISCOURSES ON THE RIPLEY ROAD, "THE ANGEL," AND BICYCLES AND TANDEM FOR LADIES.

I HAVE been the recipient of much kindness on the Ripley Road, where I spent about a week pottering about the places of interest. The Angel at Thames Ditton is a very fine old specimen of the old roadside inn, and the hostess, Mrs. Ayres, is as kind and attentive as any woman could be. And the cooking! Why, man, its immense. Good plain food, and lots of it; and to sit down in the little parlor on a Sunday afternoon, and see the fellows dropping in. Good old Larette on his Olympia (which, by the way, he can move) and Mr. and Mrs. Smith on their Invincible tandem, on which they made their records; Harry Swindley, of the Cyclist, and Charley Liles and Freddy Cooper, with his dog trotting behind him; then there's Nairn, and Dr. Turner, and Gossett, and Ion Poole, and Langridge, the "butterfly" rider of the North Road Club, and that humorous "cuss," Tommy Moore, always thirsty and smiling, and a dozen or two well-known Ripley Road characters who turn up between the houses nearly every Sunday. And then there's a pretty girl at the "Angel," that seems as good as she's pretty.

Then ten miles down (or up) the road at Ripley the good old sign of the "Anchor" is seen, with Harriet, the hostess, smiling welcome through the little window. Harriet and Ann Dibble remind me very much of the description of Libbie Shiels in Hogg's "Noctes Ambrosianae." The same good-natured faces and kindly attention; Harriet, good soul, is beloved by every wheelman that comes along, and no wonder. The ceiling in the "Anchor" is so low that it is perfectly easy to write your name on it in any place. In one of the parlors, a little red room, is a splendid old fire-place with a chimney seat. On the drapey some wag has, with large brass tacks, ticked out the date "1066," which, of course, is but the oak beams in the roof look as if the house was not much under 300 years old. The "Angel" and the "Anchor" are very "wet" places, but a man does not need to make a brewery or a distillery out of himself unless he's built that way.

One night at the "Anchor" I never shall forget. I had retired for the night and was dreaming the happy hours away, when I was awakened from slumber, and two weird figures in dishabille came tramping into the room bearing a picture of Little Red Riding Hood. They were laughing in a most extravagant fashion, and asked me if I had ever seen the picture before. A pretty question at one in the morning. Then they let the picture fly, glass and all. Well, you wake a man up and he is naturally very cross, but to be carressed with a glass picture is more than human nature could stand. They made a very rapid exit, and I shut my door and put a chair against it, and sat on the chair. Suddenly down the passage way again comes the foe, this time bearing a large tin sponge-bath, which they thump with much vigor. This they use as a battering ram. Then angry words from my side of the door, and great peals of hideous laughter from the outside; more noise of tin and cat calls. A commercial traveller in an adjoining room was nearly frightened to death, as he thought murder most foul was being perpetrated. All this in the "wee sma' hours." At last, poor comes down the passage and routs the enemy, who flee, leaving the large tin bath behind, and the passage strewn with clothing. One of the attacking party was over fifty, and the other was a young fellow learning farming—both C. T. C. men. Such another night? Not any. Then apologies in the morning ad nauseum.

I had the pleasure of seeing a lady in company with a gentleman on a tandem safety on the Ely Road a few days ago. Notwithstanding a very deep seated prejudice on my part to seeing a woman seated on a two-wheeler, I must, in all honesty, confess that there was nothing unwomanly in the attitude. On the contrary, she looked very graceful, and they were going at twelve-miles-an-hour pace, with apparently but little exertion. Of course, the hoodlum element would be very much taken with the novelty of a woman on two wheels, and would be apt to make the remarks which characterize the cad who is never pleased unless he airs his ignorance in a tone of voice sufficiently loud to be heard by the subject of his criticism.

I have felt this very acutely when out on a tandem with a lady friend. You cannot say anything to the cads because there is a woman in your charge, and the discussions which would most naturally follow, would be of a nature hardly calculated to elevate, and the cads know this fact only too well. The Crippler tandems seem to be a failure. I think that a trailing tandem is always preferable; but a Crippler single, always, with the seat well back from the work, not over it.

THE GREATEST MISTAKE I KNOW OF

and which is persisted in to a wonderful extent, is putting a seat directly over the work. You never saw a rider of any consequence who did not sit with his seat well back, on any type of machine. You see in a tandem the great difficulty is to distribute the weights properly. And I have an idea that it is much easier to trail a wheel (in tandems) than to push it. Try your finger on the table; you will find that you can trail it much easier than push it. Well, if there's anything in this idea, then probably the same holds good in regard to wheels.

I've got something good in pedals (for safeties), and when I come back to the States I'm going to surprise you. It is not quite my own idea, but then—

A FEW NOTES TRADEWISE.

We took a flying trip among the Boston trade the other day, and gathered in a few points as to the trade and what they were doing. The first place we struck was and so at No. 79 Franklin street we went right up into the sales-room and there found Mr. Lienhard. He was engaged with a customer at first, so we amused ourselves by inspecting the new Surprise tricycle. We have in a former number described this machine in full, and so now what we need in order to give an intelligent opinion is a trial on the road; we were promised this favor at an early date. It looks as if it would propel easy, and if the steering and steadiness prove all that is claimed for it, it should be a successful machine. The Veloce safety has been already delivered to the tune of some 300, and orders still coming. In the 1888 pattern of light roadster the firm have aimed to embody the combined good points of the direct and tangent spoke systems. They claim they have done this, and from our limited mechanical knowledge, we should think they had succeeded admirably. An adjustable step is also a new feature. To remove the trouble arising from the loosening of the set screws of the head, a new system of duplex set screws and interlocking washers has been introduced, practical use has proved that the device is a success. The sale of tandems is good, and in fact the sale of all their large line is in advance of any season in the history of this pioneer and staunch American house. The capacity for production is large, yet the demand treads close on the heels of supply.

From there we travelled for No. 9 Cornhill, to see the

and the first man we saw there was Mr. Worden, who had just returned from a trip through New England. He starts for Maine next week, and will keep "a-going" till he strikes the Canada line. We learned from Mr. Worden that he had captured the "Union Hill" (Springfield, Mass.) record, having climbed that eminence five times without a dismount, and he wasn't fixed for it, either, as he wore a "plug" hat, an overcoat and long trousers, and for three ascents he carried an enormous cane. The "best previous" was made by that "little demon," Harradon. It is unnecessary to say that this feat places the Springfield Roadster "way up" as a hill climber. A few words with Mr. Yost as to the general run of business, brought forth the remark that their resources were tested to the utmost in order to meet the demand for their wheels. We then tripped along over to

WM. READ & SONS.

We did not find Mr. Read, as that gentleman was up on Beacon Hill, looking after the interests of the Commonwealth. We found

Atwell and Porter, and we made the former dance an exaggerated Highland fling by stating that we "wanted an Ivel right away." "We have a large consignment on the way," said Mr. A., "but alas it will not fill our orders that we now have, and goodness knows when we shall catch up." "How's the New Mail?" we asked. "O. K.," said Mr. Atwell, "we are shipping fast, but, thank goodness, we can fill orders on that wheel, though our sales are crowding our producing capacity pretty close." Just then Mr. Porter came up stairs with a hand full of new orders for Ivels and Mails, and so we left and headed for

THE OVERMAN CO.

There we found Mr. Theo. Rothe in charge of the salesroom, and we had a very pleasant chat on the sport in general and the trade of the Overman Co. in particular. It was the same old story here. "Cannot get safeties quick enough!" and even while this sad fact was echoing in our ear two men came in to see if they could get safeties. Mr. Will Overman came to the rescue, and said that if urging, telegraphing and working at the factory day and night would accomplish anything, then something would be accomplished. This is a fact that the factory at Chicopee Falls is whanging away day and night trying to catch up "with the procession" of orders ahead. It is only a step from here to

and so on we went. It is always a pleasure to step into the Coventry store as everything is so ship-shape and nicely kept. A splendid stock of bicycles, tricycles, both double and single greets the eye. Mr. Stevens, the United States manager, came out of his office and we at once began to pump him as to trade. Never since the Coventry Machinists' Co. has been in this country has trade been so good and especially is the demand for safeties (the same old story) and tricycles been rushing. Mr. Stevens was even then superintending the shipment of one order for ten Marlboro' Club tricycles. Mr. Hill is in Western New York, and he is booming business for the "Coventry Machinists'" goods in a way they were never before boomed. We were shown the new four-bearing tandem, and a very handsome machine it appeared to be. We were also promised a ride on one of their special light Marlboro' tricycles, our impressions of which we shall give. We then stepped into No. 243 to see how were progressing. Mr. Murray was out of town, but the young man in charge stated that they had disposed of every Light Champion that they had, but that he was hourly expecting notice that a large invoice was waiting for them at the depot. "Our sales have increased greatly since we opened on the avenue, and as soon as we get machines fast enough we will have a splendid trade. We also have quite a number of enquiries for the Rambler rear-driving safety, a shipment of which we hope to get in a few days." So said the salesman, and he further said that the business of hiring promised to be excellent, "if we can only get some good weather." We then made tracks for W. B. Everett & Co. to find out what the

MURRAY AND GORMULLY & JEFFERY

had to say. "Come down stairs, and I will show you our enameling oven," said Mr. Ross. We demurred as we had vivid recollections of a certain explosion that took place there last winter. However, we summoned up courage and went down. It is a very inoffensive looking apparatus, but it came near "doing for" Messrs. Ross and Butcher. The oven was full of parts to be baked, and we saw some of the work done which is second to none other. Here again we ran across the oft-told tale of shortage on safeties. "We ordered," said Mr. Ross, "in the winter the same number of safeties that we disposed of last season. At this early time, we have not only disposed of as many as during all last season, but we have sold nearly 200 additional. The demand for these wheels is phenomenal. The demand for Apollo bicycles is larger this year by 50 per cent. than it was last; we have never seen such a time, and the future looks just as fair and bright." The stock sold by the home firm since February is over 3000 cycles, but they are able to keep up with the demand on account of large facilities. Large consignments are weekly being received in this country. We had a look at the new S. S. S. tandem, particulars of which appear in another place. We had a few words with Mr. Butcher, of the he, however, had nothing to add to what we printed last week.

ALL within your reach—a Springfield Roadster and a Fish adjustable saddle with tool bag equipped, for $75. Safe against headers, thus making coasting a pleasure, hills easily climbed, long distances without fatigue, in fact more for your money than ever offered by any one; investigate for yourself. **

IN JERSEY CITY.

"ORATION HALL." What rider in Newark does not know of this spot. Over four thousand novices have been "turned out" from this famous cycling land mark. On the corner we see the sign Howard A. Smith & Co., and on entering the store we find a large stock of cycles and cycles sundries of every description. Every available inch is utilized, and even we find the ceiling covered with hanging machines. That urbane looking gentleman in the back office, wearing glasses (the gentleman and not the office wears the glasses) is Howard A. Smith, and if he can't "let us in" on all "points" of the trade, no one can.

Mr. Smith is in a communicative mood to-day, and tells us that business is picking up at a lively rate. He has orders for all kind of mounts, to be delivered between now and the first of June. The firm has taken the agency for the Springfield Roadster and the machine is attracting great attention. Speaking of the so-called "safety craze" Mr. Smith said he could not understand where the "craze" came in. "Why," said he, "I don't have two inquiries a week for anything in the 'safety' line." He of course refers to the rear-driving "safety." On the matter of sundries Mr. Smith says that he is doing a slashing trade. He has about two thousand agents handling his goods. An especially big run has been made on his "Standard" glove, made from genuine "buck," reinforced, and fastened across the back of the wrist. Adhesive tire tape is so well-known as an essential accessory as to need no recommendation. In the matter of stocking supporters your readers will be able to choose from a large assortment described on page 62, of this issue.

The "Standard" lubricating oil is selling well. The "Newark" enamel is rapidly coming to the front, and is not only used for cycles but is becoming a "household necessity." The best "anti-come-lose" in the market is undoubtedly the "Standard Rubber Cement, put up by this firm. For mending cuts in tires, splicing where it is necessary to reduce the size, and for plugging.

A handy tool is the "Spoke Grip" made and sold by this firm. It fits any size spoke, and, being made from drop steel forging, will last a lifetime. The "Newark" shoe, is the result of three years' experimenting with all kinds of foot-wear, on all kind of machines and roads, in all kinds of weather. It is hand-sewed, carefully lasted, and the stock the finest.

The "Boston" cap is a great favorite, and was originally placed on the market by this firm, and it has been copied by almost every house in the trade. The "Newark" cap is another great favorite, and orders are being received faster than they can be filled. The "Jersey Coat" sold by this firm, is made with a neat-fitting collar, and side pockets, it bears a close resemblance to the regulation cut coat. Mr. Smith states that the firm has secured the sole United States agency for the "Suspensory Pocket Attachment," for riding pants. This pocket does away entirely with the old style suspensory, which those who have worn the suspensory bandage for either comfort or necessity will greatly appreciate. The parts are supported with ease and comfort, without strain, and are carried naturally to one side, out of the way in riding, walking or in gymnasium practice. It isolates the parts from the person and thus avoids sweating and chafing from the movements in walking or riding. There are many points of excellence which will present themselves to the wearer. If a garment with this attachment is once worn, it will not be discarded. The pocket is put in any of the bicycle pants made by the firm at an additional price of 25 cents.

ROAD BOOK OF CONNECTICUT.

THROUGH the courtesy of Mr. C. G. Huntington, the compiler, we have received a copy of this road book. We can say without reserve that the book is really the only practical road book of a complete State ever gotten out. It is a bold departure from the ordinary method of guiding riders by printed directions. It directs the cyclist through the much more satisfactory medium of maps. These maps are drawn to a scale of two and one-half inches to the mile, showing with all ordinary geographical features, every road open to travel; the best available routes are marked in red ink, and the condition and grade of these roads are designated by figures and Roman numerals. Mr. C. G. Huntington, the compiler, has been two years accumulating data in order to present this book for the use of cyclists and horsemen. It should be seen to be appreciated, and we cannot conceive how any rider in Connecticut and New England can afford to be without a copy. We not only predict for this invaluable book a big sale among cyclists, but we think it will be bought and accepted as standard by the public at large. The price to L. A. W. members, $1.00, is ridiculously low considering the work, and the price, $1.50, to the general public ought to insure it a wide sale. As a model road book, we commend the Connecticut Road Book to all those contemplating a venture in this direction. For further information we refer to our advertising columns, and also to Mr. D. J. Post, Drawer 11, Hartford, Conn.

FROM BUFFALO ABOUT THE TOURNAMENT.

THE committee appointed to meet Mr. Ducker at the grounds of the International Fair Association, in regard to the building of the new cycle track to be used for the grand international tournament, have met and made arrangements. The work will be begun at once, and it is hoped to have same completed by June 10. The present judges' stand will be torn down and a new one built in its place, only fifty feet further back to allow of the bicycle track coming in between the trotting track and the judge's stand. The track will be built on a dead level, and a half mile in circumference; the ends will be a complete circle of 600 feet in diameter, while the back stretch will be an oval and the home stretch a straight, thus forming what will be, without a doubt, the best track in the world. The width of the track will be fifty feet on the home stretch, and twenty on the back. Buffalo not containing any suitable gravel to build it with, it is proposed to get the gravel out on the line of the Central road some twenty-six miles. The Fair Management say that they want the best or none at all, so there will be nothing left undone to make it the best. A steam roller will be used to roll the track, and a horse will not be allowed on it, or anything that will hurt it for fast racing. Mr. Ducker calculates that it will be nearly five seconds faster than Springfield, on account of its being on a dead level, and setting the fence back from the curb six feet will inspire confidence in the men, who will not fear a fall. Now, if the men who have wanted racing and the racing men themselves only come forward, this will be, without a doubt a grand affair, and one that will set Buffalo ahead of Springfield. Mr. Ducker informs us that the correspondence even now is very large, and shows that there is a great deal of pent up enthusiasm to be let loose the coming season. It is further hoped that the cycle exhibit will largely exceed that only successful one that America has ever held, the one at Boston in 1885, and to that end it behooves the dealers to be getting into shape, as the fair people expect not less than 300,000 visitors. Here is a chance that our dealers cannot afford to lose. The charge for space to them will be nominal, and those wishing any information on this point are advised to write Mr. Ducker at Buffalo, who has guaranteed to see that the bicycle manufacturers and dealers have a show in the grand exhibition. Should the grounds be in shape and the fences built so that a meeting could be held, there will, in all probability, be a "Pony Tournament" held on the Fourth of July. The fences are now all down, and some 600 men at work on the grounds getting them in shape. The buildings are going up as fast as human ingenuity will allow.

WASHINGTON LADIES' CYCLE CLUB.

I TRUST a few notes chronicling the doings of the lady cyclists' of Washington will be of interest to your readers, and so I venture to send the following. We have been rather quiet as far as road riding is concerned on account of the horrible condition of the roads and the uncertain weather.

The first week after the blizzard, however, we ventured out on the road, but after riding some three or four miles out of the city we were glad to turn our face homeward, as we found snow still remaining on the cross roads, one of which we took for a short cut. The riders, both "tandem," with a lady on the front, and the "ladies' bicycle" rode over most of these roads, though they were both soft and rough, the lady on the "tandem" never making a dismount, much to the delight of the lady herself and the chagrin of the other feminine riders of the party. Notwithstanding our experiences we arrived home much pleased with our "first road ride of the season," though our shoes and garments showed some traces of walking and evidences of District mud.

Last week two of our members on bicycles took a ride to the Soldiers' Home, all through the beautiful grounds and out into the surrounding country, covering in all some nine or ten miles. Several of our novices after taking in short distances, such as Arlington Heights and other places, ventured out to the famous "Cabin John Bridge" over roads covered for the most part with new metal. It would have been next to impossible for a lady to have ridden a tricycle, as we had to ride single file for miles in just a beaten track not more than ten or twelve inches wide; the other part of the road being so loose and rough as to compel a dismount when we had to cross it. With all the little difficulties this trip was pronounced the jolliest and most pleasant the participants had ever experienced. The distance covered was some twenty miles in all, and the ladies declared they were not as tired as one hour's tricycling would make them, even on our concrete streets.

Our Ladies' Bicycle Club is making good progress, and the riding school is thronged with the fair enthusiastic riders, both day and evening, and we are gaining new recruits daily, having many converts from the tricycle amongst them.

Even with the thermometer up in the nineties, the club's enthusiasts took another famous run, accompanied by ex-Captain Smith and his two brothers, to the Great Falls of the Potomac, scoring in this run, records for the W. C. C. lady riders, and also for the "Bicycles," as the roads were but little improved since our opening trip over part of them to the Bridge last week, from the Bridge to the Falls the roads were covered either with loose stone or sand, but all hands rode pluckily through. At a point about two miles beyond the Bridge we stopped near a pretty brook and partook of an excellent lunch, that the ladies had wisely provided to meet the extra demands on our appetites, which their road experience has taught them, would be made before we reached our destination. The viands having been demolished, and after enjoying the delicious breeze from the river for an hour or more, we resumed our ride, arriving at the Great Falls at 3 P. M. Cooling drinks, ablution and brushings soon made us feel comfortable, and then we crossed the rustic bridge to see the famous Falls, the roar of which we had heard some time before our eyes had discovered the same. A magnificent view of the Falls was obtained from the crest of a rock, and it was some time before we could tear ourselves away even though we knew that mine host had prepared an excellent dinner for us. We, however, found that hunger was stronger than the love of nature, and so we returned to the hotel and did justice to the meal. At five o'clock the order was given to mount and start for home, having some eighteen miles to ride. We crossed the lock in the canal and rode about a mile down the tow-path, passing other locks, and then came to the one we had to re-cross. This part of the trip we would have been compelled to omit if we had tricyclists in our party. This route led us through the most beautiful and picturesque part of our journey, though it compelled some walking to be done, we were well repaid. After reaching the road again, which we did at about six o'clock, we made good headway, stopping only at the several springs for a refreshing drink. We passed over "Cabin John's Bridge" at a rattling pace and made our return journey in three hours and twenty-five minutes, including all stops, which we think was very good time, considering the state of the roads, and the fact of having been out in the sun all day. We made in all some thirty-six miles, and were not so very tired considering the heat of the day and the small amount of road practice we have been able to get this season thus far. We were passed on the road by a party of the Capitol Club, and we afterwards saw the same party at the Falls. They seemed to be agreeably surprised to see us accomplish the task of such a ride over these roads of ours. Alas, if we could only boast of the roads as some of our Eastern friends do, you would hear from us oftener, and with greater results.

WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

Editor Bicycling World:—I am aware that it is not strictly following scriptural teachings to heed what we wear, but still I imagine this injunction merely applies to those whose thoughts run on raiment of fine linen. To the cyclist of the nineteenth century, I think that the question of what to wear is one of the greatest and most important and yet it is one that is comparatively thought little of by the average rider, little or no care is taken as to what character of garments covers his person so long as his machine has ball bearings and all the latest fittings and fads. This is all very well and very commendable, but if the cyclist of this country would only know that the very heart, the very key note and pith of personal comfort and health was embodied in one little word, there would be less sickness caused by careless dressing, overheating—and a hundred-fold more comfort. What is that word? Well, it is Wool. If the rider would really know what comfort is, let him eschew any garment that has a thread of cotton about it. Let the linings of the fabrics that cover him, from head to foot, be composed of Wool. Don't compromise by having the shirt, coat and knee breeches wool, and then destroy the effect by having these garments lined with linen or cotton, but in having your riding suit made, insist that all linings be also of a light woolen fabric. I know whereof I speak as I have had experience. I shall not go into these details at present until I know whether you consider this general hint worth printing. I am an enthusiast on this subject of wool, and I only hope that these few words may convert even one or two to seriously consider my advice before they order their summer riding suit.

LAMB'S WOOL.

[We are glad to hear from such as our correspondent, "Lamb's Wool." We know his theory is correct. We shall be pleased to hear from him again, and from others on this important subject.—Ed.]

Two rows of balls on each of its bearings, cow-horn shaped handle-bars, spade handles, single spring, Fish adjustable saddle, nickel trimmings, all for the moderate price of $100. Our motto—ride and let ride SPRINGFIELD ROADSTER 1888. **

HE WANTS HANDICAPS.

Editor Bicycling World:—Your paper has always been an advocate for some sort of reform in the method of running bicycle races so that the races would be more interesting. I do hope that Mr. Gerry Jones, our new Racing Board Secretary, will seriously turn his attention to this most important question. The latter part of the coming season promises to be one of particularly lively character in the racing world, and I, for one, should be very glad to see some method inaugurated and carried out that would make it possible to render loafing a thing of the past.

I must say I am in favor of handicapping, but this method, I admit, possesses great difficulty in getting at proper and satisfactory awards. In cases where races are "open to all," the system of handicapping only, would provide for the entrance of the fastest and slowest riders, giving the hare and the tortoise an equal chance. Heretofore there has been no possible inducement for me to enter a race with men of the Crist-Rich calibre, as my very best mile is only something under 2.48, but if I felt I could get a fair handicap on those men I would only be too glad to have a go at them. I know there are dozens who feel just as I do. They want a fair show with the "cracks," they do not want to be shoved off into the "flub" races, and yet that is all we moderately fast men have a chance in. It seems to me a system for handicapping could be inaugurated, whereby the entry should be accompanied by a statement (an affidavit, perhaps) giving the best time made in practice and in a race for the distance entered for. This statement or affidavit to be furnished to the management giving the race, and also at the same time a copy to be sent to the Chairman of the Racing Board, who should keep a perfect record of these for reference. This is my idea in rough, now, won't somebody complete and make further suggestions? I and many others want to see more handicap races than heretofore. This method will let in fellows like myself, who can sign themselves, "2M. 488."

PHILADELPHIA AND WILMINGTON RACES.

The threatening and rainy weather of Friday and Saturday had a very dampening effect on the races on Saturday afternoon, the 14th inst. At the spring races of the Athletic Association of the University of Pennsylvania, on the University grounds, Keen won the two-mile handicap bicycle race, in 7.47 1/2, with Fuller second. Keen was the scratch man. The two-mile bicycle race at the West Philadelphia grounds of the Y. M. C. A. was a fizzle, owing to the terrible condition of the track. W. W. Taxis gave up after making a mile, and the race was given to E. I. Halsted, of the Harlem Wheelmen. No time was taken. There were four contestants in the one-mile race at Swarthmore, in which Speakman pulled first, with Lightfoot second. Time, 3.19 1/5. This was Speakman's first public contest, and his time is 11 1/5 seconds below the previous Swarthmore record. He also won the two-mile bicycle, beating Mode, last year's champion, in 7.05 1/5, reducing the college record by 36 1/5 seconds. The races under the auspices of the Warren Athletic Club, at Wilmington, on the 10th inst., were a great success. The surprise of the meet was Halsted's defeat by Schwartz, of Reading, in the one-mile open; time, 3.06 1/2. Halsted was put down as a winner for this. Merrihew won both one and two mile handicaps, beating McDonald in the former, time, 3.27 1/5, and Dauphin in the latter, time, 7.34. The most important incident of the games was the breaking of the record for throwing the 16-pound hammer, by W. L. Condon, of North East, Md. Captain Fleming is desirous of hearing from the various members of the committee on the hill-climbing contest, for the medal offered by Kirk Brown, as soon as possible, in order that definite arrangements may be made for date, place and entries. The hill-climbing fever rages fiercely here, and for the while all of our riders are practicing on perpendicular exercises. Philadelphia, May 14, 1888. "ARIEL."

THE GREAT CENTURY.

NEW YORK TO PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 16, 1888.

IMPORTANT.—The time for ordering the silver mementos is extended to June 1st. Pederson is preparing the design, and it will be furnished only to those sending in the necessary cash to the Secretary by that date, and at least fifty must order them to warrant their manufacture. The price will be one dollar, or less, but has not been decided exactly. For the purpose of equalizing the different commands, each participant will receive a number, and where their own club officers are absent, will be assigned to the squad of one of the Captains of the original seventeen clubs who may be present. Club Secretaries are requested to send to the Secretary of the run as soon after the 11th of June as possible, complete lists of their members who will be present, weather and health permitting. The cost of the trip will depend entirely upon the individual needs and tastes of the men. The cost of the dinner at Trenton will be 75 cents. Out of town parties wishing their hotel arrangements in Newark made for them will please send word to that effect as possible to the Secretary. Newark is reached best by the D. L. and W. R. R., the Erie, or the Penn. R. R. from New York, the two former carrying wheels free. The L. A. W. hotel at Newark is the "Continental," close by the D. L. W. station, and there are several other good ones. The average pace of the run is calculated for about seven miles per hour. The start will be made as near to 4 A. M. as possible, June 16th, a short rest will be made at Plainfield, another at Summerville for rest and refreshment, and the party should arrive at Trenton about 2.30 P. M. for dinner at the Trenton House. One hour will be allowed for dinner, and the future route of the party will be decided by the state of the roads, whether to go down on the Pennsylvania side all the way, or only as far as Bristol, and then back across the river to Burlington, thence to Camden, and then by ferry to Philadelphia.

There is hardly a hill of consequence on the whole route, and as New Jersey is crossed by a network of railroads, a break-down would cause little inconvenience.

NOTICE OF CHANGE OF COMMAND.

Captain Freeman, of the Orange Wanderers, having declined the honor of the command of the run between Newark and Plainfield, I take pleasure in appointing to the vacancy thus made, Mr. L. A. Clarke, Captain of the Mercury Wheel Club, who, as Secretary of the run, is thoroughly conversant with its details. The command of the run from Trenton to Philadelphia is transferred from Captain Martin to Captain Crozer, of the Taunton Wheelmen, the latter being considered the more representative. FRANK L. C. MARTIN, Chairman. The Secretary's address is 25 Broad St., New York City.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

The interest now being taken in athletic sports throughout the country has led the Kingston Knitting Co. to cater especially to the various needs of athletes, in furnishing garments to those who appreciate good taste, comfort and durability in their outfit, and we are pleased to learn that this reliable firm are building up a fast increasing business in this specialty. Read their advertisement.

In reporting the expected reception to be given at Chicago to Clarkson and Kelly, the $20,000 battery of the Boston Base Ball Club, the telegram says: "The Chicago Club will honor the occasion by appearing in a new uniform, the handsomest and costliest ever worn on a ball field." The uniform alluded to was made by Holmes & Co., of Boston, and was furnished by them through Messrs. Spaulding Bros., of Chicago and New York.

For the Springfield roadster bicycle, offered by the John P. Lovell Arms Company, of this city, to the New England player having the largest batting percentage, Goodwin of the Salams is ahead, with a batting average of .467.

The North Adams (Mass.) Bicycle Club have received their grey jersey uniforms from Holmes & Co., Boston. The suits are made of strong knit goods and are very elastic and durable, while the color is such that they will show dust but little. The club will also have black suits of the same material, made by the same firm, but the greys will be worn chiefly on the road. Holmes & Co. are furnishing clubs all over the country with similar uniforms. These goods are standard, and wherever worn give eminent satisfaction. The Holmes Co. are an A1 firm, reliable and trustworthy in every respect, and worthy of the confidence of bicyclers generally.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

THE Connecticut Road-Book is out, and is meeting with popular favor, not only among cyclists but among all who travel on the roads of the State. The compiler has departed from the plan of road-book generally adopted by League workers, and has produced a number of maps on which the roads are shown and described. Each county is printed on a separate sheet, the scale of these maps being 2 1/2 mile to an inch. The maps are printed on tough linen paper, and all fold neatly into a book. For the convenience of tourists along the western border of the State and in the direction of New York city, an excellent map of Westchester county, N. Y., is added. Prefaced to the maps is practical information concerning the character of roads in the State, the law of the road, sketches of routes for riding or driving, a list of hotels and an index to the maps. Charles G. Huntington, of Hartford, is the compiler, and he has had the valuable assistance of W. T. Williams, of Norwich, who personally explored 1200 miles of roads east of the Connecticut river.

Officers' Meeting.

To the Board of Officers, L. A. W.: Gentlemen—Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Board of Officers will be held at Balti

THE S. S. S. TANDEM.

Above we give a cut of the latest pattern of Singers S. S. Tandem Tricycle. We examined the machine the other day, and were much impressed with its good qualities. It is a well-balanced machine, that is the front seat (on which the lady rides) is placed so well forward that there is no danger of the rear rider, no matter how heavy he may be, of tipping the front wheel up. The double steering and the double break is a grand good thing, as it enhances the safety of the machine. In some small particulars the above cut does not show the machine as it is. The front saddle post is set in a slot that allows of absolute perpendicular adjustment. The bridge that carries the four bearings is not of the last year's curved shape, it is straight. The patent axle and four bearing with two adjustment is retained. It is convertible to a single, but we cannot say that a perfect tandem ever made a perfect single. In cases of necessity, however, this is a feature that may be of value. Specifications. Size—30-inch side wheels, 7-8-inch tyres, 24-inch front wheel, 3-4-inch tyres. Speeded 52-inch (other speeding to order). Plated hubs, cranks, axle tubes, handle-bars, and fittings; remainder enamelled black.

more, Md., on Monday, June 18th, at 9 o'clock a. m. The place of meeting will be announced later.

Fraternally, T. J. KIRKPATRICK, President L. A. W. Springfield, Ohio, May 12, 1888.

Michigan Division Meeting.

The Board of Officers met April 23d in Detroit, and decided to have the annual meet at Grand Rapids, Saturday, August 11th. In view of the importance of the next meeting of the L. A. W. it was voted to send a delegate. Authority was also given the Consul to have printed at an expense of not over $15.00 an eight-page supplement of additions and corrections to the Road-book.

The Treasurer reported all debts paid and a balance of $14.00 on hand.

The Committee on Rights, through H. M. Snow, reported the satisfactory settlement of suits.

Fraternally, JUNIUS E. BEAL, Secretary-Treasurer Michigan Division.

Iowa Meet.

The annual spring meet of the Iowa Division will be held at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on May 20th and 30th. The programmes which are out give promise of a very enjoyable time for all who attend. The races will be run on a fine half-mile track, and the prizes should bring out a good field of riders.

An error occurs in the first prize in the one-mile race on the programme. It should read "Ritchie Magnetic Cyclometer by Pope Mung. Co." instead of "Lakin."

I trust that this may prove the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of wheelmen ever held in the State. Fraternally, ROBERT L. THOMPSON, C. C.

Kentucky Meet.

The annual meet of the Kentucky Division will be held at Covington on July 4th. ED. H. CRONINGER, C. C.

To Baltimore.

To the members of the Massachusetts Division, L. A. W.:

I have arranged the following means of transportation to the annual meet in Baltimore: I shall take charge of a party to leave Boston, Saturday, June 16th, at 6 p. m., by the Fall River Line, arriving in New York at 7.20 a. m. Transfer will then be made to Jersey City, and after breakfasting there we shall leave by the Pennsylvania railroad at 9.15, arriving in Baltimore at 2.05 p. m.

If a sufficient number join this party a special drawing-room car will be provided from Jersey City to Baltimore. The fare will be about $17 for the round trip, including stateroom each way on the boat. As this is a special rate under a particular plan it will be necessary for those intending to join this party to send me $10.30 for their tickets, etc., to Baltimore, the balance to be paid when returning. In order to secure staterooms, etc., it will be necessary for me to be advised by June 14 by those who intend going.

Those who intend taking bicycles will please notify me, and I will arrange for their transportation free. Tricycles cannot be taken, but the Baltimore and Norfolk Steamship Company (address below) will take them by steamer, leaving June 14th, for $2.00 each. Please let me know as soon as possible if you desire to join this party.

Another party will leave Boston by steamer on Thursday, June 14th, at 2 p. m., arriving in Baltimore Sunday at 8 a. m. Those that enjoy an ocean trip and have the time to spare, will find this a pleasant party to join. Fare to Baltimore will be $10, including meals, stateroom and free transportation of machines. For further particulars in regard to this party apply to Geo. E. Smalley, passenger agent, Baltimore and Norfolk Steamship Company, Central wharf, Boston. Members of the L. A. W. in the other New England States are cordially invited to join either party.

Yours fraternally, H. W. HAYES, 103 State street, Boston.

Attention, Southern Wheelmen.

Members of the League of American Wheelmen from Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, who contemplate attending the League meet in Baltimore, Md., on June 18th, 19th and 20th will please communicate at once with me for routes, fares and other information.

A special sleeper has been engaged to leave New Orleans on the night of June 15th, reaching Cincinnati on the night of the 16th in time to connect with the special train for Baltimore.

Berths will be engaged for those who will attend, and free transportation of wheels to and from Baltimore.

Texas members will arrive in New Orleans in time to take special car, leaving on 15th; Mississippi members will meet train in Meridian on the night of the 15th, and Alabama members will take train at points along the route on the night of the 15th and morning of 16th; Louisiana members will either meet train in Meridian on night of 15th, or start from New Orleans on evening of 15th.

The Queen and Crescent route has been selected, and the fare will be from New Orleans $28.75, and sleeper $7.50; $36.25 to Baltimore, and return trip, one-third fare, $9.00, and sleeper $7.50, making a total of the round trip from New Orleans, sleeper included, $53.30, points along the route cheaper in proportion to their proximity to Baltimore. Address all communications to HARRY A. HODGSON, Chief Consul La. Div., Representative Transportation Committee, 13 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

Michigan Road Book.

ROAD BOOK OF MICHIGAN (Official), with 1888 Supplement. Through route from Chicago to N. Y. City.

Sectional and general maps. Consuls, hotels, repair shops and points of interest. Flexible leather cover. Free to Division members joining before July 1; after that date, 25 cents extra. Price to L. A. W. members of other States, $1.00. Remit to J. E. Beal, Sec., Treas., Ann Arbor, Mich.

Missouri Hotel.

The new Windsor has been designated as the League Hotel for Monroe City, Mo. Regular rates $2.00 per day; to League members, $1.50 per day.

W. M. BREWSTER.

Amendments.

Editor of the Bulletin:

For the purpose of setting apart the Metropolitan District around New York City as a District Division, and also to establish direct suffrage for all the elective officers of the League (two matters which I have already discussed in a previous communication to the BULLETIN, published in April) I shall, at the Constitutional Convention in Baltimore, move the following amendments to the report of the Revision Committee. Change Sec. 1 of Art. XI to read:

For the purposes of local self-government there shall be first, State Divisions, composed of members residing in the several States of the United States of America, whenever the number so residing in any State shall be one hundred or more, with the exception that the counties of New York, Westchester, Kings, Queens, Suffolk and Richmond, in the State of New York, and the counties of Hudson, Essex and Union, in the State of New Jersey, shall be set apart as a separate State Division, to be called the Metropolitan Division; and second, of Territorial Divisions, constituted as prescribed in Sec. 3 of this Article.

Change Sec. 4 of Art. IV to read: Each Division may decide independently upon the manner in which elections shall be held within its limits, provided that no plan of election shall be adopted which shall abridge the right of each individual member to vote directly for League officers or for members of the National Assembly. Where no plan has been adopted by a Division, elections shall be by mail vote of the whole membership, and blanks to be sent out between the first and fifteenth days of July in each year by the Secretary of the League, who shall collect the expense thereof from the Division for whose account it has been incurred; the votes to be returned to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Division, and opened and canvassed in the presence of the Division Board of Officers, who shall hold a special meeting for that purpose on the first Monday after the 15th day of August.

Add new 5 as follows:

Each Division, State or Territorial shall be entitled to one delegate to the National Assembly for each two hundred members on its roll at the first day of July; and every member of the League shall have the right at the annual election, whether held in the manner described in the foregoing section, or under special rules established in the several Divisions, to vote directly for President, Vice-President and Secretary of the League, for Chief Consul and Vice-Consul of his Division, and for so many delegates to his Division as may be entitled to, except in the case of Divisions which may be divided into electoral districts, when no more delegates may be voted for in each district than the number duly apportioned to it.

Amend Sec. 1 of Art. VI, by striking out the words, "by the National Assembly, at the annual meeting," and substituting "by the general membership of the League, as provided in Art. IV, of this Constitution."

EDWARD J. SHIVER.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct. Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

OUR FAMOUS AND PATENTED RAMS-HORN BAR.

ORIGINAL AS IS OUR ENTIRE BICYCLE.

PORT HURON, Mich., April 14, 1888.
I much prefer the Rams-horn to the Spade handles. The Spades admit of but one attitude for the hand.
S. A. WOOD.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
In regard to the relative merits of the Spade handles, and Rams-horn Bar, I would say: that for hill climbing there is no comparison, the latter being far superior to the former, but for ordinary level road riding, one is perhaps as good as the other, and both are far better than any other form.
J. E. SEARLES.

HORNBELLSVILLE, N. Y., April 18, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn bar for over a year, and think it the finest handle-bar out. For hill climbing, road riding and general hard work on a wheel, it beats them all.
R. M. PRANGEN.

PROVIDENCE, April 14, 1888.
In answer to your inquiry about Rams-horn and Spade Bars, we think the former preferable and better liked this way.
E. G. BILLINGS.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle-bar for one season, and have tested it thoroughly in road riding and hill climbing. I consider it the easiest bar made. It allows a person's arms to rest in their natural position by the side, and in continuous riding one can rest their body a great deal by allowing their weight to fall on the bar, which they cannot do on the Spade handle or Cow-horn Bar. As to hill climbing, it is very evident that the closer a person's arms are to the body, the more strength they have in them; consequently the Rams-horn handle has the advantage over the other makes in this respect. As to looks, it has been acknowledged by all with whom I have met to be the most graceful bar made.
C. M. JONES.

FLINT, Michigan, April 15, 1888.
They are more natural to reach than the Cow-horn bar and the Spade handle, and I also think that they are a very desirable handle-bar in coasting and hill climbing.
HARRY BRIDGMAN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle bar on my Light Champion since May 1887, and am highly pleased with it. I think that those who have given this bar a thorough trial will agree with me, when I say that it is one of the best bars on the market. Wishing you and the Rams-horn bar success.
H. J. PUTMAN.

BAY CITY, April 13, 1888.
You ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bars as compared with Spade handles. In reply I would say that while I have not used Spade handles very much yet I would prefer the Rams-horn handles as far as my experience goes. The mode of fastening the bar to the head which you use, gives a range of the whole circle in adjustments and permits of positions which the Spade does not allow. The Rams-horn bars, too, never hurt the fingers in stiff pulls at hill-climbing by slipping down and pinching in the angle of the handle. For speed, too, the Rams-horn bars by their capacity for low, forward adjustment are better than the Spade. For a good lift up a hill give me the Rams-horn every time. Then in mounting, whether by the step in the rear, the pedal mount, the side vault or the vault from the rear, the Rams-horn bars are superior by a great deal to the spades. These are some of the considerations which incline me to favor the Rams-horn bars, especially since you have screened the handles on.
BETTER ESTES HOWARD.

LYONS, KANSAS, April 12, 1888.
We think that the Rams-horn is far and away the best bar ever invented. It is stout and gives a greater leverage than any other style of bar. All of our customers who have tried this prefer it. Timid riders, many of them, object to it on the ground that in the case of an involuntary forward dismount, they are more apt to retain the rider in their fold embrace. We think that this is an error and that there is no more danger than with C. H. bars.

J. H. ERNEST.

WARREN, PA., April 12, 1888.
Concerning the Rams-horn handles, they are the finest handles ever seen in this town, or ever put on a wheel.
C. F. L. KINNEOR.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11, 1888.
In regard to our opinion of the Rams-horn bars, according to all of the riders, we think it a much better handle-bar than the spade. All the machines we sold so far this season, they have taken the Rams-horn bars in preference to the Spade, and all riders that are using them say that they are the best handle-bars they have ever used.
KRAFT & ADAMS.

DAYTON, OHIO, April 10, 1888.
Replying to your letter of April 9th regarding the Rams-horn handle bars, will state that we think they will become very popular after riders once get used to them. We find our customers are a little dubious at first, but after they have tried them, they invariably like them the best. Only one of our customers has ever gone back to the Cow-horn and plain handles after trying the Rams-horn.
A. W. GUMP & CO.

PEORIA, ILL., April 11, 1888.
We are enthusiastic indeed over the Rams-horn bar as you will see by the send off we give it on page 6 of our catalogue. It is certainly far ahead of the Spade in every respect.
GEO. W. ROUSE & SON.

I have sold over fifty machines with the Rams-horn bars, and I have yet to see one broken or badly bent, or a rider who is in any way dissatisfied with them.
J. H. ISHAM.

I have ridden with both the Rams-horn and Spade handles, and I have never found anything equal to the Rams-horn in strength and comfort.
B. F. SPIRE.

I have ridden the Champion one season with Rams-horn bars. They are the strongest and most durable bar I ever handled; would prefer them to all others.
T. M. LYMAN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
I wish to express my satisfaction with the Rams-horn handle bars. I find them much more comfortable and stronger than any other that I have ridden with.
D. FRANK.

Let me add my testimony in favor of the Rams-horn bars. I have ridden all kinds including Spades, and find that the Rams-horn fitted with your perfect fit handles, suits me perfectly.
E. A. WODE.

Yours noted. Would say am well pleased with Rams-horn handles and think they are daisies.
C. A. DICKHART.

CINCINNATI, April 18, 1888.
We find the Rams-horn bars almost a necessity on a bicycle now.
B. KITTREDGE ARMS CO.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN, April 11, 1888.
In your letter of the 9th you ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bar. It is positively the best bar ever put on a bicycle, to my knowledge, and if you can make them to fit any wheel I can sell a dozen here at once.
C. H. SMITH.

CHICAGO, April 17, 1888.
Having used Spade handles on my machine for a season, I was thoroughly convinced they were never to be superseded by any superior, but being persuaded to make a trial of Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar, I was surprised to see the superiority of them over the Spade handles. Hereafter I shall use only the Gormully & Jeffery's Rams-horn handle-bar for my machine.
S. T. KIMBELL.

FLINT, MICHIGAN, April 15, 1888.
About one year ago I ordered a 56-inch American Light Champion with Rams-horn bars. I have ridden this same machine 3100 miles, having used it in my Eastern tour. I now want to give you my opinion of what I consider one of the greatest inventions ever gotten out for a Bicycle, viz: The Rams-horn bar. I have found it far superior to the Spade, although I thought, after using the latter nearly two seasons that they had no equal, and only tried your famous bar as an experiment, a happy one it was too. Its advantages over the Spade as I have found them, are, viz: Less liable to break when falling sideways. Easier to mount, by step, pedal, or vault, as they are within easy reach. Do not spread one's arms so far from the body as to tire the shoulders, when long in the saddle, convenient to get "legs over" when coasting, or taking a fall. Never chafe the hands at thumb joints. Better purchase and consequently greater power in hill-climbing. And many others that can only be appreciated by using them. During the time I used Spades it cost me $5.00 or $6.00 for repairs on them. I have not paid a cent for these. While I was touring many Wheelmen tried my machine, and the universal expression was, "Ain't those bars slick?" "Best I ever saw" etc. As for myself I would not go back to the Spades under any consideration, providing I could get Rams-horn.
J. ELMER PRATT.

P. S.—Think your perfect fit handles are going to be a great success—like them very much.
J. P.

We will Fit this Justly Celebrated Bar to Any Well Known Make of Bicycle.

"Z. & S." BUNDLE CARRIERS.

The Z. & S. Bundle Carrier, as shown in above cuts, have met with favor everywhere; they have been improved in appearance and strengthened where necessary, fastening on the backbone below the saddle, out of the way of mounting or dismounting, and at the same time keeping the weight of bundle or package well back of the center of large wheel, thereby avoiding the objections to carriers that have fastened to the handle bar, which interfere in coasting and make the Z. & S. "Z" is renowned for by the all heavy or bulky. The excellence of the Z. & S. "Z" is evidenced by the autographs of the world below, and is the only carrier that withstood the trip around the world.

Price, $1.50. If mailed, additional, 10 cents.

THE STANDARD GLOVE.

In the early days of Cycling we saw the necessity of having a good wearing Glove that would have no buttons or catches on the inside of the hand, and after four years experimenting we present the Standard Glove as embodying more good points than any other glove on the market. Made from genuine California buck, reinforced where the greatest wear comes, open fingers, fastened across the back of wrist (to avoid cutting the hand in case of a fall.)

ADHESIVE TIRE TAPE.

Adhesive tire tape was placed on the market in 1885, and has constantly grown in public favor until at present it is found in nearly every cyclist's tool-bag on this continent. With fancy riders it often happens that their tires loosen during the strain of an exhibition on the floor, but with a few turns of our Adhesive Tire Tape they are enabled to complete their exhibitions. The tape will last for months' continuous use: it will secure a tire for hundreds of miles of hard riding.

"Z. & S." STOCKING SUPPORTERS.

An article that meets the popular demand from wheelmen, lawn-tennis players and the public generally. The Z. & S.'s Supporters have been greatly improved, being made lighter with a better clasp at the stocking, thereby saving all wear on the pants, chafing the leg or tearing the stockings, and at the same time warranted not to "let go their hold" accidentally. These Supporters do away entirely with elastic bands, which bind upon the limbs and stop the circulation of the blood, causing numbness or swollen veins.

They are made so as to be worn beneath the flannel shirt, passing over the shoulders and down either leg. Adjustable for any size person.

Wheelmen particularly who have experienced the annoyance and discomfort of the stockings slowly but surely sliding down the leg while riding, will certainly appreciate them.

Price per pair, 65 cents.

BELT STOCKING SUPPORTERS.

With belt around the waist that allows of ample adjustment over the hips. Arranged for short or tall riders. Fitted with our patent fastener for holding to the stocking, being perfectly flat and simply impossible to chafe the leg or cut the knee-breeches, or wear out the stockings. They are exceedingly handy, universally adjustable, and, with our new patent catches for the stockings, we have found them to be the best belt supporter on the market. Warranted as represented or money refunded.

Price per pair, 50 cents.

HIP STOCKING SUPPORTERS.

These Supporters have probably had a more extended sale than any other. They are now made with the double safety-pin, for attaching to the shirt or drawers above the hip and extending down either leg, fastening to the stocking with the Improved Warren Safety Catch.

Price per pair, 35 cents.

(See Next Week's "World.")

STOCKINGS.

In order to meet the demand for a good, serviceable bicycle stocking, that would not chafe or make the feet tender, we have secured a fine lot with a

Linen Sole, Heel and Toe, which puts unequaled durability right where it is most needed. It will be seen at a glance that instead of a heavy worsted foot, we have here a nice, unbleached linen sole, heel and toe, no heavier than that of a common cotton hose, thereby making it the coolest hose there is in the market. The legs are full length, and are made of first-class, heavy worsted.

Price, - - per pair, $1.25.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents.

"POT AND KETTLE."

WHY should the Pot call the Kettle Black-ass?

Chicago, April 12, 1888.

Dear Sir:

Our clients, the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., an Illinois corporation, having its principal place of business at Chicago, Ill., are the owners of a large number of Letters Patent, relating to the manufacture of bicycles and tricycles in their principal parts. Among such Letters Patent are:

Letters Patent to John Smith, No. 194,421, relating to Ball Bearings, or anti-friction devices in wheel locomotion.

Letters Patent to Charles Duryea, No. 293,725, relating to saddles for bicycles, etc.

Two Letters Patent issued to Freeman Lillibridge, Nos. 294,645 and 337,171, relating to saddles for bicycles, etc.

We have what we believe to be sufficient proof to the effect that you are infringing each of the above identified Letters Patent, and the purpose of this communication is to demand of you a settlement and liquidation for the past infringement of such Patents, and if you desire to continue the employment of the inventions therein described and shown, to negotiate with you, a License Contract with suitable royalty assuring this end.

Very respectfully,

OFFIELD & TOWLE.

WE say nothing of the PURPOSE of sending THIS Notice. If you don't see the point, look at G. & J.'s adv. to others of May 11, 1888.

HOW DID THEY GET IT?

Many a contract is settled by a wink and a nod. Political interest sometimes proves a more potent friend than good work. We don't care for such helps to decide on good cloth and good work. A fair field and no favors.

Wanamaker & Brown are head of their trade on making Bicycling Uniforms. The National Association says so.

What influence had Wanamaker & Brown with it, that they got the contract for making the uniform?

Merit—straightforward merit and goodness and the price. Better arguments we don't want.

We're used to getting business by such means.

We've got the contract for uniforms for the greatest railroads in the country by that means. We make uniforms for the best military associations, cadet corps and military bands. It's a steadily enlarging stream with us—that uniform business.

The reason is the most natural one you could imagine. We know how to make everyday clothing the very best. We don't use our skill in one sort, and withhold it in another. We are at making the very best clothing the whole year round. For that reason we sell more of it. And for that reason we sell it for less.

Send us your Uniform order promptly. You'll get it promptly.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 25 MAY, 1888.

BALTIMORE takes up considerable of our space this issue, and we hope the perusing of our illustrated article on that city will be the means of awakening the liveliest interest in the meet, and secure a large attendance next June 18 to 20. It will prove one of most attractive meets of the long series.

SEVENTY entries for the coming road race at Chicago looks as if the days of road racing as a nuisance were close at hand. So long as the starters in a road race did not exceed a dozen, we were in favor of this branch of the sport. but when we hear of a probable field of seventy, we then think it is time to call a halt.

WE are pleased to notice that the Cyclist has concluded that "class racing," a method they have always opposed, is not so bad after all. The change in the views formerly held by our English contemporary on this subject is mainly due to the information given the editor by Mr. T. W. Eck. We quote from the article in question the portion that seems to have worked the change of heart: "From Mr. Eck's explanation we gather that in class racing the first man only, should the class time be beaten, is debarred from competing in races of that class in future. It is thus a system which makes it the especial business of the slowest men in the race to make the running just as fast as they know how, in order that they may, by making men who they know are able to beat them, and also the standard time, do so, and thus remove them from the class in which they are competing."

This really is practical working of class racing properly managed. Of course handicapping, if intelligently awarded, brings about the same satisfactory results, and we are not sure that if the latter system can be properly directed, that fast racing would be most likely to be the result. Our correspondent of last week who sent us a letter over the nom de plume of "2M. 48s.," seems to strike the popular chord. Something must be done in order to secure to the public races that will be exciting from pistol shot to the finishing line, and to this end we earnestly appeal to the Racing Board, that they take this question under serious consideration, so that our tournaments this season may be the unqualified successes that they should be. In connection with this question, we are pleased to notice that the races at Baltimore are largely handicaps, and we hope such care will be taken in the placing of men that it will encourage the Board to push on in the good work.

EVERY reader of the WORLD should now be making plans to be at Baltimore next month, and every rider should also pay attention to the advertisement of the Maryland Division, in which they present a scheme whereby you may become possessed of a valuable wheel. We commend this scheme to our readers from the fact that the motive is good, and the parties making it are gentlemen in whose good faith we have the utmost confidence. By all means read the prospectus and send in your subscriptions as per the advertisement.

ROWE WINS AND SO DOES TEMPLE.

(Cable.)

LONDON, May 23.—At Birmingham today Rowe won the one-mile bicycle championship in 2 minutes and 45 seconds. Temple won the one-mile handicap in 2 minutes and 44 seconds.

ROUTE FROM PHILADLPHIA TO BALTIMORE.

The best route to Baltimore and the one which will probably be taken by all of the Philadelphia clubs in their tour to the League meet is as follows: Between Philadelphia and Wilmington a choice of two routes is offered. The former is the shortest, being about thirty miles, but the road is in the main poor, while the latter is fifty miles, but is over exceptionally fine roads: Ride down Broad street to Moyamensing avenue, turn right to Point Breeze road, turn left to Tinnicum Island. At Lazaretto turn right to Moore's, then turn left to Ridley Creek, turn left to iron bridge, turn right to Chester, leaving Chester by the pike which leads direct to Wilmington, or take Lancaster Pike to Paoli, take left fork just above the railroad station to West Chester, leaving West Chester strike the Brandywine road to Chadd's Ford, leaving Chadd's Ford pass under railroad and turn right to double bridge with railroad beyond, after crossing turn left four miles from double bridge (after long hill at one and one-fourth miles), turn right up cinder hill and cross railroad to Kennett square, from which a pike leads direct to Wilmington, less than five mile distant. From Wilmington to Baltimore the following is by long odds the best route and was written out by Ex-Chief Consul Palmer: Down Market street, cross bridge on causeway one and one-half miles, very fine. After crossing second railroad, to causeway up slight hill, turn right on State road to Hare's corner, five and a half miles, good. Take path on right side when sandy. Continue on State road, through Red Lion, cross Delaware and Chesapeake canal, on Summit bridge, and five miles on to Middletown, twenty-five miles from Wilmington. Fine road, turn right in Middletown, cross railroad to Warwick, four and a half miles. Keep straight on for Cicilton, but when about one and a half miles out of Warwick turn right to Cicilton, six miles; turn left in Cicilton to Fredericktown, down steep hill to bridge, across Sassafras river to Georgetown, then on to Galena, five miles from Cicilton; turn right in Galena to Locust Grove, four and a half miles; straight through for Lynche's post-office, but when two miles out of Locust Grove turn right and on for Lynche's. When within about a quarter of a mile of Lynche's turn right, thus leaving Lynche's and the railroad on the left. Be careful not to take the road south of the railroad, as it is sand. Hanesville, seventeen miles from Locust Grove, is the next place; then on through Wills' crossroads to Tairlee, five miles; turn right to Tolchester Beach, six miles, and about sixty-eight miles from Wilmington. Take steamer to Baltimore, about twelve miles.

The above route has been comparatively unknown to Philadelphia riders, the route laid down in the Pennsylvania road book having been via the Baltimore pike, which, in places, is very poor. The greatest objection to the route above described, is that between Wilmington and Baltimore there is but one place, Middletown, where meals may be obtained, but riders could easily carry lunch with them when this objection is known to them.

KANSAS CITY.

"MENTOR."

The United Wheelmen of this city, Topeka Wheelmen, Ottawa Wheelmen, and the St. Joseph Ruralists' Bicycle Club have received and accepted invitations to spend the glorious Fourth of July in Leavenworth, the guests of the Leavenworth County Wheelmen. Leavenworth is a very pretty city, and is the seat of numerous historical events. Your correspondent is in receipt of a letter from Otto Wulfekuhler, Secretary-Treasurer of the Kansas Division, and it is worthy of perusal by wheelmen everywhere. It is as follows: "It is surprising to me to see only so few wheelmen here, for Leavenworth is noted for its fine drives, beautiful scenery and surroundings, of which first is Fort Leavenworth, three miles north, over a fine macadamized road, shaded by trees, and kept in order by the United States government. It is a lovely spot for sight-seers, a governmental city with its thousands of officers and soldiers, where is seen the glistening cannons, flying flags, clean kept quarters, fine large department and other buildings, cozy residences and a fine prison; and withal good drives all round. No grander views can be found anywhere. It has to be seen to be appreciated. Then south two miles is the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and Sailors, a spot so filled with living historical reminiscences that, in a brief space, justice cannot be done. Here the Brigadier-General, the Colonel, the Captain, the Lieutenant, and the private meet on a common level, in a good cozy home, and will pass their last years on earth in quietude and repose. It is one of the prettiest places on the continent, nearly the whole being a forest a few years ago, through which drives and pathways have been cut, and underbrush cleared away. Fine barracks, buildings and residences for the officers have been erected. Then three miles further, or five miles from town, over a fine macadamized road, the whole way, is the little burg of Lansing, where the Kansas State Penitentiary, containing over nine hundred prisoners at present, is situated. The prison is built out of rock and looks like some old castle in Europe. Then on west of Fort Leavenworth is the renowned Sheridan's Drive, on a ridge covered with trees about three hundred feet above the surrounding country. The drive is over three miles long, shady and curving in every direction, from which can be seen the Fort, City, Missouri, Missouri River, and country for miles on east and south, and green and yellow farms and pasture lands for miles and miles on the west. Besides our streets are in good condition and mostly level. The city now has over three miles of cedar block paving, and work is still going on. There is only one thing lacking in interest to cyclists, and that is a race track, which we hope to have in a few years. The flyers can let themselves out on our fine roads, which are as good as any race track, only not being in a circle."

The United Wheelmen have inaugurated Thursday evening runs about town.

E. E. MENGES & Co., agents for the Victor here, were burned out last Saturday (12), and a small stock of wheels were a total loss.

CHAS. C. CANDY, the Overman Wheel Company's Western representative, was in town last Saturday. The boys were asking where was Pulsifer, of Concordia, Kan., as he generally "bobs up serenely" whenever Candy is in town.

JACKSON COUNTY is to have good rock roads. The matter is being agitated, and it cannot fail to end in the desired result. Independence avenue to the Blue is to be graded and macadamized. The appropriation has been made, and work will be commenced at once. Other roads throughout the country will be macadamized very likely this season. The wheelmen say, let the good work go on.

NELSON E. HAYNES, Captain of the United Wheelmen, sent his wheel to the factory about a month ago, and in the meantime he has been disconsolate, and could not be comforted. To see a crowd of wheelmen spinning over town gave him the heartache. When it rained he was pleased, and when it was pleasant riding he was displeased. A few days ago his wheel came home, and the boys were happy to read the following legend written on the club black-board: "My wheel has come. I am in town. HAYNES."

REPRESENTATIVE H. P. STUART is eating off a mantelpiece these days. Last Sunday while coasting a hill, hands off, his wheel struck a raised paved street crossing, and the sudden rise was sufficient to make the wheel jump into the air with a terrific bound, and when it came down Harry failed to connect with the saddle. The result was he struck the pavement with a dull, sickening thud. Bicycling for a few weeks for him is a prohibited pleasure.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

would be this year if one of the Jersey clubs should get the cup. It would seem pretty hard luck for the K. C. W. to give it up after holding it so long. The members of the various club teams are to be seen on the road nearly every afternoon nowadays, in the vicinity of the Park, or on the Jericho Pike. I was much surprised to find myself the only cyclist down at Cedarhurst at the great Athletic Meeting on the 12th inst. More especially as the roads are some of the very best on the island. There is no track on the grounds fit for cycle racing, but I doubt whether its equal can be found for running or horse racing.

A FINE, new hotel is being erected at Oyster Bay.

A NUMBER of the Harlem Wheelmen passed through Flushing last Sunday, bound for Jericho.

THE K. C. W., L. I. W. and Brooklyn all had large delegations out at Orange and that vicinity on Sunday last.

MR. F. W. LINCOLN, of the Mercury Wheel Club, recently rode from East New York to Flushing without a dismount—the first on record.

CONCERNING the bad accident which was supposed to have happened to a member of the Brooklyn Bi. Club, on the Irvington course, a few Sundays ago, I have found that the injury was no worse than a sprained knee, and not at all serious in its nature.

MR. LINCOLN, of the Mercurys, has at last succeeded in cutting down the distance from Brooklyn to Flushing to about twelve miles, in almost a straight line, a saving of six miles. The complete route cannot yet be given in detail, but I hope to have it ready for publication next week.

THE Brooklyn Ladies' Tricycle Club now numbers fourteen members. The suit adopted is one of dark grey, with loose skirt, tight basque, and standing collar, on which are the letters "B. L. T. C." The club has runs every Wednesday and Saturday. One of the members rides a lady's bicycle, and makes even the boys hustle.

I HAVE it from a pretty reliable source that we may expect news of a reduction of rates on the L. I. R. R. before long, for the short runs. The rates for the long runs have never been excessive, and very few will kick at paying a just rate to or from Babylon or Patchogue. In this connection I should like to say that nothing that I have said derogatory of the officers of the L. I. R. R. applies to Superintendent Barton, a thorough gentleman, and one to whom I am indebted for many favors.

LATER—Since the above was written the news of the reduction of rates has come to hand. Bicycles will hereafter be carried on the L. I. R. R. at the following rates, viz: For 15 miles or less, 15 cents; for over 15 miles and less than 30 miles, 25 cents; over 30 miles, as at present. I hardly think there will any kicking at these prices. The wheelmen of the Metropolitan district owe their thanks to Mr. F. W. Nichols, of the Mercury Wheel Club, for the work which has brought about this result.

THE grounds of the Flushing Athletic Club are becoming celebrated as one of the model establishments of the Metropolitan district. They contain a five-lap track of cinder, a fine ball field, eight splendid tennis courts, a perfect gymnasium, a locker room with shower baths, etc., a ladies' club house, and a fine bowling alley with four alleys. The formal opening took place on Saturday, the 19th inst., and on May 24th, 25th, and 26th the annual spring tennis tournament for ladies and gentlemen's singles will be played, open to members of the U. S. Nat. L. T. Assoc. The grounds are very easy of access, especially to New York wheelmen, by the way of College Point, and, as the track will be in good order by that time, they will be welcome to arrange as many scrub races as they please.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

our Secretary and Treasurer, was instructed to inquire into the matter. If we don't have races here there will probably be some at St. Paul, but we want them here.

"GENTLEMAN JOHN," allow me to congratulate you on your change of nom de plume.

THE Minneapolis Bicycle Club men are anxiously waiting for their League suit. I don't blame them for wanting to look spruce as soon as possible.

THE cyclists here all thought that Rowe would surely "get there" ahead of Howell, but we were sadly mistaken. I think that after Rowe has been in England a short time, and gets used to the ways and weather, that he will show up better.

SEVERAL new names were handed in to the Minneapolis Bi. Club at their last meeting. Among them was C. L. Stacy, a little sawed-off fellow, who rides a 48-inch, but he can get over the road with the rest of them, as we have found out to our cost.

OUR famous Washington Rink has been turned into a roller toboggan slide. You get your insides jerked around, your supper settled, or unsettled (?), and get scared half to death if you are at all nervous. A one-half-mile ride for a five cent piece.

THE weather has been very bad for the last two weeks, but one day of sunshine, the rest of this period was employed by Jupiter Pluvius in making things very damp. With the west wind that we have now, the roads around in the suburbs will be all right in a couple of days, and then—!

GEORGE BARTLETT was having a brush with a horse driven to a light wagon on one of our pavements the other day, and had fallen in behind the wagon when the driver suddenly held up, consequently George took a header into the wagon, broke the seat and dash-board, and also very nearly knocked the man out. Neither were hurt. I guess the fellow will not try that trick any more; it costs too much.

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

READING wheelmen have been invited to take part in the hill-climbing contest for the medal offered by Kirk Brown, and when Wilhelm, Schwartz and Scheele—to say nothing of Smith—get to kicking the pedals up grade, some one has got to climb pretty lively if that medal is to stay in Philadelphia.

SUMMER jersey suits, matching the uniforms, are to be worn by both the Pennsylvania and Century clubs, and they will add greatly to the comfort of riding in hot weather.

WHERE is the Division meet to be held this year? No signs of life have yet appeared, although Scranton has been spoken of. What's the matter with Reading?

THE Pennsylvania Club Committee did a great thing as a "card" for the club when they secured the privilege of Montgomery avenue free to all "Pennsy" members. The right to the road for the entire season was purchased, and hereafter the silver keystone pays no toll.

SATURDAY, the 26th inst., is the date fixed for the club supper of the Pennsylvania Club, which will come off at Wayne, on the Lancaster pike. The Bellevue Hotel will, feed the party, and a large attendance is expected. A moonlight run will be a feature of the wind-up.

CLUB mileages are rolling up in this city. The Pennsylvanians report 7,056 1-2 miles up to May 1st. The Century Wheelmen give their total to same date as 14,876 1-2. Captain Fleming's mileage for the month alone was 1,074 3-4 miles, which is as much as the average rider rolls up in a whole season.

MR. H. B. HART has very kindly offered the use of his park rink as a place of storage for the wheels of the riders from New York and vicinity, after finishing up their century on the Lancaster pike, on June 16th. This offer will help us out very much, for to tell the truth, we would have been put to store the wheels safely, all the club houses being already taxed to their utmost capacity.

WILL my anonymous correspondent (who sent me a postal card correcting (?) my announcement of the changes in the officers of the Century Wheelmen) kindly notice that Mr. Bailey has resigned his office as First Lieutenant, Mr. McGlathery taking the position Mr. Collins retains the Second Lieutenantcy. As this is official I trust he will give himself no further uneasiness on the subject.

SEVEN members of the Philadelphia Bicycle Club have taken a house out at Bryn Mawr for the season, and will use the wheel in going to and from business. A couple of them are married, and the wives of these gentlemen (the ladies, by the way, are members of the club themselves) will manage the establishment, thus assuring solid comfort in addition to pleasure. It is astonishing how many club members are inquiring the exact location of the house, and it would not be at all surprising to hear of many an impromptu dance and supper, now that the married ladies can provide all that is necessary in the way of chaperons.

MESSRS. JACKSON, Gideon and Collins have been appointed by the Associated Cycling Clubs, at their meeting at the Germantown Club house last Tuesday evening, to represent the Association before the Highway Committee in Councils, when the ordinance for paving Broad street with asphalt is under consideration. A committee was also appointed to confer with the Pennsylvania Railroad officials with a view towards obtaining the transportation for bicycles when accompanied by owner. Messrs. Supplee, Wells and Hare are the gentlemen whose persuasive eloquence will, it is hoped, cause the obdurate Pennsylvania magnates to look at this important matter in its proper light.

THE twenty-mile record for the Lancaster pike was broken again on Thursday, this time by Merrihew and Dampman, of the Wilmington Wheel Club. When the Tryon cup was offered for competition in inter-club races last spring, a ten-mile course was laid off from a point below Overbrook to the foot of Devon Hill. The best time over this course has been made by John Fuller, of the Pennsylvania Club, who covered the distance in one hour eighteen minutes and forty-five seconds. Thursday, Dampman and Merrihew lowered it to one hour fifteen minutes twenty-eight and one-fifth seconds. They were accompanied at the start by Mr. John A. Wells and Lewis Hill on a tandem tricycle, who were also after the record, but fate, in the shape of a led horse with a long rope, was against these two gentlemen, and when said horse stretched himself all about in the road, they wisely concluded to steer for the fence, much to the detriment of the latter. They landed in the field beyond but fortunately were uninjured. The machine escaped with but comparatively slight damage. The horse still lives.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

W. B. BANKER, of Passaic, says the Passaic County Wheelmen and Athletic Association will begin work on the new club house very soon. Mr. Banker rode down to Oraton Hall and says a rideable road between Newark and Passaic would be a God-send, as at present cyclists have to take to the railroad for a portion of the distance. Although his club is not affiliated with the "Alphabetical Association," its members will be out to see the road race.

THE East Orange Road Committee has been authorized to have William street macadamized from Grove street to the Newark city line.

MONDAY, 28, the Orange Y. M. C. A. Cycling Club will run to Silver Lake; on Decoration Day they will start at 8.30 A. M. for Pompton Plains, and in the afternoon will witness the road race.

THE Hudson County Wheelmen feel very proud of their club rooms, which have been newly furnished. A schedule of distances from the club house to various points is being arranged, so members can complete their mileage without the aid of cyclometers.

MR. SAYRE, who in former years ran the Newark-Irvington stage line, will put his stages in commission again on Decoration Day, for the accommodation of friends of the road racers, and will at short intervals make trips between the Irvington hotel and the starting point of the race on the top of Hilton Hill.

My dear Mr. Wells, I'll take it all back in regard to your "trying Eagle Rock," as I simply quoted what I was told was "straight." Glad there's no harm done. But, didn't you inquire for letters at the Newark post-office on Sunday morning, 6 May? If not, it must have been some oder chap wid de same name.

THE Orange Wanderers will run to Elizabeth and Linden on the 26th, starting at 4 o'clock, and to Upper Montclair June 2d. At seven o'clock, the 28th, they will start for a jaunt around Roseville; 31st, Elmwood and East Orange; 4 June, Maplewood. On Decoration day they will start at 6.30 A. M. for Pine Brook, Morristown and Milburn, returning to Irvington in time for the road race.

THE Orange Athletic Club has definitely decided to keep the cycling track at Roseville in condition for this season. A running track will be provided for just inside of the cycling track. The first field games of the club will be given early in June, and one of the attractions will be a two-mile club race. It is hoped that one or two half-mile dashes, handicap, and a one-mile handicap will also be arranged for.

A SEVERE accident occurred to Ira Metcalf, of Orange, on Saturday, 19. He was coasting down the Park avenue hill, when his wheel struck a stone, and he took a header. He landed on his face and head, driving his teeth through his lips, receiving a severe scalp wound, and dislocating his shoulder. He was stunned for some time, and was removed to his home in a wagon. At latest accounts he was resting comfortably.

I NOTICED what can be taken as a neat (?) comparison in a recent issue of the Chicago Referee, which said the Manhattan Athletic might send either Kluge or Powers to England. Great Scott! can it be possible that the far-seeing "Verax" places these two riders on an equal footing as far as speed is concerned? Veraxtraordinary must be his perception if he does. (Mr. Editor, please "set" this last sentence in diamond, so it has to be read with a glass.)

THE monthly meeting of the Orange Wanderers was held on the 16th. An invitation from the Hudson County Wheelmen, asking the Wanderers to co-operate with them in holding a joint race meeting on the Roseville track early in June, was accepted, and Captain Freeman was authorized to make all necessary arrangements. Several revisions were made in the constitution. Dr. T. N. Gray was elected a member of the Executive Committee, vice Mrs. Fredricks, resigned.

THE Y. M. C. A. athletic grounds at old Union Park, corner Allegheny and Grant avenues, Allegheny City, opened on the 19th inst. Owing to lack of room they dispensed with the bicycle track. The grounds have been fenced and graded, and conveniences, such as lavatory and dressing rooms, provided. "Out-door sports have been arranged for, such as base ball, lawn tennis, throwing ball, running, jumping, quoits, etc., etc."

THE Beaver Valley Wheelmen will hold a race meet on Decoration Day, but may have either a road race or a hill-climbing contest.

SEVERAL months ago I asked for the grades of Federal street and Irwin's Hill. Mr. Lee will shortly level up Irwin's, but no one volunteers to survey Federal street.

By the way, it is queer that some of the local riders do not climb "Irwin's," there certainly are some men in the city who could climb it. It has been ridden by two Sewickley men.

HILL climbing seems to be all the go now. Lenz and Wright climbed 18th street, South Side, and McGowan and Seidell polished off Sylvan avenue; they are both good grades.

PRESENT prospects are that the new cycle track will not be completed for some time to come. The affairs of this organization seem to be in statu quo. Unless some one does some hustling, we'll have to wait another year for it.

ROAD Hogs are scarce in this section, but once in a while they turn up and make things lively. Mr. Corbit was coasting one of the Perryville grades "wide open," and hugging the right side of the road; he rounded a sharp bend and discovered a full-fledged Road Hog, who refused him room to pass. Result: Wheel badly battered, but the rider fortunately got off with a good shaking up. Mr. Corbit tried to get the name of the R. H., but his identity was concealed through the speediness of his horse.

NEW ENGLAND.
As we swung through Berkshire Hills last week, we noticed several large, round and elegant snow drifts, still lovingly lingering in the hollow and shady places. It made the cold chills run down our back, and it made the vision of soft summer zephyrs seem almost a Utopian dream. This view of the "beautiful," calls to mind the fact that we saw snow in the city of Boston, in the month of July, some three or four years ago, and so that we may not be put down as prevaricators, we would add said snow had drifted into an unused cellar, in a narrow street in the "North End," and then kept clean, white, and cold during half of the summer.

THE Hartford (Conn.) Wheel Club will "picnic" at Winsor on Decoration Day.

THE rumor that George Hendee would return to the path this season, seems to be without foundation.

THE Rutland, (Vt.) Bicycle Club is no more—Cause, bad roads and matrimony. Again we wonder why cycling and matrimony do not mix.

THE Berkshire County Wheelmen of Pittsfield, Mass., propose to hold their annual banquet at Pittsfield, some time this month, and arrangements are now being made.

THE Brookline, Mass., Bicycle Club takes its annual outing June 16th, 17th and 18th, and will make the run along the North Shore, passing through Beverly and Manchester.

NEW HAMPSHIRE and the League are to lose a good cyclist in the person of Mr. H. M. Bennett, who has served in the capacity of Chief Consul for that State for some time past.

THAT Howard P. Merrill has got back to Springfield, at his old post on the Union, is readily observed by the fact the Union is stirring up the dormant cycling interest in that city.

MESSRS. BICKNELL and Woodward, of Waltham, met with an accident while riding their tandem in Newton last week. Bicknell sprained his wrist, and the machine was made a wreck; hence much sorrow and gnashing of teeth.

MASSACHUSETTS members, please refer to the official columns for particulars of the Spring meet of the Division. Make a note of this. The date is May 30th. Captains of clubs should report to Dr. Kendall the exact number they expect to bring.

THE road commissioners of Brockton, Mass., have been doing a good piece of work this spring by macadamizing a portion of Broad street, between the corner and the depot. Now let them continue this kind of business for a few years, and we will have good streets.

ALFRED HALE and Victor Kuhn have arranged a twenty-five-mile match for $50 a side, to be run over the McCurdy course, starting in Waltham. The date fixed is May 30th; the hour of starting will be named later on. There is blood on the moon, so they say.

WANTED: A small boy with large muscular development, lots of patience, and chock full of discretion. Knowledge needed, only to be able to turn the crank of a cyclometer-attached bicycle that is standing on its head in my back yard. Address, Road Record Fiend, Podunk, Mass.

THE Springfield wheelmen will probably have a grand field day on the 30th. Great effort is being made to have a grand parade of riders, of both sexes, and then a picnic at Whitman's Grove, Agawam. Captain Eldred and Howard P. Merrill have the scheme in charge. It is hoped to have 300 riders in line.

OFFICER RYAN, of Newton, Mass., had Charles G. Musans and Walter M. Willett of Cambridge in court Tuesday afternoon for violation of the city ordinance in riding bicycles on sidewalks. They were each fined $3 and costs, and that is just as it should be. The roads of Newton are good enough for any bicyclist.

JAMES NORTH, a young man residing on South Main street, Hartford, Conn., broke his leg just above the ankle, last week, while riding his bicycle. The accident was a peculiar one, the young man being thrown while attempting to cross the tramway tracks. The fall was not a severe one, but he caught his foot in such a way as to break his leg.

THE road officers of the Jamaica Plain Cycle Club of Jamaica Plain, Mass., have offered a gold medal to the member attending the greatest number of club runs for the season. In order to receive same, the member must have attended at least two-thirds of the runs called. The medal is to be awarded at the next annual meeting in March.

HARRY L. HARVEY, who was arrested in Providence a few weeks ago for the larceny of bicycles in Malden and in Everett, and who is now in Cambridge jail awaiting the action of the Grand Jury, turns out to be a well-known criminal, having served two years in Dedham jail for breaking and entering, under the name of Richardson, and is said to have served in several other institutions.

A BRIDGEPORT, Conn., exchange says that "the wearing of long trousers and Derby hats, on club runs, is in poor taste and should be discouraged." We agree; but we should think the discomfort of the individual in riding thus dressed, would be "discouragement" enough. By the way, they have a "daddy longlegs" in Bridgeport, who bestrides a 62-inch bicycle.

OUR FAMOUS AND PATENTED RAMS-HORN BAR.

ORIGINAL AS IS OUR ENTIRE BICYCLE.

POET HURON, Mich, April 14, 1888.
I much prefer the Rams-horn to the Spade handles. The Spades admit of but one attitude for the hand.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 17, 1888.
In regard to the relative merits of the Spade handles, and Rams-horn Bar, I would say: that for hill climbing there is no comparison, the latter being far superior to the former, but for ordinary level road riding, one is perhaps as good as the other, and both are far better than any other form.

HORNELLVILLE, N. Y., April 18, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn bar for over a year, and think it the finest handle-bar out. For hill climbing, road riding and general hard work on a wheel, it beats them all.

PROVIDENCE, April 14, 1888.
In answer to your inquiry about Rams-horn and Spade bars, we think the former preferable and better liked this way.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle-bar for one season, and have tested it thoroughly in road riding and hill climbing. I consider it the easiest bar made. It allows a person's arms to rest in their natural position by the side, and in continuous riding one can rest their body a great deal by allowing their weight to fall on the bar, which they cannot do on the Spade handle or Cow-horn Bar. As to hill climbing, it is very evident that the closer a person's arms are to the body, the more strength they have in them; consequently the Rams-horn handle has the advantage over the other makes in this respect. As to looks, it has been acknowledged by all with whom I have met to be the most graceful bar made.

FLINT, Michigan, April 15, 1888.
They are more natural to reach than the Cow-horn bar and the Spade handle, and I also think that they are a very desirable handle-bar in coasting and hill climbing.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minnesota, April 16, 1888.
I have used the Rams-horn handle bar on my Light Champion since May 1887, and am highly pleased with it. I think that those who have given this bar a thorough trial will agree with me, when I say that it is one of the best bars on the market. Wishing you and the Rams-horn bar success.

BAY CITY, April 13, 1888.
You ask my opinion of the Rams-horn bars as compared with Spade handles. In reply I would say that while I have not used Spade handles very much yet I would prefer the Rams-horn handles as far as my experience goes. The mode of fastening the bar to the head which you use, gives a range of the whole circle in adjustments and permits of positions which the Spade does not allow. The Rams-horn bars, too, never hurt the fingers in stiff pulls at hill-climbing by slipping down and pinching in the angle of the handle. For speed, too, the Rams-horn bars by their capacity for low, forward adjustment are better than the Spade. For a good lift up a hill give me the Rams-horn every time. Then in mounting, whether by the step in the rear, the pedal mount, the side vault or the vault from the rear, the Rams-horn bars are superior by a great deal to the spades. These are some of the considerations which incline me to favor the Rams-horn bars, especially since you have served the handles on.

LYONS, KANSAS, April 12, 1888.
We think that the Rams-horn is far and away the best bar ever invented. It is stout and gives a greater leverage than any other style of bar. All of our customers who have tried this prefer it. Timid riders, many of them, object to it on the ground that in the case of an involuntary forward dismount, they are more apt to retain the rider in their fell embrace. We think that this is an error and that there is no more danger than with C. H. bars.

WARREN, PA., April 12, 1888.
Concerning the Rams-horn handles, they are the finest handles ever seen in this town, or ever put on a wheel.

LOUISVILLE, Ky, April 11, 1888.
In regard to our opinion of the Rams-horn bars, according to all of the riders, we think it a much better handle-bar than the spade. All the machines we sold so far this season, they have taken the Rams-horn bars in preference to the Spade, and all riders that are using them say that they are the best handle-bars they have ever used.

Let me add my testimony in favor of the Rams-horn bars. I have ridden all kinds including Spades, and find that the Rams-horn fitted with your perfect fit handles, suits me perfectly.

I have sold over fifty machines with the Rams-horn bars, and I have yet to see one broken or badly bent, or a rider who is in any way dissatisfied with them.

I have ridden with both the Rams-horn and Spade handles, and I have never found anything equal to the Rams-horn in strength and comfort.

I have ridden the Champion one season with Rams-horn bars. They are the strongest and most durable bar I ever handled; would prefer them to all others.

I wish to express my satisfaction with the Rams-horn handle bars. I find them much more comfortable and stronger than any other that I have ridden with.

W. B. EVERETT & CO., 6 and 8 Berkeley Street, . . . BOSTON.

'Tis true in this century, as of old, that if the mountain refuses to progress towards Mahomet, why, then the prophet must perforce proceed to the mountain. We are led to remark thereby, as we hear that the Springfield Bicycle Club have voted to hold their Fall Tournament at Buffalo on the dates of September 4, 6, and 8. A remarkable resolution, and one without precedent, we think?

FIVE members of the Cambridgeport Cycle Club participated in their century run to Providence last week. They arrived at twelve o'clock, and were cordially welcomed by Messrs. C. N. Tucker, F. N. Doule, and others of the Rhode Island Wheelmen. After visiting the principal place of interest, they started for home at three o'clock, arriving at nine o'clock; distance ridden, one hundred and six miles.

AT Chestnut Hill Reservoir last Thursday evening, a couple of fair damsels from Waltham captured a tandem tricycle. They mounted and started away full of joy and glee, but, alas, pride cometh before a fall, and in this instance the fall came d—q—. The pair were badly shaken up and went away sad and sorrowful, leaving the tandem and their joy and glee all in one little heap. The names are suppressed "by request."

CHARLES WHITWORTH, of Biddeford, Me., had a $40 horse and $135 bicycle. He keeps these in the same barn. The horse knocked the bicycle down and walked all over it. The bicycle is a wreck, the horse is O. K. Charles is mad and the air in the vicinity of Biddeford has had a sulphurous odor for the past few days. It is kind of tough to have a $40 horse do $135 worth of damage, and if we were Charles we should talk old English also.

AN ice machine has been invented by Mr. Joseph Heidorf; it is described as having a driving wheel 52 inches in diameter, with spurs on tires, furnishes the power; and this wheel is set in a huge skeleton frame of iron, with steel runners. The machine is propelled by cranks or by pedals. The rider sits on a seat on the driving wheel, in about the same position as riding a bicycle. There is a lever to raise or lower the driving wheel to any desired height; and brakes are provided that it may be stopped instantly when in motion. The propeller is six feet high, seven feet long and weighs 158 pounds. Mr. Heidorf says it cost him over $400; but he thinks many improvements may be made and that the machines may be turned out for $40 or $50 each. Last March he tried the propeller for a short distance on the Hudson, and it worked in a satisfactory manner. He also thinks it can be used to advantage on a heavy crust.

NEWSAND COMMENT.

If any one doubts that the Buffalo Tournament will not prove a success, they have only to know that Henry E. Ducker has resigned his position with Gies & Co., and will devote his entire time and attention to the affairs of the coming tournament, to have the doubt vanish. This will give the venture an assured successful ending. We wish Mr. Ducker every success as Manager and Director of the Buffalo Tournament of 1888.

We desire to offer our congratulations to Sam Hollingsworth, in that he has taken unto himself a partner for life.

CYCLING photographers pay attention to the advertisement of the Boston Camera Co., that appears in these pages.

MASSACHUSETTS L. A. W. members are referred to the official columns for particulars in regard to the spring meet of the Division.

We hear that Mr. Ducker has invited Mr. Hillier to referee the Buffalo tournament. We hope it is true, and we hope, if so, that Hillier will accept.

GOODMAN BROS., of Hartford, will issue the usual official score cards for the Baltimore races, and will issue for all the important meetings to be run this season.

We have to thank Mr. J. A. Chase, of Pawtucket, R. I., for one-half dozen copies of a map showing the best route between Boston and Providence, via Cobbs' Tavern.

MASSACHUSETTS members should read the advertisement of the Merchants and Miners line of steamers, which will land them in Baltimore and bring them back at low rates.

The price of the Connecticut Road Book to League members outside Connecticut, is $1.50, but to the Connecticut Division members the price is $1. The edition is selling like hot cakes.

To Chief Consul Dr. Cooley, of New Jersey, and Dr. S. A. Defoe, of Washington, N. J., is due most of the credit of getting the Liberty Bill of that State through the legislature. Dr. Defoe was particularly active in getting the bill passed.

It seems our Newark correspondent made an error in the statement to the effect that the Pleasure Bowling Club, of that city, had joined the Atalanta Wheelmen.

The rains out West, in Springfield, Ill., have been so frequent and heavy this spring that the wheelmen out there, when they go for a run, speak of it as taking a "sail" or a "paddle."

We have just discovered in our Wheelman's Reference Book that the date given of Dick Howell's birth, 1868, was an error. The errata in the Reference Book gives the correct date at 1858. This makes Howell's age 30 years, just as we supposed.

This looks as though a protest might be entered: "There are 70 entries for the great Pullman Chicago road race!" If they all start, or even a good proportion of them, we think it will be too much to expect that the public will quietly acquiesce.

CAPTAIN S. WALLIS MERRIHEW, on behalf of Frank M. Dampman, B. F. McDaniel and himself, all of Wilmington, Del., challenges a team of any four men from Philadelphia to a twenty or twenty-five mile road race. The route to be on the Lancaster pike.

AN earnest inquiry is made by an exchange as to the whereabouts of McCurdy. When last we heard of him he was travelling towards the setting sun in search of some one to back him for $500,000 vs. time; McCurdy to hold the stakes and to be given twenty-four hours start.

A COUPLE of Britishers thus discoursed: "Yes," said No. 1, "we have lots of cycle papers, but I am afraid there is no cycle literature of any value." Then No. 2 got in his work, and said, "I'm not so sure of that, I've heard my father say that the cyclo-pedia is one of the most valuable works published."

ALL bicycle riders going to the Irvington-Milburn, N. J., race, on Decoration Day, should not fail to call at H. A. Smith & Co.'s store, in Orator Hall, Newark, and stock up on sundries. Responsible riders not wishing to drag their wheels from New York or Brooklyn, can hire any kind of wheel from this firm, for the day. Make note of it and act.

The development of inventive genius in the Nutmeg State is something extraordinary and peculiar. Nothing more unlike all previous methods used in road-book making could well be conceived, than the plan upon which the new Connecticut book is constructed. The advantages of this method over the old tabulated route system are so apparent that it will doubtless be used hereafter in States where suitable maps can be obtained to make it practicable.

The following is a list of towns and cities through which the proposed path to New York is to pass: Milford, Stratford, Bridgeport, Fairfield, Southport, Sangatuck, Norwalk, South Norwalk, Darien, Stamford, Riverside, Cos Cob, and Greenwich, in Connecticut; Portchester, Rye, New Rochelle, Westchester and Morrisana, in New York. A special appeal is made to wheelmen of New York City, Harlem and Brooklyn, as it affects them in particular, and its success depends greatly on their aid.

THE Providence party came to Boston last Monday as announced in our last issue. The day proved fine, and the roads were found in excellent condition. Dr. Emery and Captain Lowell, of the Roxbury Club, together with Captain Kendall, of the Bostons, did the honors on behalf of the local riders. After riding all day, and after a good dinner, the party all went to hear Mansfield, in "Monsieur." The 11 P. M. train for home was then taken, and all the tourists put the 21st down as a red letter day in their personal history.

A. B. II., WRITING from Kankakee, Ill., under date of May 15, says: "It deeply pains me to make the announcement that Geo. F. Crawford, one of the nine men who made the through trip of the Southern League Tour last year, from Philadelphia to Staunton, Va., died last week, after an illness of about a month. Mr. Crawford was one of our oldest riders, in point of experience, the soul of honor, a splendid fellow, a christian gentleman, and an enthusiastic admirer of the wheel. At the time of his death he was President of the curl organization of Co. H., Illinois National Guards, and President of the Kankakee Bicycle Club. A magnificent broken wheel was among the floral tributes at the funeral."

We clip the following from the New York Press: "A development of the tricycle which we have not seen over here yet, but which seems destined to play an important part in European warfare; this is the so-called 'centipede.' It consists of some twenty-five or thirty tricycles fastened together in a long line, and it carries soldiers and their ammunition. * * * At first sight one would feel disposed to be rather skeptical as to the working of the machine, because of the great and unequal strains which must come upon it." Yes, "rather skeptical" is good. We have a feeling that way, especially as to the "twenty-five or thirty tricycles fastened together in a long line." Our friend of the Press is about eighteen to twenty-three tricycles too many. Singer's War Cycles have from four to seven pair of wheels. This type is not the success that was expected.

ANENT MR. HILLIER, THE ANCHOR AT RIPLEY AND SEVERAL OTHER DIVERTING MATTERS,
BY "JACK."

THERE are many more pretentious hostilities in merry England than the little Anchor Inn at Ripley, in sweet Surrey, but few indeed that are so dear to the cyclist.

To-day I had the pleasure of riding with Mr. George Lacy Hillier from the "Angel," at Ditton, to the "Anchor." Mr. Hillier was mounted on a big 58-inch "Invincible," while I trotted along on a dwarf safety. I hope that I shall never again say an unkind thing about Mr. H., for he is as pleasant a gentleman as I have met in some time, and his chat on cycling is interesting in the extreme. The man who thinks that Mr. G. L. H. is "anybody's fool" makes a big mistake. He knows more about cycling in a minute than most authorities (?) do in a life-time, and he's still quite fast, enough for the majority of the Ripley Road fiends. Speaking of the races between Rowe and Howell, and which Howell has won from Rowe, Mr. Hillier gave it as his opinion that Rowe was clearly jockeyed by Howell in every race. "You see Howell has had such a lot of 'miscellaneous practice' with all kinds of riders, while Rowe has been racing against a lot of men whose times and tactics were practically known."

Mr. Hillier looks for a great many more good performances from his protege, Freddy Osmond. He says: "If Osmond will do just exactly what he is told there is no telling where the mile record will be put when he 'fills out' a little bit. You see Osmond has shown such remarkable form for a boy of nineteen years, and I do not think he is at anything like his best. Why, I was down at the palace track a few days ago with Freddy, and although I was on an ordinary, Freddy could do almost as he pleased, he being mounted, at the time, on his trike." (And G. L. H. is not such a slow pace-maker yet, by any means (note).) Mr. Hillier says he thinks Woodside, if properly handled, could surprise everybody, even himself. "Why Woodside has never done anything like what he might do, if handled carefully."

To-day the

on tall ordinaries in large numbers. "Boulder" is a term used to designate the peculiarly loud and offensive mortal whom we often unthinkingly term a "cad." Mr. Hillier, in chatting on this subject yesterday, showed that he was a much kinder and more charitable mortal than the American press has generally given him credit for. "Speaking of those cads on castors," said Mr. G. L. H., "I am glad to see them on the road. Why, it is much better than loafing around the public houses. True, they may get thirsty on the road, and if they do drink a little they earn it. You can't always blame a man for being a 'cad.' In nine cases out of ten he is a child of circumstances, and his behavior is only a reflection of his up-bringing. And then when he sits down at the cyclist's table d'hôte on Sunday, at the 'Anchor' or the 'Angel,' he finds that he is a kind of 'white crow,' and that fellows walk around him. Next time he comes down the road he will do all he can to arouse no comment, and gradually, by force of imitation, he throws off some of his barbarisms, and becomes more after the manner of a quiet member of society. Oh I wish," said Mr. Hillier, "that some charitable institution would gather in all the boulders, teach them to ride, and send them out to enjoy the green fields and fresh air on Sundays, instead of guzzling over pots of beer, and telling blue stories in some low public house." And this from a man who has been called anything but liberal and open-hearted. You see, Mr. H. is like any other man who has been, unquestionably, a pioneer, authority and leader. There are always howls of disapproval, and dyspeptic wails of discontent from the envious opposition.

"JARGE" IS ALL RIGHT,

take my word for it. I have written some billions paragraphs about this man, which, since I have met and studied him (and he is a study), had better been left unwritten. There are more men than Mr. Geo. Lacy who doubt some of the Springfield records. I trust that the day of makers' amateurism and marvelous records (?) is past, and that "teams" are going out in popularity.

With the revival of amateur racing we might expect some good. Why, the ancients were more than content with a wreath of laurel. They were after glory, and not gate receipts. Let us have some good amateur road races this season. Why not have a fifty-mile or 100-mile road race over the BICYCLING WORLD course, open to any American amateur? Hang this money, money, money business. Get the girls interested. Get a few prizes made by feminine fingers fair. Choose a sponsor and maids of honor to give the prizes, as they do at the tilting tournaments in the South. Invite all the girls you know, and let us have some races run from start to finish, when a little pluck and muscle are used in place of the present fashion of cold blooded statistics, which result in slow time and disgusting last lap races. Let there be a time limit to all events, and let the best man win. Let us leave jockeying, cheating and swindling to the "pros." Who would not rather win a pretty pair of slippers, and have her present them herself, than all the abominable cups or shields that ever stood sentry on a jeweller's show case. Who?

WORKED BY A PRETTY GIRL,

Jack Keen, "the old war horse," has been at work on a pedal for safeties, which is, I think, a fairly good contrivance. I made a trip to his works yesterday to inspect it. I think that Bown (the ball-bearing man) is going to experiment with it. It seems to be a good thing, and would get over that common cause of tumbling off a safety, striking a large stone or other obstruction with one of the pedals, and being bounced immediately. Those who have ridden the rear-driving safety on rough ground will understand this. Keen has got an order for six water cycles for the "Salvation Army" (small endorsement), to make missionary psalm-singing trips up the canals of merry England. By the time that "slow old Jack" gets the frame-work made, the "S. A." may have passed out of existence. There is a good chance for some real live American cycle manufacturer to make a good toe clip. While these things, as they at present are made, are grand things for getting over dead centres, and getting a little upward pull when the pedal is coming up, yet they are (those I have examined, some four patterns) dangerous in the extreme. I think that I have an idea that will knock them all out, which I shall submit to an American maker when I return. It is simple, inexpensive and light and does not rattle. I have also a device for tightening the chain on safety tricycle, which has, I think, certain merits over those devices at present in use.

As I write, Sydney Lee, the Pope Manufacturing Co.'s English agent, is lying on the sofa, spouting extracts from the Pickwick Papers. The noise of this literary treat may have had something to do with this hap-hazard letter.

THE GREAT CENTURY RUN.

NEW YORK TO PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 16, 1888.

For full particulars see the "World" of issue of May 4.

SUMMARY: Rendezvous—Newark, evening of June 15th; Friday, leave Newark at 4 A. M.; Saturday, June 16th, via High street and Frelinghuysen avenue, down the latter to the cross cut below Waverly, to El Mora, to Cranford, to Westfield, to Plainfield, (short rest), to Bound Brook, to Sumerville, (rest and refreshment), to Trenton via Pennington, (Dinner), to Bristol, with a choice of routes from the latter town to Philadelphia.

Headquarters at Newark, the Continental Hotel. Dinner at Trenton, at the Trenton House, 75 cents.

The run will be under the command of Capt. Clarke from Newark to Plainfield; under Capt. Martin from Plainfield to Trenton; and under Capt. Crozer from Trenton to Philadelphia. For "Capt. Martin," in last week's notice of the change of command, read Capt. Camp.

Club captains and all unattached riders are requested to report at the headquarters as soon as they arrive, for assignment to places in line. Unattached riders are requested to state, when they send in their names, to which club they prefer to be assigned, if they have any preference.

Mr. W. E. Fuller, of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, and W. F. Murphy, of the K. C. W., are hereby appointed two of the buglers of the run—two New Jersey buglers are desired.

THE design for the silver memento not having been finished satisfactorily, the exact cost cannot be announced yet, and it is rather doubtful whether they are made at all.

A run around the Oranges will probably be made on Friday, the 15th, by those of the century runners who arrive on time.

The committee wishes to hear from clubs of Sumerville, New Brunswick, Roselle, and all other wheelmen on the route who desire to join the run, and have not received special invitation.

All suggestions will be welcomed.

L. A. CLARKE, Secretary,
25 Broad Street, New York City.

BALTIMORE

Ninth Annual L. A. W. Meet.

It may be interesting at this time, to the members of the L. A. W. and cyclists generally, to know something concerning Baltimore, where the Ninth Annual Meet will be held on June 18, 19, and 20. To do so, we will first introduce our reader to a brief historical sketch of the city, then the attractions surrounding, from a cyclist's standpoint, and the programme to be carried out during the three days in June.

The present site is the fourth location of the city. Original Baltimore was on Bush river; the second on Forster's Neck; third at Joppa, and the final one on the branch of the Patuxent river, about fourteen miles from the Chesapeake bay.

Baltimore is 115 years younger than New York, a century younger than Boston, and has seen 45 years less of life than Philadelphia, although born herself in 1730.

Whilst George Washington was first in peace, war and the hearts of his countrymen, the chief city of Maryland occupies that position in regards to many other "mundanisms." Let us take a short stroll and gaze on some of them, starting from Barnum's City Hotel, the first hotel of any size ever built in America, it is but a few steps to Battle Monument, erected in honor of the sons of Baltimore who fell in the battle of North Point, in 1812, when the British were beaten back, Washington saved, and the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," born. That shaft, jeweled by the names of those who fell, is the only one erected in the country commemorating the second war against Great Britain. It stands in what is termed Monument Square, where most of the important political open-air meetings are held. Across from it to the eastward, is the new postoffice, which reminds us that Wm. Goddard, of Baltimore, established the present postoffice system.

Continuing our walk to the eastward, along Fayette street, pass the City Hall, which, by the way, is one of the few public buildings in the country built within the original appropriation, we reach the Holiday Street Theatre, the third of its name, from whose stage was first sung the words of "The Star Spangled Banner," that have since echoed from the forests of Maine to the grassy plains of Texas; from the frontier of Washington Territory to the everglades of Florida.

families that cluster around it, one can hardly realize that in 1814, when the corner-stone was laid, and for years after, the Monument stood in the midst of a woods.

Whilst contemplating the shaft, and reading the different "commemorative" inscriptions, one's thoughts naturally revert to the infancy of our Republic, and we find that the Continental Congress assembled in Baltimore, and invested General Washington with dictatorial powers; it was here the two cruisers, the "Hornet" and the "Wasp," were fitted out, being the beginning of the American navy; the "Virginia," the first frigate of the navy, was built here; it was Continuing east to Gay street, we find Odd Fellows' Hall, and learn that in this city the first Lodge of that Order in the country was formed by Thomas Wilkey, to whom a monument has recently been erected, and here their first building was erected.

Going south, down Gay street, and turning west on reaching Baltimore street, we soon reach the iron buildings of the Sun and of the American newspapers, the latter established in 1773, whilst the former was the first paper in the country to use the Hoe type-revolving cylinder press. It was here the first Sunday newspaper was printed.

Passing on up to Charles street, we turn to the north, we pass the Masonic Temple, and a little farther, on the opposite side, the Young Men's Christian Association building, which recalls to us that the first temperance society was formed in this city.

On reaching Mulberry street, we see, looking to the left, a large dome, that recalls a Turkish mosque; it is the top of the first Catholic Cathedral erected in America, and we remember that the first general council of the Catholic clergy was held here, the first Archbishop of the Church appointed, the first Catholic theological seminary was opened, and the first Sisters of Charity organized.

It is here, also, that we get the first good view of Washington's Monument, which stands at the intersection of Charles and Monument streets, so continuing our walk, we soon stand at the base of the first column ever erected to perpetuate the memory of the father of his country. Whilst alternately gazing on it and the handsome residences of the wealthy here that the Declaration of Independence was first printed, and the first military company in the province was organized.

In the north square from the Monument is the bronze statue of Roger Brooke Taney, the illustrious Chief Justice of the United States. It is the gift of Mr. Wm. T. Walters, to the city, and the groups of Bartholdi, in the west square, are also his donations.

On the northeast corner of the square from the Monument, is the Mt. Vernon Methodist Church, and whilst viewing it, one is apt to recall that the first Methodist Episcopal Church in America was organized here, and here the Methodist Protestant denomination was founded.

It was in this very Howard's Park, where we now are, that Peter Carnes made the first balloon ascension in this hemisphere.

Retracing our steps down the hill, through the south square, up which we came, we stop to admire what is considered the most shapely cup ever carved from marble. Whilst we watch the glistening water pouring over its rim, we remember that the first company ever organized to supply a city with water was started here. On reaching Baltimore street we again retrace our steps to South street, and as we pause to read the bulletin boards of the newspapers, we recall that the first telegraphic message ever sent was received in this city from Washington, and the first President's message ever transmitted by wire was sent exclusively to the Baltimore Sun. Continuing on down to Gay street, we turn to the right and traverse our way to Pratt street. Here we find ourselves at the water front, and from here along Pratt street to Light, a distance of four squares, transpired the chief portion of the incidents that make the history of that memorable day, 19th of April, 1861, when the populace opposed the progress of the Massachusetts volunteers on their way to the defence of Washington, in response to President Lincoln's call for 75,000 men.

Straight out Pratt street to the west, lies Mt. Clare, the most interesting and momentous place that I have ever visited, for the first American railway was here started. From here, on August 28, 1830, Peter Cooper made the first journey by steam cars ever made in America, from Baltimore to Ellicott's Mills, distance about thirteen miles, time 57 minutes. I don't think any city could wish a prouder honor than that, but when we add that Baltimore was also the mother of Gas Companies, we can afford to let other cities claim priority in lesser things.

Let us now take a Fort avenue car and ride to Fort McHenry, which is situated on a narrow strip of land, called Locust Point, lying between the north and middle branch of the Patapsco river. Before reaching the Fort we pass the various coal piers and the grain elevators of the B. and O. R. R., and we are again reminded that in 1771 John Stevenson shipped from Baltimore the first wheat ever sent to Europe. Passing through the gateway, we enter the Fort, and in strolling from gun to gun and rampart to rampart, we bring to mind that at this Fort was organized, by Major George Peter in 1808, the first horse artillery, and later, in 1813, the first marine artillery was formed. But the Fort gained its undying fame by having composed within its ramparts "The Star Spangled Banner," which every American cheerfully sings, "Long may it waive over the land of the free and the home of the brave," with the perfect satisfaction of knowing that it will do so.

Baltimore, up until recently, was divided in new and old town by Jones' Falls, a small stream that runs diagonally through the heart of the city, and of late years has degenerated into an apology for a sewer.

Whilst there are numerous squares scattered around, the city has also two good sized parks—Patterson Park, in the eastern section, which has several fine hot houses, and Druid Hill Park, in the northern, whose beauties every cyclist coming to the Meet will have many opportunities to see and enjoy, as it lies adjacent to the club houses, and cyclist restrictions are few. The accompanying cut will give you a glimpse of it through the main or Madison avenue entrance.

MAIN ENTRANCE TO DRUID HILL PARK.

There are many other attractions about Baltimore that are common to all large cities; the theatres produce the standard shows, and there are many other places of amusement and interest. I would advise any lover of art to visit the art galleries of the Peabody Institute, right across from the Washington Monument, and free to any who choose to enter.

TOURS AND RUNS.

The cyclist who cannot command a wheel at the Baltimore Meet in June, will be something analogous to the famous Dutch skipper who left his anchor at home. "When he did want it he wanted it bad."

One should not throw a brick except when occasion justifies, and then he should fire it in with full force. Baltimore has some of the finest roads for cycling in the world. There now, if that specimen brick has knocked the breath out of you, read on when you have recovered and be convinced. The old Hayseed told the ambitious amateur sportsman there was "good huntin' in them parts," and so there was, for they hunted a week without finding a feather. But that is not the sense in which the economist of Baltimore roads is written. Conchologicaltown can boast of some pretty tough specimens of get-up-and-kick highways, but the cyclist seldom tackles these except when an overgorge of clams or other shell fodder induces an attack of incipient dyspepsia which he desires to overcome by heroic treatment. Then heaven bless the rocks and the rills, the sand and the hills. The writer can chew clams, watermelons, crabs, ice cream and soup, and lubricate on milk, soda water and cider, and then go out and find a road that will churn the whole combination into a blending regimen of harmonious internal economy, and he is not a very "healthy old duck" either. But that is not the route intended to be described, or that will even be illustrated to the League-Meet guest.

The description of the facilities for a spin on the roads about Baltimore must necessarily be crude and imperfect in this brief article. Only a general insight of the beauties of landscape and marine views can be given, or of the hard, smooth surface of the Pikes, the gritty evenness of the clay-loam dirt roads, or the exhilarating, velvety, yet hard, smooth surface of its shell roads. The latter, of which there are several, are the ones designated as the best in the world for cycling. The shell roads, when combined, are perhaps a hundred miles in extent, and the gliding motion of the wheel over them imparts a sensation that is almost indescribable by any other word than exhilaration. It is the intoxication of wheeling and the cyclist actually dissipates on his hobby whenever he "takes a spin down the shell roads." Spin? Yes, spin—with all the word implies. Let the following impart to you, in a crude way, the universal experience of any party of two or more who take a run on the shell roads.

As the pavement of the city is left behind, and the clean, white, level, smooth, velvety, yet hard, road-bed is struck—yes, struck—there is a little quick spurt, and yes, again, actually a yell of delight from the most sedate and unsympathetic cyclist. Nobody works, nobody steers, you just will your wheel to go and she goes—oh, how she does go. You can't help it—you are for the time being cyclor-sanctified. Soon you enter into conversation—quick, eager, conversation—the words eloquently rolling out in unison with the pedaling feet. You have heard the effeminate expression "twinkling feet," but you never saw it exemplified until you watched the feat ahead of you of him you have always known as a lazy wheelman,

Perhaps you are a rider who "likes to take things easy," but it makes no difference—you are entranced—you can no more resist quick pedaling than help giving expression to delight. When the novelty has a little worn off, and you realize that you "have just been going it," you say to your companion, "see here, old fellow, we are out for pleasure, and we don't want to use up this fine road too quick—let's take it slow," and down you come to an ordinary pace. Well, now, how long do you think that will last? Five minutes? Bet a brickbat to a brickhouse it don't last two. All slow up, and the conversation slows up in unison. Gradually and imperceptibly the speed increases and the tongue exercise blends until a slight up-grade (for there are no hills) or something of that sort brings the realization that you have "been going it again." Then you slow down, and then you speed up, and the whole trip, be it ten, twenty, a hundred miles, is a repetition in series of the above experience. Are you tired? are you "winded"? Great Scott, no—and how many miles have we been? Thirty, forty, fifty? "Well, I wouldn't have thought it ten." Say, fellows, forgive the homely erudition of an impotent pen, but the writer is talking to brother cyclists, he knows (they are all alike), and—oh, well, we're all right. The "tours and runs" part of this article will soon be finished, and then the other fellows can give you something refined and elegant if they want to. This is merely "a talk to the boys."

Assuming the cycling guest is stopping at one of the hotels in the heart of the city, mentioned in the "Official Programme," of which "The Carrollton" is League Headquarters, and desires to join in one or more trips of the runs and tours mapped out by Captain Fred. Pope, Chairman of that Committee; or that he "feels a yearning" to take a ride on one of the many roads hereabouts used by local wheelmen—wherever he wants to go—his first point to make, as a preliminary, is "Boundary" or "North" avenue, which is one and the same street, with merely the difference of local nomenclature. From that vantage ground it becomes only a question of choice of routes. To reach the avenue above mentioned, ask for Charles street and go straight out it; ask for Eutaw street and go straight out, debouching into Madison avenue and Eutaw Place. Either of these lead to "Boundary" avenue over fair pavements, where you can "strike out" in any direction chosen. The fact is, "guide board suggestions" are hardly necessary, for the wheelmen of the Maryland Division will be only too eager to meet and conduct guests to the haven of roads.

BOATING LAKE.—DRUID HILL PARK.

The finest and most unique road is the shell one before mentioned, but lacks the variety of scenery of some of the others. On the shell roads are numerous bayside resorts, where the delectable crustacea, in all its variety, is served, and where one may indulge the appetite while blissfully fanned by the salt sea air of the Chesapeake. All along these roads fairy glimpses of this jutting arm of the distant sea are had. One of them passes over the battle ground of North Point, and lands one at the lighthouse and the "jumping off" place; another leads to Middle river, while all are intersected by cross-roads made, more or less, of the same material—the oyster shell.

The York road, a pike to Towson, is very fair, and leads through pretty villas and up hill and down dale. Continuing on for an hour longer, and lovely Loch Raven is reached, where a five-mile level ride around one of the city water-works is delightful. One of the Meet runs, debouches from the York road or Charles street road to Bellona avenue, and passes through the pretty suburban village of Mount Washington, through some of the most romantic scenery imaginable.

Another famous road is the Reisterstown Pike, and over this route the ladies' run passes. This little tour takes one through Druid Hill Park, over "sandpapered" roads, through the most delightful scenery, riding through alternate sunshine and shade. The natural "lay of the land" in Druid Hill Park is as though Dame Nature had in view that object when landscape gardening came in fashion. Anything more lovely than a saunter awheel through the Park cannot well be imagined, and one can occupy a day on those roads and hardly pass over the same one twice. Emerging from the Park on the north side, the Pinlico road is found, with a surface almost equaling that of the Park. About three miles out the route crosses to Reisterstown Pike, an early English style of coach road that reminds one of Dickens and his descriptions of travel by that primitive conveyance. The scenery is quite English too, and here there appears the old coach taverns, and you almost expect to hear the bugle and see those old stable doors fly open and the relief horses dash out. Arriving at Pikesville, the old abandoned arsenal is an item of interest, and a rest under the grateful shade of its noble trees, and a draught from the old well, minus the oaken bucket and desecrated by a modern pump, is refreshing.

Back to the pretty but straggling village of Arlington, one may make a detour through Garrison avenue and over the Liberty Pike to Randallstown, through hills and dales rich in scenic effects, or through Wetheredville, Franklin, Catonsville to Ellicott City. Descending to the latter, the rider may test his mettle with a two miles coast, or descend quietly with breaks on, and enjoy a paradise of scenery. Returning by the same route, the famous "mile coast of shell road" is enjoyed. Breaks off and "let 'er go"—its all safe, and the experience of a lifetime to those who never have been over the route.

Roland avenue to Lake Roland and return to Mt. Washington via the West Falls Pike, is another favorite route.

Continuing the route from Ellicott City to the Relay House, all the way along the high banks of the Patapsco, is a most romantic ride, but should not be undertaken if there is any objection to hills.

The above comprises most of the main roads about the city, but detours are made ad infinitum. Every inch of the ground is alive with interest to the cyclist, and there is no hesitancy in affirming that the "tours and runs" of the Baltimore Meet will not be its least attraction.

A more detailed and definite description of roads and scenery might be given, but space is required by the writers who follow. All may be summed up in general terms—roads from the finest to fair, and none poor. Distances as great or little as individual taste dictates, and scenery and surroundings unsurpassed as a whole by any known combination of routes about any city in the country.

TRANSPORTATION.

For rates of fare to the Meet, refer to your BULLETIN of May 4th (Official Department).

THE THROUGH CAR ROUTE TO BALTIMORE.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is the only one of the great Trunk Lines that runs its trains through solid from the West to the Atlantic seaboard. On the B. and O. the entire train of baggage cars, day coaches and sleepers is run through without change or transfer. This is a very important feature to Wheelmen, as through baggage cars do away with the necessity for frequent handling and transferring of wheels by inexperienced baggagemen.

Two solid trains are run through to Baltimore daily from Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, stopping at principal points on the line, given in the schedule further on. The B. and O. has never exacted any charge for the transportation of wheels, when accompanied by their owners, and none will be exacted on the occasion of the annual Meet.

In addition to the unrivalled scenic attractions along the route, the B. and O. is the only line via Washington City, and it is only by the B. and O. that passengers are afforded an opportunity to stop over at the National Capital. Through sleeping cars are also run from St. Louis to Baltimore via O. and M. and B. and O. Passengers from the West make direct connection in Union Depot, at St. Louis, with O. and M. trains, and passengers from the South can either take the O. and M. at Louisville, or the B. and O. at Cincinnati.

If you start from any point in the Northwest, come to Chicago and take the B. and O. from there. From Detroit or Toledo you can make connection with B. and O. trains at Deshler, Fostoria or Monroeville. From Cleveland, take the N. Y., P. and O. to Pittsburgh, where close connections are made with the B. and O. From Indianapolis and all points in Central Indiana, you can reach the B. and O. either at Cincinnati or at Columbus.

ROUTES TO THE MEET VIA RAIL.

Leave Chicago, 3.20 Saturday afternoon, June 16th, B. and O. R. R. Pass Auburn Junction, Ind., 7.42; Defiance, O., 8.37; Deshler, O., 9.20, connecting with party from Detroit, Toledo and Michigan points; Fostoria, O., 10.02; Tiffin, O., 10.23; Mansfield, O., 11.53; Newark, O., 1.40, connecting with car from Columbus. VISIT TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

For the benefit of those who would care to make a trip to Washington after the close of the Meet in Baltimore, it has been arranged with the B. and O. R. R. that Excursion Tickets be issued to L. A. W. members, on June 21st, at $1.20 round trip, good to return on the 23d. Chief Consul Atwater, of the District Division, will have committees in readiness to receive and escort any visitors to the Capitol on these days, and special entertainment will be provided on Thursday, 21st.

CAPITOL.—WASHINGTON, D. C.

RHODES ACCEPTS.

WILLIAM A. RHODES sends the following letter to the WORLD: As there has been some considerable unnecessary talk regarding my accepting the challenge of P. Berlo, or Emerson's unknown, I wish to say, through your columns, that, as soon as my present engagements are off, which will not be until after the L. A. W. meet at Baltimore, I will ride a race with either of them with my Springfield Roadster road wheel, and shall expect them to ride road wheels, once around the track at Chestnut Hill reservoir, for from $100 to $250 a side, and Charles Daniels, my trainer, stands ready to act for me by putting up a deposit at any time these parties will name, at your office. WILLIAM A. RHODES.

FORD HILL, PHILADELPHIA.

We are indebted to the American Athlete for particulars in regard to the grades and distances in this celebrated hill. The length is 2039 feet; the average grade, one foot in 12.45; the steepest is one foot in 7.99. Now in order to make comparisons of all the great hills on which famous contests have taken place, will some one in the Oranges give us the grade of Eagle Rock, and will some good Samaritan in St. Louis give us the grade of the De Soto Hill? We can then publish a comparative table, which will be of great value and interest. If Ratchet, of Newark, will give us Eagle Rock grade, and Linneus, of St. Louis, sends us the grade of Kimswick, we can then proceed.

THE CRAWFORDSVILLE (IND.) RAMBLERS' TOUR-NAMENT.

will be held at the Fair Grounds July 4th, on their new quarter-mile bicycle track. This is the only one west of Cleveland. The events are: One-mile novice, two-mile handicap, one-mile 3.30 class, one-mile open, half-mile flying start, one-mile State championship, two-mile lap race, one-mile 3.15 class, one-mile handicap, consolation race. Handsome and valuable prizes given for all the events. L. A. W. rules to govern all races except the fifth. The entrance fee to each event is 50 cents; entries close June 28. Races are to begin at 1.30 P. M., sharp. For further particulars, address, Alonzo J. Lee, Secretary and Treasurer, Crawfordsville, Ind.

VICTORY FOR TEMPLE.

LONDON, May 21, 1888. A ten-mile bicycle race was contested at North Shields to-day between Wood of England, and Temple of America. Temple shot away on the last lap and won the race easily. Time 30m. 1 2-58.

WOOD TAKES A RACE.

LONDON, May 21, 1888. The ten-mile bicycle race at Birmingham, Saturday, was won by Wood, with Temple second and Knapp third. There were 10 contestants. The distance was covered in 31 minutes. All of the Americans won heats in the one-mile handicap.

ROWE BEATS THE SCOTCH CHAMPION.

Rowe had an easy time with J. D. Lumsden, the Scotch champion, in his five-mile race at Edinboro', May 7th. In the last mile Rowe ran ahead and kept extending his lead, so that he finished at the tape some thirty yards to the good. Time, 19.46 1-2.

RHODES-BERLO-UNKNOWN.

THE backer of the bicycle unknown who recently challenged Berlo or Rhodes to a road race, called at the Herald office yesterday, and left $25 as a forfeit for a race with either of the above men whom he has challenged. I am particularly anxious to have my unknown meet Berlo first, said he, but if Berlo does not want a race, Rhodes will do very well. I will be at the Herald office on Wednesday afternoon next at 2 o'clock to meet Berlo, and next Monday I will call at the Herald office to meet Rhodes or his backer Daniels. My money is up; now let them cover it.—Herald.

ERRATUM.

NEWARK, N. J., AND NOT JERSEY CITY.

Why our pen and our brain should have compassed the error of writing the site of Oraton Hall, and the establishment of Howard A. Smith & Co., as Jersey City, is past our comprehension. This live and enterprising firm is domiciled in Newark and Orange, N. J. A careful perusal of their extensive ad. in last week's paper, and also in this, will convince the bicyclist that Howard A. Smith & Co. carry a stock of sundries second to none in the universe. See their advt.

J. PURVIS-BRUCE—"JACK."

ABOUT one year ago we received a communication from a gentleman in Minneapolis, who used the nom de plume of "Jay Pheobe," and during the twelve months that this gentleman has favored the readers of the WORLD with his exceedingly readable letters, he has become to be looked on as one of the ablest writers on cycling matter in existence. We know our readers would like to know what manner of man Mr. J. P.-B. looks like, and so we take pleasure in presenting the above excellent likeness. Popular alike in this country and abroad, we shall be glad to have him back with us again. Mr. Purvis-Bruce is a cyclist of ten years' experience, and he is well known, not only in the cycling press, but also in the general press. His other nom de plumes are the well-known "Gentleman John," and now "Jack."

Born at sea, off Cape Horn, on board the "Great Victoria," en route from New Zealand to England, of Scottish parentage, his father, a Southerner, a Mississippi cotton planter, and a "rebel" during the late "difficulty" between the blue and the grey, Mr. Purvis-Bruce has been much troubled as to which country claims him.

Mr. Purvis-Bruce, besides being a popular cycling scribe, is a very fair rider, and has taken good places in stiffish road races, on bicycle, tricycle and safety. Newspaper work seems to be his choice, for though Mr. Purvis-Bruce has been left comfortably and out of the reach of want, he turns to it as an occupation, and at different times has held good positions on several representative American dailies. Cycling is his hobby, and the great interest he takes in the sport is evidenced by the number of friends he has made while in England and the States, a class of cyclists who belong to the best clubs. Mr. Purvis-Bruce is a member of the Ripley Road Club, the social club of old England, and of several American clubs, and a member of the L. A. W. and C. T. C. We shall be pleased to welcome Mr. Purvis-Bruce back to the States after his sojourn in England, where he has been absorbing as much information as possible in regard to cycles and cycling. From the English papers we have learned that Mr. P.-B. has been the recipient of much kindness, and while enjoying himself immensely, he has, in his characteristic way, made a host of friends who are pleased to call him friend, and who will miss him when he's gone.

THE L. A. W. RACES AT BALTIMORE.

We append below a list of the events to be run at the Baltimore meet, June 19. Those wishing entry blanks should address H. W. Barrington, Secretary, 1531 Edmondson avenue, Baltimore, Md. The entrance fee is $1, and entries will close June 11; the entrance fee returnable to starters; gold and silver medals to first and second men. The order in which events will be run will be determined when entries are opened, to suit the majority of contestants.

One-mile L. A. W. championship, bicycle; one-mile L. A. W. championship, tricycle; one-half-mile dash, novices; two-mile handicap, safety bicycle; one-mile handicap, tandem tricycle; three-mile handicap, bicycle; three-mile lap, bicycle; steeplechase race, about three-fourths of a mile, any kind of wheel; two-mile handicap, tricycle; one-mile consolation, any kind of wheel.

WHAT MACADAMIZING COSTS IN ORANGE.

I HAVE noticed from time to time in the columns of the WORLD inquiries from various parties interested in roads and road making as to the cost of macadamized roads, both for building and repairing. Of course the cost for repairing would vary greatly in different localities, depending upon the distance the stone would have to be carted, the facilities for breaking, and so forth.

The city of Orange, known the world over as a very paradise of good roads, has done, perhaps, more in the way of macadamizing than any other American city of its size and population, and figures accepted by its Common Council, may be taken as pretty nearly correct for the work.

On Wednesday, May 7, a contract was awarded to a prominent contractor for improving Hillside avenue, and the figures, according to this contract, were as follows for the new work, only a portion of the avenue having been previously graded and none of it macadamized: Macadamizing, $1.09; paving gutters, 75 cents; excavating, 30 cents; curbing, 35 cents; corners, $6; re-setting curb, 10 cents; repairing gutters, 25 cents. The same contractor was also given the contract for furnishing broken stone for the ensuing year for repairing macadamized roads at $1.48 per gross ton.

While these figures may not go far toward determining the cost for the same kind of work in places other than Orange, where stone in abundance is close at hand, and no trouble is found in having it broken, they may at least awaken a little interest in the subject. I should like, Mr. Editor, to have some of your numerous correspondents take the trouble to look up figures paid in their respective localities in order that comparisons may be made. I propose in a short time to spend a few hours or days, if necessary, with one of our most prominent road builders, and get all the "tricks of the trade," from the time the work is started to the finish, and will hope it will be acceptable to you as well as your thousands of readers. In the meantime let us hear from other places. L. A. W. 17-994. Newark, N. J., May 14, 1888.

THE LEAVEN IS WORKING.

Editor Bicycling World:—It is a flattering indication of the tendency of the times, regarding the road improvement question, to find the agricultural press of the country this spring fairly alive to the importance of the subject. Whatever may have produced the awakening, it is a genuine thing, and hardly a week passes that I do not see half a score of earnest articles, editorials and communications, often quite lengthy, that have been written by thoughtful men, some of whom are foremost among our agricultural authorities and writers. It all goes to show how much easier it will be for us to secure good roads, in a not far distant future; and it suggests, too, most forcibly, the importance of co-operation. We are all working for the same end, and the co-operation of the 7,500,000 people, who represent the agricultural class in this country, is certainly something to be desired. So far the tail has been wagging the dog pretty vigorously; the dog is now beginning to expend nervous force in this direction, and we must keep up our end of the vibrating movement. Nearly four years ago, in an article on this subject of better roads, the writer stated that we must "direct public opinion to the need of at least one good thoroughfare in each locality," and that "the benefit to the farming interest would be a powerful lever." It is only by this moulding of public opinion that favorable legislation will be possible, and we must have the help of farmers, and those who pay for the roads, to accomplish anything. We must go slow to go sure. Our New York friends already appreciate this point—they are making haste slowly, and in the end will be bound to win. Above all things we must be reasonable, and in this connection, I hope the foolish talk about expending the United States treasury surplus in road building will cease, for such wholesale use of national funds for the benefit of States, is against the very principles upon which our government is founded; and at the same time we should go very slowly in demands for roads, several hundred miles in length, at State expense. Such Utopian want-the-earth schemes as is embodied in either of these suggestions, seriously urged outside the ranks of wheelmen, would set the movement back ten fold more than a year of convincing agitation could help it.

Everything is working well now; we have only to keep up the agitation, circulate road-improvement and road-construction literature, use deliberation and good judgment, in all we do, while keeping the bicycle in the background, and success will, in reasonable time, be assured. As a closing suggestion, would it not be a good idea for each State division of the L. A. W. to appoint a standing editorial committee, that the subject of roads improvement may receive a better consideration in the country press? I do not mean an indiscriminate fusillade of manuscripts at the country editors, for probably the majority would go into the waste-basket, if the writer was unknown. There are many wheelmen in every State, however, who would be able to get communications published in their local papers. It would be the business of this State division "literary bureau" to systematize the work as well as to control it, and conduct it in a manner that would make it productive of the greatest good to the cause.

P. S. The farmers are even waking up to the sign-board question. Isn't this funny?

"SET OUT GUIDEBOARDS."

Guideboards are not exactly an ornamental feature of the highway, but there is an atmosphere of hospitality about them, and the towns which neglect their moral and legal duty in this matter, should be made to know more through due process of law.—Connecticut Farmer.

"Hospitality" is good, but "moral and legal duty" is more to the point. C. R. D.

THE POT AND THE KETTLE.

We have received the following communication from the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., with the request that we publish same:

"Editor Bicycling World:—We notice with considerable amusement an advertisement on the last page of your issue of May 18th, in the space usually occupied by a certain cycle manufacturer who recently suffered an absolute defeat in a legal contest with ourselves. The advertisement consists of a letter which our attorneys sent to several American manufacturers and importers only, stating that in their opinion they infringed our letters patent; this the letter states for itself, but the misleading character of it calls for an explanation. The advertisement leads off with the 'Pot and Kettle. Why should the Pot call the Kettle black-ass?' though we never intimated that the Kettle was an ass, and winds up as follows:

"We say nothing of the purpose of sending this notice," etc. These are evidently a desire to cause the public to believe, by reference to our advertisement in your issues of the 11th and 18th inst. that we sent such a letter to all the agents and dealers in the country, as they did, to intimidate them into not handling their goods. We do not take such underhand measures. We went directly to the fountain head and notified the manufacturers and importers, who are the real transgressors, but not the agents. We are and have always been willing to fight our commercial battles on business principles and on the merits of our productions. This manufacturer it would seem feels chagrined at realizing what a boomerang the letter of February 15th, 1887, has become, and wishes to stamp us as followers of their line of policy, which is not the case, as can be proved by the testimony of the agents and dealers. We are sorry, too, to find they have lost their temper, having understood that they prided themselves on their ability to conduct a warfare, either legally or commercially, in a perfectly good spirit, and we certainly did not imagine they would lose their equilibrium at being defeated, which a good General never does.

We also notice in another part of your paper, page 51 of the same issue, it is stated that the interference case between Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Copeland was decided, on the 8th, in favor of Mr. Copeland. This is a fact. It was simply an interference between Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Copeland, but they evidently wish to ring it in as a case in the series of cases between the Pope Mfg. Co., and the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., and claim it is of considerable importance as sustaining that patent. This is not the fact. It is as we before stated, merely a suit to establish the right in the patent office as to who was the first inventor of the device named. It has no bearing whatever on the validity or the sustaining of the patent."

OBITUARY.

At the regular meeting of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club of Philadelphia on May 3d, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst our much beloved comrade and fellow member, CHAS. E. GOHL, and Whereas, We sincerely mourn the loss of one whom all of us respected as a fellow member, and many loved as a friend. Be it Resolved, That our warm and earnest sympathy be extended to his afflicted family in their hour of sorrow, and

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions and preamble be sent to the family of the deceased, and also published in the BICYCLING WORLD and American Athlete.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

L. H. JOHNSON, of Orange, N. J., has imported a large invoice of Special Sparkbrook bicycles. We shall hope to present our readers with a cut and specification of that machine at an early date.

"PEDAL AND PATH," one of the most entertaining stories of a bicycle trip over and back across the Continent ever written, see advt. Send in 25 cents for a copy. It's value received.

WE took a trip to Chicopee Falls last week, and there spent half a day in inspecting the factory of the Overman Company. A detailed account of what we saw and what we thought, will be presented at an early date, and we think it will prove of great interest.

BANGOR, Me., May 19.—G. Minturn Worden of the John P. Lovell Arms Company, Boston, broke the world's record today climbing Prospect Hill. He rode up the incline three successive times without dismounting. The hill is 580 feet long, the average grade being one foot in six and a half. He rode a Springfield Roadster bicycle.—Globe.

A TWENTY-EIGHT pound tricycle is a machine that the Coventry Machinists' Co. have just imported. We have had the pleasure of inspecting this little gem, and we should say it was fully up to the standard of this company's good work. It is without doubt one of the most delicate machines ever imported. Mr. Stevens, the manager, states that home company report orders for 2000 machines ahead. Their tremendous capacity for supply is strained to its utmost.

THE Victor Safety of '88 is "no slouch" as a hill climber. Mr. F. E. Norton, of Little Rock, Ark., who is in the city attending school, rode one up both sides of Corey Hill the other day. He wasn't fixed for climbing either, having on his long trousers, etc. He has tried the hill a number of times on ordinarys, but never surmounted it.

Massachusetts Meet.

The following details of the Spring Meet (May 30) are given for the information of wheelmen. Through the courtesy of Col. William E. Barrows, the River Brink Estate has been placed at our disposal; it is situated on Charles River, next to the estate of R. M. Pulsifer, Esq., and affords excellent opportunities for ball, tennis and boating. Every wheelman, whether a member of the L. A. W. or not, is invited to join with us. Two races will occur, and a medal for first and second in each race, will be offered; rules and entries to be made at the start.

Those who desire to play tennis are requested to bring their rackets with them.

The lunch will be served at 1 o'clock, at a cost to each of seventy-five cents. This will be the only expense attending the meet. Every person intending to be present must at once notify Dr. Kendall, 176 Tremont street; it is not necessary for you to be sure of attending.

Start from Copley Square at 9.30 A. M. sharp. J. B. SEWARD, W. G. KENDALL, W. H. EMERY, Committee.

WE have on hand a supply of hotel certificates (large, for framing) and a supply of consuls' certificates, which we will send to Chief Consuls on order, charging the same to divisions at cost price.

ONE of the prizes to be given in the coming East Hartford, Conn., bicycle races is a Champion Light Roadster bicycle, presented to the club by the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Co., of Chicago, the manufacturers. This is a high grade wheel, and, as it will be in a handicap race, it will produce some lively scrapping.

Yours fraternally,
CHAS. S. DAVOL, Chief Consul.
Warren, R. I., May 16th, 1888.

Iowa Division.

The annual tour of this division will be from Des Moines to Spirit Lake, leaving Des Moines on Tuesday, July 17th, and arriving at Spirit Lake, Saturday, July 21st. The Iowa regatta will take place at Spirit Lake on the 24th and 25th, thus affording all participants an opportunity to see this prominent event. An announcement of details of route and whom to apply to for information will appear shortly.

Fraternally,
ROBT. L. THOMPSON, C. C.
Muscatine, Ia., May 15, 1888.

Three-Mile Championship.

Dear Sir—The Kings County Wheelmen of Brooklyn have this day been awarded the three-mile Bicycle New York State Championship race, to be run at their annual race meet. Yours fraternally,
GERRY JONES, Chairman.
Binghamton, N. Y., May 18, 1888.

Attention, Members of the Missouri Division L. A. W.

A party is being arranged in this division to attend the annual meet of the League at Baltimore on the 18th, 19th and 20th of June. This party already numbers about ten and we want to increase it much as possible. In addition to those going from here, a number of the Ohio people have agreed to join us en route. Everything possible to make the trip there and back pleasant and profitable will be done, and no one will be allowed to get homesick. Messrs. Boswell and Dennis will have charge of the cameras; Prof. Stone

Virginia Pointers.

The League hotel in Staunton—the Hale House—has been closed, wheelmen will go to the Virginia Hotel. In answer to inquiries, will add that the famous Valley Pike is in excellent condition, but the road from Staunton to Natural Bridge, being a dirt road, cannot be recommended until later in the season.
F. R. WEBB,
L. C. for Staunton.

May 19, 1888.

Illinois Meet.

The Illinois Division will hold its annual meet at Springfield, Ill., July 4, next. Committees will be named later. Respectfully, N. H. VAN SICKLEN, C. C.
Chicago, May 14, 1888.

To L. A. W. Members.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

In order to make the June meet in Baltimore, the most enjoyable and successful in the history of the League, and to raise a fund for the proper entertainment of those who attend, the Finance Committee of the Maryland Division, cordially invites all who feel inclined to do so to subscribe to this fund in any sum from $1.00 to $100.00.

While feeling assured that the pleasure of aiding financially in entertaining their brethren of the League will be sufficient compensation for many who will subscribe, still the Finance Committee propose to by offering the following list of prizes to those who contribute to the fund:

1st Prize	No. 15 Quadrant Tandem, value,	$250.00	8th Prize	New Rapid Lt. Roadster Bicycle, val.	135.00
2d "	No. 15 " " " " " " " "	250.00	9th "	New Rapid Safety Bicycle, value,	135.00

$1930.00

3d Prize may be exchanged for a No. 8 Quadrant.

4th "	" " " " " " " "	No. 14 "
5th "	" " " " " " " "	Roadster or Light Roadster Bicycle.
7th "	" " " " " " " "	" " " " " " " "
9th "	" " " " " " " "	" " " " " " " "
11th "	" " " " " " " "	" " " " " " " "

Winners of Roadster or Light Roadster Bicycles will be supplied with machines of suitable size, and exchanges of style allowed.

PLAN.

For every dollar subscribed the subscriber receives a numbered receipt, and becomes entitled to as many chances as he holds receipts. Thus, those who subscribe one dollar to the fund, stand a chance of securing one of the above-mentioned cycles. Those who subscribe five dollars stand an equal chance of securing five machines and a proportionate better chance of securing one machine.

Those who subscribe ten dollars will be given an extra number, hence will stand a chance of securing eleven machines, or eleven chances of securing one machine.

Should the subscriptions exceed the amount sought to be raised, the committee will add other machines, and as the sole object is to raise funds for the entertainment of the L. A. W. members at the June meet, should the contributions not prove adequate, one or more prizes will be withdrawn; but in no event will the value of prizes be less than two-thirds of the total amount of subscriptions.

It is designed that the prizes should be awarded during the meet in Baltimore, and the distribution will take place in the presence of any one who chooses to witness it, and will be conducted by prominent L. A. W. officials in the manner customary to secure fairness. The winning numbers will be published in the cycling papers immediately after the distribution.

The above plan not only affords every League member and others an opportunity to subscribe and make happy the delegates to the next Annual convention, but at the same time become possessor of one or more highest grade

TANDEM, TRICYCLES, AND BICYCLES.

Remittances should be made by P. O. money order, registered letter, or New York draft, with name and address plainly written, to

HART CYCLE CO.,
No. 811 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

HOWARD A. SMITH & CO., CYCLE SUPPLY HOUSE,

NEWARK ENAMEL.

It dries almost as quickly as it can be applied, without any stickiness or disagreeable smell, and as hard as flint. It will neither chip nor crack, and presents a fine jet black, glossy surface at one application. It is not affected by wet, heat or cold, and is as durable in its brilliancy as it is easy of application. It is not only a splendid preparation for Enameling or touching up bicycles and tricycles, but may be used with excellent results upon a variety of articles, such as gas brackets, grates, coal scuttles, and every description of metal work. Any one can apply it. A brush given with each bottle.

Price, - - 50 cts.

Carefully packed and mailed, 10 cts. additional.

RUBBER CEMENT.

For mending cuts in tires, splicing where it has been necessary to reduce the size, and plugging.

Price, per bottle, 25 cents.

If mailed, additional, 5 cts.

NEWARK TIRE CEMENT.

Made after our special formula, and is the best cement known for joining rubber and iron or rubber and wood.

Our Newark Tire Cement is placed upon the market after two years' trial, and we believe it to be better than the cement generally offered. We do not hesitate to recommend it, and will refund the money if it does not prove satisfactory.

Price, per stick, 20 cts. Mailing, additional, 5 cts.

DUPLEX SCREW DRIVERS.

In calling our customers' attention to this new screw driver, we would like to point out the following advantages: strength when in use, compactness when not in use, finely finished and nicely nickled plated, made from the best cast steel and warranted.

Price, - - - 35 cts.

NEWARK SPOKE GRIP.

Fits any size spoke, made from Drop Steel forging, warranted to give satisfaction or money refunded. Nicely nickled, compact, and easily carried in tool bag.

Price, 65c.

Newark and Orange, N. J.
Telephone 673.

DUPLEX WHISTLES.

The Duplex Whistle, which was originally made for a police call, has been generally adopted as the bicyclers' whistle. It is made of brass, and nickel-plated, and consists of two barrels of different lengths, which produce a discordant sound that can be heard a long distance.

Price, with chain, 25 cents.

BOSTON WHISTLE.

Known as "The Screamer." One of the most terrible noise-making articles ever invented. Just the thing to awaken the sleepy countryman. Will also command respect from the "Road-hog."

Price, - - - 50 cents.

SPRINGFIELD WHISTLES.

Double Tube, superior to Duplex in that it blows easier, and can be heard a great distance. Price, 50c.

SINGLE TUBE WHISTLES, not so large as the Double Tube, clear and shrill in tone, and very desirable where pocket space is limited. Price, 40c.

TUCKER'S ELASTIC STRAP.

This Strap is the best and neatest thing in the line of a holder for the pants of a rider, on the market. It avoids turning the pants-leg over, which creases and puts them out of shape, and is a decided improvement in looks. It prevents the pants from bagging at the knee, is easily detached, no sharp points to tear the cloth.

Price, per pair, 25 cts.

DRY GRAPHITE.

All riders using Tandems, Tricycles, or Rear Driving Safeties, where a chain is required, have had to suffer the annoyance of the chain grinding with dust and dirt and soiling the clothing with oil. Hence we have had the Dry Graphite or Plumbago especially prepared for our cycle trade. It is a perfect lubricator for all ball bearings as well as for chains, put up in convenient form in 1-4, 1-2 and 1 lb. packages. Prices, 15, 35 and 50 cents, respectively.

HOWARD A. SMITH & CO., CYCLE SUPPLY HOUSE.

SOMETHING NEW.

To meet the demand for a Bundle Carrier for the Safeties we have so altered our attachment that the Carrier can be securely placed on the mud-guard or frame of a Safety, and any reasonable bundle can be carried entirely out of the way—this is the only

CARRIER SUITABLE FOR A SAFETY.

Price, - - - $1.50.
If by mail, additional, - - - .10.

"Z. & S." BUNDLE CARRIER.

AS ADAPTED FOR THE STAR.

Has been in such universal use ever since the Star machine has been in the market, that it is now recognized as a necessary accessory to that machine, and no Star rider can well dispense with it. In fact the "Z. & S." Bundle Carrier for the Star stands alone in the field for public favor, the steering rod of the Star offering the utmost freedom for attaching the carrier, enabling the Star rider to use it for almost every conceivable purpose. In ordering, state whether for Special or American Star.

Price, - - - $1.50.
By mail, additional, - - - .10.

STANDARD OILS.

BEST FORMULA.

For several years we were called upon for an oil for cyclists' use, and in 1885 we determined to look into the matter personally. After a year's experiment, aided by one of the largest oil dealers of New York, we placed the Standard Oil upon the market, with such excellent results, that we can recommend it as being fully equal, if not superior, to any other cycle oil to be found in the country.

Put up in bottles, where a very small quantity is used. Price 25c.; by mail 30c. Or where a large quantity is desired, our celebrated Patent Spouted Cans, with a reversible top for packing or shipping, or to run to for refilling oiler for tool bag, is the most convenient arrangement for the purpose that we have ever seen.

Price, in pint cans, - - - 35 cents.
" quart " - - - 60 "

THE NEWARK LANTERN HANGER.

The most convenient accessory ever put on the market for a Crank Bicycle. No More Trouble with Lanterns.

The lantern can be taken off or put on in a second. It is attached to the fork of the machine (on either side) and can be adjusted to throw the light immediately in front of the wheel or a distance ahead, and allows the lamp to throw an uninterrupted light.

Price, $2.00. By mail, additional, 10c.

CARTER'S FOOT REST.

All riders of Star bicycles declare it one of the most important of "Star" accessories.

Patented Dec. 31st, 1886. You can't say too much for the "Foot-Rest." It should be on every Star. CONSTANT AT EASE. It can be attached to any Star machine at a height to suit. If you try the foot-rest you will never do without it.

Price, - - - $1.00.

THE STAR STEP.
IMPROVED.

There having been such a call for our Star Step, we have, at considerable expense, made up a new one of later design, particularly for the Special Star. We consider this step one of the necessities belonging to the Star, and from the numerous testimonials lately received we do not hesitate to strongly recommend it to all our friends using the Star.

Price, - - - $1.00.

POCKET OILER

Nicely made, with good screw top.
Price, 15c. Nickel, 25c.

STAR RIDERS' CARDS.

The accompanying cut will convey an imperfect idea of the very fine steel engraved card, especially designed for Star riders. At considerable expense we have had a steel plate made, after our now well-known design (Star coasting down a mountain side), we are prepared to furnish these cards at the following low prices:

Package of 50 cards, engraved, - - - $1.00.
Package of 50 cards, engraved and printed with name, - - - $1.25.

JERSEY COATS.

We are prepared to fill orders for Jersey Coats in Navy, Black and Gray, especially knit for cyclists' use, made with neat fitting collar and side pockets, resembling very closely the regulation L. A. W. cut coat.

The yarn used in manufacturing is heavier and stronger than used in Jersey cloth, and warranted to wear satisfactorily. They are particularly nice for touring, as they can be rolled up into a very small bundle without injury.

In ordering give chest measure and length of sleeve from centre of back.
Price, - - - $6.50.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT

Of our business has grown faster than we anticipated, and has taxed our facilities, but with increased space, we are now better able to meet any sudden call from the two thousand agents and dealers than ever before. We will take pleasure in making quotations to any agent that has not already received our Catalogue and Discount Sheet, and shall be glad to have a share of their future orders, as we are located within seven miles of New York, and connected by four railroads, trains running within ten minutes of each other during the day we shall be glad to have any of our customers visiting New York to give us a call.

RENTAL DEPARTMENT,

In Orange is in charge of Mr. W. W. Walters, located at 16 Park street, just around the corner from Main street, where we shall keep a full line of machines for renting. As we are agents for the Columbias, Stars, the American Cycles, Coventry Machinists' Co., New Rapids, Springfield Roadster, etc., etc., we believe we can show a stock inferior to none.

REPAIRING DEPARTMENT

Has been put in fine shape, and we are prepared to do anything in the repairing line. Give us a call.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents.

IF YOUR FOOT SLIPS,

You are in danger of a header. To prevent it, use the Columbia Double-Grip Pedal Rubbers, which give a greater bearing surface for the foot than any other pedal rubber. In all others the pressure of the foot comes directly on the bolt which passes through the rubber, while in the Columbia Double-Grip it bears on the outside edges of the rubber, insuring a firmer hold, increasing with additional pressure.

AN EASY MATTER to keep perfect record of riding. The Cyclist's Record Book, 50c. C. D. HATCHER, Sanford, Me.

The Cyclist's Road Book

—OF—
Connecticut and Westchester.

BY CHARLES G. HUNTINGTON.

What is Said It:

We can say without reserve that it is the only practical Road Book ever gotten out. It should be seen to be appreciated, and we cannot conceive how any rider in Connecticut or New England can afford to be without a copy. The price is ridiculously low considering the work.—Bicycling World.

Mr. Huntington's book is a pre-eminently not only the best, but the first practical Road Book ever published. It is the ideal Road Book, and a practical test of it will convince one that its merits, instead of being overestimated, have been underestimated.—Springfield Union.

The maps are an especial feature of the book. They show all the public roads of Connecticut and Westchester, a large map being devoted to each county. The Westchester map will make the book invaluable to touring wheelmen. The book is a valuable addition to touring literature, and we congratulate the compiler.—Wheel.

The Connecticut Road Book is meeting with popular favor, not only among cyclists, but among all who travel on the roads of the State.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

The road book is not only a helpful article, but an absolute necessity. The advantages of the book are so evident that no discussion of its merits are needed for. It meets the necessities of the case in as complete and satisfactory a manner as possible.—Hartford Times.

It may be doubted whether a book of greater practical value to many classes of the community has appeared in recent years.—Hartford Courant.

All the maps are new, and have been engraved expressly for the work. The roads and routes are laid down with remarkable accuracy.—New Haven Patriot.

It is a publication of interest to all who have occasion to travel over the highways of the State. There are comparatively few printed directions given. It tells the whole story without the reading of a word.—Hartford Post.

Of real practical value to wheelmen, and travellers by teams as well.—Bridgeport Farmer.

By Mail, $1.50. Connecticut Members of the L. A. W., $1.00.

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT.

GEO. D. HAZARD, Manager, 83 Equitable Building, Boston.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

Copy for new advertisements must be handed in by Tuesday morning, to insure their being inserted in the current week's issue. CHANGES must be in hand no later than Monday, to insure attention for the following issue.

All communications in reference to advertising should be addressed to Mr. Hazard as above.

All checks and postals for advertising or subscriptions must be made to the order of the Bicycling World Co., as heretofore.

TO ADVERTISERS: The circulation of the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN is more than the total circulation of the other weekly and monthly cycling periodicals combined, published in the United States. Bear this in mind, and give us YOUR patronage.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 1 JUNE, 1888.

LAST week we called attention editorially to the advertisement of the Maryland Division, setting forth a scheme whereby the coffers of the Division would be filled so that the Entertainment Committee might have ample funds to give the visitors a big time, and at the same time to give the subscribers a chance to recoup on the possibility of winning a valuable wheel. We again call the attention of our readers to this scheme, prospectus of which appears on page 108.

LUCK seems to be going against Rowe, for just as he seems to be getting into form and beating a few of England's cracks, he has the misfortune to fall and break his collar bone, besides hurting himself internally. This news if true would put Rowe out of racing for a good many weeks. The collar bone will of course heal and be good as new in time, but we regret to hear of "internal injuries," an unknown quantity which we all regret to know exists, and which we shall be anxious to hear are not serious.

IT has come to our knowledge that Chairman Gerry Jones has notified a well-known amateur that in case he competes on the road with a rider whom the L. A. W. Racing Board have adjudged a professional, his good standing as an amateur will be jeopardized. This is news, and is a change of front not expected from the Racing Board. Heretofore the Board has held that the L. A. W. could in no way recognize road racing, and it has further held that as it did not recognize road racing it could in no way forbid amateurs and professionals from competing against each other in road competitions. We have carefully looked over the official department of this paper, but we have failed to find any official announcement from the Racing Board that hereafter they intended to recognize road racing. It cannot be that Chairman Jones is ignorant of the policy of the Board on this matter as he has been a member of the Board for some time prior to his appointment as Chairman. We should be pleased to hear some official utterances on this question, as our readers would like very much to know just where the Board stands to-day on the question of controlling road races.

THE SUIT ON THE DURYEA PATENT.

We are in receipt of the following letter from the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., with request to publish:

"Editor Bicycling World:—There appeared in your issue of the 25th ult., on page 75, about the middle of the column, a paragraph evidently clipped from the Boston Globe, as follows:

"In the suit of the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. vs. the Pope Mfg. Co., on the Duryea saddle patent, heard in the Circuit Court in Chicago on the 14th ult., the Court decided for the defendant and dismissed the case. The Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. prayed an appeal, which was allowed upon their filing a bond."

Now, Mr. Editor, this paragraph conveys an absolutely false impression. The suit on the Duryea patent was not heard in the Circuit Court in this city. By reading the enclosed clippings from the Tribune of the 4th, and the Inter Ocean of the 15th ult., it will be seen that the Duryea patent case was not heard at all, the question merely being whether, under the recent changes in the statute in Congress, the Pope Mfg. Co. could compel us to sue them in some other district than this, in which they have a branch store. So far as we are concerned we had much rather fight our battles without the assistance of the reading columns of the cycling papers, but we are compelled, in self defence, to protest against wilful misrepresentation on the part of the Pope Mfg. Co. We might further comment to the effect that this matter is a case of the Pope Mfg. Co.'s running away from us, and perhaps when we go to Massachusetts they will raise the same technicality to avoid that State's jurisdiction, on the ground that they are organized under the corporation laws of the State of Connecticut and therefore not residents of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, then, if we go to Connecticut to render service upon them perhaps they will claim that they are residents of the city of Boston. We could, to be sure, sue Mr. R. D. Garden, their manager or agent in this city, but it looks to us as though they would not stand by their agent in that case, and we have no wish to make trouble for any of the agents of the Pope Mfg. Co., preferring to deal with the company itself rather than to undertake to intimidate or cripple the business of any bicycle agent. As to the appealing of the case and filing bond as is customary, we would say that our lawyers, to test the legality of Judge Blodgett's decision, as members of the Bar Association, and at their own expense and volition, desired to carry it to a higher Court, which we, of course, did not object to. We think the foregoing will prove convincing to any impartial reader. We might still further remark, however, that we have another suit in progress against the Pope Mfg. Co. on our Smith ball-bearing and Lillibridge saddle patents, which, being already under way, with their consent in the first place, must and will be heard in this district."

CAPTAIN WHITNEY AT HOME.

If there is a better known or more popular rider in New England than Ex-Captain Elmer G. Whitney, of the Boston Club, then we want to know him. It was a pleasant sight that greeted our editorial eyes last Saturday, as we descended the stairs of the club house, No. 36 St. James avenue, yes it was a pleasant surprise as we imagined the flesh and blood form that stood before us was shearing sheep hundred of miles away, on his ranch near Socorro, New Mexico. It was our privilege to be the first member of the Bostons to welcome him back under the club's roof tree, and it was our further privilege to be the first fellow-member with whom the returned wanderer sampled a glass of the famous club punch. The Ex-Capt. looked strong, brown, and rugged. The air of New Mexico, and the life he has been leading, have added muscle and taken away flesh. The winter climate he reports as fine. The life he and two white companions lead he says, is rough, and many times had his thoughts turned back longingly to dear old Boston and her civilized comforts. The main road or trail that leads for hundreds of miles through Colorado and New Mexico he reports as fine for cycling, and he had just received his Victor Safety the day before he left for the East. He says that for months he had not seen a bit of green grass, and when he struck Kansas and saw the verdant sward again, he thought it was the prettiest sight he ever saw, but when he passed the suburbs of Boston, on the B. & A. R. R., he said he appreciated for the first time in his life, the exquisite beauty of "Boston's pride." He told us many interesting stories of his life in New Mexico. He will stay in Boston about a month, and then once more turn his face towards his ranch in the South West.

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

BEAUTIFUL England, with thy leafy lanes, green fields, singing birds, and good roads, you are hard to beat at this time of the year by any country. Walking this morning in a garden with the manager of a great cycle works, Mr. Walter Philips, of Rudge fame, to wit, we ascended an eminence which overlooked the numerous nurseries and gardens, which Coventry, for its size, holds premier honors, and a prettier sight I never saw. The sweet incense of thousands of blooming fruit trees and flowers seemed to be offering up a jubilee offering on this Sabbath morn. The roads too are very good considering the past three weeks of dry weather, and a ride to the famous Kenilworth Castle with the well-known racing cracks, Rowe, Allard, Oxborrow, and a few others later in the day was very enjoyable, although mounted as we were on racers, I besriding a 54-inch 21 pound Rudge, Rowe on his Columbia, Oxborrow on a 28-pound Rudge bicyclette, and Allard on a 22 pound "Club." Looking over the visitors book in this "Castle," a place noted for cycle visitors, I saw among the 1885 visitors the magic names of London, W. (alias J. S. D.), A. H. Overman (with never a word about a certain "Victor") E. C. Hodges and Louis Harrison, members of the "Bosting Club," so goes the announcement. During my visit to William's, I mean Shakespeare's late abode at Stratford-on-Avon, I discovered the same names.

I RECEIVED a letter from Jules Dubois, the speedy Frenchman, the other day, and it was Jules' initial effort at writing English, so after telling me that he had won some races on the road in France "and was in very grand form," thusly: "This is my first English writing letter. What you tinks, chestnuts?" Well, I think my very vivacious France friend is "getting on," to put it mild. Speaking of Dubois, it reminds me of a little incident which amused me while he was with us last winter. One evening in Edinburgh I received a telegram from Coventry which read: "Meet me station eight o'clock Dubois." Having some writing to do after tea I worked steadily on and in looking at my watch found to my alarm it was five past eight. Seizing my hat I rushed down the street to meet Dubois, and ran over him as he was turning the corner to my hotel with his racing bicycle in one hand and his portmanteau in the other. After supper and a quiet stroll we returned to our hotel—the Waverley—well known for its temperance management and home-like comforts, and the good managers asked me what we wished for breakfast on the morrow. I turned to Dubois, and in pantomime language asked him what he wanted, "beef-steak or mutton chops?" "Mutton!"—and wait—he ejaculated, and darting up to his room, returned with his distinguished countryman, Max O'Rell's "Friend Donald," a book on the Scotch, as seen by O'Rell in a lengthy tour of Scotland. Running his finger down a page, he triumphantly exclaimed: "Porach," meaning "porridge," which this compiler of "Friend Donald" says is the Scots brain and muscle. "Mutton!" and Porach" was Jules' diet while in Scotland.

As an article of food for cyclists, I have found in my experience as a racing cyclist, and from my experience with cyclists, is possibly the most wholesome of any food partaken of, no matter if it is cheap and coarse, and the Scotch know how to make it. "If people only partook solely or more of it there would be little for our doctors to do," was the response to a question by me by Dr. Allen (late of the Mercury Bicycle Club of New York), and now president of the Scottish Cyclist Union. Max O'Rell says: "It is porridge that makes such men as Livingstone, Gordon, Carlyle, Burns, Scott, Chalmers, men of iron nerve, intellectual ability and brave, and makes a Scotchman safe from competition, for with his porridge, cool head, easy digestion, and low rate of expenses, who can compete with such a man?" O'Rell might have gone further and said that the backbone of Scotch success make champions Howell, Temple, Rowe, Allard, Wood and all fast cyclists eat porridge daily winter and summer.

I RECEIVED a letter the other day from Cleves M. Moore, of Munich, Bavaria, well-known Cincinnati, Ohio boy, who is studying in Munich, and is President of the Munich Velocipede Club, the largest in Bavaria. We expect to meet Mr. Moore in July as he has invited the American team to appear in the splendid quarter-mile track, owned by the M. V. C., and in company with Dubois, Allard and others we will endeavor to visit the land of the unfortunate Ludwig family. By the same mail I received a letter from Christiana, Norway, from my Norwegian friend, Alexander Paulson the fastest ice skater possibly in the world, who made such short work of American skaters in the winter of 1884, at Brooklyn, Chicago, and other places. I had a hand in arranging the Paulson brothers Western tour, and it seems friend Alexander saw our names in a paper and wrote, inviting us to come and give them a day at Christiania, in their two-mile course. I'm afraid we cannot visit the land of the Leake and Golden escapades. T. A. S. Walker, editor of Der Radfahrer, Berlin, writes me that the authorities have at last consented to allow tricycles to be used in the streets of Berlin, and that it argues well for our international tournament there June 10, 11, and 12. The American minister and the Crown Prince of Germany have promised to be present one of the days. Temple is keeping his "stock smile" in good order for the occasion, and hopes to convince "the hope of the Prussians" that he originally came from Nurnberg, and was on familiar terms with Martin—I mean Luther—although for advertising purposes he calls himself an American, but cannot claim to be thoroughly "representative," as there is no Indian in his make-up. But returning to the "graciousness" of the officials of the city of "iron rule," don't you think, dear reader that Frederick and his subjects are much behind the times in this enlightened age? and when I read Mr. Walker's letter: "Have at last consented to allow tricycles to be used in the streets of Berlin," I murmured, the land of bologna sausage, pretzels and Herrs and Vons, is some years behind the times. Germany, English travellers tell me, is ruled by police in a most despotic manner, and I fancy a good old-fashioned revolution against monarchy and official superstition would be well for the future of the nation.

I HAVE recently preserved clippings copied and observations by English journals on American cycling and individuals, and find the BICYCLING WORLD is credited and quoted in one month with thirty-eight quotations, and the other combined American cycle journals twenty-three times. This should prove a very satisfactory showing of the influence the WORLD yields.

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THE work on the cycling track has been begun, and it is expected it will be in readiness for practice in the course of a month or so. The Ramblers B. C. Club have made arrangements with the fair managers, whereby its members and professional riders only will have the privilege of using the track between now and September. As Mr. Ducker stated in the WORLD AND BULLETIN of May 18th, should the track and grounds be in shape by July 4th the Ramblers will hold a "pony tournament" and field day, including cycle and foot races and other out-door sports, and a grand pyrotechnic exhibition in the evening. This will act as a "feeler" for the big tournament in September.

CAPTAIN HAUENSTEIN wishes an authority on bicycle-club drills. Now, one at a time, gentlemen. [We sell a book on club drills.—ED.]

The club runs of the different organizations are largely attended, which must be very gratifying to their captains. Keep it up, boys, it looks well.

F. A. BRINKER climbed the steep Silver Creek Hill, making the third man who has mastered the feat, E. N. Bowen being the first. Its "Billy" Shack's turn now.

THE Buffalo Club have adopted a dark blue uniform, sack coat turn-down rolling collar. F. A. Hodge furnishes the uniforms, C. F. Georgan the caps, and J. R. Baldwin the stockings.

MR. ADDINGTON, of the East Aurora Fair Association, honored me with a call. He informs me the association intends holding a tournament July 4th. He has invited the Ramblers and Buffalo clubs to attend.

THE Ramblers have a mascot in the form of a "Kaiser dorg, mit ein dwoisted schwanz." He bears a charming existence, under the euphonious appellation, "Geschmidt." The boys wouldn't part with him at any price.

THERE will be quite a scarcity of wheelmen in this city on Decoration Day. The Ramblers expect to have a full club attendance to Lewiston, the Buffalos about fifty or more to Erie, Pa., and numberless other parties to various different places.

SOMETHING like $500.00 will be expended in furnishing the Ramblers' new club rooms. Tickets have been issued, and quite a number already sold, for the bicycle raffle; the Gormully & Jeffery Light Champion being the make. The club deserves the success it is striving for.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

ON Sunday, 20 May, W. G. Wilson, a popular member of the Hudson County Wheelmen, met with what easily might have been a very serious if not fatal accident. He was returning from a ride through the country, and while he on his wheel was riding along the towpath of the Morris Canal his thoughts were evidently far away. When he came to the Pacificavenue bridge, he seemed to have no thoughts as to its being a "low bridge," and striking a beam his wheel made a short turn, and plump into the cold water they both went. Fortunately for Mr. Wilson, who cannot swim, policeman Mulcox was at hand to give him a boost from the "raging canal." His wheel was O. K. and Mr. Wilson soon began to feel the same way, after a rubbing down and a change of clothing at the club house. "All's well that ends well."

HOWARD A. SMITH has said good-bye to his cane, his ankle and foot being entirely well.

CHARLEY STENKEN has ridden ten miles in 35.20 in practice over the Irvington-Milburn course.

W. H. CALDWELL, of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, covered twenty-five miles in 1.37.15 a few days ago.

At a special meeting of the Elizabeth Wheelmen on Tuesday (22) the Reverends Cunningham and Kerr were elected members.

THE Hudson County Wheelmen have entered Kluge, Stenken and Baggot to compete for the team trophy at the race meet of the Long Island Wheelmen, 2 June.

THE Elizabeth Journal says: "The roads are now in fair condition, a ride to Roselle on the dirt roads was passably good, and beyond that and on to Westfield, etc., very good."

THE Hudson County Wheelmen will go to Philadelphia as guests of the Pennsylvania B. C. Club on Sunday, 10 June. The features of the trip will be a run through Fairmount Park, up the Schuylkill River and over Lancaster pike.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

THE trials for the medals offered by the Queens Athletic Club for the best mile records are commencing to attract attention. When the track has attained that improvement that time and use will bring, some very fast time will undoubtedly be made. N. F. Waters, of the Brooklyn Club, made a mile to start the ball, on Saturday, May 19th, in three minutes and twenty-six and one-half seconds, which held good until the 23d, when it was beaten by R. H. Davis, of the Harvard Athletic Association, who made the mile in three twenty-one and a fraction, on an Ivel safety in a high wind. This track is open on Sundays for inspection and practice.

MESSRS. MEETEER and Barkman, of the B. B. C., are entitled to credit for work done in connection with the reduction of the tariff on the L. I. R. R.

THE long anticipated race meeting of the L. I. W. will be held tomorrow afternoon at the grounds of the B. A. A., corner of Classon and Dekalb avenues.

THE friendly rivalry between the ordinaries and the "goats" in the B. B. C. has resulted in the arranging of a race between Messrs. Corby and Jones, the former giving the latter seven minutes start in ten miles. The race will be run at Orange at an early date.

If any of our friends down in the wilds of Jersey should come across a lone, stray wheelman treat him well, for he is one of us, and wears a Mercury Wheel Club pin on the front of his cap. His line is passe-partouts, and he combines business with pleasure.

SCATTERING unattached wheelmen are commencing to come into the great century. For the benefit of those who are in doubt I wish to reiterate that they are as welcome as any others, and will be organized into a separate division by themselves if they enlist in sufficiently large numbers.

NOTHING has been heard lately of the project of a great combined meet of the wheelmen of the Metropolitan District on the Fourth of July. How would a big picnic, alfresco, do? There are any number of beautiful spots along the Sound, within easy riding distance, which could be obtained, and Flushing would make a good place to rendezvous. If the idea should take, our club will be glad to make the arrangements.

PITTSBURG and VICINITY.

"DUQUESNE."

THE mantle of glory has been yanked from the summit of Irwin's hill and for the present lies in a condition of innocuous desuetude, nine men having ridden the grade. It was first ridden by Murray in 1887, followed by Robinson. It was considered tough, but that was disproved a week ago, when six men climbed it in one day. Seidell was the first man up, Woods second, W. M. Justice third, A. C. Banker fourth, W. D. Banker fifth, and McGowan sixth. The following day Murray rode it twice without dismount, then Coleman rode it. It's terrible cold weather for the ordinaries, as none of the ordinary crank type have surmounted it. Nevertheless, I think Lenz would stand a good show with six and three-fourths-inch cranks. He did better than any of the "ordinary" riders, and if he can't get there, why "no one kin."

WHEN is the long-talked-of race between Alter and Young to take place?

THE Allegheny Cyclers are working hard for the greatest mileage. Lenz leads, with Taggart a good second; one of them will capture it.

THE Cycle and Athletic Association has secured its charter and is now in shape to do some practical work. Every good wheelman wishes it success.

T. B. LEE measured Irwin's hill, and approximated the gradient by means of an "Aneroid." Length, 734 feet; rise, 55 feet; with a rise of one in six and seven-eighths for 200 feet.

NEXT week I hope to give an account of the road race and hill climb to be given by the Beaver Valley Wheelmen on Decoration Day. The hill has never been climbed, and the man who climbs farthest will win, regardless of time. The fourteen-mile road race is over a hilly course, which will preclude any fast time.

O. H. ALLERTON left a few days ago for Harrisburg, Pa.; from there he goes a-wheel down the valley to the Shenandoah, which he will traverse on his way South; after taking in the Southern states, he will return Northward over a new route, a couple of hundred miles west of his original route. He will cover about two thousand miles on his safety.

"THE writer of this column to 'Keystone,' of the Wheel, greeting, and desires to state that the obnoxious specimen of the genus felis, mention of whom he made in last week's Wheel, is now no more. In accordance with a time honored custom the late lamented was in process of making his usual evening call one day last week, and while carelessly strolling across the lawn, ran against a rifle bullet, which put an end to the 'madding strife' of a dissolute life. Will either 'Duquesne' or 'Keystone' oblige the writer by composing a little sonnet dedicated to the departed after the style of 'Willie's Pants are Vacant Now,' or 'Papa's Pants will soon fit Willie?'—Pittsburg Bulletin. Nocturnal feline epics are not in my line, and if 'Keystone' does not sing, I think Coleman might be prevailed upon to turn the crank.

CHICAGO.

"DIRECT SPOKE."

THAT enterprising West Side club of ours, the Illinois, have just opened their new club house. These young men deserve a great deal of credit. Their new house is a large, handsomely built structure, and will hold the 150 members of the club in good style—by the way it is amazing when one stops to look at the advance in cycling interest our city has had this year. The Fort Dearborns (formerly the Owls) have branched out in a style that is at once surprising and grand. They have a membership of nearly 200, and have probably the handsomest club house west of New York.

THE Aeolus Bicycle Club have leased their present quarters for another year.

HARRY COREY has been appointed judge for the Pullman road race—certainly a wise selection.

SPRINGFIELD has the Illinois Division meet for "88." Chicago will be well represented. Several of our clubs intend to call club tours to that city. Special rates will be secured on the various railroads.

BOB GARDEN is in high feather over the Pullman road race ninety-one entries and twenty prizes, total value over $800.

Chicago would be a splendid city for Henry E. Ducker to take in on his Western circuit. Our wheelmen are "red-hot," and would be "with him" right through.

THE Fort Dearborns will have a grand opening June 8th. They have been busy preparing for this event, and will sustain their reputation as the "kings of entertainers" on that evening.

THE Chicago Bicycle Club has also had a boom and now stands squarely on its feet. These fellows have a suite of luxuriously furnished and handsomely decorated rooms in one of the immense business blocks of the city.

THERE is a certain sand hill on the Pullman road race course that has never been ridden over during the cycling season. Last winter, when it was somewhat hard, several of our hustlers managed to ride it, but never has it been done before.

W. A. RHODES is in our city, and will attempt to lower the record over the Pullman road race course. He will ride a Springfield Roadster—by the way the Springfield is getting a strong grip on Chicago. Hendee has been in Chicago for some time, and has fully demonstrated that it is a good wheel.

N. H. VAN SICKLEN, scratch man in the Pullman handicap, has been training hard lately, and has managed to get into splendid condition. Winship, the young flyer from the Fort Dearborn Club, has a start of 2.30 over him, and will, I think, hold it all the way through. He is rapidly developing into a flyer of no mean ability.

SHOULD I not mention the Lincolns, I would but have half told my tale of the wheel boom in Chicago. The Lincolns are scheming for a $40,000 club house. Their enthusiastic President, handsome Ned Oliver, is at the head of it, and he assures me it will be a big success. The Lincolns number about 140, and are a very lively crowd of boys.

QUITE a novel sight was presented in the Chicago Opera House last Thursday night to a large audience, who had assembled to witness the performance of Robson and Crane in the "Henrietta," promptly at 8 P. M. over 150 members of the Fort Dearborn Cycling Club marched into the theatre. The boys were in wheel costume and made a decided "hit."

NEW ORLEANS.

"BI."

THE first of the Louisiana Cycling Club's series for the "President's medal" was contested on the 13th inst., and was won by Lieutenant E. M. Graham, with eighteen seconds start, by thirty yards, in 8.32; R. G. Betts (scratch) second, time, 8.10; M. S. Graham (scratch) third, time, 8.11. The distance was two and one-half miles straightway, and the other contestants, their handicaps and order at the finish, as follows: J. W. Jay (25 seconds), L. J. Frederic (14 seconds), C. H. Fenner (10 seconds), G. C. Angamar (35 seconds), W. E. Hobson (18 seconds), H. H. Hodgson, tricycle (60 seconds). The race was the same old story of new men starting off for all that was in them and then dropping in short order, except in the cases of the first three, who cut a steady pace and held it, E. M. Graham surprising everyone in this respect, as his pace never once wavered, and in fact, until the last mile when they warmed up, he actually gained on the scratch men. The race between the latter was more "for blood" than the prize, and it was wheel and wheel until an eighth from the finish, when the pace told on Graham, and he weakened and fell back, finishing third by two lengths. The race between Jay and Frederic was also close and interesting, and the two will make an evenly matched pair for future events.

THE second of the series will be run June 14th, distance, 11 miles, and over a course that will make some of them awfully weary. If the run is made much inside an hour it'll be surprising.

THE N. O. Bi. Club has offered a medal to the member attending the greatest number of runs during this year.

THE Louisiana Club will century run next month.

ON June 3d both clubs will take a joint excursion to Bay St. Louis, Miss., a gulf resort fifty miles away. Shell roads are plentiful at the Bay, but walking and riding 'twixt here and there is very bad, trestles, swamps, etc. The boys will ride, however—in a train; so will the wheels till we get there. Both clubs are also down for a series of base ball matches.

A WEEK ago it looked as if quite a party would attend the Baltimore meet from here. Now it has dwindled down to two. Such is life; but let it go at that.

CHIEF CONSUL HODGSON's term will expire in August. He has done noble work in the past, but will crown it all with a master stroke. He has arranged to have a "liberty bill" introduced into the Legislature now in session, and methinks it'll go through. Harry is a hustler. Make a note of this.

FAIRCHILD with 556 and Betts with 396 miles led the Louisiana Cycling Club's mileage record for April. Fairchild has ridden nearly 3000 miles already this season. Can't see much fun in these five and six and seven hundred miles per month records, and I've been there.

PROF. ALPHONSE KING, with his water bicycle, has come and gone. While here he rode his "contrapshun" across the Mississippi in 24 minutes; distance, including an unavoidable detour he made, about one mile and a half. Ride made in midst of heavy rain and wind storm.

CHAS. FAIRCHILD and wheel trained it over to Ocean Springs last Sunday. They also took in Biloxi, and Charley reports the sand as "six feet and no bottom," and riding consequently at a decided discount. He won't go soon again.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE FOTLIST."

THE Springfield Bicycle Club have decided on June 21 as being the date on which they will hold their Field Day. Whitman's Grove, Agawam, will be the venue. A dinner will be served at 2 P. M., and then the rest of the day will be spent in playing games of base ball, foot ball, races, and all sort of field sports. None but members will compete, and a very few friends of the club will be invited.

THIRTY wheelmen from Springfield rode up to Holyoke last week, and were the guests of the Holyoke Wheel Club.

THE E. Hartford Club will hold a race meeting on July 4th. Prizes aggregating $500 in value will be awarded.

NEW ENGLAND wheelmen should not forget the Merchants and Miners Transportation Co. line of steamers as a charming method of going to and returning from the Baltimore meet.

THE Maine Division will probably hold its annual fall meeting at Lewiston. Races will form a feature of the meet, and all the State cranks, with Patten at their head, will participate therein.

THE Pequonnock Club of Bridgeport, Conn., propose to have a tournament and grand time out on the 4th of July. The New Haven Club will join them in making the affair a success.

WILL PARKER, a member of the Park City Bicycle Club, of Bridgeport, Conn., has rigged an incandescent electric light on his bicycle. It is run by a storage battery placed under the saddle.

WILSON HILL, Belfast, Me., is the Corey Hill of that section. It has only been ridden twice; once by W. E. Jones on a Springfield Roadster, and once by George E. Priest on an Expert Columbia.

IT seems that last week, in describing some road improvements to be done in Brockton, Mass., we should have stated that the repairs were to be made on the highways of Bridgewater and not Brockton.

THE Selectmen of E. Hartford, Conn., have gone to work in good earnest to macadamizing the highway of the Talcotts, near Talcottville. The stone crushers are to be conveniently located, and work will be pushed.

BERLO, Porter and Alexander, all went out to Corey Hill last Sunday morning, and all succeeded in climbing it. Young Porter in the afternoon accomplished the feat again, and also succeeded in riding down on the other side.

NOTHING in the way of cycling literature has received more flattering journalistic comment than the Connecticut Road Book. In our advertising columns this week, a number of press notices are quoted in connection with the announcement, which it will pay to read.

IT looks as if $10,000 Kelly would capture the bicycle offered by Jordan & Marsh for the best batting average of the Boston Club. We hope to be present at the ceremony of the presentation, and we also hope to be present at the initial attempt of the great Michael to ride his prize.

MR. CLARENCE HYDE, while scorching on the streets of Worcester with Mr. O. J. Fiske, took a nasty header. From all accounts it was a miracle that Hyde did not break his neck. A cab was procured and the hurt man was taken home. Luckily no bones were broken, and we trust Mr. Hyde is a wiser as well as a sadder man.

THE MARLBORO' CLUB TRICYCLE.

SOME nine Providence wheelmen are feeling a due amount of gratitude towards the officials of Cranston, R. I., because said officials did not proceed against them for riding on the sidewalk of that town. It gave the said nine a wholesome scare and hereafter the "highway" will be good enough for them. The manner of the officer in making the arrest, however, is strongly denounced.

THE subscriptions for the proposed New Haven to New York path are coming in. The Overman Wheel Co. have subscribed $100 to the cause. Mr. Fisher wishes us to say that those wheelmen in Hartford and Bridgeport to whom he has written will do him a favor if they will advise him by mail as to their intended help or otherwise. Mr. Fisher will be at Baltimore with his little sub. paper, and he expects to add to the amount of subs. very largely.

THE Quincy, Mass., steam road roller has been let to the town of Milton. Why is this, when the streets of Quincy are in such a wretched condition. The piece of road that was built from Quincy Point is in a wretched condition and the roller could be used to advantage and the town of Quincy be saved many dollars. The roads of Quincy have a local reputation of being the worst in the vicinity of Boston, and for no cause except the parsimony of the citizens.

WORK on the side path between Holyoke and Northampton is being rapidly pushed. One and one-half miles has already been laid from Smith's Ferry toward Holyoke, and it is expected to put a heavy roller over it within a day or two. The track is four feet wide, and will be curbed so that it will be impossible for teams to interfere with it. The path will cross the road at least twice. There will be two bridges and all the grades will be easy ones. The leading spirit in this enterprise is H. M. Farr of Holyoke, who has put much time and money into the project.

THE bicycle race between Taunton and New Bedford wheelmen for a silver cup will undoubtedly attract a great deal of attention. The Taunton club will be represented by Messrs. White, E. C. Anthony, C. E. Bolton, R. Borden and W. Rogers, while the New Bedford cyclists will put in the race Frank E. Weaver, Hayland Smith, Fred Smith, Crawford Dunham and Herbert A. Sisson. The distance is twenty miles, and the race will be decided on points, the first man in scoring ten, and so on till the last man has finished. It is stipulated in the deed of gift that the cup shall be raced for every year.

SUBSCRIPTIONS for the building of the proposed New Haven to New York path should be sent to A. G. Fisher, 27 Lyon St., New Haven, Conn. Nearly $500 has already been subscribed. Each wheelman who subscribes to the path—and no subscription of less than $5 will be received—is to be constituted a stockholder in the enterprise, and will receive a ticket and a badge, which will entitle him to the use of the path at all times. Touring wheelmen from other localities are to be provided with visitors' badges, which are to be dated and will be good only for one trip. Other riders using the path will be liable to arrest for trespass, and all the members of the association will be interested in enforcing this rule.

NEWSAND COMMENT.

HOWARD A. SMITH of Newark, N. J., lately injured his foot and ankle while riding. Mr. Smith is a wise man, as he had provided himself with an accident policy in the Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York; so when Mr. Smith hurt himself he sent in a claim which was allowed, and the company have just sent him a check for $50, to repair damages. This is a practical hint for cyclists in general.

Bicycling News publishes an excellent portrait of W. A. Rowe, and in the same issue states that his records are "bogus."

THE Connecticut road book should be in the hands of every rider in New England. It is a superb and most valuable work. See advertisement.

THE initial number of the Illustrated Buffalo Journal has come to hand. This paper will be devoted to the interests of the great Fair and Cycle Tournament to be held in Buffalo next fall.

A CORRESPONDENT from Williamsport, Pa., wants to know the best route from Plattsburg, N. Y., to Albany, N. Y., via Whitehall. Will riders along this route kindly furnish us with the desired information?

WE are requested to publish the following notice: The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway has arranged that wheelmen with bicycles may enter and leave the yards of the Union Depot, Milwaukee, at the East end of the enclosure, on Second street. The officer in charge at that point is duly authorized to examine tickets, and will refuse admittance unless railroad ticket is shown. Procure your tickets at down-town office, or at Union Depot ticket office, and do not under any conditions attempt to run your bicycle into building, either at main passenger entrance or through baggage room. Riding inside of inclosure is strictly prohibited.

WE are in receipt of the initial number of the Athletic World, to be published weekly in New York by Messrs. F. P. Prial and William Neuman. Both gentlemen are well known as being connected with the Wheel and C. T. R. The publication will deal with general athletics and out-door sports of every description. We wish Editor Prial and Manager Neuman every success in their new venture.

NO. 5040 thus writes us, and challenges the old ones to tackle him: "I see considerable talk about old riders in the B. WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN. I claim to be the oldest rider in the L. A. W., and if there are any older I want to know it. I am fifty-nine years old next August, I ride a fifty-inch Columbia Expert, and this is my third year, I learned to ride two years ago this month. If there are any riders in the L. A. W. fifty years or more of age that would like to ride for purse or medal, I should like to come in, and I would not object to riders forty-five years of age if they would handicap themselves enough to make it even."

ON June 3 Joseph L. Gard and C. C. Hopkins, of the Denver (Col.) Ramblers will start on a tour a-wheel across the prairies, the former going to Kansas City, and the latter through to Columbus, Ohio. The proposed route is along the Kansas Pacific R. R. to Kansas City, to Hannibal, to Springfield, to Indianapolis, and to Columbus—about 1400 miles. Hopkins expects to make the trip, under favorable conditions, in three weeks. A complete record of the roads will be kept. Gard rides a 52-inch, and Hopkins a 55-inch ordinary. W. S. Doane, of Boston, now in Denver, proposes riding to Boston on his wheel during the summer.

A good story is told about R. H. Childs, of the San Francisco Club. He was treating a young lady friend to a tricycle ride to the Cliff House, and was about to start from there on his way back when it became impossible to move the tricycle. Mr. Childs left it at the beach and walked with his companion all the way to the Haight-street terminus, it being after the Park and Ocean trains had stopped for the day. The next day an express wagon was sent for the injured machine, when lo! It was found that the only thing the matter with it was that the brake had been put on hard, and Mr. Childs had neglected to loosen it when about to start for his return trip. This story would indicate a very precarious condition of the Child's mind, a condition which all susceptible young men will appreciate.

OR the Connecticut Road Book the Springfield Union says: "Mr. Huntington deserves the congratulations of every wheelman on producing so perfect a work. And he not only deserves congratulations, but the hearty thanks of every true lover of the wheel. There are road books, and road books, but Mr. Huntington's book stands pre-eminently as not only the best, but the first practical road book ever published. Fortunate the wheelman who has one of these in his possession, as it can easily be pocketed, and instead of the usual pondering over a mass of confusing names and unintelligible descriptions, in the 'Road Book of Connecticut' the cyclist will have a book that he can read and understand as he runs. It is the ideal road book, and a study and a practical test of it will convince one that its merits instead of being overestimated have been underestimated. It is certainly a book that will be of inestimable value to every Western Massachusetts wheelman as well as for members of the Connecticut Division of the League of American Wheelmen, for whom it was compiled." See advt.

UNDER date of 25 May, Karl Kron gives us an order for "Pedal and Path" (advertised elsewhere in this paper), for sending to one of the copartners who is selling "X.M. Miles" for him in Australia, and he writes as follows: "On this anniversary of the day when the final form of my book was printed, I ask your sympathy for the ill-luck by which the pamphlets that are designed to advertise said book are kept for three months in the clutch of the insolvency court. I cannot get hold of them until the affairs of my bankrupt printers are settled, though the failure is no fault of mine. The applications now on file for pamphlets (150 pages of 'press notices' and specimens) exceed 200, and include nearly 50 from Great Britain; but I am quite willing to add another thousand to this free-list, as fast as the postal cards containing the addresses can be mailed to me at Washington square, New York. The gift-book, which may thus be secured for the modest outlay of one cent, impresses more printed matter than any cycling book existing at the end of 1886, and the distribution of 5000 copies thereof will begin just as soon as 'the law's delays' allow."

TO "PEDALS."

Oh! Pedals, now you've done it,
You've put Illier on his ear,
And I see your rounded pipstems
A-trembling in your fear.

Your production was poetic,
But it was an awful slip,
For it worked George to a humor,
To smite us head and hip.

And the Britishers are kicking
At our records and our Rowe,
But, confound the cynic creatures,
Can their brains be made of dough?

We have honor in this country,
As we'd have George Lacy know,
And if he's judging us by English tactics,
Why, he can stomach his own crow.

Despite Dick Howell's beating him,
We have faith in Billy yet,
And believe he'll show his baby wheel
To Dickey bird, their pet.

Now hear me, dear Pedals,
Billy took your kind advice,
He friz on to the "ped-work,"
And frizzed like so much ice.

And you, too, dear B. WORLD,
Wont to give head-work a rap,
You see it worked a feather
Into Richard Howell's cap.

So fight it down no longer,
Leg-work is good and right,
But without good sense and head-work,
One is apt to lose the fight.

THE BALTIMORE MEET.

WHILE Baltimore is first in many great enterprises, as shown in the article of last issue, she is not, in the holding of League meets, but she has one great advantage, viz., the experience of others to be guided by. Consequently, in arranging the meet this year, the aim has been to improve on weak points exhibited at former meetings, though they are few, we must admit. On the other hand, the brilliant precedent established by other cities must be maintained. To do both we have endeavored to arrange a programme that we hope will be attractive enough to induce the largest attendance ever at any former meet, which, in brief, is as follows:

The first day, Monday, June 18th, will be devoted principally to the business meetings, which will be held in the concert hall of the Academy of Music. Meeting of the Board of Officers at 9 A. M.; the constitutional convention at 2 P. M.; and the meeting of the Board again at 8 P. M. During the morning and evening, while the Board is in session, there will be numerous runs for those who do not have to attend these meetings; and in the afternoon, while the constitutional convention is in progress, the ladies' run will be taken.

On the second day, Tuesday, June 19th, at 9 A. M., the parade will start from Boundary avenue and Charles street and pass over a short route, which has been selected for its beauty, through the most attractive portion of the city, and over mostly asphalt pavements, with a very little Belgian block, which is well kept and affords easy riding, and disband in Druid Hill Park, where the League photographs will be taken, and cooling refreshments served, after which the route will be taken again towards Arlington Driving Park, over the Pimlico road, as described last week. Upon arriving there a bountiful lunch will be served, and here, with a fine and fast (half-mile) track, an interesting list of ten events, among which will be the one-mile L. A. W. championships for both bicycle and tricycle, a large field of starters, and the attendance of Baltimore's fairest daughters, only blue skies will be required to render the races one of the most pleasing entertainments of the meet. The races will be started at 3 P. M., sharp, and be over in time to allow the visitors to reach their hotels by 6 P. M. At 8 P. M. a Grand National Smoker will be inaugurated at the Concordia Opera House. A gymnastic, acrobatic, musical, dramatic, serio-comic and farical "go-as-you-please" entertainment will be furnished from the stage.

On Wednesday, June 20th, the third and last day of the meet, besides the many beautiful and attractive runs over the famous shell-roads and others, a grand excursion down the Patapsco River, Chesapeake Bay and Severn River will start from Light Street Wharf at 3 P. M., sharp. The mammoth steamer "Columbia," sister ship to the "Grand Republic," will sail down the harbor, giving a fine view of the port; past Fort McHenry, with its historic interest and poetical inspiration, as illustrated by Francis Scott Key, and touching at Canton Wharf to pick up the tourists from the run down the shell road; past Fort Carroll, out into the noble Chesapeake, past numerous light houses and enter the Severn River, landing at the ancient city of Annapolis, the capital of Maryland, and cherished by every American who remembers that grandest act of the "Father of our country," who here delivered up his commission. After an hour spent in roaming about the delightful United States Naval Academy grounds, all aboard again, and swinging around into the Chesapeake Bay, make fast to the wharf at the point of destination, Bay Ridge, the Coney Island of Baltimore. A dip into the briny, a saunter about the beach, or an indulgence in the many amusements at the famous resort, has sharpened appetites that must be pleasantly appeased, and the means are at hand in luxurious abundance. A supper on the unique products of the bay, combined with those of the land, and the average wheelman is ready for something more. A fine orchestra has enlivened the trip, and now it takes station in the Opera House and pours forth entrancing strains that cause agitation among the dainty feet of the pretty maidens and matrons. So, "on with the dance, let joy be unconfined," until the approach of the mystic hour when all are homeward bound. Eleven o'clock—a boom—a shrieking shell—a sharp explosion, and myriad dancing lights high in mid-air give the signal for all aboard. "Cast off there, fore and aft!" and once more the prow of the majestic steamer parts the waters of the Chesapeake. It is a heavenly moonlight, and the return trip of thirty miles is all too short. Music and moonlight, phosphorescent waters and gleaming skies, effulgent stars and admiring mortals—ah, if it could but go on forever! but no, the noble ship with its happy freight touches the wharf, and the Ninth Annual Meet is a pleasant memory of the past—Vive la L. A. W.

To those who have never been to the National capital, the meet will afford a good opportunity to visit it, as it is only an hour's run down there, and a few hours' riding over the smooth asphalt pavement and a glimpse at the public buildings, are worth the trouble of the journey, and you will be gladly welcomed by the cyclists of that city.

SHURMAN KNOCKS THE FORDS HILL RECORD.

"Special to the World."

SHURMAN climbed Fords Hill, Philadelphia, seven consecutive times without a dismount, on a Springfield Roadster. He finished fresh and could have gone up more times but darkness prevented.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1888.

SHURMAN GETS THE RECORD ON EAGLE ROCK

ONE of the greatest feats on record in the way of hill-climbing was performed yesterday afternoon on the famous Eagle Rock Hill in Orange. J. H. Shurman, on a Springfield Roadster, rode from the corner of Broad and Market streets to the summit of Eagle Rock and back to the starting place, without dismounting, three times in succession. The feat was witnessed by nearly a thousand people who had been attracted there by an announcement in Saturday evening's paper that the feat would be attempted. The start was made at 3.39, from the sign post to "To Montclair." Frank Brock and another of the New York Bicycle Club men were at this point to take the time, while at the top of the hill was E. J. Decker, C. L. S. Walker, W. W. Walters, Messrs. Silver, Paxton and others. Shurman started up the hill as though it had no grade. Upon reaching the top he wasted no time, but came down at a pace which was simply terrific, the "coast" from the summit to the starting point could not have occupied much more than two minutes. He passed the starting point, turned and went off for a second trip at precisely 3.56, or 17 minutes from the first start; up and down, a turn around and off he went on the final at 4.09 3-4, the second round trip taking 13 3-4m. The last trip was the quickest by far, as he passed the finish at just 4.22 1-2, or 12 3-4m. for the round trip. This is the first time any person has ever mounted the hill more than once without a dismount, and the record will probably stand until Mr. Shurman beats it himself. At the finish he was as fresh as a daisy and said he could easily have made a fourth trip if necessary. This is a great victory for Shurman and the Springfield Roadster. To-day he is in Philadelphia for the purpose of knocking out Mr. Wells' records on Fords Hill. Percy M. Harris is with him.

RATCHET

CHICAGO-PULLMAN RACE.

(Special Telegram to the World.)

THE great event to which Chicago wheelmen have been looking forward for weeks, the annual road race from Chicago to Pullman, came off to-day. It was the second held here, both having been promoted by R. D. Garden, manager of the Pope Manfg. Co's. branch house. Last year the number of entries and the grand list of prizes far eclipsed the expectations of even the most sanguine, and this year's event was even more successful. No less than eighty-six men sent in their entries, although the race was strictly confined to members of local clubs. The handicap, which was made known a week ago through the columns of the Referee, did not give satisfaction, but this is not to be wondered at, inasmuch as there has been absolutely no means of gauging the prowess of the men owing to the absence of any record in the racing line.

As early as nine o'clock there were hundreds of people on Michigan avenue, and by ten fully five thousand people lined the street, a large number of policemen having all they could do to keep the roadway clear. At this hour everything was in readiness, and the riders commenced to assemble in the roadway. Among the on-lookers were Harry Corey of Boston, Art. A. Taylor of the Pope Mfg. Co., Chas. F. Stokes of the Springfield Bicycle Co., R. P. Gormully, L. W. Conkling representing the Victor, P. E. Stanley, President of the Chicago Athletic Association, and many others equally well known.

Promptly at 10.10, Paul Stege, F. J. Roberts, W. O. Munford, C. A. Stokes and A. W. Harris, the limit men, were sent on their way. The scratch man, Van Sickler, started at 10.24, and six minutes later Rhodes, on a Springfield Roadster, started to beat the best record over the course. There were in all starters.

As soon as the last man had departed, the officials and at least five hundred spectators made a rush for the Illinois Central train, arriving at Pullman only a few minutes before the first rider came in sight. The crowd at the finish was tremendous, and it seemed as if all Pullman had turned out in honor of the event. Great excitement prevailed, and it was with difficulty that a course was kept clear.

The first six men in were as follows:

1. A. Lumsden, Fort Dearborn Club, 11m. handicap.
2. J. Sage, Fort Dearborn Club, 13m. 30s. handicap.
3. H. E. Loveday, Illinois Club, 9m. handicap.
4. H. E. Saur, Lincoln Club, 7m. handicap.
5. F. E. Spooner, Lincoln Club, 7m. 30s. handicap.
6. W. B. Greenleaf, Fort Dearborn Club, 8m. 30s. handicap.

Winners' actual time, 54m. 47 seconds.

H. R. Winship, of the Fort Dearborn Club, made the fastest time, which was 53m. 20s. W. A. Rhodes did not break record, he going over the course in 54m. 52s.

THE MULE.

RESULTS OF THE ALPHABETICAL ASSOCIATION'S ROAD RACE.

(Special telegram to the World.)

AN anxious lot of cyclists we had here last night when it rained, anxious for fear that the rain would fall and the floods descend and spoil our long-looked-for road race. When the early bird saw that the weather would probably be propitious, eager preparations were made to get out to the starting point. Early in the forenoon the boys began to show up on the streets and avenues of Newark in goodly numbers, and the majority of them wended their way mountainward, some going to Park avenue, some to Central or Springfield avenues, and others going by way of Clinton avenue. But, no matter which road they took this morning, none of them failed to "catch on," by some route or another, to the Irvington-Milburn course. Considering the almost incessant rains of the past few weeks, the course was not in as bad condition as it might have been.

Long before noon people began trooping up Springfield and Clinton avenues from the direction of Newark; each car brought its share, and at one o'clock it was safe to say that four thousand spectators were on the course between the flagpole and Campbell's Dam. Taking a hurried glance from side to side as we move along the course one sees many familiar faces, and is able to point out uniforms of nearly every cycling club within twenty miles of the course. In the way of mounts this is the place to "pay your money and take your choice."

Everything looks green and fresh along the road, and as the "chosen ones" saunter up to their respective marks, each face wears that determined look which seems to say, "if I don't come out at the head I'll at least make somebody pull to beat me." Every one of the thinly clad flyers looks "as fit as a pin," and each one receives a perfect ovation as he comes to the front. The starters and results:

Kings County Wheelmen, Brooklyn—T. J. Hall, T. L. Wilson, Beazley, W. C. Marion; 34 points.

Brooklyn Bicycle Club—H. L. Bradley, W. S. Mead, J. W. Stenken, E. P. Baggott; 34 points.

Schoefer, J. F. Borland; 32 points.

Hudson County Wheelmen—C. E. Kluge, F. Gubleman, C. A.

Elizabeth Wheelmen—W. H. Caldwell, S. J. Berry, Jr., L. B.

Bonnett, G. C. Pennell; 20 points.

Time men finished as follows:

C. E. Kluge, Hudson County Wheelmen,	*1.30.00
E. B. Baggott, " "	*1.30.00 1-4
H. L. Bradley, Brooklyn,	*1.30.01
T. L. Wilson, Kings County Wheelmen,	1.31.30
W. H. Caldwell, Elizabeth Wheelmen,	1.32.10
T. J. Hall, Kings County Wheelmen,	1.34.06
W. S. Mead, Brooklyn,	1.34.16
L. J. Berry, Jr., Elizabeth Wheelmen,	1.34.48
Beazley, Kings County Wheelmen,	1.35.52
J. W. Schoefer, Brooklyn,	1.36.12
W. C. Marion, Kings County Wheelmen,	1.36.44
J. F. Borland, Brooklyn,	1.39.22
F. Gubleman, Hudson County Wheelmen,	1.39.59
C. A. Stenken, " "	1.41.09
L. B. Bonnett, Elizabeth Wheelmen,	1.43.00
G. C. Pennell, " "	Fell; did not finish.

* American record.

Notwithstanding the rain of last night, the road was in fair condition. The lower part was good, the upper part was heavy. The New York Club withdrew. In the 23d mile Kluge took a header, but he was not much hurt, and he finished in good shape. On the 14th mile Stenken was taken sick, fell and cut his left hand badly, but pluckily remounted and finished. On the 22d mile Pennell took a fearful header, was picked up insensible, was cared for by a physician and taken home in a carriage. It was the finest race ever held, and the first three men in broke the record. Thomas Stevens acted as referee.

Newark, N. J., May 30.

THE VETERANS' RACE.

We have received only one entry for our proposed aged mens' race at Baltimore this month, and that name is C. H. Stone, of St. Louis. We should have at least half a dozen entries in order to make the affair a success. In order that we may make the necessary arrangements, we shall have to ask those who contemplate entering, to send in their names so that they reach us by June 13.

THE ONE-MILE SAFETY RECORD.

At Coventry on Saturday, May 12th, F. W. Allard, mounted on a "Swift" safety, made by the Coventry Machinists' Co., succeeded in beating the one-mile safety record, 2m. 39s., made by A. P. Engleheart. Allard was carefully paced by W. A. Rowe and W. J. Morgan, and finished full of running, his times being:

	M. S.	Previous Record.
1-4 mile	- - - *39 4-5	41
1-2 "	- - - 1 18 2-5	1 17
3-4 "	- - - *1 53 3-5	1 59

This is still another feather in the cap of the Coventry Machinist people.

THE AMERICAN TWENTY-FIVE-MILE ROAD RECORD.

W. L. VAN HORN's twenty-five-mile road race took place Sunday, May 20th, at 9.45 A. M., and was a finely contested handicap race. The course is six and one-fourth miles long, and was run over four times. There were four hills on the course, and a sandy surface, so the riders had sixteen hills to climb, as well as the sandy surface to ride over. The winner, Robert Gerwing, won from the scratch in the splendid time of 1 hour 30 min. and 40 sec., which is the amateur record for America. Gerwing rides a 55-inch Apollo. There were ten starters, as follows:

R. Gerwing, scratch,	- - - 1 30 40 Record.
R. Creek, 15 minutes,	- - - 1 46 37
J. Collins, 7 minutes,	- - - 1 39 43
J. D. Park, 9 minutes,	- - - 1 45 00
H. E. Peck, 6 minutes,	- - - 2 00 00
J. C. Epmeter, 7 minutes,	- - -

Morris, Kennedy, Pynchon, Davis and Mulligan did not finish.

Mulligan rides a 36-inch Ideal, is fourteen years of age, and he had 15 minutes start; he went off at a good clip and rode about a mile, and getting tired, jumped off and rolled in the dirt and came back saying that he had taken a bad header and could not finish. Croll was one of the starters, and took a header, shaking his teeth pretty badly, and is now using milk diet. Says he is going into the next race, and is going to "do" the boys. Bob Gerwing is a fast man, and is capable of beating any of the Eastern amateur riders with ease for twenty-five miles or better. The officers of the race were as follows: Starter, W. L. Van Horn; judges, W. S. Doane, Geo. E. Hamon; scorers, Harry Gordon and E. R. Rice; timers, Geo. E. Hallett, B. Backman. The time was very carefully taken, and the course measured by Lakin cyclometers. W. S. D.

[Our correspondent is correct as to this being record. The best previous twenty-five-mile record was made by C. E. Kluge, in November, 1887, his time being 1:31.03 1-2.—Ed.]

[At the time the above was put in type, it was record, the performance of Kluge, Baggott and Bradley, in New Jersey, beat it.—Ed.]

THAT SAN FRANCISCO RECORD RIDE AND ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

Editor Bicycling World: Might I be allowed a little space in your columns in relation to the "famous" run of the San Francisco's to San Jose on Saturday, February 25?

There were some mistakes in the accounts published on March 25, which I will correct. Seven (7) men of the San Francisco Bicycle Club, consisting of Messrs. B. C. Austin, Jr., A. A. Mathews, Harrison Houseworth, Fred. Hess, Jr., F. J. H. Manning, W. A. Ruthrauff and C. Union Brewster left on the 4 P. M. boat from San Francisco and rode to Fruit Vale, leaving the train and taking their wheels at 5 o'clock; the pedaling was rapid, and with but one stop before arriving at Centreville, and that was one of ten minutes at San Leandro. They arrived at Centreville at 6.40, making the run in 1h. 30 min. actual time—the distance 22 1-2 miles by cyclometer, as against 26 published.

They left Centreville at 8.15, and allowing a minute stop at Milpitas made the time 1h. 50 min. to San Jose, as we arrived there at 10.10 P. M., distance in round numbers 42 1-2 miles, whole time riding, 3h. 20 min.

Now the fact that they held the rapid pace into Centreville without trouble has set some of them to thinking that they could get into San Jose inside of 2 hours by using daylight clear through, and on next Saturday, May 26th, three of us, Messrs. Austin, Mathews, and myself, are going to give the time a trial—although the roads are in no where near the condition they were on February 25th.

We shall each take documentary evidence, have the paper signed by the conductor as to our time of leaving the train—at Centreville as to our arrival and departure, the same at Milpitas, if we stop there, and when we reach the St. James Hotel; we shall also take the cyclometer register at all places, and forward a copy of the whole to you.

If people call us l—s for 3.20, we will try and give them an opportunity to add a — in front of it.

We will make but (2) two stops, one at Centreville, about ten minutes, and the same at Milpitas, although the latter depends upon how we feel, as San Jose is but 7 miles further on, we may not stop at Milpitas at all.

We take the 2 o'clock boat and expect to reach San Jose about 6 o'clock or before.

Hoping some of the wheelmen will do me the justice to think I am telling the truth, I will sign my name as well as number.

Fraternally and truthfully yours,

C. UNION BREWSTER, 15377.

WICHITA'S INDIGNATION.

THE constant reader of the BICYCLING WORLD will perhaps remember an article from Detroit Twinkler in the issue of April 27th. To doubt that the Star Bicycle Club had an enjoyable time during Miss Emma Abbott's engagement in their city would be a discredit to America's favorite actress. Neither has Wheelman cause to think that the Star Club had a jolly time on their Mt. Clemens run which immediately followed. But when he winds up his article by saying: "and talk about fun, I don't believe you Easterners know what the word means, so come here and we will teach you." It sounds like ignoring all wheelmen who happen (from choice) to be so unfortunate as to live west of Detroit longitude. A gentle hint to the writer for Washington Ladies' Cycle Club might also be in place. It is well enough to remember that the number of cyclists' west of the aforesaid places is no small item. To the correspondents who refer to their fellow-cyclists as "Easterners," allow a Kansan to suggest, that if they want to see the wheelman's paradise—roads the like of which they have never seen—come to Wichita, and a thoroughly organized club of thirty wide-awake and enthusiastic members called Wichita Wheelmen will take pleasure in showing them God's country.

A fifty-mile State record will be made by a member of this club on the 27th.

Kansas wheelmen are loath to understand why the rate to the National meet extended no further west than St. Louis. However, the writer will endeavor to mingle with the "Easterners" on that occasions. ***

DECORATION DAY NOTES.

THE rain spoiled the proposed picnic of the Massachusetts Division. It was decided to hold a mammoth smoker at New Era Hall, Boston, last night (Thursday) and get away with the provisions provided for the picnic.

At Waltham, (Mass.) Victor Kuhn beat A. H. Hale in the match for $50 per side. The distance was 25 miles, but Hale quit at 12 1-2 miles.

At the same place E. T. Bigelow won the 12 1-2-mile race, beating A. W. Porter and A. A. Brown. Bigelow fell, but he won in spite of the accident.

At the same place C. A. Adams won the 6 1-2-mile race, beating J. F. Lauthlin.

The meet at Portland of the Maine Division was a success, over 100 members being present. G. M. Worden on a Springfield Roadster won the hill-climbing contest on Clark St. Hill. This is the first time the hill has ever been climbed on a bicycle. It is 1132 feet long, and the grade is one in seven and one-half; 3000 people witnessed the contest. R. L. Patten and George Barnes also succeeded in reaching the top.

GRADE OF SON-OF-A-GUN HILL.

WE are indebted to the St. Louis Spectator for a table of the grades of this famous hill. We quote: "This hill is only little more than half as long as Ford's Hill, but the surface is abominable and there is no comparison as to grades. These measurements and levels were made carefully and certified to Dec. 2d and 3d, 1883, by Cola E. Stone, E. M. Starr and T. J. Reynolds, and neither the surface nor the grades on that kind of a hill improve by age. The length of the hill is 1,144 feet, and in this distance it rises 108 1-4 feet, an average of one in 10 1-2 for the whole distance. Beginning at the foot of the hill and taking a level at each change of grade, the result is as follows:

BICYCLIST ROWE INJURED.

HE DEFEATS WOOD, THE NORTH OF ENGLAND CHAMPION, BY TWO FEET.

(Cable to the Globe.)

LONDON, May 26.—William A. Rowe, the American bicyclist met with a serious accident in a contest at Jarrow to-day. His collar bone was broken, and he received internal injuries. Rowe beat Wood, the North of England champion, by two feet.

"PEDAL AND PATH," one of the most entertaining stories of a bicycle trip over and back across the Continent ever written, see advt. Send in 25 cents for a copy. It's value received.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

LEAGUE members who desire place in the League tour, are respectfully requested to make application before June 9, to prevent delay in making final arrangements.

W. S. BOMBERGER, Tourmaster.

THE GREAT CENTURY RUN.

NEW YORK TO PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 16th, 1888.

GENERAL PLAN.—Rendezvous at Newark, Friday afternoon, June 15th, (afternoon run around the Oranges); leave Newark 4 A. M., Saturday, June 16, via Elizabeth to Plainfield, (short rest); to Sumerville, (rest and refreshments); to Trenton, (mid-day dinner and rest); to Philadelphia, via Bristol and Camden, 92 miles in all; finishing the Century on the Lancaster Pike in company with the Philadelphia Wheelmen. Mr. W. R. Tucker, of the Associated Cycling Clubs, has charge of the latter part of the run.

The main run will be under the command of Capt. L. A. Clarke, of the Mercury Wheel Club, from Newark to Plainfield; under Capt. F. L. C. Martin, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, from Plainfield to Trenton; and under Capt. W. M. Crozer, of the Trenton Wheelmen, from the latter city to Philadelphia. Messrs. Fuller and Murphy, of the Brooklyn and K. C. W. clubs respectively, will act as buglers and pacemakers of the run, under the command of the above gentlemen.

The following is a list of the clubs interested, viz: Citizens, Manhattan, Harlem, New York, K. C. W., L. I. W., Brooklyn, Huntington, Mercury and Yonkers, all of New York; and the H. C. W., Essex, Plainfield, Bloomfield, Rutherford, Passaic, Elizabeth, Trenton, Bordentown, Union County and Sumerville, all of New Jersey.

Unattached wheelmen are as welcome as any others, and will be assigned by number to the squads of one or another of the club captains in the run—or if their number is sufficiently large will be formed into a separate division by themselves.

The pace will be moderate, and as the route almost parallels the railroad, a break down would be of little consequence. For description of the route in detail see the "WORLD" of May 4th.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

The headquarters will be The Continental Hotel, Newark, near the D. L. & W. R. station. The D. L. & W. is the best line for reaching Newark or Orange, and carries wheels free.

Club captains will please report to the commander at the above hotel, on the evening of Friday, June 15th, to receive their assignment in line, and to furnish information to the statistician of the run.

BUGLE AND WHISTLE CODE.

Whenever a general dismount is made for rest or refreshment, the "assembly" will be sounded by bugle, followed by "mount."

When in the saddle the whistle code will be used as below, viz:

Single file.
Double file.
By fours.
Dismount. (or by bugle).
Caution.

Club officers are requested to keep sufficient interval between squads to allow for the process of "tailing out" where riding in single file is necessitated.

L. A. CLARKE, Secretary,
25 Broad street, New York City.

THE MAJESTY OF THE LAW MUST PREVAIL.

A FEW days since one of our best known and most energetic Boston wheelmen, who sometimes sells a bicycle to a friend, "just for the glory of the thing," was instructing a purchaser of a New Mail in the mysteries of the art of coming to the ground repeatedly without more serious injury than the loss of a few square inches of cuticle. This instruction was taking place in one of Boston's noted streets, a street where once resided the foremost exponents of "Boston cultuah." Now, alas, these good people have gone the way of all flesh, and with them departed also from this section the last vestiges of that noble art which people in the West insist is the birthright of all Bostonians.

The evident uncomfartableness of this youthful aspirant to the ranks of the L. A. W. (who, of course, hopes someday to become President of the League, vice Kirkpatrick, retired with a pension), soon drew together a motly crowd of sightseers, who manifested unmistakably their approval at each fresh example of the tremendous force, which gravity exerts upon those who try to set at naught her laws. The crowd increased in size, completely blocking the approaches to the street, and the small boy was present in full force. "Yi, yi, looker that; ain't 'e a dandy tumbler." "My, wouldn't Barnum give 'im a job, though. "Say, Mister, are them legs of yours padded?" This latter to the teacher. "Yer ain't got sand 'nuff ter ride a bisickle. "Get off yer perch." "Yi, yi, see 'im go it." "Cheese it, fellers, here's the cop." Enter the guardian of the peace, who walks up to our friend and collars the one with the big legs with the remark:

"See here, young feller, this thing's got to stop. Don't you know you haint got no right to ride in this street?"

"No right to ride in this street," says our friend, who has not heard of the League without getting points, "no right to ride in this street, what are you giving us?"

"None of your remarks," replies his majesty, "you just dust out of here."

"See here," replies the cyclist, "don't you know that a bicycle has just as much right in the street as a horse and buggy?"

"None of your back talk," was the answer, "you just get out of here. I don't know nothin' about your having the same rights as teams, but I do know you can't use them things in this street, as long as I am here."

"Well then, where can we ride?" asked our friend.

"Oh, go up to the Common, that's a much better place." (Mem. We think it might be well for the Police Commissioners to post their roundsmen as to what is, and what is not proper in cycling.)

"Oh, they won't let us ride there," was the answer, as the twain slowly started along.

It may be interesting to some of our readers to know who it was so unfortunate as to be made an example of by the Law's servant. It was none other than "Harry Drummond, Harry, the popular, the pace maker, the forked-lightning salesman," better known to local riders as "Davie."

Q. D.

TO BROOKLYN WHEELMEN.

THE new route to Flushing from Brooklyn cannot yet be given with exactness, but the general directions are as follows: From Bedford avenue out either Halsey street or Putnam avenue to Howard avenue, westward on Howard avenue and its continuation to the car stables at Ridgewood, turn right on the macadamized extension of Myrtle avenue, on right foot path to the village of Glendale. In Glendale follow the road across the rail road and up the hill, turn left at blacksmith's shop about 1-4 mile beyond, the rail road bridge to the left, turn right at next corner and then ask the natives the way to "White-Pot and 'Ireland Mill.'" The road is sometimes known as "Strong's Bridge Road." Never mind the sign of "road closed," on the edge of the meadows. After passing the "Ireland Mill," turn left at the next road beyond, direct into Flushing. Distance between Ridgewood and Flushing, a short 8 miles.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

"PEDAL AND PATH," one of the most entertaining stories of a bicycle trip over and back across the Continent ever written, see advt. Send in 25 cents for a copy. It's value received.

WE received our long-looked-for Victor Safety last week, and we notice many great improvements of the 1888 pattern over that of last year. The most marked improvement is that of the steering, that difficulty has been lessened so that now no difficulty is experienced. We are pleased with our mount, it is steady, easy running, and very comfortable machine.

A GOOD story is told by Sport and Play of an English Bishop who sent around to the wardens a circular of queries, among which the following appeared: "Does your officiating clergyman preach the Gospel, and are his conversation and carriage consistent therewith?" The answer came: "He preaches the Gospel; doesn't keep a carriage, he only keeps a tricycle!"

WILL HARRADON, on a 48-inch New Mail, essayed to beat Worden's record on Union Hill last week (Tuesday), and so he proceeded to climb that eminence seven times without a dismount, which he did, and was ready to go once more if it had been necessary. He is shortly to make a further attempt in the presence of formally appointed officials. This feat beats Worden's record by two ascents, Worden's record being five times. Will some one please give us the grade for Union Hill for our record-book. Mr. H. P. Merrill will perhaps favor us?

THROUGH the courtesy of Mr. Stevens, the American manager for the Coventry Machine Co., we were given the pleasure of testing the qualities of the specially light Marlboro' Club Tricycle. We can say, without reservation, that we found it the easiest running tricycle we ever rode. This machine is built specially for light men, experienced riders, and good roads. For men of 150 pounds or under, and where good roads exist, a more excellent machine than this cannot be found. We take pleasure in thus commending this machine to riders where the above conditions exist.

eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member.

"Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

TRAINING FOR AMATEUR ATHLETES, WITH SPECIAL REGARD TO BICYCLISTS. By Dr. H. L. Cortis. The author of this work being at once a responsible medical man and a rider of world-wide renown, it has an authority which no other book on training possesses. As its hints and directions are in every way practical, it can be strongly indorsed as giving all the information that a book can give on this important subject. Second edition. 50 cents.

HOW DID THEY GET IT?

Many a contract is settled by a wink and a nod. Political interest sometimes proves a more potent friend than good work. We don't care for such helps to decide on good cloth and good work. A fair field and no favors.

Wanamaker & Brown are head of their trade on making Bicycling Uniforms. The National Association says so.

What influence had Wanamaker & Brown with it, that they got the contract for making the uniform?

Merit—straightforward merit and goodness and the price. Better arguments we don't want.

We're used to getting business by such means.

We've got the contract for uniforms for the greatest railroads in the country by that means. We make uniforms for the best military associations, cadet corps and military bands. It's a steadily enlarging stream with us—that uniform business.

The reason is the most natural one you could imagine. We know how to make everyday clothing the very best. We don't use our skill in one sort, and withhold it in another. We are at making the very best clothing the whole year round. For that reason we sell more of it. And for that reason we sell it for less.

Send us your Uniform order promptly. You'll get it promptly. WANAMAKER & BROWN, Philadelphia.

Send for samples of any clothing you want.

TWO PILGRIMS' PROGRESS, "From Fair Florence to the Eternal City of Rome—Delivered under the Similitude of a Ride, wherein is Disccovered the manner of their setting out, their dangerous journey and safe arrival at the Desired City." This article is made especially for bicycle riders and gymnasts, and perfectly adapted for their use, being cool, light, elastic and very strong.

It prevents an ungraceful appearance when the wearer is dressed in tights, or in close-fitting pants. It does not bind or cramp the person at any point, and can be worn all the time with comfort; in fact, the wearer does not feel it.

It can be washed when necessary without becoming stiff and harsh.

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT.

GEO. D. HAZARD, Manager. 83 Equitable Building, Boston.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

Copy for new advertisements must be handed in by Tuesday morning, to insure their being inserted in the current week's issue. CHANGES must be in hand no later than Monday, to insure attention for the following issue.

All communications in reference to advertising should be addressed to Mr. Hazard as above.

All checks and postals for advertising or subscriptions must be made to the order of the Bicycling World Co., as heretofore.

TO ADVERTISERS: The circulation of the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN is more than the total circulation of the other weekly and monthly cycling periodicals combined, published in the United States. Bear this in mind, and give us your patronage.

EDITORS:

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 8 JUNE, 1888.

THE scheme of the Finance Committee of the League meet to raise money as per advertisement on page 128 is meeting with great success. We are advised that over $1000 has already been realized. There is still a chance for you and others who may wish to take a chance.

THE subscriptions to the New Haven and New York path are coming in. There is, however, not that amount of enthusiasm that we would like to hear of. Brace up, gentlemen, you who live on the line of the proposed route should send in your little $5, or more, to Mr. A. G. Fisher, of New Haven, Conn.

WE desire to call special notice of League members this week to the several notices in our columns and the official department of the paper. We give all the information that will be of use to members contemplating a trip to Baltimore. Read them all carefully and make your plans to be in Baltimore during the meet, and then the trip to Washington should not be omitted.

MR. H. J. CROWTHER, of Baltimore, and Mr. N. L. Collamer, of Washington, will represent the WORLD at the Baltimore meet and at Washington. L. A. W. officials and others will confer a favor on the editors of this paper if they will extend the usual courtesies to our correspondents. We are sorry we cannot be present ourselves, but we can do better by our readers by staying in Boston and delegating the reporting part to efficient men.

SOME of our correspondents will notice that their contributions do not appear this week. There was a lot going on all over the country last week, and we have striven to cull and cut where we thought it could best be spared. We have an enterprising interview with H. D. Corey on the the Buffalo Tournament, and other matters of general interest, which will appear next week, together with other communications which will keep a week and not spoil.

GENTLEMEN of the League, this issue is about the last one that will reach many of you before the meet at Baltimore will be in full blast. The Baltimore men have worked earnestly and honestly to make this affair a success, and now it behooves you to pack up your gripsack and turn your face towards the "Monumental City." Division members who expect to be on hand should at once notify their Chief Consul of their intention of being present. Chief Consul Hayes, of Massachusetts, has personally appealed to us to urge all Massachusetts members to communicate with him at once, so that arrangements can be made in case such members desire to journey to Baltimore together.

L. A. W. MEMBERS PLEASE NOTICE.

THE route of the annual League tour, which begins at the Pennsylvania Club House, Philadelphia, June 11, is by way of Paoli to Coatesville, to Lancaster, to Columbia, to York, to Gettysburg, to Waynesboro, to Hagerstown, to Boonesboro, to Frederick, to Ellicott City, to Baltimore, arriving Sunday, June 17. Distance, about 240 miles.

HOTELS—NOTICE, L. A. W. MEMBERS.

PLEASE add to the list of hotels already given, The Altamont (American) can accommodate 75 guests, $3.00 per day. Barnum's Hotel (American) can accommodate 300 guests, $3 per day. All other hotels will accommodate the wheels of guests.

GEORGE HAGERTY,
Chairman Reception Com.

WASHINGTON HOSPITALITY.

Editor Bicycling World:—In view of the fact that a large number of the wheelmen who will attend the League meet in Baltimore intend visiting this city on the 21st of June, the Capital Bicycle Club, at its last meeting, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the freedom of the club house be, and it is hereby, extended to all wheelmen who shall visit Washington after the L. A. W. meet in Baltimore.

FRANK W. MOULTON,
Cor.-Sec. Capital Bicycle Club.

Washington, D. C., May 29, 1888.

SPECIAL RATES BETWEEN BALTIMORE AND WASHINGTON.

Editor Bicycling World: I take pleasure in announcing that the special rate of $1.20, from Washington to Baltimore and return, has been obtained on the Baltimore and Potomac R. R. Wheels free. This rate is good for six days, from the 17th to the 22d of June, inclusive. All persons calling upon Chief Consul Atwater, 1206 Penn. avenue, will be supplied with cards entitling them to the special rate upon presentation of the cards at either the 13th street ticket office or the depot.

FRANK W. MOULTON,
Chairman Com. on Transportation,
D. C. Division, L. A. W.

Washington, D. C., June 4th, 1888.

A MOST dastardly act was that perpetrated by some hoodlums in the vicinity of the pumping station on Dorchester avenue the other night, as members of the Brookline Club were riding home. The Chronicle thus describes the affair: "While passing over the road leading from the station to Dorchester, Messrs. C. S. Cobb, F. M. Seamans and F. A. Singleton made a spur and were riding rapidly some distance in advance, when their wheels struck an obstruction in the road and all three were thrown violently to the ground. The remainder of the party came up and upon examination found that a row of bricks had been laid across the street in the shadow of an electric light pole, which being invisible to the advance riders caused their overthrow. The obstruction was placed by a number of boys, who from a safe distance viewed, and evidently enjoyed, the result of this dastardly act. The injured men managed to ride home, and called at Dr. Moore's office. It was found that Mr. Seamans' left arm had been dislocated at the elbow, and that he had received other painful but not serious injuries. He will be laid up for several weeks. Mr. Cobb sustained a bad cut upon his head and his hands and knees were injured. Mr. Singleton was not badly hurt."

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

POOR H. E. DUCKER is receiving a terrible flaying from George Lacy Hillier on Springfield records and other things too numerous to enumerate. "Jarge," as the English pressmen like to call him, has had seriously some grounds of late to "get back at" his old grievances. Rowe's utter failure to show that "incomparable form" which the American press asserted he would show when he met Howell, and the sudden tumble acted like blood to a Bengal tiger in Hillier's case, and he ravenously swooped on his prey. I have had a good deal of useful information from the editor of the Bicycling News, and I still say he "knows more about head-work and racing than the compiler of laudatory paragraphs and poetry or Rowe will ever know," unless they don't care to beat anybody, and some day may show "judgment" enough. I may have something to say about these champions in my future papers on "Champions whom I know, and champions I don't know and don't care to know either." We must acknowledge Mr. Hillier has the best side of the argument in "Legs vs. Head," and the talk of "necessary judgment and undoubted determination" by the young editor of your New York contemporary, whose "experience" of racing must be limited indeed, must have received a severe shock to his nerves when reading Rowe's successive defeats. The only one thing that Rowe ever did to give me confidence in him was his clever defeat of Fred Wood at Springfield; I watched that race closely, and let people say what they like, the men were travelling very fast on that home stretch, and the best man won that day. It was no criterion of Rowe's form to see him mow down men he knew, and men whom he had trained with; it was a man like Wood who would try any weak spot. You remember Wood never had a ghost of a chance. I wish since he had only placed his wheel alongside of Rowe, if only for twenty yards, to further strengthen my opinion of that race. There are many unkind enough to say the wheel Rowe rides handicaps him, and "pars" is already on the round to that effect. If the wheel was good enough for him to do 2.29 for a mile and two miles in the hour, it is good enough to win a race on, even if it is a "copy" of an English make.

DUCKER'S Buffalo tournament is the talk of racing England at present, and the prominence given it last week in the London Sporting Life, which devoted large space to some, and the extensive reproduction by the Provincial press, have now made the Buffalo tournament well known. Howell threatens an invasion, so does Fred and W. Wood, Allard, Dubois, Oxborrow, Englehardt, Battensby, Robb, Lees (John and Fred), and nearly all the leading professionals. The amateurs are at a standstill, and interest at present seems to be all with the professionals; one or two amateurs may, however, visit the States this fall, but an abundant crop of honest riding "pros" will surely be on hand. Howell is still dangers drawn with the American division, and his recent victories only makes him thirst the more for our scalp. Howell's intense jealousy of the success of the team in a great measure accounts for this, as Howell likes to be looked up to as the great front of cycling, and notwithstanding his rough exterior is very vain indeed. The newspaper war between the latter and the team's manager have raged hot and furious of late with no signs of a truce.

I RECEIVED a letter yesterday from my Chicago friend, Sam Miles, who used to hold down the Sporting and Theatrical Journal's editorial chair, and who, when I supplied "copy" made fearful havoc with same. At that period the Journal was at its tide-flood of prosperity through the careful editorial supervision and excellent business management of Miles, who was cashier, editor and manager, all in one. My "copy," Miles would sometimes tell me, would on sundry occasions have developed first-class assassination societies, and libel suits to boot, and that it was for my well-being the "blue pencil" rapidly and successfully traversed my "copy." Some years spent in my friend's company made me look up to him as a kind of brother or guardian angel, and strange to say, while he was a member of the famous Harriers Running Club of Bristol I was a member of the Newport Bicycle Club, and our clubs met in competition, and although having seen him perform several times, I did not meet him until we both met as "pros" in games at Philadelphia. Mr. Miles has been some four years editor of the Journal, and writes me he brings out on May 7th the first issue of the Referee, a paper devoted exclusively to all manly sports, saving possibly a little horse talk. This was Miles's pet idea, an American Referee (and indeed mine also), founded on the same lines as the enormously wealthy and popular London Referee, edited by Henry Sampson ("Pen dragon") and George M. Sims ("Dagonet") of novel writing, melodrama construction, and "Mustard and Cress" fame. It is my friend's idea to make the Referee a popular five-cent publication for the millions, and his thorough knowledge of cycling and cyclists warrants the belief that the Referee will be the great Western organ of all sports.

Wheeling is taking a vacation, or at least one of its rotund editors is, F. P. Low is in Ireland talking Cockney to the fair Coleen Bawns, in Ennis, Kerry, Powerscourt Falls, and other Dublin rural retreats. Meanwhile Mc., with a pen steeped in gall and wit, and occasionally, yes occasionally in that impartial style known only to your fearless servant, he acknowledges worth as follows: "Senator Morgan is either the most fair unprejudiced and impartial writer that ever put pen to cycling, or he don't know who his friends are." This in a recent issue of Wheeling, and right on top of, mind you, the trick-riding controversy, and to say I feel flattered Mc., to use your London bar-maid's quotation, "is to draw it mild." In my discharge of the duty of an impartial travelling (or stationary) correspondent, I never intend to say, black is white; if the color be black or chocolate, I shall always call it black, friends or no friends, to the contrary "friends" shall never (if I can help it) warp my opinions. I feel happier in calling men and things by their right name, so does Mc. sometimes, I have no doubt.

My distinguished—yea, distinguished—brother correspondent, J. Purvis-Bruce (what an edgy, romantic name it sounds), otherwise the gifted "Gentleman John" (now "Jack"), by his denunciation of "Peebles" and Scotland generally, has brought down on his devoted head a perfect avalanche of criticism and keen shafts of defence of "Peebles" and Scotland generally by the editors of the Scottish Cyclist, the latest addition to cycling lore, and good lore it is, too; edited by two smart writers who believe, like the Irish Cyclist, also in calling things by their right name. The editors this week publish a letter of semi-apology from my "distinguished friend," who allows he was annoyed by the flies—he did not say that the fish he was trolling for had wings and flew away, but something with wings annoyed him—possibly Robby Burns was on a tour of inspection. Now, fie on you, J. Purvis, you should have stuck to it (as I did and do about Aberdeen) that the natives of Peebles were far in arrears in manners to our red friends from Colorado and Dakota, and I would have backed you up; but to allow the flies influenced your judgment, like the Ripley road dinner and sandwich men's feed is unworthy even of you, with that quiet, sarcastic, cynical, Walter Scott face of yours. You can say what you like about your Scotchman, but he is all there, and to give your American precedence in anything over the Scotch—even credit the "Yankee" with having booked all the front seats in heaven, you will find your Scotchman there ahead, in full possession of the stage and private boxes. On waking up one morning in No. 26 at the Edinburgh Waverly Hotel, I was intensely interested in a picture of the last judgment, pictures quite common in Scotch homes. At God's right hand came, first John Knox, next Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott, then another crowd, in which the faces of Wesley, Whitfield, and other English divines were noticeable; but get on to the Scotch, they are there first, as they are in nearly all things. Remember, I do not for a moment quote the above profanely, as that is far from my heart and thoughts, but to show the immense assurance and enterprise of "Friend Donald." In Edinburgh and Glasgow, especially in Edinburgh, I never enjoyed myself better than in the company of my respected and talented friends, A. M. Donaldson and Dick Swiveller, of Cyclist, Wheeling and other cycling publication fame. But Aberdeen is quite different.

THE N. C. U. gives their championship at Coventry, June 21st, and Eugene Crist, of Washington, will start with "Osmond and Company." Unless Crist has improved wonderfully since 1886, he will follow Rowe. The meeting will, I think, be a financial failure, notwithstanding the wily Findley Macrae promises the natives a band and dancing. Oh! fancy Messrs. Sturme, Hillier, Macrae, and "other N. C. U. shining lights" (phrase patented and copyrighted) dancing the light fantastic, to replete the N. C. U. treasury, with the frisky Coventry belles—polishers from the factories. 'Tis for a noble purpose though, and all for six pence, and even this device will hardly meet with the hard-headed Coventry workman's approval, who seems to be nauseated with the name of cycling, so constant is it before him.

KANSAS CITY.

"MENTOR."

A WHEELING tour from this city to Denver is the all-absorbing topic of conversation now. The exact time of start has not been named, but will very likely be in September. The route will be practically as follows: Olathe, Topeka, Junction City, Great Bend, Lyons, Coolidge, Pueblo, Manitou Springs, Denver, and it is possible that the tour will continue on to Laramie and Cheyenne, W. T. The tour will be in charge of J. H. Everest, Chief Consul of Kansas, and C. C. Candy, ex-Secretary-Treasurer of the Kansas Division, but now Western representative of the Overman Wheel Co., Boston. Besides the above-mentioned gentlemen, the following wheelmen have signified their intention of going on the tour: Ned Jewett, Leavenworth; A. J. Henley, Wichita; Nelson T. Haynes, Harry G. Stuart, and the BICYCLING WORLD correspondent, Kansas City. It was originally intended that the party would be a small one, but so many wheelmen have asked permission to participate that it is likely the tour will be a gilt-edged one, with "L. A. W." blown in the bottle. Wheelmen who desire to go on the tour should inform the managers. It is well to state in this connection that the success of the tour does not depend upon the number that goes, as Candy and a few kindred spirits will make the trip, crowd or no crowd. The wheelman who says he will go and doesn't will "bob up serenely" in this affair, just as in everything else. Such is human nature. The trip promises to be an enjoyable one. A stop of several days' duration will be made at Manitou Springs, so the hill climbers, a la Wells, Greenwood, et al., will have a "fair shake" at climbing Pike's Peak. For the benefit of the climbers, will the local Consul at Colorado Springs favor Mr. Candy with a profile of the Son-of-a-Gun of the West, and the maximum and minimum grade? Also, will it be necessary to wear red flannels in the climb?

THE ladies' bicycle craze has at last reached Kansas City, and orders for two have been sent by Charlie Ellis, for two ladies of this city. The wheelmen here are extremely anxious to see them.

THE governor of the Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth has offered prizes for a series of bicycle races on the Fourth of July. The races will take place on the numerous driveways on the grounds. They are not circular in shape, but the surface is equal to a race track.

THE United Wheelman's third club run is to Olathe Sunday. The club members have a very pretty club for their caps. It is in the shape of a wheel, with the monogram "U. W." and "Kansas City" between the spokes in enamel, while the badge proper is gold plated.

OUR racers have received entry blanks for the races at Baltimore, but I can assure the WORLD readers, positively, that our flyers will not bear away any of the medals and glory. Owing to a misunderstanding between the racers and the wheel manufacturers the former have lost all ambition for cinder path honors, and can be seen playing the great game of retrogressive poker most any evening.

CAPTAIN NELSON T. HAYNES, MESSRS. J. H. De Tar, R. B. Hall, R. M. Seibell, F. F. Austin, Harry C. Ramsey, Harry W. Bennett, Charles B. Ellis, T. E. Glavin, and ——— Lamb, of the United Wheelmen, were the guests of the St. Joseph Ruralists' Bicycle Club on Memorial Day. The boys returned in the evening, and said the St. Joe boys were lavish in their hospitality, and that the day will long be remembered as one of unalloyed enjoyment. After coming home in the evening the boys attended in a body the performance of the Ninth Street Theatre.

YOU can always spot a bran new, fresh, guileless wheelman. His actions betray his newness. He grasps the handles like grim death, he mounts by jumping into the saddle, he gazes straight ahead, being afraid to turn in either direction. The other evening your correspondent was wending his way homeward, when he noticed a wheelman preparing to mount. He had stopped to see his Amarantha; he did look too stunning ("stunning" is a good word in the West, Mr. Editor). He had on silk stockings, patent leather shoes, and white linen, and a side board collar, with Gobelin blue necktie, and a decollete vest. He had also with him a "perhaps" moustache. He got his nickel plated machine out into the street, and with a graceful sweep of his arm, he takes off his lawn tennis cap, and with a beautiful sunny smile, said, "good bye, ah-reservoir," and blithely jumps into the saddle, off of it, and strikes the pavement with a dull, sickening thud. In base-ball vernacular, he fanned the air. In the catch-as-catch wrestle, his head goes through the wheel and comes out well mangled, as if he had been ground in a sausage mill. Moral: Never say good-bye to your sweetheart till you are mounted.

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

CAPTAIN SUPPLEE, of the Pennsylvanias, has requested all members to join the club run on Sunday, June 10th, to be given in honor of the Hudson County Wheelmen, who are expected here on that date. The visitors are to be shown a good time, and we hope they will carry away with them pleasant recollections of our city and its wheelmen.

ABOUT twenty-five of the Century Wheelmen are expected to make the Baltimore trip. Twelve have already signified their intention to go by wheel.

THE proposed race meet of the Camden Wheelmen did not come off on Decoration Day, owing to the unfinished condition of the track, and we had no races on the level in this vicinity.

THE Mount Vernon Wheelmen is the title of a club located on the asphalt of Mount Vernon street, and although not a large club yet they are active. A natty blue suit, with the letters M. V. W. in silver on the cap, constitutes the club uniform.

THE Century Wheelmen, at their last monthly meeting on last Friday evening, appointed Messrs. McGlathery, Rosenau, Sadler, Snyder, and Collins a committee to select a site on North Broad street for a new club house. A well-appointed house would have a marked effect in their membership.

A VERY handsome challenge cup has been purchased by the Pennsylvania Club to be held for five-mile races between the members. The winner must race for it with any challenger, at thirty days' notice. The cup is a magnificent specimen of silverware, about twenty inches in height, and was manufactured by the Meriden Britannia Co., through Mr. C. A. Roberts, of the club, who is their agent here.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made for the Pennsylvania Club at the Hotel Rennert, in Baltimore, at one dollar per day, on the European plan. The members will leave the club house at two o'clock on Saturday, June 16th, riding to Wilmington, and the next day tour to Baltimore, via Middletown and Tolchester Beach, distance about sixty-six miles. In case of rain the B. & O. R. R. will be taken on Sunday afternoon.

"DUQUESNE" in last issue scores the driver sharply in the Corbit accident. He must have been a mean-spirited specimen to refuse room to a man who was in one way helpless, but at the same time Mr. Corbit had no business to coast around a bend "wide open." This reckless riding while on the road has done no little discredit to wheelmen generally, as well as having been the cause of many serious accidents to themselves and others.

WERE you ever in Delaware on your wheel, Mr. Editor? No? Then take my advice and don't go. And if the Wilmington Wheel Club ever send you an invitation, accept it—and stay right in the club house. They are a jolly crowd and can entertain you handsomely, but don't let them inveigle you out on the road. Your humble servant was one of a party of forty-two well-meaning but misguided wheelmen, who undertook a little jaunt from Wilmington to Newark, Delaware, on Sunday, June 3d. The occasion was a trip of the Pennsylvania Club on invitation from Wilmington Wheel Club; the weather was simply perfect—"Oh, what is so rare as a day in June;" the company was most delightful; and the roads were—simply vile! A rough, clay, country road (worse than any cobbled street) alternated with patches of sand twelve inches deep, through which you had to push or carry your wheel, with here and there a path six inches wide with a gully on one side, and a fifteen-inch rut on the other side—and there's your road! I have been riding for several years and never struck anything like it before. A cry of distress would be heard, and there would be a rider hung up along the fence; an abjuration, and some fellow would have to take a pole to knock his cap off an overhanging bough. As for the tumbles and falls no one thought of counting them. One poor fellow on a Star particularly distinguished himself. We got to Newark at last, however, and the dinner the Wilmington boys gave us very nearly effaced recollections of our ride—especially as we found there was a train home that afternoon. I must state, though, that some of the hard cases (perhaps I should say hardened cases) of the party scorned to take a train, and actually wheeled back to Wilmington. As the writer was in such a condition that he had serious thoughts of having his dinner served on the mantelpiece, he was not one of that party. It was a jolly trip though. Come again, Wilmington.

ONE of the pleasant little incidents was the unexpected meeting with Mr. Slothower, of the Rambler Club, Baltimore, who is now in Wilmington, and whose acquaintance we made last summer during our Baltimore trip. Not one of the least of the pleasures of cycling are the many warm friendships made all over the country by the tourist a-wheel.

IN reference to the new route to Flushing, described last week, I omitted to record a necessary turn which should be made to the left at a high red fence, on the left hand side of the road, about a mile and a half from the car stables at Ridgewood. I would not advise anybody to attempt this route unless accompanied by somebody who has been over it previously. The continuation of Howard avenue, East New York, to the Northward, goes by the name of Palmetto street, and can be ridden on the western sidewalk for its entire length.

THE long anticipated race between Messrs. Jones and Corby, of the Brooklyn Club—the former on a Victor Safety and the latter on his ordinary, was run off at Orange on the 3rd inst. Mr. Corby allowed Mr. Jones five minutes and three-quarters in seven miles and a half, but failed to overtake him, in fact only picking up thirty seconds of the handicap.

DECORATION DAY G. W. Kreger, L. I. W., won first place in the one-mile bicycle race at the Brooklyn A. A. Wm. Schumacher, same club, took first place in the two-mile handicap at the Manhattan A. C. games. At Queens, Leonard Kirby, Riverside Wheelmen, took first place in the one-mile novice, Mathews, B. B. C., second. M. Marshall, N. Y. Bicycle Club, took first in the two-mile and also in the three-mile in 3min. 15sec. Mr. Kreger, in winning the mile race at Queens, as above, made the mile record for that track, and consequently holds first chance for that medal. The competition for these medals closes on the 16 inst, and on that day Mr. Loyd promises an especially attractive field meeting.

WELL, the great road race is over at last, and very unsatisfactorily too, for the H. C. and the K. C. W. As a prominent member of the latter remarked, "I'd rather that we lose the race than leave it undecided." The record was badly beaten and the finish was one of the most exciting and beautiful ever seen in this country. The difference between the first and third men was but one second. The list of clubs represented at the course would be too long to publish, but they were legion. At "Davis" in Orange, the wheelmen at dinner numbered sixty-five of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, two of the Mercury Wheel Club, twenty of the Trenton Wheelmen, and about fifty of the Long Island Wheelmen. The Brooklyn's representatives on the course numbered in all about ninety men. The only black spot on the whole day's fun was the actions of the drivers of the wagons and carriages who so unceremoniously crowded about the finish, and obstructed those who were late in coming in. Had there been a close struggle for any of the last places, the consequences might have been terrible.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

the club. Quite a ball team might be formed out of Savage, Hale, Bell, Reid, Lacor, Leachman, Bartlett, Stacy and Bowers. When it is a sure thing they intend to challenge the Standard Bicycle Club, of St. Paul, if they have a ball club.

THE boys at the club room are wondering who "Vernon" is, but as yet they have not guessed the right one.

A. M. BUCKMANN does not like to have the boys mention "Monte Cristo" or the "bill of fare" at the Windsor.

A "SOCIAL wade" was called for last Sunday to the ball park, but the mud was too deep, and very few turned out.

THE boys have received their L. A. W. suits. I will not say anything about them than that they have been to "see" their agent here several times. One of the boy's breeches were broader than they were long, but we don't complain much as their agent here is making them all right.

LACOR is ahead in the road competition so far. Hale and Bell have taken their cyclometers off. I guess they don't want the boys to know how much they ride.

WEATHER permitting, E. J. Hale and Colie Bell take a trip to Lake Minnetonka Sunday, the scene of Oliver Optic's new piece in the Argosy. If they have any luck at all, they will probably catch a good string of fish.

L. A. W. 2304, from Faribault, in the last L. A. W. Pointer, broaches a scheme in which they intend to get up a three-days' encampment in August or September, upon the shores of some one of the beautiful lakes around there. I, for one, shall take it in if it comes off. Would like to see you there, Mr. Editor, but suppose you are too far away.

My dear "Jack," I was very sorry to see what you said in one of your letters to the World concerning an amateur rider of this city, who put emery in one of the contestant's wheels in that great "fake" race between Whittaker and McCurdy. The same story was started here, but Tom Eck very conveniently left by the next train, or it would have been too hot round here for him. I know there is not a man in town, amateur or professional, that would stoop so low as that.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

CONSIDERABLE discussion is now going on as to the proper size for safety and tri-cycle wheels. We have always held that the proper size was from 30 to 36 inches geared from 52 to 56 inches. We think that 30-inch drivers and 28-inch pilot about the proper size for tricycles. Our experience has proved this to our own entire satisfaction. The large wheel theory is correct only in theory, for this simple reason, that in the equal sized and large front wheel form the rider is placed so far forward of the axle that the objections to the small wheels are entirely overcome.

As a special inducement for young wheelmen to join the club, it was voted, at the last regular meeting of the Massachusetts Bicycle Club, that hereafter there will be no admission fee, and the minimum limit of age for membership was reduced from twenty-one to eighteen years.

TWENTY-EIGHT members of the Buffalo Club made a successful century run on Decoration Day. Starting from Erie at 5.25 A. M. they arrived home at 10.15 P. M. Total elapsed time, 16h. 55m.; total mileage, 101 miles; riding time, 9h. 51m., or a trifle over ten miles an hour. The day was fine and the roads in fair condition.

THE fellow shopmates of Mr. I. Mott Cutter, in the Wakefield Rattan works, presented him with a hand-power tricycle which cost $175. Mr. J. C. LATEST FROM CHICAGO.

OUR Chicago correspondent's budget arrived just as we go to press. We open the forms to say that Rhodes and Van Sicklen claim that their time given and made in last week's race, should be two minutes faster. A second attempt by Rhodes, over heavier roads, showed no better results. Van Sicklen tried it again also and did it in 53m. 19 1-5s. Winship's time being 53m. 20s.

Winship has challenged Van Sicklen, at present the challenge is not accepted.

CENTRAL NEW YORK.

We wish we could give space to the full and interesting account by Salina of how the Syracuse, Cortland, Binghamton and Elmira and other central New York wheelmen joined together at Cortland for a jolly good time on Decoration Day, but space and time will not allow of it. It proved to be a great day for wheelmen in that section, the races, parades and lantern parades creating great interest among the non-cyclers. We give below the result of the races:

One-mile novice race—E. H. Budd, of Elmira, first; J. H. Carroll, of Elmira, second; H. E. Merrill, of Cortland, third. Time, 3m. 50s.

Half-mile race—H. C. Hersey, of Elmira, first; E. H. Budd, of Elmira, second; J. H. Carroll, of Elmira, third. Time, 1m. 4s.

Boys' half-mile race—W. H. Loveland, of Binghamton, first. Time, 2m. 10s.

Two-mile race—H. C. Hersey, of Elmira, first; J. H. Carroll, second; Fred Meloin, of Cortland, third. Time, 6m. 32s.

Consolation race—H. E. Merrill, of Cortland, won.

THE IOWA DIVISION MEET.

THE Iowa Division met at Cedar Falls on the 29 and 30 ult. Business and a banquet consumed the time on the 29th, and on the 30th some fine racing was done. The opening race was a half-mile won by Merner, of Cedar Falls, in two heats, time, 1.42 and 1.43 1-2. The second was a mile race, won by Eckert, of Dubuque, in straight heats, time, 3.47 and 3.45. Following this a half-mile spurt for the championship of Cedar Falls, won by McElwain, of Cedar Falls, in 1.40 1-4. The last race, two miles, was also won by McElwain, of Cedar Falls, in 8.08.

The next meeting of the Division will be held in Grinnell in July of this year. R. L. Thompson was chosen to represent the Iowa Division at the National convention to be held in Baltimore June 19 and 20.

SHURMAN AND WELLS.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made between Jno. Wells of Philadelphia, and J. H. Shurman of Lynn, to ride a match on Corey Hill, July 14th. It is understood that Capt. Kendall, of the Boston Club, will have charge of the affair. We hear that Mr. Wells has a specially built machine with "extension levers," on which he has ridden in his attempts on hills. If this is true, then it takes away somewhat from the glory that Mr. Wells has covered himself, as it was generally supposed he rode an ordinary geared road machine. In Shurman's attempts we are advised that the wheel he has been riding was geared to about 52, or, the ordinary road wheel gear. We hope that in the Corey Hill test both men will ride ordinary road wheels, with the ordinary gear and no extension flummery; only in this way will the test be of any value as a record and comparison for future tests.

RHODE ISLAND DIVISION MEET.

THE subscription races at Roger Williams' Park, Providence, R. I., May 30, were a great success, and the track in fair condition. The starters for the three-mile State championship were W. A. M. Scott and George P. Hutchins, of Providence; H. G. Wilkes, Newport; J. Thomas Lakey, Providence; and Howard L. Allen, of Warren. They finished in the order named. Time, 9.37.

The one-mile tricycle race was competed by Charles H. Weld, of East Greenwich, and William Van Wagoner, of Newport, the former on a Marlboro' Club and the latter on a Columbia, Weld winning a contest that was close for most of the distance in 3.25. The one-mile, open only to Rhode Island wheelmen, was an eye

Taylor Bruce, of Providence, Weld and William C. Miller, of East Greenwich, Van Wagoner, E. Rowland Philips and Clarence E. Munroe, of Providence, and Charles F. Phinney, of Pawtucket. Bruce distanced the rest of the field and won the race in 3.02 1-3; Weld 3.05; Miller 3.06 1-3.

In the one-mile tandem race Charles H. Tucker and Hutchins were pitted against Charles H. Bowers and Weld. The former won a tight race in 3.18 1-2.

The closing event was a one-mile Rover type safety race, Bruce, Bowers and Philips entering, and Bruce winning on his Victor in 3.16 1-2, Bowers second.

TEMPLE WINS TWO RACES.

DUBLIN, June 2.—At the bicycle races today the mile handicap was won by Temple of Chicago, Woodside second. The mile race was won by Temple.

FORDS HILL FOURTEEN TIMES—NEXT!!

(Special to the World.)

JOHN A. WELLS climbed Fords Hill Monday, 4 June, fourteen times without a dismount. Shurman's record is seven times.

H. C.

AN ATTEMPT TO BEAT SHURMAN'S EAGLE ROCK RECORD.

BUT for the stupidity of the driver of a buggy last Sunday, Fred. Coningsby on his Victor Safety would have tied Shurman's record of three times up and down Eagle Rock. He had reached the top once and was turning round when the aforesaid buggy got in his way and forced him to dismount or be run over. He, however, mounted again, coasted down, then completed his other two ascents and descents without further mishap. Coningsby's last trip was made in 12 1-2 min., and the first trip in about 15 1-2 min. He will try again. This is the first crank machine ever up Eagle Rock.

HARADON'S WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE.

W. M. HARADON'S feat of climbing Union Hill, Springfield, seven times without a dismount only whetted his appetite to try and do some more of the same kind only better. So last Saturday Haradon, mounted on a 48-inch "New Mail," started to ride the hill. Haradon contemplated going up ten times, but when the tenth trip was made he felt so fresh that he decided to go fifteen times. And this he did. The hill was climbed without a dismount, and Haradon also backpedaled on every downward trip, doing no coasting at all. On the fifteenth trip the time was taken from the Dale street crosswalk to Maple street. Haradon took a flying start and went at the hill at racing speed. Up he went without a waver, and when "up" was called the watch announced 29 seconds! To climb a hill fifteen times without a dismount and without coasting, and then make the last trip in 29 seconds, is a feat of which any wheelman may feel proud. The idea of climbing the hill was suggested to Haradon by the statement that G. E. Worden, who represents the Springfield Roadster, had climbed the hill five times, wearing a big cane and a tall hat. Haradon dispensed with the plug hat and cane accessories but got there just the same. When he finished, he was in the best of condition and wanted to go several more trips, but it was thought best to wait until somebody else should better the record. Haradon thinks he can make the trip 20 or 25 times. He is willing to compete with any rider who is anxious to do better.

As showing the work accomplished by Haradon, the measurements taken from the records at the City Hall are here given. The survey of the hill was made in 1876 by George A. Ellis, the then "In the minds of riders who have ever given the Rams-horn bars a thorough trial I cannot believe there is a question as to their superiority over all others in hill climbing, or whenever power is needed. The body can be straightened out with all the force there is in one, while the arms are in a line with the points of resistance, the pedals. Although my companions, upon a tour through Southern Ohio last fall, were somewhat loath to acknowledge the general superiority of my new Light Champion, their praises were unstinted for the Rams-horn bar."—Lesley C. Turley, Portsmouth, Ohio.

City Engineer. The surface of the hill is earth. Its length is 350 feet. The steepest grade is 270 feet long, and has a rise of one foot in 8.7 feet. The distance climbed by Haradon was 5250 feet, or within 30 feet of a mile. The riding distance was a little more than a mile. As he had to come down the hill of course his riding distance was doubled, which would make the total distance over two miles. The whole event was accomplished in 20 minutes.

R. HOWELL BEATS FRED WOOD.

HOWELL is fast proving himself invincible. F. Wood, since his return to England, has been aching to get a match on with Richard. The champion accommodated him, and a ten-mile match for £50 a side was arranged, and run Saturday, May 19, at the Ayleston Grounds. The racing did not commence until near the finish and in the last mile, and the Cyclist thus describes the final efforts of both men: "Passing the post the last time but one, Howell piled on the agony, but Wood remained in close attendance, and then, amid tremendous enthusiasm, he drew almost level. The pace was a cracker going up the hill, and along the far side Wood attempted to get in front, but Howell warded off the effort, drew a couple of lengths ahead, and to all appearances looked like finishing an easy winner. Down the hill side Wood came again, and a neck and neck race ensued for a short distance, when Howell got the best of the bitter struggle, and riding hard home, won all out by a good two yards. It need hardly be added that the greatest excitement prevailed at the finish, the champion being loudly cheered, whilst Wood also came in for a splendid reception for the plucky attempt he had made to lower the colors of the fastest rider in the world. The time of the race was 34m. 45s."

THE NEW BEDFORD AND TAUNTON WHEELMEN ROAD RACE.

NEW BEDFORD wheelmen are happy because the team race run on Decoration Day was won by their team. This event was witnessed with interest by all, and as the men made circuit after circuit they were greeted with cheers. The start was made on the west road, nearly opposite Woodlawn, and the finish on Cove street. The entries were C. E. Bolton, E. C. Anthony, A. K. White, R. H. Borden and W. B. Rogers of the Taunton club, and F. E. Weaver, F. W. Smith, Hoyland Smith, Crawford Dunham and H. H. Sisson of the New Bedford club. Bolton took the lead at the start with Fred Smith close after him. As the last named turned the point he was fouled by Anthony, and as his machine was damaged he was unable to finish the race. Bolton made the first circuit, but after that Anthony took the lead. Weaver, Hoyland Smith and Dunham kept close together for second place, with Bolton just behind and Sisson next in order. It was practically a race four against five, with the odds against New Bedford. The home wheelmen, however, used good head work in this situation, and instead of winding one another kept together, and as they finished in order next to the leader, won the race and the cup, scoring 30 points, while Taunton counted 22. E. C. Anthony rode an Apollo, 54-inch, and did the 20 miles in 1 hour 17 minutes. Dr. C. E. Strout of Taunton and Al. Hazard and Ed. Almy of this city acted as judges. E. W. Marston officiated as referee. [If the distance can be verified, and also time above, 1.17, it will stand as American record in competition.—ED.]

STAMFORD, (CONN.) RACES AND SPORTS.

I ENCLOSE you notes of the athletic meeting given last evening, May 30, by the "Stamford Wheel Club." It was probably the most successful and best attended athletic games ever given in this town, the Armory being filled to its best seating capacity—a large proportion of the audience being ladies. Owing to the size of the track, 22 laps to the mile, only slow time could be made, but the events were well competed and interesting. The winners were as follows: 25-yard dash, George Maurer, time, 4 1-2 sec. One-mile walk, John Looney, time, 10.29. Sack race, George L. Sinclair. Running high jump, N. R. Jessup, 4ft. 7in. Half-mile run, S. H.

WEAR the Gormully & Jeffery shoes, either canvas or Kangaroo; best value obtainable.

"REGARDING the Rams-horn bar, we consider it superior to anything upon the market, it having a number of advantages which are unusual strength, a better grip from not having any frame in the road of hand."—W. L. Van Horn, Denver.

"WE like the Rams-horn bar better than the spade, as we use it more and believe it superior."—H. A. Smith & Co., Newark, N. J.

Pardee, 2.45 1-4. Potato race, N. R. Jessup. One-hundred-yard hurdle, Grant Archibald. Bicycle slow race, Wm. A. Clark, on the "Eagle." One-mile run, Wm. Drew, time, 7.9 3-8. One-mile bicycle race, Wm. A. Clark.

One of the most interesting events of the evening was the fancy riding by Wm. A. Clark, on the "Eagle" bicycle, it being a question which was most pleasing, the swift graceful movements of the new machine, or, the excellent manner in which it was handled by Mr. Clark, who riding it forward, backwards, and in the saddle, and on all parts of it, and on one wheel with arms folded, called forth a continuous round of applause.

We think we may be sufficiently encouraged by this first attempt, to try an out-door race meet this fall.

Very truly yours,

N. R. Jessup,
Capt. Stamford Wheel Club.

RACES OF THE L. I. W., SATURDAY, JUNE 2.

FIRST event, one mile novice—First heat, won by R. L. Jones, K. C. W.; G. W. Campbell, second. Second heat, won by F. B. Monell, L. I. W.; H. O. King, K. C. W., second.

Second event, one-mile open handicap—A foregone victory for Kluge, of the H. C. W., for the first place in the first heat, with B. L. Bradley, B. B. C., second. Second heat—Won by J. G. Brown, K. C. W., after one of the most exciting finishes of the meeting; E. P. Baggott, H. C. W., second. Brown's time for the mile in this heat was the best of the day, 3.08 1-5. In this race Beazley, K. C. W., took a bad header in front of the grand stand, to the horror of the ladies, but not with much damage to himself.

The third event was the L. I. W. club championship, two miles, and was won after a close struggle by Geo. W. Kreger; Wise, second. Time, 6.41 4-5.

The start for the fourth event, the two-mile national championship L. A. W., brought out some of the fastest men in the League, Kluge, Beazley and Midgely. A round of hisses greeted the jockeying for place at the start, and seemed to exasperate Kluge, who led off with a most tremendous spurt, much to the amusement of the grand stand, but the race soon settled down to be a regular procession, Kluge, Beazley, Midgely, and they finished in that order. Time, 6.51.

The fifth event was the one-mile L. I. W. club handicap, and was won by Kreger, from scratch, in 3.12 3-4. A splendid race with a beautiful spurt down the home stretch for second place, Wise winning by a head from Schumacher.

The sixth race was the final of the open mile handicap, and brought together, Kluge, scratch; Bradley, 80 yds.; Brown, 85 yds.; and Baggott, 55 yds. Won by Baggott, after an exciting race, in 3.09; Brown, second.

The seventh event was the final of the mile novice race, and brought together Messrs. Jones, K. C. W.; Campbell, of Brooklyn; Monell, K. C. W.; and King, K. C. W.; and was a sprint from start to finish, Monell winning, King second by only a few inches. Time, 3.21.

In the three-mile handicap, the eighth event, before the race, Kluge was the favorite with the knowing ones, but unluckily fell on the first lap, leaving the race to his running mate to win. Baggott did this after a rattling race, with King, K. C. W., second. Time, 10.07.

The ninth race was the two-mile club team race, three men in a team. The Hudson Countys were represented by Kluge, Baggott and Gubelman; the Long Island Wheelmen by Kreger, Schumacher, and Wise; the Brooklyn by Waters, Borland and Schoeffer; and the Kings County Wheelmen by Beazley, Jones and Wilson. The race was one of the finest ever seen in this country and caused the greatest excitement. Nine of the twelve starters crossed the line so close together that it was almost impossible to keep track of them, and considering the number it was a wonder that some were not hurt in that moment of reaction that follows the few moments of intense effort at the finish. Schoeffer, of the Brooklyn, won the race individually, in the fast time, considering the track, of 6.40. Kluge, second, the K. C. W. winning the banner with 23 points, and the Brooklyn and Hudson Countys tying with 20 points each, leaving 15 points for the L. I. W. Mr. Borland, of the B. B. Cs., was having a very interesting little brush down the home stretch with another another of the three men who were out of the main bunch, and created somewhat of a diversion by riding squarely, bow on, into another man who had not yet dismounted, both going down in an apparently indiscriminate pile. Queer to relate, Borland's light racing machine had much the best of the encounter.

The final event was the consolation race, and was won by Mathews, of the Brooklyn. Time, 3.17 1-2; distance, one mile.

Kluge's fall in the three-mile handicap gave him a very begrimed appearance, and on his appearance for the next race, he came to the scratch well plastered with vaseline and court plaster. Brown, of the K. C. W., distinguished himself by his beautiful finishes and will hereafter be looked upon as a dangerous man.

The H. C. W. won three firsts and one second; the K. C. W. won five seconds; the L. I. W. won one first; the Brooklyn won two firsts.

WING FOOT.

A FEW MORE PARTICULARS OF THE GREAT RACE IN JERSEY.

"A SUCCESS and a grand one at that" is about the way our Decoration Day road race can be summed up. The start was made at 2.36 and was a clean one, and the field went down the first hill in a cluster. At the five-mile mark a blanket would have covered Kluge, Stenken, Bradley and Baggott, while Mead, Schoeffer and half a dozen others were within a few seconds' reach. Kluge got the tape by a foot and secured the time of 16.55. The ten miles was also close between Kluge, Bradley and Baggott, the time, 34.05, going to Bradley by a scant half wheel. At this point Stenken, who was a prime favorite, for second place, began plainly to show signs of overtraining, and on the fourteenth mile he was attacked with nausea, and, losing control of his wheel, got a tough fall, cutting his left knee very badly. He pulled himself together though, and kept in the race, saving the Hudson County Wheelmen from defeat.

At the fifteen-mile mark Kluge again got the time, 53.21, Bradley lapping his wheel and Baggott less than a second behind. Little Caldwell was doing wonderful work, and was only fifteen seconds behind the leader. At this point the rest of the field was pretty well strung out, the time for the slowest man being 1.02.12. At the twentieth mile the battle for first place was still being fought between Kluge, Bradley and Baggott. The time for the twenty miles was 1.11.32, given to Bradley, though the other two lapped his wheel. Caldwell, Wilson and Mead were keeping up to the leaders in good shape, and from this out, the pace was tremendously hot all round. On the last turn, after passing the hotel, Kluge took a header and bruised his shoulder and knee. By the time he was started again the leaders were a long way in the van, but he soon showed what he was made of by catching them before they had gone over three-quarters of a mile.

The finish was a beauty. A hundred yards from the tape it looked as though it might be a dead heat, but Kluge's admirers were not alarmed, and the result showed that he was not overrated. As he came on nick and tuck with Baggott—Bradley was beaten at less than forty yards from home—he gave a few vicious "digs" and the race was his by a quarter of a second in "record time." Baggott rode a noble race as did Bradley, and one which reflects the utmost credit upon them as well as stamping them as "riders of the first water." There were some 40 to 50 officials, checkers, scorers, etc.

ROAD RACE AT NEW HAVEN.

THIS race was held May 30th, and the start was made from East Haven, Four Corners, at 4 P. M. Verhrop, with a handicap of 3 min., finished first in 21.35. Field, with 3 min. also, came in second in 21.49. Backus, the only scratch man, finished 6th in 19.12. This was the best time made. The roads were heavy and the time not fast. The distance is five miles. An unfortunate accident happened while racing, a horse was frightened; he ran away upsetting the carriage and throwing the lady and gentleman into the ditch. The leading men dismounted, but the gentleman refused assistance and they proceeded.

SOME ENGLISH RACING.

HORACE J. CROCKER made his first appearance in England at Leicester, May 21, starting at scratch in a five-mile handicap, and beating Lees and Fred Wood by three yards in a punishing race. Preston, 450 yards, won easily through the big handicap.

In the mile championship at Coventry, May 21, W. E. Crist was second by two yards to Osmond in the second heat. Time, 2m. 34 2-5s. for the leader. In the final Crist was third by 100 yards from Osmond, who was 25 yards behind the winner, Synner. Time for the winner, 2m. 32 2-5s. For Crist, 2m. 41 4-5s. In a mile handicap on the same day, L. O. Barber of Washington, 160 yards, won by fifteen yards in 2m. 36 4-5s. Osmond was second from scratch in 2m. 38 1-5s. Crist refused 40 yards start and was third in 2m. 39 1-5s.

AT "RIDGEFIELD," ALBANY, N. Y.

THE following are results of the races held at Albany, June 2: The open two mile bicycle was contested by C. E. Lansing, F. A. Shields, E. L. Simpson, R. H. Robe and A. F. Edmons, of Troy. F. A. Shields led the first lap with 1m. 4 1-2 sec., while the rest pressed him very closely. After the second lap Lansing dropped out. Edmons led at the end of the first mile with 3m. 20 1-2 sec., while Shields was only half a second behind him. The race continued close between Edmons and Shields, and Shields finally won in 6m. 51 1-2 sec. Edmons made 6m. 51 1-2. This was a pretty race and very exciting. Shields is 17 years old and he rode a roadster, while Edmons was mounted on a racer.

H. G. Dicks, MacN. Miller, E. L. Miller and George Dawson contested the juniors' (boys under 16) half-mile bicycle race. Dicks and the two Millers kept very close together in the lead during the entire race, Dicks dropping back at the final spurt. MacN. Miller won in 1m. 40 3-4 sec. and E. L. Miller came next in 1m. 41 sec.

RACING AT TERRE HAUTE, IND.

WELL, the races are over, and every body is satisfied and happy over the result. A fine day, a good track, and good races were the causes.

The races given under the auspices of the Terre Haute Bicycle Club were run on Decoration Day, as advertised. The weather was fine, the track was in splendid condition, and taking into consideration the wind, good time was made. The following is the summary:

First, one-mile novice—1, E. Meissel, city; 2, H. D. Gilky, Crawfordsville; 3, T. Hays, Indianapolis. Time, 3.04 3-5.

Second, one-half-mile, 1.40 class—1, A. M. Griswold, city; 2, A. T. Murphy, city; 3, H. T. Coons, Crawfordsville. Time, 1.30.

Third, one-mile club championship—1, Rideour, 2, E. Meissel, E. B. Smith, tie. Time, 3.15.

Fourth, half-mile hurdle—1, J. Fred Probst, Terre Haute; 2, F. E. Eastlack, Crawfordsville; 3, A. T. Murphy, Terre Haute. Time, 2.47 2-5.

Fifth, half-mile State championship—1, Ed. Hulman, Terre Haute; 2, T. Nicholson, Crawfordsville. Time, 1.28.

Sixth, one-mile, 3.30 class—1, W. Rideour, Terre Haute; 2, E. Meissel, Terre Haute; 3, H. D. Gilkey, Crawfordsville. Time, 3.08 1-5.

Seventh, quarter-mile dash, flying start—1, A. Hulman, Terre Haute; 2, A. J. Lee, Crawfordsville; 3, J. Fred Probst, Terre Haute. Time, 37 1-5 sec.

Eighth, one-mile amateur, open—1, Ed. Hulman, Terre Haute;

THE Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. will shortly place a first-class home trainer on the market.

TOOL BAGS.—The Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. make seven, and are prepared to quote close figures on every style of bag in quantities.

"THE Rams-horn bars are a success."—Novelty Works, Springfield, Vermont.

2, A. J. Lee, Crawfordsville; 3, T. B. Nicholson, Crawfordsville. Time, 3.07 1-5.

Ninth, one-mile Star—1, H. D. Gilky, Crawfordsville; 2, A. T. Murphy, Terre Haute; 3, J. Fred Probst, Terre Haute. Time, 3.15.

Tenth, one-eighth-mile banana—1, J. E. Eastlack, Crawfordsville; 2, J. Jackson, Terre Haute; 3, J. Fred Probst, Terre Haute. No time taken.

Eleventh, one-mile, road wheels—1, W. Rideour, Terre Haute; 2, E. Meissel, Terre Haute; 3, H. Wilhite, Crawfordsville. Time, 3.10.

Twelfth. Finally comes the great tug of war, the two-mile State championship.—1, A. J. Lee, Crawfordsville; 2, Ed. Hulman, Terre Haute; 3, T. B. Nicholson, Crawfordsville. Time, 6.11.

The Crawfordsville chasers came down with the intention of doing things "up brown," but they were sadly left. Terre Haute riders carried off eight out of eleven open to outsiders. Nicholson, Indiana's great Star spurter, was not in his usual good form. Lee rode remarkably well for a sick man.

In the one-half-mile State championship race Lee, of Crawfordsville, and Smith, of Terre Haute, came in collision. Neither was badly hurt, but both machines were demolished. Lee's bad luck or recklessness on the track is proverbial, as this is his fourth or fifth bad smash-up in racing.

The Crawfordsville Ramblers will give a race meet on July 4th, on their new quarter-mile track. The Terre Haute riders will probably attend in a body, and bring back about three-fourths of the prizes. Look out ye Rambling scorchers.

On May 29th, the evening before the races, the members of the Terre Haute Bicycle Club gave a grand lantern parade. The affair was a huge success, as the large crowds out to see it testified. It was the first of its kind in this city, but beyond a few "dark, dull headers" everything passed off smoothly. HICKS.

UNLIKE other makers the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. are always willing to discount to any recognized dealer on parts and sundries.

"A RIDER taking a header from a machine having Rams-horn bars will usually land on his feet, without knowing how he does it, as these bars confine the rider less than any other style."—W. E. Crist, champion amateur of America.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

THE OVERMAN FACTORY.

AN editor of a bicycling paper, who has never made a particular study as to how machines are built, should take advantage of the first opportunity that presents itself to educate himself in this most important branch of the business.

We have, from time to time, received cordial invitations to visit the factories of different manufacturers. Obstacles, unforeseen, had interposed, and until about a week ago we had not felt ourselves able to avail ourselves of any of these invitations. In response to a personal invitation from Mr. A. H. Overman, one bright morning we at last found ourselves on the train en route for Chicopee Falls, Mass. Arriving at our destination about noon, and appreciating the fact that we had a hard afternoon's work before us, we stored away a good allowance of roast beef, washed down with a bottle of first-class Bass' ale. We then proceeded up the hill, and we soon discovered a neat brick building, from the roof of which a flag-staff pointed heavenwards, bearing a flag with this inscription thereon, "Victor Cycles." Passing over the sidewalk, leading from the street to the office door, we noticed that the Overman Co. had provided a neat wooden shed in which were stacked ordinaries and safeties, owned by some of the working men, and used by them in going to and from their dwellings. President Overman had not yet returned from his mid-day meal, and so we spent the time on the outside of the building and in the office in seeing what we could see. A neatly printed set of rules, setting forth the duties expected of the workmen, adorned a conspicuous place on the wall in the entry. On the door leading into the main factory bearing these words, "No admittance under any consideration; this means you." This extremely personal command was sufficient to stay our footsteps, although we were strongly tempted to turn the handle and walk in. Had we done so, we fear that our exit might have been more rapid and less dignified than our entrance; we therefore curbed our impatience till Mr. Overman should appear and provide us with the open sesame which was to allow us to explore the forbidden ground. At last that gentleman arrived, and after entering our names upon a book, in which every outsider's name is put, who is allowed inside the factory, Mr. Overman led the way through the door on which we had noticed the placard forbidding our entrance. A few steps from the general storeroom brought us to the main machine shop, and as we stood on the small platform on which the desk of the Superintendent was placed, we felt how utterly inadequate was our ability to describe all that we saw or should see, in detail. In general, this is what we saw: A large room, the floor of which was literally covered with machines of every description, and at every machine a man. Two things struck us right away. One was the evident newness of the machines used, the very latest patterns and the most expensive kinds only being employed by this firm. The other thing which impressed us was the character of the men whom we saw. The sight of a boy was a rare thing, the Overman Co. feeling the necessity of employing the very best mature skill that can be procured. "We will have nothing but skilled mechanics to work for us," said Mr. Overman, "men who thoroughly understand the branch of work in which they are employed. Many of these men, in fact, a large proportion of them are well-to-do, they own their houses, and in many instances, their horses and carriages. So soon as they leave the shop, remove their working clothes, wash off the oil, and don their outside toggery, you would be much impressed by the high-toned respectability of the men we employ."

Mr. Overman then led the way through and as we before said, it would be utterly useless to attempt to describe the work done by each separate tool. At the lower end of this room a space was divided off from the main room by a partition made of open-work wire. In this space, we found five or six men whose particular duty and business it is to make the special tools required in the manufacture of the bicycles. These men are on the top round of their trade, and as Mr. Overman said, there is nothing they cannot build from a watch to a locomotive. In this room, and by these experts are made all the gauges by which the perfection of the work is tested. Each set is composed of three; one for the work man, one for the foreman, and one set, which is marked "standard," is kept under lock and key by the foreman of this department. The value of this system is apparent when we explain. The workman is given the gauge of the special piece of work on which he is working, to this gauge all his work must conform. It then goes to the Inspector's office, and there the piece is tested by the Inspector's gauge. If found exact, it is passed; if not, then the gauges of the workmen and the Inspector are tested by the standard gauge, and if it is found that by constant use, either the workman's or the Inspector's gauge is not correct, a new set are at once made from the standard to replace the faulty ones. This system of gauging is used in all parts that go in their bicycles. The fact is that machines made in this factory are interchangeable in the full sense of the term. A rider living in San Francisco can send for a certain part of his bicycle to the factory at Chicopee Falls with the certain knowledge that when it comes it will fit into the intended place without any necessary filing or fitting at the hands of a mechanic. The Inspector and his assistant play the most important part in a bicycle manufactory. Through their hands every piece of the machine has to go, and before the machine is finished it has been inspected by them many times. Here all the pieces are gauged; here all the tempered work of the bearing parts are tested with file and hammer; here the machine, partly put together, comes for inspection.

TO BE SENT ON ITS WAY

toward completion, or to be cast out as valueless. This work requires sharp eyes and wonderful judgment. What to an outsider would appear perfect, to an inspector may appear faulty.

"Notwithstanding the fact that we are working over two hundred men in day and night gangs, and notwithstanding the fact that we are turning out twenty safeties a day, we find it extremely difficult to catch up with our orders," said Mr. Overman. "We never allow our machinery bearings to cool, and only for a very short interval at noon and at night does the engine cease its work."

We were very much interested in what we saw in the blacksmith's shop. There we found three large steam hammers working away for dear life in making drop forgings. Plans are now being made, and work will soon commence, whereby the facilities of the blacksmith's shop and in fact the whole factory will be greatly increased, and Mr. Overman informed us that he expected to have one or two more steam hammers in active operation before the end of July. In this shop we also saw the tempering of the spring forks of the safety. This department is in charge of one of the most expert temperers in the United States. He is a man who has been employed at sword tempering for years, and as he was the best to be had, the Overman Co. were bound to have him. All steel used in these forks is of the very best sword metal.

THE Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. manufacture four distinctly different saddles, as follows: The Cobblestone, used on the Champion and Ideal bicycles; the Wonder, used on the American Challenge tricycle; the Lillibridge, used on the American Challenge bicycle; and the Duryea, for racing purposes. Dealers wishing to cover the market should correspond with them, and obtain discounts.

We then went up stairs on the second floor, where the assembling of the machines is done, and where the enameling and tire-compressing ovens are located. We were requested to step into the enameling oven, just to see how it would seem, and while we were rather deliberate in our entrance, we made up for our slowness in our decided quickness in getting out, so our average was about correct.

IT WAS THE HOTTEST PLACE

we ever got into, and we hope that our lives will be so correct that it will be the hottest we ever shall get into hereafter.

We were then shown the modus of compressing tires. This department is entirely under the control of Prof. Woodward, the inventor of the compressed tire method. This gentleman inspects every tire that comes out of the oven, and not until he has passed upon it as being perfect, does the wheel go to the assembling room. Prof. Woodward also looks over all machines before they are sent out, and as he said to us, "if the machines break down you must lay it at my door."

The crate factory and carpenters' shop for packing machines are also on this floor, and three or four carpenters are kept busy in manufacturing crates in which to ship away the completed bicycles.

From the second story we took a dive down into the basement. Here the rims are made, and we were shown how the thin steel sheets were shaped and brazed.

Mr. Overman took us into the engine room and showed us an exceedingly handsome smooth-running Corlis engine. So smooth and so even in its running, that not a tremor could be felt or a sound be heard. The day that we were inspecting the factory the architect had presented plans to the company for buildings to cover almost the entire ground, so that by the middle of the summer their present floor space will be doubled. This will give them ample room to meet the demands of their continually increasing business. Mr. Overman acted as cicerone for about an hour and a half, and as we had still some two hours at our disposal he turned us loose into the shop with a commission at large to find out what we could. With a big wad of cotton waste in our hand, we prowled around amongst these marvellous machines, getting our hands all covered with oil, watching with interested curiosity the wonderful and almost intelligent way in which these machines are shaping and forming, and generally making ourselves an inquisitive nuisance; we spent two of the most interesting hours that it has been our lot to enjoy for many a day. We did intend to try and describe some of the machines, but when we found we could not pick out the most interesting and the most curious we gave up in despair, and can only talk in glittering generalities. Our day at Chicopee Falls has given us a practical insight into the methods of construction that heretofore have been a mystery.

"AFTER five years' experience with every kind of handle-bar, have at last found, in the G. & J. Rams-horn, perfection. It combines perfect control of machine, best position for hill climbing and safety. Will guarantee that any man who uses the Rams-horn one season will never change"—J. L. Misner, First Lieutenant Peoria (Ill.) Bi. Club.

E. J. DOUBLET, of Cleveland, Ohio, is a fast rider, and one that the road scorers will find hard to beat. He recently rode from "The Square" to Painesville centre, a distance of thirty miles, in two hours and twenty minutes, this time including a stop at Mentor for a light breakfast. This is record for this route.

RIDERS of New England made machines secured decided victories Decoration Day at the 25-mile road race in New Jersey, where the first and second in rode Columbias, breaking the 25-mile record; and at the Pullman road race, Pullman, Ill., the first, second and third rode Columbias.

THE employees of the Weed Sewing Machine Co., of Hartford, Conn., have organized a club under the name of Columbia. They have 60 members, and they will make road racing one of the features of their organization.

A PRETTY big card for the New Mail that performance of Haradon's. It has always been claimed for the Ball Head that it was an advantage in hill climbing.

THE American Champion Challenge and Ideal lamps are the best and cheapest. Dealers should write Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. for discount.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names. Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct. Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objection able person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

TRAINING FOR AMATEUR ATHLETES, WITH SPECIAL REGARD TO BICYCLISTS. By Dr. H. L. Cortis. The author of this work being at once a responsible medical man and a rider of world-wide renown, it has an authority which no other book on training possesses. As its hints and directions are in every way practical, it can be strongly indorsed as giving all the information that a book can give on this important subject. Second edition. 50 cents.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents.

MY CYCLING LOG BOOK. By "Papa" Weston. The transitory pleasures of cycling can be made as permanent as its physical benefits, by jotting down in a well devised log book, the distances and incidents of one's various journeys. Knowing that such a record is a most pleasant thing to have, and believing that the keeping of such should be encouraged, as tending to the permanent good of cycling in more ways than can be referred to here. The Log Book is handsomely and strongly bound in red leather, will last for years of constant use, and is the best arranged book of its kind ever yet devised. It fills a want often felt by the cyclist who values records of interest for future reference. Price, post paid, $1.25

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 15 JUNE, 1888.

THERE are several notices in our official department relative to Meet matters that should engage the attention of our readers.

ERRATA.—Our types last week stated that Mr. H. J. Crowther, of Baltimore, would represent us at the Baltimore meet. To be more correct, we should have stated that Mr. H. Crowther, of Philadelphia, would represent us in company with Mr. N. L. Collamer, of Washington. Mr. Crowther's headquarters will be the Carrollton Hotel. Mr. Collamer states that inquiries at the Baltimore Cycle Club house will reach him.

WE are advised by our Newark correspondent that in the tie of May 30 race between the Kings County Wheelmen and the Hudson County Wheelmen to be run off, the Association has decided that these clubs may enter any men they may wish for the deciding race. This is a most marvellous decision, and we should like to know by what powers of reasoning the Association arrives at this decision. We hold that the personnel of the rival teams should not be changed, but that each club should be required to start the same men or forfeit the race. If we had had the privilege of speaking our piece at the meeting, as a member of the organization, we should have stood stiff for the position that the same men must participate, or no race.

OUR national pride has been considerably bolstered up since our visit and interview with W. A. Rowe, an account of which we publish elsewhere. With the bare fact before us that Howell had beaten Rowe we felt that there was nothing to be said, but after talking with Rowe and getting at the facts of his not being able to put in over ten days' training in two months, we only marvel that he did as well. Without taking one jot from the value of Howell's victories, we positively assert that the matches were most unsatisfactory as proofs of the relative qualities of the men. That Rowe was away below his usual form when he raced Howell and Wood is admitted by the English press, and it is proven by the fact that as soon as the warm weather came to stay and Rowe could do some out-door work, he began to improve marvelously. We shall not rest satisfied until the two great men have met again, which we hope will be next September. Under the circumstances we think our dissatisfaction at the result is reasonable, and that the result may be reversed not at all improbable.

"BICYCLING NEWS" ON W. A. ROWE.

We clip from the last issue of the News, the opinion of Mr. Hillier on Rowe's form. "He sits very upright and uses T handles, and the moment he commences to spurt a considerable portion of his shoulder weight is thrown upon his wrists, and as he wobbles his shoulders his steering is by no means steady at top speed. He sits relatively close to the head, and does not remain steady in his saddle. The actual action of his legs is immensely powerful, the thigh and back muscles doing a tremendous lot of work, which, however, is considerably discounted by his action below the knee. It is quite true that he drops his heel, but the drop is due to the downward thrust from the knee, and not to the upward and forward kick which distinguishes a true ankle-peddaller, and it is not until the pedal is well on the descending curve that the thrust becomes really effective. The thrust is very powerful, but only effective for a short distance, and we could detect little or no 'clawing' as the pedal rose. That Rowe should attain the speed he does with his present style of riding points to the possession of wonderful power from a muscular point of view. Riding a small wheel he jumps off fairly well, and as long as his spurt lasts it is a good one."

Then in another article of the same issue: "Rowe's mission here has not been a success, and from a patriotic point of view we must regard his failure to secure Dick Howell's scalp as satisfactory, but from the personal point of view we think every one who has met America's champion cyclist will be sorrow, for he is a straightforward man, with as little bounce as any professional rider we met. Whilst showing considerable quiet confidence in his own powers, he treats his hearers to none of the absurd gasconade which so many pros. and some few amateurs indulge in, and, recognising the many chances which militate against success in cycle racing, simply says he means to do his best. All true sportsman will appreciate these characteristics which distinguish the American champion, and join with us in wishing him more conspicuous success in his next venture than has attended his visit to England in 1888."

ANENT THOSE SEVENTY-ONE STARTERS.

Editor Bicycling World:—In your issue of May 25th I notice two paragraphs condemning the Chicago to Pullman road race. I wish to state that we are fortunate enough to have a park boulevard extending to the heart of the city, the traffic of which is regulated by Park Commissioners. These same Commissioners are heartily in accord with the promoters of this race, and furnished mounted policemen at all important crossings; the city of Chicago also contributed a few policemen to keep a clear space at the starting point. The course is over this same boulevard for ten miles, and when the contestants leave it they are entirely out of the city. The residents along the course make it a point to turn out in force, and consider the race much more interesting than the procession that follows a few hours later. I will venture the assertion that not one spectator in 500 raised an objection to it in any way. There is an element in human nature that makes any honest contest for superiority among men attractive and even fascinating. A few religious monomaniacs, a few more crabbed persons who are always ready with their objections, no matter what the occasion, will undoubtedly be heard to say that racing is injurious, morally, physically and legally. Road racing, under many conditions, is undoubtedly a nuisance, and is fraught with much danger, but under just as many other conditions it is a healthy, moral sport, well liked by the majority of citizens. Our situation is the latter, and it will be many years before road contests on the cycle will have to be stopped in the vicinity of this burg.

Wm. C. THORNE.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

"WHAT authority had the officials for recognizing Mr. Beazley as a competitor in the road race?" "What right had the Kings County Wheelmen to put Beazley on the team when two substitutes who had been regularly entered were on the ground?" These questions, and others as pertinent, are flying around among those interested in the inter-club race. Will the Alphabetical Association let some light on the subject?

The tie between the Hudson County and Kings County Wheelmen will be run off over the Irvington-Milburn course on Saturday, July 14. The same men will be started and the same officials as on Decoration Day will have charge.

The Elizabeth Journal says "it is doubtful if the Elizabeth Wheelmen enter another team in these semi-annual contests." This won't do, Elizabeth, you've nothing to be ashamed of for the past and nothing to fear for the future.

Riders through the Oranges are advised to give a wide berth to South Scotland street, between McChesney street and the Hillsdale avenue station, as the contractors who macadamizing Hillsdale avenue are dumping all the loam taken off the latter street in the former.

The athletic meeting of the Orange Athletic Club on June 23, on the Roseville track, is an assured fact, the entries for the several events having been sufficiently numerous to insure its success. The programme includes a two-mile bicycle race, for which Harry Wolcott, B. Hotchkiss and W. Keck have entered.

KLUGE has always been credited with being a "forcer" in a race, but according to "Wing-Foot's" account of the two-mile national championship, he fell in with the "head riders." Drop that, Charley, an' you love us! Make the boys ride to beat you, and leave "tactics" to those who have to use them for want of speed and wind.

The Wanderers expect to have a big turnout for their "century" run towards Baltimore Saturday, 16. The start will be made at 4 A. M. The last twenty-one miles will be covered before dark through Fairmount Park and over Lancaster Pike to Paoli. Those members who intend going to the League meet will rest at Paoli over Sunday, and on Monday will continue to the Monumental City a-wheel. The club will have a bugler who will sound all the calls.

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., has the tournament fever bad. Consul Edwards of that town has raised some $150 for prizes for a series of races to be given there on the 4th of July. The events will be a one-mile, 5-mile and a 10-mile race, all for amateurs. He asks for the co-operation of all St. Louis wheelmen and no doubt a large delegation will attend.

It seems that the American Wheelman is as dead as a door nail, or even a coffin nail, to go it one better. The paper has not made its appearance for a month, and no one expects to see it again.

E. M. WILDER, of the firm of Wilder & Mayo, is doing good work in gathering recruits for the L. A. W. Ed made a curious bet with Mayo regarding his (Mayo's) winning the race at the Fair Grounds. If Mayo won, his moustache had to come off, and off it is.

The cyclists of Sedalia, Mo., held a meeting last Wednesday and organized a club, styling themselves the Sedalia Cyclers. Mr. Joe H. Kelly was elected President. He was also appointed local Consul this week, and Sedalia will therefore be heard from the coming summer.

C. T. WESTLAKE, of South St. Louis, has aided the Division greatly by handing its officers a list of the unattached riders in the suburb known as Carondelet. If some other members of the Division would do likewise, it would greatly benefit the League's membership.

THE Division will soon lose one of its hardest and most faithful workers, in the person of Consul Miller of Hannibal, who will go to Galesburg, Ill., to reside. I would put a flea into Chief Consul Van Sicklen's ear. If he wishes to boom cycling, and the League appoint Miller as local Consul.

SUNDAY, a week ago, C. C. Hildebrand performed the feat of riding hands off to and from Ballwin, a distance of 40 miles, climbing all the hills, including Solomon, in the face of a strong wind. Numerous riders have essayed this feat before, but few of them ever brought it to a successful conclusion.

HAL GREENWOOD is in fine fettle, and has trained down as smooth as silk. Your correspondent, complying with your request, asked him for the grade of Kimmswick Hill, which he was unable to give. I have, however, written the surveyor of Jefferson County, and as soon as his reply is received will forward it promptly.

GUS MORGENS, a member of the Cycle Club, while riding down the Lindell avenue boulevard, was run into by some scoundrel and badly scratched up, some evenings since. His wheel was wrecked, and it was a miracle that he escaped as he did. Should the offender be caught it will go hard with him, as the Division's officers have decided to put a stop to this thing. On the other hand I have to call attention to the reckless riding that is being done by some of the wheelmen on the asphaltum. It was only last Friday that a rider scorching down Pine street ran into and upset a buggy, causing a runaway, and spilling the occupant of the vehicle out on the street. This is road hogism of the worst type, and should at once be stopped.

STREET reconstruction is going on at a lively rate. The Board of Public Improvements has let the following to be reconstructed with wooden blocks: Easton avenue, between Leffingwell and Grand avenue, Morgan street, Compton to Grand avenue, Clark avenue from 21st to Jefferson avenue. Pine street will be reconstructed with Telford pavement from Grand avenue to Boyle avenue; also Grand avenue from Laclede avenue to Manchester road. The two latter will be good news to cyclists, as it will open up a good road to Manchester road and also take some of the travel off the Lindell avenue boulevard. The total cost of these improvements will be over $100,000, 25 per cent. of which will be assessed against adjoining property owners.

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THE most noteworthy cycling news of the past month is the Buffalo Club's century run. Captain Hotchkiss and his assistants deserve all the praise you can give them for the successful manner in which the run was carried out. The boys boarded the 5.50 P. M. train on the Lake Shore, Tuesday evening, May 29th, and on their arrival at Erie, were met by wheelmen of the Erie Club, who escorted them to the Reed House, where eight other Buffalo cyclists were found who had taken the 2 P. M. train. Captain Hotchkiss hustled his men to bed at an early hour, preparatory to rising at 3 A. M. (Erie time). Next morning (Decoration Day) line was formed in front of the hotel at 5.15 A. M., and the roll call showed twenty-eight wheelmen present. Start was made at 5.25 (25 minutes behind schedule time), and after stopping at various places along the line and attracting any amount of attention, twenty-three of the party (the other five having dropped out) rode, twos front, around the meadow, arriving at the club house at 10.15 P. M., a proud but awfully weary lot of fellows. Total time elapsed, 16h. 55m.; total mileage, 101 miles; riding time, 9h. 51m., or about ten miles an hour. Runs of this kind, with so large a party, are scarce and the boys have reason to be proud of their exploit.

How I would like to go to Baltimore next week. A great time is in store for those who are so fortunate as to go. "Skib," I'll be down to see you later on.

THE Buffalo Club held a special meeting May 26th, and decided to invite the New York State Division to hold its meet here during the tournament. It is to be hoped the invitation will be accepted.

AN error appeared in my last letter regarding the cycling track. The Ramblers will have the privilege of using the track any time after the tournament but not before, as the professionals will be using it then.

THE Ramblers run to Lewiston under the command of Captain Hauenstein was also successfully carried out. To keep up with the times, Captain Hauenstein has announced a run to Erie for Saturday, 16th of June. They mean to keep the Buffalo Club hustling for honors this season.

THE Ramblers, at their regular monthly meeting, June 5th, elected twelve new members; also F. R. Schwinn, Geo. C. Laub, and Ed. F. Dold as a Board of Trustees. In a few days committees will be appointed for the tournament, and then the work will begin in dead earnest. It remains to be seen whether there is any fun in it. According to Ducker, it is "by the sweat of the brow."

FOR a right good lot of sensible fellows, commend me to the Springfield Club. I have never met with them, nor have I had any business with them; I draw my opinion from a motion that was moved and carried unanimously, namely: "That we hold our annual tournament in Buffalo, Sept. 4th, 6th and 8th." Now, let other clubs follow suit, for "in union there is strength."

A most singular accident befell a Rochester cyclist last Monday evening (June 4th), while riding on the sidewalk (which, by the way, is not forbidden here) a hook under the awning of a meat market caught him in the right cheek, tearing through the flesh in a terrible manner, and sliding along the bone through the right eye until it caught hold in the socket. He hung on the hook until released by some of his companions. His eye was totally destroyed and his face will be disfigured for life. There is a moral to this.

ST. JOSEPH.

"MENTOR."

MEMORIAL DAY here was a gala occasion, a day which will long be remembered as an enjoyable event by the visitors who were the guests of the St. Joseph Ruralists' Bicycle Club. The officers and members of the entertaining club should feel elated at the success of their royal reception accorded delegations of wheelmen from clubs from surrounding cities. About a month ago invitations were sent to the following clubs to spend Memorial Day in St. Joseph, the guests of the Ruralists' Bicycle Club: Omaha Wheel Club, Leavenworth County Wheelmen, Topeka Wheelmen, Kansas City United Wheelmen, and wheelmen in Oregon, Mo., Maryville, Mo., and Atchinson. There were about seventy-five wheelmen, including one from Boston and one from Philadelphia. The incoming wheelmen were met at the Union Depot by the Reception Committee, and the visitors were escorted to the club quarters, where fruit, iced milk and cigars awaited them. Then the wheelmen adjourned to the Union Depot Hotel, where the largest assemblage ever quartered together in the Missouri valley sat down to an elaborate collation.

AFTER dinner, the parade was formed, and slowly moved away on the excellent asphalt pavement to the beautiful grounds of the insane asylum. There were over one hundred wheelmen in line, and they made an extremely long pageant of shining wheels. The sidewalks were crowded with interested spectators, and they showed their hearty approval of the spectacle by their many admiring gazes and complimentary remarks.

THE asylum reached, the boys dismounted and lolled in the shade of the grand old trees, sang songs, told stories of cycle adventures, renewed and made new acquaintances. Then the boys utilized their sweetest smiles, the photographer adjusted the black hood, squinted the camera, said, "now, gentlemen, please keep quiet"—and their "picture was taken." The wheelmen returned to the city, and at the close of a beautiful day, the wheelmen boarded their several trains and whirled home to their homes and families. The wheelmen of St. Joe can rest assured that their entertainment was a success in every particular. Vive St. Joe Wheelmen.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE JOTTIST."

We are pleased to notice from our many exchanges that Bicycle clubs all over New England and elsewhere are frowning down the sidewalk riding nuisance. We may complain of the road-hog who drives a quadraped, but we regret to say that the public have just cause sometimes to speak feeling and forcibly of the "sidewalk cycling hog."

We hope Mr. Fisher, of New Haven, will reap a rich subscription harvest at Baltimore for his New Haven to New York path scheme.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., wheelmen are talking up an athletic park, with bicycle track, etc. C. I. Shean is one of eight who will subscribe $500 towards the venture.

THE proposed parade, June 22, of the Springfield, Mass., wheelmen, it is an assured fact that over 230 local wheelmen will be in line. If the out-of-town clubs respond there will be nearly 350 men in line.

THE second annual races of the Rhode Island Wheelmen will be held at Roger Williams Park, Thursday, June 21st, at 6.30 P. M., and will consist of the following events: One-mile championship race; one-half-mile special; one-mile tandem; two-mile lap; one half-mile Rover; one-half-mile tricycle. The events are in charge of Howard L. Perkins and Nelson H. Gibbs, the Club committee.

B. H. TROUT, one of the judges in the late Taunton-New Bedford team road race, thus writes us: "I would like to call your attention to a slight error in your report of the New Bedford-Taunton road race on Memorial Day. There was a collision between Anthony and Fred Smith, but no foul; if any thing there might have been a foul on F. Smith, as the collision was caused by his cutting in ahead of Anthony, who had the inside track and could not get out of the way. Anthony's backbone was bent, so the wheels did not track within three inches. Also, I would like to call your attention to the plucky race ridden by Bolton, the last ten miles with three broken ribs. During the winter he met with an accident, breaking three ribs. From some cause these broken bones parted after he had made ten miles in the race, and he was forced to fall back, finishing sixth; and would have been fifth but that Sisson, of New Bedford, wore a cap with Taunton colors, causing Bolton to mistake him for one of the Taunton men. Most men under the circumstances would have dropped out. The time is certainly correct for the race, 1.17, and the measurement is that of the New Bedford Club, which I hope will be verified."

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

MOST sincerely do we congratulate Mr. H. D. Corey, of the Pope Mfg. Co., on the fact that he is to take unto himself a "helpmeet." The lady's name is Miss Wallace, and she resides in Newton. The wedding will take place June 27, but owing to recent bereavement in Mr. Corey's family the ceremony will be strictly private. Mr. Corey's many friends will join us in wishing the pair all the happiness the human heart is capable of.

THE Brooklyn Club will hold a race meeting July 4th.

DUCKER wants the Springfield Bicycle Club minstrel troupe to visit Buffalo. He thinks there is money in it.

MANY of our readers will join us in congratulating Mr. W. B. Everett and his wife on the safe arrival of a fine, healthy boy; a prospective cyclist.

THE Athletic World, edited by F. P. Priai, led a short but we trust a merry life. Three or four issues were made and then things dropped. "Too much strain to run two papers," said Editor Priai.

MR. H. CROWTHER, of Philadelphia, would like companions to tour from Baltimore to Washington, down the Shenandoah pike, after the League meet. For particulars address H. Crowther, Bicycling World representative, Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore.

ROWE was to have ridden a match with R. H. English June 2, but Rowe's accident of course prevented the race. English, however, insisted on the race or the forfeit of £15. This was not a very generous action on English's part, but we suppose it was "business."

WE commend the Wheel and Cycle Trade Review for its perseverance in attempting to prove to the editor of Bi. News that Rowe's records are bona fide. But alas, we fear, for what does the affidavit of an American, weigh against the opinion of our friend across the water?

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "I should like to inquire through the World if any of its readers have used the Dry Graphite or Plumbago as a lubricant for ball bearings, and whether or not it answers the purpose." [We can answer, we have tried it and it does not work. Oil is the only satisfactory lubricant.—Ed.]

A CORRESPONDENT writing from Springfield, Ill., says: "We entertain the L. A. W. Division members on July 3d and 4th, and want as many L. A. W. men as possible. In a city of 30,000 people, which has thirty miles of block pavement, we ought to have at least 75 L. A. W. men. The meet will help us. Shall have races, lantern parade, lunch; following day run of seven miles to Clear Lake, banquet evening of 4th."

THE Arkansas Traveler Cycle Club, of Little Rock, Ark., will hold a tournament next Monday. The programme covers eight events. The track of the Arkansas Traveler Cycle Club is a quarter-mile stretch of oval form. It is well graded and has been rolled to a firm surface by the six-ton steam roller belonging to the city. For this the club desires to return thanks to Mayor Whipple and the Board of Public Commissioners.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Bi. World dropped in at Spalding's a few days ago, and was informed by the genial cycling manager, A. B. Barkman, that it was on his last trip that Coningsby was compelled to dismount instead of on his first, in his Eagle Rock climb, and that he had mounted the hill the third time, but in turning for the down coast his wheel caught in a rut, which overturned him. His times were first, 13m. 16s.; second, 14m. 25s.; third, 14m. 12s. The wheel he rode was taken from the regular stock, and was geared to 54 inches. W. E. Fuller, J. F. Borland, W. S. M. Mead, L. L. Conder, A. B. Barkman, J. B. Jones, H. A. Smith, and other prominent wheelmen witnessed the performance.

FROM "SENATOR" MORGAN.

I WAS glad to have Hillier and Sturmev at the Aston Grounds, Birmingham, on the occasion of the three days' tournament last month, especially the former, as he now will, I'm convinced, readily admit that Rowe's records are "all right." I never saw such improvement in a man in all my life as there was in Rowe after we had given him two weeks' steady work over the Coventry track, and I can now readily admit that it was the very inclement weather and the constant travelling about which prevented him from winning at least two or three of his match races, especially the two first with Howell and Wood, and the one with the latter more especially. There was also another cause, a mental one, which worried the Lynn lad, which we were fortunately in a position to remove in time, which very materially helped his late successes. I have been in close company with Rowe for the past three months, and, although dining at the same table and with him in his practice nearly always, I cannot as yet say "I know him," although I have partly solved many important secrets of his successes and failures. Rowe, though a great man, will never shine conspicuously in match races, but will, like Woodside, English and other men I know, surprise the world now and then in open races and in a crowd, where responsibility is light, and not too much generalship is required. The responsibility of racing for big money and the consequent nervous strain beats many a good man before the pistol cracks. If Rowe's head was on a par with his legs he would conquer the world; put the same theory the opposite way with Temple, and America would be safe in holding the greatest cyclists, and the championship of years. Howell and Temple are the

the world ever saw, and Temple's past twelve months' work will stand as the greatest that has ever been done—aye, and for the size and weight of the man—that probably will ever be done.

The team under Eck's management have shown up well, and Crocker defeating Fred Wood and Fred Lees at Leicester, and Knapp and Whittaker riding seconds in the two championships proves there is not a soft one in the new team, although they cannot be expected to win a first or second where Rowe and Temple compete. Eck tells me he is sick of this country, and sighs for home. If Eck had taken my advice he would have been in pocket, as the trip to him at the very best will be disastrous. It is quite possible you will see them all back in a few weeks, as these new comers are not too enthusiastic over their prospects. It can now be understood how much the American team has done to gain their present footing in cycling in England. That they have practically controlled professionalism for the past six months is apparent, as every man of note has received salary from the coffers of the team, and they commanded the services of every scratch man at Aston but Howell. W. Wood, owing to his match with Rowe to-day, could not have well been there, and F. Wood was there, but wisely for his own repute, declined to run, as he could not have taken a place. Howell had fought the meeting in and out of the papers, and with the Wolverhampton proprietor, who held his annual three days' meeting, was bound to bust up the Aston project. The consequence was, Howell (who previously wrote the Sporting Life, stating he did not intend competing against the entire strength of the team) was the only scratch man at Wolverhampton, and had a walk over for the mile championship, and the attendance for the three days was not one-fourth as large as our meeting. This is to be deplored, as we wanted to get a whack at Howell in open competition, and even went so far as to send a representative to see Devy, who controls the Molineaux grounds, to see if we could not arrange to have men from either place compete at both meetings, as the distance is only twelve miles and plenty of trains running, and the programme could have been arranged accordingly. Guided, it is believed, by Howell, he refused this overture, and the consequence is he is a heavy loser, and the Aston promoters gainers.

"HUSTLING" AND HARD WORK

To-day, Saturday, I arrived from the South in order to see Rowe meet W. Wood for a second hundred pounds.

After putting a few more lines to this "copy," in company with Rowe we strolled up to the Jarrow track, where three thousand people had assembled, although the weather was cold.

ROWE QUICKLY STRIPPED.

and after Allen had given him a little preparation, he came out and received applause. Wood quickly appeared, and was also greeted with cheers. I had previously told Rowe to do a little pacing and if necessary to go away with the lead. When the pistol cracked, therefore, Rowe made play for the lead, and went away at a fair rate of progression, shaking his man up by a terrific burst on the second mile, and I knew then, barring accidents, Rowe would win. Wood endeavored to settle Rowe by placing his wheel level and then making some comments of a not too refined character occasionally. The last mile Wood endeavored to get by, but Rowe, always on the alert, held his own, and the last lap was entered amid a scene of intense excitement, as the men rode locked together on the straight, but Rowe turned the last corner, and as he passed me fifty yards from the tape, he was half a wheel ahead, but Wood was gaining on him fast, and when Rowe broke the worsted he was only a small foot victor, and never in my life have I felt so uneasy over a finish before, through, I fancy, Rowe's bad judgment in allowing Wood to hold him too close, when he could have left him on the down hill, three hundred yards from home, thereby disheartening his man, as Wood was encouraged by Rowe's allowing him to keep level, and Rowe finished "all out." It was a victory hard earned indeed, for immediately on passing the post, Rowe collided with a man who must have been insane over the finish, and striking him fairly amidship with the big wheel of his Columbia, he came down a horrible thud. This nearly stopped the beating of my heart, and when we picked him up he was unconscious, but revived on reaching the dressing room. Fearing a broken bone or internal injury we had him conveyed to a private house near the grounds, and after summoning a doctor, found that the unfortunate man had broken his collar bone, that a few unimportant scratches and bruises was the result of as criminal a piece of business as ever disgraced a bicycle track.

Rowe was matched to ride R. A. English fifteen miles next Saturday, June 2d, on the North Shields track for fifty pounds, and as we have fifteen pounds forfeit up I suppose we must lose it. Rowe's stay in this country has not been at all a pleasant one, as his first ill successes and adverse criticism had only part worn off when this accident lays him low, and strange to say until last week, ever since Rowe and his trainer joined the American team, the team was losing steadily at the rate of bankruptcy, until Temple broke the spell in defeating Wood, and the treasury again commences to look healthy. The original American team will at Dublin next Saturday, where there will be run a big meeting at Bull's Bridge track, in which the cream de la cream of American and English talent will compete, and Crist of Washington is likely to be the five-mile "Irish" champion for 1888, as he competes there in the races at which the Irish Cycling Association will decide their first mile annual championship. Temple and Woodside will be entrusted to represent us at that meeting; and I leave for Berlin via London immediately in order to arrange our Continental engagements. We make our bow to a German audience in Berlin, Sunday, June 10th, and dear Christian brethren, forgive us, for I understand we used to be numbered with the heathens who don't observe the Sabbath for weeks to come. Crist, I believe, intends competing in Berlin, so you can rest assured the glorious old flag will be all right, even if we are German, English and Irish by descent.

NOTES.

HOWELL is quiet again, somebody told him Temple did 2.30 at Coventry. He says he will come to America and meet Rowe and Temple this fall, and swears vengeance on me. Woodside has developed into quite a plunger, he dropped a lot on Rowe, and won it back on Temple. Cook and Alexander, the oldest handicappers in the Midlands, tell me Temple is the fastest miler in the world today, and says if I don't collar Howell's money, I'm "a chump." They tell me I've grown three years older the last three months. Tell your advertising agent to send me nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars for value received from quotations, re London wax-work cyclists, as every paper in Britain is talking about it, and several journals have been to Madame Tussauds to write "the figures up." Wheeling says I'm wrong about it going to change hands, and calls me ungrateful; really I am not, and McCandlish should not think so. The N. C. U. will soon be for sale, fixtures and all. "What am I asked for Viscount Bury, G. L. H., and Finlay MacCrae?" The N. C. U. have practically killed amateur cycle sport, quite right, too; all the better for the "Pros," and the atmosphere is cleaner. Tom Eck threatens to pay a ten shilling fine for assaulting "Jack," whom he charges with several things; look out for blood when the Canadian meets the Scot. Temple's foot is not quite well yet, and he cannot relinquish his walking stick, he and Woodside will take a few days vacation at Woodside's residence,

W. A. ROWE AT HOME.

BEING advised that W. A. Rowe had returned from England, we took the train for Lynn, and started out for his home in Glenmere. We had scarcely pulled the door-bell of his residence before the door was opened in person by Mr. Rowe. But for the fact that his arm was bandaged up inside his coat and shirt, we should say that Mr. Rowe was one of the healthiest men we had looked upon in many a day. He looked brown, rugged, and his eye is clear. In fact he was the very picture of an athlete in health. We announced the fact that we had come to interview him, and we were at once asked in. Mr. Rowe arrived in New York, Sunday at 7 P. M., on the White Star steamer Republic. In answer to our queries, he stated that he had sustained no internal injury from his fall on the Jarow track. That the collar bone only was broken, and that in a short time he would be able to use his arm again. "But with the exception of this broken collar bone, I never felt better in my life," said Mr. Rowe. "I was just beginning to pick up and get in form when this accident occurred." We then asked him the reasons why he showed such poor form in his first race with Howell and Wood. "Well," replied he, "considering the fact that I arrived in Liverpool on the 10th of February, and from that time until the hour I met Howell in his first race, about two months, I had only been able to get ten days out-door exercise, it is not at all astonishing to me that I failed to show up better than I did. On my arrival in Liverpool I at once went to Torquay, in the South of England. The climate there is usually as mild as May, but during the ten days I was there the rain and the snow was so incessant that I could only train on the track three times, and two out of the three times the snow was at least one-fourth an inch deep on the track. Considering the fact that I cannot train or bring myself down to speed, except that I perspire freely, it will readily be seen that it was simply impossible for me to get into any sort of shape in time for my match race with Howell. If I had been at home I could have worked the home trainer, or done some boxing, which would at least have had the result of bringing down my flesh. I worked hard, and my trainer, Mr. Allen, also did everything in his power in the face of these adverse circumstances to bring me into form. But it was a discouraging thing and I knew it, and when I met Howell in those match races, I was no more fit to ride an important race like that than if I had not been on the bicycle for a year. I have no excuses to make for my defeat, but these are solid facts, which my friends and my enemies can take and weigh according to their own free will. Another thing did not help me one single bit, and that was my racing indoors. Board racing is bad for a man who is used to a regular out-door track, and the atmosphere of those halls was simply frightful. In fact it almost made me sick. Just as soon as the warm weather came I began to improve, and during my last week in England I won the ten-mile and one-mile and the one-half mile championships against the best man in England, barring Howell, and I also beat W. Wood in the race where I met my accident."

We then inquired from Mr. Rowe how the crowds and the people treated him. He replied that with the exception of the North country gang, which followed W. Wood, he had nothing but praise to say, but as for the treatment of W. Wood himself, and the gang which followed at his heels, it was a disgrace to the man himself, and to the crowd who followed him. "In my last match race," said Mr. Rowe, "Wood, while riding alongside of me, constantly used language too foul to be repeated, while the gang of roughs threatened me with stones and sticks, and I am satisfied in my mind that my accident was brought about by the deliberate attempt of one of his followers. In my first race with W. Wood, I met with the same disgraceful treatment at his hands and the hands of his followers. Howell treated me like a gentleman, and so did Howell's admirers. They showed me courtesy and fair play, and I have nothing to complain of them, or in fact, any other English crowd."

In reply to our query in regard to tracks, Rowe said that the Long Eaton track is undoubtedly the best in the world, with the exception of the Springfield track, and that the others did not compare with that of Lynn. We asked him further if he had talked with Hillier on the question of his disputed records. He replied: "I did not talk with Mr. Hillier very much, but I am satisfied in my own mind that Mr. Hillier himself believes in my records, and for the life of me I cannot understand the position of his paper, unless it is done to provoke discussion, or because he dislikes publicly to recede from the positive position he has taken."

Mr. Rowe stated that he has not as yet made up his mind whether he will take part in the fall tournaments, but in the course of two or three weeks this will be decided. If he does, he is quietly confident that if Howell comes over he will be able to satisfy that gentleman, as well as the public at large, that he can ride faster than the Englishman. Mr. Rowe does not brag and bluster about this, but he is very anxious that the chance be given him to redeem himself before the end of the season. While at Coventry, Mr. Rowe rode the quarter-mile track there in thirty-three seconds. This is faster than it has ever been done before. Osmond, and other English cracks were present at the trial. We remarked to Mr. Rowe that the English papers took the position that he was handicapped in riding the Columbia. Rowe laughed and replied: "I have yet to see the machine I would change for the Columbia Racer. In my estimation there are few machines made its equal, and none its superior."

FROM THE GERMAN CAPITAL.VICTORY FOR TEMPLE—CRIST RIDES SECOND.

(Special Cable to the World.)

BERLIN, June 10.—Ralph Temple won the great professional event to-day, his time is German record for the distance by five and two-fifth seconds. W. E. Twelve thousand spectators, of which three thousand were cyclists. The Americans sent a handsome floral offering to the sick Kaiser.

THE PHILADELPHIA HILL-CLIMBING CONTEST.

The committee in charge of the hill-climbing contest for the medal offered by Mr. Kirk Brown have made the following arrangements:

The contest to be held on Saturday, June 23, on Conshohocken Hill, commencing at 3 P. M. Contest to be open to all amateur wheelmen residents of Philadelphia, Camden, Wilmington and Reading, the man climbing the hill in best time to win. An entrance fee of 50 cents will be charged, returnable to starters. Entries to be made not later than June 21st, accompanied with entrance fee to A. G. McGlathery, 1807 North Broad street, Philadelphia.

WELLS ON FORDS HILL.

We append below the particulars of how John A. Wells, on June 4th, climbed Fords Hill, Fairmount Park, 14 times, exceeding the 7 times done by Shurman, of Boston. The latter climbed the hill seven times in one hour, while Wells performed the feat in 57 1-2 minutes. The following is the official time as announced by timer W. W. Johnson. First time, 6m.; second time, 6m. 2s.; third time, 6m. 2s.; fourth time, 6m. 2s.; fifth time, 6m. 2s.; sixth time, 6m.; seventh time, 6m. 2s.; eighth time, 6m. 2s.; ninth time, 6m. 2s.; tenth time, 9m.; eleventh time, 9m.; twelfth time, 9m.; thirteenth time, 9m. 2s.; fourteenth time, 11m. 2s.; entire time consumed, 1h. 46m., 2s.

WELLS TAKES THE EAGLE ROCK RECORD.

SIX TIMES UP AND DOWN.

On Thursday, June 7, a quiet, gentlemanly looking chap makes his appearance in Newark and announces his intention of seeing what he could do on Eagle Rock, with a 45-inch Pony Star. Accompanied by Ed. R. Collins, C. L. S. Walker, Frank Brock and Percy M. Harris, he goes at the 'ill. He gets the word "go" at precisely 4 P. M., goes to the summit without a shake, turns, coasts down and passes the starting point at just 4.12.45. Start number two at 4.13, finish at 4.26.45; number three, 4.27, finish at 4.41; start the fourth, 4.41.15, finish, 4.58.30; start the fifth, 4.58.45, finish, 5.15.30; and not satisfied yet he makes his sixth go at the hill at 5.15.45, and is down at 5.32. Hopping off his wheel he asks about the time, gets into his coat, vaults into the saddle, and asking the boys to try and take him at an easy pace, immediately proceeds to "scorch" them all the way to Oraton Hall, which he reached about 6.20, and was obliged to wait for the rest to come in. The time for the climbing was 1h. 32m. from start to finish. The trips were made in the following time: 12m. 45s., 13m. 45s., 14m., 17m. 15s., 16m. 45s., 16m. 15s. Mr. Wells was as fresh as a daisy at the finish and wanted to raise the record still higher by one or two trips, but was persuaded to let it rest at six.

RATCHET.

WOOD WINS AT LEICESTER.

By cable to the Herald.

LONDON, June 9, 1888. There were seven starters in the 25-mile bicycle race for the champion stakes at Leicester to-day. Fred Wood of Leicester won by six inches in 1h. 19m. 30s. Knapp, an American, was second; Crocker, also an American, and three others fell in a heap, but none of them was seriously injured.

THE AGED MEN'S RACE.

UP to going to press we have only one entry for this race. We have decided therefore to place the affair in the hands of our representatives, Messrs. H. Crowther, Carrolton House, and N. L. Collamer, Baltimore Cycle Club House, with instructions to act as they deem best, requiring, however, at least three starters. The preliminaries and details will be entirely in their hands, the only restrictions being that starters must be 45 years of age, or more; that road machines only, of any type, must be used. The distance we will leave to our representatives. The prize will be a handsome gold and enamel medal for the winner.

RACING AT LANCASTER, PA.

BELOW we give results of the races at Lancaster, Pa., held June 9: One-mile open to all—First, E. I. Halsted, Philadelphia; second, W. I. Wilhelm, Reading. Time, 2.52.

Three-mile club team race—The Reading, Wilmington (Del.), Pottstown and Lancaster Clubs competed. Reading won by a score of 21 points, with the Wilmington Club second, with 15 points. Wilhelm, of the Reading team, crossed the line first every lap. Time, 10.26.

One-mile Lancaster Club—First, D. H. Miller; second, W. A. Reist. Time, 3.09.

Half-mile one-legged race—First, E. I. Halsted. Time, 1.47.

Two-mile novice—First, G. F. Kahler; second, W. Schroeder. Time, 6.33.

Half-mile State championship—First, E. I. Halsted, Philadelphia; second, C. B. Keen; third, W. I. Wilhelm. Time, 1.20. Wilhelm's claim of foul on Halsted was not allowed.

Three-mile lap race—First, E. I. Halsted; second, W. Lamb; third, F. M. Dampman. Time, 3.09.

WE INTERVIEW COREY.

MR. H. D. COREY gave us a call the other day, and we at once button-holed him, and put several leading questions to him in regard to the business generally, the Buffalo tournament, and other matters of interest. He said:

"Although the bicycle trade is booming all over the country, I find the feeling more pronounced in the West than in the East, and it is safe to say that this will be the banner year of cycling. The enameled machine is used almost entirely, but was surprised to find certain sections where the riders still cling to the nickel.

Great interest is being felt in the Rover type safety, but no more probably than was evinced in the Kangaroo, when they first were placed on the market. When this safety has been tested in comparison with the ordinary, riders can then determine which they like best. It is safe to say that there will be much trade done in both kinds, although the safeties are selling more to the elderly riders and professional men, such as lawyers, clergymen, physicians, etc., who put it in practical use not attainable by the ordinary. More and more interest is being felt in tricycles and tandems, but this comes from cities situated in the vicinity of good roads.

Chicago was a great surprise to me, for I never saw a city that was waking up so to cycling. I can remember two or three years ago in talking it over with some of my fellow competitors that very few machines were sold in that city, but now there are over three thousand wheelmen within a radius of ten miles of Chicago. I think they have four clubs, with a membership of over one hundred and fifty, and the good roads and the many fine facilities for wheeling which Chicago affords, is bringing a great many "converts" into the ranks of cyclists.

From all that I could gather as to the trade in Chicago, I understood Gormully & Jeffery and the Victor people, and in fact all makers and dealers were doing prosperous business, and as for my firm, we had forty-seven Columbia entries out of the seventy-one starters, which tells its own story for our machine. I'll venture to say that Chicago will be one of the largest if not the largest wheeling city in the United States before many years, as its natural advantages tend to make any one wish to ride if he has the slightest inclination.

On my way home, I stopped at Buffalo to see Henry E. Ducker, and glad I was to see the "Barnum" of cycling. To all those who know Ducker's history since he has been connected with cycling and the many difficulties which he has so ably surmounted in managing the Springfield meets, one could not help but rejoice with him should he see him in his new position. Mr. Ducker left Springfield to become connected with the firm of Messrs. Gies & Co., one of the largest printing establishments in the country, and he had not long been in Buffalo before he was convinced of the advantages the city presented for the holding of a tournament and the building up of the sport. To this end he applied himself, until the managers of the International Fair invited him to take the entire charge of what will probably be the greatest tournament that was ever held in the world.

I took great pleasure in going through Mr. Ducker's offices, which were fitted with every facility for presenting his work; I can see nothing before him but success. The tournament takes place, I believe, from the 4th to the 7th or 8th of September, and although I am not allowed to state all the many attractions that are promised, still I can venture to say that we shall probably see some of our "English cousins who know how to ride pitted against our American riders, including Rowe and Howell.

The roads along Lake Erie are very fine; a party of my friends having ridden up from Erie, a distance of over one hundred miles, in something like nine hours. Although the tournament has only started, it is probable that the Division Meet will be held at that time, and the united energies of the clubs will be swung in its favor. Personally speaking, I am glad that Mr. Ducker has a chance to show his ability and feel that he will be cordially supported by both the wheelmen and the trade. To the riders who do not attend the League meet and who wish to put in some time in the fall and at the season when wheeling is at its best, I should earnestly advise them by all means to go to the Buffalo Tournament.

Probably Mr. Corey has travelled as much as any one over the country, and in his capacity as Superintendent of the Pope Co.'s agents, he has carefully kept account of the distance he has traversed, which amounts to over 14,000 miles from the first of January up to the first of June.

MR. WELLS DOES NOT USE "EXTENSION LEVERS."

Editor Bicycling World: The statement in the last issue of your paper that the machine on which I do my hill-climbing has "extension levers" is utterly false and misleading, and I am inclined to believe that some one has wilfully misinformed you on this point. My machine is a 45-inch, and the levers are exactly similar to those put on all '88 pattern 48-inch Stars. These levers are necessary to enable me to take a full stroke without hitting my heel against the ratchet box or step. My levers are just 24 1-2 inches long, while the levers on all the 45 stock machines at Strong & Green's, measure 23 1-2 inches—a proportionate difference less than that between 5 3-4 and 6 inch cranks on an ordinary bicycle. There is no "extension" contrivance to them whatever, or any adjustment other than the power and speed hooks found on all Star levers.

Not to make comparisons between different makes, I consider my machine to be the best all-around road wheel of any Star I have ever seen, and I have always been able to keep up with the procession with it on the road. Mr. Percy M. Harris, travelling agent for the Springfield Roadster and champion road rider of the New York Bicycle Club, asserted while I was climbing Eagle Rock last Thursday, that my machine was made especially for hill-climbing and could not develop any speed on the road. In riding back from the hill to Newark, Messrs. Harris and Walters tried their best to do each other up, and although I am not in the habit of climbing Eagle Rock six times as a preliminary to a road race, I kept near enough to them to enjoy the fun, and was the first man to reach Newark. Messrs. Collins and Walker, who arrived some five minutes later, can testify that the pace was not a slow one.

I have given Mr. Shurman full credit for his wonderful hill-climbing performances, and have said nothing in regard to the gear of his wheel, although it is the general impression here that his wheel is geared far below what he claims. The speed which he did not show on the Orange roads Decoration Day, and the ease with which he was passed by those who tried a spurt with him, indicate a very low gear or a surprising disinclination to stand a test of speed. I acknowledge that my machine was made to order for me, but so are all the different machines that I ride, and I fail to see why a man who is able to tell a manufacturer how a machine should be built to enable him to get the best results from it should receive less credit for what what he is able to accomplish.

I made an offer early in the season, which still holds good, to loan my machine to any one who wishes to beat my records on it.

Yours truly,

JNO. A. WELLS.

SAN FRANCISCO GOES FOR A RECORD RIDE AND

REPLIES TO "1874."

Editor Bicycling World:—We made the trip to San Jose against time last Saturday afternoon as I had told you we would—a trio of those who were on the much discussed run of Feb. 25th. I append a summary of the evidence, which is signed by the different parties along the route, and is in our possession:

Actual riding time, 2.44 2.54 3.04†
 * Three-minute stop at spring for water. † Includes time lost by header, which was some 6 or 7 minutes.

Mathews stopped at Centreville more for the signature of Mr. Gregory than any other reason, and just beyond Milpitas for a drink of water at a spring. His riding was great, as some of the road was very bad, especially his time of twenty-five minutes from Milpitas into San Jose, where the road is somewhat soft and rutty, and is known as seven miles. He now holds the record for this run, as it beats it some sixteen or seventeen minutes. Austin arrived at Centreville two minutes behind Mathews, and waited for me to come up, and from there we travelled in company to San Jose. The understanding was, that should any one man take a header or be otherwise disabled, the rest were not to stop at all for him. I was in a great hurry to dismount just as I was entering Mt. Eden, with the results of a broken luggage carrier, a bad shaking up and a couple of skinned arms. I lost some sixteen or seventeen minutes picking myself and my machine together before I was under way again, and just after the Alvarado Bridge the shaking up told on me and nearly used me up. At Centreville after a strong lemonade and a little bread I was O. K. again, and got through without any more trouble. We all hold documentary evidence of the times as in the summary preceding, which same can be easily substantiated by any doubting Thomases, such as the run of Feb. 25th called forth. I am yours truly,

C. UNION BREWSTER, 15.377.

Messrs. Austin and Mathews have desired to affix their signatures to this, as certifying to its correctness in every detail.

H. A. MATHEWS, 12.591.

B. C. AUSTIN, JR., 12.847.

C. U. BREWSTER, 15.377.

FROM THE SAME SOURCE.

And now a few words as to the run of Feb. 25th, published March 23d. I have to correct the statement of the distance to Centreville, as it is erroneous. The Captain was in a hurry, and took the distance out of the road book, which measure is from the Oakland Mole and not from Fruit Vale, which is a little over twenty-one miles, and the time was 1.30.

The comments on this run have not been very pleasant reading, on account of the slurs cast upon the veracity of the men participating in the trip, but our principal objections to the article of May 11, which is additionally hard, coming as it must from one of the wheelmen in our own town, and it is to him I will reply. I do not know who "1874" is. He finishes up his article by saying: "We haven't got such a thing as a 'club liar' out here; the members got it individually it seems, and evidently it is a blooming success." In this he is correct, as his own article will show, for he speaks of Elwell as being the fastest man on the coast. I will only state that the San Francisco's "flyer" is W. G. Davis, and that on a trial to see if he had actually beaten their man in a race meet a week or so before, he settled the question by leaving him further behind than he did at the games. This same S. F. flyer is now the holder of 4 or 5 championship medals, all of which comprise some 40 per cent. of the championships, which have been contested on the coast. At the last Division Meet he captured the 1-2 and 1-mile championships and holds the records for 1-2, 1 and 5 mile."

He then speaks of our man, Larzelere, not being able a year ago to beat Elwell, but fails to state that Larzelere took two headers on the track at Santa Cruz.

"1874" spent 2h. 15m. in going over the course to Centreville, and would be willing to bet that there are not 7 men in the S. F.s who could keep up with him. On Sunday, May 20, I took one of our new men, who had only been on a wheel some 1 1-2 months, over that course in 1h. 42m., and did not wear him out either. Asking you to please let me have this space in your columns, both in justice to myself and club, I am, yours truly,

C. UNION BREWSTER, 15.377.

MORE ABOUT THE GREAT PATENT SUITS.

IN our issue of June 1st we printed a communication from Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. on the Duryea patent suits. In that communication they refer to certain clippings; we now are in possession of those clippings, and we are requested by the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. to print same, as these clippings are necessary to make that communication in June 1 issue perfectly clear.

"Coburn and Thatcher, representing the Pope Manufacturing Company in a suit of infringement of patent brought by the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Company, propose to test the law enacted by the last Congress to reduce the business of United States Courts in large cities. They made a special appearance in the case yesterday for the purpose of appearing Monday to argue a motion to dismiss the case for want of jurisdiction on the part of the United States Court for this district. The point at issue will be, 'What constitutes service on a foreign corporation?' The old statute provided: 'And no courts against any person on any original process or proceeding in any other district than that whereof he is an inhabitant or in which he shall be found at the time of serving such process or commencing such proceedings.' The statute is the same as the old one except that the clause commencing 'or in which he shall be found' is omitted. In the case of a resident of Illinois against the East St. Louis Dressed Beef Company, some years ago, Judge Drummond held that while the defendant was a resident of the State of Missouri service could be had on it in the Southern District of Illinois because it had crossed the river and opened an office and place of business at East St. Louis, Ill., or in other words that it had been 'found' in this State. The rulings of Judge Drummond's became the accepted law of the country, and the result has been that corporations which had agencies or offices at the great commercial centres have been sued there instead of at the place of residence. Mr. Coburn said: 'There are marble companies way down in Maine, for example, that have their agents here, and it has been the custom to get service on them through their agents. This sort of practice has crowded the Chicago Courts with cases which should be in the subordinate districts. The point has not been raised here, but I understand it has been in New York, and that Judge Wallace held it good. If it prevails here it will greatly relieve the Chicago courts, because of the defendants on record there are institutions located in the out-districts of the other States.'"

Chicago Tribune.

"The question of the jurisdiction of the United States Circuit Court in patent cases, as modified by the act of Congress passed in March, 1877, was decided by Judge Blodgett, in the case of Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Company vs. the Pope Manufacturing Company, which will materially change the practice as to the location where suits can be brought to recover for the infringement of letters patent. The statute in force prior to March, 1887, regulating the jurisdiction of the United States courts, gave the courts jurisdiction in civil suits brought against any person in the district whereof he was an inhabitant, or in which he was found at the time of commencing such suit. It has been held by the various courts that a foreign corporation doing business by an agent at the place where it was sued, was found at that place, and the court would take jurisdiction of all such cases under the latter clause of this statute. Corporations incorporated under the laws of other States could be sued for the infringement of patents in the United States Circuit Court here, if they were doing business here through an agent or otherwise, because it was held that they were found here.

The statute of March 3, 1887, omitted the clause, 'or in which he shall be found' and the Court dismissed the bill in the above entitled cause for the want of jurisdiction, on motion of the defendant's solicitors, because the bill declared that the defendant corporation was incorporated under the laws of the State of Connecticut, and although it was doing business here, it was not an inhabitant of the Northern District of Illinois, and the court, under the present statute, does not have jurisdiction by reason of the fact that a corporation or citizen of another State may be found in this district.

There is a provision in the statute of March 3, 1887, giving the United States Court jurisdiction in actions brought where either the plaintiff or defendant resides in cases where the jurisdiction is founded only on the fact that the action is between citizens of different States. This, the Court held, does not apply to actions brought under the patent laws, or when the jurisdiction is not founded solely on the fact that the parties are citizens of different States. Messrs. Coburn and Thatcher supported the motion, and Offield and Towle opposed it."—Inter-Ocean.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

THE IVEL TANDEM SAFETY.

AN invitation from Wm. Read & Son to come down and see the first Ivel tandem safety to appear in this country caused us to at once repair to No. 107 Washington St. "It is the first in, and we are going to ship to-night," said Mr. Atwell. Seeing that it was the first safety tandem we had seen we naturally were much interested. It is claimed that it steers better than a single safety, and can be easily mounted and dismounted. Both riders steer, and it can be ridden by one rider alone in its double form. It is also made convertible in a few minutes into an ordinary "Ivel" safety, extra being charged for joints, etc.; and by the addition of their patent wheels and axle can be converted into an "Ivel" tricycle, and also an "Ivel" tandem for additional cost, thus giving four machines for the sum of about $500.00.

THE SPECIAL SPARKBROOK.

THE above machine made from designs by and specially for Mr. L. H. Johnson, of Orange, N. J., is one that is fast growing into popularity. Until recently the Special Sparkbrook has had but a comparatively local reputation, but so excellent have been found the qualities of this machine that now the demand for it and the sale all over the country have largely increased. The machine is a specially light one, a 50-inch, with "all on," weighing only 38lb. Judging from the testimonials we have seen, and the specification we give below, we can safely say that the Special Sparkbrook has established itself among the high grade light roadsters, and will from this on have a steadily increasing demand.

BACKBONE is of finest weldless steel tube, 1 1/2 inches in diameter, (much larger than represented by the cut above) of round section.

FRONT FORKS are also of best weldless steel tube, with rounded edges, width at upper end and middle, one and eleven-sixteenths inches, lower end one and one-eighth inches.

REAR FORKS are of semi-tubular pattern, of broad and deep section and are of a superior quality of steel.

RIMS are hollow, of the celebrated Warwick make, of deep section and closely rolled edges.

SPOKES, 72 to front and 24 to rear wheel, are of special steel wire of unsurpassed toughness. Each spoke is headed under the hub-flange, which is also of steel, passes straight through, and drawing at a true tangent to the periphery of the hub, screws into a neat nipple in the rim. Each spoke crosses eight others, and is wired and brazed twice, making a wheel so rigid as to be practically solid. There is no transverse bend to spokes.

BEARINGS are the famous Bown's Aeolus Single Ball to both wheels and pedals.

STEERING HEAD is of Ball-Bearing pattern, having a circle of adjustable steel balls at both upper and lower centres.

HANDLE-BAR is of weldless steel tapered tubing, and is firmly brazed through a steel lug which encircles the head. This lug fits accurately on a tapered hexagon and is securely fastened by the upper centre lock-nut screwing down upon it. To remove the handle-bar, all that is necessary is to unscrew the lock-nut, a slight tap loosening the lug and bar.

HANDLES are of black Buffalo horn, which cannot be broken by falls, and are of the "T" shape, large and comfortable.

TIRES are of pure Para rubber of great elasticity, 7-8 front and 3-4 back wheel.

CRANKS are detachable, firmly secured with a round tapered key of the hardest steel and a lock-nut, and are of 5 to 6 inches throw.

PEDALS, Bown and square rubber.

STEP is adjustable and detachable.

SADDLE is the well-known Anglo-American, invented by an American cyclist and manufactured for us by Lamplugh & Brown. We will furnish any other saddle the purchaser may desire, in exchange, if dissatisfied after a week's trial.

FINISH, usual standard, nickel and enamel.

WEIGHT of a 50-inch, complete with saddle and pedals, 38 lbs.

WARRANT. Mr. Johnson warrants The Special Sparkbrook to be free from imperfections in material or manufacture, and will replace, without expense, any article containing defects not caused by use, misuse or neglect.

PRICE for 48-inch, $122.50; for 58-inch, $135.00.

NED OLIVER will be in Baltimore to represent his firm, Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co.

WM. READ & SONS have placed a second order for the New Mail, the first lot having been disposed of, although the original order was supposed to be enough to supply the demand for the whole season. This speaks volumes for the popularity of the New Mail.

We were favored with a call from Mr. T. F. Ryan, of the St. Nicholas Mfg. Co. of Chicago, last week. He reports business rushing for his firm, their high grade machine, the "National," selling fast. The boy's rear-driving safety, the Electric, is also proving very popular, this machine now being made in two sizes, 20 and 24 inch wheels.

MR. PERKINS, the representative of Holmes & Co., will be found at his quarters at the Carrollton after Friday, the 15th, till the end of the meet, and will be pleased to see all wheelmen and show them his line of knit goods. By all means call on Mr. Perkins, and also refer to Holmes & Co.'s advertisement.

G. M. WORDEN, the Boston bicyclist, who participated in the hill-climbing contest at Portland last week, climbed Nason's Hill Wednesday, at Biddford, one of the steepest and roughest hills in that part of the State. The grade is one foot in seven, and the hill is 630 feet long. It had never before been ascended by a bicycle, and only once descended. Worden rode a Springfield Roadster.

TUESDAY, May 29, Mr. A. M. Hill in a practice trial broke the Southern five-mile record (16.48) and rode the distance in 16.19 1-2. To-day he will make the attempt to repeat his performance before the proper officers so as to secure a properly constituted record. Mr. Hill rides a 53-inch Columbia Light Roadster.

THE finest lot of cycling shirts ever seen together was shown a WORLD correspondent at Howard A. Smith & Co.'s Newark store a few days ago. They comprise all colors imaginable, and can be had in any size or style. What is of more real interest to cyclistdom is the fact that the firm has made an arrangement by which they can furnish these superior goods at a price far below any other house in the trade. In the matter of sundries, Mr. Smith says that the advertisements in the BICYCLING WORLD have doubled his sales since May 20. The firm has just put in a line of stockings which are well worth inspection.

To L. A. W. Members.

In order to make the June meet in Baltimore, the most enjoyable and successful in the history of the League, and to raise a fund for the proper entertainment of those who attend, the Finance Committee of the Maryland Division, cordially invites all who feel inclined to do so to subscribe to this fund in any sum from $1.00 to $100.00.

While feeling assured that the pleasure of aiding financially in entertaining their brethren of the League will be sufficient compensation for many who will subscribe, still the Finance Committee propose to by offering the following list of prizes to those who contribute to the fund:

1st Prize	No. 15	Quadrant Tandem, value,	$250.00	8th Prize	New Rapid Lt. Roadster Bicycle, val.	135.00
2d "	No. 15	" " " "	250.00	9th "	New Rapid Safety Bicycle, value,	135.00
3d "	No. 14	Ladies' Quadrant Tricycle, val.	175.00	10th "	New Rapid Roadster Bicycle, "	135.00
4th "	No. 8	Quadrant Tricycle,	175.00	11th "	New Rapid Safety Bicycle, "	135.00
5th "		New Rapid Safety Bicycle,	135.00	12th "	New Rapid Lt. Roadster Bicycle, val.	135.00
6th "		New Rapid Roadster Bicycle,	135.00
7th "		New Rapid Safety Bicycle,	135.00			$1930.00

Winners of Roadster or Light Roadster Bicycles will be supplied with machines of suitable size, and exchanges of style allowed.

PLAN.

For every dollar subscribed the subscriber receives a numbered receipt, and becomes entitled to as many chances as he holds receipts. Thus, those who subscribe one dollar to the fund, stand a chance of securing one of the above-mentioned cycles. Those who subscribe five dollars stand an equal chance of securing five machines and a proportionate better chance of securing one machine.

Those who subscribe ten dollars will be given an extra number, hence will stand a chance of securing eleven machines, or eleven chances of securing one machine.

Should the subscriptions exceed the amount sought to be raised, the committee will add other machines, and as the sole object is to raise funds for the entertainment of the L. A. W. members at the June meet, should the subscriptions not prove adequate, one or more prizes will be withdrawn; but in no event will the value of prizes be less than two-thirds of the total amount of subscriptions.

It is designed that the prizes should be awarded during the meet in Baltimore, and the drawing will take place in the presence of any one who chooses to witness it, and will be conducted by prominent L. A. W. officials in the manner customary to secure fairness. The winning numbers will be published in the cycling papers immediately after the drawing.

Hot Cakes? Well!!! This don't begin to express the way the Boys are sending in their money, Over $1000 in ten days. They all want to help entertain their fellow L. A. W. members, and beside they want to get one of the above mentioned machines for ONE DOLLAR.

Remittances should be made by P. O. money order, registered letter, or New York draft, with name and address plainly written, to

Under the auspices of the FINANCE COMMITTEE L. A. W.,
WM. H. BEATTY,
Chairman.

Missouri Appointment.

I have appointed Mr. J. H. Kelly Local Consul for Sedalia and vicinity. Yours truly,
W. M. BREWSTER, C. C.

D. C. Appointment.

I am in receipt of the resignation of Representative Wallace Crossman, who is about to leave the city. I take great pleasure in appointing Mr. Edward A. Demaray of this city as his successor.

Fraternally,
GEO. S. ATWATER, Chief Consul.
Washington, D. C., June 9, 1888.

Attention Indiana Wheelmen!

The Fifth Annual Tour of the Indiana Division, L. A. W., will begin at Indianapolis, July 8th, at 9 A. M., running through Morristown, Rushville, Connersville, Brookville, Harrison, to Cincinnati, arriving at the latter city on July 10th, at 1 P. M., stop over at Cincinnati, July 11th, till 5 P. M., when boat will convey the party to Maysville, Ky., where the tour will be continued a wheel through Blue Lick Springs, Paris to Lexington.

On this pike a "test run" will be held for such members of the party as wish to participate in same. A memorial medal will be presented to each rider who makes the entire distance within a specified time. The limit of time will be suited to "medium fast" road riders, and will be made known before the start. The time made by each competitor coming within the limit, will be engraved on the respective medals.

From Lexington, the route lies through Nicholasville and Pleasant Hill, (a Quaker settlement). An entire day will be spent in this vicinity, as there are many interesting points to be visited, such as High Bridge, Camp Nelson, etc. Thence to Danville, a short stop will be made at the "Gethsemane Abbey," the only institution of its kind in America. From New Hope the journey continues to Bardonia and Louisville, ending at the latter city on July 15th at 2 P. M. The stop of one and one-half days at Cincinnati will give the tourists ample time to view the great "Centennial Exposition," as well as the many other interesting sights with which the Queen city abounds.

Wheelmen who are not L. A. W. members, are at all times welcome to join us, but "only L. A. W." members will be entitled to any rebate at hotels, etc.

It is expected that the entire expense to each member of the party can be limited to $20.00.

Those who intend taking part in this tour, are requested to send their names to the Chief Consul "no later" than June 27th. Applications received later than this date "cannot" be guaranteed accommodations at hotels, etc.

No other than "cycle" costume should be worn during the tour. "Be sure" to bring your L. A. W. membership ticket with you.

Circulars giving further particulars will be mailed on application to
J. FRED. PROBST,
Chief Consul, Indiana Division, L. A. W.
Terre Haute, June 4th, 1888.

Officer's Proxies.

Those who hold proxies for use at the meeting of the Board of Officers at Baltimore should hand them to me as early as it is possible for them to. It is very probable that, following a precedent established at former meetings, the President will appoint a committee on credentials before the day of the meeting, and this committee can do much of its work before the hour of the assembling if I can place the proxies with them on the day preceding or the early morning of the 18th.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

Club Proxies at Baltimore.

Those who hold club proxies at Baltimore will expedite affairs by sending them to me as soon after their arrival in the city as is possible. They may be addressed to me and left at League headquarters at the Carrollton, or at the clerk's desk, same hotel. Don't wait for the opening of the Convention before handing in proxies.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

Maryland Appointment.

Mr. L. P. Smith is hereby appointed Local Consul at Hyattsville, Md.
A. E. MEALY, C. C. Maryland Division.

To the Maryland Division.

All members of the Division are requested to report at the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore, which will be League Headquarters, on Sunday, June 17, and there register, and receive the necessary credentials admitting them to the different entertainments during the Meet. No tickets or badges will be given out except on presentation of League tickets, and under no circumstances will tickets for the excursion be distributed at the wharf. Report as early as possible, so as not to interfere with the guests who will arrive on that day.

Parade.

Captains of the various clubs throughout the State will report at the Chief Marshal's office, Northwest corner North and Charles street avenue, promptly on Tuesday, June 19, at 8.30 A. M. Until the position is assigned this division in the regular line of parade, it will form on the south side of North avenue, resting on Guilford avenue, in the following order: Maryland Bicycle Club, Baltimore Cycle Club, Rambler Cycle Club, Hagerstown Bicycle Club, Cycling Ramblers of Westminster, Centaur Cycle Club of Baltimore, Patapsco Wheelmen of Ellicott City, Chesapeake Cycle Club of Baltimore, and Linden Bicycle Club of Baltimore. The unattached members of the Maryland Division will report on the south side of North avenue, between St. Paul and Charles streets. It is very necessary that all clubs and unattached members be on the grounds promptly at the above hour, with full ranks, and uniforms in presentable condition. No member will be allowed in position in line unless in full bicycle uniform. Fraternally,
A. E. MEALY, C. C. Md. Div.

League Tour.

The tendency towards independent and club tours to the League Meet in Baltimore has influenced me to believe it practicable to annual all arrangements incident to the Annual League Tour of 1888 and inaugurate a more protracted annual tour later in the season.
W. S. BOMBERGER, Tourmaster.

Illinois Official Matters.

Committees for Fifth Annual Meet will be arranged as follows:

General Committee.

Chas. Hansel, chairman; T. F. Sheridan, G. N. Krieger, M. D., W. S. Reed; E. S. Bennes, A. E. Prince, M. D., A. A. Billingsley. This committee will have full charge of all matters tending to the management of the Meet.

Finance Committee.

E. S. Bennes, chairman; S. M. Clarke, T. Conell, A. W. Wallace, Lewis Sinter, Samuel Willett.

Reception and Printing Committee.

T. F. Sheridan, chairman; L. H. Miner, Dr. A. E. Prince, A. S. Sherwood, S. M. Clarke, A. A. Billingsley, J. P. Fogarty, E. Roberts, W. S. Reed, Wm. Henkle, L. Sinter. Any information regarding the Meet can be had of the chairman of this committee.

Entertainment Committee.

Dr. G. N. Krieger, chairman; A. W. Beaton, Chas. Hansel, L. H. Miner, H. G. Ridgley, J. F. Cadwallader.

Tours and Runs Committees.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

Hill Climbing Extraordinary.

The "STAR" still holds records, and again sustains its reputation as the best and speediest Hill Climber ever made.

LOOK * AT * THIS.

Eagle Rock Hill, Newark, N. J., climbed 6 times without dismounting; Fords Hill, Philadelphia, Pa., climbed 14 times without dismounting.

The above are the records made by Mr. John A. Wells of Philadelphia, Pa., on an ordinary 43-inch Special Pony Star.

WELLS ON TOP.

He Ascends Ford Hill Fourteen Times, Breaking All Previous Records.

When Cycler Shurman, of Boston, came over here and ascended Ford Hill seven times in an hour, thereby breaking John A. Wells' record, he thought he was doing something big. And so he was. But if he supposed that Philadelphia's crack hill climber was going to permit an outsider to wrest away his laurels he was mistaken. With W. W. Johnson as timer and E. A. Richwine, F. M. Johnson, H. L. Hall, F. E. Bechtold and Park Guards Bene and Thy as witnesses, Wells yesterday essayed to again break the record, and he easily succeeded. He made the first nine mounts in 57 minutes, and then kept on until he had made the ascent fourteen times, consuming 1 hour, 49 minutes, 30 seconds. The first trip was made in 6 minutes; the second, third, fourth and fifth were done in 6 1-2 minutes each, the sixth in 6 minutes; the seventh, eighth and ninth in 6 1-2 minutes. He then took things easily, the tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth trips occupying 9 minutes each. The last run was made in 11 1-2 minutes. The Park guards deny that they prevented Mr. Shurman from mounting the hill because of darkness. On the contrary they encouraged him all they could.—The North American.

John A. Wells climbed Eagle Rock hill, at Orange, six times without a dismount on Thursday in 90 3-4 minutes. His first three trips were made in less than Shurman's ascents, and he also made the full distance of a mile on each trip, while Shurman climbed only some 4,600 yards.—The Times.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

THE W. C. B. JOCK STRAP.

This article is made especially for bicycle riders and gymnasts, and perfectly adapted for their use, being cool, light, elastic and very strong.

It prevents an ungraceful appearance when the wearer is dressed in tights, or in close-fitting pants. It does not bind or cramp the person at any point, and can be worn all the time with comfort; in fact, the wearer does not feel it.

It can be washed when necessary without becoming stiff and harsh.

The net is made of pure silk, and is properly shaped to hold the parts in a comfortable position close to the body.

All the straps are elastic; no buckles are used; it may be worn next the skin.

ANOTHER

Of the many original points of excellence about the Columbia Light Roadster is the locking device for the Head Set Screw. Wheelmen of experience testify to the several trials required to properly set the ordinary head screw, for the setting of the nut will invariably move the screw. The principal point about the Columbia Light Roadster Head Set Screw is that even the inexperienced wheelman can adjust it immediately and easily by dropping the moveable washer into the fixed one, and once there the screw cannot be moved by the setting of the nut. And still another valuable about it is that the screw cannot jar loose.

GOOD

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 22 JUNE, 1888.

WE are all League meet this issue. Our correspondents will notice that there is very little space for aught else.

WE shall be late this week because we are anxious to have as complete a report of the meet as possible. We held the forms back one day in order to accomplish the end, and with the exception of the report of Mr. Halsted's dinner and the excursion on the bay last night, we have covered the ground. We think it hardly worth while to hold the paper over another day in order to get these, and so we close, having given almost the entire paper up to the reporting of the ninth annual meet.

THERE is one thing in the new constitution that pleases us, and no doubt will cause gratification to the L. A. W. members, and that is the line V in Art. VI. Sect. 2, which provides for a National Committee to have in charge the matter of "improvement of highways." The editors of this paper have always held that the chief end and object of the League should be the protection of the rights of wheelmen and the improvement of roads and highways, and we are pleased to find that the new constitution contains a proviso which distinctly allows for a committee, the duty of which shall be to have this most important feature under constant consideration. Let the energies of the League officers and members be focussed on the question of good roads, and soon the national organization will be recognized not only as a cycling organization but as an organization of general usefulness and as a public blessing.

THIS week's issue is given up to an exhaustive report of the ninth annual meet of the L. A. W. at Baltimore. It is a novelty in the fact that for the first time in many years the officials can show a clean balance sheet to the members. The exhibit of the Secretary-Editor, showing the financial status, is an extremely gratifying one, and it will no doubt be a stimulant that will increase the membership largely.

As to the membership, a comparison with the condition of the list closed June 16 and the number as reported at former meetings shows a nice gain, though, of course, the report of this year covers a period of nearly thirteen months instead of twelve, as at former annual meetings.

The constitution as adopted by the convention is practically the same as drawn up by the Re-organization Committee. As finally adopted it is more favorable to the small or sub divisions than the proposed constitution presented by the committee. Club representation is encouraged and more centralization is aimed at, thus giving each division good representation, but at the same time making the governing organization less cumbersome. There is no doubt but that the League must practice the strictest economy for the next twelve months in order to place the finances of the organization on an absolutely solid foundation, and start with a good round surplus in the treasury at the next annual meeting, but it must be a thought of extreme gratification to the present officers of the League that instead of being a debt-burdened organization as it was in 1887, they can show the members a statement that bodes the brightest for the future.

A TOURING COMPANION WANTED.

HARRY G. STUART, Representative Missouri Division, Kansas City, Mo., wishes a companion on a wheel tour from Kansas City to Los Angeles, Cal., or part thereof, this fall, as per route: Pueblo, Manitou, Denver, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, (perhaps Yellowstone National Park), San Francisco, Los Angeles. For further particulars address, Mr. Stuart, as above, care the Evening News.

OHIO DIVISION.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio Division Board of Officers held at Cleveland June 13th, it was decided to hold a three days' meeting at Toledo, commencing July 23. The programme is as follows:

Monday, July 23—Meet at Toledo, parade, business meeting of the Ohio Division L. A. W.; entertainment in evening by the Toledo Bicycle Club.

Tuesday, July 24—Depart by special train for Ann Arbor; ride from there to Salina, Ypsilanti and return to Ann Arbor; unlimited fun.

Wednesday, July 25—Wheel to Detroit; guests while there of the Detroit Bicycle Club, who will show the visitors the sights; runs about city and vicinity; back to Toledo by special steamer chartered by the Toledo Bicycle Club.

It will be observed that racing is omitted from the programme, touring and other social enjoyments taking up the entire time except that required for the business.

SATURDAY, Edward Cumner of Lewiston, Me., rode to Wayne on a bicycle, and left Sunday to meet a party at Monmouth in the afternoon. He has been traced four miles from Wayne, but there are no tidings from him since, that up to the present writing.

By Chief Consul Geo. S. Atwater, D. C.—E. A. Demaray, Washington, representative.

By Geo. S. Atwater, Chief Consul District of Columbia—E. T. Pettingill, representative.

By W. M. Brewster, Chief Consul Missouri—Geo. W. Boswell, representative.

The President made a short verbal report, and referred the Board to the committees' reports for the standing of the League, and progress made during the year. The officers then made the following reports:

TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the President and Board of Officers of the L. A. W.:

Gentlemen—I respectfully beg leave to report the following as the transactions of the Treasurer's office, since the date of the last report, March 1st, 1888:

Balance on hand, March 1st, - - - - - $30.56
March 12th, cash from the Secretary-Editor, - - - - - 500.00
June 9th, cash from the Secretary-Editor, - - - - - 600.00

Total, - - - - - $1,130.56

I have paid out on bills approved by the Executive Committee as follows, viz:

March 28th, expenses Treasurer's office, - - - - - $45.56
" " C. S. Butler, expenses attending meetings of Re-organization Committee, New York, Oct. and March, - - - - - 59.75

" " V. P. Hayes, expenses attending meeting New York, March, - - - - - 25.75
" " Mast, Crowell & Kirkpatrick, printing, etc., - - - - - 14.25

" " President Kirkpatrick, expenses telegrams, stenographer, etc., - - - - - 92.65
" " President Kirkpatrick, expenses stenographer, Geo. R. Bidwell, expenses Uniform Committee, Bicycling World, mailing list for Baltimore meet, - - - - - 6.00

June 2d, " " J. R. Dunn, expenses attending meetings of the Re-organization Committee, New York, October and March, - - - - - 109.40
" " President Kirkpatrick, expenses New York meeting, - - - - - 56.50

" 11th, Glover & Finkenaer, making plate of Treasurer's signature for membership tickets, - - - - - 2.00
" 12th, President Kirkpatrick, expenses stenographer, telegrams, etc., - - - - - 68.40

" " Mast, Crowell & Kirkpatrick, printing, etc., - - - - - 10.25

Total, - - - - - $565.51

Cash balance on hand June 16th, - - - - - $565.05

This amount is exclusive of the amount contributed to the relief fund in response to the circular issued by the Executive Committee under date of March 15th. The names of the contributors to this fund have been, and will continue to be, published in the official organ from time to time. The sum received for this account, to date, amounts to $423.00, and is divided among the different divisions as follows, viz:

Massachusetts, - - -	$305.00	New York, - - -	$1.00
Rhode Island, - - -	66.00	Pennsylvania, - - -	1.00
Missouri, - - -	30.00	Connecticut, - - -	1.00
Kentucky, - - -	15.00	Ohio, - - -	1.00
District of Columbia, - - -	2.00	Utah, - - -	1.00

With the exception of the contribution of the Massachusetts Division these amounts have been paid to the Treasurer in cash. In the Massachusetts case the Secretary-Editor was given credit for $300.00, which he owed that division. Respectfully submitted,

W. M. BREWSTER, Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-EDITOR.

At the meeting of the Board in March I announced that I should be able to pay the Divisions in full for the first quarter of the League year, and this has been done together with a liberal check drawn in favor of the Treasurer. Moreover, I have been able to do what has never before been done in the history of the League, and that is: I have already paid every Division all that they are entitled to up to date, June 1, on the second quarter, sending them money that was not due till July 1st. A financial statement of the condition of my office drawn to June 1st makes the following showing:

Dr.		Cr.
Cash on hand, - - -	$1182 43	Due Treasurer, - - -	$2956 79
Suspense, fixtures, sundries, - - -	915 56	Profit on card cases, - - -	95 40
Bulletin account, - - -	881 95	Sundry bills, - - -	45 10
Accounts receivable, - - -	594 16	Due Divisions, - - -	476 81
	$3574 10		$3574 10

Since June 1st the cash balance shown above has given place in part to receipts from creditors, including one for $600 from the Treasurer, and debt, which like an old man of the sea, has been bowing us down with burdensome cares, has quickly departed from us, and we now walk proudly erect under the gratifying influences of a clean balance sheet. In the month of March last the Executive Committee issued a call for a popular subscription addressed to the Divisions. This was done because the Committee saw before them the discouraging spectacle of an empty treasury when the income of the National organization should be reduced as proposed by the scheme of reorganization, and they felt that money must be had and expended if the best results were desired. This is a matter that concerns my office only indirectly, but I am able to give you facts and figures which may have a bearing on the question and justify the call for funds. It must be remembered that the organization has had a hard struggle to get out of its financial difficulties. Its efforts have been crowned with success. But the Divisions have suffered little or nothing. All that they have been entitled to from the League has been paid, and nearly all have full treasuries. The Committee has asked that they give of their abundance that the cause we have at heart may be advanced, and the interest of our sport be furthered.

Under the new Constitution the income of the National organization would be amply sufficient to meet all demand if we could start the year fairly and have the advance of the excess of funds coming to us in the renewal season; but it must be remembered that we are to go through ten of the dullest months of the year, so far as League interest is concerned, before we reach another renewal season, which is due in May of next year. During the winter months our income is very small, and the League's dividend will be correspondingly minute. We have high hopes of pulling through, but we can do so only by the practice of the strictest economy and a niggardly policy, and it may be that we shall again be creditor to the Divisions.

Our membership has reached the highest figure ever attained at a League Meet. Herewith are tables showing the numbers in each State and a comparison of numbers at former meetings. The change in the Bulletin, whereby the work of publication is let out by contract, has been most advantageous to the League. It has relieved us from a debt-producing monster, and given us a fairly bountiful. It not only gives us an income, but it has enabled me to cut down my clerical force and save a goodly sum in office expenses. It has reduced in a small measure my editorial duties and increased very largely my clerical work. There are no drones in the League hive. The volume of correspondence, the natural product of a body of 10,000 men is not decreasing, nor is there any falling off in the number of those who forget to enclose a stamp for a reply to an idle question. The stamp account of the League is very large. It can be reduced very materially if members will but take the hint which I have endeavored thus delicately to convey.

COMMITTEE ON RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The Membership Committee was given further time to report. The Committee on Rules and Regulations reported as follows:

To the President, Board of Officers and Members L. A. W.:

Gentlemen—The work of your Committee on Rules and Regulations, during the past year, has consisted chiefly in supplying information to clubs throughout the country desiring to organize under our rules, and giving such assistance and help as has been possible, in furthering the interests of the L. A. W.

Considerable time has been given in studying the rules and regulations governing our organization, in view of finding out, if possible, what will best meet its requirements in the future. The results of our study will be found embodied in the report of the Committee on Reconstruction.

It was the opinion of your committee at the beginning of the year, that so long as the work of reconstruction was under consideration, as few changes in our by-laws as possible was desirable, and to this end the committee has labored. We therefore have no report for the consideration of the Board at this meeting.

Respectfully submitted, CHARLES S. BUTLER,

Chairman, for the Committee.

COMMITTEE ON RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

The Committee on Rights and Privileges report:

Mr. Luscomb prefaced his report by stating that last evening a member from Ohio was run down upon a suburban thoroughfare, steps were now being taken to bring the offending road hog to justice.—[See report of the accident elsewhere in this issue.—Ed.]

The Committee on Rights and Privileges has not been called upon to enter the field of litigation since the last meeting. It is true that many applications from different sections of our territory have been made for advice and assistance, in the way of furnishing citations to cases heretofore decided, and in all such cases your committee has promptly responded.

With the work of the past year before it, the committee can report that the great public is rapidly becoming educated up to the proper appreciation of the rights and powers of him who astrides the wheel of progress, passes the antiquated horseman on the road of civilization.

Except in a few scattering cases the wheelmen has not been interfered with, in the reasonable and ordinary use of the streets and roads, and, in the instance referred to, your committee can only infer from the silence of the parties after the receipt of instructions that the information forwarded to them accomplished its intention, and the annoyance and unlawful interference ceased.

From Columbus, Ga., and Dodge City, Kansas, came complaints that the city authorities had passed ordinances prohibiting bicycle riding on the streets within corporate limits. In each case your committee promptly forwarded the necessary legal ammunition for a contest, should the same become unavoidable, and stood ready to come into action; immediately it should be advised of the persistence of the city authorities in their error.

In Covington, Kentucky, actuated by some wild notion, which he could never tame and examine, a member of the Legislature sought to prohibit cycling in Kenton County. The Kentucky boys allowed no time to be lost, and although the Committee was advised and in communication with the officials there upon the subject, it was found that Kentucky was amply able to fight its own battles, and the celerity with which the bill was ejected, from the favorable consideration of the Legislature, is a most satisfactory indication of the vigor of the Western wheelmen.

From San Mateo, California, came one of the usual complaints concerning the ill-natured road hog with the divine right. Your committee advised the complainant of the law in the case, and advised that a test be made.

Numerous other applications have been received and answered, and so far as the committee can ascertain, the power and dignity of the League maintained whatever attacked.

From the incidents of the past year, however, there is one element of danger that requires our attention. Many cases of intentional injury to wheelmen have been noticed, particularly in large cities. In almost every instance the assailant has escaped because of the inability of the wheelman or his companions to follow up the chase. The cowardly character of the assault is in entire keeping with the flight of the assailant with all the speed his horse can run.

There seems to be but one method of reaching this condition of affairs, and that by securing better policing in our pleasure resorts and public thoroughfares, so that when such an assault occurs it will be possible to secure the offender by aid of the lawful protector of the rights of all citizens—and wheelmen are still within the right of such protection—and not compel the riders to organize a chase and fight before they can get into position to ask justice.

The committee is of the opinion that an increase of police in such places could be procured if pressure should be brought to bear upon the authorities, and therefore recommends such action to the States wherein such accidents have occurred.

The punishment of the individual we can easily take care of. His apprehension is the difficulty to overcome.

Since the appointment of the present Committee, and perhaps, therefore, a thing to be properly noticed in its annual report, a grand milestone in permanent cycling development has been set up, first by New York and following by New Jersey.

Reference is particularly made to the Legislative enactments which have gone upon the Statute Books of these States, declaring the legal status of the wheel, and proclaiming with all the force of the established law, that the right of the wheelmen are determined.

The Committee congratulates the League upon its position and upon the success that has marked its progress for the year now ending. Each such year but adds to its power and prestige, and its name and fame becomes a pride and protection to the wheelman, and a menace and swift pursuer of the lawless roadster who knows no justice but his own.

The Transportation Committee and Touring Board made no report.

The Reorganization Committee reported certain changes in the Constitution (to be considered in the afternoon by the Constitutional Convention.)

Mr. W. W. Share moved to adopt and endorse the changes. Carried. Under the head of new business the was taken up. Mr. C. H. Luscomb presented as candidate for President the name of T. J. Kirkpatrick, for re-election, amidst much applause; seconded by A. E. Mealy. By unanimous vote the Secretary cast a single vote, and Mr. Kirkpatrick was declared elected, and took his seat. He made a short resume of the last year's work, and asked the assistance of the Board in carrying out the policy it had already adopted during the coming term.

Mr. Dunn, of Ohio, in a short, humorous speech, proposed Mr. H. W. Hayes for re-election as Vice President. Dr. Emery, for Massachusetts, seconded the nomination in a few remarks. Upon motion of Mr. Jessup the Secretary cast the unanimous ballot of the Board, and Mr. Hayes made a short vote of thanks.

For third member of the Executive Committee, Mr. Bidwell was nominated by Mr. Davol, of Rhode Island. Mr. Bidwell declined in favor of W. S. Bull, of Buffalo; seconded by Mr. Jessup. Upon motion of Dr. Emery the Secretary cast the unanimous vote of the Board for W. S. Bull as member of the Executive Committee.

For Treasurer, Mr. Atwater, of District of Columbia, nominated Mr. W. M. Brewster for re-election; seconded by Mr. Boswell. The Secretary again cast the vote of the Board, and W. M. Brewster was declared elected.

As there was no new business to be introduced an opportunity was given local committees to make announcements.

Mr. Atwater, on behalf of the District of Columbia Division invited the League to visit Washington on Thursday.

After some condemnation of the Pennsylvania Railroad and taffy given the Baltimore and Ohio on the question of carrying wheels free, the Board at noon adjourned.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

called to order at 3 P. M., President Kirkpatrick in the chair. The Secretary received club proxies to the number of 1228, most of the representatives of such clubs being present.

The new Constitution, as proposed by the Reorganization Committee, and approved in the morning by the Board, was presented to the meeting by Mr. Luscomb.

Dr. Emery moved to adopt as a whole.

Mr. E. J. Shriver moved as an amendment that it be taken up section by section.

The motion on the amendment was lost by a vote of 272 to 704, of which 19 to 36 were by those present in person, and the balance by proxy.

The original motion to adopt was then carried by a vote of 891 to 161, 40 to 8 being by present members.

After extending a vote of thanks to the Reorganization Committee, the Convention adjourned.

Appended is a draft of the Constitution, entire, as adopted:

CONSTITUTION "L. A. W." AS ADOPTED.

ARTICLE I.

Section 1. This organization shall be known as the League of American Wheelmen.

Section 2. Its objects are to promote the general interests of cycling; to ascertain, defend and protect the rights of wheelmen; to facilitate touring and to secure improvement in the condition of the public roads and highways.

ARTICLE II.

Section 1. The League shall be a confederation, composed, First, of all State Divisions now having one hundred or more resident League members, and such as may hereafter reach that limit, and Second, of subdivisions of not less than twenty-five League members each, in any other State or Territory.

Section 2. Divisions shall organize by the adoption of this Constitution and the election of a Chief Consul, a Vice Consul and Secretary-Treasurer and representatives, as hereinafter provided.

Section 3. Subdivisions shall organize as follows: When there shall be twenty-five League members in any State or Territory, it shall be constituted a Subdivision, and the President shall appoint a Chief Consul. When the membership reaches fifty it shall organize as herein provided and elect a Chief Consul and Secretary-Treasurer, but shall not be entitled to a Vice-Consul. In the event of the failure of such Subdivision to elect officers, the President shall appoint.

ARTICLE III.

Section 1. Any amateur wheelman of good character, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the endorsement of two League members, or three reputable citizens, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of the initiation fee and dues, as provided in this Constitution and By-Laws, and the By-Laws of his Division.

Section 2. The name of each applicant for membership must be published in the official organ, and unless within two weeks thereafter, a protest shall be filed with the Membership Committee, he shall become a member of the League.

Section 3. Each such applicant shall pay to the Secretary of the League an initiation fee of one dollar and the sum fixed by the Division in which he shall become a member, for annual dues; such dues to be payable on or before May 1st in each year. The Secretary shall retain from such annual dues and from all renewals, an annual per capita tax of fifty cents.

The balance of such annual dues and the whole amount of the initiation fee shall be returned by the Secretary to the Division, quarterly.

Section 4. Any member failing to pay his dues as above provided before the first day of July following, his membership shall be forfeited and the Secretary shall cause his name to be stricken from the rolls. Any member having thus defaulted, can again become a member only in the manner provided in Section 1 of this Article.

Section 5. Each Division and Subdivision must, on or before the first day of April, file in the office of the Secretary of the L. A. W. a certificate stating the amount fixed as its annual dues, and in default thereof the amount shall be fixed by the Executive Committee of the League.

ARTICLE IV.

Section 1. The management of the League shall be vested in a National Assembly, consisting of the Chief Consuls, Vice-Consuls and Delegates from the several Divisions and Subdivisions, to be elected as hereinafter provided, which shall have power to make by-laws for the guidance of the League, to establish regulations for the government of Divisions in the relations to the League and to each other, and to generally direct and decide in all matters not provided for in this Constitution. Fifteen members personally present shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Section 2. Each Division shall elect a Chief Consul, Vice-Consul, Secretary-Treasurer and Representatives annually, between the 15th day of July and the 15th day of August, as follows:

One Representative for each 100 resident League members, also one Representative from each League Club of not less than twenty members, and an additional Representative for each fifty additional members upon its roll on July 1st. Club Representatives to be chosen each by the Club of which he is a member. These shall constitute the Division Board of Officers.

Section 3. Each Division and Subdivision shall adopt for its guidance, By-Laws, Rules and Regulations, not inconsistent with the National Constitution and By-Laws. The term of office of all Division and Subdivision Officers shall commence on the 1st day of September in each year.

Section 4. Each Division Board of Officers shall hold its annual meeting in the month of September, and shall then elect from the Division one Delegate for each two hundred members upon its roll on September 1st. Such Delegates, together with the Chief Consuls of Divisions and Subdivisions and Vice-Consuls shall constitute the National Assembly of the League of American Wheelmen.

ARTICLE V.

Section 1. The Annual Meeting of the National Assembly shall be held on the third Monday in February in each year.

Section 2. Special business meetings shall be called by the President upon the written request of not less than fifteen delegates, and from not less than five Divisions; thirty days' notice of such meeting must be given in the official organ, with a statement of the business to be transacted at the meeting, and no other business shall be considered.

ARTICLE VI.

Section 1. The officers of the League shall be a President, first and second Vice-Presidents, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall be elected by the National Assembly, at the annual meeting, provided, however, that the Secretary shall hold office as long as he shall render satisfactory service. The National Assembly may, however, by a two-thirds vote of the members and proxies present at any meeting, declare the office of Secretary vacant and hold an election for his successor, one month's notice thereof having been given.

Section 2. There shall be the following National Committees:

- I. Executive and Finance, to consist of the President and Vice-President.
- II. Membership.
- III. Rights and Privileges.
- IV. Rules and Regulations.
- V. Improvement of Highways.
- VI. Transportation.
- VII. Racing.

Section 3. Officers and Chairmen of Standing Committees, if not members of the National Assembly when chosen, shall be members of that body during their term of office.

ARTICLE VII.

Section 1. This Constitution may be altered or amended by a majority of the members voting in person or by proxy at a Constitutional Convention called therefor.

The President shall call such a convention upon the written demand of not less than fifty members, at least ten from each of five Divisions, giving one month's notice thereof, by publication in the official organ.

SECT. 1. Any wheeling club in the United States that shall have in its by-laws a provision requiring every active member to be a member of the League of American Wheelmen, and that shall file annually with the Secretary of the L. A. W. a certificate thereof, shall become a League Club, and entitled to all the privileges accorded League Clubs under this Constitution. The number of votes that any League Club shall be entitled to cast, through its delegates, at any Constitutional Convention, shall be one vote for every member of said club in good standing upon the rolls of the League. Representatives from League Clubs shall file with the Secretary a certificate of their election, signed by the President and Secretary of the club which they represent.

THE BUSINESS MEETING

proper was then called to order, but did no business outside of passing votes of thanks to the officers and members of the Maryland Division, and listening to numerous invitations from visiting delegates to attend Meets in their respective localities.

Immediately upon the adjournment of the business meeting, at 4 o'clock, the convened, Prest. Kirkpatrick in the chair. Dr. Emery moved to continue the Constitutional Committee and authorize them to permit a set of by-laws at the next meeting. Carried.

The following communication was next read, and caused considerable comment:

BALTIMORE, Md., June 18, 1888.

To the Board of Officers, L. A. W.:

Gentlemen—On behalf of the wheelmen of Chicago, I hereby appeal to you from the decision of the Racing Board, in refusing to reinstate Mr. Philip Hammel, of Chicago, as an amateur wheelman. Mr. Hammel's case is an old one, has twice been before the Racing Board, and though backed by the signatures of seventy odd League members in Chicago, has twice been refused. The refusal has caused the failure of one club in Chicago to renew this year, and delayed that of another. These two clubs have a membership of about 350, and has had influence enough to keep a large number of others from joining the League, in Chicago. I speak for the Chicago Bicycle Club, the Lincoln Cycle Club, and the Fort Dearborn Cycling Club, having respectively 50, 150 and 210 members. Respectfully,

N. H. VAN SICKLEN.

A motion to reinstate Mr. Hammel was carried by a vote of 17 in favor, to 8 against.

The membership committee then reported briefly, and the meeting adjourned.

THE PARADE.

started about 10.15 from North avenue and Charles street and presented truly an imposing spectacle. There were wheels and wheels, men and ladies, clubs and divisions. The route covered was as published in a former issue of this paper and in the official programme.

As each club passed the several local club houses it gave its cheer and cry with a hearty good will and the response from the lady friends who crowded the windows was equally encouraging. The boys rode well—very well. I saw only one fall in line, and the unfortunate quickly remounted without causing a serious break in the line.

I give below some figures as gleaned by a hasty observation as the line passed me. A deplorable piece of mismanagement permitted each club to invite friends, which, when the invitation was accepted, gave an appearance of greater strength to that club.

First came the Grand Marshal, President Kirkpatrick, and E. P. Hayden as Aid; next 13 mounted cavalry buglers; next Vice President Hayes and Davol on a tandem; next the Louisiana representatives, three in number, all dressed in cream flannel, as additional Aids. Then, interspersed with many unattached and visitors, as above mentioned, came 14 New York B. Club, 53 Brooklyn, 2 Elmira, 6 Manhattan, 4 Buffalo, 2 Syracuse, 27 New Jersey Division, 34 Pennsylvania Club, 23 Century, 10 Central Wheelmen, and 3 Cincinnati, of Cincinnati, 3 Kenton of Covington, Ky., 1 Indiana, 16 Michigan Division, 12 Missouri Division, 1 from far off California Division, 33 Missouri Club, with 12 Capital Club of Washington as guests, Parks on a unicycle, 49 Baltimore Club with friends, 39 Rambler Club, 22 Washington Cycle Club with 7 ladies on ladies' bicycles, 22 Centaur Club, 6 Chesapeake, 22 Hagerstown, 4 Westminster, 21 Virginia Division, 8 Delaware Division, 2 Florida Division, 2 Texas; in all, with the unattached, 615 wheelmen and wheelwomen.

Assembling at the finish, in Druid Hill Park, lemonade was dispensed to the warm and thirsty riders at "Mansion House," and they were soon grouping themselves on a semicircular slope, in front of the "Mansion," to be "took." The slope is sixty or seventy-five feet long, rises at an angle of about 45 degrees for fifteen vertical feet, and at its foot undulates gently for some distance, to a picturesque fountain. Just in front of the latter the cameras were placed, on a raised platform, and no doubt the photograph of the League meet of 1888 will be one of the finest ever produced, because of the excellent facilities afforded for taking it.

The League officers, and the ladies of the party, occupied positions in the extreme foreground, the clubs grouped together upon the slope in various personal attitudes, graceful and otherwise, (mostly otherwise), and the mounted buglers upon the level terrace, at the rear, with the Mansion crowded with spectators for an extreme background. Considerable merriment was occasioned by cries for "white horse," when the red-haired photographic artist made his appearance. At last the agony was over, and the entire body set out for Halsted's for dinner.

THE RACES.

REFEREE—T. J. Kirkpatrick.

Judges—Geo. Bidwell, G. A. Jessup, H. W. Hayes.

Timers—Abbot Bassett, F. P. Priol, J. Rodgers.

Starter—N. H. Van Sicklen.

Clerk of Course—H. W. Barrington.

I give above a list of the officers of the races. Most of these officiated in their several capacities, and all gave entire satisfaction.

Arlington Driving Park, three and one-half miles from the city on the Pimlico road has an excellent half-mile track, and for this purpose had been recently rolled as hard as it is possible to make a dirt track. It is oval in form, longest from North to South, raised at the corners, and boasts a large pavilion which was literally filled to overflowing. Nearly two thousand spectators witnessed the races, which were eminently satisfactory in every respect. A rather stiff east wind blew down the third quarter, but it died out after the second race, and is thought not to have impeded the time to any great extent.

Promptly at 3.30 the one-mile L. A. W. championship was called. It was won by Will Windle, on a Victor racer, in 2.43, with Fred Foster, the Canadian champion, a close second at 2.43 1-2, and J. Fred Midgley, on a Springfield Roadster, third in 2.44. Also ran, C. A. Stenken, P. L. Seufferle, Phil Brown, and H. S. Kingsland. Midgley crossed the tape ahead on the first half mile, with Kingsland second, but the finish was as above. Much was expected of Foster, but it could be seen at a glance he was not in condition, in fact, though he was entered for nearly all the races, he rode but this, and one other, and lost both.

The half-mile novice race was won by W. E. McCune, 1.22 2-5, followed by E. J. Decker, 1.24, both on Springfield Roadsters, with H. E. Perlle (1.28 1-2), F. C. Gilbert, J. E. Patterson and G. A. Getty, in the order named.

The one-mile tandem handicap was won by Kingsland and West, of Baltimore, in 3.04 4-5 on a Quadrant, against Seufferle and Ward, of Washington, on a Humber tandem.

The three-mile lap race was won by Windle, in 9.32 2-5; Foster second, in 9.38.

The two-mile handicap tricycle was won by Kingsland, in 7.04, on a Quadrant racer, against Phil Brown, 4-5 seconds behind on a Marlboro' Club.

The three-mile handicap resulted as follows: W. E. McCune (45 seconds) first, in 8.42, on a Springfield Roadster, and Windle (scratch) second, in 8.54 2-5, against W. H. Ward (22 seconds), J. W. Egolf (22 seconds), Getty (45 seconds), and Decker (45 seconds).

The one-mile championship tricycle was a repetition of the two-mile tricycle handicap above. Kingsland and Brown were the only starters in each—in the first each receiving 10 seconds against Foster, who did not start—and Kingsland also carried off first prize in this race, in 3.02, against Brown's 3.04. Kingsland led in both races from the start, and on the finish, when Brown attempted to pass him, he spurred and increased his lead. The first half in the last mentioned race was made in 1.31.

The two-mile handicap safety resulted as follows: 1. J. F. Midgley (10 seconds) 5.57, Springfield Roadster; 2. E. J. Decker (30 seconds) 6.11 4-5 Springfield Roadster; 3. J. E. Patterson (40 seconds) 6.53, Star; 4. C. A. Stenken (17 seconds) on a Star.

The three-quarter mile steeplechase was won by F. C. Gilbert, Star, with P. M. Harris second on a Springfield Roadster, and W. H. Ward third on an ordinary. The contestants mounted, rode a short distance, left their wheels, crawled under a hurdle, ran back, picked up their wheels, trundled them across the infield and over a fence, mounted, and finished in the order given.

Harry Parks attempted to lower the unicycle record for a mile, but fell on the tape at the end of the first half mile, and did not finish.

Then Basset and Jessup ran a one-eighth of a mile foot race, resulting in favor of the former, who had a literal "walk-over," as both crossed the tape at slow pace, much winded, and amidst deafening applause. [Query.—Shall I award the veteran road-race prize to our genial Secretary, in accordance with the above, or do you insist they shall ride—not run?]—

On the whole, the fine weather, the large, jolly crowd of spectators, and the well-conducted races, free of all accidents, were an excellent testimonial to the managers and promoters. The time of 2.43, I understand, is record for the mile on this track.

N. L. COLLAMER.

ENTERTAINMENTS, EXCURSIONS, RUNS AND GENERAL NOTES.

SUNDAY, JUNE 17.

FIVE HUNDRED wheelmen reached the Monumental City last evening and this morning, and all the incoming trains are contributing their quota to swell the number. The Reception Committee have been working like beavers in the face of a lurid sun and sweltering atmosphere, for Baltimore, having determined upon giving her visitors a warm reception, is carrying it out to the letter. It does not seem to affect the enthusiasm of the boys though, for the hotel lobbies are thronged with them, while on all the streets you run against the knickerbockered legs. Legs long and legs short; legs stout and legs thin; not always, it must be confessed, escaping without criticism from giggling girls.

From all over the country have they come, every State in the Union, nearly, being represented; representatives from the East and Middle States being, of course, largely in the majority, and from far California and Louisiana do they also come; Canada is also represented by a good delegation. The racing cracks are also here, among them, Foster, of Toronto; Brown, of Washington; Windle, of Lynn; Midgeley, of Worcester; Wilhelm, of Reading; and Stenken. Ex-Captain Whitney's smiling face turned up in the Maryland Club house, and it is a pleasure to learn that cycling is not to lose one of its earliest and most earnest workers, for Mr. Whitney has got a safety out at his Western ranch, which he proposes riding over the trails that stretch for hundreds of miles across the prairies.

The intense heat deterred many of the cyclers from attending the wheelmen's services at Immanuel Baptist Tabernacle, corner North avenue and St. Paul street, this afternoon, but as it was, the number in attendance filled the entire front portion of the large auditorium. The Maryland turned out upwards of 50, including half a dozen ladies; Rambler, 30; Baltimore, 30; Centaur, 27; and Chesapeake, 15; the balance being made up of the visiting wheelmen, who rode from the Carrollton. An excellent sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Dixon, after several hymns had been sung and prayer offered. The hymns were accompanied by the cornet by Mr. Thomas, bugler of the Rambler Club, and another cornetist. The text was from Ezekiel's vision, chapter, 20 verse, "Living Wheels," and was entirely deserving of the earnest attention it received. The reverend gentleman—who had been on a bicycle and knew what he was talking about—began by combating the theory of evolution, the evolution of atheists. As there could be no effect without a cause, so the modern wheel was no more an evolution from nebulous matter and protoplasm than man himself. And how absurd to think that if the mass of inert matter called the bicycle could not create itself, that man, the sentient, living creature could. Divorce from the wheel the life that guides it, and it falls a dead thing. So with man himself. Take from him the higher life and nothing but the animal remains, and it is called a failure. Let man know it is not the whole of life to live. Eighteen hundred years ago there came to earth the perfect man. With Him for their guide the wheelmen of America need never shame their loftiest standard. The faces of the four living creatures were as the faces of a man, a lion, an ox and an eagle; signifying manhood, bravery, patient endurance, and lofty aspiration; and to each of these attributes Mr. Dixon, in well chosen sentences commended the wheelmen. Said he: "One of your young gentlemen asked me if I intended to get you out here and then abuse you for riding on Sunday!" There was a general laugh, and Mr. Dixon went on to say that bicycle riding, under certain conditions, was not a sin, any more than walking. Put the beast under your feet and tread down the sins that debase your manhood, and the question of riding on Sunday will not be a stumbling block in your paths.

Never was a more appropriate sermon preached on the bicycle, and I believe not a man present but felt better for it.

A member of the Ohio Division was run down by a driver this afternoon, fortunately escaping injury himself but damaging the machine. The man was arrested, but discharged at the station house upon the extraordinary ground that as he was not going over six miles an hour he could not be held. The Maryland Division will carry the case further, and test this ruling.

MONDAY, JUNE 18.

DURING the meeting of the Board of Officers this morning, those of the wheelmen who had no interest in official details joined the general run from the several club houses and League headquarters, uniting at Govanstown; thence under command of Captain Le Cato. The route lay via Lake avenue to Mt. Washington, through some of the loveliest and wildest scenery to be found within a radius of one hundred miles. Praise unstinted was freely bestowed, and not unjustly, for if there is a city in the country whose suburban scenery equals that of Baltimore I do not know it. Beautiful as our own Fairmount is, the natural attractions of Druid Hill Park far exceed it, and the wheel is under no restrictions within its precincts. Neither lamp nor bell are required, and coasting may be freely indulged in over its smooth grades. For miles a succession of up-hill-and-feet-over-the-handies follow in never-ending and delightful succession.

At Mount Washington an impromptu hill-climbing contest was indulged in on "Windy Gates" Hill, which has been hitherto considered insurmountable, and three of the visitors made the top. Percy Harris on a Springfield Roadster, McDaniels on a Victor safety and Mr. Decker. Mr. Le Cato, on a New Rapid, climbed Mt. Washington Hill. The roads were in bad condition, owing to lack of rain for past fortnight, and quite a number of headers were taken. In one instance two riders collided with such force that the wheels were jammed through each other, and it required the united force of five men to disentangle them. At Govanstown the thirsty crowd drank the whole town dry, and left absolutely nothing but the pump and a lot of empty bottles.

Southern gallantry would not of course neglect the ladies, and about one hundred wheels rolled out from the Maryland Club house at four o'clock, of whom quite a fair proportion were of the fair sex, four of the latter riding the lady's bicycle. Through the Park the route lay, and out on the Pimlico road to Arlington, where lemonade was served, and a peep taken at the contestants practicing on the track for the morrow's races. Windle came out while I was looking over the rails, and the way he spurred down the homestretch made me put him down as safe for a winner in a couple of his entries to-morrow. Put that down as a prophesy if you please. The Canadian, Foster's, colors of orange and black now flash by; and look, here comes the Springfield Roadster, propelled by Midgeley in his cardinal suit. He gets speed out of it, too, in spite of the awkward looking action. Brown, of Washington, was on the track also, and one looked instinctively for Crist's red and black to come with him. Altogether the prospects are good for some pretty sport to-morrow. Mounted again, and we wheel out the Reisterstown pike to the old arsenal grounds, now a home for disabled confederates, and here we cooled off while refreshments were being spread. Perhaps justice was not done to the ice cream, strawberries, cake, etc., which the generosity of our host provided, and then again perhaps it was. Among the ladies at the table were noticed Mrs. Green and Mrs. Burk, of Boston; the Misses Smith, Mrs. Mott, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Meitzel, Mrs. Geigan, Mrs. Stran, Mrs. Crowther and Miss Germande. The youngest of the party was Miss Edith Crowther, aged three, who, I am sorry to say, proceeded to exercise the coquetties of her sex upon a number of the gentlemen present. The return to the city was made in the cool of the evening, and thus ended the "Ladies' Run." Moonlight parties flitted through the park all the evening, and it was a late hour when all quieted down, receptions having been held at all the club houses.

TUESDAY, JUNE 19.

THE annual photograph having been taken at the Mansion House in the Park, where lemonade was served to the thirsty crowd, the run was taken in a sort of go-as-you-please for Arlington race track. I said thirsty crowd, and thirsty does not begin to express it. A thousand wheelmen crowded the springs in such dense throngs that a man who got a glass of water got it by fighting for it, and many were the expedients tried to make a way. This was one of them, half a dozen men rushed up, bearing a prostrate form, Captain Whitney had fainted, and Boston was carrying him in for water to revive him; but it was no go, and amid the hoots and yells of the crowd, Boston sneaked out crestfallen.

At Park Heights a lunch was laid in the groove adjoining Halsted's Hotel, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, eggs, pickles and other little delicacies of that sort, but the way in which those tables were cleared made the heads of the darty waiters swim. Candor reluctantly compels the question, Who stole the spoons? Just ask this question with bated breath, Maryland. The League is as careful of her reputation as a young maiden not yet out of her teens, and it is a rather awkward thing to have half a hundred writs hunting round for as many men, particularly when those men are visitors to a strange city. I am proud to say that not a single spoon was borne upon a cap wearing the silver keystone. Pennsylvania did not take a spoon from the tables—because they were all taken before we left. "Pennsy" carried off the honors as the largest visiting club at the Meet, having thirty-four men, under command of Captain Supplee. They were gentlemen enough to rise in a body and give up their seats in the grand stand to the ladies, taking a standing seat around the fence. The Centurions, who were also well represented, did the same thing. "Hoo-rah! Hoo-rah! Hoo-rah! Penn-syl-vania!" was a familiar sound as the prominent officials came by, or a crowd of the pretty girls, for which Baltimore is famous, and the club cry appeared to be a little heartier for the girls. I met a Mr. Morrow, who, with only one arm, had started out from the western part of Ohio to ride on his wheel to the Meet, and who actually covered two hundred and fifty miles, when he met with an accident and had to take the train. He is a man of fifty odd years, which makes it all the more remarkable.

SIDE SIGHTS OF THE RACES.

The enclosure was filled with drags, carrying a large and fashionable assemblage of society ladies.

Chief Consul Jessup and Secretary-Editor Basset had a foot race down the home-stretch, and Pennsylvania got left again—as usual! Mr. S. T. Clark's thoughtful attention in the way of a large bowl of iced lemonade was greatly appreciated by the press members.

Mr. A. H. Overman was conspicuous on the box of a drag which was filled with ladies. Mr. C. R. Overman was another figure of prominence.

Chief Consul Atwater, of Washington, and his brother from Ohio, were voted the two handsomest men on the grounds.

The question which agitated the minds of President Kinkpatrick and second Vice-President Ball, was: Whose feet were so large that they had to be hung over the roof of the pavilion?

Quite an impromptu affair was a race around the track after all had taken their departure, of several ladies on the ladies' bicycles. Modesty insists on the suppression of the name of the fair winner, but she is well known in Washington.

Grand stand, hotel porticoes and track spaces were all literally packed with crowds of people. "The most successful race Meet ever held at Baltimore," was expressed over and over again. And the weather contributed not a little toward this result. The intense heat of the preceding day had given way to cooler breezes and a lower thermometer, and with a perfect June day to smile upon the assemblage, one could not help but feel that it was a pronounced success.

THE SMOKER.

At half-past eight, this evening, the grand national smoker was inaugurated, at the Concordia Opera House, and it early became apparent that the League of American Wheelmen was out for a high old time. Cigars, pipes, tobacco in every shape and form; music of the most melodious kinds; paper wads and cards flying in all directions; the fun waxing fast and furious; and in the midst of it all one poor correspondent at his wit's end to do justice to —, well, pandemonium let loose would about express it. First come Boston, around the hall in solemn procession, headed by—yes, ex-Captain Whitney; and each and every man with a cigar in his mouth like a young base-ball bat. The array of feet hanging over the balconies takes on a most wonderful accompaniment to the rhythm of the orchestral music,—only the loudest strains of which are audible—and by this time the hall is so packed that locomotion is very nearly a physical impossibility. The musical part of the programme was rendered by the Garland Musical Association, opening with the overture to Fra Diavolo, and combining with the "Wheelman Waltz," composed especially for the occasion, and dedicated to the League of American Wheelmen. The full programme contained 14 numbers, among which were many beautiful selections. The zither solo was quite inaudible, owing to the subdued hum from the rear of the hall, but the Descriptive Idylle, was an exquisite piece of melody, and during its rendition the lights were darkened, and then raised again descriptive of the "Night at the Brook," and "Day, and the Mill at Work."

Following this immediately came presentation of the medals won by Mr. Kingsland, of the Ramblers club, he having to leave early. Mr. Kingsland, being a Baltimore man, received an ovation when he appeared on the stage, and although he modestly retired on receiving the medals, the crowd would not have it and brought him back for a speech. He returned his thanks in a few well-chosen words, and they let him off finally. The rest of the prizes were given out to the successful winners in a small room adjoining the stage. These medals were remarkably handsome in design and execution, and reflect great credit on the committee. The one-mile L. A. W. championship medals—bicycle and tricycle—were the finest that have yet been awarded for these races. A gold wheel—pendant from two bars to bear the winner's name, etc.—was surrounded by a wreath of laurel leaves in lighter metal, the wheel bearing on the spokes in the central portion the L. A. W. badge with ruby stone, and with two wings outspread above.

Mr. Wallace's humorous recitation was received with rounds of applause, and was encored. Mr. MacDermott jumped five feet seven inches, and Messrs. Sprengel and Warwick (no relation to the hollow rim manufacturer) gave a very clever exhibition of boxing.

To-morrow the ladies will be out in force for the excursion down the bay, and it is purposed to have the affair wound up in a blaze of glory—literally of fireworks.

As one of the daily papers remarks this evening, "the wheelmen owned the city to-day!" I. CROWTHER.

Don't fail to look on page 154, and if you do not find a second-hand machine to suit you in the advertisement of the New York Bicycle Co. then you must be hard to please. Mention this paper when you write them.

THE CENTURY RUN.

THE aspirants for the century fame began to gather at the Continental Hotel, Newark, early on Friday, the 15th, and by the time for retiring numbered 38 or 39. Messrs. De Graff and Spaulding were late on account of having to attend a meeting of the Board of Officers, New York Division L. A. W., and a few others were late on account of the rain. Messrs. Evans, of New Brunswick; Whitehead and Murphy, of Trenton; and Clarke, of Flushing, took a little trip down to Brick Church after supper, and were forced to scorch the whole distance back at top speed to avoid being caught by the tremendous rain and wind storm which swept across Northern New Jersey and Staten Island, and did a great deal of damage.

The storm, though severe, lasted but a short time, and really was the best thing which could have happened for us, as the roads were in a frightfully dusty condition, and the air stifling up to 6 P. M. on Friday evening. There was also a serious electrical disturbance in the atmosphere, and the tension was so terrible that during a game of billiards between Waldo Fuller and the other billiard sharp, the electric lights all over the city went out and refused to burn. Very little sleeping was enjoyed at that hotel on Friday night by any of the century party on account of the noise, although the majority were in bed by ten o'clock. The Continental is so close to the D. L. & W. station that the continual blowing off of steam and the passing of horse cars and milk wagons made night hideous, and especially so to men who had the anticipation of a hard hundred miles on the morrow before them. Everybody was called at 3 A. M., had breakfast at 3.30, and with a few exceptions were ready to start at the appointed time, 4 A. M.

The start was really made at 4.20, with forty men in line, and Elizabeth was reached a few minutes later. We were met in the suburbs by Captain Berry, of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, looking enviably neat in his handsome uniform. It was not until Elizabeth was reached that we appreciated the force of the storm of the night before. Trees, in several places, had been blown down; the streets were strewn with debris. At Elizabeth we got our first taste of Jersey mud, and it was the genuine article—soft and as sticky as glue—which afterward baked in the sun until it was hard as a brick. The trees and grass were soaking wet, and a touch of a limb for the men in front meant a shower of water, sometimes blinding one when taken unexpectedly. However, little trouble was experienced when the foot path was good, and we arrived in Westfield in good time, finding Captain and President Dr. F. A. Kinch, Jr., of the Union County Wheelmen, awaiting us with an abundance of splendid hot coffee and all the rolls we could eat. We were a little behind in leaving Westfield, with the jolly doctor in the lead, down the path on the railroad to the Scotch Plains road, and by Front street into Plainfield, arriving there a few minutes behind the time, after one of the fastest stretches of the run. At the Plainfield B. Club's house we were welcomed in true Jersey style (all soft), and joined by several of the club, including Dr. Cooley, were soon at it again on the way to Summerville, reaching the county hotel at exactly schedule time, 9 o'clock. Here the whole party rested for nearly a half hour, and the few stragglers on the road from Plainfield caught up.

At Sumerville, L. E. Adonis, K. C. W., and I attempted to indulge in the luxury of a shave, with the consequence that he went without anything to eat, and that I got left a half hour behind the party, in company with Messrs. Palmer and Pierson, of the Bloomfield Cyclers, and two others, and did not catch them until two miles below Pennington, from whence, into Trenton, the last eight miles were ridden by the advance squad in 45 minutes without dismount. This advance squad was luckily and somewhat unexpectedly met by one of the Trenton wheelmen, in the outskirts of the town, and as a vicious looking storm was brewing, he took the party by a short cut into the city, arriving at the Trenton House 15 minutes ahead of schedule time, but leaving a disappointed lot of Trenton wheelmen at the Park, through which we had been expected to enter, and very luckily we thus shortened the trip, as immediately after our arrival, a tremendous down pour commenced, and lasted nearly two hours. That portion of the party who had stopped for a rest, just beyond Pennington, were caught in the storm and were forced to seek shelter, all hopes of their finishing the Century vanishing with the coming of the rain. Mr. Ackerson, of the Brooklyn, fared a little better. A good-natured laugh greeted him when he drove up in front of the hotel in a very small covered wagon, enveloped in the voluminous folds of an old overcoat, loaned him by the good-natured, ruralistic driver. The wagon was so small that there were just room for Charlie to store himself and the machine inside, after detaching the handle-bar and backbone. The Trenton club had procured a large empty store, opposite the hotel, for the storage of the wheels of the party, and by having bridges across the gutters and doorstep, made it possible for us to ride directly into the building without a dismount, greatly to the edification of the Trentonians, of whom there were in the neighborhood of 1500 or 2000 gathered in the vicinity of the hotel. In Trenton, as in all the towns along the route, we met with the most courteous and kindly reception, our coming having been anticipated. Our schedule time for arrival at Trenton, was 2 P. M., but we reached the hotel at 1.45, as a very natural consequence of our scorch on the last eight miles. Our time for leaving was 3 P. M., according to the schedule, but the rain detained us an hour, until a little after four, when twelve of the original party and an equal number of the Trenton wheelmen, started for Philadelphia, with our hopes of ever reaching there by wheel, at very low ebb, as Bristol Pike was in many places under water. We lost very little time on the run to Bristol, although nearly every man in the party took a fall of kind or another in the ten miles. Capt. Crozer, of the Trenton wheelmen, who had started at the head of the line to pilot us down the river, unfortunately was forced to drop out a short distance below Bristol on account of the heating of one of the bearings of his machine. Such reports as to the condition of the road from Bristol down reached us as to almost drown all hopes of our getting through, but they proved to be false, as the road improved with every mile until Holmesburg was reached, when a cheer went down the line, and the magic name of "Gideon" electrified us all and gave strength to the weary. Mr. Gideon was accompanied by several other Philadelphians, and before we reached Frankford we picked them up by twos and threes to such an extent that we had sixty-five in line. We'll give every boy the straight tip, that Frankford isn't the — that it was represented to us as being. We had no difficulty in riding all the way through until within a few miles of our destination, where a short stretch of sand was reached, easily enough ridable except on account of the dusk. The official time of the arrival in Philadelphia was 8.00 P. M., exactly on schedule time, allowing for the hour lost on account of the rain at Trenton.

As soon as the asphalt was struck, a line was formed with President Tucker, of the Associated Clubs, in the lead, and after five or six miles of fine riding, the Belmont Mansion in the park was reached, by way of Girard avenue bridge, the River road and Belmont avenue. The mansion is a celebrated resort where fine dinners and good music are enjoyed. Near the band stand, and in front of the mansion in the open air, a most delightful vista of suggestive plates, etc., greeted the eyes of the hungry cyclists. No mere cold pen and ink could possibly fittingly describe that supper. All sense but that of supreme satisfaction and good will toward everything on earth, and "everybody in Pennsylvania" filled "those hungry cyclists." The meal was just right, none too much, none too little, the only thing that marred the occasion was the absence of Mr. Hart, who, in crossing a car track had taken a bad header and sprained his wrist. After the coffee, Mr. Tucker and Adonis, K. C. W., tried to work the little trap they had prepared for me, but I squirmed out of a very small hole in my usual graceful manner. Mr. Tucker's speech was a model one, and the very essence of cordial hospitality, and on behalf of the great century run I can assure him that the names of Tucker, and Gideon, and I—C—Lewis, and Century, and Pennsylvania, and Philadelphia, and all the rest of the myriad clubs and individuals, will be forever graven on the tablets of our memory as synonyms of everything that is hospitable—and beerless. Whew! This question of beer supply must be an absorbing one, in fact it seems to have been all absorbed, except private stock. The 100 miles, completing the century, were finished almost exactly at the Belmont, excepting only by Mr. Douglass, of the K. C. W., who pluckily rode down to the new city building and finished his few necessary miles on the beautiful asphalt surrounding that magnificent pile.

Following is a list of the gentlemen who finished the century, viz: G. L. Warner and Waldo E. Fuller, Second Lieutenant and Bugler, respectively, of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club; F. H. Douglass, of the Kings County Wheelmen; A. W. W. Evans, Captain of the New Brunswick Bicycle Club; F. D. Palmer, Captain, and J. V. Pierson, of the Bloomfield Cyclers; W. G. Speier, J. L. Bromley, and W. T. Fleming, of the Century Wheelmen of Philadelphia; F. R. Miller, Second Lieutenant of the Riverside Wheelmen, New York City; L. A. Clarke, Captain of the Mercury Wheel Club, of Flushing, L. I.; and I have also the name of Mr. J. C. Lukens, of whom I have no personal recollection or record, if the latter gentleman will send me word concerning the matter, I will take pleasure in publishing it.

NOTES.

Among those who contributed life to the party was the irrepressible Mr. De Graff, of the Harlem Wheelmen, who helped make things pleasant for the few who were unlucky enough to be caught in the rain at Hopewell.

Mr. L. H. Wise, of the Long Island Wheelmen, was the only rider unlucky enough to break his wheel, and this occurred without material damage to himself, almost within a stone's throw of the hotel at Trenton, through falling against a telegraph pole.

Among the many attractive features of the run were Warner's performances on the mouth organ, and Fuller's bugling.

I have already heard it said that some of those who were caught by the rain are a little "cocky" about it, and are talking about getting up another run on the same lines as this. Hope I'm asked to go, as I want to try it again.

The riding time of the run was almost exactly twelve hours, sixteen hours on the road, four hours stops.

On Sunday, those who did not go on to Baltimore, were entertained by the Philadelphia clubs. Messrs. Messenger, Fuller, Warner and Clarke ran out to "Bring More" for dinner (we will next time), and returned by the Lancaster pike in time to take the 6.35 express for New York. L. A. CLARKE.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

A CORRESPONDENT asks for the best mile made on the ordinary and on the Star, and by whom made. The best mile on the ordinary, world record, is 2.29 4-5, made by W. A. Rowe, Oct. 22, 1886, at Springfield, Mass. The best Star record, as made by C. Frazier, is 2.38 2-5, at Lynn, Mass., October, 1886. Frazier is credited with 2.35 in a practice spin, but this last is not authentic.

By the way, what has become of the Eastern Road Club? It seems to have quietly subsided. Is the club dead, or is it sleeping only?

A LIBERTY BILL has been introduced into the lower house of the Louisiana Legislature now in session. We hope to advise our readers of its passage at an early date.

THE scheme for building a bicycle path between Holyoke and Springfield, Mass., has been abandoned. No great loss, as the road between the two cities is by no means bad.

It is stated that the Mayor of Northampton, Mass., holds that only such walks as are enclosed by a curbing are in law held as side-walks, and he has taken measures to further investigate the matter.

MR. WELLS has gone West to see what he can do with Hal Greenwood on Son-of-a-gun-Hill, after which Mr. Greenwood will emigrate East to see what he can do with Wells on Fords Hill. May the best man win.

THE East Hartford (Conn.) Wheel Club's races to be held July 4, on East Hartford track, cover nine bicycle events, and three foot races. Entrance fee, 25 cents; entries close June 30. Address H. E. Bidwell, East Hartford, Conn.

W. J. COCHRAN, the well-known trainer, expects to go to England soon. Mr. Cochran's services in this country should be in demand, as we have comparatively few trainers in America who make a specialty of preparing cyclists.

WHEELMEN will be charged toll on the old Lancaster pike running out of Philadelphia as soon as the improvements on that highway are completed. We believe this is the first on record of any proposal that toll be collected from cyclists.

No. 2173 suggests to the Massachusetts Division officials to fix the dates of the Division's Meet at Cottage City, so that the visitors can enjoy the pleasures of a moon. Well, why not? It is a good idea and worthy of the consideration of Chief Hayes and his trusty lieutenants.

THE Jamaica Club have invented a name for a new kind of an entertainment; it is "Freezer." This suggests ice cream, and ice cream suggests something feminine. We sincerely hope the Jamaica's are not so ungallant as to eat ice cream without the aid of some of the fair sex.

MINNESOTA needs a Liberty bill and some good common sense. Rev. H. Long was arrested in Currie, Minn., for riding his bicycle on the streets of that delectable town. Currie suggests something hot, and we only hope the Rev. Mr. Long will make things hotter than Currie for the solons perpetrating the outrage.

SAPIENT advice given by a worthy contemporary, "Don't swallow too much cold water when hot." The question of "what did he mean?" will be the subject discussed by the members of our club debating society at an early date. After it has been decided (?) we will lay it on the shelf alongside the question of "which part of the wheel moves the faster, the top or bottom?"

MR. A. G. FISHER, of New Haven, Conn., desires to acknowledge, through the columns of this paper, the generous contributions of the Pope Manufacturing Co. and the Overman Wheel Co., of $100 each, to aid in the building of the New Haven to New York path. Mr. Fisher reports growing interest, and if the subscriptions come in as expected, the work will be commenced right away.

THE "Stroller," in writing to the Wheel in reference to the feat achieved by Wells in climbing Eagle Rock six times, says the man or the wheel "is not built" that can down Mr. Wells' record. All we can say is that Mr. Shurman was "built" a good many years ago, and that if the machine on which he rode the hill twelve times was not "built" when the "Stroller" prophesied, then we congratulate the Springfield people on the wonderful speed with which they can turn out wheels.

HARTFORD WHEEL CLUB ROAD RACE.

A VERY close contest, that of the Hartford Wheel Club's five-mile race held last week Wednesday. It showed pretty good hand-capping, four out of the six starters finishing in a bunch. The six starters and their handicaps were—Ludwig Foster, scratch; F. T. Reed, 1m.; F. D. Hatch, 1m. 30s.; C. H. Way, 1m. 30s.; H. K. Lee, 2m.; J. B. Spencer, 2m. When without two hundred yards of the finish, Hatch, Lee, Spencer, and Reed were all together, and then the final effort was made, resulting in Hatch winning, and the others following as named. Way did not finish, and Foster, meeting with bad luck, was placed last.

The actual time made by each man was: Hatch, 18m. 45s.; Lee, 19m. 22s.; Spencer, 19m. 52s.; Reed, 19m. 9s.; Foster, 19m.

SHURMAN GOES UP AND DOWN EAGLE ROCK TWELVE TIMES.

ON June 17, in the presence of witnesses as named below, J. H. Shurman, of Lynn, Mass., on a Springfield Roadster, went up and down Eagle Rock twelve times without a dismount. This means 24 miles of continuous up and down hill work. The time consumed to perform this feat was 3h. 39m., and the time of each round trip was as follows: 17, 18, 20, 18, 17, 16, 18, 18, 18, 20, 19. The hill is just one mile long. During the performance the heat was intense, being about 95 to 97 in the shade. This beats Mr. Wells' record by just double, and is a wonderful performance. The officials, timers, checkers, etc., were: Joseph Stookey, Newark, N. J.; Paul H. Bangs, New York Wheelmen; L. S. Klotz, E. N. Y. Club; C. A. Silver, Concord, N. H.; W. H. P. Veesev, Newark, N. J.; Harry Spencer, Newark, N. J.; W. H. White, Newark, N. J.

The machine ridden was the ordinary roadster with a gear over 52-inch and with the regular length of levers, in fact it is a regular stock machine.

NEW ORLEANS ROAD RACE.

ON June 10 the Louisiana Cycling Club held their second race for the Renaud cup. The following were the starters and their handicaps: W. E. Hobson, handicap, 6 minutes 38 seconds; L. J. Frederic, Jr., 4.17; W. M. Hathorn, J. W. Jay, 4.06; E. M. Graham, 2.41; A. A. Ruhlman, 2.25; M. S. Graham, R. G. Betts, scratch.

The distance run was 10-12 miles. For the first few miles the men kept the positions as named above. Jay was the first man to come to grief, but as no damage was done, he was up and off again. When about 6 miles out, Hawthorn took the lead, and Jay came second. The heat was great, and the pace began to tell, so that two miles from the finish Hobson and Ruhlman dropped to the rear. When within 400 yards of the finish E. M. Graham fell from his machine, overcome by the heat. Betts who was a few feet behind stopped, and together with Hobson and Ruhlman removed the sick man into the shade, and with ice water soon brought him round. So near the finish did this occur, that the men who were behind E. M. Graham would not take advantage of his sickness, but allowed him to finish 4th. Hawthorn finished first in the good time of 52.42, nearly a quarter of a mile ahead of Jay, 54.22; M. S. Graham third, 54.52. This leaves the two, Graham and Jay, tied for first place, each with 18 points. Betts 16, Frederic 14 points, being close up. Hathorn did not participate in the previous race, so has heavy odds to make up. For yesterday's event Messrs. W. H. Renaud, Jr., officiated at the start and A. M. Hill and C. M. Fairchild at the finish. B1.

HILL CLIMBING AT BEAVER FALLS.

GRADE OF ROSS' HILL.

THE post-poned hill climb of the Beaver Valley Wheelmen took place on the 14th inst. on Ross' Hill, Beaver Falls. The hill is 3507 feet long with a rise of 340 feet, and the grade is as follows, average about 10.4:

First, 188 feet,	- - - - -	rise, 1 in 11 3-4
Next, 75 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 4 11-16
" 337 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 6 1-3
" 300 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 8 1-9
" 1100 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 11 7-16
" 1000 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 13 8-9
" 507 feet,	- - - - -	" 1 in 10 1-7

These elevations were taken with an "aneroid" but will not vary ten feet from correct height of hill. E. T. W. Craig, of Beaver Falls, fell off after riding 1793 feet, and was awarded the gold medal for first prize; W. D. Banker, of Pittsburg, fell off after riding 250 feet, and was awarded the silver medal for second prize. Craig rode the hill on June 10, and Murray, of Sewickley, on June 3. This is considered a right smart hill in this neck of the woods. DUQUESNE.

ROAD RACING—AN OPINION FROM A NEW JERSEY SUBSCRIBER.

Editor Bicycling World:—Having noticed in the columns of your paper somewhat comment on the subject of road racing, I ask the privilege of expressing my ideas on the subject. I do not think I stand alone in the opinion that road racing, especially when a large number are allowed to enter, is not only extremely dangerous for those participating but is also a nuisance to the public who make use of the roads. When bicyclers are working to gain the free use of the road, the same as carriages, it does not appear reasonable or discreet that they should resort to courses which of themselves are calculated to set the public against the wheel. Wheelmen, if they wish their rights to be respected, ought not to trample upon the rights of other users of the public highway. We all, as members of the League, claim for ourselves that we are respectable citizens of the United States, and therefore we ought to consider as our aim both courtesy and regard for others' as well as our own rights. We have been successful in procuring the enactment of a law—in New York and in New Jersey—giving to the wheel the same right as carriages, subject to the same restrictions; and, as we are desirous of obtaining the passage of such a law in other states, we ought not harbor anything which will incur the ill feeling of the public, thereby rendering it difficult to gain the acknowledgment of our rights. Let us hear from some one else upon this subject. LEO.

A TRUE LADY AND A TRUE GENTLEMAN.

Editor Bicycling World: For the first time, in the annals of cycling history, our little village of about 350 inhabitants, located in the very Eden of Pennsylvania's woods comes to the notice of your many readers, or perchance this attempted communication may find a soft bed in your waste basket; but if so, let it go slowly, for I am no expert at letter writing much less at cycling. We take many nice spins over our wretchedly, miserable, rough, bone-shaking pike (a misnomer), and then some of our old and young unlubricated, half civilized, ignorant, yea semi-barbarous cranks, have the impudence to inform us we have no right on the road. Some day they may learn their mistake, to their sorrow, minus a few idol dollars. There are exceptions and we meet some people on our highways who are not selfish and mean. Last week on a little 5-mile night run to Mount Jay, we met a 2-horse team driven by Mr. R— accompanied by his lady friend, Miss H—, both from Lancaster, Pa. His horses stopped and balked, we put our wheels in a by-road, and went to his aid; we tied their limbs with our kerchiefs, their ears with cords, threw dirt in their mouths and applied the smarting lash, and almost pushed the buggy over them, but no go. We apologized for having been the cause of his horses stopping; Mr. R. never spoke an angry word to us, did not curse and swear and even exonerated us from all blame, and told us to get our wheels and he would wait till his horses got ready to move on. I ran my wheel with lamp lit, rang my alarm, blew my whistle sounding, nearly on his team but no go, so we had to leave them. Miss H— sat cool and collected, unexcited, she a true lady, and he a true type of a gentleman for some of our colossal ignoramus to use as a model to imitate. J. H. YOHEY

FROM TACOMA, W. T.

Editor Bicycling World: The wheel has come here to stay. When I arrived on Puget Sound six wheels would cover all at Seattle and Tacoma, and most all cheap wheels. Now we have a club of over forty in this city, and over thirty riders in Seattle. A club will be formed in that city tomorrow evening, and on the Fourth of July Seattle boys will hold a race meet. All amateur, except five-mile race. I run against Trotter. Fifteen of the Tacoma wheelmen on Sunday last steamed up the Sound to Seattle; the wheelmen of that city gave them a picnic dinner some four miles from the city. Although the run was over a mountain road it was without any accidents, and the first round was declared a grand success. On June 1st the Tacoma wheelmen hold their first ball and reception, which promises to be a very swell affair. This promises to be a great wheel tour, as the public take to it kindly, although we have nothing but up and down mountain road. The boys are receiving your paper, and say it is "the best," and of course yours truly thinks the same. Yours, TACOMA, W. T., May 29, 1888.

PRINCE WELLS.

A SHORT ESSAY ON ROAD MAKING.

WE are indebted to Dr. S. A. Defoe, of Washington, N. J., for the following article written for the Star of that place, and so excellent is it that we hope to hear of its being reproduced all over the country. We hope that every wheelman will see to it that articles of this nature be republished in his local paper. Keep up the agitation, drive it into them, it is the only way to accomplish the end in view. We append the article in question:

"Our country roads are a disgrace to this progressive age. Everything is being improved but the country road, and that gets worse year by year, although we pay tax enough to have smooth, solid highways everywhere. Our roads become almost impassable during portions of autumn, winter and spring; just at the times when most needed by the farmers, who desire to reach town to do business at the stores; but they stay away rather than risk smashing their wagons and crippling their horses in the endeavor to reach town through deep ruts, canals of slushy mud, and over masses of jagged rocks; and all the while merchants mourn for the unsold goods on their shelves—let them insist on the authorities giving us good roads, they will have business all the year round, and not by 'fits and starts.' The way to do it is to levy a slight general tax, and repeal the old cowpath law, which permits people to 'work out their road tax.' Such 'work' simply consists in heaping mud and rocks out of the gutters upon the road-bed, which by far, had better be left undone. And now, a few words about the way to make a smooth, solid road. Mud and large stones should be removed from the road-bed; they are not wanted on the roads, for they mean extra labor to horses, jerking and smashing of wagons and carriages, and increased wear to the road. Take hard stone, flint or granite, broken to the uniform size of an inch and a half, so that each piece will pass through a two-inch iron ring, shape and smooth the road-bed so that it is slightly higher in the middle, in order to carry off rain, and then spread it over with three inches of broken stone; use no clay for 'binding,' and take a heavy roller filled with sand, to give it more weight, drawn by a pair of horses; this process will combine and 'bind' the broken stone, and yield a solid road-bed that will require but little attention to keep it in repair, and make it a 'joy forever' to the man who has a fine horse to drive, and to the farmer, 'the butcher and baker, and candlestick maker,' who desires to bowl along a smooth, solid road to transact his business, which can be done in half the time now taken on the wagon-breaking, horse-crippling apology dubbed a 'public highway'—even a gravel road would be a thousand-fold better. Having made the road as above directed, give it two or three coatings of broken stone for the first year thereafter; it will require but little attention by the supervisor, who should carefully examine it occasionally, and at the slightest sign of ruts, have them filled at once. When the road is properly made and rolled, wooden scrapers and birch brooms should be used to keep off the mud and dust—'tramps' could be utilized for this purpose. A crushing machine for breaking stone could be purchased at a reasonable price, that would break about a mile of stone per day. The people want good roads, and they are bound to have them, instead of the cowpaths for which we pay such heavy taxes now."

CYCLING BY THE OUTING CLUB OF SAN FRANCISCO

THE Outing Cycling Club, which was formed about one year ago, has taken new life by the addition of several members, some of whom are among the leading wheelmen on the coast. S. F. Booth, Jr., for a long time associated with the Bay City Wheelmen, and one of their most active members, was elected Captain unanimously, and by his genial and witty manners has won his way into the hearts of his fellow members already.

It is the intention of the new Captain to thoroughly explore the country in the neighborhood of this city within a radius of fifty or seventy-five miles, by which time he expects his men will be in such good trim that they can wind the season up with a long ride. He intends to select routes where there will be scenery to relieve the eye, instead of going over the same humdrum routes like the other clubs. Several Saturday-Sunday runs have already been arranged, which include visits to some of the springs in the vicinity of San Francisco, where the boys can enjoy a dance Saturday evening, and have a good ride next day.

The membership of the club is limited, there being but fifteen active members present, and anyone desiring to come in has to undergo a strict examination by the Investigation Committee, besides being personally acquainted with the officers of the club, before their name can come up for initiation.

On the 3d inst. an informal run was had to Sam Mateo and vicinity. On the 23d there will be a run to Camp Taylor and vicinity under command of the First Lieutenant, as the Captain will be off to the Yosemite on a trip; June 30th a run through the San Ramon Valley, returning via Dublin and Haywards. This latter is a rough trip part of the way on account of the amount of hill climbing to be done, but it is a very picturesque route.

Later on a trip via Santa Rosa and Mark West Springs through Calistoga and down the Napa Valley. This is a trip taken by but few wheelmen, but it is one of the finest in the State, the roads being excellent, and the fare and treatment at the Springs very fine. "1884."

Illinois Meet.

To be held in Springfield, July 4, 1888.

The citizens of Springfield have subscribed liberally for the affair, and enough financial backing has been secured to make this meet the red letter one of our division.

The programme covers two days, but the meet proper one day.

The first day, July 3d, at 1:30 P. M., racing at Butler's Driving Park; there will be some good events, or at least should be, as the principal prizes will be hand-some ones—two $50 gold medals with diamond centre, and a $30 gold handle silk umbrella, with a number of minor prizes.

At 3:30 there will be a lantern parade of short duration by the local and visiting wheelmen, after which an impromptu smoker will be held.

The second day, Wednesday, July 4, at 8 A. M., will be runs to the different points in and surrounding the city.

9 A. M. Business meeting in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol, after which we are expected to act as escort to the citizen's parade.

1:30 P. M. A run to the extensive grounds of the Springfield Fishing Club at Cedar Lake. This is by far the handsomest, private fishing grounds in the State, and through N. H. Van Sicken, our C. C., we have been invited to visit these grounds. The members of the club will be on hand with their ladies to extend their well-known hospitality to the visitors.

The grounds are distant from the city about eight miles, over good dirt roads, with a fair sprinkling of hills to break the monotony of the ride.

Impromptu runs can be organized, and guides will be furnished to show the roads to the surrounding towns, should any of the visitors desire to go.

9 P. M. The banquet tendered to the members of the Illinois Division, L. A. W., it is hoped that all who come will arrange their stay so as to attend this the principal event of our Meet. Some good speakers and good music is promised, and the "entertainment committee" are sparing no pains or expense to make this a grand success.

It is unnecessary to praise our fine pavements, so bring your wheel and try our thirty odd miles of cedar blocks. Rain cannot spoil our Meet, as we can ride in ten minutes after the most severe storm.

All, or any League members, of the neighboring Divisions are invited to be with us and we will entertain as best we can. It is hoped that St. Louis will send some of her "first-class men" or Chicago will sweep everything. A nominal fee of fifty (50) cents will be charged as entrance money to those who desire to enter any of the races, and the chairman, S. M. Clarke, will furnish full information in regard to events, etc. Entries must be all in by noon of July 2d, 1888.

All members who wish can secure rooms at any of the hotels in advance by writing the chairman, Thomas F. Sheridan, of the Reception Committee. All railroads have a fare of one-half for July 3d to 7th to Springfield on account of the monster celebration of the city.

For further particulars address the General Secretary, W. S. Reed.

For the Capital City Cycling Club,
W. S. REED, Secretary.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 29 JUNE, 1888.

WE understand that a suggestion was made by certain members of the League during their visit to Washington to make a formal address to President Cleveland, setting forth the L. A. W.'s strong points, aims and objects, especially as looking to improved highways. The idea was a good one, and we are rather sorry it was allowed to slip by. The moral effect might be good.

THE WORLD has always held to the idea that because a man rode a wheel of some description it was not any reason why he should be allowed a special dispensation permitting him to depart from his usual gentlemanly deportment and play the role of a barbarous Yahoo or a North End rowdy. Men will be boys, and sometimes the savage gets the upper hand in our make-up, and causes us to do things and perform acts which in our thoughtful moments we are ashamed of. If men, however, feel the Yahoo nature rising in them, if they are conscious that the instincts of a North End rowdy are getting the upper hand, then it behooves them to hie themselves to spots where the Yahoo flourishes and the North End revels. There are times and places for everything, and whether the hour of 8 P. M. is the time, and the public corridors of a first-class hotel is the place for a supposed refined and civilized being to air the Yahoo and rowdy element that for the time has possession of him, is a question our readers can decide as well as we can. It is a painful fact that there is too much of this outrageous disregard for other people's feelings among cyclists. A case in point is that of an extremely good hotel not one hundred miles from Salem, Mass., the proprietor of which has actually taken the stand that he does not want the cyclists' patronage because of the conduct of a certain class of rural rowdies, and city cubs who have made themselves obnoxious to the decent, respectable guests of his hotel. The trouble is that the odium of such conduct falls on all alike. Taking it for argument's sake that five per cent. of riders are of the obnoxious class, the other ninety-five per cent. must suffer. It takes a very small percentage of any club or class to bring disrepute on their more respectable associates or kind. When comes to pass that through the savagery of a few cyclists, all who wear shorts and ride a bicycle are looked on askance, it is about time to take some measures to stop such exhibitions. For our part we should like to see every club and the League make a rule to expel any member who has been found guilty of any act unbecoming a gentleman, and if the prancing round the halls of a hotel at an early hour in the evening in scant attire, insulting the servants of a hotel and drenching the beds of lady guests with water, is not unbecoming in a gentleman, then we would like to know what is. Heretofore charity has kept our pen quiet to a certain extent, but hereafter when any well established case of a breach of the rules that govern common, decent behavior comes to our knowledge we shall not hesitate to handle the matter without gloves, and hold up the culprits to the contumely they richly deserve.

THE LADY OF THE TRIKE.

ON magic wheels
She swiftly steals
O'er paths her fancy striking;
Beware the maid
Thus early strayed,
On dewy roads a-triking.
As on she whirls,
This queen of girls,
The rosy light is gleaming
O'er face so bright,
A tempting sight,
'Twould set a hermit dreaming.
The morning mist
The wild rose kissed,
And sweet its perfume rising;
Her light wheels sweep
'Gainst flowers asleep,
That wake with sweet surprising.
'Twas chance, no doubt,
That brought you out,
For early morning biking;
'Tis tempting fate,
You'd best be late,
When my lady goes a-triking.

NEW JERSEY DIVISION POSTPONEMENT.

(Special to the World.)

AFTER consultation between Dr. Cooley, Chief Consul, and committee from Orange Wanderers, it was decided to postpone the annual meet of the New Jersey Division from 4th July to 14th and 15th September. The programme will be an exhaustive one; runs and races on the Roseville track, and hill-climbing contests in variety. Big riders and big prizes. Orange Wanderers' five-mile handicap race on Roseville track, 5.30 P. M., July 3. RATCHET. Newark, N. J., June 27, 1888.

THE NEW CASTLE BICYCLE CLUB PROGRAMME.

THE races to be given by the New Castle (Pa.) B. Club, July 4, will comprise the following events:

On Jefferson Street Hill, 10.30 A. M., sharp—Hill-climbing contest.

At Wheelmen's Park, 2.30 P. M.—One mile, novice; quarter mile, State championship; one mile, open; 3.30 class, one mile; half mile, national L. A. W. championship; half mile, boys under 15; quarter mile, open; one-mile, State championship; two mile, lap race; 3 minute class, one mile; quarter mile, boys under 12; one mile, Rover type safety; half-mile, open.

NOTE.—Novice and 3.30 classes for machines weighing not less than thirty pounds. Class races must be won within ten seconds of the limit, and open races as below, or no prize will be awarded: Quarter mile, 45s.; one mile, 3.10; half mile, 1.35; two miles, 6.30.

Special circumstances requiring any change in limits will be announced from Judge's stand.

Special rates at hotels have been secured for visiting wheelmen. Entries close July 2; fee, fifty cents. Address C. L. White, New Castle, Pa.

CHICAGO ITEMS.

I LEARN from good authority that the Chicago Club are about to issue a road book showing important roads and routes in this vicinity. This book will certainly fill a long felt want, as nothing of the kind has been obtainable heretofore. The book will contain several desirable and expensive maps, and all information will be condensed as much as possible. The club is to be congratulated for having taken this step, and the book will certainly meet with a ready sale at fifty cents per copy. The greater part of the road information is the result of five or six years of personal touring by the various members of the club, chief of whom is Burley Ayers, who is a guide book of himself. The Chicagoans have withdrawn their rule restricting their rooms to the use of members only, at the request of many outsiders, who find the rooms very convenient for spending a half hour after dinner. The club rooms are now open to every one, and wheelmen will find papers, pool table, cards, smoking and wash rooms at their disposal.

The Illinois Cycling Club had a run to Wheeling on the 11th that was fairly well attended.

The South Side Tricycle Club will hold a picnic at Riverdale on the Fourth, with perhaps a week's outing in Waukegan County, Wis., later in July.

SPOONER, of the Lincoln Cycling Club, is developing considerable speed of late. On the 10th he won the five-mile road race of his club in remarkably good time.

A LARGE party of Chicago riders will start June 30th to wheel from here to Peoria in three days, taking the night train at Peoria, arriving in Springfield the morning of the 3d.

The general impression is that Winship should not have accepted the time medal in the Pullman race, as the admittedly confused timing made a decision impossible where the times were so close as were his and Van Sicklen's.

The Chicago Division of the Illinois L. A. W. had a combined run to Pullman on Sunday, the 17th. The heat was intense, but the turnout was large, though it might have been much larger had proper notice of the run been given, many wheelmen not knowing that it was to take place.

It is reported that Winship has challenged Van Sicklen to contest another race over the Pullman course. Under the present circumstances it is thought that Van will pay no attention to such a challenge. Van holds the record now, and intends to hold it. Whether he can do it successfully or not remains to be seen. Those who know him of old have great faith in his grit and staying qualities.

The Illinois State Division meet to be held in Springfield July 3d and 4th has every promise of eclipsing all former efforts in this direction in the West. We have been tendered the freedom of the city, will have the use of the Senate Chamber in the $4,000,000 Capitol for the division meeting, and goodness knows how many other things we are to have. A good time is assured, and the wheelman who misses it will—well, miss it.

The re-instatement of Geo. Hendee is looked for by the many friends that he made while here. His application for League membership has been presented, it being announced by him that he has permanently retired from the race track. Phil Hammel is another one of our old racing men who would like to return to the fold, and I think he should be allowed to do so, as Phil was never a professional at heart. [He has been taken back—Ed.]

I NOTICE a glowing account of how Lumsden rode the "Sand Patch" in the Pullman race. If he did ride it he certainly showed poor judgment, as one can walk at a faster pace and with much less exertion than when riding. The correspondent who states that Lumsden is the first cyclist to ride through this "wheelmen's Jonah" was mistaken. Joe Powell and Hal Greenwood are both reported to have ridden it some years ago; the actual credit of having first ridden it under ordinary conditions undoubtedly belongs to Thorne. Van Sicklen and Burley Ayers have since "got the hang" of it.

hand and a time-table in the other.

FRED BOWERS and Charles Wicht are in hard training for their race at the millers' picnic, Saturday.

LAST Sunday E. J. Hale, Colie Bell, Geo. Bartlett, W. J. Reid, A. M. Buchanan and Chas. Wicht went to Wayzata, and returned by way of Minnetonka Mills. It being 90 degrees in the shade no fast riding was indulged in. At Wayzata, Hale and Bell had a little hill climbing contest, but both came in a "dead heat," as usual. They tried the hill back of Wayzata, and found it not only being steep, but also sandy, especially at the top. From Wayzata to Minnetonka Mills, Hale and Bell beat the other men about twenty minutes. It is only a matter of five miles, but it took the first-named an even hour to make it. The road is through dense woods, and is not traveled enough to get it smooth. Buchanan was taken with the cramps before he got to Wayzata, but he very pluckily held out until they got back to the city. He declared he would never ride a bicycle any more, or take part in any more of the club runs, but Thursday night he was around at the club rooms trying to find some one to take a spin down to St. Paul to see the ball game. Speaking about ball games reminds me that President Roach of the Standard Bicycle Club, of St. Paul, was here the other day and wanted to know "when we wanted to play ball." The boys down there had seen the little note that I had put in one of my letters, and had worked themselves up to fever heat about it. The Minneapolis cyclists will have to play ball now, or take water.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET."

THE Baltimore tourists who started from this city and Orange, had a sad experience, according to all accounts. The woes of the Orange Wanderers are thus covered by the Orange Chronicle, 23 June: "The Orange Wanderers had a rough experience in their century run on Saturday last. Twenty-one men started from the club house at 4.50 A. M., and got along well enough until Elizabeth was reached. Then mud eight inches deep was struck and the fun began. Seven of the men gave up, and the remaining fourteen reached Rahway three-quarters of an hour late. New Brunswick was reached over an hour too late for breakfast. Two more men dropped out. The roads began to dry up, and Princeton was reached in good time. They then ran into a series of terrific thunder showers. They rode through three and were drenched to the skin. They reached the outskirts of Trenton and laid up over two hours in a brick yard shed, half famished. They were then half a mile from their hotel, where dinner was awaiting their arrival. The hotel was reached three and a half hours later. At Trenton ten took a train to Philadelphia and six went on to the L. A. W. meet at Baltimore. They returned on Wednesday. The married members of the club were much impressed with the lady bicycle riders. One member, while in company with one of the fair riders, became so oblivious of the surroundings that his machine ran into a rut, and he took a header, resulting in breaking up his wheel and himself. The club will make another attempt in the fall."

CHARLES STENKEN stopped at the University track in Philadelphia, to practice on his way to Baltimore, and beat the record on that track in 2.51 1-5.

The latest rumor in this vicinity is that a 24-hour hill-climbing contest is to be arranged, the battle ground to be Eagle Rock. I hope, however, that we will see many moons before such a scheme assumes a tangible shape.

THE one-third of a mile bicycle handicap at the Orange Athletic Club's games on the Roseville cycling grounds, 23d, was won by Harry A. Wolcot (scratch), in 57 1-4s.; W. Keck (30 yards), second, 59 1-4s. C. Henning, H. S. Baker, 30 yards each, also started. Wolcot won the two-mile handicap from scratch, in 7m. 19s.; Keck, second.

THE Oranges will be the scene of a big blow out on Independence Day. The New Jersey Division, L. A. W., will hold its annual business meeting in the morning; have a parade after dinner, and later in the afternoon hold a grand race meet on the famous Roseville track. When it is announced that the Orange Wanderers have the affair in hand, it is safe to wager that it will be a success.

Athletic Club, at Bergen Point, July 4, will be the cycling events, six of which are on the programme. The quarter-mile cinder track is pronounced excellent. The races will begin at 1.30 P. M., and with "Jonah" Wetmore as prime manager, are bound to be successful. The events will be open to all amateurs riding machines weighing 35 pounds or over; entrance fee, 50 cents for each event; entries close June 28. The programme announces a one-mile novice, two-mile novice, one-mile for members of N. J. A. C., one-mile handicap, two-mile handicap, one-mile consolation. First and second prizes will be awarded in each event. I understand the Plainfield B. Club will decide their club championship on the grounds, but cannot state it for a fact.

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING-FOOT."

THE great lantern parade of the Kings County Wheelmen took place on the evening of Thursday, the 21st inst. The line formed on Brevort Place, right resting on Bedford avenue opposite the club house, which was gaily decorated with lines of Japanese lanterns depending from the balconies to the street, and arching the street between the electric poles. The members of the Brooklyn Ladies' Tricycle Club were gallantly given the right of line immediately after the Marshal, Captain M. L. Bridgeman, and the pace-makers, Messrs. Douglass and Hibsen. Following the ladies, came the Kings County Wheelmen, seventy strong; the Brooklyn B. Club, seventy men; the Universal Cycling Club, forty men; and a large number of unattached riders, in all nearly 250 riders. With the Kings County Wheelmen rode Charlie Schwalbach and Eddie Austin, as they were familiarly called, mounted on a tandem over which was raised an immense Japanese umbrella, surmounting the top and hanging from the points of which were seven large lanterns. The rig presented a very beautiful appearance, but, as Charlie afterward said, "it was blankish hot." The route was down Bedford avenue to Division avenue and return. The sidewalks were crowded with the usual number of "fair ones," and the favorites, especially the pace-makers, received generous applause. After the parade the club received its friends at the club house, where an elegant spread and entertainment were provided. The Brooklyn small boy was more than usually present, and but for the presence of the police would have precipitated several murders before the start. The police were, in fact, more than usually efficient, which is probably attributable to the presence of Superintendent Campbell, who is as ambitious as anybody to be known as one of the boys.

THE Universal Cycling Club is commencing to attract notice not only by the large numbers it turns out, but by the excellence of their riding.

MESSRS. IRWIN and Ebbets, of the Huntington Bicycle Club, took a little trip to Brooklyn on Saturday, having been entertained in the meantime by the Brooklyn B. Club.

THE Brooklyn Ladies' Tricycle Club enjoyed their first moonlight club run down to Coney Island and return Wednesday night (20), with several gentlemen to accompany them, and although some of the ladies were somewhat tired by the length of the trip, they are still as enthusiastic as ever. In the fall they expect to increase the membership very largely.

THE probability is that this month will be a monumental one in the way of records on the road. Within the past two weeks a number of centuries have been made besides the great century, and of course the latter will bring up the club records very materially. The mileage of the Brooklyn's aggregation, on the century alone, will foot up nearly 520 miles.

THE Brooklyn Bicycle Club will hold their club road championship races on the Fourth of July, and their one-mile novice and one-mile championship races on the Queens track on the same day. In addition to these the following races will be run on the Queens track on the Fourth: One-mile novice, roadsters only; two-mile handicap, roadsters only; half-mile, for boys under fifteen; one-mile safety race, and an open event. Particulars later.

A GRAND afternoon parade will be held to-morrow, the 30th, by the Brooklyn B. Club, assisted by the other clubs from Brooklyn, New York and the island. Captain Spelman expects, weather always permitting, to have very close to 500 wheelmen in line, and judging from the success of the Kings County Wheelmen's parade, there should be nearly if not fully that number. The line of the parade will be as follows: Form on St. Felix street, right on Hanson place, to Flatbush avenue, to Sixth avenue, to Union street, to Henry street, to Montague street, to Clinton street, to Schermerhorn street, to Lafayette avenue, to St. Felix street and the club house, where refreshments will be served. The line moves promptly at 4 P. M. (N. B.—Guests will please be careful not to trample on the luxuriant lawn in the rear of the house.)

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE FOTLIST."

NOT one thousand miles from Biddeford, Me., there lives a journalist who rejoices in the ownership of a bicycle. We say "rejoices," with certain misgivings, as we learn that the bold, bad youths of the town where abideth this scribe, take delight in placing pins, with the business end up, in the saddle of the newspaper man. We are further informed that the same evil-disposed youths take fiendish delight in capturing the aforesaid bicycle and hiding it away while the newsgatherer is "inside" somewhere "seeing a man," or in search of the evasive, though toothsome item. The last adventure of this character occurred a few days ago, and after having spent half a day looking for the missing wheel, and having discovered it on the awning of a store he took a seat upon a flour barrel in front of the store, and as he wiped the perspiration from his face with an office bandana, he fell into a meditation upon the many advantages of owning a bicycle, and as his thoughts reverted to the occasion he vaulted into his saddle which was bristling with pins, a look of quiet determination settled upon his face, which somehow seemed to convey to those who were watching him the impression that his bicycle could be bought very cheap.

THE Columbia Club, of North Attleboro' Mass., clambaked and base balled at the annual field day of the club last week. The two nines, actives and associates, scored 78 runs in five innings!! National League manager will please take notice.

THE parade at Springfield, Mass., last Friday proved a great success. There were over 175 men in line. The Springfield Club turned out twenty-three men; the Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Club, twenty-eight men. So pleased were the participants that they want the promoters to get up a lantern parade.

THE Wethersfield, (Ct.) bicycle Club road race, June 22, was a grand success. Mr. Frank Morton started the five who compose the youngest riders of the club, the older ones acting as pacemakers. C. H. Hammer took the lead immediately and held it, not being headed once; W. H. Warner started last, and was in the rear when passing Amidon's corner, but finished second. The time of each was: C. H. Hammer, 5m. 45s.; W. H. Warner, 5m. 50s.; C. W. Fenn, 6m.; T. B. Dix, 6m. 4s.; V. J. Bailey, 6m. 7s.; distance one one-half miles.

THE Rhode Island Division may not be large, but it is lively, and its members are workers, if we may judge from the following clipping: "Messrs. Dole, Bennett and Gibbs rose bright and early the other morning and loaded with the new League road boards, plastered the available poles and trees along the highways with them. Chief Consul Davol and the Warren wheelmen have, some time since, set up the boards over their route, and the work of signposting the principal highways of the State is now nearly completed." There is a moral and hint here that "those who run can read."

A CURIOUS case is now being heard in the Supreme Court at New Haven, Conn. It seems that John C. Thompson, the plaintiff, used to keep a rubber and bicycle store on Orange street, and bought goods of the Beacon Valley company on credit and to sell on commission. When he failed he had returned some goods to the manufacturers and the rest were turned over to the trustee. The Beacon Valley Rubber Company, by its attorney, Mr. Sweeney, of Naugatuck, induced City Attorney Cable to issue a prosecution against Thompson for embezzlement. After a lengthy trial Thompson was acquitted by the city court, and he at once brought suit, claiming $5000 damages. It was tried by a jury in the superior court last spring and a verdict was given for the defendant. Mr. Thompson appealed to the courts, where it is now being tried.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

WHEN cyclers ride on the sidewalk in defiance of the law and pedestrians' rights, and when the same individuals, on being remonstrated with, retort "I don't care a hang for the law," then it is time that the law step in and make these sidewalk fiends care just a little bit. These remarks are prompted by reading a certain item in the Rochester (N. Y.) Union.

SEVENTY-SIX races, sixty-two firsts, eight seconds, and two dead heats is Temple's racing record during the period of his stay in Europe.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., will hold a tournament August 6th. We will give particulars more in detail later.

AN exchange says "the hill-climbing cranks are hard at it." Yes, the "cranks" are at it, and so are the "levers."

MR. WELLS warns riders against the danger of over-doing in hill climbing. Men with no training or not having proper physiques are in danger of over-exerting.

THE Crawfordsville, Ind., meet on July 4th is an assured fact as the quarter-mile track is completed. An attractive programme is arranged, and the mile State championship will be run. All wheelmen are cordially invited.

THE Fort Dayton Wheelmen, of Herkimer, N. Y., will hold their first race meeting at the Herkimer Driving Park on July 4th. The value of prizes will aggregate $200. The track is fine, and the prospects for a successful meeting is good.

IF there is one thing more than another that delights the heart of the Pennsylvania Club man it is to scorch some unfortunate member or members of another club. Perhaps the Washington men can tell us something about this peculiar trait?

MR. HOWARD M. WHITE, of Trenton, claims the honor of being the only Trenton wheelman who accomplished the century run from Newark to Philadelphia on the 16th. He does not understand why his name was omitted from the list of those who went through.

THE statistics of club representation in the parade at Baltimore as published in the Baltimore papers and reprinted in our New York contemporary contain some glaring errors. For instance the Boston Club is credited with 45 men, while in reality there were only three or four.

MR. R. PHILIP GORMULLY, President of the Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co., of Chicago, was in Boston last week, and we regret that when he called at the office to see us we were out. Mr. Gormully left the torrid climate of Boston last Saturday for the more moderate latitude of Chicago.

CAPTAIN KENDALL, of the Boston Club, is getting up a complimentary run in honor of ex-Captain Whitney. The destination and dining place will be Great Head House, Winthrop. Associate members will take the B. R. B. & L. R. R. R. J. Tombs will pilot the associates.

AN English Bishop, anxious to obtain statistics about his clergy, sends a blank form to the church wardens, among which the question of "what carriage and general deportment does Mr. —, your Vicar possess?" The answer on one of the blanks came back: "Our Vicar, Rev. Mr. —, does not own a carriage, he only has a tricycle," etc., etc.

THE English papers seem to look on the fashion of members of clubs passing appropriate resolutions on the death of a fellow member as being "singular." For our part we regard this English view as being something very odd. Is there anything singular in a "family of men" taking some such action on the death of a valued comrade? We certainly fail to see the eccentricity.

LAST week M. S. Grant Tobias, one of our brother wheelmen and also Consul for East Mauch Chunk, while on his way pedalling through East Mauch Chunk suburbs, took a severe header, the consequence of which was a fracture of the right arm above the wrist. Mr. Tobias has our sympathies, and also our congratulations, as he holds accident policies which will well support the arm.

THE California L. A. W. Division nominated the following Division officers' ticket to be voted on at the State annual meet July 4: Edwin Mohrig for Chief Consul; J. Phil Percival, of Los Angeles, for Vice Consul; Alex S. Ireland, of Oakland, for Secretary-Treasurer, and George H. Frost of Pasadena, C. C. Moore of Stockton, and Dr. Thomas L. Hill of San Francisco, for representatives.

OUR friend Page, of St. Louis, is "at it" again. He says that some of the editors of the cycling press do not know how to spell. We wonder if Mr. Page can spell the following words—"insult, apology, crawl." Then again, we asked Mr. Page for the definition of the word "amateur," but up to date he has been unable to define. Will the great censor of the cycle press please answer, and excuse us for living?

THE question as to who is the oldest man in the League is getting to be an interesting one. Certainly our friend, No. 2753, who hails from San Francisco, has a fair lead so far. He writes: "In the 'News and Comment' column of your issue of June 1, I notice a claim by No. 5040 that he is fifty-nine years old and the oldest rider in the L. A. W. I shall be sixty-three years old next August, ride a fifty-inch Xtraordinary, learned to ride in 1880, and have ridden ever since. Perhaps 5040 would be willing to handicap himself enough to make it even between him and No. 2753."

Wheeling gives some interesting accident statistics as to the number of persons killed and injured in the city of London during a period of twelve months. There were 127 killed by vehicles, and nine by cycles; there were 3986 injured, 53 by cycles. This is a fair showing and by no means indicates the cycle as being the limb-breaking, death-dealing machine the general public is fond of representing it.

No. 9760, of Bloomfield, N. J., desires to correct the statement that Coningsby was the first man up Eagle Rock on a crank machine. He says: "Allow me to give a little information for the benefit of those who read in the WORLD of June 8th that Mr. Coningsby's Victor safety was the first crank wheel on which Eagle Rock Hill has ever been climbed. The above statement was incorrect, for it is well known in this vicinity that Mr. R. D. Mead, of Roseville, has frequently climbed the hill on the 48 or 50 inch Harvad he used to ride a couple of years ago, and Mr. D. Oakes, of Bloomfield, succeeded in accomplishing the feat on Thanksgiving Day, 1887, on his 55-inch Regent, the machine put out by Trigwell & Co., of ball head fame. This latter ascent was witnessed by the writer. The hill has been found by measurement with a Lakin Cyclometer to be 61-64 of a mile long, from the sign post at the foot to the top of the last rise, and 7-8 of a mile to the upper bend. I hope we may some day see a statement of the grade, for I believe it has been ascertained."

"RECTUS," of Pittsburg, Pa., sends us the following cutting and comment on same: "A. C. Banker and F. G. Lenz, of the Pittsburg Cycle and Athletic Club, made quite a performance with the wheel yesterday. They left the city at precisely 5 o'clock and ran to Newcastle and back, a distance of 102 miles, in exactly four hours, arriving home at 9 o'clock." The above is an extract from the Pittsburg Times of this date (June 18). Such a performance will take the breath of even our California brethren, for it not only discounts their record, but a rider who can make 25 1-2 miles an hour for four hours on the roads between Pittsburg and New Castle is capable of anything on a track. Is it not wonderful, to say the least, that Messrs. Banker and Lenz do not hold more of our amateur championships? But I would suggest that, before they claim the record they go out ready for fast riding and adopt the plan of Messrs. Brewster, Matthews and Austin, of San Francisco."

THE experience of some of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Club members at the Carrollton, Baltimore, Sunday and Monday evening should be a bitter lesson to these men, and one that should warn others inclined to be too funny. If the men implicated were the only ones hurt we should not care, but such actions as were reported are an absolute harm to cycling, an insult to the League, and a disgrace to the club of which they are members. If the inclinations of club members are of the character generally ascribed to the hoodlum let them choose some more befitting field for their antics than that of a respectable hotel like the Carrollton. It is too bad that a club should suffer for the actions of a few members, but the only way to do is to put the official stamp of its disapproval on those actions, and let the world know that it does not wink at such pranks.

TEMPLE INJURED.

JUST as we go to press we are advised by cable that Temple has been seriously injured at Amsterdam, Holland. He fell from his bicycle on Wednesday last while practising, and was for hours unconscious. No bones were broken, but internal injury is feared.

CALIFORNIA DIVISION MEET.

AT Stockton, Cal., July 4, the State L. A. W. Div. will hold its third annual meet. The list of events—3-mile handicap race, 1-2-mile obstruction race, 20-mile L. A. W. State championship race, 1-mile L. A. W. State championship race, 5-mile national championship race, 1-mile handicap race, 1-mile novice race, 1-4-mile dash, 1-2-mile dash, 1-mile safety race (Rover type), 2-mile handicap race. There will also be a game of base ball, and in the evening trick riding, club drill, and a grand wind up with a dance. One of the crack bands of the State has been secured for the day, and will furnish music at the races and at the ball. The races will be started at 9.30 A. M., and the track on which they are to be run is a fine four-lap track; a writer describes it as being "simply immense."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20.

BRIGHT and clear breaks the morning of the last day of the meet, and many a weary wheelman wonders why he has been called so early. When a man doesn't get to bed until three o'clock in the morning he is apt to fancy that seven is too early an hour to be called out of a comfortable bed. After the busy and exciting day yesterday at the races and the parade, and last, but by no means least of all, the smoker in the evening, there was some difficulty in getting the two club runs off on time, the wheelmen all feeling that a lounge in an easy chair at the various club houses was much pleasanter than mounting the saddle, even though a more delightful morning for a ride never dawned.

The earliest party of wheelmen out yesterday morning was composed of Western riders. Prof. C. H. Stone, the veteran rider, Dr. Keith, Representative F. J. Suda and W. E. Hicks, of the Post Dispatch, put on the St. Louis badges and started out at 5 A. M. for an early breakfast at Captain Mayberry's. They picked up Messrs. Dose, Hills and Schuler, of Chicago; Cowdin, of Delphos, O., and Byers, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and made up quite a party for so early a trip.

It was fully nine o'clock before the party gathered at the Rambler club house to make the run through Druid Hill Park to the Pikesville Arsenal, and under command of Captain Clotworthy, of the Ramblers, some forty or fifty started off by the Pimlico road to Halsted's, where the detachment from the Carrollton were met, and then to the Arsenal, returning by way of the Pikesville road to the city, which was reached in time for dinner and to allow a brief rest before boarding the steamer for the bay trip.

The principal run of the day was the shell road run, and upwards of forty men, under the leadership of Mr. Ehrmann, of the Centaur Club, left the Carrollton about 9.30 to meet the various other detachments. Down North avenue and across to the shell road, where they met the rest, swelling the number to 113; thence the course lay over one of the most famous of the Baltimore cycling routes. Catching now and then a glimpse of the sparkling waters of the bay, and with the firm road bed, which holds never a rut, under their wheels, the pace grew warmer and warmer, until finally, as the enthusiasm grows more intense, down go the heads and "Pennsy" is off on her familiar scorch, with the Centurians right with her. They all string out along the road until Middle River is reached, where, after a short lounge and rest, the wheels are all turned toward Paine's, where a true Maryland soft-crab dinner awaits them, to which such justice is done by the hungry crowd that nine host looks alarmed more than once as he circulates between the kitchen and dining-room. At four o'clock the Columbia swings into the wharf to take the wheelmen and their wheels, white with the peculiar shell road dust, aboard, and as General Agent Webb is in a hurry, they are hustled on board with little ceremony, and the downward journey to the bay is fairly begun. It was fully 3.15 before the steamer left Light street wharf. Long before that hour the wheelmen began arriving, accompanied by their fair friends, and when the fasts were cast off and the gang-planks hauled in there were upwards of fifteen hundred people on board; just enough to fill the boat comfortably without crowding. The day was a perfect one for the excursion, the sun shining brightly, and a cool breeze tempering its rays as the steamer steadily steamed out of the basin into the Patapsco, and toward the open waters of the bay. The committee could have done nothing better calculated to hold enjoyment for the close of the League meet than this trip. Bay Ridge is the Coney Island of Baltimore, and although not of course to be compared with the gay resort of the great metropolis, is still quite interesting to all.

Varied was the crowd on the broad decks of the "Columbia," and a stroll through the throng well repaid the trip. Here is a gentleman, who, to be decidedly swell, has donned a frock coat with his knickerbockers, and—horrors—a high silk hat. To tell the truth, the Baltimore contingent rather played it on the visitors. How, in the name of common sense, could they expect us to carry boiled shirts and stiff collars around with us on the backbones of our machines? Baltimore's fair daughters smiled just as sweetly—if not a little more so—on the strangers as on their old acquaintances.

The manufacturers are well represented. Mr. Hill, of the "Club" wheels, chats with Mr. Gormully, of Chicago, and Jno. A. Wells hob-nobs with Mr. Bassett, while he thinks how soon he will have to tackle Shurman's latest record on Corey Hill, posters of which performance are being posted all over the boat by Mr. McCune. Speaking of manufacturers reminds me that the O. W. Co. had the ladies' parlor at League headquarters engaged, and kept open house for the entertainment of all wheelmen and wheelwomen.

By this time the noble steamer has ploughed her way well down the bay, and the various points of interest are pointed out to the visitors by the Baltimoreans on board, and as a great many of the latter are ladies, it is astonishing to note what interest is taken in the local places. Fort McHenry attracts much attention from the visitors, and one voracious Baltimorean points out the identical flag-staff, from which floated the banner immortalized by Francis Scott Key, and around to the right of the channel the waves still roll above the spot where the masked battery of the fort opened upon the line of barges in which the British were attempting their debarkation, sinking and scattering them with such havoc that the backbone of the attack was then and there broken. Fort Carroll now looms up in the centre of the channel, an uncompleted marble fort, which was begun a number of years ago, and left uncompleted when the experience of the rebellion showing the little value which stone walls possessed against modern guns. Soon we turn into the beautiful Severn and steam up past the academy grounds, past the school ship Constellation and the monitors, to the wharf at Annapolis, where a landing is made to enable us to take a short run through the town and academy grounds and buildings. We are too late for dress parade, but the future admirals of the navy we intend to possess "some day" line the wharf and inspect with critical eyes the pretty girls of the party. Some old brass cannon, with quaint inscriptions in Latin, French and Spanish, adorn the grounds. Death-dealing instruments in their time, they have come to serve no other purpose than to afford speculation for the curious. Half an hour gives very little time, with all there is to be seen in this interesting town, but time is limited, and we back out for Bay Ridge with our party augmented by a number of Washington wheelmen who rode to Annapolis to meet us. An orchestra on the forward main deck discourses all the latest airs, and a piano on the lower deck, operated by my worthy colleague, Mr. Collamer, is furnishing music for those who desire to trip the mazy waltz. Evidently cordial relations have not yet been sufficiently well established between the Baltimore girls and the visitors, for the latter are waltzing with each other while the ladies look on.

Here is Bay Ridge, and now for supper. A grand rush is made for the spacious dining pavilion, and 500 are seated at a time. Evidently our Baltimore hosts have done the thing up in style, judging from the menu. Mr. F. J. Hart, formerly of the Reading restaurant, was the caterer, but he had evidently failed to realize both the number on hand and the extent of a hungry wheelman's appetite, for the service was exasperatingly slow, especially to those unhappy mortals who stood outside gazing through the glass partitions which separated them from their more fortunate brethren within.

All were finally served, however, and the crowd rapidly filtered away, some to the dancing pavilion, where, to the strains of the orchestra, merry feet kept time to the entrancing strains of the music. Turn about was fair play, and those of the gentlemen who showed a desire to monopolize a lady's attention for too long a length of time were unceremoniously hustled to the rear.

Eleven o'clock, and the boat's whistle sounding hoarse and shrill, warns all laggards to hasten, and now she casts off, homeward bound. The night is, by special engagement with the Maryland Division, simply perfect, and as the glorious moon swings up the purple vault, flooding all the horizon and the blue waters with silvery light, one would ask in vain for anything to complete their happiness. So think many of the sentimental couples strolling along the upper decks or hunting the cozy nooks in the shelter of wheel house and cabin, and vainly regretting that the lights of Baltimore are fast looming up in the distance.

After the boat was well on the way home the drawing for the prizes of the "Entertainment Fund" took place under the supervision of the League officials. President Kirkpatrick was placed in general charge, and Secretary-Treasurer Brewster and Chief Consul Hodgson of Louisiana were the auditors, Mr. Davol drawing the tickets. With Chairman Pope's assistance, and the BICYCLING WORLD's representative looking on, the work was rapidly completed, and as the result of the scheme the Maryland Division realized $1951 from this source alone, and the sum went no inconsiderable way toward paying the expenses of the meet. Name of winners are as follows:

First prize, ticket 917—W. B. Rhett, Jersey City.
Second prize, ticket 959—No name given as yet.
Third prize, ticket 2963—C. H. Malleson, Hudson, N. Y.
Fourth prize, ticket 1352—L. P. Clephane, Washington.
Fifth prize, ticket 2954—C. J. Blodgett, Detroit.
Sixth prize, ticket 232—E. T. Mudge, Baltimore.
Seventh prize, ticket 2648, E. C. Rice, Port Deposit, Md.
Eighth prize, ticket 1662—J. W. Smith, Bloom Centre, O.

The great success of the meet is due to the untiring efforts of the committees, assisted by the Baltimore Wheelmen. To Chairmen Mott, Pope and Eisenbrandt, Chief Consul Mealy and Secretary-Treasurer Lockwood, the thanks of your representatives are especially due for many courtesies received and aid extended, and I know that all the visiting wheelmen will carry with them warmest thoughts of Baltimore's hospitality. The arrangements could not have been excelled, and have been rarely equalled. Thanks to you all, our generous hosts.

But here's the wharf, and as the Columbia's wheels cease to revolve and as she brings up to the wharf, the Ninth Annual Meet of the League of American Wheelmen is a thing of the past. Now before I lay down my weary pencil, allow me space for just one question: "What's the matter with Philadelphia in 1889?"

"ARIEL."

THE VISIT TO WASHINGTON.

I WANT to preface this letter with the hope that my readers will pardon any outbreak, or display of too great pride in or consciousness of the most royal way in which the D. C. Division treated the visitors from the late Baltimore meet on Thursday last. Be it understood, although I am one of the D. C. members myself, I did no work in the interests of the League until that day in the afternoon—and then only a very little; so it is not egotism in the singular number, but rather a general spirit of loyalty, to our little Division of 108 members (a slim score or so of whom bore the burden of the labor), that animates my pen.

By various trains, Thursday, came from Baltimore—including V. P. Hayes, Secretary Bassett, S. C. Bull, and many other notables. As fast as they arrived they were conducted to the (now unused) rink, where facilities were afforded for a good wash. At 12.30 a lunch of sandwiches, crackers, punch, lemonade, soft drinks, and (yes) beer was served to the hungry and thirsty; and at 1 Chief Consul Atwater piloted the boys through the public buildings, including Treasury, State, War and Navy Departments, Corcoran Art Gallery, Smithsonian and National Museums, and Capitol. Then back again for more refreshments, and another wash, and next a VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT, in which over two hundred took part. Grover received us cordially, shook hands with each, smiled on all—especially those who murmured Buffalo—and bowed low to the ladies. A D. C. Div. and a Baltimore Cycle Club badge adorned his ample breast when the line had passed him, and he expressed himself greatly pleased with the gentlemanly bearing of the wheelmen. A previous admonition not to let off any "What's the matter with Grover?" or the like, probably had the happy result of prepossessing the next (?) President greatly in favor of the cyclers as a national body. I wish we had had a whack at each of the aspirants for nomination, as Republican candidate, now still wrangling at Chicago, especially Harrison, whom I believe will be the man, in order that if by any lucky chance one of them should supplant the genial Grover, he too would have already been induced to look upon us as coming voters, whose support and good will was not to be sneezed at.

SOME THREE HUNDRED VISITORS

The boys were then photographed, and taken to a local brewery, where the

was done by the genial Teutonic proprietor, Mr. Henrich, to the full satisfaction of the riders, who were much thirsty; then back to the rink for still more refreshments. Thus far the trip to Washington had not cost the boys a cent, and they showed their appreciation of the character as well as the cheapness of the entertainment, by carrying off Atwater on their shoulders, and shouting till they were hoarse. At last the tired and hot crowd dispersed to their several hotels for dinner, and at 8.30 they again met, this time at Willard's Hall, for the SMOKER AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Cigars and cigarettes were freely distributed and lit; and as soon as the crowd of happy chatting wheelmen were puffing away right merrily, in marched the Kazoo Band of the Capital Club. This band is something novel. The boys have glued common little Kazoos into mouthpieces on one end, and flaring trumpet pieces on the other, making instruments of all sizes and shapes. Singing into the mouthpiece causes a loud noise, resembling blowing on a paper covered comb, as we have all done in our younger days. Well, it took immensely. They played piece after piece, solos, trios, quartettes, and whole choruses. Hubbard Smith was leader, and officiated at the piano, with Seely, Edmands, Boteler, Rice, Allen and Miller as musicians.

Later "Hub" sung his own composition, "Listen to my Tale of Woe," now so popular throughout the country; and was repeatedly encored. Then Boteler sung "Sweetheart," in touching falsetto. Next a lively boxing match, between Messrs. French and Hilton, claimed attention, and finally the same athletes gave two beautiful rounds of wrestling.

This concluded Washington's effort to entertain the League visitors, in a small way, and fresh from the grander efforts of Baltimore and the whole Maryland Division. We only had a few of the whole number, and only one day to do them up in, but we did our best. Oh yes, there was a run to Soldiers Home about 6 P. M., and another to Cabin John's Bridge, which I forgot, because such are chestnuts to us now; and then after the Smoker a few saw Washington by moonlight, and marveled at the sub rosa of the great Capital. They'll not forget Washington and her beautiful concrete streets for many a day, and we trust the Washington boys will also find a warm corner in many grateful hearts. Come again boys, come often, come soon, and welcome! N. L. COLLAMER.

THE BUFFALO TRACK.

A GLANCE at the above cut will show perfection in shape. Given the fact that Mr. Ducker has been given carte blanc so far as space and money is concerned, and it can readily be seen that the result would be as fine a track as money and experience can produce. The track is an absolute dead level, and is an exact half mile. The material used will be that which will produce the hardest and smoothest possible surface. When finished it will no doubt be the finest and fastest bicycle track in the world. However, when we say it will excel Springfield we cannot say more.

The Fair Association is a corporation with $500,000 capital, and its grounds and building will cost $450,000. In their September fair they offer $100,000 in premiums, the largest by far of any fair in the United States. In addition, they offer numerous other attractions worth going miles to see, viz: The great painting, "Christ before Pilate," "The Russian Wedding Scene," and numerous other attractions costing thousands of dollars. To cap the whole, they been induced to spend upwards of $10,000 on a tournament, and wish to make it a grand success. To visit the tournament costs nothing additional, as the one admission (fifty cents) to the fair includes the tournament, so that it can readily be seen what is offered at a low price.

Every effort is being made by the management to secure reduced rates on the railroads and also at the hotels. There is no doubt but that the Buffalo tournament of 1888 will excel anything of the kind ever before attempted in this or any other country. That we shall have a large foreign racing contingent composed of the flower of the profession, together with the fact that the Americans will be back to dispute the supremacy of the foreigner, will be of sufficient interest alone to secure an immense amount of interest. It is also hoped that some of England's best amateurs will come over to try conclusions with our American cracks.

THE BUFFALO TOURNAMENT.

BELOW we present the programme of the Buffalo World's Tournament to be held next September. As will be seen from the programme, it contains thirty races, divided as follows: Twelve professionals, eighteen amateurs, and contains open, class, handicap and novice races. There are seven open races, eight championships, nine handicaps, three class, two novice, and one consolation. Total number of miles run first day, thirty-two; second, thirty-one; third, thirty. There are four races for tandems, three for tricycles, seventeen bicycles and six for Rover type of wheels.

In addition to the programme, there will be a team race, Rochester versus Buffalo, six men each; also a race for championship of the city, and a challenge race, Crist versus Kluge. In addition there will be fancy riding by Ralph Temple, and club drills by men from Cleveland, Rochester and Buffalo. On the first day of the meeting there will be a large parade of wheelmen, under the auspices of the State Division L. A. W.

THE Irish Cyclist and Athlete states that "Aluminium cycles is the latest idea!" That we should live to have this bald headed, wrinkled, old chestnut served up to us as "the latest."

In order to get at the variety of wheels in line the Union had special blanks distributed, and succeeded in getting returns from 150 of the riders. That some estimate of the variety and number of wheels of different makes in line may be obtained, a full list and description of the wheels is given as far as they were reported. It is as follows:

RHODE ISLAND WHEELMEN'S RACES.

THE second series of races of the Rhode Island Wheelmen, at Roger Williams Park, were held Thursday, June 21. More cyclists were present than during any previous meet in that vicinity.

In the one-mile race for the club championship and a silver cup, George Hutchins won in the fastest amateur time ever made in Rhode Island, defeating B. J. Bruce by one second. Time, 2:57 1-5. The other winners were:

Half-mile, Rover type—E. R. Phillips; time, 1:21.

Half-mile open race—E. R. Phillips; 1:28.

Tandem, one-mile—Hutchins and Tucker; 3:15.

Half-mile tricycle—C. H. Weld; 1:52 2-5.

Two-mile lap race—B. T. Bruce, E. R. Phillips and William Miller. Bruce made nine points and finished first. Phillips also had nine points, and Miller three. Both Bruce and Phillips claimed the first prize, and they decided to refer it to the L. A. W. for a decision. Bruce claims that as the race was on points, and that as he finished first on an equal number of laps he should have a chance to run the race over again.

RACE MEETING OF THE KINGS COUNTY WHEELMEN.

THE Kings County Wheelmen held their annual race meeting on Saturday afternoon, the 23d inst., on the grounds of the Brooklyn Athletic Association. The afternoon was intensely hot, and the indications of a severe storm were so marked that there was small hopes of holding the races at all, but it passed over, and was hotter than ever. The attendance was fair, in fact a large proportion, very fair, and the music a little better than usual.

First race, one-mile novice, open; won by L. H. Wise, L. I. W.; second, R. W. Steves, K. C. W. Time, 3:19 2-5; six starters out of seven entries, Mr. F. C. Gilbert, Elizabeth Wheelmen, having been ruled out as no longer a novice, having won a race at the Baltimore Meet. F. N. Burgess, of the Rutherford Wheelmen, took a header on the backstretch without much damage. Prizes: First, gold medal; second, K. O. R. lamp.

Second race, one-mile handicap, open; won by R. L. Jones, K. C. W., 90 yards; Wm. Schumacher, L. I. W., 80 yards, second, in a field of nine starters out of twenty-two entries, the race being consolidated into one heat. Morehouse, the limit man, with 125 yards, held the lead for the first lap only, when he was passed by Jones, who was never headed. Prizes: First, Smith & Wesson revolver; second, silver headed umbrella. Time, 2:57.

Third event, half-mile without hands, open, won by F. F. Storm, Jr., K. C. W., beating J. W. Schoefer, B. B. C., his only opponent, easily. Mr. Storm's riding of his Star was something remarkable. Prizes: First, pair gold sleeve buttons; second, pair of bicycle shoes. Time, 1:49 2-5.

Fourth event, one and four-fifths miles, team relay race, won by the Long Island Wheelmen's team, Messrs. Kreger, Schumacher and Wise, in 5:37 1-5. The K. C. W. took second and the Brooklyns, third. This race instead of being run as is usual in team races was run by relays of fresh men, each contestant riding three-fifths of a mile. As the Representative from each club finished his allotment, the waiting man took his place as near as possible and continued the race. The prize was a handsome brass stand lamp.

Fifth race, one-mile club novice, won by R. W. Stevens, in a field of four starters, on the last stretch, in 3:16 4-5. F. F. Storm, Jr., second. Prize: Gold medal.

Sixth race, three-mile State L. A. W. Championship. This was the best and most exciting race of the whole meeting. The starters were Wilson, Brown and King, of the K. C. W.; Schoefer and Bardley, of the Brooklyns; and Kreger, of the L. I. W. For a mile and a half Wilson made the pace to the tune of 3:19 3-5 for the mile, and on the ninth lap Kreger took the lead and was never headed, winning the race in 10:01 2-5. Second place went to Schoefer, after a brilliant burst on the last lap, beating Wilson by a few feet only. The prizes were gold and silver medals to first and second respectively, the former having a diamond ornament.

The seventh race was a half-mile boys race, and was won by L. A. Schoefer. Time, 1:49 2-5, creating a good deal of amusement by the way the boys carried out the directions of their elder advisers. They rode like "old stagers," and when young Louis Schoefer crossed the line a winner, the Brooklyn boys on the grand stand yelled in chorus, "He rides just like his brother, John."

Eighth race, half-mile handicap foot race, was won by W. H. Roberts, B. A. A., with 35 yards start, in 2:03 3-5. Prizes: Gold and silver medals.

Ninth race, three-mile handicap, open. Starters: Wilson, K. C. W., 60 yards; Borland, B. B. C., 300 yards; H. L. Bradley, B. B. C., 75 yards; F. W. Montgomery, U. C. C., 300 yards. Wilson made a plucky race, but was not able to catch Boland, who won, Wilson second. Time, 10:02 3-5. Prizes: Handsome marble clock and brass hat rack with mirror, to first and second, respectively.

Tenth event, one-mile ride and run, won by H. A. Kellum, of Brooklyn, with W. H. Cauldwell, of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, second. Time, 4:28 3-5.

The eleventh race was the final one of the meeting, and as usual was a consolation race, with a big field of starters. Distance, one mile, won by W. F. Murphy, K. C. W., after a very close finish by three or four men in the first bunch, F. G. Brown, K. C. W., second. Time, 3:18 1-5. Prize: Racing suit, presented by A. G. Spaulding & Bro.

Counting only open events, the K. C. W. took three firsts, five seconds; the L. I. W. took three firsts and one second; the Brooklyn took one first and two seconds.

WING-FOOT.

A BATCH OF ENGLISH RECORDS.

From Bicycling News we cut the following:
At Coventry on Wednesday, June 13, the bicycle and tricycle records received a severe shaking. The evening was fine, and the track in good condition. A number of spectators were attracted in hopes of seeing a good performance, and were certainly well rewarded for their attendance.

ONE-MILE SAFETY RECORD.

A. P. Engleheart, mounted as usual, on a Brooke's rear-driving safety, the "Record," was first to attempt a record performance. Mr. Sturmev acted as starter, and with H. G. Crocker, of the Yankee team, making pace, Engleheart covered his first quarter in 40 4-5s. Knapp, of the Yankee team, then took him in hand. The time for half-distance being 1m. 18 1-5s., 1-5s. inside the previous record. The three-quarter mile time was 1m. 55s., and the full time for the mile, 2m. 33s., his last lap occupying 38s., beating the recent record made by F. W. Allard by 4 1-5s., and Howell ordinary professional record of 2m. 35 4-5s.

SIX TO TEN MILES SAFETY RECORDS.

E. Oxborow, mounted on a "Rudge Bicycleette" scaling a shade under 20lbs., was the next to attempt record. Starting off with Howell as pacemaker, Oxborow covered one mile in 2m. 46 4-5s., and alternately paced by Robb, Howell and Vale, he got amongst the records at six miles, his times being—

Miles.	M. S.	Previous Safety Records.
6	16 36 3-5	17 34 4-5
7	19 25	20 30
8	22 9 2-5	23 21
9	24 57 1-5	26 27 4-5
10	27 38 4-5	29 24 3-5

Oxborow, riding a safety, now holds the best English professional bicycle records from six to ten miles.

NINE TO NINETEEN MILES TRICYCLE RECORDS AND THE HOUR RECORD.

A few minutes before eight o'clock Messrs. S. F. Edge, Anerly, B. C., and J. B. King, L. A. C., decided to have another try to lower Gatehouse's tricycle records made at Long Eaton as far back as August 26th, 1886. Starting off slowly, Edge leading, the first mile was covered in 3m. 1 2-5s., the second in 5m. 57 1-5s., third 8m. 55s., fourth 11m. 48 2-5s., fifth 14m. 42 3-5s., sixth 17m. 38 2-5s., seventh 20m. 30 2-5s. Seven and a-half miles from the start Edge twisted the front fork of his machine, and was compelled to retire, greatly to his disappointment, as he was riding in wonderful form. King, keeping up a steady pace, covered the eight miles in 23m. 23s., and from this time lowered the record as follows:—

Miles.	M. S.	Previous Record.
9	26 16 3-5	26 25 2-5
10	29 10 2-5	29 26 1-5
11	32 9 2-5	32 24 2-5
12	35 6 2-5	35 24 1-5
13	38 7 2-5	38 24 4-5
14	41 9 1-5	41 23 4-5
15	44 17 1-5	44 23 4-5
16	47 15 2-5	47 16 3-5
17	50 15 2-5	50 18 1-5
18	53 16 1-5	53 22 1-5
19	56 14 4-5	56 15 4-5

King's twenty miles' time was 59m. 13 3-5s.—3s. behind Gatehouse's record—but putting in a fast lap, he succeeded in covering 480 yards before the hour was up, thus doing 20 miles 480 yards in the hour, twenty yards ahead of the distance covered by Gatehouse. Mr. R. E. Phillips (official timekeeper National Cyclists' Union), assisted by Mr. Sturmev, was responsible for the times. Mr. S. Golder (Bicycling News) checked the laps.

TRICYCLE TWENTY-ONE TO TWENTY-FIVE MILES.

On Monday evening, June 11, Messrs. S. F. Edge, of the Anerly B. C., and J. B. King, of the L. A. C., made an attempt to lower the tricycle records. Edge's ambition was to beat all Gatehouse's records, but as the wind was blowing strong at the time appointed for the start, he contented himself with trying to cover twenty miles in the hour. J. B. King intended hanging on to Edge, and then continuing on for the 21 to 25 miles records. King, unfortunately, was seized with cramp at eighteen miles, and was forced to retire. Edge, in view of the strong wind and coldness of the atmosphere, failed to beat the record up to 20 miles. Still feeling fresh, Edge continued on for record, and had an easy task in the 21 to 25 miles records made in the championships on Whit-Monday, his times being—

Miles.	H. M. S.	Previous Record.
21	1 3 14 2-5	1 6 47 3-5
22	1 6 21 2-5	1 9 58 1-5
23	1 9 28 4-5	1 13 5 3-5
24	1 12 38	1 16 23 4-5
25	1 15 44 3-5	1 19 17 2-5

THE ILLINOIS DIVISION MEET.

As the time (July Fourth) approaches for the Fifth Annual Meet, greater interest is being taken by the wheelmen, and the lay public is becoming quite interested in it. The outlook is that many converts will be made for the L. A. W., and to wheeling also.

Chairman Sheridan, of the Reception Committee, has received quite a number of letters from parts of the State that have never been represented at a Division meet, saying that they will be with us this year. Chicago, as usual, will furnish a majority of the visitors. The good-natured rivalry that exists among the Chicago clubs as to which will have the largest delegation at the Meet, and which club will have the largest number who will tour to Springfield, will attract an unusually large number from there. Estimations have been made that Chicago will turn out (300) three hundred strong, and if such is the case it promises to be the largest attended meet of any heretofore held by our Division.

Quincy, Bloomington and Jacksonville have also signified their intention of wheeling to the meet in time for the races and of taking an active part in the same.

The only thing that promised of bad feeling is the fact that the Ottawa Club are to have a "large time" also the Fourth of July and had sent invitations all over the State (excepting Springfield); one of our committee being in Chicago, saw their programme and invitations, and jumped to the conclusion that Ottawa was trying to hurt the meet, but correspondence between Secretary Reed and the Secretary of the Ottawa Club, shows they (Ottawa) were entirely blameless in the affair, inasmuch as they endeavored to find out whether their affair would conflict with the Division Meet and were unable to, and when the date was announced they had incurred too much expense and proceeded too far with their arrangements to back down, and promised to make their event entirely local. It is too bad that it should have occurred, as we feel certain that the Ottawa cyclists are good ones, and we will be debarred the pleasure of entertaining them.

The medals contributed by our leading jewelers are on exhibition, and the lucky winners will be envied by our local wheelmen, who do not expect to secure any of the events.

The Racing Committee has received so many requests to have a unicycle race that they have consented to have a one-mile event, and a prominent rider on one wheel is to ride the hour for a record.

Word comes to us that some of our Division members are thinking of deserting us on the Fourth in order to take part in some events in a sister Division, but it is earnestly hoped that all will remain true to us and help make this meet one that will bear comparison with any of the other Divisions.

Although Springfield numbers some seventy-five riders within her limits, the only cycling club we have here is the Capital City's, and they only number some fourteen or fifteen. I have often been asked why we have not had a successful club here, but have given it up as being too hard a one for me. The Capital City's have no well-appointed club room, but through the kindly courtesy of the Sherbboner Club (the leading social club) they have been tendered the use of their rooms during the meet, where they will be happy to show their hospitality to their guests.

REX.

THE exhibit of the Overman Wheel Co. at Baltimore was a complete and a beautiful one. Not only did this firm procure one of the best rooms at the hotel, and fill it with a complete line of their cycles, but they ornamented the room with potted plants of many varieties. It was an interesting display, and very pretty withal.

UNDER THE SOUTHERN CROSS—OLD NEPTUNE'S VISIT—BRAZIL AT LAST.

(Special.)

NOT being in much of a hurry to strike the land of Dom Pedro, we decided to sail instead of steam from St. Thomas to our destination, or starting point, if you choose so to call it. It was a beautiful morning on which we took our leave of the harbor. Our hawser was "made fast" to one of the many English steamers which put in here, the Captain of the steamer having kindly consented to tow us out through the harbor's mouth to the open waters of the Atlantic. Our schooner—a fair enough craft by the way—hailed from St. Johns, N. F., and was bound to Rio Janeiro, via Para and Pernambuco. Once fairly clear of the island the hawser was "cast off" from the steamer, and with a dip of her ensign and a shriek of her whistle she turned her prow toward "Merric England" and home, while we started for Brazil—and what? Well, a chap is bound to feel at times as though he had rather be somewhere else than where he is, and when I looked at the fast receding hull of the "Booth Liner," and thought how soon those on board of her would be "treading their native heath," and then turning in the other direction tried to think how soon the good old gray mother could say "God bless you, boys, you're welcome home," I could but feel a longing to turn and go the other— "Gentlemen, breakfast is ready," from the cook, and "What's the matter, old fellow, you look glum?" from Jean, brought me back from dreamland and to the fact that it would not do for me to show "the white feather" if I expected "the boy" to keep a stiff upper lip. That first meal was a bracer, and whether it was the air, the quality of the food or the style of the "get up" I can't say, but I do know that from that time out we had no occasion to coax our appetites, for they were with us.

A TRIP ON THE SOUTH ATLANTIC is an experience entirely different in every way from one between America and England. Here we are lolling about the deck, sans shoes, sans stockings, sans everything but a pair of linen trousers and a calico shirt, open at the neck. How does that strike you, Mr. Editor, living as you do in the town of immaculate boiled shirts and baked beans? We are gliding along at about a nine knot speed; just fast enough to make us feel comfortable and at peace with all creation.

Now we are passing St. Lucia and catch a glimpse of the white-washed houses, fertile fields, the most of which are portions of sugar plantations. Off in the distance, but not so far off as to make their figures indistinguishable to the naked eye, we see a group of figures moving about, and focussing a glass upon them they are seen to be negroes—slaves, probably—hoking. Here and there a white man on horseback is seen. Nearly opposite the outermost part of the island the Captain points out a rambling building remarking: "That's the Governor's house, and you'd better take a good look at it, as the slaves you see peacefully working now may have an uprising at a moment's notice, and clean out the whole outfit. I passed here," said he, "on September 13, 1878, at 9 A. M., and before clearing from there word was received that the slaves, goaded by the brutality of some overseers, had risen at noon on that day; had taken a number of lives and destroyed three-fourths of the property on the island. So you see its best to look while you have the chance."

On the following morning we were well out on the open sea with nothing in sight but water! Soon, however, we caught sight of some or floating nautilus, tossing about on the water. Very pretty they look with their almost transparent pink "balloons," floating along lazily. We had a good deal of sport trying to capture them by lassoing, but it was "no go," they "knew the ropes" it seemed, and refused to be caught. Long about noon we saw a thin column of water shoot up skyward a distance from the schooner, and before we heard "There she blows!" from the lookout. This caused a hearty laugh from the officers and crew, not so much on account of the hail, as it transpired, but because the lookout, an old whaler, said he forgot himself and really thought he was back at his old business when he saw the whale, for such it was, "spout." As this is a regular whaling ground we were not surprised to see an occasional sail. The fourth day from St. Thomas we sighted a full-rigged ship, with every sail set, and I can tell you the sight is a pretty one. The same day one of Uncle Sam's ships passed within a mile or so of us.

The days passed pleasantly with chatting, lounging, smoking and reading, until at last we saw the "Southern Cross" and "Orion's Belt" in all their splendor, and then we began to realize that we were getting well along toward the Equator. We had our attention called by one of the crew, one morning, to a curious looking change in the color of the ocean's water. Looking to the north all was a deep sea green, while to the southward it undergoes a transformation and becomes a light blue. The seaman tells us that this is the famous equatorial current, which cuts the colors apart as sharply as if done with a knife, "and," said the old salt, "you can follow the dividing line from the northeastern shores of South America clear to the coast of the dark continent, and nowhere will you see the colors intermingle."

About eighteen hours after crossing the "current" and received a visit from "Old Neptune," trident, retainers and all, but rather than submit to a "shaving" with their sorry looking outfit, we put up a few bottles of the "good ould stuff," and thus bought ourselves off.

WE CROSSED THE EQUATOR.

One morning our attention was attracted by a discoloration of the water, which had assumed a sort of a dull brick tinge. Upon speaking of it to the Captain he informed us that we were then off the mouth of the Amazon, and that the discoloration was caused by the current of that river carrying down with it an immense quantity of soil from the banks, which its resistless force would sometimes cause to tinge the ocean for a distance of over one hundred miles from the land. "Even now," he said, "we are about one hundred miles from the point of Marajo Island, and you can scarcely see blue in the water." And so it was; and as we drew nearer the shores the color deepened so that finally you could discern no trace of the ocean water's true tint, such a power is there in the "muddy current."

We finally, just after dusk of our eleventh day from St. Thomas, sighted a red and green "flash light," which the Captain said was on the Braganza Bank, south of the entrance to the Para river, off which we were compelled to "lay to" until morning, as we could procure no pilot that night. Before the sun had fairly arisen from out of its ocean bed the following morning we were on deck, eager to catch a glimpse of a tropical landscape, but we were disappointed, as it was nine o'clock before we succeeded in procuring a pilot, who pulled off to us from the most delapidated looking light-ship I ever saw. The old hulk looked as though it was "planted" where it was before the continent existed. And now we are entering the mouth of the Para river, forty miles wide, running to the south of the light-ship and keeping within half a mile or so of the South shore. On this everything looks green and beautiful.

PALM TREES BY THE MILLION

in unbroken forest. A little farther up is a clearing on the edge of which, close to the water, is a long, rambling looking building with a roof of red tile, the body of the building being painted white. With the glass we can distinguish orange and banana trees growing where the palms are cleared away, and the sight makes one's mouth water, as our stock bought at the island had to be rushed down our throats "to keep it from spoiling." Looking to the northward we can just see a black streak on the water, which we are told is the Island of Marajo or Johannes Island, on which the Para people depend for their supply of fresh beef. From the South shore of the Para river to the North shore of the Amazon is about 240 miles. The Amazon river proper is not navigable from the ocean, and the few vessels which have entered its mouth have come to grief before proceeding far. Rocks and shoals in abundance, combined with its treacherous current, winding in and out around innumerable islands, make it an ugly river to tackle. Up we go, past plantations and tile factories, and past the old adobe fort, which has stood on the little island a few miles below the city for over 150 years. The fort looks as though one shot from one of its antiquated fifteenth-century muzzle loaders would surely send the whole outfit to kingdom come. But the authorities are satisfied as long as they possess "a fort," even if its usefulness is a thing of the past. Our schooner is anchored about three-quarters of a mile off the main quay, beside which is the Custom House, a building in former days devoted to the propagation of religious principles by the courageous old Jesuit priests; and now, seated on deck awaiting an opportunity to go on shore, we realize that the or perhaps more properly speaking, that we are on the verge of beginning our journey. A cool breeze is coming in with the tide; the water, from 160 to 350 feet deep, is turbulent, but we are very comfortable as we gaze upon the "Cidade do Belem do grande para do Santo Maria," for although the city is known the world over as Para (meaning stop) its proper name is the old biblical one of "Bethlehem." We are told by the Captain that south of the city and running out to the church of Santo Maria is one of the finest driveways he ever saw, and that if we are looking for wheeling we will find enough to satisfy us by keeping outside of the town proper, so, dear friends, until we have had a chance to look after and get in shape our nondescript cycle, which must have arrived long before us, we will give you and our pens a rest, promising, however, to give you more of the whirling or floating wheel in the future than we have in the past.

FIRST STAGE OF OUR JOURNEY IS ENDED,

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary-Editor.

IMPORTANT.

UNDER the provisions of the Constitution adopted at Baltimore the annual election by Divisions of their Chief Consuls, Vice-Consuls, Representatives and Secretary-Treasurers will take place between the 15th day of July and the 15th day of August next ensuing. Each Division must make its own rules for the canvass, casting and counting of votes. Chief Consuls should call meetings of their Divisions at once and adopt rules for the government of the ballot and announce same in the BULLETIN. Below we publish a table showing the membership by States. Applicants published after June 15 do not qualify until after July 1st, and they cannot therefore be counted in estimating the representation. The Secretary will provide mail lists to Division officers for the conduct of the vote, but these mail lists should not be used as check-lists at the time of counting, since they are not and cannot be so accurate as the list of Division members kept by the Secretary-Treasurer. Space will be accorded in the BULLETIN for the publication of nominations, but these must be limited to the name of the candidate alone.

A State or Territory having twenty-five members is recognized as a sub-division. Its Chief Consul will be appointed by the President, who will be glad to receive nominations from clubs or individuals.

A State or Territory having fifty members is recognized as a sub-division, and the members may organize and elect a Chief Consul and Secretary-Treasurer.

A State or Territory having one hundred members or more shall organize a Division, and may elect in its own way a Chief Consul, Vice-Consul, Secretary-Treasurer, and one Representative for each 100 resident League members.

League clubs may elect Representatives on the Division Board of Officers as follows:

One Representative if they have twenty members, and an additional Representative for each fifty additional members upon its roll July 1st. These elections should take place during the period assigned to the election for Chief Consuls and Representatives, and returns should be made in such manner as the rules of their respective Divisions provide.

DIVISIONS AND SUB-DIVISIONS.

The following States will rank as Divisions. They may elect a Chief Consul, Vice-Consul, Secretary-Treasurer and Representatives, as shown by the tables below:

States.	Number.	Representatives.
California.....	345	3
Connecticut.....	419	4
District of Columbia.....	108	1

California Election Laws.

To California Members, L. A. W.:

In accordance with the By-Laws of the League, as amended at the meeting of the National Board of Officers, March 5th and 6th last, the annual election of Division Officers will occur between the 15th of July and 15th of August next, ensuing.

The regulations governing the ballot in California provide, that the Secretary-Treasurer shall receive, and in the presence of the Committee on Rights and Privileges for the Division, count all mail votes and certify the result thereof.

The election is conducted through the medium of a mail vote. A blank ballot will be published in the BULLETIN during the month of July. It is the custom also for candidates to distribute printed ballots, to which no objection will be raised. Ballots must be signed by the member voting and sent to N. A. Robinson, Secretary-Treasurer, Room 1, S. F. Stock Exchange, San Francisco. Ballots received later than the first postal delivery of Thursday morning, August 16th, will not be counted. A ballot once mailed cannot be recalled or changed, and if two ballots are received from one member bearing the names of different candidates, neither will be counted.

The Committee on Rights and Privileges will meet at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer on the evening of Thursday, Aug. 16, and witness the counting of the vote by that officer.

The officers to be elected in California are a Chief Consul, a Vice-Consul, a Secretary-Treasurer and three (3) Representatives from the State at large.

In this connection it is assumed that the provisions of the new Constitution limiting the representation at large on the Division Board of Officers to one Representative for each one hundred (100) members, will be adopted at Baltimore on the 18th. No reference is here made to Representatives from League clubs, as they can be elected within the clubs when the adoption of the provision applying to them is definitely known.

ROBERT M. WELCH, Chief Consul.
 San Francisco, June 14th, 1888.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

ENGLISH LETTER.

"SENATOR."

AFTER seeing W. A. Rowe safely aboard the Liverpool train with Allen, his trainer, at Newcastle-On-Tyne, I boarded the Southern express, and arrived in Birmingham, and transacting some business relating to the late three days' tournament at Aston, I proceeded the following day to London via Coventry, reaching London the same evening. Proceeding to Fleet street a large batch of American, German and home letters and papers awaited inspection and as Big Ben of Westminster Abbey tolled the hour of midnight I quitted the Sporting Life office and repaired to my lodgings to take the 7-15 A. M. train for Berlin via Queensboro and Flushing (Holland).

I LEFT Temple and Woodside to do battle for America at Dublin in our international tournament with England represented by Fred Wood. Lees, G. H. Robb and others, and how well they succeeded was told in a telegram I receive in Berlin as follows:

DUBLIN, June 2d.
To Morgan, Berlin—"Temple won all three races, Woodside second in mile handicap."

Wood and Temple were the scratch men in the mile and Woodside and Robb on the 20 yards and Lees on the 30. Woodside and Temple at the half mile left the field the latter running by half a length from Woodside; Wood, Robb and Lees beaten off, time 2.40. The mile scratch race Temple won by ten yards in 2.42; Wood second, Woodside third by a foot. The five miles saw the three Englishmen sprint Temple in turns, to break him up, and this was kept up for three miles, when to their great surprise Woodside pushed to the front with Temple on his trail and the Englishmen were now 50 yards to the bad amid a perfect roar of the excited Irish audience. Temple then allowed Wood and the others to come up and on the last lap showed a 2.27 pace, winning by twelve yards from Wood who rode Woodside on the grass at the last corner, nearly upsetting him and secured second place. Wood had in various interviews on his return to England with reporters given it as his opinion that no member of the American team could be termed a champion, and he did not consider them such. I made a note of it and after Saturday June 2d it is possible Wood thinks differently.

WELL, to return to the Berlin journey. Taking a train at the Victoria Station, I soon found myself on board the pretty little Zealand steamer, "Deutschland," which soon put space between Queensboro pier and old England, and we were soon ploughing the German ocean and England faded from view. On our right we sighted the Belgian coast, and in seven hours, which time Neptune behaved most gentlemanly, on a beautiful calm summer day we were soon talking Dutch, and arguing the right of way with a racing "Club" bicycle in one hand, and several excitable Dutchman who wanted to carry it to the Berlin train, which stood ready alongside the Flushing pier, in the other. Sixteen hours later, if the fates proved kind, would find me in the German Capitol. The Dutch State rail road carriages pleased my fancy immensely, if the ventilation apparatus was improved upon, and bad Dutch cigars prohibited, even if you should by mistake, in an evil hour, get into a smoking carriage, through your imperfect Dutch education.

The journey through Holland, to the German frontier, some six hours, was uneventful, and the only sight which struck my fancy was the Dutch women, of all sizes and shades of (?) beauty, working like so many navvies in the fields, and the men doing seemingly the less work. The architecture of the Dutch buildings seem peculiar, and the land low and marshy—but a good lot of cows and horses seem to thrive on the land. At Benlo, one of the frontier towns, the customs officials "went through" my baggage, and strange to say, did it with great dispatch, quite a contrast to the slow torturing manner of some Canadian and English officials that I have seen. My bicycle, through the influence of some silver, went through unmolested, and about mid-night we reached the historic city of Hanover Germany, celebrated for its beings and learned men.

Waking up a sleepy waiter, we drank some coffee and had a light feed, proceeding on our journey "to Berlin," as the French cry was in the outbreak of the 1870 little unpleasantness. Some German students, smoking vile cigars, have entered our peaceful second class carriage, and make things exceedingly sultry and smoky for the next four hours, mercifully leaving us three hours' journey to Berlin. There is not much to see from the train in Germany, on the route taken by your correspondent, except sand hills, fir plantations, and occasionally a farm house.

The train which carried us the entire journey through with only one change (and that only to use another track) from Holland steamed into the Frederick-Strasse station in Berlin at 7-15 A. M., or just twenty-four hours from London. The editor of Der Radfahrer, T. H. S. Walker, who is the chief man in Berlin, and indeed German cycling met me at the depot and accorded me a warm welcome to the land of the Kaiser. Mr. Walker is an Englishman by birth and education, and is President of the Berlin Racing Association, consisting of six Berlin clubs, Mr. Walker's club, "The Berlin," being founded in 1879, and is the oldest in Germany. Mr. Walker talks German like a native, and "bosses" the whole racing concern, a la Ducker, and a fine, hustling "boss" he is too.

For the past few years the annual June tournament in Berlin, lasting two days, has been the event in cycling on the Continent, and England has sent her best men to compete against the best German riders. Bicycling by police ruling is prohibited in the streets of Berlin, and it was only a month ago that Mr. Walker's club obtained the privilege of tricycling in the streets. Why tricycling, to the exclusion of two-wheeling, is allowed is a German police puzzle which I give up trying to solve. Mr. Walker and others are doing a big business in letting trikes out at twelve cents per hour, which makes pedestrian exercise after dark risky work on some of the principal asphalted thoroughfares, especially in the Unter-den-Linden, the main thoroughfare, with asphalt streets either side, and a row of linden trees in the centre.

CYCLING is flourishing in all parts of Germany, and the late Emperor (who died to-day at Potsdam, just twenty miles from here), presented a hundred dollar prize for an amateur competition, which took place last Monday (this week) in Berlin. This recognizing the sport by the late lamented Kaiser must have its influence.

The tournament here was a huge success, and over 20,000 people patronized the sport, which was of an inviting description. My cable to you will have advised you of results. The professionals rode fast races, and Temple, of the American team, is beating the Frenchman (Dubois) and the Englishman (Allard), upset two records by the 2000 metres and the 3000 metres, the latter being two miles, which the Chicago lad rode in the very extraordinary time of five minutes ten seconds, beating the previous record by Dubois, made in Munich (Bavaria) by fourteen seconds. The amateur races furnished a surprise in a new German flyer named Lehir, of Frankfort, who badly whipped the Washington Crst, making rings around him much to the surprise of everybody. Lehir won every race he started in with one exception, and then he rode with great velocity into a Dutchman, who, unseen, commenced to roll a barrel of beer across the track, and the little German, who had started from scratch in a mile handicap, was coming at tremendous speed with his head down, and before a warning voice could be raised, he dashed into barrel and Dutchman with a crash I'll remember for a long time. A badly sprained arm and smashed wheel was the result, and as it happened on the third and last day and in his last race it was hard lines on the plucky little Teuton.

This Lehir is about good for 2.30 or thereabouts on a Springfield track, is only 17 years old, weighs 155, and rides a 54-inch "Club." The German tricyclist walloped the London amateur, Walker, who came over also, and he did not even secure a third or fourth prize, so you see what a warm lot the Germans are liable to be when they have another few years' improvement. The track here is four and one-half laps and is only moderately fast. The meeting was well managed, and the extra day was put in, owing to the American team being present. Crst, of Washington, won three seconds, and one first prize for a lap race with Lehir not up, and W. E. made many friends by his quiet unassuming manner. Temple, of course, was the lion of the "pros," and created wonder and surprise by his dashing style. The American team stood in on the profits of the meeting, and were only too well satisfied with the "spec."

We had six engagements to follow Berlin in different portions of the German Empire, Austria, etc., but the death of "Frederick the Third" has upset our arrangements, as Germany will mourn her Emperor for six weeks, and all amusements will practically cease during that period.

LAST week we visited Charlottenburg, the death place of the late

Emperor William of Germany, and were shown through the grounds and castle, and two days later we visited Potsdam, and secured admittance to the old castle erected to the orders and under the supervision of Frederick, the Great, more than a century ago. We saw the design of the architecture in the hand writing of the "Great," and were shown through the various rooms of state. I improved the opportunity of making some notes on the identical desk formerly used by "Frederick, the Great," in his own private study. It would take me columns to enlarge on all we saw, so I forbear. After visiting the modern portion of the new castle used by the late Emperor, and a walk through the beautiful drives and walks, we returned home much delighted with our trip. We had hoped to see the illustrious suffering Emperor but it was a bad day with him, and he was forbidden driving or walking. Berlin is draped in mourning and flags are flying half-mast, and all Berlin citizens are wearing tokens of respect to the memory of the departed monarch. The world can ill afford to lose many men of the stand of "William, the First," and "Frederick, the Third," but death is a leveler, and therefore royalty and plebian alike must bow to his inexorable demands.

WE leave Berlin Saturday night for Frankfort, and after visiting the celebrated Heidelberg Castle near the latter place, we take a three days' sail down the famous Rhine, reaching Rotterdam (Holland) about Thursday, visiting interesting points en route. We will in all probability assist in the opening of the new Holland track at Hague on July 7th, and will no doubt fill one or two engagements elsewhere in Holland before proceeding to Brussels, where negotiations are almost completed for a tournament in connection with the world's exhibition now being held there. The team will return to England via France, and will make their final bow to England August 4th or 6th, then sailing from Liverpool "to the land of the setting sun."

Berlin, Germany, June 15th.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE JOTTIST."

We are advised that W. A. Rowe will go into training for the fall races. Rowe will not let pass the smallest chance to improve his condition, so that when Howell comes over he will be fit to meet the doughty Englishman and have a good show at turning the tables on the great Briton. Howell is also getting in shape for the return races, and the care he is taking of himself is evidence that he feels he has no "picnic" on hand when he meets Rowe in the fall.

L. A. W. MEET of Massachusetts Division August 2, 3 and 4.

YOUNG WINDLE is looked on as a coming man. Keep your eye on him the coming season.

MIDGELY and McCune, of the Springfield Roadster team, are hard at it training on the Lynn track.

DOLE says he is willing to back Crocker for $500 to ride Rowe a series of three races at any time during the season.

ROWE has commenced to ride again. He has discarded his sling and for a few weeks will do his pedal pushing on a three wheeler.

THE Cambridge Club will take an outing on the yacht Fleur-de-lis. The party will consist of thirty, and the trip will extend as far as St. John, N. B.

ASA WENDLE, Rowe's old trainer, gives it as his opinion that William A. will make a better showing next fall when he and Howell meet at Buffalo.

THE mile record for the state of Maine is reported as being 3.20. This slow time is no reflection on the speed of the Maine Cyclists, but it speaks volumes as to the vileness of the race tracks in the state of Maine.

WE were favored with a call from Mr. Newcastle, of Portland, Oregon, who is on East on a short visit. Mr. Newcastle is a prominent cyclist of Portland, and has been connected with the Oregon Bicycle Club, as captain and other important positions. The gentleman was delighted with the glimpse he had of our sand-papered roads.

SOME of the Springfield Bicycle Club members are talking of organizing a tour by wheel to Buffalo in September. Howard P. Merrill, of the Union, is trying to get up a large party to go by rail. If a sufficient number can be pledged special rates and accommodations can be secured. Cyclists in Springfield and vicinity should send in their names to Mr. Merrill at the Union office.

THIS hill-climbing craze is getting to be very general. Every cycling center has its "Terror." The "Terror" of New Haven is Highland Street Hill, and many attempts have been made to "get up" it. A week ago a party went out to tackle the grade but only one man on a 51-inch Star succeeded in getting up. The rider's name is H. C. Backus, and he is the only rider who has ever succeeded in climbing it. Several others made the attempt but they all thought better of it before reaching the top.

THERE is a hill in Gloucester called Mt. Vernon. This hill has always brought the cyclists to grief who had temerity enough to try and ride it. There is a certain combination in existence known as the "Worden Springfield Roadster Combination" which just delights to find a good tough hill that "nobody can ride." Well the hill and the "Combination" had a tussle the other day. The "Combination" tried seven times and the hill had seven good laughs, but Worden's dander was up and so on the eighth time he and his bicycle got on top of Mt. Vernon, and now the hill has nothing to say.

THE complimentary run tendered ex-Captain Whitney, of the Boston Club, last Sunday was well attended, despite the bad weather. About twenty gentlemen sat down to a fine spread at the Great Head Hotel. During the afternoon the gentlemen were the guests of J. S. Cushing, a member of the club, and right royally were they entertained. An attempt was made to visit the yacht Ibis, but the wind storm prevented this part of the programme, and it had to be omitted. The day's outing was wound up by a grand supper at Taft's, and then the cyclists and their friends went home content. Captain Whitney returns to his ranch this week, and all of his friends will miss the popular ex-Captain most terribly.

THE other morning at Hull we were hurrying to put on our detachable saddle so that we could ride down to the boat that leaves for Boston at 8.10 A. M. We only had about 5 minutes to go the mile, and so we naturally fretted and fumed, and we are afraid used unseemly language at the obstinacy of the saddle that would not be attached. Every second was precious and as they slipped away the perspiration and the anathemas flowed freer and became more blood-curdling. A small boy had been watching our frantic efforts and listening to our "tale of woe," and at last he quietly made a suggestion as to the method of putting on that kind of a saddle which we despairingly tried and were astonished to find that the obstinate saddle at once fell into place. We gasped out our thanks to the clever youth, jumped into the saddle, and spent the short interval it took to reach the boat in mentally kicking ourselves for our stupidity. There is a moral to be drawn from this incident and we drew it.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

FRED FOSTER, of Toronto, captured the Canadian mile tricycle record the other day in 3.18 4-5. The Globe, in reporting the fact, says, "When will this record breaking stop?" We would say to the Globe man that there is lots of chance to "keep a-going" between the 3.18 of Foster and the 2.41 3-5 of Gatehouse. Foster, on a good track, can beat three minutes considerably, or we miss our guess.

TEMPLE wants a match with Howell for £100 a side; distance, one and ten miles.

THE race meeting to be held at Pittsburg last Saturday was postponed on account of rain to July 7th.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) wheelmen had a lantern parade on the Fourth. Three or four hundred wheels were in line.

WE had a call from Geo. D. Hendee last week, and were sorry not to see him. The rumor that Hendee had been re-instated is without foundation. He has not even applied.

MR. H. D. COREY is now away on his honeymoon. The wedding, which took place last week, was very quiet. The happy pair will be away for some time.

W. J. CORCORAN, the well known athletic trainer, is now in Boston, and all letters to him should be addressed to him in care of the BICYCLING WORLD Co., 12 Pearl street, Boston.

MR. F. S. DOLE (the backer of Eck's "Yankee team") was lately married to Miss Augusta Fleming, of Watertown, N. J. The pair are now at the White Mountains enjoying their honeymoon.

MR. DUCKER's efforts to bring Mr. Hillier to America are well meant but will prove useless. When Mr. Hillier comes he will pay his own expenses. We would like to see him and have him see us.

AN effort is being made by New York wheelmen to have the authorities extend the asphalt pavement now on Madison avenue between Twenty-third and Thirty-Second streets out to Fifty-ninth street.

They have a "sporting editor" out in Portland, Ore., who does not know that the riding for a purse makes the amateur a full fledged professional. Will Censor Page please squelch that editor and oblige?

W. S. DOANE, now of Denver, Col., will start from that city August 5 and ride to Boston, via Buffalo. His route will be given later, and Mr. Doane promises to keep us posted as to his progress from time to time. Mr. Doane will ride a 40-inch Apollo.

In Charlestown, W. Va., the principal streets are paved with a patented combination board floor and hard brick pavement, which is smooth, slightly, almost noiseless, cheap, durable and generally satisfactory. This pavement is being extended from year to year, as the city finances admit of it.

The Cincinnati cyclists are trying to prevail on the managers of the Cincinnati pageant to allow the bicyclist to participate. To be sure such a plan would be very satisfactory for the cyclists, but as it would require the police to make room through the immense crowds twice it is looked upon with disfavor.

A PRACTICAL illustration of the muscular Christian is given in the instance of the Rev. Geo. A. Knerr, of Sunbury, Penn., who rode from that place to Reading, Penn., on Monday, 25 June, a distance of 108 miles. He stopped at Dauphin some three hours. The Reverend gentleman rides a Star.

AFTER reading the following, taken from Oregon Siftings, can any one say that missionary work as to the road building and repairing methods does not need pushing? The italics are ours: "Messrs. Daniel and Cushman, the two wheelmen of Tacoma who started on a cycle trip to Frisco overland, wrote some two weeks from San Francisco. They report the roads as being pretty tough, not only from the rain, but from the farmers plowing up the road to save taxes."

The Spectator, of St. Louis, takes up the cudgels on the side of right and decent behavior. Mr. Page and the editor of this paper have from time to time indulged in some pretty sharp sparring, but we are with him hand and hand in this crusade against rowdyism in the ranks of the L. A. W. and among wheelmen in general. Shake, Mr. Page, and if our left hands are used to give each other a dig in an "amateurish" way, we never can feel other than a sympathy for you so long as your right hand swings a club to give the rowdy element a good, honest thump.

As the Aeolus Club, of Chicago, were riding past the corner of Huron street and Centre avenue on their way home from the L. A. W. run on Sunday, 17, a rascally rough caught hold of Captain Bray's wheel, and without any provocation, threw him heavily. Luckily Mr. Bray escaped without injury. A police officer happened to see the cowardly act and immediately arrested the offender. On Monday a number of club men went down to appear against him, but the judge could hardly have been aware of the criminality of the act for he only fined the brute $3 and costs, about $3 more. A year in the penitentiary would not have been too much.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from Providence, R. I., desires to know the best track and road records for 25 miles; he would also like to know the best tandem record for one hour, 25 miles and 24 hours. The records are:

Track bicycle, 25 miles, 1:10.34 4-5, by Jules Dubois, August 24, 1887.

Road bicycle, 25 miles, C. E. Kluge, 1:30.00, May 30, 1888.

Track tandem, one hour, Allard and Oxborrow, 20 miles 715 yards, October 17, 1887.

Track tandem, 25 miles, Allard and Oxborrow, 1:13.42 4-5, October 17, 1887.

Track tandem, 24 hours, W. J. Morgan and Louise Armaindo, 250 miles 140 yards, Lynn, October 19, 1886.

A CORRESPONDENT writing from Lonsdale, Pa., at which place veracity and truthfulness do flourish, sends us the following, which we confess rather staggers us, but coming from the section named and over the signature it did, we have nothing to do but accept it as gospel truth, and mingle our tears with those of the cowless and "aged peasant." "Cherries are ripe in this section, and work, such as bicyclists generally choose, is rather slack, so our riders take advantage of these circumstances, and lie away to the choicest cherry trees found on Chestnut Hill, three miles away. Last week our consul, Mr. C. Long, and Mr. M. Kern, while on one of these trips to Cherry-land, met with quite an interesting adventure. They were coming down the hill at a fair speed, the consul in advance, when they met an aged peasant driving an old cow. The animal squared off for the consul's wheel, but miscalculating speed, she just missed it, but Mr. Kern struck her broadside, cut her clean in halves; one of the handles struck the rear half and was slightly bent, the wheel made a few gyrations and sped with its rider on its way. The peasant stood and gazed at the cow, rubbed his weeping eyes, shook his head in despair, and said, 'Oy! Oy! Oy! Oh! my orney oldy kuh!' Some days ago the New York and Chicago Limited Express struck a two horse team at a road crossing here, killing one of the animals and throwing the driver some distance, but this was a trivial and insignificant affair compared with the adventure Kerney had with the cow."

NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING FOOT."

The afternoon parade of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club "permeated" on the afternoon of Saturday last. In point of numbers present it was not so much of a success as was anticipated. In all, 130 participated, including 60 of the B. B. C., 8 of the Brooklyn Ladies Tricycle Club, including the one lady bicyclist of Brooklyn, 30 of the K. C. W., 12 of the L. I. W., and 20 of the Universals, not to mention Y. H. Servant. The line of the parade was a long one, over six miles of parade in all; and covered a good deal of business-like Belgian pavements. The pacemakers, Messrs. Neal and Ackerson, led, followed by the squad of mounted police and a mounted bugler from the 12th Regiment. The way that bugler made things hum was a caution. Percy Seixas can hardly be consoled. It was the first time for most of us to witness the riding of the one lady bicyclist. The mount was accomplished as gracefully and easily as can be imagined, and once in the saddle this lady in particular had no trouble in keeping up. After the return, the visitors were regaled on the luxuriant lawn in the rear of the house with delicious claret punch, et cetera. The latter was very nice.

The Kings County Wheelmen had a well attended Club run to Roslyn, last Sunday, under command of Lieutenant Harry Hill.

GENTLEMEN of New York and Brooklyn, keep your eyes open for the announcement of the promised blow-out of the Mercury Wheel Club, probably July 21.

CAPT. CLARKE, of the Mercury Wheel Club, holds the record of that Club for June, with 431 miles, and for fifteen days of April, and the months of May and June, 1,003 miles.

MR. C. A. SHEEHAN, of the Manhattans, is making arrangements for a special train on the West Shore to the Buffalo Meet, and promises a special boat for the party from Brooklyn, if the delegation from that city is large enough.

MANHATTAN BICYCLE CLUB. Total mileage for May, 2,537 miles. During June Messrs. R. F. Shaffner, J. W. Sheehan, and W. H. Putney each made very close to 700 miles, but so many are away on vacations that the total cannot be estimated.

SOME of the olde clubs will have to look out for their laurels if the U. C. C. keeps turning out as strong as they have lately. Take the advice of a vet., boys, and make the Patchogue century, and the others will know you've cut your eye-teeth.

THE Citizens are coming in heavily on the road-record question, and the competition waxes fast since Capt. Pontaine disbarred himself so magnanimously from winning the record prizes. The "Cits" had a run down on their lists for the Glorious Fourth, to Coney Island, via Twenty-third street ferry and Bedford avenue: particulars later.

MR. F. R. MILLER, second lieutenant of the Riverside Wheelmen, has been riding only since the first of April, but "all the same," he was one of the twelve finishers of the Great Century, and wants to try it some more. His riding compares very favorably with that of the supposed "toughs," who dropped out at Trenton, although they had not ridden nearly so far, and were capable of further effort.

NEW YORK BICYCLE CLUB. Total mileage reported for June, 6,106 miles. Total for year, including June, 16,330 miles. The leaders for June were Mr. G. M. Nisbett, 1,059 miles, which is probably the record for the United States, Mr. W. E. Findley, 819 miles, and J. M. Andreini, 288 miles. The above Mr. Findley rode every day in the month of June. Mr. Nisbett's record for the year, so far is 2,283 miles, Findley's, 1,283, E. del Genovese, 1,160 miles.

In this week's issue the advertising space occupied by Gormully & Jeffery Mfg. Co. contains an excellent cut of the completed Rambler safety bicycle. The changes made greatly strengthen and stiffen the frame as originally designed. We have been promised one of these machines to try at an early date, and we shall take pleasure in giving the results of our trial.

If you want a second-hand wheel see on page 193 the advertisement of the New York Bicycle Co.

Who was at the last League Meet but admitted that The American Rambler was the King of the Rear Drivers?

Certainly the crowds constantly surrounding it demonstrated that it was the centre of attraction.

Its salient points are obvious. By placing the reacting spring, whose effect is self-evident, between the rider's body and the rear wheel, the necessity for the spring at the front, with its manifest erratic steering is dispensed with, so that in the RAMBLER we offer a rear driver that one

Can Ride and Coast Hands Off.

It is the lightest, too, of them all, and of the highest possible grade, and what is just as gratifying is the fact that we are now booking orders for August delivery.

BY "JACK"

"Le yeux bleus vont aux cieus,
Le yeux verts aux enfers,
Le yeux noirs au purgatoire,
Et les yeux gris au paradis."

These words were being hummed very gaily last Sunday on the Ripley road by a French cyclist, who was making his way as fast as the wind would allow him, mounted on a high ordinary with high head and short handle bars. There was a good deal of the troubadour about the "get up" of the fellow. What with small gold epaulets, a jockey cap with several badges on it, and a military jacket smothered with braid, he was "all very fine and large." Rather an interesting man was this Mounseer Juggins. I had passed him on the road and was thinking what good form it was to sing French love ditties at the top of one's voice on a Sunday morning, when the bell of Frenchy's bicycle sounded, and along he came with blood in his eye "like the wolf on the fold," and his costume so killing "with purple and gold." I let Juggins pass and allowed him to make the pace until I got to the top of a high hill, and then I left poor Mounseer. I have not seen him since. Safety versus ordinary generally results in this sort of thing.

Cycling in moderation for ladies I approve of. A light machine, a suitable dress, good roads, and a thorough gentleman for a companion who will set an easy pace. I think "Violet Lorne" and "Daisie" will agree with me that there is not a much more pitiful object than a woman flying along with her hair streaming in the wind, her nose red and her face perspiring till it glows crimson. Of course in nine cases out of ten the girl has a companion who sets a pace which is altogether too fast for the average woman, but the poor girls are so horribly handicapped by their dress, and by the heavy machines upon which women generally ride. I see it every day. A twelve stone man upon a forty-five pound machine, and a fragile looking girl of say eight stone upon a machine that her brother used to vow weighed somewhere over eighty pounds (but which was quite good enough for sister). And then the idea of two persons so mounted, trying to take an enjoyable ride. The strong man whose machine is good for thirteen or fourteen miles an hour, and the "bath chair" that might with a strong rider pass six miles in that space of time.

Mrs. Smith, the English tricyclist, never seems hot or untidy. I would that girls who are going to ride could see Mrs. Smith after a twenty-mile spin. She understands how to dress, and does so with reference to the requirements of the wheel. I must admit that Mrs. Smith is the most graceful lady rider that I ever saw. It was only the other day that I saw two young lady tricyclists standing under a tree in a heavy rain storm. I volunteered to see them to a place of safety and shelter, but no, they were going fifty miles on to Portsmouth, and bad roads at that. "G. G.!" thought I, and I said "on those machines?" One a Salvo (112 pounder), the other a Coventry Rotary of great but uncertain weight. "Yes, on those machines. Why, what's the matter with them?" "Nothing," said I, "they are fine machines." I told a most awful lie, but I know how sensitive a man is about the powers of his horse, dog or gun, and I suppose women are the same about their goods and chattels. That is what I call "grit." Fifty miles on an old "Coventry Rotary?" Why, it is a job very few men would care about in fine weather. But such a day, such roads, such machines, such girls. Here's to the girls. God bless 'em.

The "Anchor" at Ripley is a quaint place but so comfortable. I came there the other day soaking wet and muddy, and was at once given a change of dry clothes. They have change of raiment for thirty men. Oh how comfortable for a lot of bedraggled scarecrows to cast off wet cycling togs and jump into a bath and into dry clothes while the rain patters upon the window panes outside.

We are told by travellers that the ostrich, when closely beset by hunters, buries its head in the sand under the impression that because it cannot see its pursuers it is itself invisible. It thus presents a conspicuous target for the hunter's rifle. My acquaintance who signs himself "Chesterfield," and who lately took my name in vain in a cycling periodical about my choice of a nom de plume, has a good deal of the ostrich about him. Bless his bucolic innocence. I knew his fine old Roman hand, with its lofty contempt for the canons of punctuation and syntax, and its old-fashioned knock-you-over flourish of "now, sir," before I had read six lines of the epistle. However, as he meant kindly by me I shall forgive him, but he should remember that a dead mummy is always preferable to a living fossil. I think that he has been graduating for the sarcophagus for years past.

I have to thank the editor of the Scottish Cyclist for the prominence he gave to a letter of mine clipped from the BICYCLING

WORLD, in which I speak rather slightly of some people who inhabit a small Scottish town on the river Tweed. In the issue of May 2 Nisbet or Bremner, the editors, begin their editorial page with a long "talk" about my letter and say that it is rather strong. I meant it to be strong, and feel very glad that the editors of the Scottish Cyclist have thought fit to reprint it in a paper which will perchance fall into the hands of some of the specimens in human guise to which I referred when I wrote it. I do not usually write billious paragraphs without just cause, and the Peebles paragraph was no exception. I had reason for so writing.

The Scottish Cyclist scribes are both ("Aeolus" and "Steersman") well known writers and speak with a decided amount of authority. Their paper is tasty and has surprised all its esteemed contemporaries. I am sorry that they should have jumped wildly upon my Scotch letter. Perhaps I was wrong, and if I am sorry. Here's luck to the Scottish Cyclist.

This "public press paragraphing" and "private letter apology" is a wheeze of great antiquity, and we are forced to smile at the "Juggins" who has recourse to such a contemptible habit. It reminds one of a boa constrictor swallowing a rabbit, with this difference, that the process of slobbering (the private letter wheeze) occurs after and not before you have been victimized. The odds are in favor of the wily boa constrictor in point of honor.

I was very much pleased to see, in a late BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN, the names of nine new L. A. W. members in the State of Mississippi. They hail from a little town I often think about, Greenville. I used to address a great many long letters to that town, "but I haven't for a long time now." I was also pleased to note the appointment of Mr. George G. Clarke, of Greenville, to the Chief Consularship of the State, a position which I once held. I wish him success.

I shall look forward with great interest to the doings of the Mississippi contingent, although the roads are vile. I shudder to think of them. I had the honor of being the first man to bring a bicycle to the State, and the poor, old "Special Club" has now been lying in the outhouse on the banks of the Mississippi for some years, with its rubbers eaten off by the sun, and the spider building his wierd suspension bridges among the spokes. A horse is not a bad thing for Mississippi. The road from Jackson to Vicksburg is a caution and should only be attempted when a man has lots of time on his hands. The road up Deer Creek to Greenville (from Vicksburg) is not so bad as it might be, but that is not saying much for the quality of the road. The road from Vicksburg to Yazoo City, by way of Sartartia, is a hateful ride, and a wheelbarrow would be as good for most of the distance. There is no reason why a couple of good tournaments could not be got up this year; one at Greenville and one at Vicksburg. New Orleans, Nashville and Memphis might also take the hint. Put a big roller on the Greenville fair ground track and very fair time could be got. And what a crowd you would get. There's a spec for somebody.

GREENWOOD WINS THE FIRST OF THE SERIES.

The first one of the series of hill-climbing races between Hal Greenwood and Jno. A. Wells, took place yesterday on Kimmswick Hill, which is located about 22 miles south of the famous De Soto road. About 25 Missouri and Cycle Club men witnessed the race; they reached the scene of the contest by a special train via the Iron Mountain Railway and Kimmswick, Mo. The road from the station to the scene of the contest is a miserable piece of corduroy, and several of the boys who essayed to ride, came to grief by having their machines break down under them. Hal Greenwood went down the road the day before and spent the night down there; Wells got there by a wagon from Kimmswick and claims that he was considerably shaken up by the rough travel.

Greenwood won the toss and choose the second mount. Promptly at 6.10 Wells was under way, starting with a spurt. He had reached half of the distance in 3m. 28., when the strap of the left side of his Star gave way and he came to a halt. There was a murmur of disappointment went up, but the accident did not stop the race. Wells descended to the bottom of the hill, and placed a new strap on his machine to make another attempt.

Greenwood got away promptly at 6.15, and the interest of the event had reached its climax. He started slowly, his usual style of hill climbing, until the cheering of the wheelmen who followed, induced him to go faster. "Go it old man" was the cry, and Greenwood humped himself in great shape. He stood straight over his saddle, and his face wore a set determined look. As he neared the finish his wheel began to wobble, but he persevered and when he reached the finish, an exhausted man, a great cheer went up, for he had accomplished the climb in just 5m. 54 sec. He was disappointed at the time, and showed his friends how a string foot brake, which he always has on his machine when riding the De Soto hills, impeded his speed by getting caught on the lever of his wheel. Wells got away at his second attempt at 9.47, and his riding was watched with breathless interest. He was doing his best, but even that was not sufficient, and when he crossed the tape he was "dead," and his face white. His time was 6m. 4 sec.; Greenwood beat him by 12 sec.

Wells claims that he was not at his best on account of aforementioned rough trip of two hours' duration in a springless wagon, and was also obliged to hold his wheel the entire distance. The contest yesterday undoubtedly was one calling for good head work and great endurance, and the victory is a big feather in Greenwood's cap, as he was also handicapped by his brake.

NOTES.

The road from Kimmswick was ridden by a number of wheelmen. Charley Hildebrand broke the backbone of his machine, and four or five others broke their (bicycle) necks.

W. M. Brewster was referee and starter; W. S. Snyder, A. L. Jordan, E. B. Kidson, judges; A. K. Stewart and E. C. Klipstein, timers. Stop watches, similarly timed, were held at each bend, with two men to clear the road at each of the four bends. Those who witnessed the contest were N. H. Hawkins, E. B. Kidson, Percy Stone, E. C. Klipstein, C. C. Hildebrand, A. K. Stewart, W. M. Brewster, L. C. Stone, A. E. Colcord, A. L. Jordan, W. S. Snyder, Julius Hart, R. B. Clark, Ed Bates, C. F. Westlake, H. N. Mayo, Hy Oellein, A. J. Emory, E. Rotty, E. Scott, E. G. Hill, A. A. Knight, J. T. Dunningan, Dick Hurck and Geo. Tivy.

LINNEUS.

AT AUGUSTA, ME.

In the bicycle race July 4th at Capitol Park, for a purse of $40, distance one-half mile, Mart Dow, of Waterville, was declared the winner, defeating Harry Stone and Charles Clark, of Augusta. His time was 1 minute 45 seconds.

TEMPLE LOSES A RACE.

We are pleased to notice from a cablegram to the Globe that Temple was so far recovered from his accident of a week ago as to start in one of the races at Amsterdam, but he was compelled to stop, owing to pain caused by his accident. Allard won the race, with Woodside a good second.

THE BROOKLINE CYCLE CLUB.

This club held a very successful antique and horrible parade on the Fourth. Cyclers from Boston and surrounding suburbs were out in force and enjoyed the display immensely. The costumes were as usual very funny, especially those representing the feminine portion of creation.

AT SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The event of the Fourth among Springfield cyclists was the road race of the wheelmen this morning, the run being to Suffield and return, a distance of twenty miles, and an attempt to beat Eldred's record of 1 hour 19 minutes 50 seconds. The record was not broken, but George Thomas was the winner, making the distance in 1 hour 27 1-2 minutes.

JAMAICA CYCLE CLUB.

This club passed the Fourth by indulging in runs in the morning over to Brookline and to Hyde Park to witness the races at the latter place. In the afternoon they held a road race of about three miles. The contestants were — Walker and E. C. Chase, the race being the result of some good-natured badinage. Walker was given thirty seconds' start, but Chase soon caught up and won the race as he wanted. No time. In the evening the illuminations and fireworks at the club house were very fine, and were witnessed by a very large and enthusiastic crowd of cyclists and their friends.

LYNN RACES.

The races held July 4, over a terribly rough apology for a track on Lynn Common, resulted as follows:

Novice, one mile; Buttrick (1), Stevens (2).
One Mile Open; Nightingale (1), C. E. Whitten (2).
Two Mile Open Handicap; Nightingale, scratch (1), J. H. Sherman, 9 seconds (2).
Two Mile Handicap; Nightingale, scratch (1), Stevens, 40 seconds (2), Buttrick, 40 seconds (3).

There were five races and seven headers. This is record we think.

RACING AT CINCINNATI.

At the Cincinnati Ball Park last week, Levi, of the Centrals, won the half-mile bicycle race (ordinary) in 1:26, with Perin, of the Kentons second, six inches behind. T. J. Craighead, of the Kentons, won the half-mile safety race on a Star in 1:33 1-3, Charles Hanauer second. A good-sized audience was present, including a number of our local cyclists, with a general sportive turn of mind.

AT CHELSEA, MASS.

The races at Chelsea, July 4th, resulted as follows: The first race was the one-mile novice, C. F. Crandon coming in first, closely followed by Louis F. White and John White.

The second race was for the championship of Chelsea, and was very close, being won by C. H. Roberts, with John White second.

The race for the championship of boys under 16 years of age was the next, the winners being George Rogers and Mort Smith.

A slow race of one lap was won by F. W. Bailey. L. F. White was a close second.

The most exciting of all was the lap race of one mile. There were six entries, and all kept close together till near the finish, when L. F. White, C. G. Bernard and C. H. Roberts, who were abreast of each other, all took headers. C. F. Crandon and J. White won the prizes in this class.

The last race was a velocipede race for boys under 12 years of age, the prize being a velocipede, which was won by Fred Clark.

NEW BEDFORD CYCLISTS.

Dispatch to Boston Herald.

NEW BEDFORD, July 4, 1888. The bicycle races arranged by the city council committee on the Fourth of July celebration were witnessed by a good sized crowd. The result was as follows: Five-mile race, for a cyclometer and lantern, five starters—won by F. W. Smith; time, 17m. 20s.; Charles R. Chance second. Half-mile novice race, for a Victor saddle and bicycle shoes, five starters—won by Charles R. Chance in 1m. 40s., A. C. Cory second. One-mile race, for ball pedals and bicycle shirt, four starters—Hoyt and Smith won in 3m. 28., with Charles R. Chance second. Quarter-mile race, without hands, for bicycle bell and monogram pin, three starters—F. W. Smith won in 45s., Hoyt and Smith second. One-mile run and ride, for opera glasses and a Norfolk jacket, four starters—F. W. Smith won in 4m. 15s., with C. G. Howland second. In the team race for a picture, valued at $14, the South-enders won, scoring 19, to 17 for the North-enders.

THE 25-MILE RACE AT PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Last week Wednesday the Rhode Island Division held their third annual twenty-five mile race at Roger Williams Park, Providence. Heretofore this annual event has been run on the road, but this year it was decided to hold it on the track. Last year the race was run on the road between Providence and Warren, and was won by Mr. Turner, of Warren, in 1h. 42m. 58.; J. Dawson, of Pawtucket, second; Moore, who is entered this time, third. The conditions were good, as the track was fine and there was no wind. Van Wagoner led, with Bruce second, up to the 29th lap, and then Scott made a successful bid for first place, which he held to the finish. Scott rode in grand form and finished as fresh as a daisy. We give results below:

W. A. M. Scott, of Providence, Victor Light Roadster, time, 1:24.30.

Wm. Van Wagoner, of Newport, Star (51-inch), time, 1:26.30.
B. Tailor Bruce, Providence, Victor safety (geared to 60 inches), time, 1:30.20.

W. D. Bullock, of Providence, Rudge, dropped out.
W. A. M. Scott is the three-mile champion of Rhode Island, having won same on this track May 30th, in 9:37.

ON BOSTON (MASS.) COMMON.

The city authorities always realize the fact that cycle races are a very popular feature in the annual celebration, and this year proved this fact again, over 7000 spectators viewing the races. The track was poor and two serious accidents occurred, Berlo and Caldwell both taking bad falls. We give below the results:

In the first race, which was for novices, and the distance one mile, there were 13 starters. J. P. Clarke won the first prize, covering the distance in 3:16 1-4, Crombie crossing the line 1-4 second later, while E. A. Bailey came in third.

The second race was for amateurs, distance two miles. A quintet of riders contested in this event. They were David Drummond, Cambridge; H. L. Caldwell, Boston; Peter J. Berlo, South Boston; C. H. Roberts, Chelsea; and K. Brown, Harvard Club. Drummond won in 7m. 9s., and Caldwell crossed the line one-half second later.

A lap race of two miles came next. It was won by Berlo in 7m., followed by McCrombie in 7m. 1-4s. The following were the riders: Edgar R. Rodd, Rover Club, Brighton; J. P. Clarke, Dorchester; R. A. McCrombie, Dorchester; and Peter J. Berlo, South Boston. The points made in this race were apportioned as follows: Berlo, 27, he never losing foremost position in any of the eight circuits of the course; J. P. Clarke, 6; McCrombie, 3; Rodd, 2.

The fourth race for amateurs covered a space of three miles, and was won by Drummond in 11m. 55s., neither of the three other competitors finishing. It was in this race that the accidents to Caldwell and Berlo occurred, as already stated. The fourth starter was K. Brown, of the Harvard Club. Brown had nothing to prevent his taking second prize had he chosen to do so. It is understood that he chose to go to the meeting to be held later at Buffalo as a novice than a holder of a second prize.

Bailey won first prize in the "consolation" race, making the mile in 3m. 21s.; E. J. Clarke coming in one-fourth of a second later secured the second trophy. The other starters were Rodd, Carman, James Clarke, Klaus, Kehew and Brown.

A CHALLENGE.

UNDERSTANDING that certain members of the San Francisco Bicycle Club claimed to have made the best time between Oakland and San Jose, which the Bay City Wheelmen claim. The latter hereby challenge the San Francisco Bicycle Club to a club road race, over the same ground, team to consist of five to twenty-five men. Time, and size of team to be arranged as soon as accepted.

HARRY C. CUMMINS,
Secretary Bay City Wheelmen,

230 Van Ness ave., San Francisco, Cal.

A CORRECTION.

Editor Bicycling World: Will you kindly oblige me by correcting in your next issue, the statement made in your issue of the 22th inst., page 193, that I received 17 seconds in the 2-mile safety race. I was scratch man and gave Midgley 3 seconds start, but, through the ignorance of Van Sicken, was held back 17 seconds. I protested, but could get no satisfaction. You will greatly oblige me by making a note of the above in your next issue.

Yours very truly,

MR. HARRIS CHALLENGES MR. WELLS.

Editor Bi. World and L. A. W. Bulletin:—It would seem to anyone reading the effusions of John A. Wells, lately defeated on his Star by a Springfield Roadster, that the only rider left to beat was the undersigned. I have never aspired to place my name openly before the cycling public except in that non-egotistical way, by means of a pseudonym, but this time. When a Quaker treads on a Yankee he treads on metal, and if Mr. Wells would like to test the combination P. M. H. and S. R. vs. J. H. W. and Star his wishes will be gratified, either in a road scorch, in difficult road riding (hill climbing excepted), or on the track, provided Mr. Wells will not use a specially constructed Star, but a Star about the weight of the fifty-inch Springfield Roadster, forty-three pounds.

Washington, June 26, 1888. P. M. HARRIS.
[We were not aware that Mr. Wells had written any "effusions." Mr. Wells has acted and ridden, but we do not think he has written or talked much.—ED.]

HARTFORD, CT., TOURNAMENT.

Editor Bicycling World: The Hartford Wheel Club, feeling encouraged by the success attending their one-day bicycle tournament held at Charter Oak Park last September, have decided to hold a two-day tournament this year. September 12th and 13th have been selected as the best dates for this meeting. The management will spare neither labor nor expense to make this the grandest two-day bicycle tournament ever given in this country. As an earnest of this, we would call attention to the fact that $2,500 will be offered in purses and prizes to the professionals and amateurs. With good weather there is no doubt but what records will be trimmed a little closer, as the most noted riders of America and England will meet at Charter Oak Park, which is well known as one of the fastest tracks in existence. Among the many events will be the one-mile professional championship of America, and the one and three-mile state championships. Riders wishing to do their training here will be glad to learn that a new hotel is now being built opposite the Park, taking the place of the one burned two years ago. The new house will be completed this summer. Kindly oblige by making note of our dates among the fixtures. Further information may be obtained of

THE MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION MEET.

A MEETING of the board of officers of the Massachusetts division of the League of American Wheelmen was held at the Point of Pines last Saturday. The following officers were present: Chief Consul, H. W. Hayes of Cambridge; Secretary, Sanford Lawton of Springfield; and Dr. W. H. Emery of Boston, Dr. W. G. Kendall of Boston, J. F. Adams of Haverhill, J. S. Dean of Boston, J. H. Grimes of Cambridge, A. W. Robinson of Charlestown, J. B. Seward of Chelsea, E. B. Colman of Cambridge, W. A. Mossman of Jamaica Plain, and John Amee of Cambridge. Amendments to the constitution of the division were made as follows: That the constitution shall conform to the constitution of the national body; that the election of Chief Consul, Vice-Consul and representatives to the division board must take place between July 15 and Aug. 15; that districts be appointed as per official notice (see official department). It was voted to hold the annual meeting of the division at Cottage City, on Aug. 2, 3 and 4. Dr. W. G. Kendall and A. W. Robinson were appointed a committee on arrangements.

THE WASHINGTON-BALTIMORE PIKE.

IMPROVEMENT THEREOF SUGGESTED.

FRESH from the incidents of the last week, and while a realization of the vicinity and sisterhood of the cities of Baltimore and Washington is yet strong in the minds of hundreds of wheelmen, I want to agitate a question which has been in my mind for over a year—dormant because no fitting opportunity has presented itself for its discussion. The New England and Middle States comprise the great field for Eastern cycling centres, all connected as they are, by a network of roads, mostly good or at least rideable, with occasional stretches of poor or bad highways, avoidable however by circuitous routes. This field extends as far south as Baltimore, the Lancaster Pike, and Hagarstown with an exceptional penetration of 136 miles from the latter point via the Shenandoah Valley, into the otherwise undesirable sands and wilds of the entire set of Southern Coast States.

And Washington—the beautiful capital city of our nation—with her far-famed and unsurpassed concrete streets, her public buildings, her parks, and her thousand points of interest to the average wheelman—is shut off from other Eastern centres by wretched pikes between here and Baltimore, and because a detour would take the rider seeking an average road or a typical New England thoroughfare, not slightly but something like 30 miles out of his way—enough to consume two days of our warm southern riding to cover 40 miles direct or 49 by the nearest road. What is the result of this? Something like 3000 wheelmen attended the League Meet in Baltimore—about 400 in all came over to Washington; I have yet to hear of the first man among them who scorned the cars and pedaled the short distance intervening in the true spirit of a cyclist enjoying his outing a-wheel. At other points, wheelmen living in centers only 40 miles apart "run over" to see each other a dozen times a season, know each other well, can find their way to each others' club houses, and enjoy the brief span of roadway that separates them. We do too, oh yes. There's perhaps not a hundred men in both cities who haven't ridden the distance once or more. We call it trilling, laugh at those who think otherwise; but all the same when the trip is to be taken I notice we haven't time to ride, can't get a crowd, it's too hot, or for some reason, always good, we prefer the cars. I didn't hear a Washington man at Baltimore even propose to skip the excursion the last day and bring over a number of intending visitors by road, much less do I know of one who would like the job; but at other meets enthusiastic crowds would have gathered all eager for such a ride to vary the pleasures of the meet.

Turn to Route 49 of the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland Road Book—the one link connecting the Capital city with the great eastern field—the one road which, if it were good, would make Washington, not Baltimore, the southern limit of eastern cycling—the single highway which, if practically, not boastfully, up to the average of other roads, would connect us with our sister city, Baltimore, give respective wheelmen greater intercourse and friendship, and permit long distance tourists to place Washington on their list as an additional visiting place, to which they might ride with ease from the Monumental city in one day.

The road book record doesn't look bad; as a whole the road itself is not. From Baltimore to Columbia (thirteen miles) is good, though hilly; from Sandy Spring to Washington (twenty-one and one-half miles) is also good and also hilly, and rideable entire by an average wheelman without a single dismount. And this leaves but fourteen and one-half miles bad? True—but consider. Imagine a road for forty-nine miles with hardly a level stretch of three miles in it, whose hills are legion, and some rather steep and long; ride this as we have to in literally hot weather, with little shade, a scarcity of springs, an abundance of dust; and no rivers to wheel by the side of, no pretty girls en route to encourage us, no railroad to pick us up if we fall or sicken (for this route lies far from the cars), and add to it fourteen and one-half miles made up of boiling Jersey sand through which one can hardly walk, stretches of treacherous road bed where falls are imminent and the mind is taxed as well as the body, and ratty clay molded by wagon wheels and late rains, or holding deep hot pools of yellow muddy water. Consider this, and you will realize that it's "easier said than done."

Now, but for this fourteen miles Baltimore and Washington would be happy. It all lies in Maryland, and entirely outside our domain or jurisdiction. Yet I'll venture to say, so seriously do we wish to see something done to improve this stretch of road, that our city will aid materially in the accomplishment of that end. The six miles from Columbia to Clarksville could easily be improved; for the remaining eight and one-half miles we could build a side path if necessary, or perhaps the divisions combined could offer enough assistance to the local authorities in that vicinity to have the whole stretch rebuilt and resurfaced. At any rate I do hope Chief Consuls Mealy and Atwater will appoint a Conference Committee and set the ball rolling before fall. The League now has a National Highway Improvement Committee; let these sister divisions work for their own interests, with the assistance of that committee, and put the National Capital within the ready reach of all riders.

N. L. C.

OHIO DIVISION.

We give below a corrected programme of the Ohio Division meet to be held at Cleveland July 23, 24, 25:

Monday, July 23—10 A. M., business meeting; 3:30 P. M., League picture; 4 P. M., parade; 7 P. M., entertainment by the Toledo Cycling Club at Presque Isle Park.

Tuesday, July 24—7 A. M., special train to Ann Arbor, Mich., wheel to Salina, Ypsilanti and return to Ann Arbor; 5 P. M., hill-climbing contest at Ann Arbor; 7 P. M., go as you please Ann Arbor to Ypsilanti, eight and one-half miles. Unlimited fun all day.

Wednesday, July 25—wheel from Ann Arbor to Detroit, meeting passenger steamer with the ladies, all take dinner 2 P. M.; 4:15 P. M., return to Toledo on steamer Greyhound; complimentary to visiting L. A. W. by the Toledo Cycling Club; banquet on the steamer followed by vocal and instrumental entertainment, arriving at Toledo 8:30.

The special feature of the meet will be the entertainments provided for the ladies:

First day—Devoted to excursions and sight seeing about the city,

"short runs," and the evening's entertainment at Presque Isle Park. Second day—Run to Maumee, eight and one-half miles; ride to Turkey Foot Rock, returning to Toledo.

Third day—Excursion by lake, sixty miles to Detroit, meeting tourists; returning with them on steamer. A. H. BROWN, Chairman Entertainment Committee.

TOLLS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Editor Bicycling World:—In your issue of June 22d I notice the following: "Wheelmen will be charged toll on the old Lancaster pike running out of Philadelphia as soon as the improvements are completed. We believe this is the first on record of any proposal that toll be collected from cyclists." This is not the first on record. On the M. & W. turnpike, between Martinsburg, W. Va., and Winchester, Va. (twenty-two miles), toll has been collected from cyclists for more than twelve months past. The charge is one cent a mile, while buggies are only charged two cents. However, it is only just to say that this pike is one of the finest in the country, and wheelmen are freely accorded all road privileges.

By the way, why has the WORLD no correspondent in the Cumberland Valley? The roads from Gettysburg to Staunton are unequalled, and as a natural consequence, the sport is largely indulged in. Chambersburg, Pa., has a thriving club; Hagerstown, Md., has a club numbering over eighty members, and there are several other clubs in the valley. Many wheels are in use in Martinsburg, and unattached riders are numerous in all the towns. Better roads or a more scenic route for tourists than that through the Cumberland Valley would be hard to find.

UNDER the new Constitution each Division makes its own nominations, issues its own voting blanks, selects its own judges of election for the counting, certifying, etc. Chief Consuls should set the machinery for this work immediately at work, and if there is no machinery to run, it should be built forthwith.

JUST about this time we are having many requests of this kind: "Please hurry my ticket along, as I want to start on a tour next week." League machinery runs easily and as quickly as may be, but it doesn't put on speed at the behest of any individual. The hurry should take place at the other end. Procrastinators should not make a wry face when paying the penalty of procrastination.

THE Racing Board has selected Mr. F. P. Prial, of the Wheel, for the position of handicapper. He has a thankless task before him, but he has the ability to fill the bill, and has had ample opportunities for fitting himself for the place in his newspaper experience.

THE date of the League meet should be based somewhat on the climate. Let us have no more midsummer meets in the South. When we go to New Orleans let it be when snow whitens the New England hills. We don't dare to tell how many pounds ran off us in the shape of perspiration at Baltimore.

WHAT'S the matter with the popular cry of wheelmen? Oh! it's all worn out! Why not try something else? The Chief Consul of Rhode Island nearly perished when he heard this rusty old cry shouted out in the halls of the Supreme Court at Washington, in response to an inquiry regarding Mr. Blaine, and an outbreak of the kind in the White House was guarded against by the endeavors of several who feared it would occur. The political parties have adopted the cry; let wheelmen start something new if they must "holler."

MANY wheelmen are saying that the Meet at Baltimore will be the last one. Why? The new By-Laws may provide for an annual gathering, and they will do so if the members desire it. It is very true that the annual business meeting will take place in February, but there are ways to get a business meeting in the summer if it is necessary, and if there is no occasion for it, why not spend the time in pleasure. Which of the Western cities will take us next year? Shall it be Cleveland, or Minneapolis, or Detroit? Don't all speak at once. Washington wants us again in 1890.

TRACY, Minn., has an ordinance forbidding the riding of a bicycle on certain streets. The Republican, of Tracy, refers to a recent event as follows:

"Rev. Henry Long rode up from Currie on Tuesday on his bicycle, stopped at the Commercial, then mounted his steed and started for Rev. Mr. Carver's residence. He struck forbidden ground on Third street, and on complaint of the President of the village Council, he was arrested for violating one of the ordinances. He was brought before Esquire Carver, fined $3 and costs, but the fine was remitted and the costs were nothing. There are various opinions concerning this unusual ordinance, and Tracy is becoming noted far and near because of it. Many consider it a huge joke, others, a kind of boy play, and too ridiculous for serious consideration, while still others think it is all right. A case has been in court for a year or more arising from a violation of this ordinance, but it is still unsettled. The opinion of those who have looked into the matter is that the ordinance will not hold. There has been talk of repealing it, and if it cannot be enforced, by all means have it repealed. The press of the State is having lots of sport out of it, and so far as we can learn, that is the only good there has come of it as yet. It is claimed that no other village or city in the United States has such an ordinance."

Maryland Division.

According to the new Constitution, adopted at the annual meeting held in Baltimore on June 19th, each Division of the L. A. W. is required to elect new officers between July 15th and August 15th, and as it is very necessary that this Division should use every possible care in selecting their officers for the coming year, which commences September 1st, a special meeting of this Division will be held on Tuesday, July 10, at 8 P. M., at the Maryland Bi. Club House, Mt. Royal ave., for the purpose of nominating the official ticket, consisting of a Chief Consul, a Vice Consul, a Secretary, Treasurer, and four Representatives, and for the transacting of other business of importance, including the report of the League Meet Committee, the annual meeting of the Division, etc. Trusting that every member will feel it his duty to be in attendance at this meeting, I am, fraternally, A. E. MEALY, C. C.

Official Handcapper.

F. P. Prial, Box 444, New York City, is appointed Official Handcapper of the League.

GERRY JONES, Chairman Racing Board.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

HOW TO WIN AT NAP. (The secret out.) The most extraordinary book of the year. 50 cents.

BICYCLE TACTICS. By Capt. T. S. Miller. A complete manual for drill by clubs. 20 cents. New edition now ready. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

IN AND AROUND CAPE ANN, by John S. Webber, Jr., being a hand book of that most charming section of Massachusetts. It is a book equally valuable and interesting to the wheelman, tourist, the student and resident. It is illustrated finely and bound handsomely. It is one of the most complete and well written little books of the kind ever published. Price 50 cents, post paid. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

TRICYCLING FOR LADIES. By Miss F. J. Erskine. "For some time past there has been a real need with many ladies who have had their interest awakened on the subject of tricycling for some small book which should put them in possession of the most useful and necessary information without having to pay for it by their own experience. This want is now supplied, and in Miss Erskine's book will be found hints on the choice and management of tricycles, with suggestions on dress, riding and touring, etc., adapted to a lady's special requirements." 25 cents. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

MY CYCLING LOG BOOK. By "Papa" Weston. The transitory pleasures of cycling can be made as permanent as its physical benefits, by jotting down in a well devised log book, the distances and incidents of one's various journeys. Knowing that such a record is a most pleasant thing to have, and believing that the keeping of such should be encouraged, as tending to the permanent good of cycling in more ways than can be referred to here. The Log Book is hand-somely and strongly bound in red leather, will last for years of constant use, and is the best arranged book of its kind ever yet devised. It fills a want often felt by the cyclist who values records of interest for future reference. Price, post paid, $1.25. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

THE CYCLIST, the leading paper of England, is a well-filled newspaper, containing the earliest, the best and fullest reports of all wheel matters. No other paper covers the ground as the Cyclist does, and it is not only the largest in size, but has by far the largest circulation of any wheel paper. Edited by Henry Sturmer and C. W. Nairn. $2.50 per year, including postage.

BICYCLING NEWS—the Cyclers' Illustrated Paper—Every week by mail for a year, $2.50. Contains sketches of the latest inventions and of well-known European and English routes. Also special correspondence from the United States and all countries; useful information and accounts of tours. The oldest and most interesting cyclists' paper in the world.

THE BICYCLING WORLD (established 1879). The leading cycling paper of America; employs the best writers on cycling subjects, and makes a specialty of practical articles relating to cycling. All the news, carefully edited and given with dispatch. One Dollar a year.

REMARKABLE

is the increase of Safety riders, and yet not so remarkable when one considers the perfection reached in the construction of this style of bicycle, and the undeniable fact that there are many old as well as prospective riders who prefer the Safety type of machine; and this number shows an

INCREASE IN

nearly every section of the country. Attention is called to the Veloce Columbia, new this season, a Rear Driving Safety of the most improved pattern, combining the best features of other Rear Driving Safeties, with many original improvements and additions, including easy and true steering and the improved Kirkpatrick saddle, which all appreciate. A fully illustrated description of the Veloce is found in the Columbia Catalogue. The Veloce has not been extensively advertised this season, simply because an unprecedented number of orders have made it, up to this time, impossible to fill orders with our customary promptness. All orders for the Veloce, as well as for other styles of Columbias, will now receive immediate shipment.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 13 JULY, 1888.

WE have just decided to run our hundred-mile road race at Buffalo, N. Y., on September 7. Particulars later, as we have only time to make the bare announcement of our decision.

CARELESS management and insufficient protection against accidents caused by excited audiences seem to characterize the management of English race meetings. We are led to make this statement because of the oft recurring reports that come to us of the contestants being thrown after the finish. S. G. Whittaker was the victim of the last accident of this kind. In the twenty-mile race at Leicester (which, by the way, was won by W. Wood, with F. Wood second and Howell run off his feet), the excited crowd rushed on to the ill-protected track, with the inevitable consequence of collision, and in poor Whittaker's case a broken collar and badly crushed shoulder blade. Fred Wood was also knocked over and badly shaken up though no bones broken. The English are a queer people in some things, and the most peculiar of their traits is conservatism, we therefore fear that these accidents will not convey the lesson strong enough to make the owners or lessees of cycle race paths provide such protection as to make a rush on to the track by an enthusiastic crowd an impossibility, or at least a very difficult proceeding. Good strong picket fences placed three or four feet back from the track and for a distance sufficient to protect the straight run home, is the only way to prevent this collar bone breaking through the carelessness of the crowd.

THE last issue of Bicycling News contains a leader on the Springfield records, and tries to strengthen its reason for continued unbelief by the fact that Rowe claims to have ridden one-quarter mile on the Coventry track in thirty-three seconds, which claim we published in our interview with him on his arrival at home. Bi. News denies this emphatically, and says Rowe never came nearer than twenty yards short of the quarter in thirty-three seconds. The article winds up with the remarks: "If any rider came to us and asserted that he had ridden the quarter-mile in thirty-three seconds we should ask him a question or two, and such a course would appear all the more advisable when we learned that an avowed skeptic was amongst the onlookers with a watch in his hand. Rowe is as straight as possible, and would never have let an interviewer go away with a false impression had the interviewer shown the slightest desire to verify his figures. If our American contemporary accepts its 'records' with as little investigation as in the present case we must be excused if we persist in our incredulity." There is a vast amount of difference in accepting records timed and checked by responsible parties, as at Springfield, and making a statement coming from the man who claims to have done the quarter in thirty-three seconds. We do not and should not accept Mr. Rowe's claim as a record. He stated to us that in practice he did the distance in thirty-three seconds, and we printed his statement but do not look on it as record. The statement of Rowe is denied, and is by Bi. News stamped as false; unless Rowe cares to take up the matter it concerns us not at all. Even if Rowe has stated what is not true, we cannot for the life of us see the reasoning that should bring about the conclusions arrived at by our good friends of the Bi. News. The argument is too purile, too absurd, to give more than a passing notice of.

"MANSLAUGHTER."

It will be remembered by our readers that in March last Joseph M. Chase, who was riding a horse, ran over Prof. E. A. Paul, both of Washington, D. C., injuring the latter so that death ensued. Action was at once taken and Chase was arrested, and the grand jury found a true bill. On July 5th the case was brought to trial, and the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter, after an hour's absence. A motion for a new trial has been made. Judge Montgomery charged the jury, first defining manslaughter and noting the theories of each side. It was agreed, he said, that there was no intent, for had there been the charge would have been murder. The simple question for the jury was, whether the act of the defendant was reckless or careless. They should inquire as to the rate of speed—whether it was a prudent or a reckless gait.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO MR. J. S. DEAN.

FIFTEEN intimate friends of Mr. J. S. Dean, our esteemed co-editor, assembled at the Hotel Victoria in Boston last Thursday evening to give the gentleman a practical evidence of their good will and best wishes, the occasion being the departure of Mr. Dean for Europe last Saturday. There were present E. C. Hodges, F. W. Weston, A. L. Woodman, Geo. B. Woodward, J. S. Dean, E. T. Lowry, H. A. Richards, W. B. Everett, E. W. Hodgkins, C. P. Donahoe, E. T. Myers, E. G. Whitney, W. G. Kendall, Paul Butler, and Mr. Brewis. At about 7:30 the guest of the evening, escorted by his hosts, sat down in Room J to discuss the menu. After the solids had been disposed of and cigars were lighted President Hodges began the post prandial exercises by a very happy speech. "Papa" Weston and Dr. Kendall followed, in fact every member of the company had something kind and pleasant to say "standing up" in regard to the beneficiary. Mr. Dean can always make a good speech, and the occasion under report was no exception. Almost all the "old timers" were present, and Mr. Dean will carry away with him pleasant memories of the last dinner he partook of with his club members. Mr. Dean will be absent until fall. We all shall miss him; our readers, his friends and ourselves. We wish him bon voyage and a safe return.

THE Scottish Cyclist, speaking of the accident to Whittaker, says: "It is high time such idiots" (the men who rush on the track) "were treated as criminals. Let the police be called to act in the matter." We have a better remedy to propose, and that is a good, high fence over which the crowd could not easily jump.

NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND NOTES. "WING FOOT"

MESSRS. H. J. HALL, JR., and Wilson met with very unsatisfactory and, as they claim, ungentlemanly and unjust treatment at Herkimer, N. Y., on the Fourth, whence they had gone to represent their club in the races on that day, especially in the mile championship of Central New York. Wilson was caught napping in the first race, a one-mile scratch, and took second to Metz, of Utica, in 3.07. In their second race, three minutes scratch, Wilson, as he claims, was palpably fouled by a local rider and received a fearful fall, from the consequences of which he has not yet fully recovered. Hall kept on and won the race easily. The foul was not allowed, and to make matters worse, on the protest of Metz, both the Brooklyn boys were ruled out of the Central State championship, on the ground that they were not residents of that particular section, the management refusing to even refund the amount of their entrance fee, after having accepted the money and published their names on the programme. Mr. Hall thereupon refused to accept any of his or Mr. Wilson's prizes and left the grounds. He has taken legal advice, and proposes to make it hot for the management unless they come down handsomely.

MR. WALTER BONNER made the Patchogue century on the Fourth, 123 miles in all.

MESSRS. HALL and Wilson will train at Buffalo for a week or two before the races.

A LARGE party of the Brooklyns visited the new "Massapequa" hotel at South Oyster Bay last Sunday.

THE Long Islands will hold a club century later in the month, and will present medals to all who finish.

MR. G. M. NISBETT, of the New York Bi. Club, made 101 miles on the 3d of July, and 75 miles on the 4th.

MR. ELLIOTT MASON and Mrs. Mason start before long on an extended trip, per tandem, through the Berkshires.

I HAVE it very straight that our old favorite flyer, A. B. Rich, is again hard at work in preparation for the Buffalo tournament.

QUITE a party of the "Cits" visited Mr. Arthur Taylor, at Bayside on the first, taking dinner at "Garrison's," at "Little Bayside."

MR. W. C. MURPHY, of the Kings County Wheelmen, made a remarkable record in June of over 900 miles, T. J. Hall being second.

ALL the Brooklyn Clubs will have large delegations out to witness the Alphabetical road race on the 14th, and at Flushing on the 21st.

ON the Fourth Mr. Montgomery, of the Universal Cycle Club, made the Patchogue century, 115 miles, accompanied by Mr. Knapp for a distance of 95 miles.

THE Manhattan Bi. Club will hold runs as follows: July 21st and 22d, to Flushing and Far Rockaway; Aug. 5th, Coney Island; Aug. 19th, Montclair, N. J.; Sept. 1st, 2d and 3d, to Patchogue.

OUT of 150 Brooklyn Bi. Club members, 40 reporting, the mileage for June amounts to 5492 miles; April to July 1st, 18,306 miles. As Lieutenant Meeteer puts it, the Brooklyns had a "Repeater" at Captain Stillwell's last Saturday evening at dinner.

ON the first of July Messrs. H. J. Hall, Jr., T. J. Hall, Douglass, Storms and Moorhouse ran out to Roslyn for dinner, Messrs. T. J. Hall and Storms doing the distance in one hour and fifty minutes. On the same day Messrs. C. J. and J. H. Long, Hibsen and Anderson went to Hemstead.

THE many friends of ex-President N. M. Beckwith, of the Citizens Bi. Club, will be pleased to hear that he is almost fully recovered from his recent severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. The jolly Doc. hopes to be one of the large party of Citizens who are to visit Flushing on the 21st.

THE highest scores in the long Island Wheelmen for June were: L. W. Wise, 709 miles; W. Schmid, 702 miles; F. M. Tunison, 592 miles; W. Schumacher, 424 miles; Geo. Kreger, 354 miles; C. W. Starr, 345 miles. Twenty men rode over 300 miles in the month. Mr. Wise holds the top record for the year, with 2444 miles; Schmid, 1989 miles.

THE Mercury Wheel Club will tender its friends a reception at the Flushing Athletic Club on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, July 21st. From the "Cits," New Yorks, Manhattans, Harlems, Riversides, Brooklyns, Kings County Wheelmen, Long Island Wheelmen and Universals we expect large delegations, and will probably offer prizes for several invitation races open only to those clubs. After supper those who remain all night may expect a good time in the gymnasium. Mr. Fred A. Guild, the well-known tenor, and Mr. Frank Cronise, who accompanies himself so charmingly on the guitar, have offered their services to help entertain. Those who desire to remain all night will please send us word as early as possible, as hotel arrangements are poor and meagre.

PENNSYLVANIA. "ARIEL"

MEMBERS of the League Meet are still drifting about in the current cycling gossip. There are not a few of the disaffected who are objecting because Pennsylvania did not have all the offices offered her, or something to that effect. Now if Pennsylvania wanted any office why didn't she nominate her man and go into the canvass vigorously for him? Instead of that not a single nomination was made excepting the gentlemen who were elected, and if I am not mistaken there was but one representative present from this Division, with the exception of Chief Consul Jessup, during the entire nominations. No canvass that I ever heard of was ever made a success without hard work and plenty of it, and I would respectfully recommend this to the attention of any division that thinks it is entitled to one of the offices next year.

AT one of the club meetings this week, one of the chronic kickers took it upon himself to say that "Pennsylvania never had received decent treatment from the League at any place or meeting, etcetera." Then arose the club captain, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Was the gentleman at Baltimore?"
"No sir."
"Then," said the captain, "Mr. President, I can only say that never did any body of men receive better treatment than this club during their visit to Baltimore. From first to last our entertainers could not do enough for us. We were asked to take the position of honor wherever we went."

CAPTAIN W. D. SUPPLEE and ex-Captain C. A. Roberts, of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club, left to-day for a two weeks' tour through Pennsylvania and New York to Lake Erie and the Falls. A club tour to Boston was originally projected, but could not be carried through, owing to the limited number who were able to go, so the two Captains decided to start alone, and this morning the following legend adorned the bulletin board in the club house:

"Fare thee well, and if forever,
Still forever fare thee well!"
"Good luck to the poor devils at home."

Two Caps."

THERE was buried to-day, from his country home, one whose name was well known as a wheelman, S. M. Gideon. Mr. Gideon contracted a severe cold while at work in the gymnasium, and as he was in the midst of a busy season could not spare the time needed to recuperate. He was a fine all-round athlete, a member of the Schuylkill Navy, and for years of the Germantown Club, and by many was considered the fastest bicyclist in the country, having never been defeated in a race. Warm and genial in his friendships, although of quiet and retiring disposition, his untimely death will be a great loss to his many friends.

EX-CAPTAIN J. C. SCHMIDT, of the Ariel Wheel Club, of Reading, has removed to Detroit. The wheelmen of the latter place want to look out for his long legs on the road.

MR. A. B. ROPES, one of the early League members, formerly of Orange, but lately in Reading, has also turned his wheel toward the setting sun and will locate in California.

MR. J. L. McLENNAN, another old timer in the League, night editor of the Reading Herald, has followed Harry Corey's example and joined the matrimonial ranks.

HOMER SYNNESEVEDT has resigned from the Penna. Bi. Club, and his notice was received with regrets.

No long runs were taken on the Fourth, most of the riders preferring to take but a short spin through the Park in the morning, remaining in town to witness the regatta on the Schuylkill in the afternoon and the fireworks in the evening. Both the Centurians and the Pennsylvanians spent the day in this way, and the only lengthy trip made was by Dallett, of the latter club, who ran up some 125 miles, between this city and West Chester and on the pike, accompanied part of the distance by some of his club members.

THE tour of the Century Wheelmen to Staunton, the National bridge, and other points of interest in the Shenandoah Valley, is going to be an attractive trip. They start August 4th, and Mr. R. L. Shaffer will have charge. The route is via Lancaster, Gettysburg, Hagerstown, etc.

NEW JERSEY NOTES. "RATCHET"

THREE of our Newark wheelmen, Lewis N. Thorne, H. D. McCormick and Edgar P. Harrison, started with their wheels on Wednesday (4) for a down East trip of two weeks' duration. Their objective point when they left here was Portland, Maine, whence they intended to wheel to Kennebunkport, there to remain for a couple of days. A wheel jaunt at a leisurely pace from this place to Hartford, Conn., was next on the programme. From the wooden nutmeg town they will probably return home by boat.

IT is crawling along toward the time for a meeting of the New Jersey Division, but up to the present writing no official notice has been seen. Jog it along while the evenings are warm.

IT is nearly time for another record-breaking performance on Eagle Rock, but those who contemplate trying for new figures had better wait awhile, as the upper part of the hill is in decidedly "tough" shape.

SIX members of the Orange Wanderers took a run around Staten Island on the Fourth. They left the club house at 7.30 A. M., wheeled through East Orange, Newark, and Elizabeth to the "port," whence they boated across to Elm Park. From here they bowled along the smooth macadam skirting the ocean to St. George. A stop was made at Fort Wadsworth. From New Dorp they wheeled along a hard clay road to the hotel on the beach, where the cravings of the inner man were attended to. Returning to New Dorp the party inspected the Vanderbilt Mausoleum, and then skipped over to Erastina and took in the afternoon performance of Bison William and his company. Afterward they enjoyed a nice level road to Port Richmond, and then returned over about the same route. They arrived home at 9 P. M.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES. "VERNON"

THE entries at the two-mile bicycle race at the millers' picnic were as follows: Charles Wicht, 55-inch Columbia; W. J. Mitchell and Fred Bowers, 45-inch Stars. It being what you might call a "Star track" Bowers was the favorite. Wicht took the lead from the start and was not headed during the race. Bowers dropped out after going one-half mile. Owing to the condition of the track no fast time was made.

I AM glad to see that Phil Hammel has been taken back in the L. A. W. Phil was liked very much here.

THREE St. Paul cyclists were in town the other morning. They came in by Fort Snelling, and made the fifteen and one-fourth miles in one hour thirty minutes. They returned in the afternoon by the same route.

Geo. SCHULTZ has sold his wheel and purchased a horse and buggy, with room for two. I would ask why he didn't purchase a tandem? I think she would rather ride a la tandem than in a buggy.

IT is said that some of the Minneapolis club members are going to get a certain other member of the club out some fine day and kill him. He has a decided passion for running away from the boys when they are holding back for some lame duck. "A word to the wise," etc.

THE Minneapolis Club took their regular weekly run Thursday eve (5 July), and brought up at May's ice cream parlors. At their business meeting afterwards four new applicants were elected to membership. They were E. A. Wright, O. B. Stille, R. A. Douglas and Will Monach.

I GIVE below a short chapter of accidents: President Roach, of the St. Paul Standard Bicycle Club, while riding, took a severe header, and is reported to have broken his nose. And here is another: Phil Simmons, of this city, while riding at a good rate of speed, took a header and fractured his arm.

WHILE the three St. Paul cyclists spoken of above were here in town the other day, they were speaking about a fast Englishman they had down there. "Why," they said, "he can go in 2.40 any day." If that is the case I am afraid the Minneapolis boys will not stand much show against this flying Englishman.

ON Wednesday, June 20, Miss Lilla Youmans, of Winona, Minn., and Mr. J. I. Willson, of the same city, were quietly married, and came up to this city to spend their honeymoon. Miss Youmans enjoys the distinction of being the only L. A. W. lady member in this State, and Mr. Willson has been a well-known rider for several years. Everybody unites in wishing them many years of happiness.

MINNEAPOLIS wheelmen had better keep their eyes peeled for a dark horse, as we want all the medals in the coming bicycle races to stay in Minneapolis. President Panly, "Suspender" Leachman, "Boy Wonder" Bartlett, E. J. Hale, and a number of other ones, have signified their intention of going in. Colie Bell, on account of business duties, says he will not have time to train so he will not be a starter.

ON July 25th, at the Minneapolis Driving Park grounds, will occur the annual games of the Caledonian Club. Among the events is a one, three and five mile bicycle race. The five-mile is the important race of the day. An elegant gold medal is hung up for first prize, and is known as the "Governor's medal." Governor A. R. McGill has donated a sum to put into a fine medal. There will be also a second and third prize. All the races are to be made open.

LEAVENWORTH. "MENTOR"

THE wheelmen of St. Joseph, Topeka, Kansas City and Leavenworth celebrated the Fourth here in a reunion as guests of the Leavenworth County Wheelmen. The St. Joe contingent made its appearance first, and was escorted to headquarters, the Planters' house, where a large cool room had been secured for the visitors. The room was nicely decorated with flags, bunting, etc. Two sable sons of Ham dispensed cool and refreshing lemonade, and the devotee of the weed was regaled with choice Havanass. The Kansas City boys arrived at about noon, having been on the road three hours, the distance being only thirty miles. This was occasioned by a new road bed. The Topeka Club did not arrive till five o'clock; they were detained by a wreck on their track. At noon the wheelmen sat down to a dinner, and the dining room was full to overflowing with knights of the wheel. After an hour's rest a line was formed, and after riding over the principal streets, the wheelmen rode out to the Soldier's Home, where the festivities incident to the day we celebrate took place.

THE day was intensely warm, and the wheelmen perspired copiously. The Kansas City boys were all provided with Chinese parasols, which were carried in the hand and protected them from old Sol's fierce rays. The Leavenworth boys had bamboo hats on, which were very cool and pleasant but not handsome in appearance; they resembled a washpan inverted. The Soldiers' Home is two miles from the city, and is reached by a splendid macadamized road, which was very dusty, owing to immense traffic on it. It was the intention to have some good races on the driveway in the grounds but the surface was so rough, caused by recent rains, that the real races were declared off and some scrub affairs took place, Ned Jewett, of this city, winning the 300-yard dash, which created considerable enthusiasm and loud cheering for the champion.

AFTERWARDS the wheelmen "evolved" for the edification of the soldier boys, who were quite pleased with the novel sight. The return was made to town when supper was partaken of; then a run to Uncle Sam's fort, three miles distant, over superb macadamized roads, maintained by the government, was made, and was the most pleasant feature of the day's festivities. The riding in and around the fort is splendid, the scenery is beautiful, the lawns are well kept and are lovely to behold, the trees are large and stately. Then the wheelmen returned again to the home, when the Topeka Flambeau Club gave a grand pyrotechnic parade, and a fine display of fireworks was given.

LATE at night, the wheelmen took their several trains, tired and all broken up, but not too weary to thank their hosts for the grand time they had had. There were about one hundred wheelmen in all who participated in the reunion. The last rocket was fired, the clock struck twelve, and the Fourth of July of 1888 was a thing of the past, a pleasant picture in the wheelman's album of life, a happy recollection.

KANSAS CITY.
"MENTOR."
 CAPTAIN NELSON T. HAYNES and the following of the United Wheelmen spent the 4th of July in Leavenworth, the guests of the Leavenworth Co. Wheelmen: Messrs. W. P. Gossard, C. B. Ellis, R. H. Lamb, F. O. Sampson, H. C. Ramsey, H. G. Stuart, R. B. Hall, T. H. McNeil, Thomas F. F. Austin, T. E. Glaven, R. M. Deibel, D. F. Boyd, J. M. Tryon, Moriarity, Harry W. Bennet. All the boys were provided with Chinese parasols, which served as splendid protection from the intense heat of the sun. The trip up to Leavenworth was a long and tiresome one, and the boys did not reach home till nearly 4 o'clock the next morning. They all expressed themselves as having had a great time.

Mr. Editor, did you ever notice the total disregard of a number of wheelmen at a meet for dress? Since becoming a wheelman, five years ago, I have attended quite a number of meets, and at each and every one you will find one or two persons wearing a sort of a non-descript make-up, which is extremely ridiculous. I don't want to pose as a censor on matters of dress, but every wheelman owes it to his associates, if not to himself, to make a good appearance. The League has a good uniform and it is cheap, too; and there is no plausible reason why a wheelman should not be as well dressed on a wheel as when not riding.

THE United Wheelmen are now located in their new and pleasant quarters in the Horton block, on Central Street, near Ninth. The club has a suite of rooms within three blocks of the Junction, the business centre of the city. By the time this issue of the WORLD is read the club apartments will all be completely furnished. There will be a billiard, a reception and a reading room. The club will formally be "at home" next Saturday in a reception to its friends.

THE weather has been so intensely hot in this portion of the country that runs have not been called. The wheelmen do their riding in the cool of the evening.

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

ON July 4 twenty-five of our local wheelmen went to Bowling Green, Mo., via C. & A. R. R., and had a roaring good time. Consul Edwards had a neat programme arranged, which was a series of races. The first event, a five-mile race, had three contestants, who finished in the order named: First, Mehlig; second, Tivy; third, Rittenhouse. The one-mile race was contested by Percy Stone and Ab. Lewis, and won by the former.

JOE. H. KELLY, Consul at Sedalia, is booming the L. A. W. at his town. From latest accounts I hear that he will send in quite a number of applications during July.

I AM sorry to state that Captain Lewis had not arranged to take the De Soto run before the hot weather set in. It has become the custom to take that trip at least twice a year during spring and fall.

PERCY STONE is, I understand, going into training shortly to take in the Buffalo tournament, and I venture the prediction that if he gets into the shape he was in two years ago he will bring the amateur championships home with him.

I AM sorry to say Hicks has resigned his position with the Post-Dispatch, and left St. Louis for good. His loss will be felt, as none of the dailies will ever devote the space to the wheel column that the Post-Dispatch did under Hicks' regime.

THE Missouri Delegation were rather disgusted when they heard of the action of C. C. Van Sicklen in having Phil Hammel reinstated by the Board of Officers. Percy Stone had been "purified" a week before, so we still have the laugh on Chicago.

C. C. BREWSTER received a letter last week from the President of the Brooklyn Bi. Club, in which he apologizes for the actions of some of the members of his club while at the "Carrollton." I mention this for the purpose of showing that the members of that club are not all alike by a good deal.

THE "Little Nicols" base ball nine, most of whose members belong to the Missouri Bi. Club, left here last Tuesday on their annual vacation tour to Lake Maxinkucke, Ind. They were accompanied by Klipstein and several other friends, and will spend their time in hunting and fishing, and playing ball to replenish their treasury whenever it gets low.

DURING the meet, on Monday morning the run to Mt. Washington was taken, in which over a hundred riders took part. The roads were very rough, and headers were numerous. In the party were three St. Louis men, and they not only rode the entire distance without a dismount but were the only ones, with the exception of Mr. Lewis, of Johnstown, Pa., who succeeded in climbing Mt. Washington hill. They were Messrs. Suda, Prof. Stone and Alex Lewis.

THE annual elections are drawing on, still I have not heard anything as to any new candidate being in the field. The present Board of Officers, in my humble opinion, is the best one the State ever had, and I see no reason why some of them should not be re-elected. Chief Consul Brewster has from time to time stated that he did not care to hold the position for another year, but has lately consented to run again. Ab. Lewis has made a good Secretary-Treasurer during his two terms of office, and can have it again if he wants it. As the State is at present entitled to three representatives, I would name Messrs. Cameron, Stuart and Suda for the positions. This will leave the office of Vice Consul open, for which a suitable candidate can no doubt be easily found.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE FOTTEST."

RIDERS in Boston and vicinity should remember that Wells will be at Corey Hill to-morrow, Saturday, and by a possible combination of circumstances J. H. Shurman may be there also. There is to be no match, but there is to be some hill climbing, and if Shurman goes up and down twelve consecutive times, we should not wonder if Wells tried to "go him" one or two better.

AT Corey Hill, 2 P. M. to-morrow (Saturday), Wells and Shurman will be found.

DR. P. A. POWERS and Wm. Collier, of Meriden, Conn., have started on a month's tour a-wheel through New Hampshire and Maine. Their motto will be "ohne hast."

MR. BATES TORRY, of Portland, Me., is looking for a fellow who took his (Torry's) bicycle "out" to try, with a view to purchasing. The bogus purchaser is yet "out" trying the cycle, and Mr. Torry is "out" a bicycle.

THE Maine Division is trying hard to save enough money to publish a road book of the State. As Maine is a great summer tourists' resort a route book would be a paying investment for the publishers, as it would be in great demand by pedestrians and cyclists.

THE Rhode Island Division held a meeting last Saturday for the purpose of amending their by-laws to correspond with the new national constitution. Under the new order of things Rhode Island will have seven officers in all, Consul, Vice Consul, Secretary, Treasurer and four representatives.

SOME Holyoke parties have asked permission of the selectmen to build a cinder path for bicycles across a part of the town near Mt. Tom Station, it being their desire to build such a path from Holyoke to Northampton. The path will probably be built, but the selectmen have no power to grant special privileges to bicyclists on any part of the highway.

HERE'S a novel idea all the way from Lewiston, Me.: "I'll tell you what we want to do for fun," said the local bicyclist Friday morning. "We want to take up a collection from the wheelmen in Auburn and Lewiston, and purchase a number of articles to be contested for in various classes at the State Fair track after tea on these long summer evenings. We could have some splendid races, and thereby be fitting ourselves for contest in the races of next September. I think that we could arrange our classes so that the thing would be interesting."

"As in some quarters the discussion over the first prize in the third bicycle race run on the Fourth is a reflection on the Racing Committee, and arises from a misapprehension of the facts, justice to this committee calls for an explanation. Every rider signed his entrance on a blank prepared by the committee, which reads as follows: 'Please enter me in races No.s—, subject to the rules and regulations.' Right over this blank was printed in clear type the 'Rules and Regulations,' among which is the following: 'A Champion Light Roadster bicycle will be given in No. 3, subject to special conditions.' If any rider failed to read and understand these rules and regulations it is not the fault of the committee.—Hartford Times.

MR. G. J. McARTHUR and wife, of Oak Grove, Malden, recently took a tandem tour to White River Junction, Vermont. The fact is interesting in view that the tandem had never been seen before in the section travelled. The distance over route to the Junction is 134 miles. The average distance for the four days was about 33 miles. Some fearful roads and hills were encountered, but the riders were out for a pleasure ride, and all the time was taken necessary to make the trip an enjoyable jaunt and not a "road scorch." After one week's stay at the Junction the return trip was taken over a different

Who was at the last League Meet but admitted that The American Rambler was the King of the Rear Drivers?

Certainly the crowds constantly surrounding it demonstrated that it was the centre of attraction.

Its salient points are obvious. By placing the reacting spring, whose effect is self-evident, between the rider's body and the rear wheel, the necessity for the spring at the front, with its manifest erratic steering is dispensed with, so that in the RAMBLER we offer a rear driver that one

CUT THIS OUT and show it to your fellow wheelmen. It will not appear in every issue. Do you want a $10.00 or $5.00 Cyclometer? We will send you one Free, any make you desire, and this is the way we propose to do it: Every wheelman who orders a within the next 30 days will get mailed with his carrier a number corresponding with one which will be placed in a box. At the expiration of 30 days the numbers will be thoroughly shaken up together, and one drawn out; the party holding the number to correspond with the one drawn will secure a $10.00 Cyclometer. The numbers will be thoroughly shaken again, and a second number drawn, the lucky holder of which will secure a $5.00 Spoke Cyclometer.

Now is your time. You have got to buy a luggage carrier, and you may as well get a cyclometer with it Free. Every wheelman wants a cyclometer (you stand a good chance of getting one of the two), and every wheelman needs a luggage carrier. There is none equal to the "Ross Improved"; fits either crank, stir or safety bicycles. Our Carrier is new, and not known at all by thousands of wheelmen; therefore we make this splendid offer in order that wheelmen who have not seen it may know what a convenient carrier it is. Believing every wheelman who has not a carrier, and many that have, will avail themselves of this grand opportunity to get a new carrier at regular price, and a first-class cyclometer gratis. The Ross Carrier is detachable, and is made stronger and better than ever before. Do not fail to send your order at once. You can have the use of the carrier from now on and secure a chance on two prizes.

and a better route. It took only three days to accomplish the home trip, covering a distance of 147 miles. One day they covered 57 miles, and the other days 36 and 54 miles. The tandem was an object of great curiosity to the people along the route, and at Keene Mr. McArthur had some difficulty in making his way through the wondering crowd. The trip was a great success, and it will be the means of inspiring others to make a similar venture. The same parties lately rode to Massapoag House, Sharon, and back in one day, a distance of 65 miles.

NEWSAND COMMENT.

Mr. W. E. Hicks, of St. Louis, was in town on Saturday, and paid our office the honor of calling. Mr. Hicks was much impressed with the hoodlumism that seemed to pervade a portion of the members at the late meet of the L. A. W. We hope Mr. Hicks will use the influence he wields with the St. Louis press to make the objectionable element even more odious than it is.

C. C. HOPKINS will wheel from Denver, Colo. to Buffalo meet. The new track at Buffalo will be ready for training purposes next week.

THERE is a possibility of Frank Ives appearing on the race track again this year.

THE manufacturers' show at the Buffalo Exposition promises to be the finest ever seen in the country.

THE West End Bi. Club, of Rochester, had a lantern parade last Tuesday. There were 150 men in line.

GEO. M. HENDEE will be starter for the Buffalo Tournament. This is as near as Mr. Ducker can get him on the track.

ALL the clubs of Buffalo have doubled their membership within the past two months. Such is the result of tournament.

MERRILL, of Portland, Ore., is a little man but he talks big. He thinks that he can out-ride three such men as Prince Wells.

ALREADY from all over the country do we hear of plans being made by individuals and large parties to attend the great Buffalo meet.

W. WOOD beat F. Wood in the twenty-mile championship race June 23. Howell started, but the pace broke him up and he stopped at the ninth mile.

No, Mr. Page, we do not know how to spell "suppress" excepting the word be used as applied to rowdiness and hoodlumism. We think you will admit this, Mr. Page, of St. Louis.

A CURIOUS error was made by the Boston Globe in the Sunday issue, reporting the fact (?) that Temple, of Chicago, had won a race at Amsterdam, N. Y., beating Woodside and Allard.

THE Troy, N. Y., Club had a lantern parade last Tuesday night. A large number of Albany wheelmen participated. The affair wound up with a grand supper. There were nearly two hundred men in line.

MR. LENOX lately tried to break the Land's End to John O'Groat's record, but in consequence of bad weather and heavy roads he "chucked" at Bristol (to use his own words) until the conditions of success should be more favorable.

CRIST and Barber have returned. They had a fine time but they think that the English have much to learn in the way of how to run a race meeting. There is much to be learned from the English racing man, but they have much to learn in the way of managing races.

THE Ledger, of Philadelphia, is kind enough to aver that New York and Chicago are just dying for the honor of entertaining the League in 1889 and 1890. We hope wherever the meet is held in 1889 the hoodlum element will be conspicuous by its absence, or be so constructed as to lose its obnoxiousness.

To be up with the times, Buffalo has a Ladies Tricycle Club of nineteen members. President, Mrs. E. J. Shepard; Vice President, Mrs. J. Stephenson; Secretary, Miss M. S. Ross; Captain, Miss Mabel Ducker; Executive Committee: President, Vice President, Secretary, Mrs. L. Randall and Mrs. H. E. Dyrd.

THE parade of wheelmen at the Buffalo Tournament, Mr. Ducker informs us, will exceed one thousand men, and he hopes that fifteen hundred will appear in line. This estimate is based on the number of wheelmen promised from out of town and a full attendance of the four local clubs, to say nothing of unattached riders.

W. S. DOANE has changed the date of his departure of the Denver, Col., to Boston tour. His route will be from Denver to Omaha, following the U. P., from thence following the C. B. & Q. to Keokuk, thence to Bloomington, to Crawfordsville, to Buffalo and Boston via the route selected by us for our proposed Boston to Chicago race last year.

WE are in receipt of the advance sheets of the road book of Chicago, Milwaukee and Peoria riding districts. The book contains nine pages of descriptive matter and four maps. It is published by the Chicago Bicycle Club. It is the intention of the club to revise this road book and issue annually. Orders for and information in regard to the book should be addressed to R. E. Schmidt, 103 Adams street, Chicago, Ill. Price of book, fifty cents.

A CORRESPONDENT writes us: "Please state in your paper what is a good preparation for riders to use for strengthening the wind. Being short winded I should like to ascertain a remedy." We confess to being somewhat floored by the question, but we suppose that constant and gradually increasing exercise is a good way to strengthen the breathing apparatus. "Cortis on Training" is the best work of this kind that we have, and would be a good guide for our breathless friend and his ilk. If, after reading this book and acting on the advice of Cortis, the gentleman still suffers for want of breath then we feel nothing short of a good, new pair of lungs and a reconstructed stomach will avail.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

THE employees of the John P. Lovell Arms Company were the recipients of kind and hospitable entertainment at the hands of Mr. William Crawford, manager of the sporting department of Messrs. John P. Lovell Arms Co. Mr. Crawford's beautiful residence is in Melrose, and on Saturday last some thirty employees of the above named company passed a most delightful afternoon. Dinner was served on the lawn at about 3 P. M., and after that lawn tennis and music served to pass the time until 5 o'clock, at which hour a mile and half road race and a slow race were run, and handsome medals awarded to the winners and second man. The first race, about one and one-half miles, was run in two heats and a final.

First won by Geo. Hovey, time, 5:05.

Second won by J. E. Hager, time, 5:16.

Final heat won by Geo. Harvey (1), D. R. Harvey (2), time, 5:03.

Slow race won by J. F. Higgins.

The afternoon was made still more pleasant from the fact that several young ladies were present and helped to make the happy hours still more happy for the sturdy athletes who contested and did not contest in the different events.

TEMPLE AGAIN ON DACK.
HE WINS A RACE.

A CABLEGRAM to the Boston Herald, dated The Hague, July 8th, states that in the cycling tournament at Schenningen, near The Hague, on Saturday, the half-mile bicycle race was won by Temple of Chicago in 1m. 28 1-2s. Allard of England was half a second later. In the professional scratch race of 5000 metres Woodside of Philadelphia and Temple made a dead heat.

L. A. W., ILLINOIS DIVISION MEET AND RACES.

ON July 3d, the number of wheelmen present at Springfield, Ill., from out of town, numbered about 200. The races attracted a big crowd to the Driving Park, and the races, though slow, seemed to give great satisfaction. The day was sultry, and a hot breeze and a bad track made the time very slow. The races were as follows:

Mile dash—three heats. First prize, Klaholt gold medal, won by Bert Myers, of Peoria; second prize, Sommer & Pierik silver medal, won by Arthur D. Black, of Jacksonville. Myers won two successive heats. Time, 3:20 1-5, 3:41 4-5.

Five-eighths of a mile—handicap; three entries. A. J. Street, of Chicago, won, with Frank Riggs, of Chicago, second, and Fred Davenport, of Jacksonville, third. Time, 1:36 1-5. First prize, gold medal; second prize, Pope Manufacturing Company's silver cup.

One-eight-mile slow race—first prize, silk umbrella; second prize, Gormully and Jeffery hub lamp. A. J. Street, of Chicago, won, with Frank Riggs, of Chicago, second. No time.

Safety race—three miles, "cranks" barred. First prize, Illinois Watch Company watch, to George Thorn, of Chicago; second prize, Victor saddle, to Bert Myers, of Peoria. Time, 12:24.

The only entry for the unicycle mile race was Bert Myers, of Peoria, who was awarded a silver ice-pitcher. In the evening there was a grand lantern parade, traversing the principal streets of the city, which were illuminated at frequent intervals with colored fire as the procession passed. F. D.

ON COLLEGE HILL, PROVIDENCE.

This morning Mr. Henry Campbell, the bicyclist, made a record in hill climbing that probably will not soon be beaten by local wheelmen. He rode a Star safety, the new machine, and started up College hill about 10 o'clock. He went up the hill in a perfectly straight line, and turning, came down with ease and safety. Finding that he was not winded at all, he turned and rode up again, and kept it up until he had made the ascent four times without a dismount. At the end of the work he was in good condition, and could have made another trip. The grades are in 265 feet. 14 feet 100 rise; the next 428 feet in 12.60 in 100 rise; the last 327 feet in 100 rise; total length 620 feet.

RACES AT SKOWHEGAN, ME.

R. T. PATTEN, the pet Skowhegan champion Maine wheelman, had it all his own way in the mile bicycle race for the Maine championship on the Fourth of July. He won the race easily in 3.55, not being called upon to show his best speed. A Lewiston rider came in second, Darling third, Rowell fourth, Dunton fifth. Patten was enthusiastically cheered as he came under the wire, legs over the handles, with a beaming smile on his face, an easy winner. The Elmwood champion belt will remain a trophy in the possession of the popular Skowhegan Bicycle Club.

The half-mile bicycle race for the championship of Somerset County, also on July 4th, was won by William Podfish, North Anson; Herbert L. Sawyer, of Madison, a very close second; Edgar C. Dunton, Skowhegan, third; E. B. Rowell, East Madison, fourth. Time, 1.43.

PENNSYLVANIA RACING NOTES.

(By Ariel.)

HALSTED is carrying off first honors right along. Last week he won the two-mile handicap, from scratch, in the athletic games, beating S. W. Merrihew, who had 10 seconds start. Time, 7.32. His win of the one-quarter mile State Championship at New Castle on July 4th, following so closely on his victory at Lancaster in the other championship race, stamps him the best man in the state today. In both of these races he laid out Wilhelm, of Reading, and I am told that in the Lancaster race Wilhelm had not taken pains to get himself into proper condition, having underrated Halsted's powers from the defeat Schwartz gave him at Wilmington. The true story of Halsted's loss of the latter race has yet to be told. The track was of clay, and it having rained the night before there were a number of puddles on the track. Through one of these Halsted drove his racer, with the result that the wheel gathered up a lot of wet clay which stuck between the forks, clogging the wheel and practically acting as a brake. But Schwartz would not accept Halsted's subsequent challenge.

The new grounds of the Tioga Athletic Association, at Westmoreland station, were formally opened July 4th. In the bicycle races, T. Van Deusen won the five-mile handicap in 18.6 2-5 and I. S. Custer took the one-mile; time, 3.38 2-5.

RACING AT BROOKLYN, N. Y.

THE Brooklyn club members celebrated the Fourth by road races in the morning, on the Jerico Pike. The distance was five miles, and the events were a novice race and a club championship race. The course was 2 1-2 miles, to Hyde park and return. W. F. Class took the novice race, in 20.44, while H. Fay and W. Fuller ran a dead heat for second place.

In the club championship race J. W. Schoefer finished first in 18.34; H. L. Bradley was second and Borland third. Bradley led for about 2 miles, and then Schoefer went at it and was never headed.

THE RACE MEET AT QUEENS

track in the afternoon was fairly attended, and the events were flat and uninteresting. W. F. Class, of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, won the one-mile novice race in 2.30, with W. C. Marion, of the Kings County Wheelmen, second. Mr. Class won the Brooklyn Bicycle Club novice race in 3.36, with W. E. Fuller second. Boys' half-mile race was won by Len Doughty, Jr., of Queens, in 2.09 1-5, with Warren Nichols, of Hempstead, second. The two-mile handicap was won by John W. Schoefer, scratch, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, in 6.48, with H. T. Quartropp, 130 yards, Queens County Wheelmen, second. H. P. Matthews, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, won the safety race in 3.28 4-5, with Frederick Coningsby, of Jersey City, second. J. W. Schoefer won the Brooklyn Bicycle Club one-mile championship in 3.16 1-5, with H. L. Bradley second. The three-mile open event was won by J. W. Schoefer, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, in 11.31, with L. L. Bradley second. T. F. W.

RACING AT CINCINNATI.

THE Cincinnati Wheelmen held a very successful road race July 2. The conditions for such an event were favorable, weather fine and roads in excellent condition. The distance was about seventeen miles. The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette thus describes the race:

"There were eleven entries with ten starters in the race, Bryson, B. Burroughs and Perin taking the scratch; Klinn received the greatest handicap, 12 minutes; Arnot, riding the only safety in the race, 10 minutes; Alsap, 8 minutes; Keagy, 7 minutes; H. Croninger and Levi, 6 minutes; George Burroughs and Greenwood, 5 minutes. Klinn, the first man off, was started from Chester Park at 8.29, and B. Burroughs and Perin at 8.32. The last two men rode an easy race to Glendale, and after mounting the Glendale hill they both 'let 'er go,' Burroughs passing the eight men in front of him, and arriving at the toll-gate in Hamilton, which place was the finish, in one hour, ten minutes and three seconds. Greenwood, of the Centrals, who had received a five minutes' handicap, came in about two and one-half minutes behind Burroughs, his actual riding time being one hour, seventeen minutes and thirty-seven seconds; H. Croninger, of the Kenton, six minutes' handicap, was third, riding time being one hour, nineteen minutes, forty-one seconds; George Burroughs, of Avondale, five minutes' handicap, was fourth. Bryson Burroughs, the winner, is but eighteen years of age, has won the Ohio State Championship in the one and two mile races, and also holds the Sun medal, which says he is the fastest man in this locality, Newport and Covington included. The Kentons have claimed to have riders that could down him, and after this, their third trial, they have failed to show the man.

Burroughs' average gait was four minutes, and he came in at the finish looking fresh, and good for ten miles more if necessary. He has great speed and a wonderful amount of endurance, and too much cannot be said in his praise."

PITTSBURG (PA.) RACES.

The Pittsburg Cycle and Athletic Club's opening meet at their park on Saturday, July 7, was a success. The mile novice was won by C. C. Taggart, without much exertion, in 3.46. The half-mile open by Wilhelm in 1.31 1-5; W. D. Banker, second. Half-mile, 1.30 class, F. G. Lenz, first; A. C. Banker, second. One-mile open, Wilhelm, first, in 3.11 1-2; Lenz, second, in 3.15 3-5; and W. D. Banker, third. One-mile, 3.20 class, Lenz, first, in 3.27 2-5; Kahler, second. One-mile club, handicap, A. C. Banker, first, in 3.28; F. G. Lenz, second. Two-mile handicap, Lenz, first; W. D. Banker, second; and Wilhelm, third; time, 7.01.

Lenz wears the laurel wreath now. He trimmed the Bankers in great shape, but wait a month and you will see some races for blood, as W. D. Banker, like the Old Guard, may die but will never surrender, and Lenz, having scooped all the fame, will ride with renewed energy to keep it. He displayed good judgment in taking his time in the club handicap, so as to be in shape for the two-mile handicap, which was a hot fight between he and W. D. Banker, whom he beat nicely. Wilhelm rode well in this, but the handicap was just a little too heavy. He was about two seconds behind Lenz at the finish.

At the time of the League meet the P. C. & A. C. grounds were not fenced in, neither was the track surveyed. The surface is not yet in shape, but it will be O. K. in two or three weeks. President Coffin promises a fine surface at the next meet, which will probably be in August.

W. D. Banker rode in his usual form at New Castle, but he was not fit at the P. C. & A. C. races. If Lenz gets a racer he will undoubtedly do much better than on the roadster he now rides, with a cyclometer swinging from the hub.

Rhodes, the Springfield Roadster flyer, is laid on the shelf with rheumatism, which delays his attempt to lower Wilhelm's Lancaster pike record.

Halsted and Wells expect to have their hill race soon. Wells will ride Gormully & Jeffery's American Rambler Safety, while Halsted will ride Wm. Read & Sons' Ivel Safety.

Wells' defeat at Kimmswick was unfortunate, but I still think him a winner, as his first ride of half the hill before the strap broke is certainly equivalent to more than ten seconds of a handicap, which was all that Greenwood beat him. DUQUESNE.

PITTSBURGH HILL CLIMBING.

MR. J. B. KALCHER of Pittsburgh, Pa., offers a gold medal to the man who first climbs the hill called "Murder Lane" in Sewickly. The rules and grades we print below:

1. Open to all who are now members of the Pennsylvania Division L. A. W.
2. Open to all bicycles except the Star, which having climbed the hill, is barred from entering.
3. Bicycles must be ordinary road wheels.
4. Contestants entitled to an unlimited number of trials.
5. Contestants must ride hill in presence of committee, whom they shall notify three days prior to attempt.
6. The committee consists of S. H. Murray, Frederick Way and Alex. C. Robinson.

All communications for the committee should be addressed to hill-climbing committee, 442 Wood street, Pittsburg, Pa.

GRADE.

First 210 ft. 1 in.	-	-	29 ft. 3 in. = 1 in 8
Next 875 ft. 5 in.	-	-	47 ft. 11 in. = 1 in 18 1-4
" 197 ft. 9 in.	-	-	27 ft. 3 in. = 1 in 7 1-3
" 488 ft. 0 in.	-	-	29 ft. 4 in. = 1 in 17
" 78 ft. 0 in.	-	-	14 ft. 11 in. = 1 in 5 1-5
" 344 ft. 0 in.	-	-	38 ft. 6 in. = 1 in 9
" 350 ft. 2 in.	-	-	28 ft. 2 in. = 1 in 12 1-2
" 345 ft. 4 in.	-	-	37 ft. 1 in. = 1 in 9 1-3
" 136 ft. 0 in.	-	-	25 ft. 0 in. = 1 in 5 2-5
" 251 ft. 2 in.	-	-	38 ft. 7 in. = 1 in 6 1-2
" 172 ft. 0 in.	-	-	17 ft. 7 in. = 1 in 10
" 111 ft. 0 in.	-	-	16 ft. 4 in. = 1 in 6 5-6
" 37 ft. 6 in.	-	-	8 ft. 0 in. = 1 in 4 11-16
" 102 ft. 0 in.	-	-	18 ft. 6 in. = 1 in 5 1-2
" 46 ft. 0 in.	-	-	9 ft. 10 in. = 1 in 4 2-3
" 42 ft. 0 in.	-	-	7 ft. 3 in. = 1 in 5 5-6
Last 41 ft. 0 in.	-	-	4 ft. 5 in. = 1 in 9 1-3

Total 3827 ft. 5 in. - 394 ft. 11 in. = 1 in 9 7-10
Last 1015 ft. 6 in. - 155 ft. 3 in. = 1 in 6 4-7

From the above it will be seen that the average grade of Murder Lane is greater than any authentic surveys:

Corey Hill is	-	-	-	-	-	1 in 11.41
Son-of-a-Gun is	-	-	-	-	-	1 in 10.5
Fords Hill is	-	-	-	-	-	1 in 12.4
Ross Hill is	-	-	-	-	-	1 in 10.04
Murder Lane is	-	-	-	-	-	1 in 9.7
Eagle Rock, no authentic survey.

[We are sorry Mr. Kalcher did not make this open, and not confine contestants to L. A. W. members.—Ed.]

RACES AT EAST HARTFORD.

ONE thousand people witnessed the bicycle races on the afternoon of the Fourth. Promptly at three o'clock the races were started, and the first event was the novice. Result, Hills (1), Ackley (2). To the Hartford Post we are indebted for the following account of races: In the one-mile handicap (open), there were six starters, Forster, Wakefield, James, Millett, Culver and Roberts. Wakefield won the first prize, an elegant lamp; time, 3.16 2-5, the fastest during the afternoon. James won second prize, an Ideal cyclometer. Forster, by a splendid spurt near the finish, won third prize, an automatic bicycle lock.

In the one-mile handicap for East Hartford riders, five starters, H. E. Bidwell (scratch), James, Snow, Hills and Cowles. Hills had 100 yards handicap and secured first prize, a Champion light roadster bicycle; time, 3.18 4-5. Bidwell finished a good second in 3.19 2-5, and won the second prize, a Champion hub lamp. James took third prize, an automatic bicycle lamp.

The two-mile time handicap (open) race had four starters, Forster, Wakefield, Millett and Roberts. Wakefield had ten seconds handicap, and held the lead to the finish; time, 7.26 4-5. The first prize was a pair of pictures. Roberts secured second prize, a toilet set; time, 7.38 3-5. Forster won third prize, a perfection heater.

The half-mile handicap had three starters, H. E. Bidwell, Shook, and Cowles. The former was a scratch man, but he won the race, in 1.39 1-5, securing first prize, a silver handled, silk umbrella. Cowles won second prize, a Champion hub lamp. Shook third, six months' subscription to the Springfield Daily Republican.

The seventh event was the one-mile 3.20 club race, with three starters, Cowles, James and Snow. James won first prize, a pair of rat-trap pedals; time, 3.53 1-5. Snow was second, taking a Champion hub lamp.

In the one-mile 3.30 club race there were two starters, Shook and Ackley. The latter secured the lead on the second lap and held it until near the finish, when Shook made a fine spurt and went to the front, winning the race in 3.59 2-5. The first prize was a Victor cyclometer; the second a Champion hub lamp.

Three starters responded to the bell in the one-mile open race, Wakefield, Forster and Roberts. The former led nearly to the finish, when Forster spurred and secured the first prize, a Rockford silver watch; time, 3.30 1-5. Wakefield took second prize, a carving set, Roberts third prize, spoons, butter knife and sugar shell.

Only two men came to the scratch in the one-mile consolation race, Culver and Millett. The former won in 3.52 2-5, taking a Champion hub lamp. Millett secured a pair of bicycle shoes.

The officers were: C. G. Huntington, referee; F. E. Belden, H. H. Smith and J. G. Graham, judges; E. O. Goodwin, starter; L. S. Forbes and M. Cameron, timers; Joseph O. Goodwin and H. D. Olmsted, scorers; George L. Forbes, clerk of course.

At the close of the races the club members, visiting wheelmen and officers of the day were invited to Wells Hall, where a bountiful collation with hot coffee was served. The lady friends of the club officiated as waiters. The club rooms were then visited and the prizes distributed.

NEW CASTLE, PA., RACES.

THE rain knocked out the New Castle races on July 4, at least the most important events, such as the half-mile national League championship and the one-mile State championship. The hill-climb which was held in the morning on Jefferson street resulted as follows: First, W. I. Wilhelm; second, Eugene S. Michenir; third, A. C. Banker. Fox Kahler, of Millerstown, was half way up the hill when he was informed that his time was not taken. Kahler thinks it was rather a cold deal, I haven't heard any explanation of it yet. Mercer street, which had never been climbed, was surmounted by Wilhelm.

In the afternoon the races were just fairly under way when a heavy rain set in. G. K. Beam, of Pittsburg, won the one-mile novice in 3.09, with ease; he is a good one. The quarter-mile State championship was won by Halsted. Every one expected to see a race between Halsted and Wilhelm, but a man from way up in the country took a header which compelled Wilhelm to do some trick riding to get round him; when his stand-still exhibition was finished Halsted was round the turn and going fast. Wilhelm passed Banker and Lenz, but was not able to head Halsted, who won as he pleased in 40 3-5 sec.; Wilhelm, second, in 42 sec. Just then the deluge arrived, and as I left the track a parting glance over my shoulder revealed a moss back trying to roll the track with a plough horse and 600-pound rig. The races were postponed twenty-four hours, but it still rained, and it was decided to hold them either shortly before or after the Buffalo meet in September. In the hill-climb a bicycle lamp was first prize and bronze medal second. I was surprised to find a bronze medal playing second fiddle to a lantern, but a glance at the medal explained it all. The championship medals were fair, the other gold medals were not quite so "hefty," and the bronze ones were properly classified in the hill-climb.

The first train to New Castle on the E. & P. R. R. had about fifty wheelmen on board. They did not hold the hill-climb for it, although requested to do so, and the Reception Committee was conspicuous by its absence.

W. W. Windle met with a bad accident the day before the races, which placed him hors de combat. Midgley and he were enjoying a practice spin, and as they turned into the stretch Midgley struck a soft spot and fell. Windle was too close to turn out and ran into him, resulting in one of the worst falls a man could take. He was badly bruised. DUQUESNE.

THE C. W. ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEET AT BELLEVILLE, ONT.

THE annual meet of the C. W. A. held at Belleville, Ont. was one of the largest assemblies of the association ever held. On Sunday July 1st there were some 300 visiting wheelmen in town, almost all the principal clubs of the Provinces being represented. The first portion of the programme, namely, the march to church, was successfully carried out this morning, when about 150 wheelmen, headed by the Oddfellows' band in military uniform, marched to Christ church, which was crowded to the doors. The visitors were entertained by the Ramblers, who took a large number of them to Massassaga park on the steamers Ornata and Annie Gilbert and the yacht Olanthe.

At the hill-climbing contest July 2d there were seven competitors, four of whom failed to surmount the grade, which was a very trying one. The winners were as follows:—Bert Brown, Toronto, 27 3-5s.; Lave, Montreal, 34s.; Pennison, Toronto, 3d.

An adjournment was then made to the City Hall, where the annual meet was held. Mr. Miller, the president, presided, and addresses of welcome were made by Mr. Henry Corby, M. P., Dr. Wilson, Mayor, and Ald. Faulkner. President Miller responded. The officers elected are as follows:—President, W. P. Way, Ramblers, Belleville; vice president, Harry Ryrie, Torontos, Toronto. The report of the secretary shows an increase in the membership and the sum of $336 in the treasury.

The parade this afternoon presented a very imposing scene, 250 wheels being in line. The wheelmen proceeded to the Driving Park, where the racing took place in the presence of about 4,000 people. The track was good but somewhat rough on one side. Still, good time was made, Foster lowering the Canadian tricycle record to 3.18 4-5. In the one-mile championship, the five-mile championship and the tricycle Foster won virtually as he pleased. Summary:

Two-mile bicycle, novice. S. B. Cooper was 1st, W. A. Lingham 2d, Walbourne 3rd. Time, 6.25 3-5.

One-mile championship of Canada—Fred Foster, Toronto, 1st; J. H. Robertson, Montreal, 2d; E. O. Roscoe, Woodstock, 3d. Time, 2.47 3-5.

Half-mile without hands—R. Fetch, Brantford, 1st; M. F. Johnson, Toronto, 2d; Thomas Knowles, London, 3d. Time, 1.32 3-5.

One-mile 3.20 class—L. B. Cooper, 1st; Bert Brown, Toronto, 2d; W. A. Lingham, 3d.

One-mile tricycle championship of Canada—Fred Foster 1st, E. P. Baird, Montreal, 2d. Time, 3.19 3-5.

Three-mile team race—Whatnough, Johnston and Webster, of the Wanderers, rode over.

Half-mile dash—J. H. Robertson, 1st; E. O. Roscoe, 2d; Thomas Knowles, London, 3d. Time, 1.21 2-5.

Half-mile run and ride—Scott won, Walbourne 2d, Fitch nothing. Time, 2.14 1-5.

Five-mile championship of Canada—Foster won, Baird 2d. Time, 15.52 3-5.

Three-mile roadster, 35 lbs.—Robertson won, Lingham 2d, Walbourne 3d, Fitch, Knowles, Roscoe and Cooper, nothing. Time, 9.40.

One-mile Safety—Johnston won, Penniston 2d. Time, 3.11 2-5.

Ten-mile open—Fitch won, Baird 2d. Time, 35.24 1-6.

FORT DAYTON WHEELMEN.

THE Herkimer County (N. Y.) people have been regaled with their first bicycle meet, and they are enthusiastic over the results and the enjoyment obtained. The parade was a feature and the following prizes were awarded:

For club having largest number of riders in the parade, elegant cup, given by Pope Mfg. Co., Fort Schuyler Wheelmen, Utica.

Best drilled club, piece statuary, Rome Bicycle Club.

Finest uniformed club, Case Glisitenine, Waiontha Bicycle Club, Richfield Springs.

Handsome rider, gold ring, August Kinne, Richfield Springs.

Rider having largest wheel, silk handkerchief, George Smith, Little Falls.

Rider having smallest wheel, bicycle bell, Ralph Crego, Herkimer.

THE RACES

were called at the Driving Park at 2.30 P. M., there being 1,000 persons present to witness the sport. The judges were Messrs. Steele and Folts, of Herkimer; Hinds and Cole, of Richfield Springs; Gardiner, of Utica, and Smith, of Little Falls. Following is a schedule of the races, with the official time annexed:

Novice half-mile, 1st, Frank Robbins, Utica, bicycle shirt; 2d, George Whitehead, Rome, wrench. Time, 1.40.

Club championship half-mile, 1st, B. K. Helmer, $10 medal; 2d, G. W. Nellis, lamp. Time, 1.37.

One-mile dash, 1st, C. H. Metz, Utica, chair; 2d, T. L. Willson, Brooklyn, cigars. Time, 3.03 1-4.

Hurdle half-mile, 1st, F. P. Hammes, Utica, revolver; 2d, B. L. Burrows, Norwich. Time, 3.00.

County championship, one mile, 1st, G. W. Nellis, $12 medal; 2d, G. T. Woodin, shoes. Time, 3.20.

Half-mile hands off, 1st, F. P. Hammes, Utica, cyclometer; 2d, P. C. Hammes, Utica, underwear. Time, 1.43.

Boys' race quarter-mile, 1st, J. C. Robbins, Utica; 2d, W. W. Roberts, Utica. Time, 0.44 1-2.

Tandem half-mile, two starters, Nellis and Helmer. Time, 2.05.

Three-mile dash, 1st, H. J. Hall, Brooklyn, ball pedals; 2d, Harmon Marquisee, Utica, silk hat. Time, 9.57.

Club handicap, one mile, 1st, G. W. Nellis, scratch, cyclometer; 2d, G. T. Woodin, 22 yards, gold pen; 3rd, Joseph Schermer, 22 yards, whistle; 4th, Grand Christman, 40 yards; 5th, E. W. Harter, 40 yards. Time, 3.27.

Fancy riding, 1st, C. R. LaRue, Little Falls, $15 medal; 2d, Harmon Marquisee, Utica, shaving case.

C. N. Y. one-mile championship, 1st, C. H. Metz, Utica, $30 medal; 2d, F. P. Hammes, Utica, safety rifle. Time, 3.04 1-2.

Tricycle half-mile, 1st, G. W. Nellis, silk umbrella; 2d, G. T. Woodin, opera glass. Time, 1.59.

Ride and run half-mile, 1st, P. W. Hammes, Utica, chair; 2d, B. K. Helmer, lamp. Time, 2.51.

Consolation half-mile, 1st, W. A. Carter, Richfield Springs, hose; 2d, E. H. Martin, Utica, whip. Time, 1.36.

The races were closely contested, and occasioned no end of applause from the enthusiastic audience. The entire programme passed off without a break to mar the enjoyment of the day, with but one exception, and that occurred in the three-mile dash. In the fifth lap of this race Mr. Willson of Brooklyn lost his pedal near the quarter pole, and was thrown violently to the ground. The fall was a severe one, but beyond a few bruises we are glad to say Mr. Willson was uninjured.

A banquet wound up the proceedings. Our first effort makes us, like Oliver Twist, ask for "more."

RACES AT EAST SAGINAW, MICH.

We give below results of races at East Saginaw, Mich., July 4th: One-mile novice—E. R. Pratt, of Flint, first; John Nichols, East Saginaw, second; time, 3.09.

One-mile, open—John Rivard, East Saginaw, first; Geo. Lane, Detroit, second; time, 3.02.

Half-mile, boys—Willie Pease, first; A. O. Dunk, second; time, 1.43.

Ten-mile team race for State championship—Detroit team, Geo. Lane, Wm. Metzger and J. Lamont; East Saginaw, John Rivard, C. Gardiner and H. Osborn. Rivard, of the Saginaws, set a hot pace and gained a lead in the eighth mile of over a quarter of a mile.

Detroit then drew out, giving the race to Saginaw. This makes the third consecutive time East Saginaw has beaten Detroit for the State championship.

Five-minute time race, distance one mile—Won by John Nichols in 4.50.

East Saginaw Bicycle Club championship—John Rivard, first, 3.05; Walter Marr, second, 3.05 1-4.

One-mile, 3.20 class—E. R. Pratt, Flint, first; Walter Marr, second; time, 3.08 3-4.

Five-mile lap race—H. Osborn, first; E. R. Pratt, second; time, 17.59.

ERRATA.

OHIO DIVISION MEMBERS PLEASE NOTICE.

IN our last issue we named the place of meet of Ohio Division L. A. W. as being at Cleveland. This is an error. We should have stated the place of meeting as Toledo and not Cleveland.

HARRIS ON STAND PIPE HILL.

WASHINGTON has a hill that, 'tis said, troubles most men to climb more than once, but on June 6th P. M. Harris, on a Springfield Roadster, made up his mind to see how many times he could ride it without a dismount. Eight times up and down did Mr. Harris go before he got off his machine. The Washington men seem to think that this record will stand for some time to come, but who can tell, when we have our Wells, our Shurman, our Worden and our Harradon? Will some of our Washington friends please give us the grade of Stand Pipe Hill?

'T WAS HALSTED AND NOT STENKEN.

Editor Bicycling World:—Seeing in the edition of June 29, 1888, of the B1. WORLD AND BULLETIN that Stenken, while on his way to Baltimore, had made his mile on the University of Pennsylvania track in 2.51 3-5, being the fastest mile ever ridden on that track, I wish to correct the same, as E. I. Halsted, of Pennsylvania Bicycle Club, made his mile in practice in 2.50, which is the fastest mile either in practice or race which has ever been made on that track. As there were two watches on him at the time there can be no mistake, and as I was one of the timers I am willing to vouch for it. Date of this event was about the middle of May, when he was training for the inter-collegiate race. Hoping you will give this correction space in the next edition, I remain very truly yours,

JNO. G. FULLER.

MR. SHRIVER ON THE CONSTITUTION.

Editor Bi. World and Bulletin:—The decision at Baltimore was that we must be content to live under the law which has been made for us by the Revision Committee, and if we want an opportunity to modify it a year hence, must carry on our discussion in the press, rather than in the convention which had been called to consider the new constitution. Availing myself of this permission, I would like to begin the discussion right now, by way of explaining why my own vote, and I presume that of others, was cast against the adoption of the constitution on the final vote.

We took this course not merely as a protest against the farce of cutting off debate in a body called together from all over the country to deliberate, not to blindly ratify the work of one or two men, but even more because the new constitution, while in the main good, was in some important points fatally defective. I, for one, have not a word to say in criticism of the careful caucusing of Sunday night, which had so ably rallied what we may call the clique forces, and would blame myself for not having been equally well prepared, were it not that it was impossible for me to have been in Baltimore on Sunday evening. But I do think that the gentlemen who were so determined that the "harmonious symmetry" of their work should not be disturbed by the impertinence of independent thought, might at least have made that work a little more perfect in form. This constitution which is now adopted by so large a majority is not only clumsily worded in several sections, so as to leave its meaning doubtful, even to at least one of the men concerned in its preparation, but has at least three grave errors of principle involved. Should any division fail to provide a plan of elections there is no power whatever by which the national body can step in and supply the deficiency, and in such an event the members of such a division must be disfranchised entirely. Under the draft first presented the territorial divisions were excluded from representation in the national assembly, except by Chief Consuls, and with the amendment doing away with territorial divisions the smaller divisions still have no representation except by Chief Consuls; and unless they have fifty members each, these divisions are not even to be trusted to elect their Chief Consul. At June 15 there were twenty-four divisions thus disfranchised, with a membership of 308. When we come to the divisions which are given the right to vote, the apportionment is nominally fair, as the twelve big divisions with 540 members send only sixty-four men to the national assembly, while thirteen smaller ones, with 1600 members, elect eighteen representatives of the various grades. But there is the further objection that we have adopted the vicious system of delegated choice which has so degraded the United States Senate, and the result will be that a governing clique in any one of the big divisions will have far more power than a substantially unanimous popular choice in a dozen of the smaller divisions.

When our committee had so carelessly put together an instrument which should be a reasonably perfected organic law, it seems a pity that their pride of authorship and impatience of criticism should have led them to force a vote before the League had been given an opportunity to correct at least manifest errors of detail.

Yours truly, EDWARD J. SHRIVER.

New York, June 23, 1888.

FROM DENVER, COL., TO COLUMBUS, OHIO.

FROM this quiet village of the "Western Reserve," I would like to speak to the many wheelmen whom I met along the line in my trip a wheel from Denver to Columbus. I don't know of any better medium than the WORLD, for I found that the announcement of this tour in your paper, had put wheelmen on the lookout all along the proposed route.

At daylight, on June 3d, J. L. Gard and the subscriber, accompanied by several members of the Ramblers, left Denver for Kansas City, our route being along the Kansas Pacific through the "Golden Belt." At Magnolia, nine miles out, our escort turned back and we continued our journey eastward, little knowing what a hard day's work we had before us. About nine o'clock a stiff breeze sprung up from the east, and continued to blow in our faces for several days. And how it does blow on the prairies! About thirty miles from Denver we found considerable sand and rather hilly country, putting riding out of the question. Of the 56 miles which we made the first day to Deer Trail, we walked 18. They were two weary wheelmen that stayed at the home of the "Deer Trail terrors" on the night of June 3d. The second day we found very soft roads from recent rains, necessitating about six miles of walking and track riding, which in places were found superior to the wagon road. The third day out the roads improved and were fair, but the tireless wind continued to blow in our faces until we reached Collier on the 8th. Between Collier and Wilson, Kansas, we found the finest road, and the country just rolling enough to be interesting. With a favorable wind that day, the 9th, our average was about 12 miles per hour, or 100 for the day. There is very little sand on the road we traversed, except in the vicinity of Junction City, and the day's ride between that point and Topeka, 79 miles, was one of our hardest, 30 of which we rode on the track. The hills ten miles east of Junction are sandy, and at that point we took to the track, finding several miles of fair riding, on which we would make about seven miles per hour. As bridges abound in that section, frequently as many as ten in a mile, to avoid dismounting and difficult mounting we rode many of them. I believe we were the second wheelmen to travel this road. It is needless to add that we were always surrounded by an inquisitive crowd at every stopping place. The natural roads of Kansas are good. They have ruts, but unless there is a strong side wind, as we had for two days, they can be ridden very nicely. Living in that State is reasonable and wholesome, and their horses seldom scare. Some of the "towns" are small, consisting merely of a section house and water tank, but we always found good accommodations at those places; this, of course, applies to the extreme western part of the State and Eastern Colorado. The finest section of Kansas in a wheeling way—in the vicinity of Fort Hays and Ellis—contains not a solitary wheelman! We were shown courtesies by the wheelmen of Junction City. A "pilot" in the morning through Fort Reily would have been of great benefit to us, for in the early hour that we passed through the reservation there was no one astride to "put us on" to the right road.

I would advise all wheelmen leaving Junction City alone in the early morning and traveling east to take the track when near the Fort, for of the many roads there, it is difficult to select the right one. Our average mileage through Kansas was 67 miles per day. From Topeka to Kansas City the roads are rough and hilly. At Kansas City Mr. Gard finished his journey, and I trained it from there to Peoria, Illinois, avoiding the flooded district and the bad Missouri roads, of which I had heard so much. If Missouri roads are any worse than those that I found in Illinois I should not like to see them. But my programme was to ride from Peoria to Columbus a-wheel, via Bloomington, Crawfordsville, etc., and I did it, but the greater part of it was a rough ride. The country, however, was interesting and in many places romantic, especially so a few miles west of Crawfordsville. The Illinois roads are nothing if not rough, but near the Indiana line I found a few miles of pike either side of the larger towns. I did more track riding in Illinois and six miles of it east of Veedersburg, Indiana; total track riding, forty-five miles. I met many wheelmen in Peoria, Bloomington, Crawfordsville, Indianapolis, Springfield and Columbus. The Crawfordsville club is small, but one of the most energetic I have ever seen, and the beautiful quarter-mile track that they are building and expect to use on the Fourth of July would be a credit to any city. It is located in the fair grounds inside the horse track, and in the midst of towering trees, which, however, do not obstruct the view. In the centre of the track is a lake and numerous green islands, the tout ensemble being charming. I congratulate the live wheelmen of Crawfordsville. I found few wheelmen in Illinois who could give me no information as to roads for more than five or ten miles from their towns, for they "always took the train to such and such a place and wheeled it from there." Honor or not, I wheeled it through their State and left my curse on their roads; if it doesn't improve them it certainly cannot injure them, they are as bad as they could be for a wheelman. I was somewhat disappointed in the National pike, which I "struck" at Indianapolis. It was very sandy near the large towns, and the large stones in many places made it rough. The real National road does not lead to Dayton, but about ten miles north of there and two miles east of Richmond, Indiana, I left the much-traveled pike and continued on the National road, which I found better than the one to Dayton. I made a hundred-mile run from Indianapolis, but with a pretty stiff breeze against me and the thermometer at one above one hundred degrees it was hard work. I rode between Denver and Columbus 1008 miles, riding time being fourteen full days. Had no accidents and but little trouble with horses or mules, that little being in Illinois and Indiana, and the cause there is more with the drivers than the horses. My health was perfect and appetite enormous. I thoroughly enjoyed the trip, and recommend all wheelmen to tour.

C. C. HOPKINS, of Denver.

Garrettsville, Ohio, June 25, 1888.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

THE five and three-eighths mile road race held at Memphis, Tenn., June 30th, resulted in a victory for the "Apollo," W. A. Whitmore taking first prize from scratch. W. B. Everett & Co. are happy to state that recent large shipments of safeties have enabled them to catch up on their orders for this type of machine, and gives them a good stock to sell from.

As a mechanical feature, the Trigwell Ball Head used on the New Mail, must be conceded to be a perfect success. Messrs. William Read & Sons report that they have not changed any feature of the head, since its adoption some three years ago, and though they have given it a thorough trial, speak highly, of the additional rigidity given the whole wheel.

REMARKABLE

is the increase of Safety riders, and yet not so remarkable when one considers the perfection reached in the construction of this style of bicycle, and the undeniable fact that there are many old as well as prospective riders who prefer the Safety type of machine; and this number shows an

INCREASE IN

nearly every section of the country. Attention is called to the Veloce Columbia, new this season, a Rear Driving Safety of the most improved pattern, combining the best features of other Rear Driving Safeties, with many original improvements and additions, including easy and true steering and the improved Kirkpatrick saddle, which all appreciate. A fully illustrated description of the Veloce is found in the Columbia Catalogue. The Veloce has not been extensively advertised this season, simply because an unprecedented number of orders have made it, up to this time, impossible to fill orders with our customary promptness. All orders for the Veloce, as well as for other styles of Columbias, will now receive immediate shipment.

DIFFICULT REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

TWO TRIPS TO THE EMERALD ISLE, by that well known wheelman, A. J. Wilson ("Faed"). A charming little book, giving the author's account of a "Racing Trip to Dublin" and a "Touring Trip to Killarney." When we say that George Moore did the illustrating that will convey to the cyclist's mind that they are well done. The narratives are delightfully told, and the book should find a resting place on every cyclist's table. Price, postpaid, 45 cents. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

MY CYCLING LOG BOOK. By "Papa" Weston. The transitory pleasures of cycling can be made as permanent as its physical benefits, by jotting down in a well devised log book, the distances and incidents in a well varied journey. Knowing that such a record is a most pleasant thing to have, and believing that the keeping of such should be encouraged, as tending to the permanent good of cycling in more ways than can be referred to here. The Log Book is hand-somely and strongly bound in red leather, will last for years of constant use, and is the best arranged book of its kind ever yet devised. It fills a want often felt by the cyclist who values records of interest for future reference. Price, postpaid, $1.25. For sale by Bicycling World Co., 12 Pearl st., Boston.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

Copy for new advertisements must be handed in by Tuesday morning, to insure their being inserted in the current week's issue. CHANGES must be in hand no later than Monday, to insure attention for the following issue.

All communications in reference to advertising should be addressed to Mr. Hazard as above.

All checks and postals for advertising or subscriptions must be made to the order of the Bicycling World Co., as heretofore.

TO ADVERTISERS: The circulation of the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN is more than the total circulation of the other weekly and monthly cycling periodicals combined, published in the United States. Bear this in mind, and give us YOUR patronage.

EDITORS:

C. W. FOURDRINIER.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 20 JULY, 1888.

A CHANGE must have come over the spirit of the dreams of Bicycling News. It accepts Rowe's records and booms the Buffalo tournament, all in one issue; and yet we have not heard of any excessive meteorological disturbances or earthquakes in England. When we saw the issue alluded to we rubbed our eyes, stuck pins into our tender flesh, and finally had recourse to a strong magnifying glass, in order to assure ourselves that we were not asleep and that our eyesight was in its normal condition.

FOR the edification of our readers we reprint an article which appeared in a recent number of the American Athlete:

"What the League seems to need is a President with a little less dignity to support, or one better able to command respect. At the Baltimore meet Kirkpatrick was as mad as a wet hen because he was not treated with the deference due to his exalted position. At the smoker Tuesday night, when some of the wheelmen grew a little boisterous in their fun, Kirk arose in wrath and said the police ought to be called in to preserve order, and this in spite of the fact that as soon as they were spoken to the boys at once subsided. But the last straw was placed on the Presidential shoulders at the Bay Ridge supper Wednesday night. A table had been reserved at the pavilion for the President and a few of the most prominent officers, and another table for the Pennsylvania Club. In the rush of 1,200 hungry wheelmen for seats these tables were both appropriated. The Pennsylvania Club waited quietly until the tables had been vacated and made ready for them. Our worthy President, however, was furious at the indignity, as he chose to interpret it, and was heard to assert that if he had any influence in the framing of the new By-Laws there would never be another general meeting of the League. Not content with taking all legislation out of their hands, he now wishes to prohibit their coming together as a body for social purposes. Of course, it was all very naughty and all that for the rank and file of the League not to bow down and let him walk over their prostrate bodies, but would it not be more comfortable and, on the whole, more enjoyable to allow this Grand Mongul to stay at home next year and allow the wheelmen at large to enjoy themselves in freedom? To our mind a machine-made President ought to be satisfied with having obtained the office, without demanding or expecting too much deference."

Now the above is an unfair and uncalled for attack, and it places the Athlete on record as being in favor of hoodlumism. Instead of being taken to task for trying to bring certain ill-bred members to a sense of decency, he should be commended for his well meant and very proper efforts. This article speaks very lightly of the so called "fun" (?), and asserts that the "boys subsided after being spoken to." This last statement is not a fact, on the contrary the noise increased until it became "Hades let loose," as an eye witness (not an officer of the L. A. W.), stated. As for the incident of the table reserved for the President and appropriated by others, we leave that episode for the "rank and file" to cogitate upon.

WE print below in extenso an article taken from Bicycling News on Rowe's records. Italics are ours:

"In course of time we shall doubtless educate our American contemporaries up to the task of checking records claimed, and affording the enquirer all the necessary data to prove their genuineness. Last week we gave two quotations from the American cycling press illustrating 'How to do it,' and 'How not to do it.' The Wheel, after a preface of unnecessary and useless abuse, published a number of clear and explicit statements, giving evidence as to the times accomplished and the precautions taken to secure accuracy. The BICYCLING WORLD, on the other hand, made the calm announcement that Rowe had ridden a quarter mile in thirty-three seconds at Coventry—a statement utterly at variance with facts, which would have been discovered on the slightest and most superficial investigation. Under the circumstances revealed in the latter case, we may fairly ask, 'Were we wrong in asking for further evidence in support of Mr. Rowe's records, and does not this instance show that we were not so insane as some people suppose when we failed to regard the mere fact of publication in the columns of an American paper as proof positive that the alleged records had been fully investigated, and were worthy of credence?' Turning to the statements we published last week, we consider that they fully substantiate the records claimed for Mr. Rowe, as they are full and explicit in every way. When we are afforded proper evidence, such as they supply, and not merely told that 'Manager So-and-so informs our Spryville representative that the day before yesterday Mr. Slow made the mile in 2m. 20s.,' we shall be ready, as we are now, to accept the times recorded."

We are overwhelmed and completely dumbfounded. The impossible seems to have been accomplished, and Hillier accepts the records, but he backs down with a poor grace. Thanks are due Editor Prial as being the means of knocking some sense of propriety into the head of our worthy fellow editor. We say he backs down with a poor grace because of the unfairness evident in the first paragraph, and because of the absurdity of dragging in again Rowe's claim of thirty-three seconds for the quarter at Coventry as a reason for doubting the Springfield records. The position taken by Bi. News that we have only just come into possession of the facts necessary to establish these records is false, and utterly without foundation. At the time the records were made the names of the officials were appended and they "checked the records" in a way that was satisfactory to us and in a manner which has not been strengthened by the subsequent letters published in the Wheel. The back down is so unmanly, so weak and worded in so peevish a way as to take off the value of the acknowledgement. We could write a couple of pages, picking to pieces the above masterpiece of purility, if we felt that our readers could stand it. Suffice it to say that Bi. News backs out through a very diminutive aperture, and in view of the present attitude of Bi. News, we can only say "thank you for nothing."

NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING FOOT."

ON the 11th inst. I received a very pleasant call from Mr. I. L. Sawtelle, of Wellington, Ohio, a large town about 50 miles southeast of Cleveland, who started on June 30th for a tour through the Eastern States, in company with seven others, who were to be dropped on the road to Niagara. The run to Cleveland was made early on the 30th, and 20 miles farther before night. Girard, Penn., was reached on July 1st: Northeast, Penn., on the 2nd; and the 3rd and 4th were spent in riding to Buffalo, N. Y., and seeing the town, from whence he rode on the five to Syracuse, and took train to Herkimer. On the 9th Mr. Sawtelle rode to Albany, and being caught by the rain, stayed there over the 7th and 8th, and came to New York by the day boat on Monday, the 9th. Mr. Sawtelle left here on Friday for Philadelphia, via the route of the great century, for Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington. He rides a Star and is recommended to the tender mercies of brother wheelmen.

A. J. MENGE, Riverside W., promises to blossom out as a sprinter on the track.

The Manhattans look well in their white helmets, which serve well to distinguish them at a distance.

"NEW YORK'S two handsome Captains," Metzger and McFadden, are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

The Manhattan B. C. will hold a reception tonight at their club home on West 70th Street, to-day being their anniversary.

MUSIC in the Mall, Central Park, last Sunday attracted a large number of wheelmen and one or two ladies, the latter per tandem.

THE Riverside Wheelmen now number nearly 40 members. Their club house is conveniently situated on the corner of the boulevard and 108th street.

The new club house of the New York B. C. Club is nearing completion. The roof is now on, and the beauty of the architecture is apparent, especially as regards the pillared balcony.

A GRAND hop will be given at the new Massapequa Hotel, at South Oyster Bay, on Saturday evening, July 28th, and a good many of the Brooklyn boys are getting up a party to go down.

THE Huntington B. C. Club will hold a race meeting on the trotting track near Huntington on the 27th inst. The track is a mile in circumference, and the boys are putting in a great deal of practice in anticipation, especially Sam and Charlie.

THE Independent B. C. Club is a new organization numbering twelve members, with headquarters at No. 2 East 80th Street, and is the only club east of Central Park. Their uniform is bluish gray and they intend joining L. A. W. as a club soon.

MESSRS. MONELL and Kreger, of the Long Island Wheelmen, made centuries down the island to Patchogue on Sunday last, the former riding from Brooklyn to Patchogue in five and one-half hours. The former made 106 miles, and the latter 130 miles.

MESSRS. BARKMAN, Allen, Class, Adams, Coningsby and Fuller, of the Brooklyn B. C. Club, took a little trip up as far as Trivoli, N. Y., twenty-eight miles above Poughkeepsie, on the night boat last Saturday evening. Breakfast at Poughkeepsie, down the river to Fishkill, Newburgh, West Point, and by train home was the programme.

THE Universal Cycling Club now numbers nearly fifty members. The club room is situated at No. 78 Tillary St., Brooklyn. The members are enthusiastic wheelmen and always turn out in large numbers. They had fourteen out on the Fourth of July run to Babylon, and are now preparing to give a moonlight excursion to their lady friends.

LIEUTENANT MEETER and Mr. Borland rode from the Plaza to Patchogue on Sunday, July 8th, in five hours and forty-five minutes, going down without a stop except at Babylon. Ninety-two miles were made before dinner at the Massapequa, from whence they returned with the rest of the Brooklyns who had taken dinner at that hotel. The round trip amounted to 124 miles.

AT the Flushing Athletic Club, to-morrow, the Mercury Wheel Club will receive its many friends. Two races will be given: a 9 lap (1 4-5 mile) team, relay race, and a one-mile novice. The former is an invitation race, and the latter costs 50 cents for an entry. Handsome prizes will be given. Refreshments after the races, music in the evening and a moonlight swim later. As the home nine will be away on that day, we will get up two scrub nines, with Billy De G. for umpire, probably. Arrangements have been made to keep those who come to stay all night at the College Beach Hotel, College Point. Various runs are projected for Sunday, the 22nd, and choice can be made between Huntington, Babylon, Far Rock-away, etc.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

"VERNON."

THE Minneapolis Bicycle Club on the 12th took a fourteen-mile spin on their regular Thursday night run. They went to Diamond and Pearl Lakes, Richfield, and from Richfield they rode over to the Pavilion at Lake Harriet, which has just been built, and listened to some fine music by an excellent band. Lake Harriet is getting to be a great pleasure resort. From three to five thousand may be seen there almost any night. Trains are run every twenty minutes from town. While out at the lake we met Mr. Slater and Mr. Steen, of Chicago. Mr. Steen is a member of the Illinois Cycling Club. They are here to attend the photographers' convention. We regretted that they did not bring their wheels with them, as we could have shown them some very fine roads.

E. A. SAVAGE was out on the club last Thursday night, for the first time in many "moons." The query among his friends is "how did she happen to let him off?"

WHILE C. R. Aldrich and Geo. Bartlett were riding the Rudge tandem up Nicollet avenue the other evening they ran into the curbing and were both thrown off the machine. Bartlett's hand was cut quite badly.

I WISH that Minneapolis wheelmen would brace up and invite the League to hold their next meeting in this beautiful city. We have so many lakes and fine roads around us that I am sure nobody would be disappointed, unless they were habitual grumblers.

LEAGUE members already have begun to talk about who is to be our next Chief Consul. It is understood that Chief Consul Heath will decline to run again. We will be sorry to lose him, as he has always looked out for the welfare of the Minnesota wheelmen.

ALL our flyers are in hard training for the races to be held here 25 July. Harry Lacer, the "heavy weight" of the club (95 pounds), looks to be in good shape, and our racing men had better look out for him. "Suspender" Leachman is also in hard training for a match with our worthy President Parly. It is stated that Leachman chewed up a box of Tutti Frutti last week while training. E. J. Hale and Chas. Barwich keep on riding and do not say a word. I would repeat the warning, look out for a dark horse in the races. I believe he rides a 54-inch New Rapid, and goes out to Lake Harriet every night to train.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE FORTIST."

THE Cambridgeport Bicycling Club started last Saturday on the schooner Fleur-de-Lis thirty strong, for a trip of fifteen days to remote Eastern places of interest. They will first reach Mohegan, Me., and from thence will proceed to Grand Menan and Digby, N. S., and thence to St. John, N. B., stopping a few hours at Annapolis and one day at St. John. Mt. Desert will next be visited, where points of interest will be inspected. Leaving Mt. Desert the party will proceed to Deer Isle, and through Fox Island Thoroughfare to Vinal Haven, where the extensive stone quarries and works of the late Governor Bodwell will be visited. The journey will then be continued to Town's End, where the night will be passed. Leaving here the excursionists go to Biddeford Pool, from which point they will start for home, reaching here on the thirtieth.

PACK your gripsack and get ready to start for Martha's Vineyard August 2d, 3d and 4th.

THE Springfield Bicycle Club have organized its orchestra. There are now eight members.

DUCKER stopped over in Springfield to see if he could talk the club into holding a tournament there this fall.

THE Boston Bicycle Club will repeat its outing to Great Head. The members will be the guests of the Great Head Yacht Club.

THE weather in the Eastern and Middle States has been superb for wheeling during the past month, and it has been taken advantage of to the fullest extent.

SPRINGFIELD riders are rather prone to doubt the time made by Barnett of South Hadley in the race from Holyoke to Springfield. The distance is fully 8 miles over rather heavy roads; the time claimed is 22 minutes.

IT is now very doubtful whether Lynn will have a cycle tournament this year. Arrangements for a race meeting July 28 were nearly completed, when it was discovered that the grounds were engaged for a base ball game.

WHEN the cinder path covering sandy portions of the road between Northampton and Holyoke (Mass.) is finished the bicyclists desire to celebrate by having a picnic at Mt. Tom. About the last of this month they think the event will happen.

MR. J. H. HULSE of Northampton, Mass., called on us last Tuesday. He reports progress on the Northampton path. "We are working on it," he said, "and we are going to complete it although we have encountered unexpected difficulties."

WE hear that the name of Mr. E. B. Coleman of Cambridge is to be proposed as candidate for Representative from the Second Massachusetts District. From what we hear of Mr. Coleman we judge him to be a good man, and we sincerely trust the returns will show his election "by a large majority."

LAST Saturday it was an inspiring sight to witness Mr. J. B. McCune, President of the Springfield Roadster Co., essay the ascent of Corey Hill one time. Through the machinations of Dr. Emery and Drummond (both of whom it is suspected had large amounts on the hill and against the rider), Mr. McCune failed to get there.

AS Mr. William Small of Dexter, Me., was riding home from Garland, Me., he was attacked by a large dog. The brute caught Mr. Small by the heel dragging him to the ground and lacerating the lower part of his leg terribly. The name of the owner of the dog is T. J. Fogg. We have not heard if Mr. Small has commenced action, but we sincerely hope he will.

THE members of the Rhode Island Wheelmen, Providence, have not been idle this season, as shown by the mileage of seventeen members (all who have a complete cyclometer record), 15,727 3-8 miles. Treasurer H. L. Perkins heads the list with 1590 miles to his credit since April 1st. W. W. Hudson's 1196 1-2 miles for June is ahead of the 1050 of Mr. Nisbett, of the New Yorks. Until someone goes these figures better, they claim the June record for him.

THERE were but a few spectators who saw a bicycle following a vegetable wagon on the river road, West Springfield, last Saturday. The horse has a bad habit of stopping suddenly when it changes from a trot to a walk, and when it made the change a much disgusted wheelman gathered himself up out of that wagon and from among the cabbages therein. Luckily no very serious damage was done, but that man will not ride hereafter very close to a team in front.

L. A. W. 18928 writes us: "I notice an item in your last issue giving the one mile record for the State of Maine as 3.20."

I am not aware that this time has ever been made and do not think it has. I claim the one-mile amateur championship of my State, having ridden in every race that I have ever heard of and winning them all. My best time was at Hartland, Maine, July 4th, 1887 which is on record as one mile in 3.26 3-4.

If any one has written you that they can ride a mile in 3.20 I should like to know their name, and they may consider themselves challenged at once. Unless the 3.20 item can be verified, please let this correction appear in your next issue."

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

FROM a good many sources we have received words of encouragement for our efforts in attempting to suppress hoodlumism. In one or two instances we know of clubs which have taken a decided stand and are making it very properly unpleasant for the members who have made themselves conspicuous by their ungentlemanly behavior. Our action in this matter is not a mere spasm, but it is the inauguration of a steady campaign against hoodlumism in the ranks of the L. A. W. and among cyclists generally.

THE lady's bicycle has appeared on the streets of Rochester, N. Y.

ALL the makers and importers will be represented at the Buffalo exhibition.

COLORS caps will be used to identify riders at the Buffalo tournament instead of numbers.

MR. DUCKER has been in town for the past three days, booming his tournament and making arrangements for special rates from this section to Buffalo and return.

MR. JNO. A. WELLS aspires to the distinction of being a fast road riding tricyclist. He is the possessor of a racing Quadrant, which he believes will stand the wear and tear of road racing.

THE following named Nashville, Tenn., riders, Messrs. Jo. Northern, James Lillie, Ed. D. Fisher, and C. R. Vanderford, rode 108 miles straight away in twelve hours, actual riding time. This is the first straight-away 100-mile ride ever made in Tennessee.

WHEELMEN can get the best accommodations for one dollar and fifty cents a day at the Prospect House, Lugoon Heights, Martha's Vineyard, for the coming Massachusetts Division meet, by applying at once to J. W. Thompson, Proprietor, by letter or telegram.

WE sincerely wish Mr. Prial success as official handicapper of the League. It is a thankless office, and a very difficult one to fill. We think there is no one in the country better fitted for the position than Mr. Prial, and we hope his earnest efforts will produce the most satisfactory results.

THEY are going to try a new kind of pavement at Burlington, Iowa. The pavement consists of a course of macadam upon which will be laid four inches of sand and then a course of common brick laid flat. Upon this will be placed the top course of hard brick properly bedded and set on edge.

FRED FOSTER won some medals in Canada, July 2d. These medals were sent to him in the United States by express, but the duties charged exceeded the value of the medals, and so Frederick refused to receive the medals. In these days of free trade and protection controversy, this item may be of peculiar interest.

THE most economical trip on record is that made by R. L. Raynor, who claims he rode from Chicago to New York at a total cost of $5. He says he cooked his own meals. This is one of the phenomenal achievements one hears of once in a while, but which one can believe or not as his bump of credulity will permit.

WE received a postal from Mr. T. J. Putnam, of Washington, giving the sentence of the court in the case of Chase, who ran down Prof. Paul, as thirty days in jail and $200 fine. We reported last week that the jury found him guilty of manslaughter. The sentence as reported—"thirty days in jail and $200 fine"—seems very trivial for an offence like that.

THE Buffalo track will be ready for training purposes the last of this week. The finishing touches will be put on and the track constantly rolled and sprinkled from this time on to the day of the opening. Four horses have been purchased by the management to be used for no other purpose than that of sprinkling and rolling the surface. Money and pains will not be spared to make it the finest track ever ridden over.

THE track at Scheveningen, Holland, is constructed on a novel principle. Bricks laid edgewise on a loose foundation of ordinary earth made level, then broken bricks and other loose material is laid on top, after which an even top surface of fine burnt cinders and brick dust is placed on. The corners are raised fully three feet, and as they are much wider than the ordinary corners of quarter-mile tracks, it is expected this new Holland track will be a record one. The Amsterdam track is built of a peculiar white cement, and is very smooth and fast.

THE reason given by an exchange that the Rover type of bicycles will be excluded from races with ordinaries at the Buffalo tournament because the management desire to "ensure the safety of riders on ordinary wheels"—is ridiculous. The true reason is because they are a different "class" of machine. Might as well race sloops and schooners or canoes and shells in the same class. It is not a question of safety, it is a question of class, although in England the two types have been allowed to start in the same race, we do not think it a good precedent or one to be followed.

THE sight of a pretty girl must have a very serious effect on the youth spoken of by the New Haven Union, if the following item be true: "We have been told a story on a certain bicycle rider in New Haven that is said to be true. His temper is easily ruffled, and nothing makes him so angry as to take a header. A while ago, while in the act of taking off his hat to a couple of ladies he took a header, and upon picking himself up he began kicking the bicycle

In a furious manner, much to the amusement of the young ladies as well as many other lookers on. The result was that he bent half the spokes in the big wheel out of shape and it cost him in the neighborhood of two dollars for repairs. Last Sunday he took a run with the boys, and while watching a country maiden who was driving some cows he ran into a ditch. Again he picked up his machine and started to kick it, but remembering his last experience, he dropped the machine and picking up a club began to hammer the fence. After knocking two boards off, and swearing enough to tear down a whole house, the farmer came out and made him pay fifty cents for damages done the fence."

TWO YEARS' EXPERIENCE IN THE AUSTRALIAN COLONIES.

I CANNOT let this mail go from Sydney without penning a few lines to your world wide cycling paper. I have now been here two weeks over two years, and taking everything in consideration it is a grand country, following in the footsteps of the great U. S. A. For sport in the shape of horse racing it is unparalleled, but other branches come in for a large amount of patronage, among which comes my favorite one, "cycling," but this, dear editor, is far from what it ought to be, owing to the strict amateur rules now in vogue. I speak first of the New South Wales Cycling Union which it appears is doing far more to injure the sport than any other of the Australian Unions (note the letter enclosed from the Hon. Secretary.)

My experience in Melbourne, Victoria, gave me a much better impression that the wheel was liable to gain more popularity than any other colony in Australia. The cyclists of Victoria enter into the sport with good hearts determined that no fault will be thrown on their shoulders from lack of energy (the circular of the race meeting I enclose will verify my remarks.)

The principal wheels used here in racing are Humbers, Rapids, Clubs, Ridges and various others, whilst in road riding, nearly all the English makes are imported. Only one genuine maker is in Australia, and that is Mr. H. Bassett of Melbourne, and a better mechanic I have never met for this particular line; he has made a bicycle for me that has given me just cause to give him credit for his skill. A better bicycle for the burlesque business I have never ridden before—have only seen two Columbias, one Star and two of American Light Champions. The Safeties are rapidly becoming popular; roads in Australia are only good near the towns and cities: in the country districts they are similar to American roads.

There has been a great roller skating craze for the past eighteen months and it is still continuing. A Baltimorean has amassed the sum of $100,000 out of it, and sails to-morrow to see how China and Japan like the idea of skating.

I ran a six-day bicycle contest last year in Melbourne; it proved a success both financially and otherwise. I purpose holding another one as soon as a suitable place can be had; one great drawback to it is that there is not a hall or a building in the whole of Australia that will measure less than ten laps to the mile.

It is midwinter here now, but the weather is just like the spring in Boston, so the wheel can be kept running all the year round.

The well known athlete, L. E. Myers of New York, was given a benefit in Sydney here last Saturday; he has not met with the best of success, although the Australians admire his pluck and straight running. He has made many friends, and will have a good send off as he is leaving these shores on the Zealandia to-day for San Francisco.

If it is possible it is my intention of getting the best four all-round cyclists in Australia and pitting them against the English cracks. This will of course take a little time, to find out the best ones, and it will be 1889 before it is accomplished.

The Great Centennial Exhibition to be held in Melbourne some time in October bids fair to eclipse the Paris exhibition. Every available space has been allotted, and if they had 1,500,000 more feet it could be used.

I received a letter from "Senator" Morgan, who, it appears, has livened cycling up in England. I think it would not be worth his time and expense of bringing out a team here for some to come yet. After my trip to New Zealand, which I anticipate taking in a short time, I will be pleased to give you an idea of cycling there. Shall return here to Sydney, as I have taken a large hall for seven months, made extensive alterations, putting down a patent American asphaltum floor, etc., for a roller skating rink. Although we have great opposition our floor is much appreciated and business is good. In conclusion I may add that since being in Australia I have chosen a companion in life, and have just been presented by Mrs. R. with a little stranger (a daughter). Both are doing well. With kindest regards and best wishes to all my old acquaintances, I remain, Yours, etc., F. S. ROLLINSON.

Sydney, N. S. W., June 13, 1888.

MR. WELLS TO MR. HARRIS.

Editor Bicycling World:—I was somewhat surprised at Mr. Harris' challenge to me in your paper of the 6th inst., as I do not know what I have done to call it forth.

While I do not doubt that Mr. Harris has plenty of "metal" (brass?) in his composition, I would like to bet him an oyster supper that I have more genuine Yankee blood in my veins than he has in his. My direct ancestors on one side of the house came over in the Mayflower, and on the other side descended from old Connecticut stock.

I was not aware that I had ever been defeated by a Springfield Roadster. If Mr. Harris refers to Shurman's record on Eagle Rock, I do not consider that a defeat until he beats my time on that hill, or until I fail in an attempt to climb that hill more than twelve times. I was under the impression that I had beaten Mr. Harris once in a road scorch, but as I was then on a "specially constructed Star" I am willing to try it again on another mount.

Mr. Harris specifies that I shall not use a "specially constructed Star," and as he has asserted that the only Star I own is a specially constructed one this will force me to use another machine. I cannot afford to buy a new machine for this race. I have always paid full price for all my Star bicycles, and do not have a whole factory to select from free of cost as Mr. Harris does. Under the circumstances, I will therefore ride a tricycle against "the combination P. M. H. and the S. R.," which will make the contest more nearly equal.

As the challenged party I will select Lancaster pike as the battle ground, and would prefer a ten-mile road race, although I am willing to consult Mr. Harris' wishes in the matter in regard to distance. I would suggest that the loser present the winner with a $50 gold medal.

I am very much obliged to you, Mr. Editor, for your kind foot note to Mr. Harris' challenge. Yours very truly, Philadelphia, July 16, 1888. JOHN A. WELLS.

WHY THAT SPEECH WAS NOT MADE TO PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

Editor Bicycling World: In the BICYCLING WORLD of June 29 you said that the idea of making a formal address to President Cleveland on the occasion of the visit of the League to Washington was a "good one" and you were "sorry it was allowed to slip by," believing that "the moral effect might be good." As the one who suggested the idea it is refreshing to observe such views coming from an authority as high as the WORLD. That the idea was "allowed to slip by" was the fault of the leading officers of the L. A. W., especially President Kirkpatrick, but whether they had not been driven to neglect the opportunity by the rank and file of the membership is another question. When President Kirkpatrick met the boat excursionists at Annapolis, the "idea" was presented to him, and he was urged to make the address. "Oh, no, no, I won't do any such thing," he replied. "They have arranged to meet the President at 4 o'clock and that is all there is to it. There's going to be no speech making." He was then shown the benefit that would accrue to the wheel if a few remarks in presentation had been made, sufficient to call out from the President a tribute to the organization on the spot. Mr. Kirkpatrick was made to see that the President might not be loath to say a pleasant word to representatives of nearly 10,000 voters. Kirkpatrick, when he saw these things then declared that the President wouldn't receive any such address. It was pointed out by some Washington wheelmen that the President would be happy to receive such an address, and moreover was there any harm in sending word to the White House and finding out if the address would be acceptable? But no, Kirkpatrick would have none of it. Vice President Hayes said it was a good idea. Abbot Bassett, although not in favor of it, asked Kirkpatrick to do it but the latter was not inclined to yield even to the Secretary-Editor. There was some hope even the next morning when the men left Baltimore for the Capital, but soon it was found that Kirkpatrick had not come with the party and that there was no chance of having him make the address.

It is only just, however, to say that Kirkpatrick and all the other officers were so disgusted with the prevailing hoodlumism that they were not eager again to stand before the public as officials of an organization that would tolerate such ruffianism. It is not generally known that the reason why Kirkpatrick did not go to Washington was that Treasurer Brewster had been grossly insulted the night before on their return to the hotel at 2 A. M. from the boat excursion. The plan Kirkpatrick had of going with the party to Washington was then abandoned with sense of the respect due himself.

Who was at the last League Meet but admitted that

The American Rambler

was the King of the Rear Drivers?

Certainly the crowds constantly surrounding it demonstrated that it was the centre of attraction.

Its salient points are obvious. By placing the reacting spring, whose effect is self-evident, between the rider's body and the rear wheel, the necessity for the spring at the front, with its manifest erratic steering is dispensed with, so that in the RAMBLER we offer a rear driver that one

Can Ride and Coast Hands Off.

It is the lightest, too, of them all, and of the highest possible grade, and what is just as gratifying is the fact that we are now booking orders for August delivery.

THE NATIONAL A HIGH GRADE BICYCLE

TOUR OF THE INDIANA DIVISION, L. A. W.

The tour of the Indiana Division terminated at Louisville, Ky., July 15. We take from the Courier Journal of that city, of July 15, the following account:

"It is not known to whom the most credit is due for the successful carrying out of this tour, but the persistent efforts of Chief Consul J. Fred Probst, of Terre Haute, and Captain George P. Davis, of Rushville, contributed materially to that result.

The party, consisting of about twenty-five riders, left Indianapolis at 9 A. M. Sunday, July 8, and proceeded to Morristown, Ind., where they dined. The Louisville boys, who arrived at Indianapolis after the others had gone, were conducted by Messrs. Zimmerman and Taylor, and came up with the party at 3 o'clock.

A heavy shower made riding very difficult in the afternoon, but a part of the men pushed on to Rushville, where they were well taken care of by Captain Davis at the Windsor Hotel.

The rain continuing to fall so heavily as to preclude the idea of riding on Monday, the party took the noon train for Cincinnati, where they arrived at 3.30 P. M., and were lodged at the Palace Hotel. Messrs. Trumbower, Galway, Miller and High, of Cincinnati, called at the hotel during the evening and took the entire party to the Highland House, where they enjoyed the opera and such other luxuries as the place afforded.

Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in sight seeing, visiting the Exposition and other places of interest in Cincinnati, including a wheel trip of twenty-five miles through Eden Park and other suburban resorts, in which thirty-four wheelmen participated.

The party left by boat for Maysville Wednesday night, intending to ride to Lexington on Thursday, but, being delayed, only got as far as Blue Lick Springs, where they were most comfortably lodged and bountifully fed at the Hotel Arlington.

Leaving Blue Lick at 5 A. M., the fourteen miles to Millersburg were covered in one hour and five minutes without a dismount, and Lexington was reached at 11 o'clock. The party took dinner there, and, after an inspection of the city, left for Nicholasville. The route beyond that place included Danville, Lebanon and Bardstown, the latter being their stopping place last night. They leave Bardstown at 7 o'clock this morning, and take dinner at Mount Washington, and leaving the latter place at 2 P. M., will reach this city about 6 o'clock and take up their quarters at the Alexander Hotel. The party disbands here, but most of the members will remain a day or two in the city making the acquaintance of Louisville wheelmen.

The tour has been a most successful affair, and all the participants will remember it as one of the pleasantest outings in their experience."

CROCKER BEATEN.

At Leicester, England, July 14, Crocker rode a twenty-five-mile match race against Fred Wood. Crocker was beaten by about two feet.

KNAPP AT THE ENGLISH RECORDS.

(From Boston Herald.)

LONDON, July 17, 1888. At Leicester, to-day, Knapp beat the professional bicycle record for 30 miles by 1m. 5s., the professional 50-mile record by 8m., and the professional 100-mile record by 41m. 15 4-2s. His time for the 100 miles, however, was 5m. 15 3-5s. slower than the best amateur record.

BICYCLISTS AGAINST A HORSEMAN.

(Cable to Boston Herald.)

AMSTERDAM, July 14.—The race between cyclists and a horseback rider came off to-day. Temple, Woodside and Allard, the cyclists, won against Bellow on horseback. They covered twenty-five miles in 1h. 15m. and 50 2-5s.; Bellow only twenty-two miles in the same time. The horse fell during the race and slightly injured his rider.

HALSTED AT CAPE MAY.

E. I. HALSTED, of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club, took four firsts in the Cape May races on Friday, having beat Howell, Lamb and Young. The Philadelphia's time was as follows: Half-mile, 1.41 from Howell; one mile, 3.29, by twenty yards, from Howell, and 8.15 3-4 in the two-mile race. Howell finished second, but was disqualified and second prize was taken by Lamb, who also finished second in the three-mile lap race, which Halsted won, in 12.10.

LANCASTER PIKE RECORDS GO.

LOUIS HILL and John Fuller, on an Ivel tandem bicycle geared to 54 inches, and Jno. A. Wells, on a racing Quadrant tricycle geared to 53 inches, had a race July 14th, and they got well within the records of the ten-mile course on the Lancaster pike, Philadelphia, starting from Wayne Hill to the new toll gate.

At 4.30 last Saturday the three men started off at a sprinting pace. For the first quarter Wells held the tandemons, but gradually the double driver drew away. Bryn Mawr was reached with Fuller and Hill well in the lead. Here Minger took up the pace making for the riders, and went with them to Haverford, at which place McClosky took them on to the top of the "Third Sister" hill. Then J. Liesen made pace as far as Overbrook. From thence home the riders had no pace maker, but they came flying along and crossed the line in the 30.44 2-5, some three minutes better than the best previous. F. Kohler, in 1886, on an ordinary, made the record 34.10, and of course this still holds good for the single machine. In the ten-mile run the tandemons had gained about three and one half miles on Wells and his tricycle. This of course was to be expected, but Wells was riding a splendid race and at a record pace. Although considerably bothered by teams he managed to beat the American record of 36.59 2-5, held by Kluge, by 26 seconds. The record of the identical Quadrant ridden by Mr. Well is a remarkable one. Winning one of the prizes in the contest at Weatheroak Hill in England, it was brought to this country and used by Kingsland, of Baltimore, breaking a record there and winning two firsts in the League races in June.

Messrs. Wells and Middleton have challenged Fuller and Hill to another race, when the former will ride a tandem tricycle. They will have hard work to win, as the tandem bicycle is a perfect demon on the road. Last Sunday Hill and Fuller made the five and one-half miles from Bryn Mawr to the first toll gate in 15.15, beating Kohler's old record of 17.10, and on Tuesday next they intend to try for the world's amateur records for five miles.

ARIEL.

[* See foot note at bottom of article following this.—Ed.]

MORE RECORDS AT PHILADELPHIA.

(Special to the Bicycling World.)

As announced in my letter describing the ten-mile road race between Wells, on a tricycle, and Fuller and Hill, on a tandem bicycle, the attempt of the above named to break the five-mile road record on the Lancaster pike met with success. Hill and Fuller, on an Ivel tandem bicycle covered the distance in 15.22, record for the distance and course. Wells, on his racing Quadrant, went the distance in 18.01. This latter beats Kluge's time by 9 seconds.

ARIEL.

[Our correspondent's claim for ten mile and five mile record for the tandemons will stand as record simply for the tandem bicycle. We cannot allow it in comparison with the ordinary or single driver. The claim of Mr. Wells seems to be good for amateurs if the distance claimed over a straight-away five-mile course is correct.—Ed.]

CLUB RACES AT DETROIT.

THE most enthusiastic members of the Detroit Bicycle Club could not have asked for a more suitable day for their club races than Saturday, July 14. The track was in very fair condition and a very slight wind blowing. The events were as follows:

- First—Slow race, 15 yards, won by A. F. Peck.
- Second—Team race, one mile, won by A. F. Peck (5 points), and Geo. Thorne (1 point).
- Third—Hurdle race, quarter mile, won by W. K. Bush.
- Fourth—Coasting contest, won by C. H. Smith; C. Lightner, second.
- Fifth—Club handicap, one mile, F. Welden, 70 yards, first, 3.23 1-4; G. Jones, 100 yards, second.
- Sixth—Without hands, quarter mile, won by R. Traub.
- Seventh—Four-minute race, won by C. A. Lightner, 4.51.

The next club race will take place on Saturday, Aug. 11.

THE RUN OFF WON BY KINGS COUNTY.

THE tie of the "Alphabetical" road race between Kings County and Hudson County Wheelmen, on Decoration Day, was run off over the Milburn course last Saturday and resulted in a victory for Kings County. The team presented by Kings County consisted of H. J. Hall, Jr., T. L. Wilson, L. W. Beazeley and T. J. Hall. The Hudson presented C. E. Kluge, A. Gubelman, W. Eldridge and C. A. Stenken. The teams are identical with the teams presented Decoration Day, except that Eldridge, of the Hudsons, took the place of E. B. Baggot. The men were sent away and the pace at once became hot. The road for about a quarter of a mile was new, and had to be walked, so the time made—1h. 36m.—was very creditable. At twenty miles Stenken, the hope and pride of the Hudson County, gave out, and the hopes of his team winning was at once placed at a very low chance. The result was, H. J. Hall (K. Co.), finished first; C. E. Kluge (H. Co.), second; T. L. Wilson (K. Co.), third; T. J. Hall (K. Co.), fourth; A. Gubleman (H. Co.), fifth; L. W. Beasley (K. Co.), sixth; W. Eldridge (H. Co.), seventh; C. A. Stenken (H. Co.), did not finish. Stenken's failure was a great disappointment to his friends, but he was out of condition badly. Time, 1h. 36m. The Kings County Wheelmen feel they have a strong hold on the trophy, as it will repose in its care another twelve months, and then—? * * *

EASTERN ROAD CLUB.

A MEETING of the Eastern Road Club was held on Monday, July 15. All the clubs belonging to the Association were represented except the Cambridge and Suffolk. Officers were elected as follows: President, W. A. Seward; Vice President, E. R. Pillsbury; Secretary-Treasurer, Willard H. Forbes; Executive Committee, Messrs. Kendall, Perkins, Aubin, Marshall, Collins and Williams, with President, Vice President and Secretary, ex officio.

Much interest was manifested by all present, and the Executive Committee were given full power to make arrangements for runs to be held in September and October, and to act on the application of clubs for membership.

The clubs were represented as follows: Massachusetts, Messrs. Peck, Williams and Pillsbury; Boston, Kendall and Myers; Newton, Aubin and Wilson; Chelsea, Woodman and Seward; Dorchester, Forbes and Benson; Cambridgeport, Marshall and Sanborn; Somerville, Ganger and Kimball. Respectfully, WILLARD H. FORBES, Secretary E. R. Club.

ROAD RACE OF THE MANCHESTER BICYCLE CLUB.

THE annual handicap bicycle road race of the Manchester (N. H.) Bicycle Club took place at East Manchester, June 11, over the same course as used last year. The distance is 6 11-16 miles; the best time for the distance was 34 minutes, made by Jno. E. Newton last year, and it was supposed that this record would stand, as a strong head wind prevailed on the home stretch on the 11th. There were six entries, as per table below, which shows the handicaps and the times of the different men. A. E. Eastman, with his three minutes handicap, managed to finish first. Jno. E. Newton beat his own record of last year by 14 seconds, and was awarded a special prize of a pair of bicycle shoes. The table is as follows:

	Start.	Finish.	Time.
A. E. Eastman	- - - - 4.12	4.46.18	34m. 18s.
D. E. Price	- - - - 4.13	4.48.18	35m. 18s.
C. H. Fish	- - - - 4.14	4.48.32	34m. 32s.
J. E. Newton	- - - - 4.15	4.48.46	33m. 46s.
J. T. Chadwick	- - - - 4.08	4.51.42	43m. 42s.
F. S. Harvey	- - - - 4.10	4.57.08	47m. 08s.

Mr. Eastman won the club gold medal, Mr. Price the silver medal, and Mr. Fish a Derby hat. The latter had put in no practice until a week preceding the race.

OUR ANNUAL ROAD RACE.

FOR AMATEURS ONLY.

As announced in the last issue of the WORLD, we have decided to run our annual 100-mile road race September 7th, from Erie, Pa., to Buffalo, N. Y. The route selected is No. 56 in the New York road book, and it passes over one of the finest straightaway courses, 91 miles in length, in the country. For the information of those who have not a road book, we will state that the start will be made at Erie, Pa., and will pass through Harbor Creek, North East, State Line, Ripley, Westfield, Portland, Brockton, Fredonia, Silver Creek, Irving, Evans' Centre, Eighteen-Mile-Creek, Bay View, West Seneca, and Buffalo.

The distance is 91 miles, but a careful survey and measurement of the road will be made and the route necessary to make the even century will be given later.

Mr. Ducker has written to the authorities of towns and villages, through which the route lays, asking for permission to allow the racers to pass over the road. In the many replies received, we have been not only accorded the privileges asked, but the greatest interest is shown, and generous help has been offered.

In view of the late action of the Racing Board, in which the Chairman has announced that the competing of amateurs and professionals on the road, will disqualify the amateur, we have decided that this race shall be OPEN TO AMATEURS ONLY, this decision has been strengthened by the fact that nearly all of the professionals will be in training for track work, and will not care to train for road racing. Entries to be made to H. E. Ducker, 47 Chapin Block, Buffalo, N. Y. Entrance fee, $1. Entries close September 5th.

SHURMAN WAS THERE, BUT "WHERE WAS WELLS?"

It was a great disappointment to the 400 or 500 wheelmen at the foot of Corey Hill last Saturday, to find that Jno. A. Wells had not put in an appearance as he agreed to, in order to test his hill climbing capacity in comparison to that of Mr. Shurman. Up to the moment of leaving Lynn Mr. Shurman had not received any intimation that Mr. Wells would not appear on Corey Hill as understood and mutually agreed. It seems that when Mr. Shurman returned to Lynn he found the letter from Mr. Wells, stating that on account of accumulation of work he could not come on. Mr. Shurman justly complained that Mr. Wells should have given him earlier notice, or at any rate used the wires in time to prevent his (Shurman) going out to the hill. It was a disappointment all around, and the criticisms on Wells' actions were many and severe. However, Shurman determined to do his part, and so after some delay, in the hopes Wells would show up, Shurman started ahead.

Shurman already held the record by climbing it four and a half times, and then it will be remembered the handle-bar of his machine broke.

On Saturday he went up and down ten times and was turning to start up the eleventh time, a small stone threw him over. The bottom of the hill was undergoing repairs, and the consequence was the space available for turning the machine was very small, and the bicycle had to be cramped in order to get around at all. All agree but for this untoward accident, 12 times would have been accomplished. The surface was in horrible condition, loose, sandy and rough with small stones. Taking the conditions into consideration, the feat is one to be proud of, and proves J. H. Shurman to be a hill climber, and the Springfield Roadster to be a wonderful machine.

The time for the different ascents is as follows:

First,	- - - 6	38	Sixth,	- - - 7	48
Second,	- - - 6	18	Seventh,	- - - 8	9
Third,	- - - 7	10 2-5	Eighth,	- - - 8	12
Fourth,	- - - 7	15	Ninth,	- - - 8	15
Fifth,	- - - 7	10	Tenth,	- - - 8	21

The whole time consumed 1 hour 15 minutes 16 2-5 seconds. The round trip as made by Shurman was probably very near a mile, making his record for Corey hill climbing a little better than eight minutes to the mile. The officials were Dr. W. G. Kendall, Capt. Boston Club, Dr. Emery, of the Roxbury Club, and J. C. Kerrison, of the Boston Herald.

HARTFORD WHEEL CLUB TOURNAMENT.

SEPTEMBER 12 AND 13, 1888.

THE Hartford Tournament this year will be one of the Hartford old-timers, thoroughly international in its aspect, and with everything up to the former Hartford standard. After finishing at Buffalo, the flyers from both sides of the Atlantic will leave at once for Hartford, where elaborate arrangements will be perfected for their reception and entertainment. With good weather, this, the second of the season's international meets, and the first of the Eastern circuit, will assuredly be one of the most brilliant two days' meets ever held in this country. Some of the principal events announced are the one-mile professional championship of America, the one-mile open amateur bicycle, tricycle and safety races, and two State championships. All the races will be short, no tiresome long-distance events appearing on the programme. The list of purses and prizes foots up to $2500, and will soon be announced in detail. The Tournament Committee is composed of the following members of the Hartford Wheel Club: J. J. Grace, Chairman; H. H. Smith, Secretary, Drawer C, Hartford, Conn. (to whom all communications should be addressed); and Messrs. Joseph Goodman, L. A. Tracy, Harry Goodman and J. D. Candee.

The programme of races is as follows:

FIRST DAY, SEPTEMBER 12.

- One mile novice.
- One mile professional championship of America.
- One mile amateur, open.
- Two mile amateur, 6.15 class.
- One mile amateur rear-driving safety (no wheel under 35 lbs.).
- One mile Columbia Cycle Club handicap.
- Five mile professional lap.

- Two mile amateur handicap.
- Three mile amateur State championship.
- One mile amateur tricycle.

SECOND DAY, SEPTEMBER 13.

- One mile amateur, three minute class.
- One mile professional handicap.
- One mile amateur rear-driving safety handicap (no wheel under 35 lbs.).
- One mile Hartford Wheel Club handicap.
- One mile amateur handicap.
- Two mile professional handicap.
- One mile amateur State championship.
- Five mile amateur lap.
- Three mile professional lap.
- One mile consolation.

THE CALIFORNIA LEAGUE MEET.

THE annual meet of the California Division of the League of American Wheelmen must be classed as a grand success. It is only for the future to eclipse it. The meeting last year at Santa Cruz was considered a creditable affair, with less than one hundred wheelmen in line. This year at Stockton there were nearly three hundred wheelmen present, and the parade was the grandest affair of the kind California has ever seen.

All arrangements for transportation and for reception of the wheelmen at Stockton were complete and satisfactory, and the city itself presented a remarkably festive appearance. The streets were decorated with the national colors.

The parade started with astonishing promptness soon after nine o'clock, the principal feature of which was the three hundred wheels, some half dozen of which were ridden by ladies. These three hundred riders make more of a show than would an equal number of almost any other kind of paraders. After parading the principal streets a countermarch was made to allow those in line an opportunity of viewing the procession, and then the route for the race track was taken. There was a large array of carriages surrounding the track, the grand stand was filled, and chiefly by handsomely dressed ladies. Financially and otherwise the audience was satisfactory.

Mr. C. C. Moore, of Stockton, was referee of the day. The track—a quarter-mile—was a good one.

Without any delay the racing was commenced. The first event was a quarter-mile dash, A. W. Allen, of the Los Angeles Wheelmen, A. S. Ireland, of the Alameda Scorchers, and R. A. Smythe, of the Bay City Wheelmen, starters. Ireland was probably the favorite as he was well known as a speedy man, but Allen won easily in 40 1-5 sec.; Ireland, second. Allen's fast pedalling was an illustration of perfect ankle action rarely seen.

In the one-mile novice there were four starters: O. C. Haslett, Alameda Scorchers, and J. E. Hickinbotham, A. L. Wulff, and J. H. Read, of the Oak Leaf Wheelmen. This was won by Hickinbotham, in 2-58, Wulff being a good second. Haslett and Read did remarkably well for their maiden attempt.

Next came the great event of the day—which had been much talked of and eagerly looked for—the one-mile State championship, for in this F. D. Elwell, of the Bay City Wheelmen, and W. G. Davis, of the San Francisco Bi. Club, were to meet and settle the disputed claims for supremacy. There were two other starters, H. G. Toll, of the Capital City Wheelmen, and W. S. Wing, of the Los Angeles Wheelmen. There was some question whether Wing might not carry off the honors of the day, for he had shown phenomenal speed on his wheel. Elwell is a large, splendidly developed fellow, and the other three are finely built young men. Davis is probably as graceful a rider as can be found anywhere. His ankle action is superb, and he rides erectly and with the most apparent ease. Wing has a long, swinging motion as he comes down on his long levers, that brings out a hot pace, and when on the last lap he began his mighty spurt, it shot him ahead at such a pace as few had ever previously seen, it looked as though the two great riders, Elwell and Davis, were to be left; but now came their magnificent spurt, and they pass Wing neck and neck, and come into the finish so close, that to those away from the tape it looked like a dead heat or a victory for the San Francisco Club, but the unanimous decision of the judges was that Elwell was at least six inches ahead on the finish, and so the Bay City went nearly wild over their champion, who had won in 2-48 1-2, beating all previous coast records.

For the three-mile handicap there were only two starters, Ireland and Hickinbotham, both from scratch. This was a well contested race, and was won by Ireland in the excellent time of 9-07, which lowered his previous coast record of 9-28 3-5.

Allen, and Toll, and C. B. Wheaton, of the San Francisco Bi. Club, started in the half-mile dash, which was easily won by Allen, in 1-22 1-2, lowering the previous best Pacific Coast record of 1-27 3-4.

The enthusiasm was now at its height, when the five-mile L. A. W. national championship was called. The band played the national airs, flags were waved, and the contestants cheered by their friends as they appeared on the track. Odds were freely offered on Elwell with but few takers. The starters were Elwell, Wing and Davis. Wing led, closely followed by Elwell and Davis, and this order was kept steadily for the first nineteen laps, at a pace which gave the contest much the appearance of a grand loaf. On the last lap the pace was considerably mended with all well bunched, until on entering the home stretch Elwell, with a mighty effort, drew away from his opponents; Wing picked up courage and followed, while Davis, seeming utterly dazed at Elwell's magnificent spurt, relaxed his efforts and finished a third. A scene of the wildest joy followed. Elwell was borne from the track, shoulder high, by his club mates, while those who could not take a hand in carrying him, cheered, danced, embraced each other, and indulged in the wildest antics. Wing, the Los Angeles representative, who was a prime favorite with the Bay City, was also wildly cheered.

The one-mile safety had but two entries, J. A. W. Off, of the Los Angeles Wheelmen, and C. P. Fonda, of the San Francisco Bi. Club. The victory was easily won by Fonda, in 3-11.

The one-mile handicap brought out Wheaton (scratch), Toll (15 yards), Wulff (35 yards), Read (35 yards), and F. E. Southworth, of the Oak Leaf Wheelmen (35 yards); and M. A. Baker, of the Los Angeles Wheelmen (35 yards). This was an interesting race, well contested, and resulted in a victory for Wheaton, in the remarkably good time of 2-52.

The races were concluded by the two-mile handicap between Ireland (scratch), Wheaton (35 yards), and Haslett (75 yards). Wheaton dropped out early in the race, and it was evident that it belonged to Ireland. Haslett, however, kept him moving so fast that it was necessary to make the two miles in six minutes in order to win, which gives Ireland another coast record.

The twenty-mile State championship was indefinitely postponed, owing to insufficient time before the hour set for the base ball games, which were to follow.

There was now an opportunity for the wheelmen to rest after the exciting events of the morning, and meet at luncheon. The afternoon was spent at the swimming baths, or in visiting the handsome grounds of the State Lunatic Asylum, while many indulged in a siesta to prepare themselves for the proper enjoyment of the evening's festivities. Dinner over, all began to repair to the Exposition Building, a magnificent pavilion, handsomely decorated and brilliantly illuminated by electric lights. A full military band rendered an excellent programme of concert music as the audience filled the vast building. The concert ended, the cycling portion of the entertainment commenced with an exhibition of fancy riding by L. B. Kinney, a ten year old Los Angeles boy, followed by a game of polo on Stars by Champion Elwell and W. S. Wing, of Los Angeles, wherein Elwell's good fortune stayed by him, he winning the game in five straight innings.

Next came a demonstration on miniature safeties by Masters Moore and Mohrig, and finally the exhibition by the drill corps of the Bay City Wheelmen. Dancing followed, the only cause of regret being that so many of the San Francisco contingent had to take the midnight boat for home. At the wharf all was bustle and hurry. Wheels were being put aboard, good-byes said, bugles sounding, and parties cheering the victors, the League, and the Bay City.

So ended California's third annual meet. As the boat slowly swung out into the stream and the lights of the city faded in the distance, there must have occurred to the Chief Consul standing on the deck, recollections of that summer day, now over two years ago, when the interests of the infant division, then less than 100 strong, having just shortly before been entrusted to his care, he reached Stockton after a long day's journey across the hot, sandy plains of San Joaquin and first met Bert Moore, one of the brothers whose energy and enterprise planned and carried out this meet. It is doubtful, however, if in his wildest dreams for the advancement of the cause he ever conjured up so brilliant a carnival of cycling as that in which he had to-day participated.

There was not a single accident of any description to mar the festivities, and the whole day was exceedingly enjoyable, and we live in hopes of another next year which shall be even better attended than this.

The meet, when practicable, and when not outweighed by other considerations, should be held somewhere within a day's wheeling distance of San Francisco, and, in the opinion of the writer, San Jose is the place for next year's meet, though Los Angeles is already actively bidding for it.

The thanks of the wheelmen generally are due to Mr. C. C. Moore and the other members of the remarkably flourishing Oak Leaf Club, of Stockton, for the untiring efforts made for their entertainment. 16,219.

PROPOSED TAX ON BICYCLES.

Cable to the Record.

THE acceptance by the English Government of an amendment to tax the local government bill, putting a tax on bicycles, will be sure to raise a storm over this devoted bill almost equal to that which greeted the original proposal of Mr. Goschen to tax every kind of wheel. The amendment proposes a tax of two shillings and sixpence on each wheel. The outcry raised against the tax will be determined and loud, for the owners of wheels, who think any tax is an outrage, as the carriages are exempt.

THE BINGHAMTON (N. Y.) WHEEL CLUB RACES.

On August 2d the above named club will hold a tournament, as per advertisement in another column. The prizes will be handsome gold medals, and the other prizes will be valuable articles of use.

PROGRAMME.

9 o'clock A. M., ride over the cinder path; 11 o'clock A. M., parade; 2.30 o'clock P. M., races; 8.15 o'clock P. M., entertainment at the Opera House.

LIST OF EVENTS.

Half-mile dash: one-mile novice, open to wheels not under 35 pounds; one-mile L. A. W. State championship; two-mile; 6.45 class: half-mile, first heat, Von Blumen and Oaks; half-mile, Junior Wheel Club; one-mile, open; half-mile, second heat, Von Blumen and Oaks; Binghamton Wheel Club, wheels not under 35 pounds; one-mile political race, Binghamton Wheel Club; three-mile handicap, open; one-mile Rover type; half-mile, third heat, Von Blumen and Oaks; one-mile team race, three from each club: consolation. Entrance fee, fifty cents for each event, and should be sent to W. F. Sherwood, Binghamton, N. Y., Chairman Race Committee, on or before July 30.

INDIGNATION OF THE CAPITAL BICYCLE CLUB.

THE following preamble and resolutions were passed last Tuesday by the Capital Bicycle Club in regard to the outcome of the trial and conviction of Chase for the killing of Mr. Paul:

Whereas, The reckless riding and driving of horses upon the streets of this city have long been sources of great danger to the public, and have been subjects of much comment in the columns of the press and elsewhere; and

Whereas, The testimony in the case of the United States against Chase, the man at whose hands late Prof. Paul lost his life, shows not only that there were no mitigating circumstances, but, on the contrary, that the death was the result of the most criminal carelessness; and

Whereas, Wheelmen are particularly liable to injury from ignorant, vicious and irresponsible drivers; therefore

Be it resolved, That the Capital Bicycle Club hereby protests against the action of Judge Montgomery in imposing upon Chase, convicted of manslaughter, a sentence so utterly inadequate as one month's imprisonment and a fine of $200.

Resolved, That the club regrets that the judge did not exercise the powers reposed in him by the people for the common protection to an extent commensurate with the enormity of the offense, and calculated to more sternly rebuke the criminal carelessness displayed in this and other cases, thereby deterring this class of the community from a persistence in that reckless disregard of human life which has heretofore been so frequently exhibited.

OTTAWA, KAS., TO GREAT BEND, KAS.

For the benefit of Western riders I wish to give a short account of the roads from Ottawa, Kas., to Great Bend, Kas. This is one of the direct roads from Kansas City to Colorado, and wheelmen contemplating that trip this season may know what is before them for 250 miles at least. From Ottawa to Williamsburg there is a fairly good road; distance, eighteen miles. From Williamsburg the road bears south and west until a road one mile south of the north line of Coffey County is reached. Follow this road due west across the county and into Emporia. This road is quite hilly, especially the last ten miles. The Clinton Hotel, Emporia, gives good meals and accommodations at $1.00 a day.

There are two roads from Emporia to Strong City, one called the Hill road and the other the Valley road. If you take one you will probably wish you had taken the other. I took the Hill road; it is well named. Distance, twenty-five miles.

From Strong, cross the river to Cottonwood Falls, and go over the hills to Elmdale, seven miles. The Cottage Hotel, Elmdale, gives first-class meals and accommodations for $1.00 a day.

From Elmdale to Marion there are two roads, one over the hills and the other through the valley. You pay your money and take your choice. Twenty-two miles.

Marion to Hillsboro, ten and one-half miles; road good.

Hillsboro to Canton, fourteen miles, road miserable. Look out for headers; I found some. They mature in that vicinity. You will be lucky if you don't miss the road and find yourself in the middle of a grass lot. I got there. The Clinton Hotel gives fair accommodations and a $1.50 rate.

Your troubles are now nearly ended. From here west the road is as nearly perfect as a natural road can be. No trouble to make from nine to ten miles an hour.

McPherson, fourteen miles. Look up the Local Consul, Paul Wakenhut; you will find in him a genuine whole-souled L. A. W. man. Take your dinner at the Merchants' Hotel; L. A. W. rate $1.50.

McPherson to Lyons, thirty-two and one-half miles; the home of Chief Consul Everest. I was nicely entertained at his home by himself and his charming wife.

Lyons to Ellenwood, twenty-two miles. Here is the only sand on the road; three miles. Walking through sand and pushing a wheel is not great fun, but it gives a good appetite.

Ellenwood to Great Bend, ten miles. Stop at the New Morrison Hotel, kept by Morrison Brothers, one of the finest hotels in the State, everything first-class. L. A. W. members can get a rate of $1.50 on presentation of League ticket.

I hope this rough sketch will be of benefit to some one. I have looked in vain for anything about Kansas roads in the World. Will not some one tell us of other roads in the State?

ALUMINIUM AND CYCLE CONSTRUCTION.

ALUMINIUM is the topic of the hour, not merely among cycle manufacturers, and those interested in the improvement of machines for path and road use, but also among investors of capital. A week or two ago the Alliance Aluminium Company issued its prospectus to the public, inviting the subscription of $500,000 capital. Already in the field is the Aluminium Company, and both companies have acquired patents which will enable them to sell aluminium at less than 9s. per pound. The present market price, it will be remembered, is five times this amount per pound. As these rival companies will compete in supplying the market it is both possible and probable that in a short time aluminium will be procurable in comparative abundance at 6s. or 7s. per pound.

At intervals for some years past the application of aluminium to cycle construction has been mooted in the cycling press, but hitherto nothing of practical advantage to the trade or sport has resulted. The Society of Cyclists having recently appointed a committee of inquiry into the alleged merits of the metal, it may be interesting, pending the report of the committee next winter, to briefly examine the properties of aluminium, and its adaptability to the use proposed.

Alumina was the name given to a distinct earth discovered by Margraff in 1754 as forming one of the notable constituents of the salt alum (Lat. alumen), it having previously been confounded with lime. Overstedt, in 1826, showed how to prepare the chloride of aluminium, and from that date to the present time a succession of processes have been discovered by scientists, each reducing the difficulties of production and consequently the market price. One of the most recently discovered methods of reducing aluminium from cryolite (a fluide of soda and alumine) is described in Whitaker's Almanack for the current year, p. 538. As has already been stated in the Cyclist, pure aluminium possesses a specific gravity of 2.56, being a white metal with a faint tinge of blue, free from both taste and odor, malleable, ductile, and capable of being drawn into tubes, or into very thin wire, in which latter form it becomes brittle. Its weight is one-fourth of that of silver, and about one-third that of steel. It is susceptible of a brilliant polish, and is superior to silver as regards its imperviousness to the action of sulphuretted hydrogen and sulphide of ammonium, which taint the atmosphere of towns and tarnish exposed silver.

The great difficulty associated with the production of aluminium exists in the importance of securing its absolute chemical purity. An infinitesimal trace of bismuth, for example, renders the metal brittle in a high degree; whilst ten per cent. of copper makes it as brittle as glass. This disadvantage, together with the high price of the metal (which in 1856 sold at £3 per ounce, and in 1863 at 5s. per ounce), have restricted its uses in the past to jewelry, bells, chemical balances, and weights, reflectors, etc., etc. Aluminium has never been tested in its hammer-hardened form as regards its utility for frictional surfaces, as, for example, bearings, and the writer's authority for this statement (a metallurgic expert) asserts that pure aluminium cannot be tempered in the same manner as steel. Tubes of the pure metal as light as cartridge paper when handled resist any ordinary attempts to deflect them, but yield to superior pressure by bending. From all the evidence obtainable it would appear that the pure metal is unsuitable for the manufacture of either the tubing, felloes or spokes of cycles. Having arrived at this conclusion, Mr. Hermann Vezin's fascinating suggestion of practicable safety bicycles made of aluminium sealing only ten pounds must for the present be abandoned as worthless.

Leaving the pure metal, the inquirer's attention is directed to its alloys, and here the cycling importance of the subject begins. All hope of lightness is lost at one fell swoop when the constituents of aluminium bronze are found to be 90 parts copper and 10 parts pure aluminium, an alloy possessing a specific gravity of 7.989, or practically the same weight as steel. Similarly with the rust-proof alloy of 75 parts iron and 25 parts pure aluminium. Aluminium bronze—the more important of the two mentioned—is hardly distinguishable from gold in color, hence its wide introduction in the form of watch cases, rings and chains, under the misleading name of aluminium. The application of this misnomer—which deserves condemnation—explains the prevalent misapprehension as to the color and properties of pure aluminium. Many persons unfamiliar with the pure white metal are misled by the totally different looking alloy in its manufactured form. Aluminium bronze, although harder than common bronze, is capable of being worked at high temperatures more easily than the best varieties of iron. Its discovery was effected by Dr. John Percy, F. R. S., and its properties were elaborately described in a paper read before the Royal Society by Lieut.-Col. A. Strange, F. R. A. S. Experiments demonstrated the bronze to possess a tensile strength of 50,624 pounds breaking weight per inch. A specimen withstood a compression strain of 20,384 pounds before giving way. Its transverse strength was three times as rigid as that of gunmetal. Its founding qualities allowed of the production of admirable castings of any size; whilst in the lathe and under the file it was workable more easily than steel. Moreover, its malleability, expansive ratio, fitness for being made into tubes, and elasticity were proved to be eminently satisfactory. As may be assumed, on exposure to atmospheric influence the bronze does not rust, but its lustre slowly tarnishes.

Judging from the prospectus before alluded to, the hopes of the directors of the Alliance Aluminium Company appear to chiefly rest upon the utilization of the above-described bronze in the construction of guns, naval architecture and armaments, as a substitute for the wrought steel now used, which is four times as difficult to work, more expensive to produce, and of inferior strength. With regard to the application of the alloy to cycle manufacture the prospectus is silent, but incidentally expresses the conviction that aluminium will bring about radical changes in the metal trade generally.

Extreme lightness and permanent brightness not being among the features of the bronze, we are led to the somewhat disappointing conclusion that, pending the discovery of an alloy possessing greater recommendations than those of aluminium bronze, the mere cheapening of the latter product will not ensure its general adoption by the manufacturers of cycles.

CHARLES W. HARTUNG in the Cyclist.

TRADE NOTES, CLIPPINGS, AND ALL SORTS.

J. H. ZUMSTEIN, of Windsor, Ill., proposes to start September 3d, for a tour a-wheel from Mattoon, Ill., to Cincinnati, via Indianapolis. He wants a companion.

THE new Surprise tricycle of the Pope Mfg. Co. is now ready for delivery, and intending purchasers would do well to examine its many valuable specialties before ordering. See advertisement on back cover.

A NOTABLE performance is that of "Trike" Lieutenant George L. Cooke, of Rhode Island Wheelmen, on a Singer tricycle, weight 80 pounds; 1550 miles in three months, with a single run of 102 1-2 miles, is not bad for one of last year's brood.

THE Overman Wheel Company has just shipped to Hi Henry, two Victor safeties, one of which is full enameled and the other full nicked. Both machines will be used by Henry in his minstrel parades, Henry riding the full nicked machine and one of his men, in black face and minstrel costume, riding the full enameled wheel. The machines present a novel and striking appearance.

WE were much pleased with an 1888 pattern of the Special S. S. tricycle loaned us for a week's trial by Messrs. W. B. Everett & Co. We found it an excellent, easy running and strong wheel. It is a machine that can be ridden by either sex. It has a 30-inch driver and 28-inch pilot.

FRED FOSTER rode a Marlboro' Club when he won the Canadian tricycle championship at Belleville, and when he beat the one-mile Canadian track.

THE Warwick Cycle Company has begun the manufacture of the Warwick Perfection bicycle. A sufficient number will be manufactured to get the wheel well introduced this season, and next season the company will be fully prepared to fill all orders. New machinery is almost daily arriving and there is at present a force of 15 or 20 men at work. Mr. Warwick is also busy on a safety which will be gotten out in the fall. He intends to reduce the sensitiveness of the steering gear to a minimum.

THE Coventry Machinists' Co. have received a sample Swift safety tandem. Those interested should by all means visit 239 Columbus avenue and see this machine.

THE Gormully & Jeffery Challenge tandem, although it was catalogued last year was not put on the market; it is now on the market and stands up to its work bravely. Chicago riders are very fastidious in the choice of their mounts, and the fact that over one dozen of these tandems can be daily seen on the South Side boulevards is a sufficient guarantee of their excellence. This tandem can be equally well ridden by two ladies or two gentlemen.

MR. DUCKER has secured a round trip fare of $8.50, from New York to Buffalo during the tournament week.

THE Coventry Machinists' Co.'s King of Clubs, with big back wheel, and the Light Marlboro' Roadster tricycle are in big demand and are deservedly pronounced by all who have tried them as great successes.

GEO. P. DAVIS, the Captain of the recent Indiana tour, weighs 250 pounds and rides a fifty-inch Expert. He is the heaviest man in the L. A. W. The majority of the wheels used on the Indiana tour were Columbias.

LOOK out for No. 154 Springfield Roadster bicycle, 1887 pattern. It has been stolen from J. H. McKinnon, Waterbury, Conn.

SEE announcement on page 231, of the race meet of the Binghamton Wheel Club, Aug. 2d.

WE have had occasion to test the accuracy of one of Butcher's stock cyclometers during the past week, and we can say that a more satisfactory and accurate distance measurer cannot be found. We tried it several times over the same route and we found it to measure exact in every instance. A "good" cyclometer is a great convenience, and in the Butcher we find "goodness" because of its accuracy and reliability.

MESSRS. ELLIOTT and Jeffers, of the Wilmington Wheel Club, made a century run between Wilmington and Philadelphia last Sunday. The actual riding time from Wilmington—forty-six miles—was less than four hours, and Mr. Elliott rode from the foot of Berwyn hill to Fifty-second street in forty-five minutes. The route both ways was via West Chester, and on the return trip, after having ridden over ninety miles, they both climbed Point Lookout hill, which has been surmounted by only one rider heretofore. Mr. Elliott has been doing some good work on the Lancaster pike. He had only been riding six weeks when he made the run from Paoli to Fifty-second street in one hour and ten minutes, which is not far from record time, and is wonderful work for a beginner. He will be the fourth man on the Wilmington team. He and Jeffers both ride Victor Light Roadster bicycles.

REMOVAL.

LEAGUE Headquarters are now at 12 Pearl street, Room 27; same building with office of the BICYCLING WORLD Co.

WE are under obligations to W. C. Babcock, of Washington, for two fine photo. groups taken at the time of the Washington visit.

APPLICANTS for membership should send $1.50 during July, August or September to cover initiation fee and dues for the remainder of the League year.

DIVISIONS are allowed representatives on the basis of their memberships on July 1st, but any member who qualifies before the closing of the polls, August 15, may vote in the election. Those who are published in list issued July 27 will qualify in time.

THE League has a list of life members which will not be increased. The institution of life membership at a very small fee was one of the mistakes of the League. Recognizing it as a mistake very many of the prominent men of the League did not take advantage of it, and the list is not so large as it otherwise would have been. We do not wish to asperse those now upon this list; they undoubtedly thought they were benefitting the organization and evincing their confidence in it when they allied themselves to it for life, and they cannot be blamed for official mistakes. The dollars paid by these members have gone into a reserve fund which is kept intact. The divisions do not benefit in the least by this fund, and yet those life members are entitled to participate in all the benefits and perquisites which the divisions give out, let them cost never so much. The League gets what benefit comes from the life memberships and the divisions have to carry the load. There will be no more life members.

Illinois Division Nominations.

The following nominations are respectfully submitted and votes of Illinois members solicited: For Chief Consul, Edwin Oliver, of Chicago; for Vice Consul, Chas. Hissel, of Springfield; for Secretary-Treasurer, Thos. F. Sheridan, of Springfield. These nominations are made in the interest of securing passage of a Liberty Bill by the Legislature at the next session. They are gentlemen well qualified personally and by geographical location to further this object.

Chicago, July 7, 1888.

E. H. Meader.

At a regular meeting of the Holyoke (Mass.) Bicycle Club, held 25th, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased an All-wise Providence to remove from our midst our much beloved member, E. H. Meader, Secretary-Treasurer of the Holyoke Bicycle Club, and Representative of the L. A. W.,

Resolved, That we sincerely mourn the loss of one whom all of us respected and loved as a friend; be it

Resolved, That our earnest and heartfelt sympathy is extended to his afflicted family in their hour of sorrow; and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and also be published in the BICYCLING WORLD AND L. A. W. BULLETIN.

HOLYOKE BICYCLE CLUB,
By W. W. Carl, Sec. and Treas.

To Virginia L. A. W. Members.

The Great Industrial Exposition of Virginia will be held at Richmond, Va., beginning Oct. 3d.

The management, through Director General Jones, has made most liberal arrangements for the purpose of bringing together the wheelmen of the State, and also of inducing our friends of Washington, Maryland and Pennsylvania to attend. A new half-mile track is being built, and liberal prizes will be given to amateurs and professional riders. With the approval of Representative N. B. Schmidt, and Secretary-Treasurer Schaap, and the unanimous endorsement of the Norfolk Cycle Club and the L. A. W. members of this vicinity, notice is hereby given that the Third Annual Meet of the Virginia Division L. A. W., is called for October 23d and 24th, at Richmond, Va. The newly adopted Constitution and By-Laws of the National League, make it more incumbent than ever, upon each member of the weaker Divisions to become an active worker in the cause, and the local Consuls of Virginia are hereby notified they are each appointed a committee of one, in their vicinity, to talk up the importance of every member attending this meet, and make it the cycling event of the year.

Rail road rates will be low, the Exposition will be the greatest ever held in the State, and many riders can now arrange to take their vacation at that time. Every one who can attend, may rest assured they will be well taken care of by the Old Dominion Wheelmen of Richmond. Further information can be obtained by addressing Secretary-Treasurer Schaap, 677 Broad street, Richmond, Va., and official details will be given in the Bulletin.

J. C. CARROLL, C. C.

Missouri Division L. A. W.

A meeting of this division was held at the house of the Missouri Bicycle Club, on Wednesday, July 11th. Wylie, Chairman, E. N. Sanders, A. M. Lewis, E. A. Clifford, E. A. Smith.

Declination.

To the Members of the 2d Dist. Mass. Div. L. A. W.:

Through the kind intentions of gentlemen from this district my name has been mentioned as a candidate for Vice Consul. My serving in such capacity is absolutely out of the question, and voters will best serve the Division and at the same time gratify the undersigned by casting their ballots for Dr. W. H. Emery.

SANFORD LAWTON.

Maryland Division.

A special meeting of the Maryland Division was held on Tuesday, July 10th, at the Maryland Bicycle Club, for the purpose of nominating an official ticket for the election of officers of the Division for the ensuing year, and to fix upon the date and place of the annual Division meeting.

Chief Consul Mealy called the meeting to order at 9 P. M., with 56 members present. Upon motion the regular order of business was dispensed with, and the special business for which the meeting was called taken up. Upon motion of Mr. Bartlett a committee of five was appointed by the meeting to nominate a candidate for each of the following officers: Chief Consul, Vice Consul, Secretary-Treasurer, and three Representatives. After a short recess this committee put in nomination the following ticket: Chief Consul, W. H. Beatty of Baltimore; Vice Consul, Geo. F. Updegraff of Hagerstown; Sec. Treas., G. W. H. Carr of Baltimore; Representatives, C. H. Eisenbrandt of Baltimore, W. L. Seabrook of Westminster, and H. W. Barrington of Baltimore. Mr. Beatty declining the nomination of C. C. Mr. Albert Mott of Baltimore was nominated for that office unanimously, and the remaining portion of the ticket was accepted by acclamation.

Upon motion of Mr. Lockwood, Friday, Aug. 31st, was selected as the date for holding the annual meeting. On motion a committee of five was appointed to make necessary arrangements for this meeting, particulars of which will be announced later on. The subject of changing the official organ of the Division was referred to the Board of Officers, to report on same at the annual meeting. The meeting then at 11 P. M. adjourned. Respectfully,

R. M. LOCKWOOD,
Sec. Treas. Md. Div.

Election Laws.

In accordance with Art. IV., Sec. 2, of the Constitution of the League of American Wheelmen, as adopted at the convention held in Baltimore on June 18th, the Maryland Division, L. A. W. will hold the annual election of Division officers between July 15th and Aug. 15th.

Said election shall be conducted by the following officers and governed by rules hereinafter prescribed. The officers of the election shall consist of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Division and the following Judges: E. F. Le Cato, C. W. Abbott and George Hagerst.

The Secretary shall mail printed ballots, together with an addressed envelope, for return of same, to each member of the Division. Shall receive and count all votes as hereinafter provided.

The election shall be conducted through the medium of a mail vote.

Ballots must be signed by the member voting and mailed to the Secretary.

Ballots received later than the noon delivery of the mail on August 16th will not be counted.

A ballot once mailed cannot be recalled or changed, and if two ballots are received from one member, bearing the names of different candidates, neither will be counted.

The Secretary, together with the three judges of the election, shall meet on the evening of August 16th, open and count all mail votes, and certify the results thereof through the L. A. W. Bulletin and daily papers of the City of Baltimore. Respectfully,

A. E. MEALY, C. C. Md. Div.

Michigan Election Laws.

To Michigan Members L. A. W.:

In accordance with the Constitution of the League, as adopted at the L. A. W. meeting, held at Baltimore, June 15, 19 and 20 last, the annual election of Division officers will occur between the 15th of July and 15th of August next.

In the absence of the necessary rules and regulations governing the same, the Board of Officers of the Michigan Division, by virtue of the authority vested in them by Section five (5) of the Division Constitution, have adopted and hereby promulgate the following rules, the same to take immediate effect:

The Secretary-Treasurer shall, on or before the 15th day of July, send to each member of the Division, a suitable voting blank, together with the necessary instructions as to its disposition.

All ballots shall be signed by the members voting, and be returned to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Division before the 15th of August following. The ballots shall be counted by a Returning Board, to consist of the Chief Consul, the Secretary-Treasurer and the members of the Rules and Regulations Committee, at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer, at 7 P. M. on the day following the closing of the vote, and the result thereof certified to the Secretary-Editor of the League of American Wheelmen, before September first, following.

Each member of the Division in good standing on the rolls of the League of American Wheelmen, shall be entitled to vote for Chief Consul, Vice Consul, Secretary-Treasurer, and such representatives as his Division may be entitled to, and the persons receiving the largest number of votes for their respective offices shall be elected.

League Clubs (of 20 members or over) shall elect their representative or representatives at the time and in the manner provided for by Sec. 2, Art. IV. of the L. A. W. Constitution, and shall certify the result to the Division Secretary-Treasurer on or before August 15th.

Under above rules poll list will close with applications published in Bulletin of July 27.

J. H. JOHNSON, C. C.

Wisconsin Election Laws.

To Wisconsin Members L. A. W.:

In accordance with the By-Laws of the League, as amended at the meeting of the National Board of Officers, March 5th and 6th last, the annual election of Division Officers will occur after the 15th of July.

The regulations governing the ballot in Wisconsin provide, that the Secretary-Treasurer shall receive, and in the presence of the committee appointed at the Annual State Meet of the Division, count all mail votes and certify the result thereof.

The election is conducted through the medium of a mail vote. A blank ballot will be published in the L. A. W. Pointer during July. Ballots must be signed by the member voting and sent to J. A. Hinnman, Secretary-Treasurer, Huggins House, Racine, Wis. Ballots received later than the first postal delivery of Friday morning, July 20th, will not be counted, unless delivered to the Secretary-Treasurer before the Annual Meeting. A ballot once mailed cannot be recalled or changed, and if two ballots are received from one member bearing names of different candidates, neither will be counted.

The votes shall be opened and counted in the presence of three members to be appointed by the Chief Consul at the Division Meeting.

Minneapolis.

To the Members of the Minnesota Division L. A. W.:

It being necessary according to the new Constitution of the League, to hold an election of officers between the 15th of July and the 15th of August, I would respectfully request that you forward to me your nominations for Chief Consul, Vice Consul, and Secretary-Treasurer, as soon as possible after the 15th of July, and to reach me not later than the 31st of August, in order that mailing blanks may be sent out and returns obtained before the fifteenth of the same month.

In order that you may place in nomination, those who if elected would accept the office and perform the duties thereof, I think I may state in this connection that owing to my business affairs I cannot accept the nomination that some of my friends are desirous of making.

Thanking you for past favors I am and always shall be a staunch supporter of the League of American Wheelmen, especially of the Minnesota Division.

Chief Consul Minnesota Div. L. A. W.

Illinois Election Laws.

In accordance with the By-Laws of the League, as amended at the meeting of Board of Officers, March 5 and 6 last, the annual election of Division officers will occur between July 15 and Aug. 15 next ensuing.

The vote of the Illinois Division will be polled by mail as per last year, and should be addressed to the Sec. Treas., Mr. A. J. Street, at 80 1-2 Seelye avenue, Chicago, and he will in the presence of a canvassing committee open and count all votes, and with said canvassing committee certify the result thereof.

A blank ballot will be published in the World and Bulletin of July 20, which should be filled out and mailed as per instructions thereon.

Ballots must be signed by the member voting. Ballots received later than Monday, July 30 will not be counted; all ballots must be postmarked July 28. A ballot once cast cannot be recalled or changed. If two ballots are received from one member neither will be counted.

The canvassing committee will meet at Room 9, 103 Adams st., at 8 o'clock P. M., Wednesday, Aug. 1, and there count the votes.

Officers to be elected in Illinois are Chief Consul, Vice Consul, Secretary-Treasurer, and five Representatives.

The following-named gentlemen, members of Ill. Div. L. A. W., are hereby appointed as canvassing committee for the purpose of counting mail vote of this Division, notice of which appears in this edition of the World and Bulletin: W. C. Thorne, C. E. Randall, T. Sloan.

In accordance with instructions received at Business Meeting of Ill. Div. at Springfield July 4 last, I hereby appoint as Committee for Revision of Constitution of this Division, Messrs. B. B. Ayres, Charles Hansel and W. C. Thorne, and they are hereby instructed to be ready to report at Board of Officers' meeting of Ill. Div. L. A. W., to be held at Chicago, Aug. 25, as per announcement made before the meeting at Springfield, July 4.

Members of Ill. Div. are hereby notified that the committee appointed for the purpose of revising the Constitution of this Division will be glad to receive any suggestions that members may make. Communications of this nature should be addressed to B. B. Ayres, Chairman, 150 So. Hoyne avenue, Chicago, and should be sent no later than Aug. 15.

Notice is hereby given to members of this Division that in connection with the meeting of the Board of Officers of Ill. Div., to be held at Chicago, Saturday, Aug. 25 next, there will be also a race meet at the afternoon at Cheltenham Track, at which time the Ill. Div. championship events will be run, notice of which will be given later. In the evening all will join in a grand lantern parade, and on Sunday, Aug. 26, a run to Pullman, over the famous Pullman Road race course will take place. Dinner will be had at Hotel Florence, Pullman (finest in the country). All members are invited to come and spend two pleasant days with us, and those who are unable to come on Saturday should make it a point to be with us on Sunday. Captains of clubs are especially requested to help us turn out a large delegation, and exceed if possible in point of numbers the run of last fall, when we had nearly 300 wheelmen in line. Representatives and Local Consuls should do their utmost to bring with them a delegation from their respective points, and the wheelmen of Chicago will promise the most hilarious time you have spent in many days.

N. H. VAN SICKLEN,
C. C. Ill. Div. L. A. W.

The Chicago Bicycle Club tender the use of their club rooms to the canvassing board, for the election of Chief Consul, Wednesday evening, August 1st, and to all Illinois Division L. A. W. members on August 25th and 26th.

Annual Meeting of the Connecticut Division.

Upon invitation of the New Haven Bicycle Club, the regular annual meeting of the Connecticut Division L. A. W., will be held at the rooms of the said club in New Haven, on Wednesday, July 25th, 8 P. M. At this meeting a set of By-Laws, Rules and Regulations, consistent with the new League Constitution, will be adopted. This is a matter of great importance and every member should consider it his duty to be present. Under the guidance of the New Haven Club, the Division will have a run to East Rock Park and other points of interest, so be prepared and have your wheels with you, or you will miss an enjoyable part of the meet. After the business meeting the members will be entertained by the New Haven Club.

Reinstated.

Geo. M. Hendce, having retired from racing and taken affidavit to that effect, is hereby reinstated as an amateur wheelman. Wm. C. Hull of San Francisco, having retired from racing and taken affidavit to that effect, is hereby reinstated as an amateur wheelman. GERRY JONES, Chairman Racing Board.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to date, and published in accordance with Article III. of the Constitution, which is as follows:

"Any amateur wheelman, in good standing, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the indorsement of two League members in good standing, or of three reputable citizens of the United States or Canada, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of an initiation fee of one dollar, and such dues for the year as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Upon the approval of the Board of Officers, or a committee thereof, two weeks after the publication of the name in a list of candidates in the official organ of the League, the applicant shall become a member."

Tickets will be issued seventeen days after the publication of names.

Candidates will please notice if their names and addresses are correct.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published, and to report errors and omissions to the Secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the Secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

BOSTON, 27 JULY, 1888.

Volume XVII.
Number 13.

Topeka, Kansas, July 17th, 1888.

Overman Wheel Co., Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen--I have just returned from a two hundred mile jaunt through Central Kansas on my '88 pattern VICTOR.

I have examined it carefully since returning, and do not find a point about it that needs attention or adjusting.

I never once used a tool on it while out, or adjusted a bearing, not even the head, and my wheel is perfectly quiet, although the greater part of the road was very hard and rough, and jarred the wheel very much.

I did not spare the wheel at all, as I kept the saddle on all occasions, both up and down all the hills, and in every rough place.

I cannot find a point in the 1888 VICTOR to criticise, and that is saying considerable about a wheel for me.

Yours very truly,

WM. TAYLOR,
Rep. Kan. Div., L. A. W.

DIFFICULT REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

WE'RE READY FOR IT.

What a hurrah there is over the September tournament!

We must wade in stream up to the arm-pits, and catch the trade in Bicycling Uniforms that belongs to us. Doesn't it belong to us?

The National Association says: "They make the best Uniforms."

Well, then, we're going to back up their say-so by making the best, and not one that doesn't deserve over and over the name of The Best Bicycling Uniform to be got. Yes, you'll say yourself: It's the best to be got anywhere.

Why shouldn't we? The railroads of this country, the crack military associations, the crack cadets, the crack bands get us to make their uniforms. It comes as natural to us to make good uniforms as if we did nothing else.

But we do do something else. We make the best everyday clothing and fine clothing in the country. If you sent to us for a Full Dress Suit for a wedding we could send it at a half-hour's notice. Or, a Suit to mountain-climb in.

The whole clothing business is at our finger-ends.

That's why we make the best Uniforms. Send your order along.

J. S. DEAN.

BOSTON, 27 JULY, 1888.

THE sentence of one month's imprisonment and $200 fine, imposed by Judge Montgomery, on Chase for the killing of Prof. Paul, has justly raised the ire and indignation of Washington wheelmen. We are not vindictive, but the punishment is so trivial in comparison to that justly deserved, we cannot refrain from expressing our astonishment.

WHILE on the subject of "queer rulings" we cannot help alluding to that of the Orange Wanderers' races in the case of admitting Johnson, a member, and Wolcott, a non-member, on a tandem bicycle to compete in a bicycle club race. A perusal of our account of this race to be found in another column is worth reading. It seems that permission to start the tandem with Johnson and Wolcott "up" was procured from the other contestants before the race and that the protest came after the race. We think the following reasoning made by the tandemists is one of the funniest in the history of cycle racing: "Mr. Johnson is the one to whom the medal belongs, Mr. Wolcott being simply an aid to Mr. Johnson. The team did not win the race it was Mr. Johnson."

The italics are ours. Now if Mr. Wolcott merely went as ballast to "aid" Mr. Johnson from capsizing, why that puts another face on the matter, but if Mr. Wolcott worked his legs and tested his wind in "aiding" Mr. Johnson, then we think it unkind to belittle the "aid's" efforts and give all the glory to Mr. Johnson. It is a very funny mix, and we thank the Orange Wanderers for giving us a little harmless amusement.

WE are aware that every organization has a right to formulate its own rules and run its own affairs. While we admit this we also claim the right to fairly criticize any rulings or decisions that to us seem "queer."

In May last the New York and New Jersey Road Racing Association held its annual team race, the result being a tie between certain members of the Kings County Wheelmen and the team of the Hudson County Wheelmen. The tie was ordered to be run off, and by some system of reasoning it was ruled that the changing of the personnel of a team would be permitted.

We have given the matter a good deal of thought and we can only come back to the conclusion that if the ruling of the association is correct, then in a supposed case of a dead heat between Rowe and Howell, the run off could be decided by a race between Wood and Crocker.

For our part we think that the association should have insisted that each club present the same men at the start for the run off as they did in the race of May 30 last. This ruling might "work hard" in some cases, but it is none the less sound justice.

"WHEN doctors disagree," etc. The Wheel and Cycle Trade Review seems to think that the Bi. News back-down on the record question is "fair minded and manly." We, on the contrary, expressed ourselves otherwise. All credit is due Mr. Prial for his successful efforts, but the names of the officials were appended to the account of the events, and certainly the editors of the American cycling press had vouched as to the reliability of the timers and checkers.

HELLO! here's work for the L. A. W. Racing Board: "There are more professional athletes in Oregon than there are in any three States in the Union. Every man (and there are seventy of them) who took part in the late Fireman's Tournament is a professional athlete in every branch of sport, for the simple reason that they competed for cash prizes; also competed against professionals. We could publish a list of several hundred professionals in this State, in fact the woods are full of professional wheelmen, sprinters, rowers, jumpers and athletes generally."—Siftings.

BUFFALO.

"MERCURY."

THE Ramblers' World's Tournament continues to be the leading topic among cyclists and others. Bills are being posted in and about the city and in neighboring towns proclaiming the coming of the leading lights of the cycling world. The track is nearing completion, and every day brings in a rider who will get himself in trim to try his speed with other flyers for September. Large crowds visit the track daily, watching the progress of the work. The Ramblers have invited the racing men training in this city for the tournament to make the Rambler Club rooms their headquarters during their stay in the city.

THE Ramblers' raffle for an American Light Champion took place July 7th, N. G. Armstrong holding the lucky number, 161. Quite a handsome sum was realized.

AMONG the local wheelmen who will try conclusions next September are: A. G. Schack, Dan'l Milly, W. B. Toulmin, Campbell brothers, Frank Holland, F. A. Brinker, Edw. Dole, Geo. Laub, Edw. Dietzer, E. G. Messing, and others.

AN amusing application for space at the coming exhibition was shown me the other day. It had this statement among others: "My occupation is Saloon and Dancing Hall." Arrangements are now being made to exhibit this "curiosity" during the world's tournament.

THE annual 100-mile road race for medals offered by the Bicycling World, to be run on September 7th, will have quite a number of participants. The more, the merrier; so let 'er go, Gallagher. A better road than the one between Buffalo and Erie for such a race can't be found.

THE Ramblers Bi. Club, under the command of Captain Hauenstein and Lieutenants Edw. Dietzer and W. O. Graham, captured first prize for drilling at the Aurora Fair tournament. Campbell won first prize in the free-for-all race, and Toulmin won first prize in the novice race. Both are members of the Ramblers Bi. Club.

THE cycling editor, in a recent issue of the Sunday Express, doubts the truth of my statement, "The Ramblers will have exclusive use of the track after the tournament." I refer him to Henry E. Ducker, a member of the Ramblers Bi. Club, and manager of the Ramblers' World's Tournament, who made that same statement. The Ramblers, with their usual liberality, will no doubt invite the Buffalo and other clubs to use the track.

At a meeting of the Buffalo Club a resolution was passed inviting the members of the Ladies' Bicycle Club to hold their meetings at their club house, and also resolved to tender the ladies the privileges of the club house and gymnasium exclusively between 9 A. M. and 12 M. daily. The invitation was accepted with thanks. I predict a prosperous future for the Ladies' Bicycle Club, and say with old Rip Van Winkle, with a slight modification, "May it live long, and prosper."

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

"RATCHET"

You make a slight error, Mr. Editor, in saying that the teams which run off the tie in our road race were identical with those which started on Decoration Day, except that Eldridge, of the Hudsons, took the place of Baggett. The Decoration Day teams were Kluge, Baggett, Stenken and Gubleman, for the H. Co. W. and T. J. Hall, T. L. Wilson, T. Beazley and W. C. Marion for the K. Co. W. On the Kings Co. team Harry J. Hall, Jr., took the place of W. C. Marion. These two changes will cause the sporting world to grin whenever any of its members are asked how a tie should be decided. The next thing in order will be, when Maud S. and Jay-eye-see have trotted a dead heat, to put Howell and Rowe on the track to decide which horse is entitled to the race.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BURKHALTER and Dr. and Mrs. R. M.

Sanger, of the Orange Wanderers are to take a three weeks tandem trip in Northern New York and the Adirondacks. The whirling wheels will be set in motion at Troy, N. Y.

RAYMOND G. HOPPER of East Orange has gone to the Adirondacks for a three weeks' stay.

THE Hudson County Wheelmen will run to Eagle Rock to witness the Wells-Greenwood climbing contest.

MR. AND MRS. E. M. BREWSTER and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Allen of Walnut Street, East Orange, took an all-day tricycle run to Long Branch, on Saturday, (21).

THE chances in the Wells-Greenwood contest on Eagle Rock, which take place on Saturday (28) are being pretty freely discussed and very slight odds are offered on either man.

JOSEPH DAVIS, of Davis Brothers, the popular Orange and Newark caterer, who is well known to cyclists, will sail for Europe, August. He will be abroad about two months in search of rest and recreation.

J. N. CORNWELL, of Pamrapo, and one of the Hudson County Wheelmen, recently made an extended tour through Pike County, Pa., and from Port Jervis to Dingman's Ferry. The latter trip was made via the State natural macadamized road.

A ROYAL Salvo ladies' bicycle, which was on exhibition in a Newark window for a week or no, attracted a great deal of attention from the fair ones. It will not be many moons before our Newark and Orange ladies will throw over their three-wheelers and take to the bike.

Now that our "chewing gum" flyer from Washington has returned to his native heath, A. B. Rich is said to be training for a fresh appearance on the racing track, and Kluge and Windle are in the pink of condition, the cycling world ought certainly to be treated to some fine amateur racing this fall.

THE opinion of the "knowing ones" is that Kluge has purposely allowed himself to be defeated in his races this season, intending to spring the "whirlwind act" on the public at the big fall meetings. On one point all are agreed, and that is that if Crist cannot beat 2.34 he will not take Kluge's scalp.

THE most extended trip taken by any of the members of the Hudson County wheelmen this season, was arranged for a party of four, and included a trip up the Hudson, across to Rutland, Vermont, and thence through the Berkshire hills and the Connecticut Valley home. George Earl, one of the party, could not get away, but Theodore Merselless, Dr. Benidict and Dr. Eveland, started on Wednesday (18) at five o'clock, and have been heard from frequently. They are having a good time, and will reach home on Saturday (28).

ST. LOUIS.

"LINNEUS."

KLIPSTEIN and the Little Nicol Base Ball Club got back from their trip to Lake Maxinkuku last Saturday, bringing with them a fine set of photographs of the entire party in various picturesque attitudes. Klipstein states he had a grand time, and is lavish in his praises of the treatment received at the residence of H. H. Culver, Esq. On the way home the party stopped at Effingham, Ill., and took in the races there. Of course the "Only" had to give an exhibition of fancy riding, and was introduced as "Professor" Klipstein, which title has stuck to him ever since. The Culver mansion is surrounded by a large plot of ground, and the proprietor promises to lay out a five-lap cycle track thereon, in fact the track already exists—on paper in Klip's office.

WALTER WYLIE, ex-Captain of the Cycle Club, was taken down with typhoid fever some weeks ago and for a time was very low, but is now on the road to recovery. E. N. Sanders, the present Captain, visited him last week, and as a consequence was also stricken with the disease, and I understand is a very sick man.

E. A. SMITH, if he keeps up his present gait, will surely capture the Missouri Club's cup for mileage again this year, and it will become his property, having been won twice in succession. I understand he is keeping up his riding in a way that will bring each month's aggregate near four figures. He will also accompany Percy Stone to Buffalo, and take part in the amateur events.

E. N. MAYO was run over by a farmer about a month ago on Solomon's Hill. His cycle was smashed and he sustained bodily injury. His father at once brought suit for damages and a few days the suit was compromised for $200, and the granger agreed to buy a new cycle for Mayo. This is indeed a big victory for our wheelmen, and the road hog will in future be more careful in running down cyclists.

THE hot weather and the absence of Captains Sanders and Lewis have had the effect of keeping riding way down to the minimum the present month. Hal Greenwood truly stated to the writer some time ago that if the boys did not get up and shake themselves the riding reputation of St. Louis riders would suffer. Great things were expected of Ab. Lewis when he was made Captain, but for some reason he never succeeded in getting the men on the road in the way ex-Captain Brewster did. The Missouri Club's Mileage Committee is in a bad way also in as far as reports are concerned, not one report having been made since the committee was appointed.

HAL GREENWOOD, the present champion hill climber, leaves for New Jersey to-night to engage in the second series of hill-climbing races with John A. Wells. In this connection I wish to state that I got the following reply relative to the length and grade of Kimmswick hill from Surveyor Dover. I think, however, he is mistaken as to the hill meant, as Kimmswick Hill is way beyond Antonio: "Dear Sir: I examined the profiles of the hill north of Antonio and find the grade shown by profile to be nine feet; length of hill, 1100 feet. I was not commissioned when that road was built, it has been worked and patched up considerably since, so that it is not a regular grade now, but the profiles show nine feet to the hundred." I will write again and try to get the desired information. This man is mistaken. This is not Kimmswick Hill.

PENNSYLVANIA.

"ARIEL."

HAGERSTOWN loses an enthusiastic wheelman and a royal good fellow in the removal of Mr. Wm. H. Dotter from that delightful little town to this city, last week. The Hagerstown club elected Mr. Dotter an honorary member and gave him a rousing sendoff, with a large delegation at the station to bid him farewell. Rumor has it that not a few of the Hagerstown girls would like to have been there, too, had they only dared. Now, that Will and John are together again, the "two D.s" on the road will be a familiar sight, as of old, needing only Potter to complete it.

WONDERFUL are the changes which one year can make. Of the seven members of the Ariel Wheel Club, who rode to Washington and the Maryland Division Meet, last June a year ago, but one remains in Reading—Hoffman. Collins is in Newark, ex-Captain Smith is in Detroit, Potter is cussin' the roads around Streator, Illinois, and W. H. and J. C. Dotter and Crowther are in Philadelphia.

LARGE delegations from all the local clubs wheeled to Norristown, yesterday, visiting Camp Adam Slemmer of the First Brigade, at that place. Fully fifteen thousand people from this city went up to camp yesterday, and the cyclists had to pick their way. Pennsylvania and the Century had the largest representation, of course, but all the clubs were there. Mine host at the hotel had his hands full, and lucky was the man who was fed at the first table. The weather was beastly hot and "dripping at every pore" was no misnomer.

NEW YORK AND

LONG ISLAND NOTES.

"WING FOOT."

It is becoming more and more certain as the season advances that this is the monumental year in the history of cycling, as far as records go. Hardly a week has passed, in the course of which we have not had more or less rain, and the roads, especially on Long Island, have never been known to stay rideable so far into the summer.

KINGS COUNTY WHEELMEN are down for a run to Pompton, N. J., for next Sunday under the pilotage of Messrs. Hobson and Douglass.

THE Brooklyn Bi. Club have 34 names down to visit Massapequa tomorrow night to participate in the hop tendered them by the management of that already popular resort.

"WILL" BUNTING, a former prominent member of the Massachusetts Bi. Club, and one of Captain Peck's party of New York tourists last July, is living in Flushing this summer, his business having called him to the metropolis to reside. The rumor that he, when young, was the original "Baby Bunting," is erroneous.

THE Manhattan Bi. Club held a very successful anniversary reception at their new club house in West 70th Street last Friday evening. After an address by their President, Mr. J. M. Warick, a literary and musical programme was rendered, followed by dancing and a collation. The Manhattan's home is a model of neatness and convenience, and is situated so near to the Riverside Drive as to be practically on that famous thoroughfare.

THE race meeting of the Huntington Bi. Club, which takes place August 3d, will attract a large number of wheelmen from the twin cities and elsewhere. The headquarters will be the Huntington House, kept by popular Jesse Smith. You can get one of the finest dinners on the island for 50 cents. The races will commence at 1.30 P. M. Following is a list of the events: Half-mile dash, one-mile novice, two-mile, 6.45 class, one-mile, open, one-mile, Club Championship, three-mile handicap, open, three-mile team (3 men) open, consolation. After the races a ball match will be played, between the Suffolks, of Huntington, and the Cuban Giants.

KANSAS CITY.

"MENTOR."

KANSAS CITY is to have a two-days tournament this fall, the latter part of September. It will be under the care of the Exposition management and will be given in connection with the Exposition. The United Wheelmen will have charge of the meet. The track is to be constructed, and it is stated that it will be a fast one. The prizes will be liberal, and every inducement will be offered to secure a big attendance of wheelmen. The United Wheelmen will entertain the visitors. At the last meeting of the club Messrs. L. S. C. Ladish, J. A. De Tar and Harry G. Stuart were appointed as a committee to represent club in all matters regarding the races. Mr. Ladish was formerly editor of the American Wheelman and has successfully conducted two road races at Clarksville, Mo. The above is a sufficient guarantee of the success of the coming tournament.

AN effort will be made to have the Missouri Division hold its annual meeting in this city during the races. If it meets here, arrangements will be at once made for the entertainment of the additional wheelmen.

EVERYBODY is delighted with the idea of having a race meeting here and the flyers state they go into active training Aug. 1.

ALL the races will be short, one mile and under, with the possible exception of a three mile state championship. The programme will be made up of every variety of races.

THE United Wheelmen have formed a drill corps for the purpose of giving an exhibition during the race meet.

PROGRAMMES of the meet will be forwarded to Wheelmen in Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado in a very few weeks, and will give in detail the events of the meet.

SHOULD anyone want immediate particulars of the meet, address L. S. C. Ladish, United Wheelmen, 816 Central Street Kansas City.

NEW ORLEANS.

"BI."

OUR Liberty Bill got as far as the Judiciary Committee and there it died, died without one friend to ease its expiring spasms. But such is life! The rural members of the committee couldn't see the necessity of a law for "them 'air velocipees," and killed the bill dead'n Hector, with naught but the discomfiting epithet, "useless legislation," tacked to its headboard. This blow is all the harder to bear because of its unexpectedness. Everything betokened a safe and easy voyage for the bill through both houses, and it was with a sad, sad heart that the news came to us. But we are not discouraged. Two years hence, at the next session of the Legislature that same little bill will be brought up, and if it's in us, we'll put it through or know the reason why. Two years is a long time to wait, but you have heard it before, that "everything comes to him who waits." We'll wait.

THE twenty-four-hour fever has broken out again, and several aspiring ones are billed to give the present local record of 166 miles the go-by before many moons have waned. J. W. Dodge led off on the 21st.

THE State sub-division held a meeting last week and recommended the present able incumbent, Harry H. Hodgson, for another term at the Chief Consuley, and also took steps looking towards the holding of our regular September tournament.

NEW ENGLAND.

"THE FOTTIST."

PRESIDENT C. A. UNDERWOOD of the Jamaica Plain Cycle Club is to be congratulated on the safe arrival of a prospective tricyclist. She is yet too young to take her first lesson, having only made her formal entry into this world of woe about a week ago. We are happy to state that Mrs. President Underwood and the young lady are doing nicely. The President himself is happy and properly proud. We extend to all concerned our heartiest congratulations.

COTTAGE CITY, Massachusetts Division, August 2, 3, 4.

THE Hyde Park Club are going to have a cycle tournament at the Readville trotting track August 25.

MR. AND MRS. ELLIOT MASON are touring through Connecticut on a tandem. They are expected in Great Barrington during this week.

NEWS from the Cambridgeport Club, dated on board the Fleur de Lis at Digby, N. S., July 20, reports "all well and having a fine time."

THE path between Holyoke and Northampton is nearly finished. It will cost $600, all of which has been subscribed and paid. Pope and Overman between them subscribed $100.

THE wheelmen located at Warren and Bristol (R. I.) have had a fine path laid between the two towns which is about three and a half feet wide. The expense was shared equally by the two clubs.

KENNEDY-CHILD is back in Boston and his old friends are glad to see the versatile youth. We understand "the Child" has accepted a position with a Boston concern, and will make his home here in the future.

WHILE Mr. E. A. Black of Frankline Falls, N. H., was strolling along the sidewalk of that town he was run into by a sidewalk fiend. Mr. Black was severely bruised and a cane he carried was smashed to atoms. We are sorry to say we cannot chronicle the arrest and punishment of the rider.

THIS is the last issue that will reach our Massachusetts Division Meet at Cottage City. We append below the excursion fares to Cottage City and return. Boston, Lowell, Fitchburg and Framington $2.50 round fare. Walpole $2.30 round fare. Attleboro' $2.00. See our issue of July 13, page 225, for particulars.

REV. L. H. HALLOCK, of Portland, Me., while riding on his bicycle on Commercial street, last Tuesday, had a narrow escape from death. By some means he got on to the Grand Trunk track in front of a train that was coming along. By throwing himself off his machine he managed to clear the track, but the bicycle was run over and demolished. The railroad track is not the safest place in the world to indulge in cycling.

THE members of the Boston Bi. Club that went down on Saturday to Great Head Mass. report the most hospitable treatment at the hands of their entertainers, the members of the G. H. Yacht Club. The club-house was handsomely decorated, and nearly 300 of the cottagers of the vicinity participated in the dancing. Rain prevented the water excursion. Sunday a dinner was given, at which Kennedy-Child presided. The toast to the "clubs," proposed by Dr. Kendall, was heartily applauded. Speeches were made by Messrs. Chadwick, Robinson, Tombs and others.

NEWS

AND COMMENT.

W. WOOD has been interviewed by the press in regard to the charge made by Rowe that Wood, while riding his match races with the Lynn man used foul language. Wood denies the charge, but admits that in the excitement of the last lap and under the impression that Rowe was riding wild, he possibly did use strong language. Mr. Wood's charge that the accusations of Rowe were instigated by feelings of disappointed and "defeated man," come with a poor grace, from the fact that Rowe had just beaten Wood when he was knocked over.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., tournament August 2 (see advertisement).

MORGAN and the American team will sail August 11 from Liverpool on the Steamer Urania.

ROWE will leave for Buffalo at once. He will be in charge of Fred Alley as trainer.

THE parties who stole the tandem from W. W. Frisbie of New York have been caught and are under arrest.

FRED WOOD and Temple will come together at Leicester July 28th in a quarter-mile, half-mile and one-mile race.

MESSRS. FLEMING and Bromly, the Philadelphia to Indianapolis tourists, report progress, but bad roads in some sections.

GEORGE B. THAYER has arrived in Scotland. He ran across James G. Blaine and the Carnegie coaching party.

THE date of the Michigan L. A. W. Division meet at Grand Rapids has been changed from August 11th to August 18th.

GEO. HENDEE is once more an amateur with partial privileges, he having agreed to abandon the racing path for good and all.

CYCLING in Baltimore has experienced a boom since the meet, and the application for club membership is larger than ever before known.

HOWELL has been presented with a handsome gold medal by Mr. Geo. Woodcock, of the Rudge Co., in commemoration of his victory over Rowe.

THE main building of the Buffalo International Exposition, which is to be held, on September 4th to 14th, will be larger than any other fair building in the world.

WHILE Dallett was making pace for John A. Wells last week he collided with a large St. Bernard dog. Dallett was badly bruised but the St. Bernard has not been heard from.

OREGON Siftings very cruelly insinuates that Prince Wells, in his five-mile race vs. horse at Seattle the other day, "very conveniently fainted" when he found that the horse was doing him up.

AS soon as the Buffalo track is open, Windle, McCune, Foster and Midgeley will go into training there. Corcoran will look after Fred Foster. Daniels will look after McCune and Midgeley.

A. H. OVERMAN sailed on the German line steamer Ems last week Wednesday, the 18th. He will stay in England for about three weeks, and he will be back in Boston by the first part of September.

MR. PAGE, of the St. Louis Spectator, wants "marked copies" of our issues in which we go for the hoodlum element. We are sorry to hear that the eyesight of our worthy and "amiable" co-laborer is failing.

WE wonder why it is that some re-instatements have been made with privilege to race, while others, for instance Geo. Hendee, are only re-instated on the assurance that he would not in the future race?

KENTUCKY is now afflicted with the "sidewalk fiend" question. The Courier Journal makes an earnest appeal to the good sense of Louisville wheelmen not to use the sidewalks of the cities and towns.

H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, in his capacity of Royal Granger, has opened the gates of Hyde Park, London, to cyclists. The fact that Hyde Park has been forbidden ground until lately has always been a thorn in the side of the London riders.

WE are in receipt of an excellent lithograph representing a birds-eye view of Buffalo, Niagara Falls and vicinity. The lithograph shows the railroad system of Buffalo. The title of the picture is "All roads will lead to Buffalo in September."

WHEELMEN can get the best accommodations for one dollar and fifty cents a day at the Prospect House, Lugoon Heights, Martha's Vineyard, for the coming Massachusetts Division meet, by applying at once to J. W. Thompson, Proprietor, by letter or telegram.

A PARTY of South End Wheelmen and Pennsylvania Club men had a little brush on the road between Philadelphia and Morristown. It was closely contested on both sides, but Pennsylvania had the best of it, as her men were all fresh, while the South End were somewhat fatigued by their previous ride.

THE question of amalgamation between the Germantown Club and Century Wheelmen, as mooted some time ago has at last been abandoned. It is now an open question among the members of the Germantown Club whether they will continue the expense of head quarters or not.

LAST week Bi. News gave the Buffalo tournament quite a nice send off. This week the same paper "lays for" poor Ducker, and like the cow, kicks over the pail that held the milk it gave. Mr. Hillier gives it out as a possibility that he may come over, but if he does it will not be under the auspices of Mr. Ducker.

WE have a letter from Mr. W. D. Sheriff, a deaf mute of California, Mo., in which he desires all deaf mutes who would like to race at Buffalo next September to address him. Mr. Sheriff says he wants the pledge of at least eight entries. Deaf mutes aspiring to racing honors will do well to address Mr. Sheriff as above.

EX-CAPTAIN ROBERTS and Captain Supplee, of the Pennsylvania Club, when last heard from were up on Lake Erie and at the Falls. Near Ithaca, N. Y., one of their bicycles was badly damaged by a frisky colt and they had to finish that day's tour by wagon, telegraphing for another wheel to be expressed from Philadelphia.

A BROOKLYN woman has invented a series of questions which

Who was at the last League Meet but admitted that

The American Rambler

was the King of the Rear Drivers?

Certainly the crowds constantly surrounding it demonstrated that it was the centre of attraction.

Its salient points are obvious. By placing the reacting spring, whose effect is self-evident, between the rider's body and the rear wheel, the necessity for the spring at the front, with its manifest erratic steering is dispensed with, so that in the RAMBLER we offer a rear driver that one

Can Ride and Coast Hands Off.

It is the lightest, too, of them all, and of the highest possible grade, and what is just as gratifying is the fact that we are now booking orders for August delivery.

PRICE, . . $10.00.

CUT THIS OUT and show it to your fellow wheelmen. It will not appear in every issue. Do you want a $10.00 or $5.00 Cyclometer? We will send you one Free, any make you desire, and this is this is the way we propose to do it: Every wheelman who orders a within the next 30 days will get mailed with his carrier a number corresponding with one which will be placed in a Box. At the expiration of 30 days the numbers will be thoroughly shaken up together, and one drawn out; the party holding the number to correspond with the one drawn will secure a $10.00 Cyclometer. The numbers will be thoroughly shaken again, and a second number drawn, the lucky holder of which will secure a $5.00 Spoke Cyclometer.

Now is your time. You have got to buy a luggage carrier, and you may as well get a cyclometer with it. Free. Every wheelman wants a cyclometer (you stand a good chance of getting one of the two), and every wheelman needs a luggage carrier. There is none equal to the "Ross Improved," fits either crank, Star or safety bicycles. Our Carrier is new, and not known at all by thousands of wheelmen; therefore we make this splendid offer in order that wheelmen who have not seen it may know what a convenient carrier it is. Believing every wheelman who has not a carrier, and many that have, will avail themselves of this grand opportunity to get a new carrier at regular price, and a first-class cyclometer gratis. The Ross Carrier is detachable, and is made stronger and better than ever before. Do not fail to send your order at once. You can have the use of the carrier from now on and secure a chance on two prizes.

Carriers finely made and nickeled. Price only $1.00. By mail $1.10. In ordering be particular and state name of wheel and year of manufacture.
J. C. TRAVIS, Sole Manufacturer, SUCCESSOR TO C. H. ROSS & CO.
